would turn this tale of trouble and woe.
Strode o'er floor the famed-in-strife, with his hand-companions,—the hall resounded,— wishing to greet the wise old king, Ingwine's lord; he asked if the night had passed in peace to the prince's mind.

[1] They had laid their arms on the benches near where they slept.

XX

HROTHGAR spake, helmet-of-Scyldings:—
"Ask not of pleasure! Pain is renewed to Danish folk. Dead is Æschere, of Yrmenlaf the elder brother,
my sage adviser and stay in council, shoulder-comrade in stress of fight when warriors clashed and we warded our heads, hewed the helm-boars; hero famed should be every earl as Æschere was!
But here in Heorot a hand hath slain him of wandering death-sprite. I wot not whither,[1] proud of the prey, her path she took, fain of her fill. The feud she avenged that yesternight, unyieldingly, Grendel in grimmest grasp thou killedst,— seeing how long these liegemen mine he ruined and ravaged. Reft of life, in arms he fell. Now another comes, keen and cruel, her kin to avenge, faring far in feud of blood:
so that many a thane shall think, who e'er sorrows in soul for that sharer of rings, this is hardest of heart-bales. The hand lies low that once was willing each wish to please.
Land-dwellers here[2] and liegemen mine, who house by those parts, I have heard relate that such a pair they have sometimes seen, march-stalkers mighty the moorland haunting, wandering spirits: one of them seemed,
so far as my folk could fairly judge, of womankind; and one, accursed, in man's guise trod the misery-track of exile, though huger than human bulk.
Grendel in days long gone they named him, folk of the land; his father they knew not,
nor any brood that was born to him of treacherous spirits. Untrod is their home;

by wolf-cliffs haunt they and windy headlands, fenways fearful, where flows the stream from mountains gliding to gloom of the rocks, underground flood. Not far is it hence in measure of miles that the mere expands, and o'er it the frost-bound forest hanging, sturdily rooted, shadows the wave.
By night is a wonder weird to see, fire on the waters. So wise lived none of the sons of men, to search those depths!
Nay, though the heath-rover, harried by dogs,
the horn-proud hart, this holt should seek, long distance driven, his dear life first on the brink he yields ere he brave the plunge to hide his head: 'tis no happy place!
Thence the welter of waters washes up wan to welkin when winds bestir evil storms, and air grows dusk, and the heavens weep. Now is help once more with thee alone! The land thou knowest not, place of fear, where thou findest out that sin-flecked being. Seek if thou dare!
I will reward thee, for waging this fight, with ancient treasure, as erst I did,
with winding gold, if thou winnest back."

1: He surmises presently where she is.

2: The connection is not difficult. The words of mourning, of acute grief, are said; and according to Germanic sequence of thought, inexorable here, the next and only topic is revenge. But is it possible? Hrothgar leads up to his appeal and promise with a skilful and often effective description of the horrors which surround the monster's home and await the attempt of an avenging foe.

XXI

BEOWULF spake, bairn of Ecgtheow:
"Sorrow not, sage! It beseems us better friends to avenge than fruitlessly mourn them.
Each of us all must his end abide in the ways of the world; so win who may glory ere death! When his days are told, that is the warrior's worthiest doom.

Rise, O realm-warder! Ride we anon, and mark the trail of the mother of Grendel.
No harbor shall hide her—heed my promise!—
enfolding of field or forested mountain or floor of the flood, let her flee where she will!
But thou this day endure in patience, as I ween thou wilt, thy woes each one."
Leaped up the graybeard: God he thanked, mighty Lord, for the man's brave words.
For Hrothgar soon a horse was saddled wave-maned steed. The sovran wise stately rode on; his shield-armed men followed in force. The footprints led along the woodland, widely seen, a path o'er the plain, where she passed, and trod
the murky moor; of men-at-arms she bore the bravest and best one, dead, him who with Hrothgar the homestead ruled.
On then went the atheling-born o'er stone-cliffs steep and strait defiles, narrow passes and unknown ways,
headlands sheer, and the haunts of the Nicors.
Foremost he[1] fared, a few at his side of the wiser men, the ways to scan, till he found in a flash the forested hill hanging over the hoary rock, a woful wood: the waves below were dyed in blood. The Danish men had sorrow of soul, and for Scyldings all, for many a hero, 'twas hard to bear, ill for earls, when Æschere's head they found by the flood on the foreland there.
Waves were welling, the warriors saw, hot with blood; but the horn sang oft battle-song bold. The band sat down, and watched on the water worm-like things, sea-dragons strange that sounded the deep,
and nicors that lay on the ledge of the ness—such as oft essay at hour of morn on the road-of-sails their ruthless quest,— and sea-snakes and monsters. These started away, swollen and savage that song to hear,
that war-horn's blast. The warden of Geats, with bolt from bow, then balked of life, of wave-work, one monster; amid its heart went the keen war-shaft; in water it seemed less doughty in swimming whom death had seized.

Swift on the billows, with boar-spears well hooked and barbed, it was hard beset, done to death and dragged on the headland, wave-roamer wondrous. Warriors viewed the grisly guest.
Then girt him Beowulf in martial mail, nor mourned for his life.
His breastplate broad and bright of hues, woven by hand, should the waters try;
well could it ward the warrior's body that battle should break on his breast in vain nor harm his heart by the hand of a foe.
And the helmet white that his head protected was destined to dare the deeps of the flood, through wave-whirl win: 'twas wound with chains, decked with gold, as in days of yore
the weapon-smith worked it wondrously, with swine-forms set it, that swords nowise, brandished in battle, could bite that helm.
Nor was that the meanest of mighty helps which Hrothgar's orator offered at need:
"Hrunting" they named the hilted sword, of old-time heirlooms easily first;
iron was its edge, all etched with poison, with battle-blood hardened, nor blenched it at fight in hero's hand who held it ever, on paths of peril prepared to go to folkstead[2] of foes. Not first time this it was destined to do a daring task.
For he bore not in mind, the bairn of Ecglaf sturdy and strong, that speech he had made, drunk with wine, now this weapon he lent to a stouter swordsman. Himself, though, durst not under welter of waters wager his life as loyal liegeman. So lost he his glory, honor of earls. With the other not so, who girded him now for the grim encounter.

1: Hrothgar is probably meant.

2: Meeting-place.

XXII

BEOWULF spake, bairn of Ecgtheow:—
"Have mind, thou honored offspring of Healfdene, gold-friend of men, now I go on this quest, sovran wise, what once was said:
if in thy cause it came that I should lose my life, thou wouldst loyal bide to me, though fallen, in father's place!
Be guardian, thou, to this group of my thanes,
my warrior-friends, if War should seize me;
and the goodly gifts thou gavest me,
Hrothgar beloved, to Hygelac send!
Geatland's king may ken by the gold,
Hrethel's son see, when he stares at the treasure, that I got me a friend for goodness famed,
and joyed while I could in my jewel-bestower.
And let Unferth wield this wondrous sword, earl far-honored, this heirloom precious, hard of edge: with Hrunting I seek doom of glory, or Death shall take me."

After these words the Weder-Geat lord boldly hastened, biding never answer at all: the ocean floods closed o'er the hero. Long while of the day fled ere he felt the floor of the sea.
Soon found the fiend who the flood-domain sword-hungry held these hundred winters, greedy and grim, that some guest from above,
some man, was raiding her monster-realm.
She grasped out for him with grisly claws, and the warrior seized; yet scathed she not his body hale; the breastplate hindered, as she strove to shatter the sark of war,
the linkéd harness, with loathsome hand.
Then bore this brine-wolf, when bottom she touched,
the lord of rings to the lair she haunted, whiles vainly he strove, though his valor held, weapon to wield against wondrous monsters that sore beset him; sea-beasts many tried with fierce tusks to tear his mail, and swarmed on the stranger. But soon he marked he was now in some hall, he knew not which, where water never could work him harm, nor through the roof could reach him ever fangs of the flood. Firelight he saw, beams of a blaze that brightly shone.

Then the warrior was ware of that wolf-of-the-deep, mere-wife monstrous. For mighty stroke he swung his blade, and the blow withheld not.
Then sang on her head that seemly blade its war-song wild. But the warrior found the light-of-battle[1] was loath to bite, to harm the heart: its hard edge failed the noble at need, yet had known of old strife hand to hand, and had helmets cloven, doomed men's fighting-gear. First time, this,
for the gleaming blade that its glory fell.
Firm still stood, nor failed in valor, heedful of high deeds, Hygelac's kinsman;
flung away fretted sword, featly jewelled, the angry earl; on earth it lay steel-edged and stiff. His strength he trusted.
hand-gripe of might. So man shall do whenever in war he weens to earn him lasting fame, nor fears for his life!
Seized then by shoulder, shrank not from combat, the Geatish war-prince Grendel's mother.
Flung then the fierce one, filled with wrath,
his deadly foe, that she fell to ground.
Swift on her part she paid him back with grisly grasp, and grappled with him.
Spent with struggle, stumbled the warrior, fiercest of fighting-men, fell adown.
On the hall-guest she hurled herself, hent her short sword, broad and brown-edged,[2] the bairn to avenge, the sole-born son.—On his shoulder lay braided breast-mail, barring death, withstanding entrance of edge or blade.
Life would have ended for Ecgtheow's son, under wide earth for that earl of Geats, had his armor of war not aided him, battle-net hard, and holy God wielded the victory, wisest Maker.
The Lord of Heaven allowed his cause; and easily rose the earl erect.

[1] Kenning for "sword." Hrunting is bewitched, laid under a spell of uselessness, along with all other swords.

[2] This brown of swords, evidently meaning burnished, bright, continues to be a favorite adjective in the popular ballads.

XXIII

'MID the battle-gear saw he a blade triumphant, old-sword of Eotens, with edge of proof, warriors' heirloom, weapon unmatched,
—save only 'twas more than other men to bandy-of-battle could bear at all—as the giants had wrought it, ready and keen.
Seized then its chain-hilt the Scyldings' chieftain, bold and battle-grim, brandished the sword, reckless of life, and so wrathfully smote that it gripped her neck and grasped her hard, her bone-rings breaking: the blade pierced through that fated-one's flesh: to floor she sank.
Bloody the blade: he was blithe of his deed.
Then blazed forth light. 'Twas bright within as when from the sky there shines unclouded heaven's candle. The hall he scanned.
By the wall then went he; his weapon raised high by its hilt the Hygelac-thane, angry and eager. That edge was not useless to the warrior now. He wished with speed Grendel to guerdon for grim raids many, for the war he waged on Western-Danes oftener far than an only time, when of Hrothgar's hearth-companions
he slew in slumber, in sleep devoured, fifteen men of the folk of Danes,
and as many others outward bore, his horrible prey. Well paid for that the wrathful prince! For now prone he saw Grendel stretched there, spent with war, spoiled of life, so scathed had left him Heorot's battle. The body sprang far when after death it endured the blow, sword-stroke savage, that severed its head.
Soon,[1] then, saw the sage companions who waited with Hrothgar, watching the flood, that the tossing waters turbid grew, blood-stained the mere. Old men together, hoary-haired, of the hero spake;

the warrior would not, they weened, again, proud of conquest, come to seek their mighty master. To many it seemed the wolf-of-the-waves had won his life.
The ninth hour came. The noble Scyldings left the headland; homeward went the gold-friend of men.[2] But the guests sat on, stared at the surges, sick in heart, and wished, yet weened not, their winsome lord again to see.
      Now that sword began,
from blood of the fight, in battle-droppings,[3] war-blade, to wane: 'twas a wondrous thing that all of it melted as ice is wont when frosty fetters the Father loosens, unwinds the wave-bonds, wielding all seasons and times: the true God he!
Nor took from that dwelling the duke of the Geats precious things, though a plenty he saw, save only the head and that hilt withal blazoned with jewels: the blade had melted, burned was the bright sword, her blood was so hot,
so poisoned the hell-sprite who perished within there.
Soon he was swimming who safe saw in combat downfall of demons; up-dove through the flood.
The clashing waters were cleanséd now, waste of waves, where the wandering fiend her life-days left and this lapsing world.
Swam then to strand the sailors'-refuge, sturdy-in-spirit, of sea-booty glad,
of burden brave he bore with him.
Went then to greet him, and God they thanked,
the thane-band choice of their chieftain blithe, that safe and sound they could see him again.
Soon from the hardy one helmet and armor deftly they doffed: now drowsed the mere, water 'neath welkin, with war-blood stained.
Forth they fared by the footpaths thence, merry at heart the highways measured, well-known roads. Courageous men carried the head from the cliff by the sea, an arduous task for all the band, the firm in fight, since four were needed on the shaft-of-slaughter[4] strenuously to bear to the gold-hall Grendel's head.

So presently to the palace there foemen fearless, fourteen Geats, marching came. Their master-of-clan mighty amid them the meadow-ways trod.
Strode then within the sovran thane fearless in fight, of fame renowned, hardy hero, Hrothgar to greet.
And next by the hair into hall was borne Grendel's head, where the henchmen were drinking, an awe to clan and queen alike,
a monster of marvel: the men looked on.

1: After the killing of the monster and Grendel's decapitation.

2: Hrothgar.

3: The blade slowly dissolves in blood-stained drops like icicles.

4: Spear.

XXIV

BEOWULF spake, bairn of Ecgtheow:—
"Lo, now, this sea-booty, son of Healfdene, Lord of Scyldings, we've lustily brought thee, sign of glory; thou seest it here.
Not lightly did I with my life escape!
In war under water this work I essayed with endless effort; and even so my strength had been lost had the Lord not shielded me.
Not a whit could I with Hrunting do in work of war, though the weapon is good;
yet a sword the Sovran of Men vouchsafed me to spy on the wall there, in splendor hanging, old, gigantic,—how oft He guides
the friendless wight!—and I fought with that brand, felling in fight, since fate was with me, the house's wardens. That war-sword then all burned, bright blade, when the blood gushed o'er it, battle-sweat hot; but the hilt I brought back from my foes. So avenged I their fiendish deeds, death-fall of Danes, as was due and right.

And this is my hest, that in Heorot now safe thou canst sleep with thy soldier band, and every thane of all thy folk both old and young; no evil fear, Scyldings' lord, from that side again, aught ill for thy earls, as erst thou must!"
Then the golden hilt, for that gray-haired leader, hoary hero, in hand was laid, giant-wrought, old. So owned and enjoyed it after downfall of devils, the Danish lord, wonder-smiths' work, since the world was rid of that grim-souled fiend, the foe of God, murder-marked, and his mother as well.
Now it passed into power of the people's king, best of all that the oceans bound who have scattered their gold o'er Scandia's isle.
Hrothgar spake—the hilt he viewed, heirloom old, where was etched the rise of that far-off fight when the floods o'erwhelmed, raging waves, the race of giants (fearful their fate!), a folk estranged from God Eternal: whence guerdon due in that waste of waters the Wielder paid them.
So on the guard of shining gold in runic staves it was rightly said for whom the serpent-traced sword was wrought, best of blades, in bygone days,
and the hilt well wound.—The wise-one spake, son of Healfdene; silent were all:—
"Lo, so may he say who sooth and right follows 'mid folk, of far times mindful, a land-warden old,[1] that this earl belongs to the better breed! So, borne aloft, thy fame must fly, O friend my Beowulf, far and wide o'er folksteads many. Firmly thou shalt all maintain, mighty strength with mood of wisdom. Love of mine will I assure thee, as, awhile ago, I promised; thou shalt prove a stay in future, in far-off years, to folk of thine, to the heroes a help. Was not Heremod thus to offspring of Ecgwela, Honor-Scyldings, nor grew for their grace, but for grisly slaughter, for doom of death to the Danishmen.

He slew, wrath-swollen, his shoulder-comrades, companions at board! So he passed alone, chieftain haughty, from human cheer.
Though him the Maker with might endowed, delights of power, and uplifted high above all men, yet blood-fierce his mind, his breast-hoard, grew; no bracelets gave he to Danes as was due; he endured all joyless strain of struggle and stress of woe, long feud with his folk. Here find thy lesson!
Of virtue advise thee! This verse I have said for thee, wise from lapsed winters. Wondrous seems how to sons of men Almighty God in the strength of His spirit sendeth wisdom, estate, high station: He swayeth all things.
Whiles He letteth right lustily fare the heart of the hero of high-born race,— in seat ancestral assigns him bliss, his folk's sure fortress in fee to hold,
puts in his power great parts of the earth, empire so ample, that end of it
this wanter-of-wisdom weeneth none.
So he waxes in wealth; nowise can harm him illness or age; no evil cares shadow his spirit; no sword-hate threatens from ever an enemy: all the world wends at his will; no worse he knoweth, till all within him obstinate pride waxes and wakes while the warden slumbers, the spirit's sentry; sleep is too fast which masters his might, and the murderer nears, stealthily shooting the shafts from his bow!

1: That is, "whoever has as wide authority as I have and can remember so far back so many instances of heroism, may well say, as I say, that no better hero ever lived than Beowulf."

XXV

"UNDER harness his heart then is hit indeed by sharpest shafts; and no shelter avails from foul behest of the hellish fiend.[1]
Him seems too little what long he possessed.
Greedy and grim, no golden rings

he gives for his pride; the promised future forgets he and spurns, with all God has sent him, Wonder-Wielder, of wealth and fame.
Yet in the end it ever comes that the frame of the body fragile yields, fatéd falls; and there follows another who joyously the jewels divides, the royal riches, nor recks of his forebear.
Ban, then, such baleful thoughts, Beowulf dearest, best of men, and the better part choose,
profit eternal; and temper thy pride, warrior famous! The flower of thy might lasts now a while: but erelong it shall be that sickness or sword thy strength shall minish, or fang of fire, or flooding billow, or bite of blade, or brandished spear, or odious age; or the eyes' clear beam wax dull and darken: Death even thee in haste shall o'erwhelm, thou hero of war!
So the Ring-Danes these half-years a hundred I ruled, wielded 'neath welkin, and warded them bravely from mighty-ones many o'er middle-earth, from spear and sword, till it seemed for me
no foe could be found under fold of the sky.
Lo, sudden the shift! To me seated secure came grief for joy when Grendel began to harry my home, the hellish foe; for those ruthless raids, unresting I suffered heart-sorrow heavy. Heaven be thanked,
Lord Eternal, for life extended that I on this head all hewn and bloody, after long evil, with eyes may gaze!
—Go to the bench now! Be glad at banquet, warrior worthy! A wealth of treasure at dawn of day, be dealt between us!"
Glad was the Geats' lord, going betimes to seek his seat, as the Sage commanded.
Afresh, as before, for the famed-in-battle, for the band of the hall, was a banquet dight nobly anew. The Night-Helm darkened dusk o'er the drinkers.
      The doughty ones rose:
for the hoary-headed would hasten to rest,
agéd Scylding; and eager the Geat, shield-fighter sturdy, for sleeping yearned.

Him wander-weary, warrior-guest from far, a hall-thane heralded forth, who by custom courtly cared for all needs of a thane as in those old days warrior-wanderers wont to have.
So slumbered the stout-heart. Stately the hall rose gabled and gilt where the guest slept on till a raven black the rapture-of-heaven[2] blithe-heart boded. Bright came flying shine after shadow. The swordsmen hastened, athelings all were eager homeward forth to fare; and far from thence the great-hearted guest would guide his keel.
Bade then the hardy-one Hrunting be brought to the son of Ecglaf, the sword bade him take, excellent iron, and uttered his thanks for it,
quoth that he counted it keen in battle,
"war-friend" winsome: with words he slandered not edge of the blade: 'twas a big-hearted man!
Now eager for parting and armed at point warriors waited, while went to his host that Darling of Danes. The doughty atheling to high-seat hastened and Hrothgar greeted.

1: That is, he is now undefended by conscience from the temptations (shafts) of the devil.

2: Kenning for the sun.—This is a strange rôle for the raven. He is the warrior's bird of battle, exults in slaughter and carnage; his joy here is a compliment to the sunrise.

XXVI

BEOWULF spake, bairn of Ecgtheow:—
"Lo, we seafarers say our will, far-come men, that we fain would seek Hygelac now. We here have found hosts to our heart: thou hast harbored us well.
If ever on earth I am able to win me more of thy love, O lord of men, aught anew, than I now have done, for work of war I am willing still!
If it come to me ever across the seas that neighbor foemen annoy and fright thee,— as they that hate thee erewhile have used,— thousands then of thanes I shall bring, heroes to help thee. Of Hygelac I know, ward of his folk, that, though few his years,

the lord of the Geats will give me aid by word and by work, that well I may serve thee, wielding the war-wood to win thy triumph and lending thee might when thou lackest men.
If thy Hrethric should come to court of Geats, a sovran's son, he will surely there find his friends. A far-off land each man should visit who vaunts him brave."
Him then answering, Hrothgar spake:—
"These words of thine the wisest God sent to thy soul! No sager counsel from so young in years e'er yet have I heard.
Thou art strong of main and in mind art wary, art wise in words! I ween indeed if ever it hap that Hrethel's heir by spear be seized, by sword-grim battle, by illness or iron, thine elder and lord, people's leader,—and life be thine,— no seemlier man will the Sea-Geats find at all to choose for their chief and king, for hoard-guard of heroes, if hold thou wilt thy kinsman's kingdom! Thy keen mind pleases me the longer the better, Beowulf loved!
Thou hast brought it about that both our peoples, sons of the Geat and Spear-Dane folk, shall have mutual peace, and from murderous strife,
such as once they waged, from war refrain.
Long as I rule this realm so wide, let our hoards be common, let heroes with gold each other greet o'er the gannet'-bath, and the ringed-prow bear o'er rolling waves tokens of love. I trow my landfolk towards friend and foe are firmly joined, and honor they keep in the olden way."
To him in the hall, then, Healfdene's son gave treasures twelve, and the trust-of-earls bade him fare with the gifts to his folk beloved, hale to his home, and in haste return.
Then kissed the king of kin renowned,
Scyldings' chieftain, that choicest thane, and fell on his neck. Fast flowed the tears of the hoary-headed. Heavy with winters, he had chances twain, but he clung to this,[1]—

that each should look on the other again, and hear him in hall. Was this hero so dear to him, his breast's wild billows he banned in vain;
safe in his soul a secret longing, locked in his mind, for that lovéd man burned in his blood. Then Beowulf strode, glad of his gold-gifts, the grass-plot o'er, warrior blithe. The wave-roamer bode riding at anchor, its owner awaiting.
As they hastened onward, Hrothgar's gift they lauded at length.—'Twas a lord unpeered, every way blameless, till age had broken
—it spareth no mortal—his splendid might.

[1] That is, he might or might not see Beowulf again. Old as he was, the latter chance was likely; but he clung to the former, hoping to see his young friend again "and exchange brave words in the hall."

XXVII

CAME now to ocean the ever-courageous hardy henchmen, their harness bearing, woven war-sarks. The warden marked, trusty as ever, the earl's return.
From the height of the hill no hostile words reached the guests as he rode to greet them;
but "Welcome!" he called to that Weder clan as the sheen-mailed spoilers to ship marched on.
Then on the strand, with steeds and treasure and armor their roomy and ring-dight ship was heavily laden: high its mast rose over Hrothgar's hoarded gems.
A sword to the boat-guard Beowulf gave, mounted with gold; on the mead-bench since he was better esteemed, that blade possessing, heirloom old.—Their ocean-keel boarding, they drove through the deep, and Daneland left.
A sea-cloth was set, a sail with ropes, firm to the mast; the flood-timbers moaned;[1] nor did wind over billows that wave-swimmer blow across from her course. The craft sped on, foam-necked it floated forth o'er the waves, keel firm-bound over briny currents, till they got them sight of the Geatish cliffs, home-known headlands. High the boat, stirred by winds, on the strand updrove.

Helpful at haven the harbor-guard stood, who long already for loved companions
by the water had waited and watched afar.
He bound to the beach the broad-bosomed ship with anchor-bands, lest ocean-billows that trusty timber should tear away.
Then Beowulf bade them bear the treasure, gold and jewels; no journey far was it thence to go to the giver of rings, Hygelac Hrethling: at home he dwelt by the sea-wall close, himself and clan.
Haughty that house, a hero the king, high the hall, and Hygd[2] right young, wise and wary, though winters few in those fortress walls she had found a home, Hæreth's daughter. Nor humble her ways, nor grudged she gifts to the Geatish men, of precious treasure. Not Thryth's pride showed she, folk-queen famed, or that fell deceit.
Was none so daring that durst make bold
(save her lord alone) of the liegemen dear that lady full in the face to look, but forgéd fetters he found his lot, bonds of death! And brief the respite;
soon as they seized him, his sword-doom was spoken, and the burnished blade a baleful murder proclaimed and closed. No queenly way for woman to practise, though peerless she, that the weaver-of-peace[3] from warrior dear
by wrath and lying his life should reave!
But Hemming's kinsman hindered this.—
For over their ale men also told that of these folk-horrors fewer she wrought, onslaughts of evil, after she went,
gold-decked bride, to the brave young prince, atheling haughty, and Offa's hall o'er the fallow flood at her father's bidding safely sought, where since she prospered, royal, thronéd, rich in goods, fain of the fair life fate had sent her,

and leal in love to the lord of warriors.
He, of all heroes I heard of ever from sea to sea, of the sons of earth, most excellent seemed. Hence Offa was praised for his fighting and feeing by far-off men, the spear-bold warrior; wisely he ruled over his empire. Eomer woke to him, help of heroes, Hemming's kinsman, grandson of Garmund, grim in war.

1: With the speed of the boat.

2: Queen to Hygelac. She is praised by contrast with the antitype, Thryth, just as Beowulf was praised by contrast with Heremod.

3: Kenning for "wife."

XXVIII

HASTENED the hardy one, henchmen with him, sandy strand of the sea to tread and widespread ways. The world's great candle, sun shone from south. They strode along with sturdy steps to the spot they knew where the battle-king young, his burg within, slayer of Ongentheow, shared the rings, shelter-of-heroes. To Hygelac Beowulf's coming was quickly told,— that there in the court the clansmen's refuge, the shield-companion sound and alive,
hale from the hero-play homeward strode.
With haste in the hall, by highest order,
room for the rovers was readily made.
By his sovran he sat, come safe from battle, kinsman by kinsman. His kindly lord he first had greeted in gracious form, with manly words. The mead dispensing, came through the high hall Hæreth's daughter, winsome to warriors, wine-cup bore to the hands of the heroes. Hygelac then his comrade fairly with question plied in the lofty hall, sore longing to know what manner of sojourn the Sea-Geats made.
"What came of thy quest, my kinsman Beowulf, when thy yearnings suddenly swept thee yonder battle to seek o'er the briny sea, combat in Heorot? Hrothgar couldst thou aid at all, the honored chief, in his wide-known woes? With waves of care my sad heart seethed; I sore mistrusted my loved one's venture: long I begged thee by no means to seek that slaughtering monster, but suffer the South-Danes to settle their feud themselves with Grendel. Now God be thanked that safe and sound I can see thee now!"

Beowulf spake, the bairn of Ecgtheow:—
"'Tis known and unhidden, Hygelac Lord, to many men, that meeting of ours, struggle grim between Grendel and me, which we fought on the field where full too many sorrows he wrought for the Scylding-Victors, evils unending. These all I avenged.

No boast can be from breed of Grendel, any on earth, for that uproar at dawn, from the longest-lived of the loathsome race in fleshly fold!—But first I went Hrothgar to greet in the hall of gifts, where Healfdene's kinsman high-renowned,
soon as my purpose was plain to him,
assigned me a seat by his son and heir.
The liegemen were lusty; my life-days never such merry men over mead in hall have I heard under heaven! The high-born queen, people's peace-bringer, passed through the hall cheered the young clansmen, clasps of gold ere she sought her seat, to sundry gave.
Oft to the heroes Hrothgar's daughter, to earls in turn, the ale-cup tendered,— she whom I heard these hall-companions
Freawaru name, when fretted gold she proffered the warriors. Promised is she, gold-decked maid, to the glad son of Froda.
Sage this seems to the Scylding'-friend, kingdom'-keeper: he counts it wise
the woman to wed so and ward off feud, store of slaughter. But seldom ever when men are slain, does the murder-spear sink

but briefest while, though the bride be fair![1]
"Nor haply will like it the Heathobard lord, and as little each of his liegemen all,
when a thane of the Danes, in that doughty throng, goes with the lady along their hall,
and on him the old-time heirlooms glisten hard and ring-decked, Heathobard's treasure, weapons that once they wielded fair until they lost at the linden-play[2] liegeman leal and their lives as well.
Then, over the ale, on this heirloom gazing, some ash-wielder old who has all in mind that spear-death of men,[3]—he is stern of mood, heavy at heart,—in the hero young tests the temper and tries the soul and war-hate wakens, with words like these:—
Canst thou not, comrade, ken that sword which to the fray thy father carried in his final feud, 'neath the fighting-mask, dearest of blades, when the Danish slew him and wielded the war-place on Withergild's fall, after havoc of heroes, those hardy Scyldings?
Now, the son of a certain slaughtering Dane, proud of his treasure, paces this hall, joys in the killing, and carries the jewel[4]
that rightfully ought to be owned by thee!
Thus he urges and eggs him all the time with keenest words, till occasion offers that Freawaru's thane, for his father's deed, after bite of brand in his blood must slumber, losing his life; but that liegeman flies living away, for the land he kens.
And thus be broken on both their sides oaths of the earls, when Ingeld's breast wells with war-hate, and wife-love now after the care-billows cooler grows.
"So[5] I hold not high the Heathobards' faith due to the Danes, or their during love and pact of peace.—But I pass from that, turning to Grendel, O giver-of-treasure, and saying in full how the fight resulted, hand-fray of heroes. When heaven's jewel had fled o'er far fields, that fierce sprite came, night-foe savage, to seek us out where safe and sound we sentried the hall.

To Hondscio then was that harassing deadly, his fall there was fated. He first was slain, girded warrior. Grendel on him turned murderous mouth, on our mighty kinsman, and all of the brave man's body devoured.
Yet none the earlier, empty-handed,
would the bloody-toothed murderer, mindful of bale, outward go from the gold-decked hall:
but me he attacked in his terror of might, with greedy hand grasped me. A glove hung by him[6] wide and wondrous, wound with bands;
and in artful wise it all was wrought,
by devilish craft, of dragon-skins.
Me therein, an innocent man,
the fiendish foe was fain to thrust with many another. He might not so, when I all angrily upright stood.
'Twere long to relate how that land-destroyer
I paid in kind for his cruel deeds;
yet there, my prince, this people of thine got fame by my fighting. He fled away, and a little space his life preserved;
but there staid behind him his stronger hand left in Heorot; heartsick thence on the floor of the ocean that outcast fell.
Me for this struggle the Scyldings'-friend paid in plenty with plates of gold, with many a treasure, when morn had come and we all at the banquet-board sat down.
Then was song and glee. The gray-haired Scylding, much tested, told of the times of yore.
Whiles the hero his harp bestirred, wood-of-delight; now lays he chanted of sooth and sadness, or said aright legends of wonder, the wide-hearted king; or for years of his youth he would yearn at times,
for strength of old struggles, now stricken with age, hoary hero: his heart surged full when, wise with winters, he wailed their flight.
Thus in the hall the whole of that day at ease we feasted, till fell o'er earth another night. Anon full ready in greed of vengeance, Grendel's mother set forth all doleful. Dead was her son through war-hate of Weders; now, woman monstrous, with fury fell a foeman she slew, avenged her offspring. From Æschere old, loyal councillor, life was gone;

nor might they e'en, when morning broke, those Danish people, their death-done comrade burn with brands, on balefire lay the man they mourned. Under mountain stream she had carried the corpse with cruel hands.
For Hrothgar that was the heaviest sorrow of all that had laden the lord of his folk.
The leader then, by thy life, besought me (sad was his soul) in the sea-waves' coil to play the hero and hazard my being for glory of prowess: my guerdon he pledged.
I then in the waters—'tis widely known—that sea-floor-guardian savage found.
Hand-to-hand there a while we struggled;
billows welled blood; in the briny hall her head I hewed with a hardy blade from Grendel's mother,—and gained my life, though not without danger. My doom was not yet.
Then the haven-of-heroes, Healfdene's son, gave me in guerdon great gifts of price.

1: Beowulf gives his uncle the king not mere gossip of his journey, but a statesman-like forecast of the outcome of certain policies at the Danish court. Talk of interpolation here is absurd. As both Beowulf and Hygelac know,—and the folk for whom the Beowulf was put together also knew,—Froda was king of the Heathobards (probably the Langobards, once near neighbors of Angle and Saxon tribes on the continent), and had fallen in fight with the Danes. Hrothgar will set aside this feud by giving his daughter as "peace-weaver" and wife to the young king Ingeld, son of the slain Froda. But Beowulf, on general principles and from his observation of the particular case, foretells trouble.

2: Play of shields, battle. A Danish warrior cuts down Froda in the fight, and takes his sword and armor, leaving them to a son. This son is selected to accompany his mistress, the young princess Freawaru, to her new home when she is Ingeld's queen. Heedlessly he wears the sword of Froda in hall. An old warrior points it out to Ingeld, and eggs him on to vengeance. At his instigation the Dane is killed; but the murderer, afraid of results, and knowing the land, escapes. So the old feud must break out again.

3: That is, their disastrous battle and the slaying of their king.

4: The sword.

5: Beowulf returns to his forecast. Things might well go somewhat as follows, he says; sketches a little tragic story; and with this prophecy by illustration returns to the tale of his adventure.

6: Not an actual glove, but a sort of bag.

XXXI

"SO held this king to the customs old, that I wanted for nought in the wage I gained,
the meed of my might; he made me gifts,
Healfdene's heir, for my own disposal.
Now to thee, my prince, I proffer them all, gladly give them. Thy grace alone can find me favor. Few indeed have I of kinsmen, save, Hygelac, thee!"
Then he bade them bear him the boar-head standard, the battle-helm high, and breastplate gray,
the splendid sword; then spake in form:—
"Me this war-gear the wise old prince,
Hrothgar, gave, and his hest he added, that its story be straightway said to thee.—
A while it was held by Heorogar king, for long time lord of the land of Scyldings;
yet not to his son the sovran left it,
to daring Heoroweard,—dear as he was to him, his harness of battle.—Well hold thou it all!"
And I heard that soon passed o'er the path of this treasure, all apple-fallow, four good steeds, each like the others; arms and horses he gave to the king. So should kinsmen be, not weave one another the net of wiles, or with deep-hid treachery death contrive for neighbor and comrade. His nephew was ever by hardy Hygelac held full dear, and each kept watch o'er the other's weal.
I heard, too, the necklace to Hygd he presented, wonder-wrought treasure, which Wealhtheow gave him,
sovran's daughter: three steeds he added, slender and saddle-gay. Since such gift the gem gleamed bright on the breast of the queen.

Thus showed his strain the son of Ecgtheow as a man remarked for mighty deeds and acts of honor. At ale he slew not comrade or kin; nor cruel his mood, though of sons of earth his strength was greatest, a glorious gift that God had sent the splendid leader. Long was he spurned, and worthless by Geatish warriors held;
him at mead the master-of-clans failed full oft to favor at all.
Slack and shiftless the strong men deemed him, profitless prince; but payment came,
to the warrior honored, for all his woes.—
Then the bulwark-of-earls[1] bade bring within, hardy chieftain, Hrethel's heirloom garnished with gold: no Geat e'er knew in shape of a sword a statelier prize.
The brand he laid in Beowulf's lap;
and of hides assigned him seven thousand,[2] with house and high-seat. They held in common land alike by their line of birth, inheritance, home: but higher the king because of his rule o'er the realm itself.

Now further it fell with the flight of years, with harryings horrid, that Hygelac perished,[3] and Heardred, too, by hewing of swords under the shield-wall slaughtered lay, when him at the van of his victor-folk sought hardy heroes, Heatho-Scilfings, in arms o'erwhelming Hereric's nephew.
Then Beowulf came as king this broad realm to wield; and he ruled it well fifty winters,[4] a wise old prince, warding his land, until One began in the dark of night, a Dragon, to rage.
In the grave on the hill a hoard it guarded, in the stone-barrow steep. A strait path reached it, unknown to mortals. Some man, however, came by chance that cave within to the heathen hoard.[5] In hand he took a golden goblet, nor gave he it back, stole with it away, while the watcher slept, by thievish wiles: for the warden's wrath prince and people must pay betimes!

1: Hygelac.

2: This is generally assumed to mean hides, though the text simply says "seven thousand." A hide in England meant about 120 acres, though "the size of the acre varied."

3: On the historical raid into Frankish territory between 512 and 520 A. D. The subsequent course of events, as gathered from hints of this epic, is partly told in Scandinavian legend.

4: The chronology of the epic, as scholars have worked it out, would make Beowulf well over ninety years of age when he fights the dragon. But the fifty years of his reign need not be taken as historical fact.

5: The text is here hopelessly illegible, and only the general drift of the meaning can be rescued. For one thing, we have the old myth of a dragon who guards hidden treasure. But with this runs the story of some noble, last of his race, who hides all his wealth within this barrow and there chants his farewell to life's glories. After his death the dragon takes possession of the hoard and watches over it. A condemned or banished man, desperate, hides in the barrow, discovers the treasure, and while the dragon sleeps, makes off with a golden beaker or the like, and carries it for propitiation to his master. The dragon discovers the loss and exacts fearful penalty from the people round about.

XXXII

THAT way he went with no will of his own, in danger of life, to the dragon's hoard,
but for pressure of peril, some prince's thane.
He fled in fear the fatal scourge, seeking shelter, a sinful man, and entered in. At the awful sight tottered that guest, and terror seized him;
yet the wretched fugitive rallied anon from fright and fear ere he fled away, and took the cup from that treasure-hoard.
Of such besides there was store enough, heirlooms old, the earth below, which some earl forgotten, in ancient years, left the last of his lofty race, heedfully there had hidden away, dearest treasure. For death of yore had hurried all hence; and he alone left to live, the last of the clan, weeping his friends, yet wished to bide warding the treasure, his one delight, though brief his respite. The barrow, new-ready, to strand and sea-waves stood anear, hard by the headland, hidden and closed;

there laid within it his lordly heirlooms and heapéd hoard of heavy gold that warden of rings. Few words he spake:
"Now hold thou, earth, since heroes may not, what earls have owned! Lo, erst from thee brave men brought it! But battle-death seized and cruel killing my clansmen all, robbed them of life and a liegeman's joys.
None have I left to lift the sword, or to cleanse the carven cup of price, beaker bright. My brave are gone.
And the helmet hard, all haughty with gold, shall part from its plating. Polishers sleep who could brighten and burnish the battle-mask; and those weeds of war that were wont to brave over bicker of shields the bite of steel rust with their bearer. The ringéd mail fares not far with famous chieftain, at side of hero! No harp's delight, no glee-wood's gladness! No good hawk now flies through the hall! Nor horses fleet stamp in the burgstead! Battle and death the flower of my race have reft away."
Mournful of mood, thus he moaned his woe, alone, for them all, and unblithe wept
by day and by night, till death's fell wave o'erwhelmed his heart. His hoard-of-bliss that old ill-doer open found, who, blazing at twilight the barrows haunteth, naked foe-dragon flying by night folded in fire: the folk of earth dread him sore. 'Tis his doom to seek hoard in the graves, and heathen gold to watch, many-wintered: nor wins he thereby!

Powerful this plague-of-the-people thus held the house of the hoard in earth three hundred winters; till One aroused wrath in his breast, to the ruler bearing that costly cup, and the king implored for bond of peace. So the barrow was plundered, borne off was booty. His boon was granted that wretched man; and his ruler saw first time what was fashioned in far-off days.
When the dragon awoke, new woe was kindled.
O'er the stone he snuffed. The stark-heart found footprint of foe who so far had gone in his hidden craft by the creature's head.—
So may the undoomed easily flee evils and exile, if only he gain the grace of The Wielder!—That warden of gold o'er the ground went seeking, greedy to find the man who wrought him such wrong in sleep.
Savage and burning, the barrow he circled all without; nor was any there, none in the waste.... Yet war he desired, was eager for battle. The barrow he entered, sought the cup, and discovered soon that some one of mortals had searched his treasure, his lordly gold. The guardian waited ill-enduring till evening came;
boiling with wrath was the barrow's keeper, and fain with flame the foe to pay for the dear cup's loss.—Now day was fled as the worm had wished. By its wall no more was it glad to bide, but burning flew folded in flame: a fearful beginning for sons of the soil; and soon it came, in the doom of their lord, to a dreadful end.

XXXIII

THEN the baleful fiend its fire belched out, and bright homes burned. The blaze stood high all landsfolk frighting. No living thing would that loathly one leave as aloft it flew.
Wide was the dragon's warring seen, its fiendish fury far and near,

as the grim destroyer those Geatish people hated and hounded. To hidden lair, to its hoard it hastened at hint of dawn.
Folk of the land it had lapped in flame, with bale and brand. In its barrow it trusted, its battling and bulwarks: that boast was vain!

To Beowulf then the bale was told quickly and truly: the king's own home, of buildings the best, in brand-waves melted, that gift-throne of Geats. To the good old man sad in heart, 'twas heaviest sorrow.
The sage assumed that his sovran God
he had angered, breaking ancient law, and embittered the Lord. His breast within with black thoughts welled, as his wont was never.
The folk's own fastness that fiery dragon with flame had destroyed, and the stronghold all washed by waves; but the warlike king, prince of the Weders, plotted vengeance.
Warriors'-bulwark, he bade them work all of iron—the earl's commander—a war-shield wondrous: well he knew that forest-wood against fire were worthless, linden could aid not.—Atheling brave,
he was fated to finish this fleeting life,[1]
his days on earth, and the dragon with him, though long it had watched o'er the wealth of the hoard!—
Shame he reckoned it, sharer-of-rings, to follow the flyer-afar with a host,
a broad-flung band; nor the battle feared he,
nor deemed he dreadful the dragon's warring, its vigor and valor: ventures desperate he had passed a-plenty, and perils of war, contest-crash, since, conqueror proud,
Hrothgar's hall he had wholly purged,
and in grapple had killed the kin of Grendel, loathsome breed! Not least was that of hand-to-hand fights where Hygelac fell, when the ruler of Geats in rush of battle, lord of his folk, in the Frisian land,
son of Hrethel, by sword-draughts died, by brands down-beaten. Thence Beowulf fled through strength of himself and his swimming power, though alone, and his arms were laden with thirty coats of mail, when he came to the sea!

Nor yet might Hetwaras[2] haughtily boast their craft of contest, who carried against him shields to the fight: but few escaped from strife with the hero to seek their homes!
Then swam over ocean Ecgtheow's son lonely and sorrowful, seeking his land, where Hygd made him offer of hoard and realm, rings and royal-seat, reckoning naught the strength of her son to save their kingdom from hostile hordes, after Hygelac's death.
No sooner for this could the stricken ones in any wise move that atheling's mind over young Heardred's head as lord and ruler of all the realm to be:
yet the hero upheld him with helpful words, aided in honor, till, older grown,
he wielded the Weder-Geats.—Wandering exiles sought him o'er seas, the sons of Ohtere, who had spurned the sway of the Scylfings'-helmet,
the bravest and best that broke the rings,
in Swedish land, of the sea-kings' line, haughty hero.[3] Hence Heardred's end.
For shelter he gave them, sword-death came,
the blade's fell blow, to bairn of Hygelac;
but the son of Ongentheow sought again house and home when Heardred fell, leaving Beowulf lord of Geats and gift-seat's master.—A good king he!

[1]: Literally "loan-days," days loaned to man.

[2]: Chattuarii, a tribe that dwelt along the Rhine, and took part in repelling the raid of (Hygelac) Chocilaicus.

[3]: Onela, son of Ongentheow, who pursues his two nephews Eanmund and Eadgils to Heardred's court, where they have taken refuge after their unsuccessful rebellion. In the fighting Heardred is killed.

XXXIV

THE FALL of his lord he was fain to requite in after days; and to Eadgils he proved friend to the friendless, and forces sent over the sea to the son of Ohtere, weapons and warriors: well repaid he those care-paths cold when the king he slew.[1]

Thus safe through struggles the son of Ecgtheow had passed a plenty, through perils dire, with daring deeds, till this day was come that doomed him now with the dragon to strive.
With comrades eleven the lord of Geats swollen in rage went seeking the dragon.
He had heard whence all the harm arose and the killing of clansmen; that cup of price on the lap of the lord had been laid by the finder.
In the throng was this one thirteenth man, starter of all the strife and ill, care-laden captive; cringing thence forced and reluctant, he led them on till he came in ken of that cavern-hall, the barrow delved near billowy surges, flood of ocean. Within 'twas full of wire-gold and jewels; a jealous warden, warrior trusty, the treasures held, lurked in his lair. Not light the task of entrance for any of earth-born men!
Sat on the headland the hero king, spake words of hail to his hearth-companions, gold-friend of Geats. All gloomy his soul, wavering, death-bound. Wyrd full nigh stood ready to greet the gray-haired man, to seize his soul-hoard, sunder apart life and body. Not long would be the warrior's spirit enwound with flesh.
Beowulf spake, the bairn of Ecgtheow:—
"Through store of struggles I strove in youth, mighty feuds; I mind them all.
I was seven years old when the sovran of rings, friend-of-his-folk, from my father took me,
had me, and held me, Hrethel the king,
with food and fee, faithful in kinship.
Ne'er, while I lived there, he loathlier found me,
bairn in the burg, than his birthright sons,
Herebeald and Hæthcyn and Hygelac mine.
For the eldest of these, by unmeet chance,
by kinsman's deed, was the death-bed strewn,
when Hæthcyn killed him with horny bow,

his own dear liege laid low with an arrow, missed the mark and his mate shot down,
one brother the other, with bloody shaft.
A feeless fight[2] and a fearful sin, horror to Hrethel; yet, hard as it was,
unavenged must the atheling die!
Too awful it is for an agéd man to bide and bear, that his bairn so young rides on the gallows. A rime he makes, sorrow-song for his son there hanging as rapture of ravens; no rescue now can come from the old, disabled man!
Still is he minded, as morning breaks, of the heir gone elsewhere;[3] another he hopes not he will bide to see his burg within as ward for his wealth, now the one has found doom of death that the deed incurred.
Forlorn he looks on the lodge of his son, wine-hall waste and wind-swept chambers reft of revel. The rider sleepeth, the hero, far-hidden;[4] no harp resounds, in the courts no wassail, as once was heard.

[1] That is, Beowulf supports Eadgils against Onela, who is slain by Eadgils in revenge for the "care-paths" of exile into which Onela forced him.

[2] That is, the king could claim no wergild, or man-price, from one son for the killing of the other.

[3] Usual euphemism for death.

[4] Sc. in the grave.

XXXV

"THEN he goes to his chamber, a grief-song chants alone for his lost. Too large all seems, homestead and house. So the helmet-of-Weders hid in his heart for Herebeald waves of woe. No way could he take to avenge on the slayer slaughter so foul; nor e'en could he harass that hero at all with loathing deed, though he loved him not.
And so for the sorrow his soul endured, men's gladness he gave up and God's light chose.

Lands and cities he left his sons
(as the wealthy do) when he went from earth.
There was strife and struggle 'twixt Swede and Geat o'er the width of waters; war arose, hard battle-horror, when Hrethel died, and Ongentheow's offspring grew strife-keen, bold, nor brooked o'er the seas pact of peace, but pushed their hosts to harass in hatred by Hreosnabeorh.
Men of my folk for that feud had vengeance, for woful war ('tis widely known), though one of them bought it with blood of his heart, a bargain hard: for Hæthcyn proved fatal that fray, for the first-of-Geats.
At morn, I heard, was the murderer killed by kinsman for kinsman,[1] with clash of sword, when Ongentheow met Eofor there.
Wide split the war-helm: wan he fell, hoary Scylfing; the hand that smote him of feud was mindful, nor flinched from the death-blow.

—"For all that he[2] gave me, my gleaming sword repaid him at war,—such power I wielded,— for lordly treasure: with land he entrusted me, homestead and house. He had no need from Swedish realm, or from Spear-Dane folk, or from men of the Gifths, to get him help,— some warrior worse for wage to buy!
Ever I fought in the front of all, sole to the fore; and so shall I fight while I bide in life and this blade shall last that early and late hath loyal proved since for my doughtiness Dæghrefn fell, slain by my hand, the Hugas' champion.
Nor fared he thence to the Frisian king with the booty back, and breast-adornments;
but, slain in struggle, that standard-bearer fell, atheling brave. Not with blade was he slain, but his bones were broken by brawny gripe,
his heart-waves stilled.—The sword-edge now, hard blade and my hand, for the hoard shall strive."
Beowulf spake, and a battle-vow made, his last of all: "I have lived through many wars in my youth; now once again, old folk-defender, feud will I seek,

do doughty deeds, if the dark destroyer forth from his cavern come to fight me!"
Then hailed he the helmeted heroes all,
for the last time greeting his liegemen dear, comrades of war: "I should carry no weapon, no sword to the serpent, if sure I knew how, with such enemy, else my vows
I could gain as I did in Grendel's day.
But fire in this fight I must fear me now, and poisonous breath; so I bring with me breastplate and board.[3] From the barrow's keeper no footbreadth flee I. One fight shall end our war by the wall, as Wyrd allots, all mankind's master. My mood is bold but forbears to boast o'er this battling-flyer.
—Now abide by the barrow, ye breastplate-mailed, ye heroes in harness, which of us twain better from battle-rush bear his wounds.
Wait ye the finish. The fight is not yours, nor meet for any but me alone to measure might with this monster here and play the hero. Hardily I shall win that wealth, or war shall seize, cruel killing, your king and lord!"
Up stood then with shield the sturdy champion, stayed by the strength of his single manhood, and hardy 'neath helmet his harness bore under cleft of the cliffs: no coward's path!
Soon spied by the wall that warrior chief, survivor of many a victory-field where foemen fought with furious clashings, an arch of stone; and within, a stream that broke from the barrow. The brooklet's wave was hot with fire. The hoard that way he never could hope unharmed to near, or endure those deeps,[4] for the dragon's flame.
Then let from his breast, for he burst with rage,
the Weder-Geat prince a word outgo;
stormed the stark-heart; stern went ringing and clear his cry 'neath the cliff-rocks gray.
The hoard-guard heard a human voice;
his rage was enkindled. No respite now for pact of peace! The poison-breath of that foul worm first came forth from the cave, hot reek-of-fight: the rocks resounded.

Stout by the stone-way his shield he raised, lord of the Geats, against the loathed-one;
while with courage keen that coiléd foe came seeking strife. The sturdy king had drawn his sword, not dull of edge, heirloom old; and each of the two felt fear of his foe, though fierce their mood.
Stoutly stood with his shield high-raised the warrior king, as the worm now coiled together amain: the mailed-one waited.
Now, spire by spire, fast sped and glided that blazing serpent. The shield protected, soul and body a shorter while for the hero-king than his heart desired, could his will have wielded the welcome respite but once in his life! But Wyrd denied it, and victory's honors.—His arm he lifted, lord of the Geats, the grim foe smote with atheling's heirloom. Its edge was turned, brown blade, on the bone, and bit more feebly than its noble master had need of then in his baleful stress.—Then the barrow's keeper waxed full wild for that weighty blow, cast deadly flames; wide drove and far those vicious fires. No victor's glory the Geats' lord boasted; his brand had failed, naked in battle, as never it should, excellent iron!—'Twas no easy path that Ecgtheow's honored heir must tread over the plain to the place of the foe;
for against his will he must win a home elsewhere far, as must all men, leaving this lapsing life!—Not long it was ere those champions grimly closed again.
The hoard-guard was heartened; high heaved his breast once more; and by peril was pressed again, enfolded in flames, the folk-commander!
Nor yet about him his band of comrades, sons of athelings, arméd stood with warlike front: to the woods they bent them, their lives to save. But the soul of one with care was cumbered. Kinship true can never be marred in a noble mind!

[1] Eofor for Wulf.—The immediate provocation for Eofor in killing "the hoary Scylfing," Ongentheow, is that the latter has just struck Wulf down; but the king, Hæthcyn, is also avenged by the blow. See the detailed description below.

[2] Hygeiac.

[3] Shield.

[4] The follow passage.

XXXVI

WIGLAF his name was, Weohstan's son, linden-thane loved, the lord of Scylfings, Ælfhere's kinsman. His king he now saw with heat under helmet hard oppressed.
He minded the prizes his prince had given him, wealthy seat of the Wægmunding line,
and folk-rights that his father owned.
Not long he lingered. The linden yellow, his shield, he seized; the old sword he drew:—
as heirloom of Eanmund earth-dwellers knew it, who was slain by the sword-edge, son of Ohtere, friendless exile, erst in fray killed by Weohstan, who won for his kin brown-bright helmet, breastplate ringed, old sword of Eotens, Onela's gift, weeds of war of the warrior-thane, battle-gear brave: though a brother's child had been felled, the feud was unfelt by Onela.[1]
For winters this war-gear Weohstan kept, breastplate and board, till his bairn had grown earlship to earn as the old sire did:
then he gave him, mid Geats, the gear of battle, portion huge, when he passed from life, fared agéd forth. For the first time now with his leader-lord the liegeman young was bidden to share the shock of battle.
Neither softened his soul, nor the sire's bequest weakened in war.[2] So the worm found out when once in fight the foes had met!

Wiglaf spake,—and his words were sage;
sad in spirit, he said to his comrades:—
"I remember the time, when mead we took, what promise we made to this prince of ours in the banquet-hall, to our breaker-of-rings, for gear of combat to give him requital, for hard-sword and helmet, if hap should bring stress of this sort! Himself who chose us from all his army to aid him now, urged us to glory, and gave these treasures, because he counted us keen with the spear and hardy 'neath helm, though this hero-work our leader hoped unhelped and alone to finish for us,—folk-defender who hath got him glory greater than all men for daring deeds! Now the day is come that our noble master has need of the might of warriors stout. Let us stride along the hero to help while the heat is about him glowing and grim! For God is my witness
I am far more fain the fire should seize along with my lord these limbs of mine![3]
Unsuiting it seems our shields to bear homeward hence, save here we essay to fell the foe and defend the life of the Weders' lord. I wot 'twere shame on the law of our land if alone the king out of Geatish warriors woe endured and sank in the struggle! My sword and helmet, breastplate and board, for us both shall serve!"
Through slaughter-reek strode he to succor his chieftain, his battle-helm bore, and brief words spake:—
"Beowulf dearest, do all bravely, as in youthful days of yore thou vowedst that while life should last thou wouldst let no wise thy glory droop! Now, great in deeds, atheling steadfast, with all thy strength shield thy life! I will stand to help thee."
At the words the worm came once again, murderous monster mad with rage, with fire-billows flaming, its foes to seek, the hated men. In heat-waves burned that board[4] to the boss, and the breastplate failed to shelter at all the spear-thane young.

Yet quickly under his kinsman's shield went eager the earl, since his own was now all burned by the blaze. The bold king again had mind of his glory: with might his glaive was driven into the dragon's head,— blow nerved by hate. But Nægling[5] was shivered, broken in battle was Beowulf's sword, old and gray. 'Twas granted him not that ever the edge of iron at all could help him at strife: too strong was his hand, so the tale is told, and he tried too far with strength of stroke all swords he wielded, though sturdy their steel: they steaded him nought.
Then for the third time thought on its feud that folk-destroyer, fire-dread dragon, and rushed on the hero, where room allowed, battle-grim, burning; its bitter teeth closed on his neck, and covered him with waves of blood from his breast that welled.

1: That is, although Eanmund was brother's son to Onela, the slaying of the former by Weohstan is not felt as cause of feud, and is rewarded by gift of the slain man's weapons.

2: Both Wiglaf and the sword did their duty.—The following is one of the classic passages for illustrating the comitatus as the most conspicuous Germanic institution, and its underlying sense of duty, based partly on the idea of loyalty and partly on the practical basis of benefits received and repaid.

3: Sc. "than to bide safely here,"—a common figure of incomplete comparison.

4: Wiglaf's wooden shield.

5: Gering would translate "kinsman of the nail," as both are made of iron.

XXXVII

'TWAS now, men say, in his sovran's need that the earl made known his noble strain, craft and keenness and courage enduring.
Heedless of harm, though his hand was burned, hardy-hearted, he helped his kinsman.

A little lower the loathsome beast he smote with sword; his steel drove in bright and burnished; that blaze began to lose and lessen. At last the king wielded his wits again, war-knife drew, a biting blade by his breastplate hanging,
and the Weders'-helm smote that worm asunder, felled the foe, flung forth its life.
So had they killed it, kinsmen both, athelings twain: thus an earl should be in danger's day!—Of deeds of valor this conqueror'-hour of the king was last, of his work in the world. The wound began, which that dragon-of-earth had erst inflicted, to swell and smart; and soon he found in his breast was boiling, baleful and deep, pain of poison. The prince walked on, wise in his thought, to the wall of rock;
then sat, and stared at the structure of giants, where arch of stone and steadfast column upheld forever that hall in earth.
Yet here must the hand of the henchman peerless lave with water his winsome lord, the king and conqueror covered with blood,
with struggle spent, and unspan his helmet.
Beowulf spake in spite of his hurt, his mortal wound; full well he knew his portion now was past and gone of earthly bliss, and all had fled of his file of days, and death was near:
"I would fain bestow on son of mine this gear of war, were given me now that any heir should after me come of my proper blood. This people I ruled fifty winters. No folk-king was there, none at all, of the neighboring clans who war would wage me with 'warriors'-friends'[1] and threat me with horrors. At home I bided what fate might come, and I cared for mine own; feuds I sought not, nor falsely swore ever on oath. For all these things, though fatally wounded, fain am I!
From the Ruler-of-Man no wrath shall seize me, when life from my frame must flee away, for killing of kinsmen! Now quickly go and gaze on that hoard 'neath the hoary rock, Wiglaf loved, now the worm lies low,

sleeps, heart-sore, of his spoil bereaved.
And fare in haste. I would fain behold the gorgeous heirlooms, golden store, have joy in the jewels and gems, lay down softlier for sight of this splendid hoard my life and the lordship I long have held."

1: That is, swords.

XXXVIII

I HAVE heard that swiftly the son of Weohstan at wish and word of his wounded king,— war-sick warrior,—woven mail-coat, battle-sark, bore 'neath the barrow's roof.
Then the clansman keen, of conquest proud, passing the seat,[1] saw store of jewels and glistening gold the ground along;
by the wall were marvels, and many a vessel in the den of the dragon, the dawn-flier old:
unburnished bowls of bygone men reft of richness; rusty helms of the olden age; and arm-rings many wondrously woven.—Such wealth of gold, booty from barrow, can burden with pride each human wight: let him hide it who will!—
His glance too fell on a gold-wove banner high o'er the hoard, of handiwork noblest, brilliantly broidered; so bright its gleam, all the earth-floor he easily saw and viewed all these vessels. No vestige now was seen of the serpent: the sword had ta'en him.
Then, I heard, the hill of its hoard was reft, old work of giants, by one alone;
he burdened his bosom with beakers and plate at his own good will, and the ensign took, brightest of beacons.—The blade of his lord —its edge was iron—had injured deep one that guarded the golden hoard many a year and its murder-fire spread hot round the barrow in horror-billows at midnight hour, till it met its doom.

Hasted the herald, the hoard so spurred him his track to retrace; he was troubled by doubt, high-souled hero, if haply he'd find alive, where he left him, the lord of Weders, weakening fast by the wall of the cave.
So he carried the load. His lord and king he found all bleeding, famous chief, at the lapse of life. The liegeman again plashed him with water, till point of word broke through the breast-hoard. Beowulf spake, sage and sad, as he stared at the gold:—
"For the gold and treasure, to God my thanks, to the Wielder-of-Wonders, with words I say,
for what I behold, to Heaven's Lord, for the grace that I give such gifts to my folk or ever the day of my death be run!
Now I've bartered here for booty of treasure the last of my life, so look ye well to the needs of my land! No longer I tarry.
A barrow bid ye the battle-famed raise for my ashes. 'Twill shine by the shore of the flood, to folk of mine memorial fair on Hronës Headland high uplifted, that ocean-wanderers oft may hail Beowulf's Barrow, as back from far they drive their keels o'er the darkling wave."
From his neck he unclasped the collar of gold, valorous king, to his vassal gave it with bright-gold helmet, breastplate, and ring, to the youthful thane: bade him use them in joy.
"Thou art end and remnant of all our race,
the Wægmunding name. For Wyrd hath swept them, all my line, to the land of doom, earls in their glory: I after them go."
This word was the last which the wise old man harbored in heart ere hot death-waves of balefire he chose. From his bosom fled his soul to seek the saints' reward.

1: Where Beowulf lay.

XXXIX

IT was heavy hap for that hero young on his lord beloved to look and find him lying on earth with life at end, sorrowful sight. But the slayer too, awful earth-dragon, empty of breath, lay felled in fight, nor, fain of its treasure, could the writhing monster rule it more.
For edges of iron had ended its days, hard and battle-sharp, hammers' leaving;[1]
and that flier-afar had fallen to ground hushed by its hurt, its hoard all near, no longer lusty aloft to whirl
at midnight, making its merriment seen, proud of its prizes: prone it sank
by the handiwork of the hero-king.
Forsooth among folk but few achieve,
—though sturdy and strong, as stories tell me,
and never so daring in deed of valor,— the perilous breath of a poison-foe to brave, and to rush on the ring-board hall, whenever his watch the warden keeps bold in the barrow. Beowulf paid the price of death for that precious hoard; and each of the foes had found the end of this fleeting life.
      Befell erelong
that the laggards in war the wood had left, trothbreakers, cowards, ten together, fearing before to flourish a spear in the sore distress of their sovran lord.
Now in their shame their shields they carried, armor of fight, where the old man lay;
and they gazed on Wiglaf. Wearied he sat at his sovran's shoulder, shieldsman good, to wake him with water.[2] Nowise it availed.
Though well he wished it, in world no more could he barrier life for that leader-of-battles nor baffle the will of all-wielding God.
Doom of the Lord was law o'er the deeds of every man, as it is to-day.
Grim was the answer, easy to get,
from the youth for those that had yielded to fear!
Wiglaf spake, the son of Weohstan,— mournful he looked on those men unloved:—

"Who sooth will speak, can say indeed that the ruler who gave you golden rings and the harness of war in which ye stand —for he at ale-bench often-times bestowed on hall-folk helm and breastplate, lord to liegemen, the likeliest gear which near or far he could find to give,— threw away and wasted these weeds of battle, on men who failed when the foemen came!
Not at all could the king of his comrades-in-arms venture to vaunt, though the Victory-Wielder, God, gave him grace that he got revenge sole with his sword in stress and need.
To rescue his life, 'twas little that I could serve him in struggle; yet shift I made (hopeless it seemed) to help my kinsman.
Its strength ever waned, when with weapon I struck that fatal foe, and the fire less strongly flowed from its head.—Too few the heroes in throe of contest that thronged to our king!
Now gift of treasure and girding of sword, joy of the house and home-delight shall fail your folk; his freehold-land every clansman within your kin shall lose and leave, when lords highborn hear afar of that flight of yours, a fameless deed. Yea, death is better for liegemen all than a life of shame!"

1: What had been left or made by the hammer; well-forged.

2: Trying to revive him.

XL

THAT battle-toil bade he at burg to announce, at the fort on the cliff, where, full of sorrow,
all the morning earls had sat,
daring shieldsmen, in doubt of twain:
would they wail as dead, or welcome home, their lord belovéd? Little[1] kept back of the tidings new, but told them all, the herald that up the headland rode.—
"Now the willing-giver to Weder folk in death-bed lies, the Lord of Geats on the slaughter-bed sleeps by the serpent's deed!

And beside him is stretched that slayer-of-men with knife-wounds sick:[2] no sword availed on the awesome thing in any wise to work a wound. There Wiglaf sitteth, Weohstan's bairn, by Beowulf's side,
the living earl by the other dead, and heavy of heart a head-watch[3] keeps o'er friend and foe.—Now our folk may look for waging of war when once unhidden to Frisian and Frank the fall of the king is spread afar.—The strife began when hot on the Hugas[4] Hygelac fell and fared with his fleet to the Frisian land.
Him there the Hetwaras humbled in war,
plied with such prowess their power o'erwhelming that the bold-in-battle bowed beneath it and fell in fight. To his friends no wise could that earl give treasure! And ever since the Merowings' favor has failed us wholly.
Nor aught expect I of peace and faith from Swedish folk. 'Twas spread afar how Ongentheow reft at Ravenswood Hæthcyn Hrethling of hope and life, when the folk of Geats for the first time sought in wanton pride the Warlike-Scylfings.
Soon the sage old sire[5] of Ohtere, ancient and awful, gave answering blow;
the sea-king[6] he slew, and his spouse redeemed, his good wife rescued, though robbed of her gold, mother of Ohtere and Onela.
Then he followed his foes, who fled before him sore beset and stole their way, bereft of a ruler, to Ravenswood.
With his host he besieged there what swords had left,
the weary and wounded; woes he threatened the whole night through to that hard-pressed throng:
some with the morrow his sword should kill,
some should go to the gallows-tree for rapture of ravens. But rescue came with dawn of day for those desperate men when they heard the horn of Hygelac sound, tones of his trumpet; the trusty king had followed their trail with faithful band.

[1] Nothing.

[2] Dead.

[3] Death-watch, guard of honor, "lyke-wake."

[4] A name for the Franks.

[5] Ongentheow.

[6] Hæthcyn.

XLI

"THE BLOODY swath of Swedes and Geats and the storm of their strife, were seen afar, how folk against folk the fight had wakened.
The ancient king with his atheling band sought his citadel, sorrowing much:
Ongentheow earl went up to his burg.
He had tested Hygelac's hardihood,
the proud one's prowess, would prove it no longer, defied no more those fighting-wanderers nor hoped from the seamen to save his hoard, his bairn and his bride: so he bent him again, old, to his earth-walls. Yet after him came with slaughter for Swedes the standards of Hygelac o'er peaceful plains in pride advancing, till Hrethelings fought in the fencéd town.[1]
Then Ongentheow with edge of sword, the hoary-bearded, was held at bay,
and the folk-king there was forced to suffer
Eofor's anger. In ire, at the king
Wulf Wonreding with weapon struck; and the chieftain's blood, for that blow, in streams flowed 'neath his hair. No fear felt he, stout old Scylfing, but straightway repaid in better bargain that bitter stroke and faced his foe with fell intent.
Nor swift enough was the son of Wonred answer to render the agéd chief;
too soon on his head the helm was cloven;
blood-bedecked he bowed to earth,
and fell adown; not doomed was he yet,
and well he waxed, though the wound was sore.

Then the hardy Hygelac-thane,[2]
when his brother fell, with broad brand smote, giants' sword crashing through giants'-helm across the shield-wall: sank the king, his folk's old herdsman, fatally hurt.
There were many to bind the brother's wounds and lift him, fast as fate allowed his people to wield the place-of-war.
But Eofor took from Ongentheow, earl from other, the iron-breastplate, hard sword hilted, and helmet too,
and the hoar-chief's harness to Hygelac carried, who took the trappings, and truly promised rich fee 'mid folk,—and fulfilled it so.
For that grim strife gave the Geatish lord,
Hrethel's offspring, when home he came,
to Eofor and Wulf a wealth of treasure,
Each of them had a hundred thousand[3] in land and linked rings; nor at less price reckoned mid-earth men such mighty deeds!
And to Eofor he gave his only daughter in pledge of grace, the pride of his home.

"Such is the feud, the foeman's rage, death-hate of men: so I deem it sure that the Swedish folk will seek us home for this fall of their friends, the fighting-Scylfings, when once they learn that our warrior leader lifeless lies, who land and hoard ever defended from all his foes, furthered his folk's weal, finished his course a hardy hero.—Now haste is best, that we go to gaze on our Geatish lord, and bear the bountiful breaker-of-rings to the funeral pyre. No fragments merely shall burn with the warrior. Wealth of jewels, gold untold and gained in terror, treasure at last with his life obtained, all of that booty the brands shall take, fire shall eat it. No earl must carry memorial jewel. No maiden fair shall wreathe her neck with noble ring:
nay, sad in spirit and shorn of her gold, oft shall she pass o'er paths of exile

now our lord all laughter has laid aside, all mirth and revel. Many a spear morning-cold shall be clasped amain, lifted aloft; nor shall lilt of harp those warriors wake; but the wan-hued raven, fain o'er the fallen, his feast shall praise and boast to the eagle how bravely he ate when he and the wolf were wasting the slain."

So he told his sorrowful tidings, and little[4] he lied, the loyal man of word or of work. The warriors rose; sad, they climbed to the Cliff-of-Eagles, went, welling with tears, the wonder to view.
Found on the sand there, stretched at rest, their lifeless lord, who had lavished rings of old upon them. Ending-day had dawned on the doughty-one; death had seized in woful slaughter the Weders' king.
There saw they, besides, the strangest being, loathsome, lying their leader near, prone on the field. The fiery dragon, fearful fiend, with flame was scorched.
Reckoned by feet, it was fifty measures in length as it lay. Aloft erewhile it had revelled by night, and anon come back, seeking its den; now in death's sure clutch
it had come to the end of its earth-hall joys.
By it there stood the stoups and jars; dishes lay there, and dear-decked swords eaten with rust, as, on earth's lap resting, a thousand winters they waited there.
For all that heritage huge, that gold of bygone men, was bound by a spell,[5] so the treasure-hall could be touched by none of human kind,—save that Heaven's King,
God himself, might give whom he would,
Helper of Heroes, the hoard to open,— even such a man as seemed to him meet.

[1] The line may mean: till Hrethelings stormed on the hedgéd shields, —i. e. the shield-wall or hedge of defensive war.—Hrethelings, of course, are Geats.

[2] Eofor, brother to Wulf Wonreding.

[3] Sc. "value in" hides and the weight of the gold.

[4] Not at all.

[5] Laid on it when it was put in the barrow. This spell, or in our days the "curse," either prevented discovery or brought dire ills on the finder and taker.

XLII

A PERILOUS path, it proved, he[1] trod who heinously hid, that hall within, wealth under wall! Its watcher had killed one of a few,[2] and the feud was avenged in woful fashion. Wondrous seems it, what manner a man of might and valor oft ends his life, when the earl no longer in mead-hall may live with loving friends.
So Beowulf, when that barrow's warden he sought, and the struggle; himself knew not in what wise he should wend from the world at last.
For[3] princes potent, who placed the gold, with a curse to doomsday covered it deep,
so that marked with sin the man should be,
hedged with horrors, in hell-bonds fast, racked with plagues, who should rob their hoard.
Yet no greed for gold, but the grace of heaven, ever the king had kept in view.[4]
Wiglaf spake, the son of Weohstan:—
"At the mandate of one, oft warriors many sorrow must suffer; and so must we.
The people'-shepherd showed not aught of care for our counsel, king belovèd!
That guardian of gold he should grapple not, urged we, but let him lie where he long had been in his earth-hall waiting the end of the world, the hest of heaven.—This hoard is ours, but grievously gotten; too grim the fate which thither carried our king and lord.
I was within there, and all I viewed,
the chambered treasure, when chance allowed me (and my path was made in no pleasant wise) under the earth-wall. Eager, I seized such heap from the hoard as hands could bear and hurriedly carried it hither back to my liege and lord. Alive was he still, still wielding his wits. The wise old man spake much in his sorrow, and sent you greetings and bade that ye build, when he breathed no more, on the place of his balefire a barrow high, memorial mighty. Of men was he worthiest warrior wide earth o'er the while he had joy of his jewels and burg.

Let us set out in haste now, the second time to see and search this store of treasure, these wall-hid wonders,—the way I show you,— where, gathered near, ye may gaze your fill at broad-gold and rings. Let the bier, soon made, be all in order when out we come,
our king and captain to carry thither —man beloved—where long he shall bide safe in the shelter of sovran God."
Then the bairn of Weohstan bade command, hardy chief, to heroes many that owned their homesteads, hither to bring firewood from far—o'er the folk they ruled—for the famed-one's funeral. "Fire shall devour and wan flames feed on the fearless warrior who oft stood stout in the iron-shower, when, sped from the string, a storm of arrows shot o'er the shield-wall: the shaft held firm, featly feathered, followed the barb."
And now the sage young son of Weohstan seven chose of the chieftain's thanes, the best he found that band within,
and went with these warriors, one of eight, under hostile roof. In hand one bore a lighted torch and led the way.
No lots they cast for keeping the hoard when once the warriors saw it in hall, altogether without a guardian, lying there lost. And little they mourned when they had hastily haled it out, dear-bought treasure! The dragon they cast, the worm, o'er the wall for the wave to take,
and surges swallowed that shepherd of gems.
Then the woven gold on a wain was laden—countless quite!—and the king was borne, hoary hero, to Hronës-Ness.

[1] Probably the fugitive is meant who discovered the hoard. Ten Brink and Gering assume that the dragon is meant. "Hid" may well mean here "took while in hiding."

[2] That is, "one and a few others." But Beowulf seems to be indicated.

[3] Ten Brink points out the strongly heathen character of this part of the epic. Beowulf's end came, so the old tradition ran, from his unwitting interference with spell-bound treasure.

[4] A hard saying, variously interpreted. In any case, it is the somewhat clumsy effort of the Christian poet to tone down the heathenism of his material by an edifying observation.

XLIII

THEN fashioned for him the folk of Geats firm on the earth a funeral-pile, and hung it with helmets and harness of war and breastplates bright, as the boon he asked;
and they laid amid it the mighty chieftain, heroes mourning their master dear.
Then on the hill that hugest of balefires the warriors wakened. Wood-smoke rose black over blaze, and blent was the roar of flame with weeping (the wind was still), till the fire had broken the frame of bones, hot at the heart. In heavy mood their misery moaned they, their master's death.
Wailing her woe, the widow[1] old, her hair upbound, for Beowulf's death sung in her sorrow, and said full oft she dreaded the doleful days to come, deaths enow, and doom of battle,
and shame.—The smoke by the sky was devoured.
The folk of the Weders fashioned there on the headland a barrow broad and high,
by ocean-farers far descried:
in ten days' time their toil had raised it,
the battle-brave's beacon. Round brands of the pyre a wall they built, the worthiest ever that wit could prompt in their wisest men.
They placed in the barrow that precious booty,
the rounds and the rings they had reft erewhile, hardy heroes, from hoard in cave,— trusting the ground with treasure of earls, gold in the earth, where ever it lies useless to men as of yore it was.

Then about that barrow the battle-keen rode, atheling-born, a band of twelve,
lament to make, to mourn their king,
chant their dirge, and their chieftain honor.
They praised his earlship, his acts of prowess worthily witnessed: and well it is that men their master-friend mightily laud, heartily love, when hence he goes from life in the body forlorn away.

Thus made their mourning the men of Geatland, for their hero's passing his hearth-companions:
quoth that of all the kings of earth,
of men he was mildest and most belovéd,
to his kin the kindest, keenest for praise.

1: Nothing is said of Beowulf's wife in the poem, but Bugge surmises that Beowulf finally accepted Hygd's offer of kingdom and hoard, and, as was usual, took her into the bargain.

Contents

- Part I - The Treason of Ganelon
- Part II - The Prelude of the Great Battle
- Part III - The Reprisals

Introductory Note

IN the year 778 A.D., Charles the Great, King of the Franks, returned from a military expedition into Spain, whither he had been led by opportunities offered through dissensions among the Saracens who then dominated that country. On the 15th of August, while his army was marching through the passes of the Pyrenees, his rear-guard was attacked and annihilated by the Basque inhabitants of the mountains, in the valley of Roncesvaux. About this disaster many popular songs, it is supposed, soon sprang up; and the chief hero whom they celebrated was Hrodland, Count of the Marches of Brittany.

There are indications that the earliest of these songs arose among the Breton followers of Hrodland or Roland; but they spread to Maine, to Anjou, to Normandy, until the theme became national. By the latter part of the eleventh century, when the form of the "Song of Roland" which we possess was probably composed, the historical germ of the story had almost disappeared under the mass of legendary accretion. Charlemagne, who was a man of thirty-six at the time of the actual Roncesvaux incident, has become in the poem an old man with a flowing white beard, credited with endless conquests; the Basques have disappeared, and the Saracens have taken their place; the defeat is accounted for by the invention of the treachery of Ganelon; the expedition of 777-778 has become a campaign of seven years; Roland is made the nephew of Charlemagne, leader of the twelve peers, and is provided with a faithful friend Oliver, and a betrothed, Alda.

The poem is the first of the great French heroic poems known as "chansons de geste." It is written in stanzas of various length, bound together by the vowel-rhyme known as assonance. It is not possible to reproduce effectively this device in English, and the author of the present translation has adopted what is perhaps the nearest equivalent —the romantic measure of Coleridge and Scott.

Simple almost to bareness in style, without subtlety or high imagination, the Song of Roland is yet not without grandeur; and its patriotic ardor gives it a place as the earliest of the truly national poems of the modern world.

The Song of Roland.

Part I
The Treason of Ganelon

Saragossa. The Council of King Marsil

I

THE KING our Emperor Carlemaine,
Hath been for seven full years in Spain.
From highland to sea hath he won the land;
City was none might his arm withstand;
Keep and castle alike went down—
Save Saragossa, the mountain town.
The King Marsilius holds the place,
Who loveth not God, nor seeks His grace:
He prays to Apollin, and serves Mahound;
But he saved him not from the fate he found.

II

In Saragossa King Marsil made
His council-seat in the orchard shade,
On a stair of marble of azure hue.
There his courtiers round him drew;
While there stood, the king before,
Twenty thousand men and more.
Thus to his dukes and his counts he said,
"Hear ye, my lords, we are sore bested.
The Emperor Karl of gentle France
Hither hath come for our dire mischance.
Nor host to meet him in battle line,
Nor power to shatter his power, is mine.
Speak, my sages; your counsel lend:
My doom of shame and death forefend."
But of all the heathens none spake word
Save Blancandrin, Val Fonde's lord.

III

Blancandrin was a heathen wise,
Knightly and valiant of enterprise,

Sage in counsel his lord to aid;
And he said to the king, "Be not dismayed:
Proffer to Karl, the haughty and high,
Lowly friendship and fealty;
Ample largess lay at his feet,
Bear and lion and greyhound fleet.
Seven hundred camels his tribute be,
A thousand hawks that have moulted free.
Let full four hundred mules be told,
Laden with silver enow and gold
For fifty waggons to bear away;
So shall his soldiers receive their pay.
Say, too long hath he warred in Spain,—
Let him turn to France—to his Aix—again.
At Saint Michael's feast you will thither speed,
Bend your heart to the Christian creed,
And his liegeman be in duty and deed.
Hostages he may demand
Ten or twenty at your hand.
We will send him the sons whom our wives have nursed;
Were death to follow, mine own the first.
Better by far that they there should die
Than be driven all from our land to fly,
Flung to dishonor and beggary.

IV

"Yea," said Blancandrin, "by this right hand,
And my floating beard by the free wind fanned,
Ye shall see the host of the Franks disband
And hie them back into France their land;

Each to his home as beseemeth well,
And Karl unto Aix—to his own Chapelle.
He will hold high feast on Saint Michael's day
And the time of your tryst shall pass away.
Tale nor tidings of us shall be;
Fiery and sudden, I know, is he:
He will smite off the heads of our hostages all:
Better, I say, that their heads should fall
Than we the fair land of Spain forego,
And our lives be laden with shame and woe."
"Yea," said the heathens, "it may be so."

V

King Marsil's council is over that day,
And he called to him Clarin of Balaguet,
Estramarin, and Eudropin his peer,
Bade Garlon and Priamon both draw near,
Machiner and his uncle Maheu—with these Joïmer and Malbien from overseas,
Blancandrin for spokesman,—of all his men
He hath summoned there the most felon ten.
"Go ye to Carlemaine," spake their liege,—
"At Cordres city he sits in siege,—
While olive branches in hand ye press,
Token of peace and of lowliness.
Win him to make fair treaty with me,
Silver and gold shall your guerdon be,
Land and lordship in ample fee."
"Nay," said the heathens, "enough have we."

VI

So did King Marsil his council end.
"Lords," he said, "on my errand wend;
While olive branches in hand ye bring,
Say from me unto Karl the king,
For sake of his God let him pity show;
And ere ever a month shall come and go,
With a thousand faithful of my race,
I will follow swiftly upon his trace,
Freely receive his Christian law,
And his liegemen be in love and awe.
Hostages asks he? it shall be done."
Blancandrin answered, "Your peace is won."

VII

Then King Marsil bade be dight
Ten fair mules of snowy white,
Erst from the King of Sicily brought Their trappings with silver and gold inwrought—
Gold the bridle, and silver the selle.
On these are the messengers mounted well;
And they ride with olive boughs in hand,
To seek the Lord of the Frankish land.
Well let him watch; he shall be trepanned.

At Cordres. Carlemaine's Council

VIII

King Karl is jocund and gay of mood,
He hath Cordres city at last subdued;
Its shattered walls and turrets fell
By Catapult and mangonel;
Not a heathen did there remain
But confessed him Christian or else was slain.
The Emperor sits in an orchard wide,
Roland and Olivier by his side:
Samson the duke, and Anseis proud;
Geoffrey of Anjou, whose arm was vowed
The royal gonfalon to rear;
Gerein, and his fellow in arms, Gerier;
With them many a gallant lance,
Full fifteen thousand of gentle France.
The cavaliers sit upon carpets white,
Playing at tables for their delight:
The older and sager sit at the chess,
The bachelors fence with a light address.
Seated underneath a pine,
Close beside an eglantine,
Upon a throne of beaten gold,
The lord of ample France behold;
White his hair and beard were seen,
Fair of body, and proud of mien,
Who sought him needed not ask, I ween
The ten alight before his feet,
And him in all observance greet.

IX

Blancandrin first his errand gave,
And he said to the king, "May God you save,
The God of glory, to whom you bend!
Marsil, our king, doth his greeting send.
Much hath he mused on the law of grace,
Much of his wealth at your feet will place—
Bears and lions, and dogs of chase,
Seven hundred camels that bend the knee,
A thousand hawks that have moulted free,
Four hundred mules, with silver and gold
Which fifty wains might scantly hold,

So shall you have of the red bezants
To pay the soldiers of gentle France.
Overlong have you dwelt in Spain,—
To Aix, your city, return again.
The lord I serve will thither come,
Accept the law of Christendom,
With claspèd hands your liegeman be,
And hold his realm of you in fee."
The Emperor raised his hands on high,
Bent and bethought him silently.

X

The Emperor bent his head full low;
Never hasty of speech I trow;
Leisurely came his words, and slow,
Lofty his look as he raised his head:
"Thou hast spoken well," at length he said.
"King Marsil was ever my deadly foe,
And of all these words, so fair in show,
How may I the fulfilment know?"
"Hostages will you?" the heathen cried,
"Ten or twenty, or more beside.
I will send my son, were his death at hand,
With the best and noblest of all our land;
And when you sit in your palace halls,
And the feast of St. Michael of Peril falls,
Unto the waters will come our king,
Which God commanded for you to spring;
There in the laver of Christ be laved."
"Yea!" said Karl, "he may yet be saved."

XI

Fair and bright did the evening fall:
The ten white mules were stabled in stall;
On the sward was a fair pavilion dressed,
To give to the Saracens cheer of the best;
Servitors twelve at their bidding bide,
And they rest all night until morning tide,
The Emperor rose with the day-dawn clear,
Failed not Matins and Mass to hear,
Then betook him beneath a pine,
Summoned his barons by word and sign:
As his Franks advise will his choice incline.

XII

Under a pine is the Emperor gone,
And his barons to council come forth anon:
Archbishop Turpin, Duke Ogier bold
With his nephew Henry was Richard the old,
Gascony's gallant Count Acelin,
Tybalt of Rheims, and Milo his kin,
Gerein and his brother in arms, Gerier,
Count Roland and his faithful fere,
The gentle and valiant Olivier:
More than a thousand Franks of France
And Ganelon came, of woful chance;
By him was the deed of treason done.
So was the fatal consult begun.

XIII

"Lords my barons," the Emperor said,
"King Marsil to me hath his envoys sped.
He proffers treasure surpassing bounds,
Bears and lions, and leashèd hounds;
Seven hundred camels that bend the knee;
A thousand hawks that have moulted free;
Four hundred mules with Arab gold,
Which fifty wains might scantly hold.
But he saith to France must I wend my way:
He will follow to Aix with brief delay,
Bend his heart unto Christ's belief,
And hold his marches of me in fief;
Yet I know not what in his heart may lie."
"Beware! beware!" was the Franks' outcry.

XIV

Scarce his speech did the Emperor close,
When in high displeasure Count Roland rose,
Fronted his uncle upon the spot,
And said, "This Marsil, believe him not:
Seven full years have we warred in Spain;
Commibles and Noples for you have I ta'en,
Tudela and Sebilie, cities twain;
Valtierra I won, and the land of Pine,
And Balaguet fell to this arm of mine.
King Marsil hath ever a traitor been:

He sent of his heathens, at first fifteen.
Bearing each one on olive bough,
Speaking the self-same words as now.
Into council with your Franks you went,
Lightly they flattered your heart's intent;
Two of your barons to him you sent,—
They were Basan and Basil, the brother knights:
He smote off their heads on Haltoia's heights.
War, I say!—end as you well began,
Unto Saragossa lead on your van;
Were the siege to last your lifetime through,
Avenge the nobles this felon slew."

XV

The Emperor bent him and mused within,
Twisted his beard upon lip and chin,
Answered his nephew nor good nor ill;
And the Franks, save Ganelon, all were still:
Hastily to his feet he sprang,
Haughtily his words outrang:—
"By me or others be not misled,— Look to your own good ends," he said.
"Since now King Marsil his faith assures,
That, with hands together clasped in yours,
He will henceforth your vassal be,
Receive the Christian law as we,
And hold his realm of you in fee,
Whoso would treaty like this deny,
Recks not, sire, by what death we die:
Good never came from counsel of pride,—
List to the wise, and let madmen bide."

XVI

Then his form Duke Naimes upreared,
White of hair and hoary of beard.
Better vassal in court was none.
"You have hearkened," he said, "unto Ganelon.
Well hath Count Ganelon made reply;
Wise are his words, if you bide thereby.
King Marsil is beaten and broken in war;
You have captured his castles anear and far,
With your engines shattered his walls amain,
His cities burned, his soldiers slain:

Respite and ruth if he now implore,
Sin it were to molest him more.
Let his hostages vouch for the faith he plights,
And send him one of your Christian knights.
'Twere time this war to an ending came."
"Well saith the duke!" the Franks exclaim.

XVII

"Lords my barons, who then were best
In Saragossa to do our hest?"

"I," said Naimes, "of your royal grace, Yield me in token your glove and mace."
"Nay—my sagest of men art thou:
By my beard upon lip and chin I vow
Thou shalt never depart so far from me:
Sit thee down till I summon thee.

XVIII

"Lords my barons, whom send we, then,
To Saragossa, the Saracen den?"
"I," said Roland, "will blithely go."
"Nay," said Olivier; "nay, not so.
All too fiery of mood thou art;
Thou wouldst play, I fear me, a perilous part.
I go myself, if the king but will."
"I command," said Karl, "that ye both be still.
Neither shall be on this errand bound,
Nor one of the twelve—my peers around;
So by my blanching beard I swear."
The Franks are abashed and silent there.

XIX

Turpin of Rheims from amid the ranks
Said: "Look, my liege, on your faithful Franks:
Seven full years have they held this land,
With pain and peril on every hand.
To me be the mace and the glove consigned;
I will go this Saracen lord to find,
And freely forth will I speak my mind."
The Emperor answered in angry plight,
"Sit thee down on that carpet white;

Speak not till I thy speech invite.

XX

"My cavaliers," he began anew,
"Choose of my marches a baron true,
Before King Marsil my hest to do."
"Be it, then," said Roland, "my stepsire Gan,
In vain ye seek for a meeter man."
The Franks exclaim, "He is worth the trust,
So it please the king it is right and just."
Count Ganelon then was with anguish wrung,
His mantle of fur from his neck he flung.
Stood all stark in his silken vest,
And his grey eyes gleamed with a fierce unrest.
Fair of body and large of limb,
All in wonderment gazed on him.
"Thou madman," thus he to Roland cried,
"What may this rage against me betide?
I am thy stepsire, as all men know,
And thou doom't me on hest like this to go;
But so God my safe return bestow,
I promise to work thee scathe and strife
Long as thou breathest the breath of life."
"Pride and folly!" said Roland, then.
"Am I known to wreck of the threats of men?
But this is work for the sagest head.
So it please the king, I will go instead."

XXI

"In *my*stead?—never, of mine accord.
Thou art not my vassal nor I thy lord.
Since Karl commands me his hest to fill,
Unto Saragossa ride forth I will;
Yet I fear me to wreak some deed of ill,
Thereby to slake this passion's might."
Roland listened, and laughed outright.

XXII

At Roland's laughter Count Ganelon's pain
Was as though his bosom were cleft in twain.
He turned to his stepson as one distraught:
"I do not love thee," he said, "in aught;

Thou hast false judgment against me wrought.
O righteous Emperor, here I stand
To execute your high command.

XXIII

"Unto Saragossa I needs must go;—
Who goeth may never return, I know;—
Yet withal, your sister is spouse of mine,
And our son—no fairer of mortal line—
Baldwin bids to be goodly knight;
I leave him my honors and fiefs of right.
Guard him—no more shall he greet my sight."
Saith Karl, "Thou art over tender of heart.
Since I command it, thou shalt depart.

XXIV

"Fair Sir Gan," the Emperor spake,
"This my message to Marsil take:
He shall make confession of Christ's belief,
And I yield him, full half of Spain in fief;
In the other half shall Count Roland reign.
If he choose not the terms I now ordain,
I will march unto Saragossa's gate,
Besiege and capture the city straight,
Take and bind him both hands and feet,
Lead him to Aix, to my royal seat,
There to be tried and judged and slain,
Dying a death of disgrace and pain.
I have sealed the scroll of my command.
Deliver it into the heathen's hand.

XXV

"Gan," said the Emperor, "draw thou near:
Take my glove and my bâton here;
On thee did the choice of thy fellows fall."
"Sire, 'twas Roland who wrought it all.
I shall not love him while life may last,
Nor Olivier his comrade fast,
Nor the peers who cherish and prize him so,— Gage of defiance to all I throw."
Saith Karl, "Thine anger hath too much sway.
Since I ordain it, thou must obey."

"I go, but warranty none have I
That I may not like Basil and Basan die."

XXVI

The Emperor reached him his right-hand glove;
Gan for his office had scanty love;
As he bent him forward, it fell to ground:
"God, what is this?" said the Franks around;
"Evil will come of this quest we fear."
"My lords," said Ganelon, "ye shall hear."

XXVII

"Sire," he said, "let me wend my way;
Since go I must, what boots delay?"
Said the king, "In Jesus' name and mine!"
And his right hand sained him with holy sign.
Then he to Ganelon's grasp did yield
His royal mace and missive sealed.

XXVIII

Home to his hostel is Ganelon gone,
His choicest of harness and arms to don;
On his charger Taschebrun to mount and ride,
With his good sword Murgleis girt at side.
On his feet are fastened the spurs of gold,
And his uncle Guinemer doth his stirrup hold.
Then might ye look upon cavaliers
A-many round him who spake in tears.
"Sir," they said, "what a woful day!
Long were you ranked in the king's array,
A noble vassal as none gainsay.
For him who doomed you to journey hence
Carlemagne's self shall be scant defence;
Foul was the thought in Count Roland's mind,
When you and he are so high affined.
Sir," they said, "let us with you wend."
"Nay," said Ganelon, "God forefend.
Liefer alone to my death I go,
Than such brave bachelors perish so.
Sirs, ye return into France the fair;
Greeting from me to my lady bear,
To my friend and peer Sir Pinabel,

And to Baldwin, my son, whom ye all know well,— Cherish him, own him your lord of right."
He hath passed on his journey and left their sight.

The Embassy and Crime of Ganelon

XXIX

Ganelon rides under olives high,
And comes the Saracen envoys nigh.
Blancandrin lingers until they meet,
And in cunning converse each other greet.
The Saracen thus began their parle:
"What a man, what a wondrous man is Karl!
Apulia—Calabria—all subdued,
Unto England crossed he the salt sea rude,
Won for Saint Peter his tribute fee;
But what in our marches maketh he?"
Ganelon said, "He is great of heart,
Never man shall fill so mighty a part."

XXX

Said Blancandrin, "Your Franks are high of fame,
But your dukes and counts are sore to blame.
Such counsel to their lord they give,
Nor he nor others in peace may live."
Ganelon answered, "I know of none,
Save Roland, who thus to his shame hath done.
Last morn the Emperor sat in the shade,
His nephew came in his mail arrayed,—
He had plundered Carcassonne just before,
And a vermeil apple in hand he bore:
'Sire,' he said, 'to your feet I bring
The crown of every earthly king.'
Disaster is sure such pride to blast;
He setteth his life on a daily cast.
Were he slain, we all should have peace at last."

XXXI

"Ruthless is Roland," Blancandrin spake,
"Who every race would recreant make,
And on all possessions of men would seize;
But in whom doth he trust for feats like these?"

"The Franks! the Franks!" Count Ganelon cried;
"They love him, and never desert his side;
For he lavisheth gifts that seldom fail,
Gold and silver in countless tale,
Mules and chargers, and silks and mail,
The king himself may have spoil at call.
From hence to the East he will conquer all."

XXXII

Thus Blancandrin and Ganelon rode,
Till each on other his faith bestowed
That Roland should be by practice slain,
And so they journeyed by path and plain,
Till in Saragossa they bridle drew,
There alighted beneath a yew.
In a pine-tree's shadow a throne was set;
Alexandrian silk was the coverlet:
There the monarch of Spain they found,
With twenty thousand Saracens round,
Yet from them came nor breath nor sound;
All for the tidings they strained to hear,
As they saw Blancandrin and Ganelon near.

XXXIII

Blancandrin stepped before Marsil's throne,
Ganelon's hand was in his own.
"Mahound you save," to the king he said,
"And Apollin, whose holy law we dread!
Fairly your errand to Karl! was done;
But other answer made he none,
Save that his hands to Heaven he raised,
Save that a space his God he praised;
He sends a baron of his court,
Knight of France, and of high report,
Of him your tidings of peace receive."
"Let him speak," said Marsil, "we yield him leave."

XXXIV

Gan had bethought him, and mused with art;
Well was he skilled to play his part;
And he said to Marsil, "May God you save,
The God of glory, whose grace we crave!

Thus saith the noble Carlemaine:
You shall make in Christ confession plain.
And he gives you in fief full half of Spain;
The other half shall be Roland's share
(Right haughty partner, he yields you there);
And should you slight the terms I bear,
He will come and gird Saragossa round,
You shall be taken by force and bound,
Led unto Aix, to his royal seat,
There to perish by judgment meet,
Dying a villainous death of shame."
Over King Marsil a horror came;
He grasped his javelin, plumed with gold,
In act to smite, were he not controlled.

XXXV

King Marsil's cheek the hue hath left,
And his right hand grasped his weapon's heft.
When Ganelon saw it, his sword he drew Finger lengths from the scabbard two.
"Sword," he said, "thou art clear and bright;
I have borne thee long in my fellows's sight,
Mine emperor never shall say of me,
That I perished afar, in a strange countrie,
Ere thou in the blood of their best wert dyed."
"Dispart the mellay," the heathens cried.

XXXVI

The noblest Saracens thronged amain,
Seated the king on his throne again,
And the Algalif said, " 'Twas a sorry prank,
Raising your weapon to slay the Frank.
It was yours to hearken in silence there."
"Sir," said Gan, "I may meetly bear,
But for all the wealth of your land arrayed,
For all the gold that God hath made,
Would I not live and leave unsaid,
What Karl, the mightiest king below,
Sends, through me, to his mortal foe."
His mantle of fur, that was round him twined,
With silk of Alexandria lined,
Down at Blancandrin's feet he cast,
But still he held by his good sword fast,

Grasping the hilt by its golden ball.
"A noble knight," say the heathens all.

XXXVII

Ganelon came to the king once more.
"Your anger," he said, "misserves you sore.
As the princely Carlemaine saith, I say,
You shall the Christian law obey.
And half of Spain you shall hold in fee,
The other half shall Count Roland's be,
(And a haughty partner 'tis yours to see).
Reject the treaty I here propose,
Round Saragossa his lines will close;
You shall be bound in fetters strong,
Led to his city of Aix along.
Nor steed nor palfrey shall you bestride,
Nor mule nor jennet be yours to ride;
On a sorry sumpter you shall be cast,
And your head by doom stricken off at last.
So is the Emperor's mandate traced,"—
And the scroll in the heathen's hand he placed.

XXXVIII

Discolored with ire was King Marsil's hue;
The seal he brake and to earth he threw,
Read of the scroll the tenor clear.
"So Karl the Emperor writes me here.
Bids me remember his wrath and pain
For sake of Basan and Basil slain,
Whose necks I smote on Haltoia's hill;
Yet, if my life I would ransom still,
Mine uncle the Algalif must I send,
Or love between us were else at end."
Then outspake Jurfalez, Marsil's son:
"This is but madness of Ganelon.
For crime so deadly his life shall pay;
Justice be mine on his head this day."
Ganelon heard him, and waved his blade,
While his back against a pine he stayed.

XXXIX

Into his orchard King Marsil stepped.

His nobles round him their station kept:
There was Jurfalez, his son and heir,
Blancandrin of the hoary hair,
The Algalif, truest of all his kin.
Said Blancandrin, "Summon the Christian in;
His troth he pledged me upon our side."
"Go," said Marsil, "be thou his guide."
Blancandrin led him, hand-in-hand,
Before King Marsil's face to stand.
Then was the villainous treason planned.

XL

"Fair Sir Ganelon," spake the king,
"I did a rash and despighteous thing,
Raising against thee mine arm to smite.
Richly will I the wrong requite.
See these sables whose worth were told
At full five hundred pounds of gold:
Thine shall they be ere the coming day."
"I may not," said Gan, "your grace gainsay.
God in His pleasure will you repay."

XLI

"Trust me I love thee, Sir Gan, and fain
Would I hear thee discourse of Carlemaine.
He is old, methinks, exceedingly old;
And full two hundred years hath told;
With toil his body spent and worn,
So many blows on his buckler borne,
So many a haughty king laid low,
When will he weary of warring so?"
"Such is not Carlemaine," Gan replied;
"Man never knew him, nor stood beside,
But will say how noble a lord is he,
Princely and valiant in high degree.
Never could words of mine express
His honor, his bounty, his gentleness,
'Twas God who graced him with gifts so high.
Ere I leave his vassalage I will die."

XLII

The heathen said, "I marvel sore

Of Carlemaine, so old and hoar,
Who counts I ween two hundred years,
Hath borne such strokes of blades and spears,
So many lands hath overrun,
So many mighty kings undone,
When will he tire of war and strife?"
"Not while his nephew breathes in life.
Beneath the cope of heaven this day
Such vassal leads not king's array.
Gallant and sage is Olivier,
And all the twelve, to Karl so dear,
With twenty thousand Franks in van,
He feareth not the face of man."

XLIII

"Strange," said Marsil, "seems to me,
Karl, so white with eld is he,
Twice a hundred years, men say,
Since his birth have passed away.
All his wars in many lands,
All the strokes of trenchant brands,
All the kings despoiled and slain,—
When will he from war refrain?"
"Not till Roland breathes no more,
For from hence to eastern shore,
Where is chief with him may vie?
Olivier his comrades by,
And the peers, of Karl the pride,
Twenty thousand Franks beside,
Vanguard of his host, and flower:
Karl may mock at mortal power."

XLIV

"I tell thee, Sir Gan, that a power is mine;
Fairer did never in armor shine,
Four hundred thousand cavaliers,
With the Franks of Karl to measure spears."
"Fling such folly," said Gan, "away;
Sorely your heathen would rue the day.
Proffer the Emperor ample prize,
A sight to dazzle the Frankish eyes;
Send him hostages full of score,
So returns he to France once more.

But his rear will tarry behind the host;
There, I trow, will be Roland's post—
There will Sir Olivier remain.
Hearken to me, and the counts lie slain;
The pride of Karl shall be crushed that day,
And his wars be ended with you for aye."

XLV

"Speak, then, and tell me, Sir Ganelon,
How may Roland to death be done?"
"Through Cizra's pass will the Emperor wind,
But his rear will linger in march behind;
Roland and Olivier there shall be,
With twenty thousand in company.
Muster your battle against them then,
A hundred thousand heathen men.
Till worn and spent be the Frankish bands,
Though your bravest perish beneath their hands.
For another battle your powers be massed,
Roland will sink, overcome at last.
There were a feat of arms indeed,
And your life from peril thenceforth be freed.

XLVI

"For whoso Roland to death shall bring,
From Karl his good right aim will wring,
The marvellous host will melt away,
No more shall be muster a like array,
And the mighty land will in peace repose."
King Marsil heard him to the close;
Then kissed him on the neck, and bade
His royal treasures be displayed.

XLVII

What said they more? Why tell the rest?
Said Marsil, "Fastest bound is best;
Come, swear me here to Roland's fall."
"Your will," said Gan, "be mine in all."
He swore on the relics in the hilt
Of his sword Murgleis, and crowned his guilt.

XLVIII

A stool was there of ivory wrought.
King Marsil bade a book be brought,
Wherein was all the law contained
Mahound and Termagaunt ordained.
The Saracen hath sworn thereby,
If Roland in the rear-guard lie,
With all his men-at-arms to go,
And combat till the count lay low.
Sir Gan repeated, "Be it so."

XLIX

King Marsil's foster-father came,
A heathen, Valdabrun by name.
He spake to Gan with laughter clear.
"My sword, that never found its peer,—
A thousand pieces would not buy
The riches in the hilt that lie,—
To you I give in guerdon free;
Your aid in Roland's fall to see,
Let but the rear-guard be his place."
"I trust," said Gan, "to do you grace."
Then each kissed other on the face.

L

Next broke with jocund laughter in,
Another heathen, Climorin.
To Gan he said, "Accept my helm,
The best and trustiest in the realm,
Conditioned that your aid we claim
To bring the marchman unto shame."
"Be it," said Ganelon, "as you list."
And then on cheek and mouth they kissed.

LI

Now Bramimonde, King Marsil's queen,
To Ganelon came with gentle mien.
"I love thee well, Sir Count," she spake,
"For my lord the king and his nobles' sake.
See these clasps for a lady's wrist,
Of gold, and jacinth, and amethyst,
That all the jewels of Rome outshine;
Never your Emperor owned so fine;

These by the queen to your spouse are sent."
The gems within his boot he pent.

LII

Then did the king on his treasurer call,
"My gifts for Karl, are they ready all?"
"Yea, sire, seven hundred camels' load
Of gold and silver well bestowed,
And twenty hostages thereby,
The noblest underneath the sky."

LIII

On Ganelon's shoulder King Marsil leant.
"Thou art sage," he said, "and of gallant bent;
But by all thy holiest law deems dear,
Let not they thought from our purpose veer.
Ten mules' burthen I give to thee
Of gold, the finest of Araby;
Nor ever year henceforth shall pass
But it brings thee riches in equal mass
Take the keys of my city gates,
Take the treasure that Karl awaits—
Render them all; but oh, decide
That Roland in the rear-guard bide;
So may I find him by pass or height,
As I swear to meet him in mortal fight."
Cried Gan, "Meseemeth too long we stay,"
Sprang on his charger and rode away.

LIV

The Emperor homeward hath turned his face,
To Gailne city he marched apace,
(By Roland erst in ruins strown—
Deserted thence it lay and lone,
Until a hundred years had flown).
Here waits he, word of Gan to gain
With tribute of the land of Spain;
And here, at earliest break of day,
Came Gan where the encampment lay.

LV

The Emperor rose with the day dawn clear,

Failed not Matins and Mass to hear,
Sate at his tent on the fair green sward,
Roland and Olivier nigh their lord,
Duke Naimes and all his peers of fame.
Gan the felon, the perjured, came—False was the treacherous tale he gave,—
And these his words, "May God you save!
I bear you Saragossa's keys,
Vast the treasure I bring with these,
And twenty hostages; guard them well,
The noble Marsil bids me tell—
Not on him shall your anger fall,
If I fetch not the Algalif here withal;
For mine eyes beheld, beneath their ken,
Three hundred thousand armèd men,
With sword and casque and coat of mail,
Put forth with him on the sea to sail,
All for hate of the Christian creed,
Which they would neither hold nor heed.
They had not floated a league but four,
When a tempest down on their galleys bore.
Drowned they lie to be seen no more.
If the Algalif were but living wight,
He had stood this morn before your sight.
Sire, for the Saracen king I say,
Ere ever a month shall pass away,
On into France he will follow free,
Bend to our Christian law the knee,
Homage swear for his Spanish land,
And hold the realm at your command."
"Now praise to God," the Emperor said,
"And thanks, my Ganelon, well you sped."
A thousand clarions then resound,
The sumpter-mules are girt on ground,
For France, for France the Franks are bound.

LVI

Karl the Great hath wasted Spain,
Her cities sacked, her castles ta'en;
But now "My wars are done," he cried,
"And home to gentle France we ride."
Count Roland plants his standard high
Upon a peak against the sky;
The Franks around encamping lie.

Alas! the heathen host the while,
Through valley deep and dark defile,
Are riding on the Christians' track,
All armed in steel from breast to back;
Their lances poised, their helmets laced,
Their falchions glittering from the waist,
Their bucklers from the shoulder swung,
And so they ride the steeps among,
Till, in a forest on the height,
They rest to wait the morning light,
Four hundred thousand crouching there.
O God! the Franks are unaware.

LVII

The day declined, night darkling crept,
And Karl, the mighty Emperor, slept.
He dreamt a dream: he seemed to stand
In Cizra's pass, with lance in hand.
Count Ganelon came athwart, and lo,
He wrenched the aspen spear him fro,
Brandished and shook it aloft with might,
Till it brake in pieces before his sight;
High towards heaven the splinters flew;
Karl awoke not, he dreamed anew.

LVIII

In his second dream he seemed to dwell
In his palace of Aix, at his own Chapelle.
A bear seized grimly his right arm on,
And bit the flesh to the very bone.
Anon a leopard from Arden wood,
Fiercely flew at him where he stood.
When lo! from his hall, with leap and bound,
Sprang to the rescue a gallant hound.
First from the bear the ear he tore,
Then on the leopard his fangs he bore.
The Franks exclaim, "'Tis a stirring fray,
But who the victor none may say."
Karl awoke not—he slept alway.

LIX

The night wore by, the day dawn glowed,

Proudly the Emperor rose and rode,
Keenly and oft his host he scanned.
"Lords, my barons, survey this land,
See the passes so straight and steep:
To whom shall I trust the rear to keep?"
"To my stepson Roland:" Count Gan replied.
"Knight like him have you none beside."
The Emperor heard him with moody brow.
"A living demon," he said, "art thou;
Some mortal rage hath thy soul possessed.
To head my vanguard, who then were best?"
"Ogier," he answered, "the gallant Dane, Braver baron will none remain."

LX

Roland, when thus the choice he saw,
Spake, full knightly, by knightly law:
"Sir Stepsire, well may I hold thee dear,
That thou hast named me to guard the rear;
Karl shall lose not, if I take heed,
Charger, or palfrey, or mule or steed,
Hackney or sumpter that groom may lead;
The reason else our swords shall tell."
"It is sooth," said Gan, "and I know it well."

LXI

Fiercely once more Count Roland turned
To speak the scorn that in him burned.
"Ha! deem't thou, dastard, of dastard race,
That I shall drop the glove in place,
As in sight of Karl thou didst the mace?"

LXII

Then of his uncle he made demand:
"Yield me the bow that you hold in hand;
Never of me shall the tale be told,
As of Ganelon erst, that it failed my hold."
Sadly the Emperor bowed his head,
With working finger his beard he spread,
Tears in his own despite he shed.

LXIII

But soon Duke Naimes doth by him stand—
No better vassal in all his band.
"You have seen and heard it all, O sire,
Count Roland waxeth much in ire.
On him the choice for the rear-guard fell,
And where is baron could speed so well?
Yield him the bow that your arm hath bent,
And let good succor to him be lent."
The Emperor reached it forth, and lo!
He gave, and Roland received, the bow.

LXIV

"Fair Sir Nephew, I tell thee free.
Half of my host will I leave with thee."
"God be my judge," was the count's reply,
"If ever I thus my race belie.
But twenty thousand with me shall rest,
Bravest of all your Franks and best;
The mountain passes in safety tread,
While I breathe in life you have nought to dread."

LXV

Count Roland sprang to a hill-top's height,
And donned his peerless armor bright;
Laced his helm, for a baron made;
Girt Durindana, gold-hilted blade;
Around his neck he hung the shield,
With flowers emblazoned was the field;
Nor steed but Veillantif will ride;
And he grasped his lance with its pennon's pride.
White was the pennon, with rim of gold;
Low to the handle the fringes rolled.
Who are his lovers men now may see;
And the Franks exclaim, "We will follow thee."

LXVI

Roland hath mounted his charger on;
Sir Olivier to his side hath gone;
Gerein and his fellow in arms, Gerier;
Otho the Count, and Berengier,
Samson, and with him Anseis old,
Gerard of Roussillon, the bold.

Thither the Gascon Engelier sped;
"I go," said Turpin, "I pledge my head;"
"And I with thee," Count Walter said;
"I am Roland's man, to his service bound."
So twenty thousand knights were found.

LXVII

Roland beckoned Count Walter then.
"Take of our Franks a thousand men;
Sweep the heights and the passes clear,
That the Emperor's host may have nought to fear."
"I go," said Walter, "at your behest,"
And a thousand Franks around him pressed.
They ranged the heights and passes through,
Nor for evil tidings backward drew,
Until seven hundred swords outflew.
The Lord of Belferna's land, that day,
King Almaris met him in deadly fray.

LXVIII

Through Roncesvalles the march began;
Ogier, the baron, led the van;
For them was neither doubt nor fear,
Since Roland rested to guard the rear,
With twenty thousand in full array:
Theirs the battle—be God their stay.
Gan knows all; in his felon heart
Scarce hath he courage to play his part.

LXIX

High were the peaks, and the valleys deep,
The mountains wondrous dark and steep;
Sadly the Franks through the passes wound,
Full fifteen leagues did their tread resound.
To their own great land they are drawing nigh,
And they look on the fields of Gascony.
They think of their homes and their manors there,
Their gentle spouses and damsels fair.
Is none but for pity the tear lets fall;
But the anguish of Karl is beyond them all.
His sister's son at the gates of Spain
Smites on his heart, and he weeps amain.

LXX

On the Spanish marches the twelve abide,
With twice ten thousand Franks beside.
Fear to die have they none, nor care:
But Karl returns into France the fair;
Beneath his mantle his face he hides.
Naimes, the duke, at his bridle rides.
"Say, sire, what grief doth your heart oppress?"
"To ask," he said, "brings worse distress;
I cannot but weep for heaviness.
By Gan the ruin of France is wrought.
In an angel's vision, last night, methought
He wrested forth from my hand the spear:
'Twas he gave Roland to guard the rear.
God! should I lose him, my nephew dear,
Whom I left on a foreign soil behind,
His peer on earth I shall never find!"

LXXI

Karl the Great cannot choose but weep,
For him hath his host compassion deep;
And for Roland, a marvellous boding dread.
It was Gan, the felon, this treason bred;
He hath heathen gifts of silver and gold,
Costly raiment, and silken fold,
Horses and camels, and mules and steeds.—
But lo! King Marsil the mandate speeds,
To his dukes, his counts, and his vassals all,
To each almasour and amiral.
And so, before three suns had set,
Four hundred thousand in muster met.
Through Saragossa the tabors sound;
On the loftiest turret they raise Mahound:
Before him the Pagans bend and pray,
Then mount and fiercely ride away,
Across Cerdagna, by vale and height,
Till stream the banners of France in sight,
Where the peers of Carlemaine proudly stand,
And the shock of battle is hard at hand.

LXXII

Up to King Marsil his nephew rode,

With a mule for steed, and a staff for goad:
Free and joyous his accents fell,
"Fair Sir King, I have served you well.
So let my toils and my perils tell.
I have fought and vanquished for you in field.
One good boon for my service yield,—
Be it mine on Roland to strike the blow;
At point of lance will I lay him low;
And so Mohammed to aid me deign,
Free will I sweep the soil of Spain,
From the gorge of Aspra to Dourestan,
Till Karl grows weary such wars to plan.
Then for your life have you won repose."
King Marsil on him his glove bestows.

LXXIII

His nephew, while the glove he pressed,
Proudly once more the king addressed.
"Sire, you have crowned my dearest vow;
Name me eleven of your barons now,
In battle against the twelve to bide."
Falsaron first to the call replied;
Brother to Marsil, the king, was he;
"Fair Sir nephew, I go with thee;
In mortal combat we front, to-day,
The rear-guard of the grand array.
Foredoomed to die by our spears are they."

LXXIV

King Corsablis the next drew nigh,
Miscreant Monarch of Barbary;
Yet he spake like vassal staunch and bold—
Blench would he not for all God's gold.
The third, Malprimis, of Brigal's breed,
More fleet of foot than the fleetest steed,
Before King Marsil he raised his cry,
"On unto Roncesvalles I:
In mine encounter shall Roland die."

LXXV

An Emir of Balaguet came in place,
Proud of body, and fair of face;

Since first he sprang on steed to ride,
To wear his harness was all his pride;
For feats of prowess great laud he won;
Were he Christian, nobler baron none.
To Marsil came he, and cried aloud,
"Unto Roncesvalles mine arm is vowed;
May I meet with Roland and Olivier,
Or the twelve together, their doom is near.
The Franks shall perish in scathe and scorn;
Karl the Great, who is old and worn,
Weary shall grow his hosts to lead,
And the land of Spain be for ever freed."
King Marsil's thanks were his gracious meed.

LXXVI

A Mauritanian Almasour
(Breathed not in Spain such a felon Moor)
Stepped unto Marsil, with braggart boast:
"Unto Roncesvalles I lead my host,
Full twenty thousand, with lance and shield.
Let me meet with Roland upon the field,
Lifelong tears for him Karl shall yield."

LXXVII

Turgis, Count of Tortosa came.
Lord of the city, he bears its name.
Scathe to the Christian to him is best,
And in Marsil's presence he joined the rest.
To the king he said, "Be fearless found;
Peter of Rome cannot mate Mahound.
If we serve him truly, we win this day;
Unto Roncesvalles I ride straightway.
No power shall Roland from slaughter save:
See the length of my peerless glaive,
That with Durindana to cross I go,
And who the victor, ye then shall know.
Sorrow and shame old Karl shall share,
Crown on earth never more shall wear."

LXXVIII

Lord of Valtierra was Escremis;
Saracen he, and the region his;

He cried to Marsil, amid the throng,
"Unto Roncesvalles I spur along,
The pride of Roland in dust to tread,
Nor shall he carry from thence his head;
Nor Olivier who leads the band.
And of all the twelve is the doom at hand.
The Franks shall perish, and France be lorn,
And Karl of his bravest vassals shorn."

LXXIX

Estorgan next to Marsil hied,
With Estramarin his mate beside.
Hireling traitors and felons they.
Aloud cried Marsil, "My lords, away
Unto Roncesvalles, the pass to gain,
Of my people's captains ye shall be twain."
"Sire, full welcome to us the call,
On Roland and Olivier we fall.
None the twelve from their death shall screen,
The swords we carry are bright and keen;
We will dye them red with the hot blood's vent,
The Franks shall perish and Karl lament.
We will yield all France as your tribute meet.
Come, that the vision your eyes may greet;
The Emperor's self shall be at your feet."

LXXX

With speed came Margaris—lord was he
Of the land of Sibilie to the sea;
Beloved of dames for his beauty's sake,
Was none but joy in his look would take,
The goodliest knight of heathenesse,—
And he cried to the king over all the press,
"Sire, let nothing your heart dismay;
I will Roland in Roncesvalles slay,
Nor thence shall Olivier scathless come,
The peers await but their martyrdom.
The Emir of Primis bestowed this blade;
Look on its hilt, with gold inlaid:
It shall crimsoned be with the red blood's trace:
Death to the Franks, and to France disgrace!
Karl the old, with his beard so white,
Shall have pain and sorrow both day and night;

France shall be ours ere a year go by;
At Saint Denys' bourg shall our leaguer lie."
King Marsil bent him reverently.

LXXXI

Chernubles is there, from the valley black,
His long hair makes on the earth its track;
A load, when it lists him, he bears in play,
Which four mules' burthen would well outweigh.
Men say, in the land where he was born
Nor shineth sun, nor springeth corn,
Nor falleth rain, nor droppeth dew;
The very stones are of sable hue.
'Tis the home of demons, as some assert.
And he cried, "My good sword have I girt,
In Roncesvalles to dye it red.
Let Roland but in my pathway tread,
Trust ye to me that I strike him dead,
His Durindana beat down with mine.
The Franks shall perish and France decline."
Thus were mustered King Marsil's peers,
With a hundred thousand heathen spears.
In haste to press to the battle on,
In a pine-tree forest their arms they don.

LXXXII

They don their hauberks of Saracen mould,
Wrought for the most with a triple fold;
In Saragossa their helms were made;
Steel of Vienne was each girded blade;
Valentia lances and targets bright,
Pennons of azure and red and white.
They leave their sumpters and mules aside,
Leap on their chargers and serried ride.
Bright was the sunshine and fair the day;
Their arms resplendent gave back the ray.
Then sound a thousand clarions clear,
Till the Franks the mighty clangor hear,
"Sir Comrade," said Olivier, "I trow
There is battle at hand with the Saracen foe."
"God grant," said Roland, "it may be so.
Here our post for our king we hold;
For his lord the vassal bears heat and cold,

Toil and peril endures for him,
Risks in his service both life and limb.
For mighty blows let our arms be strung,
Lest songs of scorn be against us sung.
With the Christian is good, with the heathen ill:
No dastard part shall ye see me fill."

Part II
The Prelude of the Great Battle

Roncesvalles

LXXXIII

OLIVIER[1] clomb to a mountain height,
Glanced through the valley that stretched to right;
He saw advancing the Saracen men,
And thus to Roland he spake agen:
"What sights and sounds from the Spanish side,
White gleaming hauberks and helms in pride?
In deadliest wrath our Franks shall be!
Ganelon wrought this perfidy;
It was he who doomed us to hold the rear."
"Hush," said Roland; "O Olivier,
No word be said of my stepsire here."

LXXXIV

Sir Olivier to the peak hath clomb,
Looks far on the realm of Spain therefrom;
He sees the Saracen power arrayed,—
Helmets gleaming with gold inlaid,
Shields and hauberks in serried row,
Spears with pennons that from them flow.
He may not reckon the mighty mass,
So far their numbers his thought surpass.
All in bewilderment and dismay,
Down from the mountain he takes his way,
Comes to the Franks the tale to say.

LXXXV

"I have seen the paynim," said Olivier.
"Never on earth did such host appear:
A hundred thousand with targets bright,
With helmets laced and hauberks white,
Erect and shining their lances tall;
Such battle as waits you did ne'er befall.
My Lords of France, be God your stay,

That you be not vanquished in field to-day."
"Accursed," say the Franks, "be they who fly
None shall blench from the fear to die."

1: [The stanzas of the translation not found in the Oxford MS., but taken from the stanzas inserted from other versions by M. Gautier, are, as regards Part II. the following: Stanzas 113, 114, 115, 118, 119, 120, 122, 123, 126, 127, 139, 143, 144, 145, 146, 163.]

Roland's Pride

LXXXVI

"In mighty strength are the heathen crew," Olivier said, "and our Franks are few;
My comrade, Roland, sound on your horn;
Karl will hear and his host return."
"I were mad," said Roland, "to do such deed;
Lost in France were my glory's meed.
My Durindana shall smite full hard,
And her hilt be red to the golden guard.
The heathen felons shall find their fate;
Their death, I swear, in the pass they wait."

LXXXVII

"O Roland, sound on your ivory horn,
To the ear of Karl shall the blast be borne:
He will bid his legions backward bend,
And all his barons their aid will lend."
"Now God forbid it, for very shame,
That for me my kindred were stained with blame,
Or that gentle France to such vileness fell:
This good sword that hath served me well,
My Durindana such strokes shall deal,
That with blood encrimsoned shall be the steel.
By their evil star are the felons led;
They shall all be numbered among the dead."

LXXXVIII

"Roland, Roland, yet wind one blast!
Karl will hear ere the gorge be passed,
And the Franks return on their path full fast."
"I will not sound on mine ivory horn:

It shall never be spoken of me in scorn,
That for heathen felons one blast I blew;
I may not dishonor my lineage true.
But I will strike, ere this fight be o'er,
A thousand strokes and seven hundred more,
And my Durindana shall drip with gore.
Our Franks will bear them like vassals brave
The Saracens flock but to find a grave."

LXXXIX

"I deem of neither reproach nor stain.
I have seen the Saracen host of Spain,
Over plain and valley and mountain spread,
And the regions hidden beneath their tread.
Countless the swarm of the foe, and we
A marvellous little company."
Roland answered him, "All the more
My spirit within me burns therefore.
God and his angles of heaven defend
That France through me from her glory bend.
Death were better than fame laid low.
Our Emperor loveth a downright blow."

XC

Roland is daring and Olivier wise,
Both of marvellous high emprise;
On their chargers mounted, and girt in mail,
To the death in battle they will not quail.
Brave are the counts, and their words are high,
And the Pagans are fiercely riding nigh.
"See, Roland, see them, how close they are,
The Saracen foemen, and Karl how far!
Thou didst disdain on thy horn to blow.
Were the king but here we were spared this woe.
Look up through Aspra's dread defile,
Where standeth our doomed rear-guard the while;
They will do their last brave feat this day,
No more to mingle in mortal fray."
"Hush!" said Roland, "the craven tale—
Foul fall who carries a heart so pale;
Foot to foot shall we hold the place,
And rain our buffets and blows apace."

XCI

When Roland felt that the battle came,
Lion or leopard to him were tame;
He shouted aloud to his Franks, and then Called to his gentle compeer agen.
"My friend, my comrade, my Olivier,
The Emperor left us his bravest here;
Twice ten thousand he set apart,
And he knew among them no dastard heart.
For his lord the vassal must bear the stress
Of the winter's cold and the sun's excess—
Peril his flesh and his blood thereby:
Strike thou with thy good lance-point and I,
With Durindana, the matchless glaive
Which the king himself to my keeping gave,
That he who wears it when I lie cold
May say 'twas the sword of a vassal bold."

XCII

Archbishop Turpin, above the rest,
Spurred his steed to a jutting crest.
His sermon thus to the Franks he spake:—
"Lords, we are here for our monarch's sake;
Hold we for him, though our death should come;
Fight for the succor of Christendom.
The battle approaches—ye know it well,
For ye see the ranks of the infidel.
Cry mea culpa, and lowly kneel;
I will assoil you, your souls to heal.
In death ye are holy martyrs crowned."
The Franks alighted, and knelt on ground;
In God's high name the host he blessed,
And for penance gave them—to smite their best.

XCIII

The Franks arose from bended knee,
Assoiled, and from their sins set free;
The archbishop blessed them fervently:
Then each one sprang on his bounding barb,
Armed and laced in knightly garb,
Apparelled all for the battle line.
At last said Roland, "Companion mine,

Too well the treason is now displayed,
How Ganelon hath our band betrayed.
To him the gifts and the treasures fell;
But our Emperor will avenge us well.
King Marsil deemeth us bought and sold;
The price shall be with our good swords told."

XCIV

Roland rideth the passes through,
On Veillantif, his charger true;
Girt in his harness that shone full fair,
And baron-like his lance he bare.
The steel erect in the sunshine gleamed,
With the snow-white pennon that from it streamed;
The golden fringes beat on his hand.
Joyous of visage was he, and bland,
Exceeding beautiful of frame;
And his warriors hailed him with glad acclaim.
Proudly he looked on the heathen ranks,
Humbly and sweetly upon his Franks.
Courteously spake he, in words of grace—
"Ride, my barons, at gentle pace.
The Saracens here to their slaughter toil:
Reap we, to-day, a glorious spoil,
Never fell to Monarch of France the like."
At his words, the hosts are in act to strike.

XCV

Said Olivier, "Idle is speech, I trow;
Thou didst disdain on thy horn to blow.
Succor of Karl is far apart;
Our strait he knows not, the noble heart:
Not to him nor his host be blame;
Therefore, barons, in God's good name,
Press ye onward, and strike your best,
Make your stand on this field to rest;
Think but of blows, both to give and take,
Never the watchword of Karl forsake."
Then from the Franks resounded high—
"Montjoie!" Whoever had heard that cry
Would hold remembrance of chivalry.
Then ride they—how proudly, O God, they ride!—
With rowels dashed in their coursers' side.

Fearless, too, are their paynim foes.
Frank and Saracen, thus they close.

The Mellay

XCVI

King Marsil's nephew, Aelroth his name,
Vaunting in front of the battle came,
Words of scorn on our Franks he cast:
"Felon Franks, ye are met at last,
By your chosen guardian betrayed and sold,
By your king left madly the pass to hold.
This day shall France of her fame be shorn,
And from Karl the mighty his right arm torn."
Roland heard him in wrath and pain!—
He spurred his steed, he slacked the rein,
Drave at the heathen with might and main,
Shattered his shield and his hauberk broke,
Right to the breast-bone went the stroke;
Pierced him, spine and marrow through,
And the felon's soul from his body flew.
A moment reeled he upon his horse,
Then all heavily dropped the corse;
Wrenched was his neck as on earth he fell,
Yet would Roland scorn with scorn repel.
"Thou dastard! never hath Karl been mad,
Nor love for treason or traitors had.
To guard the passes he left us here,
Like a noble king and chevalier.
Nor shall France this day her fame forego.
Strike in, my barons; the foremost blow
Dealt in the fight doth to us belong:
We have the right and these dogs the wrong."

XCVII

A duke was there, named Falsaron,
Of the land of Dathan and Abiron;
Brother to Marsil, the king, was he;
More miscreant felon ye might not see.
Huge of forehead, his eyes between,
A span of a full half-foot, I ween.
Bitter sorrow was his, to mark
His nephew before him lie slain and stark.

Hastily came he from forth the press,
Raising the war-cry of heathenesse.
Braggart words from his lips were tost:
"This day the honour of France is lost."
Hotly Sir Olivier's anger stirs;
He pricked his steed with golden spurs,
Fairly dealt him a baron's blow,
And hurled him dead from the saddle-bow.
Buckler and mail were reft and rent,
And the pennon's flaps to his heart's blood went.
He saw the miscreant stretched on earth:
"Caitiff, thy threats are of little worth.
On, Franks! the felons before us fall;
Montjoie!"'Tis the Emperor's battle-call.

XCVIII

A king was there of a strange countrie,
King Corsablis of Barbary;
Before the Saracen van he cried,
"Right well may we in this battle bide;
Puny the host of the Franks I deem,
And those that front us, of vile esteem.
Not one by succor of Karl shall fly;
The day hath dawned that shall see them die."
Archbishop Turpin hath heard him well;
No mortal hates he with hate so fell:
He pricked with spurs of the fine gold wrought,
And in deadly passage the heathen sought;
Shield and corselet were pierced and riven,
And the lance's point through his body driven;
To and fro, at the mighty thrust,
He reeled, and then fell stark in dust.
Turpin looked on him, stretched on ground.
"Loud thou liest, thou heathen hound!
King Karl is ever our pride and stay;
Nor one of the Franks shall blench this day,
But your comrades here on the field shall lie;
I bring you tidings: ye all shall die.
Strike, Franks! remember your chivalry;
First blows are ours, high God be praised!"
Once more the cry, *"Montjoie!"*he raised.

XCIX

Gerein to Malprimis of Brigal sped,
Whose good shield stood him no whit in stead;
Its knob of crystal was cleft in twain,
And one half fell on the battle plain.
Right through the hauberk, and through the skin,
He drave the lance to the flesh within;
Prone and sudden the heathen fell,
And Satan carried his soul to hell.

C

Anon, his comrade in arms, Gerier,
Spurred at the Emir with levelled spear,
Severed his shield and his mail apart,—
The lance went through them, to pierce his heart.
Dead on the field at the blow he lay.
Olivier said, "'Tis a stirring fray."

CI

At the Almasour's shield Duke Samson rode—
With blazon of flowers and gold it glowed;
But nor shield nor cuirass availed to save,
When through heart and lungs the lance he drave.
Dead lies he, weep him who list or no.
The Archbishop said, "'Tis a baron's blow."

CII

Anseis cast his bridle free;
At Turgis, Tortosa's lord, rode he:
Above the centre his shield he smote,
Brake his mail with its double coat,
Speeding the lance with a stroke so true,
That the iron traversed his body through.
So lay he lifeless, at point of spear.
Said Roland, "Struck like a cavalier."

CIII

Engelier, Gascon of Bordeaux,
On his courser's mane let the bridle flow;
Smote Escremis, from Valtierra sprung,
Shattered the shield from his neck that swung;
On through his hauberk's vental pressed,
And betwixt his shoulders pierced his breast.

Forth from the saddle he cast him dead.
"So shall ye perish all," he said.

CIV

The heathen Estorgan was Otho's aim:
Right in front of his shield he came;
Rent its colors of red and white,
Pierced the joints of his harness bright,
Flung him dead from his bridle rein.
Said Otho, "Thus shall ye all be slain."

CV

Berengier smote Estramarin,
Planting his lance his heart within,
Through shivered shield and hauberk torn.
The Saracen to earth was borne
Amid a thousand of his train.
Thus ten of the heathen twelve are slain;
But two are left alive I wis—
Chernubles and Count Margaris.

CVI

Count Margaris was a valiant knight,
Stalwart of body, and lithe and light:
He spurred his steed unto Olivier,
Brake his shield at the golden sphere,
Pushed the lance till it touched his side;
God of his grace made it harmless glide.
Margaris rideth unhurt withal,
Sounding his trumpet, his men to call.

CVII

Mingled and marvellous grows the fray,
And in Roland's heart is no dismay.
He fought with lance while his good lance stood;
Fifteen encounters have strained its wood.
At the last it brake; then he grasped in hand
His Durindana, his naked brand.
He smote Chernubles' helm upon,
Where, in the centre, carbuncles shone:
Down through his coif and his fell of hair,
Betwixt his eyes came the falchion bare,

Down through his plated harness fine,
Down through the Saracen's chest and chine,
Down through the saddle with gold inlaid,
Till sank in the living horse the blade,
Severed the spine where no joint was found,
And horse and rider lay dead on ground.
"Caitiff, thou camest in evil hour;
To save thee passeth Mohammed's power.
Never to miscreants like to thee
Shall come the guerdon of victory."

CVIII

Count Roland rideth the battle through,
With Durindana, to cleave and hew;
Havoc fell of the foe he made,
Saracen corse upon corse was laid,
The field all flowed with the bright blood shed;
Roland, to corselet and arm, was red—
Red his steed to the neck and flank.
Nor is Olivier niggard of blows as frank;
Nor to one of the peers be blame this day,
For the Franks are fiery to smite and slay.
"Well fought," said Turpin, "our barons true!"
And he raised the war-cry, "Montjoie!" anew.

CIX

Through the storm of battle rides Olivier,
His weapon, the butt of his broken spear,
Down upon Malseron's shield he beat,
Where flowers and gold emblazoned meet,
Dashing his eyes from forth his head:
Low at his feet were the brains bespread,
And the heathen lies with seven hundred dead!
Estorgus and Turgin next he slew,
Till the shaft he wielded in splinters flew.
"Comrade!" said Roland, "what makest thou?
Is it time to fight with a truncheon now?
Steel and iron such strife may claim;
Where is thy sword, Hauteclere by name,
With its crystal pommel and golden guard?"
"Of time to draw it I stood debarred,
Such stress was on me of smiting hard."

CX

Then drew Sir Olivier forth his blade,
As had his comrade Roland prayed.
He proved it in knightly wise straightway,
On the heathen Justin of Val Ferrée.
At a stroke he severed his head in two,
Cleft him body and harness through;
Down through the gold-incrusted selle,
To the horse's chine, the falchion fell:
Dead on the sward lay man and steed.
Said Roland, "My brother, henceforth, indeed
The Emperor loves us for such brave blows!"
Around them the cry of *"Montjoie!"*arose.

CXI

Gerein his Sorel rides; Gerier
Is mounted on his own Pass-deer:
The reins they slacken, and prick full well
Against the Saracen Timozel.
One smites his cuirass, and one his shield,
Break in his body the spears they wield;
They cast him dead on the fallow mould.
I know not, nor yet to mine ear was told,
Which of the twain was more swift and bold.
Then Espreveris, Borel's son,
By Engelier unto death was done.
Archbishop Turpin slew Siglorel,
The wizard, who erst had been in hell,
By Jupiter thither in magic led.
"Well have we 'caped," the archbishop said:
"Crushed is the caitiff," Count Roland replies,
"Olivier, brother, such strokes I prize!"

CXII

Furious waxeth the fight, and strange;
Frank and heathen their blows exchange;
While these defend, and those assail,
And their lances broken and bloody fail.
Ensign and pennon are rent and cleft,
And the Franks of their fairest youth bereft,
Who will look on mother or spouse no more,
Or the host that waiteth the gorge before.

Karl the Mighty may weep and wail;
What skilleth sorrow, if succour fail?
An evil service was Gan's that day,
When to Saragossa he bent his way,
His faith and kindred to betray.
But a doom thereafter awaited him—
Amerced in Aix, of life and limb,
With thirty of his kin beside,
To whom was hope of grace denied.

CXIII

King Almaris with his band, the while,
Wound through a marvellous strait defile,
Where doth Count Walter the heights maintain
And the passes that lie at the gates of Spain.
"Gan, the traitor, hath made of us,"
Said Walter, "a bargain full dolorous."

CXIV

King Almaris to the mount hath clomb,
With sixty thousand of heathendom.
In deadly wrath on the Franks they fall,
And with furious onset smite them all:
Routed, scattered or slain they lie.
Then rose the wrath of Count Walter high;
His sword he drew, his helm he laced,
Slowly in front of the line he paced,
And with evil greeting his foeman faced.

CXV

Right on his foemen doth Walter ride,
And the heathen assail him on every side;
Broken down was his shield of might,
Bruised and pierced was his hauberk white;
Four lances at once did his body wound:
No longer bore he—four times he swooned;
He turned perforce from the field aside,
Slowly adown the mount he hied,
And aloud to Roland for succour cried.

CXVI

Wild and fierce is the battle still:

Roland and Olivier fight their fill;
The Archbishop dealeth a thousand blows
Nor knoweth one of the peers repose;
The Franks are fighting commingled all,
And the foe in hundreds and thousands fall;
Choice have they none but to flee or die,
Leaving their lives despighteously.
Yet the Franks are reft of their chivalry,
Who will see nor parent nor kindred fond,
Nor Karl who waits them the pass beyond.

CXVII

Now a wondrous storm o'er France hath passed,
With thunder-stroke and whirlwind's blast;
Rain unmeasured, and hail, there came,
Sharp and sudden the lightning's flame;
And an earthquake ran—the sooth I say,
From Besançon city to Wissant Bay;
From Saint Michael's Mount to thy shrine, Cologne,
House unrifted was there none.
And a darkness spread in the noontide high—
No light, save gleams from the cloven sky.
On all who saw came a mighty fear.
They said, "The end of the world is near."
Alas, they spake but with idle breath,—
'Tis the great lament for Roland's death.

CXVIII

Dread are the omens and fierce the storm,
Over France the signs and wonders swarm:
From noonday on to the vesper hour,
Night and darkness alone have power;
Nor sun nor moon one ray doth shed,
Who sees it ranks him among the dead.
Well may they suffer such pain and woe,
When Roland, captain of all, lies low.
Never on earth hath his fellow been,
To slay the heathen or realms to win.

CXIX

Stern and stubborn is the fight;
Staunch are the Franks with the sword to smite;

Nor is there one but whose blade is red,
*"Montjoie!"*is ever their war-cry dread.
Through the land they ride in hot pursuit,
And the heathens feel 'tis a fierce dispute.

CXX

In wrath and anguish, the heathen race
Turn in flight from the field their face;
The Franks as hotly behind them strain.
Then might ye look on a cumbered plain:
Saracens stretched on the green grass bare,
Helms and hauberks that shone full fair,
Standards riven and arms undone:
So by the Franks was the battle won.
The foremost battle that then befell—
O God, what sorrow remains to tell!

CXXI

With heart and prowess the Franks have stood;
Slain was the heathen multitude;
Of a hundred thousand survive not two:
The archbishop crieth, "O staunch and true!
Written it is in the Frankish geste,
That our Emperor's vassals shall bear them best."
To seek their dead through the field they press,
And their eyes drop tears of tenderness:
Their hearts are turned to their kindred dear.
Marsil the while with his host is near.

CXXII

Distraught was Roland with wrath and pain;
Distraught were the twelve of Carlemaine—
With deadly strokes the Franks have striven,
And the Saracen horde to the slaughter given;
Of a hundred thousand escaped but one—
King Margaris fled from the field alone;
But no disgrace in his flight he bore—
Wounded was he by lances four.
To the side of Spain did he take his way,
To tell King Marsil what chanced that day.

CXXIII

Alone King Margaris left the field,
With broken spear and piercèd shield,
Scarce half a foot from the knob remained,
And his brand of steel with blood was stained;
On his body were four lance wounds to see:
Were he Christian, what a baron he!
He sped to Marsil his tale to tell;
Swift at the feet of the king he fell:
"Ride, sire, on to the field forthright,
You will find the Franks in an evil plight;
Full half and more of their host lies slain,
And sore enfeebled who yet remain;
Nor arms have they in their utmost need:
To crush them now were an easy deed,"
Marsil listened with heart aflame.
Onward in search of the Franks he came.

CXXIV

King Marsil on through the valley sped,
With the mighty host he has marshallèd.
Twice ten battalions the king arrayed:
Helmets shone, with their gems displayed.
Bucklers and braided hauberks bound,
Seven thousand trumpets the onset sound;
Dread was the clangor afar to hear.
Said Roland, "My brother, my Olivier,
Gan the traitor our death hath sworn,
Nor may his treason be now forborne.
To our Emperor vengeance may well belong,—
To us the battle fierce and strong;
Never hath mortal beheld the like.
With my Durindana I trust to strike;
And thou, my comrade, with thy Hauteclere:
We have borne them gallantly otherwhere.
So many fields 'twas ours to gain,
They shall sing against us no scornful strain."

CXXV

As the Franks the heathen power descried,
Filling the champaign from side to side,
Loud unto Roland they made their call,
And to Olivier and their captains all,
Spake the archbishop as him became:

"O barons, think not one thought of shame;
Fly not, for sake of our God I pray.
That on you be chaunted no evil lay.
Better by far on the field to die;
For in sooth I deem that our end is nigh.
But in holy Paradise ye shall meet,
And with the innocents be your seat."
The Franks exult his words to hear,
And the cry *"Montjoie;"*resoundeth clear.

CXXVI

King Marsil on the hill-top bides,
While Grandonie with his legion rides.
He nails his flag with three nails of gold:
"Ride ye onwards, my barons bold."
Then loud a thousand clarions rang.
And the Franks exclaimed as they heard the clang—
"O God, our Father, what cometh on!
Woe that we ever saw Ganelon:
Foully, by treason, he us betrayed."
Gallantly then the archbishop said,
"Soldiers and lieges of God are ye,
And in Paradise shall your guerdon be.
To lie on its holy flowerets fair,
Dastard never shall enter there."
Say the Franks, "We will win it every one."
The archbishop bestoweth his benison.
Proudly mounted they at his word,
And, like lions chafed, at the heathen spurred.

CXXVII

Thus doth King Marsil divide his men:
He keeps around him battalions ten.
As the Franks the other ten descry,
"What dark disaster," they said, "is nigh?
What doom shall now our peers betide?"
Archbishop Turpin full well replied.
"My cavaliers, of God the friends,
Your crown of glory to-day He sends,
To rest on the flowers of Paradise,
That never were won by cowardice."
The Franks made answer, "No cravens we,
Nor shall we gainsay God's decree;

Against the enemy yet we hold,—
Few may we be, but staunch and bold."
Their spurs against the foe they set,
Frank and paynim—once more they met.

CXXVIII

A heathen of Saragossa came.
Full half the city was his to claim.
It was Climorin: hollow of heart was he,
He had plighted with Gan in perfidy,
What time each other on mouth they kissed,
And he gave him his helm and amethyst.
He would bring fair France from her glory down
And from the Emperor wrest his crown.
He sate upon Barbamouche, his steed,
Than hawk or swallow more swift in speed.
Pricked with the spur, and the rein let flow,
To strike at the Gascon of Bordeaux,
Whom shield nor cuirass availed to save.
Within his harness the point he drave,
The sharp steel on through his body passed,
Dead on the field was the Gascon cast.
Said Climorin, "Easy to lay them low:
Strike in, my pagans, give blow for blow."
For their champion slain, the Franks cry woe.

CXXIX

Sir Roland called unto Olivier,
"Sir Comrade, dead lieth Engelier; Braver knight had we none than he."
"God grant," he answered, "revenge to me."
His spurs of gold to his horse he laid,
Grasping Hauteclere with his bloody blade.
Climorin smote he, with stroke so fell,
Slain at the blow was the infidel.
Whose soul the Enemy bore away.
Then turned he, Alphaien, the duke, to slay;
From Escababi the head he shore,
And Arabs seven to the earth he bore.
Saith Roland, "My comrade is much in wrath;
Won great laud by my side he hath;
Us such prowess to Karl endears.
Fight on, fight ever, my cavaliers."

CXXX

Then came the Saracen Valdabrun,
Of whom King Marsil was foster-son.
Four hundred galleys he owned at sea,
And of all the mariners lord was he.
Jerusalem erst he had falsely won,
Profaned the temple of Solomon,

Slaying the patriarch at the fount.
'Twas he who in plight unto Gan the count,
His sword with a thousand coins bestowed.
Gramimond named he the steed he rode,
Swifter than ever was falcon's flight;
Well did he prick with the sharp spurs bright,
To strike Duke Samson, the fearless knight.
Buckler and cuirass at once he rent,
And his pennon's flaps through his body sent;
Dead he cast him, with levelled spear.
"Strike, ye heathens; their doom is near."
The Franks cry woe for their cavalier.

CXXXI

When Roland was ware of Samson slain,
Well may you weet of his bitter pain.
With bloody spur he his steed impelled,
While Durindana aloft he held,
The sword more costly than purest gold;
And he smote, with passion uncontrolled,
On the heathen's helm, with its jewelled crown,—
Through head, and cuirass, and body down,
And the saddle embossed with gold, till sank
The griding steel in the charger's flank;
Blame or praise him, the twain he slew.
"A fearful stroke!" said the heathen crew.
"I shall never love you," Count Roland cried.
"With you are falsehood and evil pride."

CXXXII

From Afric's shore, of Afric's brood,
Malquiant, son of King Malcus stood;
Wrought of the beaten gold, his vest
Flamed to the sun over all the rest.

Saut-perdu hath he named his horse,
Fleeter than ever was steed in course;
He smote Anseis upon the shield,
Cleft its vermeil and azure field,
Severed the joints of his hauberk good,
In his body planted both steel and wood.
Dead he lieth, his day is o'er,
And the Franks the loss of their peer deplore.

CXXXIII

Turpin rideth the press among;
Never such priest the Mass had sung,
Nor who hath such feats of his body done.
"God send thee," he said, "His malison!
For the knight thou slewest my heart is sore."
He sets the spur to his steed once more,
Smites the shield in Toledo made,
And the heathen low on the sward is laid.

CXXXIV

Forth came the Saracen Grandonie,
Bestriding his charger Marmorie;
He was son unto Cappadocia's king,
And his steed was fleeter than bird on wing.
He let the rein on his neck decline,
And spurred him hard against Count Gerein,
Shattered the vermeil shield he bore,
And his armor of proof all open tore;
In went the pennon, so fierce the shock,
And he cast him, dead, on a lofty rock;
Then he slew his comrade in arms, Gerier,
Guy of Saint Anton and Berengier.
Next lay the great Duke Astor prone.
The Lord of Valence upon the Rhone.
Among the heathen great joy he cast.
Say the Franks, lamenting, "We perish fast."

CXXXV

Count Roland graspeth his bloody sword:
Well hath he heard how the Franks deplored;
His heart is burning within his breast.
"God's malediction upon thee rest!

Right dearly shalt thou this blood repay."
His war-horse springs to the spur straightway,
And they come together—go down who may.

CXXXVI

A gallant captain was Grandonie,
Great in arms and in chivalry.
Never, till then, had he Roland seen,
But well he knew him by form and mien,
By the stately bearing and glance of pride,
And a fear was on him he might not hide.
Fain would he fly, but it skills not here;
Roland smote him with stroke so sheer,
That it cleft the nasal his helm beneath,
Slitting nostril and mouth and teeth,
Cleft his body and mail of plate,
And the gilded saddle whereon he sate,
Deep the back of the charger through:
Beyond all succor the twain he slew.
From the Spanish ranks a wail arose,
And the Franks exult in their champion's blows.

CXXXVII

The battle is wondrous yet, and dire,
And the Franks are cleaving in deadly ire;
Wrists and ribs and chines afresh,
And vestures, in to the living flesh;
On the green grass streaming the bright blood ran,
"O mighty country, Mahound thee ban!
For thy sons are strong over might of man."
And one and all unto Marsil cried, "Hither, O king, to our succor ride."

CXXXVIII

Marvellous yet is the fight around,
The Franks are thrusting with spears embrowned;
And great the carnage there to ken,
Slain and wounded and bleeding men,
Flung, each by other, on back or face.
Hold no more can the heathen race.
They turn and fly from the field apace;
The Franks as hotly pursue in chase.

CXXXIX

Knightly the deeds by Roland done,
Respite or rest for his Franks is none;
Hard they ride on the heathen rear,
At trot or gallop in full career.
With crimson blood are their bodies stained,
And their brands of steel are snapped or strained;
And when the weapons their hands forsake,
Then unto trumpet and horn they take.
Serried they charge, in power and pride;
And the Saracens cry—"May ill betide
The hour we came on this fatal track!"
So on our host do they turn the back,
The Christians cleaving them as they fled,
Till to Marsil stretcheth the line of dead.

CXL

King Marsil looks on his legions strown,
He bids the clarion blast be blown,
With all his host he onward speeds:
Abîme the heathen his vanguard leads.
No felon worse in the host than he,
Black of hue as a shrivelled pea;
He believes not in Holy Mary's Son;
Full many an evil deed hath done.
Treason and murder he prizeth more
Than all the gold of Galicia's shore;
Men never knew him to laugh nor jest,
But brave and daring among the best—
Endeared to the felon king therefor;
And the dragon flag of his race he bore.
The archbishop loathed him—full well he might,—
And as he saw him he yearned to smite,
To himself he speaketh, low and quick,
"This heathen seems much a heretic;
I go to slay him, or else to die,
For I love not dastards or dastardy."

CXLI

The archbishop began the fight once more;
He rode the steed he had won of yore,
When in Denmark Grossaille the king he slew.

Fleet the charger, and fair to view:
His feet were small and fashioned fine,
Long the flank, and high the chine,
Chest and croup full amply spread,
With taper ear and tawny head,
And snow-white tail and yellow mane:
To seek his peer on earth were vain.
The archbishop spurred him in fiery haste,
And, on the moment Abîme he faced,
Came down on the wondrous shield the blow,
The shield with amethysts all aglow,
Carbuncle and topaz, each priceless stone;
'Twas once the Emir Galafir's own;
A demon gave it in Metas vale;
But when Turpin smote it might nought avail—
From side to side did his weapon trace,
And he flung him dead in an open space.
Say the Franks, "Such deeds beseem the brave.
Well the archbishop his cross can save."

CXLII

Count Roland Olivier bespake:
"Sir comrade, dost thou my thought partake?
A braver breathes not this day on earth
Than our archbishop in knightly worth.
How nobly smites he with lance and blade!"
Saith Olivier, "Yea, let us yield him aid;"
And the Franks once more the fight essayed.
Stern and deadly resound the blows.
For the Christians, alas, 'tis a tale of woes!

CXLIII

The Franks of France of their arms are reft,
Three hundred blades alone are left.
The glittering helms they smite and shred,
And cleave asunder full many a head;
Through riven helm and hauberk rent,
Maim head and foot and lineament.
"Disfigured are we," the heathens cry.
"Who guards him not hath but choice to die."
Right unto Marsil their way they take.
"Help, O king, for your people's sake!"
King Marsil heard their cry at hand,

"Mahound destroy thee, O mighty land;
Thy race came hither to crush mine own.
What cities wasted and overthrown,
Doth Karl of the hoary head possess!
Rome and Apulia his power confess,
Constantinople and Saxony;
Yet better die by the Franks than flee.
On, Saracens! recreant heart be none;
If Roland live, we are all foredone."

CXLIV

Then with the lance did the heathens smite
On shield and gleaming helmet bright;
Of steel and iron arose the clang,
Towards heaven the flames and sparkles sprang;
Brains and blood on the champaign flowed;
But on Roland's heart is a dreary load,
To see his vassals lie cold in death;
His gentle France he remembereth,
And his uncle, the good King Carlemaine;
And the spirit within him groans for pain.

CXLV

Count Roland entered within the prease,
And smote full deadly without surcease;
While Durindana aloft he held,
Hauberk and helm he pierced and quelled,
Intrenching body and hand and head.
The Saracens lie by the hundred dead,
And the heathen host is discomfited.

CXLVI

Valiantly Olivier, otherwhere,
Brandished on high his sword Hauteclere—
Save Durindana, of swords the best.
To the battle proudly he him addressed.
His arms with the crimson blood were dyed.
"God, what a vassal!" Count Roland cried.
"O gentle baron, so true and leal,
This day shall set on our love the seal!
The Emperor cometh to find us dead,
For ever parted and severèd.

France never looked on such woful day;
Nor breaths a Frank but for us will pray,—
From the cloister cells shall the orisons rise,
And our souls find rest in Paradise."
Olivier heard him, amid the throng,
Spurred his steed to his side along.
Saith each to other, "Be near me still;
We will die together, if God so will."

CXLVII

Roland and Olivier then are seen
To lash and hew with their falchions keen;
With his lance the archbishop thrusts and slays,
And the numbers slain we may well appraise;
In charter and writ is the tale expressed—
Beyond four thousand, saith the geste.
In four encounters they sped them well:
Dire and grievous the fifth befell.
The cavaliers of the Franks are slain
All but sixty, who yet remain;
God preserved them, that ere they die,
They may sell their lives full hardily.

The Horn

CXLVIII

As Roland gazed on his slaughtered men,
He bespake his gentle compeer agen:
"Ah, dear companion, may God thee shield!
Behold, our bravest lie dead on field!
Well may we weep for France the fair,
Of her noble barons despoiled and bare.
Had he been with us, our king and friend!
Speak, my brother, thy counsel lend,—
How unto Karl shall we tidings send?"
Olivier answered, "I wist not how.
Liefer death than be recreant now."

CXLIX

"I will sound," said Roland, "upon my horn,
Karl, as he passeth the gorge, to warn.
The Franks, I know, will return apace."

Said Olivier, "Nay, it were foul disgrace
On your noble kindred to wreak such wrong;
They would bear the stain their lifetime long.
Erewhile I sought it, and sued in vain;
But to sound thy horn thou wouldst not deign.
Not now shall mine assent be won,
Nor shall I say it is knightly done.
Lo! both your arms are streaming red."
"In sooth," said Roland, "good strokes I sped."

CL

Said Roland, "Our battle goes hard, I fear;
I will sound my horn that Karl may hear."
"'Twere a deed unknightly," said Olivier;
"Thou didst disdain when I sought and prayed:
Saved had we been with cur Karl to aid;
Unto him and his host no blame shall be:
By this my beard, might I hope to see
My gentle sister Alda's face,
Thou shouldst never hold her in thine embrace."

CLI

"Ah, why on me doth thine anger fall?"
"Roland, 'tis thou who hast wrought it all.
Valor and madness are scarce allied,—
Better discretion than daring pride.
All of thy folly our Franks lie slain,
Nor shall render service to Karl again,
As I implored thee, if thou hadst done,
The king had come and the field were won;
Marsil captive, or slain, I trow.
Thy daring, Roland, hath wrought our woe.
No service more unto Karl we pay,
That first of men till the judgment day;
Thou shalt die, and France dishonored be Ended our loyal company—
A woful parting this eve shall see."

CLII

Archbishop Turpin their strife hath heard,
His steed with the spurs of gold he spurred,
And thus rebuked them, riding near:

"Sir Roland, and thou, Sir Olivier,
Contend not, in God's great name, I crave.
Not now availeth the horn to save;
And yet behoves you to wind its call,—
Karl will come to avenge our fall,
Nor hence the foemen in joyance wend.
The Franks will all from their steeds descend;
When they find us slain and martyred here,
They will raise our bodies on mule and bier,
And, while in pity aloud they weep,
Lay us in hallowed earth they weep,
Nor wolf nor boar on our limbs shall feed."
Said Roland, "Yea, 'tis a goodly rede."

CLIII

Then to his lips the horn he drew,
And full and lustily he blew.
The mountain peaks soared high around;
Thirty leagues was borne the sound.
Karl hath heard it, and all his band.
"Our men have battle," he said, "on hand."
Ganelon rose in front and cried,
"If another spake, I would say he lied."

CLIV

With deadly travail, in stress and pain,
Count Roland sounded the mighty strain.
Forth from his mouth the bright blood sprang,
And his temples burst for the very pang.
On and onward was borne the blast,
Till Karl hath heard as the gorge he passed,
And Naimes and all his men of war.
"It is Roland's horn," said the Emperor,
"And, save in battle, he had not blown."

"Battle," said Ganelon, "is there none.
Old are you grown—all white and hoar;
Such words bespeak you a child once more.
Have you, then, forgotten Roland's pride,
Which I marvel God should so long abide,
How he captured Noples without your hest?
Forth from the city the heathen pressed,
To your vassal Roland they battle gave,—

He slew them all with the trenchant glaive,
Then turned the waters upon the plain,
That trace of blood might none remain.
He would sound all day for a single hare:
'Tis a jest with him and his fellows there;
For who would battle against him dare?
Ride onward—wherefore this chill delay?
Your mighty land is yet far away."

CLV

On Roland's mouth is the bloody stain,
Burst asunder his temple's vein;
His horn he soundeth in anguish drear;
King Karl and the Franks around him hear.
Said Karl, "That horn is long of breath."
Said Naimes, "'Tis Roland who travaileth.
There is battle yonder by mine avow.
He who betrayed him deceives you now.
Arm, sire; ring forth your rallying cry,
And stand your noble household by;
For you hear your Roland in jeopardy."

CLVI

The king commands to sound the alarm.
To the trumpet the Franks alight and arm;
With casque and corselet and gilded brand,
Buckler and stalwart lance in hand,
Pennons of crimson and white and blue,
The barons leap on their steeds anew,
And onward spur the passes through;
Nor is there one but to other saith,
"Could we reach but Roland before his death, Blows would we strike for him grim and great."
Ah! what availeth!—'tis all too late.

CLVII

The evening passed into brightening dawn.
Against the sun their harness shone;
From helm and hauberk glanced the rays,
And their painted bucklers seemed all ablaze.
The Emperor rode in wrath apart.
The Franks were moody and sad of heart;

Was none but dropped the bitter tear,
For they thought of Roland with deadly fear.—
Then bade the Emperor take and bind
Count Gan, and had him in scorn consigned
To Besgun, chief of his kitchen train.
"Hold me this felon," he said, "in chain."
Then full a hundred round him pressed,
Of the kitchen varlets the worst and best;
His beard upon lip and chin they tore,
Cuffs of the fist each dealt him four,
Roundly they beat him with rods and staves;
Then around his neck those kitchen knaves
Flung a fetterlock fast and strong,
As ye lead a bear in a chain along;
On a beast of burthen the count they cast,
Till they yield him back to Karl at last.

CLVIII

Dark, vast, and high the summits soar,
The waters down through the valleys pour,
The trumpets sound in front and rear,
And to Roland's horn make answer clear.
The Emperor rideth in wrathful mood,
The Franks in grievous solicitude;
Nor one among them can stint to weep,
Beseeching God that He Roland keep,
Till they stand beside him upon the field,
To the death together their arms to wield.
Ah, timeless succor, and all in vain!
Too long they tarried, too late they strain.

CLIX

Onward King Karl in his anger goes;
Down on his harness his white beard flows.
The barons of France spur hard behind;
But on all there presseth one grief of mind—
That they stand not beside Count Roland then,
As he fronts the power of the Saracen.
Were he hurt in fight, who would then survive?
Yet three score barons around him strive.
And what a sixty! Nor chief nor king
Had ever such gallant following.

CLX

Roland looketh to hill and plain,
He sees the lines of his warriors slain,
And he weeps like a noble cavalier,
"Barons of France, God hold you dear,
And take you to Paradise's bowers,
Where your souls may lie on the holy flowers;
Braver vassals on earth were none,
So many kingdoms for Karl ye won;
Years a-many your ranks I led,
And for end like this were ye nurturèd.
Land of France, thou art soothly fair;
To-day thou liest bereaved and bare;
It was all for me your lives you gave,
And I was helpless to shield or save.
May the great God save you who cannot lie.
Olivier, brother, I stand thee by;
I die of grief, if I 'scape unslain:
In, brother, in to the fight again."

CLXI

Once more pressed Roland within the fight,
His Durindana he grasped with might;
Faldron of Pui did he cleave in two,
And twenty-four of their bravest slew.
Never was man on such vengeance bound;
And, as flee the roe-deer before the hound,
So in face of Roland the heathen flee.
Saith Turpin, "Right well this liketh me.
Such prowess a cavalier befits,
Who harness wears, and on charger sits;
In battle shall he be strong and great,
Or I prize him not at four deniers' rate;
Let him else be monk in a cloister cell,
His daily prayers for our souls to tell."
Cries Roland, "Smite them, and do not spare."
Down once more on the foe they bear,
But the Christian ranks grow thinned and rare.

CLXII

Who knoweth ransom is none for him,
Maketh in battle resistance grim;

The Franks like wrathful lions strike,
But King Marsil beareth him baron-like;
He bestrideth his charger, Gaignon hight,
And he pricketh him hard, Sir Beuve to smite,
The Lord of Beaune and of Dijon town,
Through shield and cuirass, he struck him down:
Dead past succor of man he lay.
Ivon and Ivor did Marsil slay;
Gerard of Roussillon beside.
Not far was Roland, and loud he cried,
"Be thou forever in God's disgrace,
Who hast slain my fellows before my face,
Before we part thou shalt blows essay,
And learn the name of my sword to-day.
Down, at the word, came the trenchant brand,
And from Marsil severed his good right hand:
With another stroke, the head he won
Of the fair-haired Jurfalez, Marsil's son.
"Help us, Mahound!" say the heathen train,
"May our gods avenge us on Carlemaine!
Such daring felons he hither sent,
Who will hold the field till their lives be spent."
"Let us flee and save us," cry one and all,
Unto flight a hundred thousand fall,
Nor can aught the fugitives recall.

CLXIII

But what availeth? though Marsil fly,
His uncle, the Algalif, still is nigh;
Lord of Carthagena is he,
Of Alferna's shore and Garmalie,
And of Ethiopia, accursed land:
The black battalions at his command,
With nostrils huge and flattened ears,
Outnumber fifty thousand spears;
And on they ride in haste and ire,
Shouting their heathen war-cry dire.
"At last," said Roland, "the hour is come,
Here receive we our martyrdom;
Yet strike with your burnished brands—accursed
Who sells not his life right dearly first;
In life or death be your thought the same,
That gentle France be not brought to shame.
When the Emperor hither his steps hath bent,

And he sees the Saracens's chastisement,
Fifteen of their dead against our one,
He will breathe on our souls his bension."

Death of Olivier

CLXIV

WHENRoland saw the abhorrèd race,
Than blackest ink more black in face,
Who have nothing white but the teeth alone,
"Now," he said, "it is truly shown,
That the hour of our death is close at hand.
Fight, my Franks, 'tis my last command."
Said Olivier, "Shame is the laggard's due."
And at his word they engage anew.

CLXV

When the heathen saw that the Franks were few,
Heart and strength from the sight they drew;
They said, "The Emperor hath the worse."
The Algalif sat on a sorrel horse;
He pricked with spurs of the gold refined,
Smote Olivier in the back behind.
On through his harness the lance he pressed,
Till the steel came out at the baron's breast.
"Thou hast it!" the Algalif, vaunting, cried,
"Ye were sent by Karl in an evil tide.
Of his wrongs against us he shall not boast;
In thee alone I avenge our host."

CLXVI

Olivier felt the deadly wound,
Yet he grasped Hauteclere, with its steel embrowned;
He smote on the Algalif's crest of gold,—
Gem and flowers to the earth were rolled;
Clave his head to the teeth below,
And struck him dead with the single blow.
"All evil, caitiff, thy soul pursue.
Full well our Emperor's loss I knew;
But for thee—thou goest not hence to boast
To wife or dame on thy natal coast,
Of one denier from the Emperor won,

Or of scathe to me or to others done."
Then Roland's aid he called upon.

CLXVII

Olivier knoweth him hurt to death;
The more to vengeance he hasteneth;
Knightly as ever his arms he bore,
Staves of lances and shields he shore;
Sides and shoulders and hands and feet,—
Whose eyes soever the sight would greet,
How the Saracens all disfigured lie,
Corpse upon corpse, each other by,
Would think upon gallant deeds; nor yet
Doth he the war-cry of Karl forget—
"Montjoie!" he shouted, shrill and clear;
Then called he Roland, his friend and peer,
"Sir, my comrade, anear me ride;
This day of dolor shall us divide."

CLXVIII

Roland looked Olivier in the face,—
Ghastly paleness was there to trace;
Forth from his wound did the bright blood flow,
And rain in showers to the earth below.
"O God!" said Roland, "is this the end
Of all thy prowess, my gentle friend?
Nor know I whither to bear me now:
On earth shall never be such as thou.
Ah, gentle France, thou art overthrown,
Reft of thy bravest, despoiled and lone;
The Emperor's loss is full indeed!"
At the word he fainted upon his steed.

CLXIX

See Roland there on his charger swooned,
Olivier smitten with his death wound.
His eyes from bleeding are dimmed and dark,
Nor mortal, near or far, can mark;
And when his comrade beside him pressed,
Fiercely he smote on his golden crest;
Down to the nasal the helm he shred,
But passed no further, nor pierced his head.

Roland marvelled at such a blow,
And thus bespake him soft and low:
"Hast thou done it, my comrade, wittingly?
Roland who loves thee so dear, am I,
Thou hast no quarrel with me to seek?"
Olivier answered, "I hear thee speak,
But I see thee not. God seeth thee.
Have I struck thee, brother? Forgive it me."
"I am not hurt, O Olivier;
And in sight of God, I forgive thee here."
Then each to other his head has laid,
And in love like this was their parting made.

CLXX

Olivier feeleth his throe begin;
His eyes are turning his head within,
Sight and hearing alike are gone.
He alights and couches the earth upon;
His *Mea Culpa*aloud he cries,
And his hands in prayer unto God arise,
That he grant him Paradise to share,
That he bless King Karl and France the fair,
His brother Roland o'er all mankind;
Then sank his heart, and his head declined,
Stretched at length on the earth he lay,—
So passed Sir Olivier away.
Roland was left to weep alone:
Man so woful hath ne'er been known.

CLXXI

When Roland saw that life had fled,
And with face to earth his comrade dead,
He thus bewept him, soft and still:
"Ah, friend, thy prowess wrought thee ill!
So many days and years gone by
We lived together, thou and I:
And thou hast never done me wrong,
Nor I to thee, our lifetime long.
Since thou art dead, to live is pain."
He swooned on Veillantif again,
Yet may not unto earth be cast,
His golden stirrups held him fast.

CLXXII

When passed away had Roland's swoon,
With sense restored, he saw full soon
What ruin lay beneath his view.
His Franks have perished all save two—
The archbishop and Walter of Hum alone.
From the mountain-side hath Walter flown,
Where he met in battle the bands of Spain,
And the heathen won and his men were slain
In his own despite to the vale he came;
Called unto Roland, his aid to claim.
"Ah, count! brave gentleman, gallant peer!
Where art thou? With thee I know not fear.
I am Walter, who vanquished Maelgut of yore,
Nephew to Drouin, the old and hoar.
For knightly deeds I was once thy friend.
I fought the Saracen to the end;
My lance is shivered, my shield is cleft,
Of my broken mail are but fragments left.
I bear in my body eight thrusts of spear;
I die, but I sold my life right dear."
Count Roland heard as he spake the word,
Pricked his steed, and anear him spurred.

CLXXIII

"Walter," said Roland, "thou hadst affray
With the Saracen foe on the heights to-day.
Thou wert wont a valorous knight to be:
A thousand horsemen gave I thee;
Render them back, for my need is sore."
"Alas, thou seest them never more!
Stretched they lie on the dolorous ground,
Where myriad Saracen swarms we found,—
Armenians, Turks, and the giant brood
Of Balisa, famous for hardihood,
Bestriding their Arab coursers fleet,
Such host in battle 'twas ours to meet;
Nor vaunting thence shall the heathen go,—
Full sixty thousand on earth lie low.
With our brands of steel we avenged us well,
But every Frank by the foeman fell.
My hauberk plates are riven wide,
And I bear such wounds in flank and side,

That from every part the bright blood flows,
And feebler ever my body grows.
I am dying fast, I am well aware:
The liegeman I, and claim thy care.
If I fled perforce, thou wilt forgive,
And yield me succor while thou dost live."
Roland sweated with wrath and pain,
Tore the skirts of his vest in twain,
Bound Walter's every bleeding vein.

CLXXIV

In Roland's sorrow his wrath arose,
Hotly the struck at the heathen foes,
Nor left he one of a score alive;
Walter slew six, the archbishop five.
The heathens cry, "What a felon three!
Look to it, lords, that they shall not flee.
Dastard is he who confronts them not;
Craven, who lets them depart this spot."
Their cries and shoutings begin once more,
And from every side on the Franks they pour.

CLXXV

Count Roland in sooth is a noble peer;
Count Walter, a valorous cavalier;
The archbishop, in battle proved and tried,
Each struck as if knight there were none beside.
From their steeds a thousand Saracens leap,
Yet forty steeds a thousand Saracens leap,
I trow they dare not approach them near,
But they hurl against them lance and spear,
Pike and javelin, shaft and dart.
Walter is slain as the missiles part;
The archbishop's shield in pieces shred,
Riven his helm, and pierced his head;
His corselet of steel they rent and tore,
Wounded his body with lances four;
His steed beneath him dropped withal:
What woe to see the archbishop fall!

CLXXVI

When Turpin felt him flung to ground,

And four lance wounds within him found,
He swiftly rose, the dauntless man,
To Roland looked, and nigh him ran.
Spake but, "I am not overthrown—
Brave warrior yields with life alone."
He drew Almace's burnished steel,
A thousand ruthless blows to deal.
In after time, the Emperor said
He found four hundred round him spread,—
Some wounded, others cleft in twain;
Some lying headless on the plain.
So Giles the saint, who saw it, tells,
For whom High God wrought miracles.
In Laon cell the scroll he wrote;
He little weets who knows it not.

CLXXVII

Count Roland combateth nobly yet,
His body burning and bathed in sweat;
In his brow a mighty pain, since first,
When his horn he sounded, his temple burst;
But he yearns of Karl's approach to know,
And lifts his horn once more—but oh,
How faint and feeble a note to blow!
The Emperor listened, and stood full still.
"My lords," he said, "we are faring ill.
This day is Roland my nephew's last;
Like dying man he winds that blast.
On! Who would aid, for life must press.
Sound every trump our ranks possess."
Peal sixty thousand clarions high,
The hills re-echo, the vales reply.
It is now no jest for the heathen band.
"Karl!" they cry, "it is Karl at hand!"

CLXXVIII

They said, "'Tis the Emperor's advance,
We hear the trumpets resound of France.
If he assail us, hope in vain;
If Roland live, 'tis war again,
And we lose for aye the land of Spain."
Four hundred in arms together drew,
The bravest of the heathen crew;

With serried power they on him press,
And dire in sooth is the count's distress.

CLXXIX

When Roland saw his coming foes,
All proud and stern his spirit rose;
Alive he shall never be brought to yield:
Veillantif spurred he across the field,
With golden spurs he pricked him well,
To break the ranks of the infidel;
Archbishop Turpin by his side.
"Let us flee, and save us," the heathen cried;
"These are the trumpets of France we hear—
It is Karl, the mighty Emperor, near."

CLXXX

Count Roland never hath loved the base,
Nor the proud of heart, nor the dastard race,—
Nor knight, but if he were vassal good,—
And he spake to Turpin, as there he stood;
"On foot are you, on horseback I;
For your love I halt, and stand you by.
Together for good and ill we hold;
I will not leave you for man of mould.
We will pay the heathen their onset back,
Nor shall Durindana of blows be slack."
"Base," said Turpin, "who spares to smite:
When the Emperor comes, he will all requite."

CLXXXI

The heathens said, "We were born to shame.
This day for our disaster came:
Our lords and leaders in battle lost,
And Karl at hand with his marshalled host;
We hear the trumpets of France ring out,
And the cry 'Montjoie!' their rallying shout.
Roland's pride is of such a height,
Not to be vanquished by mortal wight;
Hurl we our missiles, and hold aloof."
And the word they spake, they put in proof,—
They flung, with all their strength and craft,
Javelin, barb, and plumèd shaft.

Roland's buckler was torn and frayed,
His cuirass broken and disarrayed,
Yet entrance none to his flesh they made.
From thirty wounds Veillantif bled,
Beneath his rider they cast him, dead;
Then from the field have the heathen flown:
Roland remaineth, on foot, alone.

The Last Benediction of the Archbishop

CLXXXII

THE HEATHENSfly in rage and dread;
To the land of Spain have their footsteps sped;
Nor can Count Roland make pursuit—
Slain in his steed, and he rests afoot;
To succor Turpin he turned in haste,
The golden helm from his head unlaced,
Ungirt the corselet from his breast,
In stripes divided his silken vest;
The archbishop's wounds hath he staunched and bound,
His arms around him softly wound;
On the green sward gently his body laid,
And, with tender greeting, thus him prayed:
"For a little space, let me take farewell;
Our dear companions, who round us fell,
I go to seek; if I haply find,
I will place them at thy feet reclined."
"Go," said Turpin; "the field is thine—
To God the glory, 'tis thine and mine."

CLXXXIII

Alone seeks Roland the field of fight,
He searcheth vale, the searcheth height.
Ivon and Ivor he found, laid low,
And the Gascon Engelier of Bordeaux,
Gerein and his fellow in arms, Gerier;
Otho he found, and Berengier;
Samson the duke, and Anseis bold,
Gerard of Roussillon, the old.
Their bodies, one after one, he bore,
And laid them Turpin's feet before.
The archbishop saw them stretched arow,
Nor can he hinder the tears that flow;

In benediction his hands he spread:
"Alas! for your doom, my lords," he said,
"That God in mercy your souls may give,
On the flowers of Paradise to live;
Mine own death comes, with anguish sore
That I see mine Emperor never more."

CLXXXIV

Once more to the field doth Roland wend,
Till he findeth Olivier his friend;
The lifeless form to his heart he strained,
Bore him back with what strength remained,
On a buckler laid him, beside the rest,
The archbishop assoiled them all, and blessed.
Their dole and pity anew find vent,
And Roland maketh his fond lament:
"My Olivier, my chosen one,
Thou wert the noble Duke Renier's son,
Lord of the March unto Rivier vale.
To shiver lance and shatter mail,
The brave in council to guide and cheer,
To smite the miscreant foe with fear,—
Was never on earth such cavalier."

CLXXXV

Dead around him his peers to see,
And the man he loved so tenderly,
Fast the tears of Count Roland ran,
His visage discolored became, and wan,
He swooned for sorrow beyond control.
"Alas," said Turpin, "how great thy dole!"

CLXXXVI

To look on Roland swooning there,
Surpassed all sorrow he ever bare;
He stretched his hand, the horn he took,—
Through Roncesvalles there flowed a brook,—
A draught to Roland he thought to bring;
But his steps were feeble and tottering,
Spent his strength, from waste of blood,—
He struggled on for scarce a rood,
When sank his heart, and drooped his frame,

And his mortal anguish on him came.

CLXXXVII

Roland revived from his swoon again;
On his feet he rose, but in deadly pain;
He looked on high, and he looked below,
Till, a space his other companions fro,
He beheld the baron, stretched on sward,
The archbishop, vicar of God our Lord.
*Mea Culpa*was Turpin's cry,
While he raised his hands to heaven on high,
Imploring Paradise to gain.
So died the soldier of Carlemaine,—
With word or weapon, to preach or fight,
A champion over of Christian right,
And a deadly foe of the infidel.
God's benediction within him dwell!

CLXXXVIII

When Roland saw him stark on earth
(His very vitals were bursting forth,
And his brain was oozing from out his head),
He took the fair white hands outspread,
Crossed and clasped them upon his breast,
And thus his plaint to the dead addressed,—
So did his country's law ordain:—
"Ah, gentleman of noble strain,
I trust thee unto God the True,
Whose service never man shall do
With more devoted heart and mind:
To guard the faith, to win mankind,
From the apostles' days till now,
Such prophet never rose as thou.
Nor pain or torment thy soul await,
But of Paradise the open gate."

The Death of Roland

CLXXXIX

ROLANDfeeleth his death is near,
His brain is oozing by either ear.
For his peers he prayed—God keep them well;

Invoked the angel Gabriel.
That none reproach him, his horn he clasped;
His other hand Durindana grasped;
Then, far as quarrel from crossbow sent,
Across the march of Spain he went,
Where, on a mound, two trees between,
Four flights of marble steps were seen;
Backward he fell, on the field to lie;
And he swooned anon, for the end was nigh.

CXC

High were the mountains and high the trees,
Bright shone the marble terraces;
On the green grass Roland hath swooned away.
A Saracen spied him where he lay:
Stretched with the rest he had feigned him dead,
His face and body with blood bespread.
To his feet he sprang, and in haste he hied,—
He was fair and strong and of courage tried,
In pride and wrath he was overbold,—
And on Roland, body and arms, laid hold.
"The nephew of Karl is overthrown!
To Araby bear I this sword, mine own."
He stooped to grasp it, but as he drew,
Roland returned to his sense anew.

CXCI

He saw the Saracen seize his sword;
His eyes he oped, and he spake one word—
"Thou art not one of our band, I trow,"
And he clutched the horn he would ne'er forego;
On the golden crest he smote him full,
Shattering steel and bone and skull,
Forth from his head his eyes he beat,
And cast him lifeless before his feet.
"Miscreant, makest thou then so free,
As, right or wrong, to lay hold on me?
Who hears it will deem thee a madman born;
Behold the mouth of mine ivory horn
Broken for thee, and the gems and gold
Around its rim to earth are rolled."

CXCII

Roland feeleth his eyesight reft,
Yet he stands erect with what strength is left;
From his bloodless cheek is the hue dispelled,
But his Durindana all bare he held.
In front a dark brown rock arose—
He smote upon it ten grievous blows.
Grated the steel as it struck the flint,
Yet it brake not, nor bore its edge one dint.
"Mary, Mother, be thou mine aid!
Ah, Durindana, my ill-starred blade,
I may no longer thy guardian be!
What fields of battle I won with thee!
What realms and regions 'twas ours to gain,
Now the lordship of Carlemaine!
Never shalt thou possessor know
Who would turn from face of mortal foe;
A gallant vassal so long thee bore,
Such as France the free shall know no more."

CXCIII

He smote anew on the marble stair.
It grated, but breach nor notch was there.
When Roland found that it would not break,
Thus began he his plaint to make.
"Ah, Durindana, how fair and bright
Thou sparklest, flaming against the light!
When Karl in Maurienne valley lay,
God sent his angel from heaven to say—
'This sword shall a valorous captain's be,'
And he girt it, the gentle king, on me.
With it I vanquished Poitou and Maine,
Provence I conquered and Aquitaine;
I conquered Normandy the free,
Anjou, and the marches of Brittany;
Romagna I won, and Lombardy,
Bavaria, Flanders from side to side,
And Burgundy, and Poland wide;
Constantinople affiance vowed,
And the Saxon soil to his bidding bowed;
Scotia, and Wales, and Ireland's plain,
Of England made he his own domain.
What mighty regions I won of old,
For the hoary-headed Karl to hold!
But there presses on me a grievous pain,

Lest thou in heathen hands remain.
O God our Father, keep France from stain!"

CXCIV

His strokes once more on the brown rock fell,
And the steel was bent past words to tell;
Yet it brake not, nor was notched the grain,
Erect it leaped to the sky again.
When he failed at the last to break his blade,
His lamentation he inly made.
"Oh, fair and holy, my peerless sword,
What relics lie in thy pommel stored!
Tooth of Saint Peter, Saint Basil's blood,
Hair of Saint Denis beside them strewed,
Fragment of holy Mary's vest.
'Twere shame that thou with the heathen rest;
Thee should the hand of a Christian serve
One who would never in battle swerve.
What regions won I with thee of yore,
The empire now of Karl the hoar!
Rich and mighty is he therefore."

CXCV

That death was on him he knew full well;
Down from his head to his heart it fell.
On the grass beneath a pine-tree's shade,
With face to earth, his form he laid,
Beneath him placed he his horn and sword,
And turned his face to the heathen horde.
Thus hath he done the sooth to show,
That Karl and his warriors all may know,
That the gentle count a conqueror died.
*Mea Culpa*full oft he cried;
And, for all his sins, unto God above,
In sign of penance, he raised his glove.

CXCVI

Roland feeleth his hour at hand;
On a knoll he lies towards the Spanish land.
With one hand beats he upon his breast:
"In thy sight, Ò God, be my sins confessed.
From my hour of birth, both the great and small,

Down to this day, I repent of all."
As his glove he raises to God on high,
Angels of heaven descend him nigh.

CXCVII

Beneath a pine was his resting-place,
To the land of Spain hath he turned his face,
On his memory rose full many a thought—
Of the lands he won and the fields he fought;
Of his gentle France, of his kin and line;
Of his nursing father, King Karl benign;—
He may not the tear and sob control,
Nor yet forgets he his parting soul.
To God's compassion he makes his cry:
"O Father true, who canst not lie,
Who didst Lazarus raise unto life agen,
And Daniel shield in the lions' den;
Shield my soul from its peril, due
For the sins I sinned my lifetime through."
He did his right-hand glove uplift—
Saint Gabriel took from his hand the gift;
Then drooped his head upon his breast,
And with claspèd hands he went to rest.
God from on high sent down to him
One of his angel Cherubim—
Saint Michael of Peril of the sea,
Saint Gabriel in company—
From heaven they came for that soul of price,
And they bore it with them to Paradise.

Part III
The Reprisals

The Chastisement of the Saracens

CXCVIII

DEADis Roland; his soul with God.
While to Roncesvalles the Emperor rode,
Where neither path nor track he found,
Nor open space nor rood of ground,
But was strewn with Frank or heathen slain,
"Where art thou, Roland?" he cried in pain:
"The Archbishop where, and Olivier,
Gerein and his brother in arms, Gerier?
Count Otho where, and Berengier,
Ivon and Ivor, so dear to me;
And Engelier of Gascony;
Samson the duke, and Anseis the bold;
Gerard, of Roussillon, the old;
My peers, the twelve whom I left behind?"
In vain!—No answer may he find.
"O God," he cried, "what grief is mine
That I was not in front of this battle line!"
For very wrath his beard he tore,
His knights and barons weeping sore;
Aswoon full fifty thousand fall;
Duke Naimes hath pity and dole for all.

CXCIX

Nor knight nor baron was there to see
But wept full fast, and bitterly;
For son and brother their tears descend,
For lord and liege, for kin and friend;
Aswoon all numberless they fell,
But Naimes did gallantly and well.
He spake the first to the Emperor—
"Look onward, sire, two leagues before,
See the dust from the ways arise,—
There the strength of the heathen lies.
Ride on; avenge you for this dark day."

"O God," said Karl, "they are far away!
Yet for right and honor, the sooth ye say.
Fair France's flower they have torn from me."
To Otun and Gebouin beckoned he,
To Tybalt of Rheims, and Milo the count.
"Guard the battle-field, vale, and mount—
Leave the dead as ye see them lie;
Watch, that nor lion nor beast come nigh,
Nor on them varlet or squire lay hand;
None shall touch them, 'tis my command,
Till with God's good grace we return again."
They answered lowly, in loving strain,
"Great lord, fair sire, we will do your hest,"
And a thousand warriors with them rest.

CC

The Emperor bade his clarions ring,
Marched with his host the noble king.
They came at last on the heathens' trace,
And all together pursued in chase;
But the king of the falling eve was ware:
He alighted down in a meadow fair,
Knelt on the earth unto God to pray
That he make the sun in his course delay,
Retard the night, and prolong the day.
Then his wonted angel who with him spake,
Swiftly to Karl did answer make,
"Ride on! Light shall not thee forego;
God seeth the flower of France laid low;
Thy vengeance wreak on the felon crew."
The Emperor sprang to his steed anew.

CCI

God wrought for Karl a miracle:
In his place in heaven the sun stood still.
The heathens fled, the Franks pursued,
And in Val Tenèbres beside them stood;
Towards Saragossa the rout they drave,
And deadly were the strokes they gave.
They barred against them path and road;
In front the water of Ebro flowed:
Strong was the current, deep and large,
Was neither shallop, nor boat, nor barge.

With a cry to their idol Termagaunt,
The heathens plunge, but with scanty vaunt.
Encumbered with their armor's weight,
Sank the most to the bottom, straight;
Others floated adown the stream;
And the luckiest drank their fill, I deem:
All were in marvellous anguish drowned.
Cry the Franks, "In Roland your fate ye found."

CCII

As he sees the doom of the heathen host,
Slain are some and drowned the most,
(Great spoil have won the Christian knights),
The gentle king from his steed alights,
And kneels, his thanks unto God to pour:
The sun had set as he rose once more.
"It is time to rest," the Emperor cried,
"And to Roncesvalles 'twere late to ride.
Our steeds are weary and spent with pain;
Strip them of saddle and bridle-rein,
Free let them browse on the verdant mead."
"Sire," say the Franks, "it were well indeed."

CCIII

The Emperor hath his quarters ta'en,
And the Franks alight in the vacant plain;
The saddles from their steeds they strip,
And the bridle-reins from their heads they slip;
They set them free on the green grass fair,
Nor can they render them other care.
On the ground the weary warriors slept;
Watch nor vigil that night they kept.

CCIV

In the mead the Emperor made his bed,
With his mighty spear beside his head,
Nor will he doff his arms to-night,
But lies in his broidered hauberk white.
Laced is his helm, with gold inlaid,
Girt on Joyeuse, the peerless blade,
Which changes thirty times a day
The brightness of its varying ray.

Nor may the lance unspoken be
Which pierced our Saviour on the tree;
Karl hath its point—so God him graced—
Within his golden hilt enchased.
And for this honor and boon of heaven,
The name Joyeuse to the sword was given;
The Franks may hold it in memory.
Thence came *"Montjoie,"*their battle-cry,
And thence no race with them may vie.

CCV

Clear was the night, and the fair moon shone,
But grief weighed heavy King Karl upon;
He thought of Roland and Olivier,
Of his Franks and every gallant peer,
Whom he left to perish in Roncesvale,
Nor can he stint but to weep and wail,
Imploring God their souls to bless,—
Till, overcome with long distress,
He slumbers at last for heaviness.
The Franks are sleeping throughout the meads;
Nor rest on foot can the weary steeds—
They crop the herb as they stretch them prone.—
Much hath he learned who hath sorrow known.

CCVI

The Emperor slumbered like man forespent,
While God his angel Gabriel sent
The couch of Carlemaine to guard.
All night the angel kept watch and ward,
And in a vision to Karl presaged
A coming battle against him waged.
'Twas shown in fearful augury;
The king looked upward to the sky—
There saw he lightning, and hail, and storm,
Wind and tempest in fearful form.
A dread apparel of fire and flame,
Down at once on his host they came.
Their ashen lances the flames enfold,
And their bucklers in to the knobs of gold;
Grated the steel of helm and mail.
Yet other perils the Franks assail,
And his cavaliers are in deadly strait.

Bears and lions to rend them wait,
Wiverns, snakes and fiends of fire,
More than a thousand griffins dire;
Enfuried at the host they fly.
"Help us, Karl!" was the Franks' outcry,
Ruth and sorrow the king beset;
Fain would he aid, but was sternly let.
A lion came from the forest path,
Proud and daring, and fierce in wrath;
Forward sprang he the king to grasp,
And each seized other with deadly clasp;
But who shall conquer or who shall fall,
None knoweth. Nor woke the king withal.

CCVII

Another vision came him o'er:
He was in France, his land, once more;
In Aix, upon his palace stair,
And held in double chain a bear.
When thirty more from Arden ran,
Each spake with voice of living man:
"Release him, sire!" aloud they call;
"Our kinsman shall not rest in thrall.
To succor him our arms are bound."
Then from the palace leaped a hound,
On the mightiest of the bears he pressed,
Upon the sward, before the rest.
The wondrous fight King Karl may see,
But knows not who shall victor be.
These did the angel to Karl display;
But the Emperor slept till dawning day.

CCVIII

At morning-tide when day-dawn broke,
The Emperor from his slumber woke.
His holy guardian, Gabriel,
With hand uplifted sained him well.
The king aside his armor laid,
And his warriors all were disarrayed.
Then mount they, and in haste they ride,
Through lengthening path and highway wide
Until they see the doleful sight
In Roncesvalles, the field of fight.

CCIX

Unto Roncesvalles King Karl hath sped,
And his tears are falling above the dead;
"Ride, my barons, at gentle pace,—
I will go before, a little space,
For my nephew's sake, whom I fain would find.
It was once in Aix, I recall to mind,
When we met at the yearly festal-tide,—
My cavaliers in vaunting vied
Of stricken fields and joustings proud,—
I heard my Roland declare aloud,
In foreign land would he never fall
But in front of his peers and his warriors all,
He would lie with head to the foeman's shore,
And make his end like a conqueror."
Then far as man a staff might fling,
Clomb to a rising knoll the king.

CCX

As the king in quest of Roland speeds,
The flowers and grass throughout the meads
He sees all red with our baron's blood,
And his tears of pity break forth in flood.
He upward climbs, till, beneath two trees,
The dints upon the rock he sees.
Of Roland's corse he was then aware;
Stretched it lay on the green grass bare.
No marvel sorrow the king oppressed;
He alighted down, and in haste he pressed,
Took the body his arms between,
And fainted: dire his grief I ween.

CCXI

As did reviving sense begin,
Naimes, the duke, and Count Acelin,
The noble Geoffrey of Anjou,
And his brother Henry nigh him drew.
They made a pine-tree's trunk his stay;
But he looked to earth where his nephew lay,
And thus all gently made his dole:
"My friend, my Roland, God guard thy soul!
Never on earth such knight hath been,

Fields of battle to fight and win.
My pride and glory, alas, are gone!"
He endured no longer; he swooned anon.

CCXII

As Karl the king revived once more,
His hands were held by barons four.
He saw his nephew, cold and wan;
Stark his frame, but his hue was gone;
His eyes turned inward, dark and dim;
And Karl in love lamented him:
"Dear Roland, God thy spirit rest
In Paradise, amongst His blest!
In evil hour thou soughtest Spain:
No day shall dawn but sees my pain,
And me of strength and pride bereft.
No champion of mine honor left;
Without a friend beneath the sky;
And though my kindred still be nigh,
Is none like thee their ranks among."
With both his hands his beard he wrung.
The Franks bewailed in unison;
A hundred thousand wept like one.

CCXIII

"Dear Roland, I return again
To Laon, to mine own domain;
Where men will come from many a land,
And seek Count Roland at my hand.
A bitter tale must I unfold—
'In Spanish earth he lieth cold,'
A joyless realm henceforth I hold,
And weep with daily tears untold.

CCXIV

"Dear Roland, beautiful and brave,
All men of me will tidings crave,
When I return to La Chapelle.
Oh, what a tale is mine to tell!
That low my glorious nephew lies.
Now will the Saxon foeman rise;
Bulgar and Hun in arms will come,

Apulia's power, the might of Rome,
Palermitan and Afric bands,
And men from fierce and distant lands.
To sorrow, sorrow must succeed;
My hosts to battle who shall lead,
When the mighty captain is overthrown?
Ah! France deserted now, and lone.
Come, death, before such grief I bear."
Once more his beard and hoary hair
Began he with his hands to tear;
A hundred thousand fainted there.

CCXV

"Dear Roland, and was this thy fate?
May Paradise thy soul await.
Who slew thee wrought fair France's bane:
I cannot live, so deep my pain.
For me my kindred lie undone;
And would to Holy Mary's Son,
Ere I at Cizra's gorge alight,
My soul may take its parting flight:
My spirit would with theirs abide;
My body rest their dust beside."
With sobs his hoary beard he tore.
"Alas!" said Naimes, "for the Emperor."

CCXVI

"Sir Emperor," Geoffrey of Anjou said,
"Be not by sorrow so sore misled.
Let us seek our comrades throughout the plain,
Who fell by the hands of the men of Spain;
And let their bodies on biers be borne."
"Yea," said the Emperor. "Sound your horn."

CCXVII

Now doth Count Geoffrey his bugle sound,
And the Franks from their steeds alight to ground
As they their dead companions find,
They lay them low on biers reclined;
Nor prayers of bishop or abbot ceased,
Of monk or canon, or tonsured priest.
The dead they blessed in God's great name,

Set myrrh and frankincense aflame.
Their incense to the dead they gave,
Then laid them, as beseemed the brave—
What could they more?—in honored grave.

CCXVIII

But the king kept watch o'er Roland's bier
O'er Turpin and Sir Olivier.
He bade their bodies opened be,
Took the hearts of the barons three,
Swathed them in silken cerements light,
Laid them in urns of the marble white.
Their bodies did the Franks enfold
In skins of deer, around them rolled;
Laved them with spices and with wine,
Till the king to Milo gave his sign,
To Tybalt, Otun, and Gebouin;
Their bodies three on biers they set,
Each in its silken coverlet.

CCXIX

To Saragossa did Marsil flee.
He alighted beneath an olive tree,
And sadly to his serfs he gave
His helm, his cuirass, and his glaive,
Then flung him on the herbage green;
Came nigh him Bramimonde his queen.
Shorn from his wrist was his right hand good;
He swooned for pain and waste of blood.
The queen, in anguish, wept and cried,
With twenty thousand by her side.
King Karl and gentle France they cursed;
Then on their gods their anger burst.
Unto Apollin's crypt they ran,
And with revilings thus began:
"Ah, evil-hearted god, to bring
Such dark dishonor on our king.
Thy servants ill dost thou repay."
His crown and wand they wrench away,
They bind him to a pillar fast,
And then his form to earth they cast,
His limbs with staves they bruise and break:
From Termagaunt his gem they take:

Mohammed to a trench they bear,
For dogs and boars to tread and tear.

CCXX

Within his vaulted hall they bore
King Marsil, when his swoon was o'er;
The hall with colored writings stained.
And loud the queen in anguish plained,
The while she tore her streaming hair,
"Ah, Saragossa, reft and bare,
Thou seest thy noble king o'erthrown!
Such felony our gods have shown,
Who failed in fight his aids to be.
The Emir comes—a dastard he,
Unless he will that race essay,
Who proudly fling their lives away.
Their Emperor of the hoary beard,
In valor's desperation reared,
Will never fly for mortal foe.
Till he be slain, how deep my woe!"

CCXXI

Fierce is the heat and thick the dust.
The Franks the flying Arabs thrust.
To Saragossa speeds their flight.
The queen ascends a turret's height.
The clerks and canons on her wait,
Of that false law God holds in hate.
Order or tonsure have they none.
And when she thus beheld undone
The Arab power, all disarrayed,
Aloud she cried, "Mahound us aid!
My king! defeated is our race,
The Emir slain in foul disgrace."
King Marsil turns him to the wall,
And weeps—his visage darkened all.
He dies for grief—in sin he dies,
His wretched soul the demon's prize.

CCXXII

Dead lay the heathens, or turned to flight,
And Karl was victor in the fight.

Down Saragossa's wall he brake—
Defense he knew was none to make.
And as the city lay subdued,
The hoary king all proudly stood,
There rested his victorious powers.
The queen hath yielded up the towers—
Ten great towers and fifty small.
Well strives he whom God aids withal.

CCXXIII

Day passed; the shades of night drew on,
And moon and stars refulgent shone.
Now Karl is Saragossa's lord,
And a thousand Franks, by the king's award,
Roam the city, to search and see
Where mosque or synagogue may be.
With axe and mallet of steel in hand,
They let nor idol nor image stand;
The shrines of sorcery down they hew,
For Karl hath faith in God the True,
And will Him righteous service do.
The bishops have the water blessed,
The heathen to the font are pressed.
If any Karl's command gainsay,
He has him hanged or burned straightway.
So a hundred thousand to Christ are won;
But Bramimonde the queen along
Shall unto France be captive brought,
And in love be her conversion wrought.

CCXXIV

Night passed, and came the daylight hours,
Karl garrisoned the city's towers;
He left a thousand valiant knights,
To sentinel their Emperor's rights.
Then all his Franks ascend their steeds,
While Bramimonde in bonds he leads,
To work her good his sole intent.
And so, in pride and strength, they went;
They passed Narbonne in gallant show,
And reached thy stately walls, Bordeaux.
There, on Saint Severin's alter high,
Karl placed Count Roland's horn to lie,

With mangons filled, and coins of gold,
As pilgrims to this hour behold.
Across Garonne he bent his way,
In ships within the stream that lay,
And brought his nephew unto Blaye,
With his noble comrade, Olivier,
And Turpin sage, the gallant peer.
Of the marble white their tombs were made;
In Saint Roman's shrine are the baron's laid,
Whom the Franks to God and his saints commend.
And Karl by hill and vale doth wend,
Nor stays till Aix is reached, and there
Alighteth on his marble stair.
When sits he in his palace hall,
He sends around to his judges all,
From Frisia, Saxony, Loraine,
From Burgundy and Allemaine,
From Normandy, Brittaine, Poitou:
The realm of France he searches through,
And summons every sagest man.
The plea of Ganelon then began.

CCXXV

From Spain the Emperor made retreat,
To Aix in France, his kingly seat;
And thither, to his halls, there came,
Alda, the fair and gentle dame.
"Where is my Roland, sire," she cried,
"Who vowed to take me for his bride?"
O'er Karl the flood of sorrow swept;
He tore his beard and loud he wept.
"Dear sister, gentle friend," he said,
"Thou seekest one who lieth dead:
I plight to thee my son instead,— Louis, who lord of my realm shall be."
"Strange," she said, "seems this to me.
God and his angels forbid that I Should live on earth if Roland die."
Pale grew her cheek—she sank amain,
Down at the feet of Carlemaine.
So died she. God receive her soul!
The Franks bewail her in grief and dole.

CCXXVI

So to her death went Alda fair.
The king but deemed she fainted there.
While dropped his tears of pity warm,
He took her hands and raised her form.
Upon his shoulder drooped her head,
And Karl was ware that she was dead.
When thus he saw that life was o'er,
He summoned noble ladies four.
Within a cloister was she borne;
They watched beside her until morn;
Beneath a shrine her limbs were laid;—
Such honor Karl to Alda paid.

CCXXVII

The Emperor sitteth in Aix again,
With Gan, the felon, in iron chain,
The very palace walls beside,
By serfs unto a stake was tied.
They bound his hands with leathern thong,
Beat him with staves and cordage strong;
Nor hath he earned a better fee.
And there in pain awaits his plea.

CCXXVIII

'Tis written in the ancient geste,
How Karl hath summoned east and west.
At La Chapelle assembled they;
High was the feast and great the day—
Saint Sylvester's, the legend ran.
The plea and judgment then began
Of Ganelon, who the treason wrought,
Now face to face with his Emperor brought.

CCXXIX

"Lords, my barons," said Karl the king,
"On Gan be righteous reckoning:
He followed in my host to Spain;
Through him ten thousand Franks lie slain
And slain was he, my sister's son,
Whom never more ye look upon,
With Olivier the sage and bold,
And all my peers, betrayed for gold."

"Shame befall me," said Gan, "if I
Now or ever the deed deny;
Foully he wronged me in wealth and land,
And I his death and ruin planned:
Therein, I say, was treason none."
They said, "We will advise thereon."

CCXXX

Count Gan to the Emperor's presence came,
Fresh of hue and lithe of frame,
With a baron's mien, were his heart but true.
On his judges round his glance he threw,
And on thirty kinsmen by his side,
And thus, with mighty voice, he cried:
"Hear me, barons, for love of God.
In the Emperor's host was I abroad—
Well I served him, and loyally,
But his nephew, Roland, hated me:
He doomed my doom of death and woe,
That I to Marsil's court should go.
My craft the danger put aside,
But Roland loudly I defied,
With Olivier, and all their crew,
As Karl, and these his barons, knew.
Vengeance, not treason, have I wrought."
"Thereon," they answered, "take we thought."

CCXXXI

When Ganelon saw the plea begin,
He mustered thirty of his kin,
With one revered by all the rest—
Pinabel of Sorrence's crest.
Well can his tongue his cause unfold,
And a vassal brave his arms to hold.
"Thine aid," said Ganelon, "I claim;
To rescue me from death and shame."
Said Pinabel, "Rescued shalt thou be.
Let any Frank thy death decree,
And, wheresoe'er the king deems meet,
I will him body to body greet,
Give him the lie with my brand of steel."
Ganelon sank at his feet to kneel.

CCXXXII

Come Frank and Norman to council in,
Bavarian, Saxon, and Poitevin,
With all the barons of Teuton blood;
But the men of Auvergne are mild of mood—
Their hearts are swayed unto Pinabel.
Saith each to other, "Pause we well.
Let us leave this plea, and the king implore
To set Count Ganelon free once more,
Henceforth to serve him in love and faith:
Count Roland lieth cold in death:
Not all the gold beneath the sky
Can give him back to mortal eye;
Such battle would but madness be."
They all applauded his decree,
Save Thierry—Geoffrey's brother he.

CCXXXIII

The barons came the king before.
"Fair Sire, we all thy grace implore,
That Gan be suffered free to go,
His faith and love henceforth to show.
Oh, let him live—a noble he.
Your Roland you shall never see:
No wealth of gold may him recall."
Karl answered, "Ye are felons all."

CCXXXIV

When Karl saw all forsake him now,
Dark grew his face and drooped his brow.
He said, "Of men most wretched I!"
Stepped forth Thierry speedily,
Duke Geoffrey's brother, a noble knight,
Spare of body, and lithe and light,
Dark his hair and his hue withal,
Nor low of stature, nor over tall:
To Karl, in courteous wise, he said,
"Fair Sire, be not disheartenèd.
I have served you truly, and, in the name
Of my lineage, I this quarrel claim.
If Roland wronged Sir Gan in aught,
Your service had his safeguard wrought.

Ganelon bore him like caitiff base,
A perjured traitor before your face.
I adjudge him to die on the gallows tree;
Flung to the hounds let his carcase be,
The doom of treason and felony.
Let kin of his but say I lie,
And with this girded sword will I
My plighted word in fight maintain."
"Well spoken," cry the Franks amain.

CCXXXV

Sir Pinabel stood before Karl in place,
Vast of body and swift of pace,—
Small hope hath he whom his sword may smite.
"Sire, it is yours to decide the right.
Bid this clamor around to pause.
Thierry hath dared to adjudge the cause;
He lieth. Battle thereon I do."
And forth his right-hand glove he drew.
But the Emperor said, "In bail to me
Shall thirty of his kinsmen be;
I yield him pledges on my side:
Be they guarded well till the right be tried."
When Thierry saw the fight shall be,
To Karl his right glove reacheth he;
The Emperor gave his pledges o'er.
And set in place were benches four—
Thereon the champions take their seat,
And all is ranged in order meet,—
The preparations Ogier speeds,—
And both demand their arms and steeds.

CCXXXVI

But yet, ere lay they lance in rest,
They make their shrift, are sained and blessed;
They hear the Mass, the Host receive,
Great gifts to church and cloister leave.
They stand before the Emperor's face;
The spurs upon their feet they lace;
Gird on their corselets, strong and light;
Close on their heads the helmets bright.
The golden hilts at belt are hung;
Their quartered shields from shoulder swung.

In hand the mighty spears they lift,
Then spring they on their chargers swift.
A hundred thousand cavaliers
The while for Thierry drop their tears;
They pity him for Roland's sake.
God knows what end the strife will take.

CCXXXVII

At Aix is a wide and grassy plain,
Where met in battle the baron's twain.
Both of valorous knighthood are,
Their chargers swift and apt for war.
They prick them hard with slackened rein;
Drive each at other with might and main.
Their bucklers are in fragments flung,
Their hauberks rent, their girths unstrung;
With saddles turned, they earthward rolled,
A hundred thousand in tears behold.

CCXXXVIII

Both cavaliers to earth are gone,
Both rise and leap on foot anon.
Strong is Pinabel, swift and light;
Each striketh other, unhorsed they fight;
With golden-hilted swords, they deal
Fiery strokes on the helms of steel.
Trenchant and fierce is their every blow.
The Franks look on in wondrous woe.
"O God," saith Karl, "Thy judgment show."

CCXXXIX

"Yield thee, Thierry," said Pinabel.
"In love and faith will I serve thee well,
And all my wealth to thy feet will bring,
Win Ganelon's pardon from the king."
"Never," Thierry in scorn replied,
"Shall thought so base in my bosom bide!
God betwixt us this day decide."

CCXL

"Ah, Pinabel!" so Thierry spake,
"Thou art a baron of stalwart make,

Thy knighthood known to every peer,—
Come, let us cease this battle here.
With Karl thy concord shall be won,
But on Ganelon be justice done;
Of him henceforth let speech be none."
"No," said Pinabel; "God forefend!
My kinsman I to the last defend;
Nor will I blench for mortal face,—
Far better death than such disgrace."
Began they with their glaves anew
The gold-encrusted helms to hew;
Towards heaven the fiery sparkles flew.
They shall not be disjoined again,
Nor end the strife till one be slain.

CCXLI

Pinabel, lord of Sorrence's keep,
Smote Thierry's helm with stroke so deep
The very fire that from it came Hath set the prairie round in flame;
The edge of steel did his forehead trace
Adown the middle of his face;
His hauberk to the centre clave.
God deigned Thierry from death to save.

CCXLII

When Thierry felt him wounded so,
For his bright blood flowed on the grass below,
He smote on Pinabel's helmet brown,
Cut and clave to the nasal down;
Dashed his brains from forth his head,
And, with stroke of prowess, cast him dead.
Thus, at a blow, was the battle won:
"God," say the Franks, "hath this marvel done."

CCXLIII

When Thierry thus was conqueror,
He came the Emperor Karl before.
Full fifty barons were in his train,
Duke Naimes, and Ogier the noble Dane,
Geoffrey of Anjou and William of Blaye.
Karl clasped him in his arms straightway

With skin of sable he wiped his face;
Then cast it from him, and, in its place,
Bade him in fresh attire be drest.
His armor gently the knights divest;
On an Arab mule they make him ride:
So returns he, in joy and pride.
To the open plain of Aix they come,
Where the kin of Ganelon wait their doom.

CCXLIV

Karl his dukes and his counts addressed:
"Say, what of those who in bondage rest—
Who came Count Ganelon's plea to aid,
And for Pinabel were bailsmen made?"
"One and all let them die the death."
And the king to Basbrun, his provost, saith,
"Go, hang them all on the gallows tree.
By my beard I swear, so white to see,
If one escape, thou shalt surely die."
"Mine be the task," he made reply.
A hundred men-at-arms are there:
The thirty to their doom they bear.
The traitor shall his guilt atone,
With blood of others and his own.

CCXLV

The men of Bavaria and Allemaine,
Norman and Breton return again,
And with all the Franks aloud they cry,
That Gan a traitor's death shall die.
They bade be brought four stallions fleet;
Bound to them Ganelon, hands and feet:
Wild and swift was each savage steed,
And a mare was standing within the mead;
Four grooms impelled the coursers on,—
A fearful ending for Ganelon.
His every nerve was stretched and torn,
And the limbs of his body apart were borne;
The bright blood, springing from every vein,
Left on the herbage green its stain.
He died a felon and recreant:
Never shall traitor his treason vaunt.

CCXLVI

Now was the Emperor's vengeance done,
And he called to the bishops of France anon
With those of Bavaria and Allemaine.
"A noble captive is in my train.
She hath hearkened to sermon and homily,
And a true believer in Christ will be;
Baptize her so that her soul have grace."
They say, "Let ladies of noble race,
At her christening, be her sponsors vowed."
And so there gathered a mighty crowd.
At the baths of Aix was the wondrous scene—
There baptized they the Spanish queen;
Julienne they have named her name.
In faith and truth unto Christ she came.

CCXLVII

When the Emperor's justice was satisfied,
His mighty wrath did awhile subside.
Queen Bramimonde was a Christian made,
The day passed on into night's dark shade;
As the king in his vaulted chamber lay,
Saint Gabriel came from God to say,
"Karl, thou shalt summon thine empire's host
And march in haste to Bira's coast;
Unto Impha city relief to bring,
And succor Vivian, the Christian king.
The heathens in siege have the town essayed,
And the shattered Christians invoke thine aid."
Fain would Karl such task decline.
"God! what a life of toil is mine!"
He wept; his hoary beard he wrung.

So ends the lay Turoldus sung.

Introductory Note

THE VAST and interesting epic literature of Ireland remained practically inaccessible to English readers till within the last sixty years. In 1853, Nicholas O'Kearney published the Irish text and an English translation of "The Battle of Gabra," and since that date the volume of printed texts and English versions has steadily increased, until now there lies open to the ordinary reader a very considerable mass of material illustrating the imaginative life of medieval Ireland.

Of these Irish epic tales, "The Destruction of Dá Derga' Hostel" is a specimen of remarkable beauty and power. The primitive nature of the story is shown by the fact that the plot turns upon the disasters that follow on the violation of tabus, or prohibitions often with a supernatural sanction, by the monstrous nature of many of the warriors, and by the utter absence of any attempt to rationalize or explain the beliefs implied or the marvels related in it. The powers and achievements of the heroes are fantastic and extraordinary beyond description, and the natural and extra-natural constantly mingle; yet nowhere does the narrator express surprise. The technical method of the tale, too, is curiously and almost mechanically symmetrical, after the manner of savage art; and both description and narration are marked by a high degree of freshness and vividness.

The following translation is, with slight modification, that of Dr. Whitley Stokes, from a text constructed by him on the basis of eight manuscripts, the oldest going back to about 1100 A.D. The story itself is, without doubt, several centuries earlier, and belongs to the oldest group of extant Irish sagas.

The Destruction of Dá Derga's Hostel.

Introductory

THERE was a famous and noble king over Erin, named Eochaid Feidlech. Once upon a time he came over the fairgreen of Brí Léith, and he saw at the edge of a well a woman with a bright comb of silver adorned with gold, washing in a silver basin wherein were four golden birds and little, bright gems of purple carbuncle in the rims of the basin. A mantle she had, curly and purple, a beautiful cloak, and in the mantle silvery fringes arranged, and a brooch of fairest gold. A kirtle she wore, long, hooded, hard-smooth, of green silk, with red embroidery of gold. Marvellous clasps of gold and silver in the kirtle on her breasts and her shoulders and spaulds on every side. The sun kept shining upon her, so that the glistening of the gold against the sun from the green silk was manifest to men. On her head were two golden-yellow tresses, in each of which was a plait of four locks, with a bead at the point of each lock. The hue of that hair seemed to them like the flower of the iris in summer, or like red gold after the burnishing thereof.

There she was, undoing her hair to wash it, with her arms out through the sleeve-holes of her smock. White as the snow of one night were the two hands, soft and even, and red as foxglove were the two clear-beautiful cheeks. Dark as the back of a stag-beetle the two eyebrows. Like a shower of pearls were the teeth in her head. Blue as a hyacinth were the eyes. Red as rowan-berries the lips. Very high, smooth and soft-white the shoulders. Clear-white and lengthy the fingers. Long were the hands. White as the foam of a wave was the flank, slender, long, tender, smooth, soft as wool. Polished and warm, sleek and white were the two thighs. Round and small, hard and white the two knees. Short and white and rulestraight the two shins. Justly straight and beautiful the two heels. If a measure were put on the feet it would hardly have found them unequal, unless the flesh of the coverings should grow upon them. The bright radiance of the moon was in her noble face: the loftiness of pride in her smooth eyebrows: the light of wooing in each of her regal eyes. A dimple of delight in each of her cheeks, with a dappling (?) in them, at one time, of purple spots with redness of a calf' blood, and at another with the bright lustre of snow. Soft womanly dignity in her voice; a step steady and slow she had: a queenly gait was hers. Verily, of the world' women 'twas she was the dearest and loveliest and justest that the eyes of men had ever beheld. It seemed to King Eochaid and his followers that she was from the elfmounds. Of her was said: "Shapely are all till compared with Etáin," "Dear are all till compared with Etáin."

A longing for her straightway seized the king; so he sent forward a man of his people to detain her. The king asked tidings of her and said, while announcing himself: "Shall I have an hour of dalliance with thee?"

"'Tis for that we have come hither under thy safeguard," quoth she.

"Query, whence art thou and whence hast thou come?" says Eochaid.

"Easy to say," quoth she. "Etáin am I, daughter of Etar, king of the cavalcade from the elfmounds. I have been here for twenty years since I was born in an elfmound. The men of the elfmound, both kings and nobles, have been wooing me: but nought was gotten from me, because ever since I was able to speak, I have loved thee and given thee a child' love for the high tales about thee and thy splendour. And though I had never seen thee, I knew thee at once from thy description: it is thou, then, I have reached."

"No 'seeking of an ill friend afar' shall be thine," says Eochaid. "Thou shalt have welcome, and for thee every other woman shall be left by me, and with thee alone will I live so long as thou hast honour."

"My proper bride-price to me!" she says, "and afterwards my desire."

"Thou shalt have both," says Eochaid.

Seven cumals[1] are given to her.

Then the king, even Eochaid Feidlech, dies, leaving one daughter named, like her mother, Etáin, and wedded to Cormac, king of Ulaid.

After the end of a time Cormac, king of Ulaid, "the man of the three gifts," forsakes Eochaid's daughter, because she was barren save for one daughter that she had borne to Cormac after the making of the pottage which her mother—the woman from the elfmounds—gave her. Then she said to her mother: "Bad is what thou hast given me: it will be a daughter that I shall bear."

"That will not be good," says her mother; "a king's pursuit will be on her."

Then Cormac weds again his wife, even Etáin, and this was his desire, that the daughter of the woman who had before been abandoned [i. e. his own daughter] should be killed. So Cormac would not leave the girl to her mother to be nursed. Then his two thralls take her to a pit, and she smiles a laughing smile at them as they were putting her into it. Then their kindly nature came to them. They carry her into the calfshed of the cowherds of Etriscél, great-grandson of Iar, king of Tara, and they fostered her till she became a good embroideress; and there was not in Ireland a king's daughter dearer than she.

A fenced house of wickerwork was made by the thralls for her, without any door, but only a window and a skylight. King Eterscél's folk espy that house and suppose that it was food that the cowherds kept there. But one of them went and looked through the skylight, and he saw in the house the dearest, beautifullest maiden! This is told to the king, and straightway he sends his people to break the house and carry her off without asking the cowherds. For the king was childless, and it had been prophesied to him by his wizards that a woman of unknown race would bear him a son.

Then said the king: "This is the woman that has been prophesied to me!"

Now while she was there next morning she saw a Bird on the skylight coming to her, and he leaves his birdskin on the floor of the house, and went to her and possessed her, and said: "They are coming to thee from the king to wreck thy house and to bring thee to him perforce. And thou wilt be pregnant by me, and bear a son, and that son must not kill birds.[2] And 'Conaire, son of Mess Buachalla' shall be his name," for hers was Mess Buachalla, "the Cowherds' fosterchild."

And then she was brought to the king, and with her went her fosterers, and she was betrothed to the king, and he gave her seven cumals and to her fosterers seven other cumals. And afterwards they were made chieftains, so that they all became legitimate, whence are the two Fedlimthi Rechtaidi. And then she bore a son to the king, even Conaire son of Mess Buachalla, and these were her three urgent prayers to the king, to wit, the nursing of her son among three households, that is, the fosterers who had nurtured her, and the two Honeyworded Mainés, and she herself is the third; and she said that such of the men of Erin as should wish to do aught for this boy should give to those three households for the boy's protection.

So in that wise he was reared, and the men of Erin straightway knew this boy on the day he was born. And other boys were fostered with him, to wit, Fer Le and Fer Gar and Fer Rogein, three great-grandsons of Donn Désa the champion, an army-man of the army from Muc-lesi.

Now Conaire possessed three gifts, to wit, the gift of hearing and the gift of eyesight and the gift of judgment; and of those three gifts he taught one to each of his three fosterbrothers. And whatever meal was prepared for him, the four of them would go to it. Even though three meals were prepared for him each of them would go to his meal. The same raiment and armour and colour of horses had the four.

Then the king, even Eterscéle, died. A bull-feast is gathered by the men of Erin, in order to determine their future king; that is, a bull used to be killed by them and thereof one man would eat his fill and drink its broth, and a spell of truth was chanted over him in his bed. Whosoever he would see in his sleep would be king, and the sleeper would perish if he uttered a falsehood.

Four men in chariots were on the Plain of Liffey at their game, Conaire himself and his three fosterbrothers. Then his fosterers went to him that he might repair to the bullfeast. The bull-feaster, then in his sleep, at the end of the night beheld a man stark-naked, passing along the road of Tara, with a stone in his sling.

"I will go in the morning after you," quoth he.

He left his fosterbrothers at their game, and turned his chariot and his charioteer until he was in Dublin. There he saw great, white-speckled birds, of unusual size and colour and beauty. He pursues them until his horses were tired. The birds would go a spearcast before him, and would not go any further. He alighted, and takes his sling for them out of the chariot. He goes after them until he was at the sea. The birds betake themselves to the wave. He went to them and overcame them. The birds quit their birdskins, and turn upon him with spears and swords. One of them protects him, and addressed him, saying: "I am Némglan, king of thy father's birds; and thou hast been forbidden to cast at birds, for here there is no one that should not be dear to thee because of his father or mother."

"Till today," says Conaire, "I knew not this."

"Go to Tara tonight," says Némglan; "'tis fittest for thee. A bull-feast is there, and through it thou shalt be king. A man stark-naked, who shall go at the end of the night along one of the roads of Tara, having a stone and a sling—'tis he that shall be king."

So in this wise Conaire fared forth; and on each of the four roads whereby men go to Tara there were three kings awaiting him, and they had raiment for him, since it had been foretold that he would come stark-naked. Then he was seen from the road on which his fosterers were, and they put royal raiment about him, and placed him in a chariot, and he bound his pledges.

The folk of Tara said to him: "It seems to us that our bullfeast and our spell of truth are a failure, if it be only a young, beardless lad that we have visioned therein."

"That is of no moment," quoth he. "For a young, generous king like me to be in the kingship is no disgrace, since the binding of Tara's pledges is mine by right of father and grandsire."

"Excellent! excellent!" says the host. They set the kingship of Erin upon him. And he said: "I will enquire of wise men that I myself may be wise."

Then he uttered all this as he had been taught by the man at the wave, who said this to him: "Thy reign will be subject to a restriction, but the bird-reign will be noble, and this shall be thy restriction, i. e. thy tabu.

"Thou shalt not go righthandwise round Tara and lefthandwise round Bregia.

"The evil-beasts of Cerna must not be hunted by thee.

"And thou shalt not go out every ninth night beyond Tara.

"Thou shalt not sleep in a house from which firelight is manifest outside, after sunset, and in which light is manifest from without.

"And three Reds shall not go before thee to Red's house.

"And no rapine shall be wrought in thy reign.

"And after sunset a company of one woman or one man shall not enter the house in which thou art.

"And thou shalt not settle the quarrel of thy two thralls.

Now there were in his reign great bounties, to wit, seven ships in every June in every year arriving at Inver Colptha,[3] and oakmast up to the knees in every autumn, and plenty of fish in the rivers Bush and Boyne in the June of each year, and such abundance of good will that no one slew another in Erin during his reign. And to every one in Erin his fellow's voice seemed as sweet as the strings of lutes. From mid-spring to mid-autumn no wind disturbed a cow's tail. His reign was neither thunderous nor stormy.

Now his fosterbrothers murmured at the taking from them of their father's and their grandsire's gifts, namely Theft and Robbery and Slaughter of men and Rapine. They thieved the three thefts from the same man, to wit, a swine and an ox and a cow, every year, that they might see what punishment therefor the king would inflict upon them, and what damage the theft in his reign would cause to the king.

Now every year the farmer would come to the king to complain, and the king would say to him. "Go thou and address Donn Désá's three great-grandsons, for 'tis they that have taken the beasts." Whenever he went to speak to Donn Désá's descendants they would almost kill him, and he would not return to the king lest Conaire should attend his hurt.

Since, then, pride and wilfulness possessed them, they took to marauding, surrounded by the sons of the lords of the men of Erin. Thrice fifty men had they as pupils when they (the pupils) were werewolfing in the province of Connaught, until Maine Milscothach's swineherd saw them, and he had never seen that before. He went in flight. When they heard him they pursued him. The swineherd shouted, and the people of the two Mainés came to him, and the thrice fifty men were arrested, along with their auxiliaries, and taken to Tara. They consulted the king concerning the matter, and he said: "Let each (father) slay his son, but let my fosterlings be spared."

"Leave, leave!" says every one: "it shall be done for thee."

"Nay indeed," quoth he; "no 'cast of life' by me is the doom I have delivered. The men shall not be hung; but let veterans go with them that they may wreak their rapine on the men of Alba."

This they do. Thence they put to sea and met the son of the king of Britain, even Ingcél the One-eyed, grandson of Conmac: thrice fifty men and their veterans they met upon the sea.

They make an alliance, and go with Ingcél and wrought rapine with him.

This is the destruction which his own impulse gave him. That was the night that his mother and his father and his seven brothers had been bidden to the house of the king of his district. All of them were destroyed by Ingcél in a single night. Then the Irish pirates put out to sea to the land of Erin to seek a destruction as payment for that to which Ingcél had been entitled from them.

In Conaire's reign there was perfect peace in Erin, save that in Thomond there was a joining of battle between the two Carbres. Two fosterbrothers of his were they. And until Conaire came it was impossible to make peace between them. 'Twas a tabu of his to go to separate them before they had repaired to him. He went, however, although to do so was one of his tabus, and he made peace between them. He remained five nights with each of the two. That also was a tabu of his.

After settling the two quarrels, he was travelling to Tara. This is the way they took to Tara, past Usnech of Meath; and they saw the raiding from east and west, and from south and north, and they saw the warbands and the hosts, and the men stark-naked; and the land of the southern O'Neills was a cloud of fire around him.

"What is this?" asked Conaire. "Easy to say," his people answer.

"Easy to know that the king's law has broken down therein, since the country has begun to burn."

"Whither shall we betake ourselves?" says Conaire.

"To the Northeast," says his people.

So then they went righthandwise round Tara, and lefthandwise round Bregia, and the evil beasts of Cerna were hunted by him.

But he saw it not till the chase had ended.

They that made of the world that smoky mist of magic were elves, and they did so because Conaire's tabus had been violated.

Great fear then fell on Conaire because they had no way to wend save upon the Road of Midluachair and the Road of Cualu.

So they took their way by the coast of Ireland southward.

Then said Conaire on the Road of Cualu: "whither shall we go tonight?"

"May I succeed in telling thee! my fosterling Conaire," says Mac cecht, son of Snade Teiched, the champion of Conaire, son of Eterscél. "Oftener have the men of Erin been contending for thee every night than thou hast been wandering about for a guesthouse."

"Judgment goes with good times," says Conaire. "I had a friend in this country, if only we knew the way to his house!"

"What is his name?" asked Mac cecht.

"Dá Derga of Leinster," answered Conaire. "He came unto me to seek a gift from me, and he did not come with a refusal. I gave him a hundred kine of the drove. I gave him a hundred fatted swine. I gave him a hundred mantles made of close cloth. I gave him a hundred blue-coloured weapons of battle. I gave him ten red, gilded brooches. I gave him ten vats good and brown. I gave him ten thralls. I gave him ten querns. I gave him thrice nine hounds all-white in their silvern chains. I gave him a hundred race-horses in the herds of deer. There would be no abatement in his case though he should come again. He would make return. It is strange if he is surly to me tonight when reaching his abode."

"When I was acquainted with his house," says Mac cecht, "the road whereon thou art going towards him was the boundary of his abode. It continues till it enters his house, for through the house passes the road. There are seven doorways into the house, and seven bedrooms between every two doorways; but there is only one doorvalve on it, and that valve is turned to every doorway to which the wind blows."

"With all that thou hast here," says Conaire, "thou shalt go in thy great multitude until thou alight in the midst of the house."

"If so be," answers Mac cecht, "that thou goest thither, I go on that I may strike fire there ahead of thee."

When Conaire after this was journeying along the Road of Cuálu, he marked before him three horsemen riding towards the house. Three red frocks had they, and three red mantles: three red bucklers they bore, and three red spears were in their hands: three red steeds they bestrode, and three red heads of hair were on them. Red were they all, both body and hair and raiment, both steeds and men.

"Who is it that fares before us?" asked Conaire. "It was a tabu of mine for those Three to go before me—the three Reds to the house of Red. Who will follow them and tell them to come towards me in my track?"

"I will follow them," says Lé fri flaith, Conaire's son.

He goes after them, lashing his horse, and overtook them not.

There was the length of a spearcast between them: but they did not gain upon him and he did not gain upon them.

He told them not to go before the king. He overtook them not; but one of the three men sang a lay to him over his shoulder: "Lo, my son, great the news, news from a hostel ... Lo, my son!"

They go away from him then: he could not detain them.

The boy waited for the host. He told his father what was said to him. Conaire liked it not. "After them, thou!" says Conaire, "and offer them three oxen and three bacon-pigs, and so long as they shall be in my household, no one shall be among them from fire to wall."

So the lad goes after them, and offers them that, and overtook them not. But one of the three men sang a lay to him over his shoulder:

"Lo, my son, great the news! A generous king's great ardour whets thee, burns thee. Through ancient men's enchantments a company of nine yields. Lo, my son!"

The boy turns back and repeated the lay to Conaire.

"Go after them," says Conaire, "and offer them six oxen and six bacon-pigs, and my leavings, and gifts tomorrow, and so long as they shall be in my household no one to be among them from fire to wall."

The lad then went after them, and overtook them not; but one of the three men answered and said:

"Lo, my son, great the news. Weary are the steeds we ride. We ride the steeds of Donn Tetscorach from the elfmounds. Though we are alive we are dead. Great are the signs: destruction of life: sating of ravens: feeding of crows, strife of slaughter: wetting of sword-edge, shields with broken bosses in hours after sundown.

Lo, my son!"

Then they go from him.

"I see that thou hast not detained the men," says Conaire.

"Indeed it is not I that betrayed it," says Lé fri flaith.

He recited the last answer that they gave him. Conaire and his retainers were not blithe thereat: and afterwards evil forebodings of terror were on them.

"All my tabus have seized me tonight," says Conaire, "since those Three Reds are the banished folks."[4]

They went forward to the house and took their seats therein, and fastened their red steeds to the door of the house.

That is the Forefaring of the Three Reds in the Bruden Dá Derga.

This is the way that Conaire took with his troops, to Dublin.

'Tis then the man of the black, cropt hair, with his one hand and one eye and one foot, overtook them. Rough cropt hair upon him. Though a sackful of wild apples were flung on his crown, not an apple would fall on the ground, but each of them would stick on his hair. Though his snout were flung on a branch they would remain together. Long and thick as an outer yoke was each of his two shins. Each of his buttocks was the size of a cheese on a withe. A forked pole of iron black-pointed was in his hand. A swine, black-bristled, singed, was on his back, squealing continually, and a woman big-mouthed, huge, dark, sorry, hideous, was behind him. Though her snout were flung on a branch, the branch would support it. Her lower lip would reach her knee.

He starts forward to meet Conaire, and made him welcome.

"Welcome to thee, O master Conaire! Long hath thy coming hither been known."

"Who gives the welcome?" asks Conaire.

"Fer Caille here, with his black swine for thee to consume that thou be not fasting tonight, for 'tis thou art the best king that has come into the world!"

"What is thy wife's name?" says Conaire.

"Cichuil," he answers.

"Any other night," says Conaire, "that pleases you, I will come to you,—and leave us alone tonight."

"Nay," say the churl, "for we will go to thee to the place wherein thou wilt be tonight, O fair little master Conaire!"

So he goes towards the house, with his great, big-mouthed wife behind him, and his swine short-bristled, black, singed, squealing continually, on his back. That was one of Conaire's tabus, and that plunder should be taken in Ireland during his reign was another tabu of his.

Now plunder was taken by the sons of Donn Désa, and five hundred there were in the body of their marauders, besides what underlings were with them. This, too, was a tabu of Conaire's. There was a good warrior in the north country, "Wain over withered sticks," this was his name. Why he was so called was because he used to go over his opponent even as a wain would go over withered sticks. Now plunder was taken by him, and there were five hundred in the body of their marauders alone, besides underlings.

There was after that a troop of still haughtier heroes, namely, the seven sons of Ailill and Medb, each of whom was called "Mane&grave;." And each Mane&grave; had a nickname, to wit, Mane&grave; Fatherlike and Mane&grave; Motherlike, and Mane&grave; Gentle-pious, Mane&grave; Very-pious, Mane&grave; Unslow, and Mane&grave; Honeyworded, Mane&grave; Grasp-them-all, and Mane&grave; the Loquacious. Rapine was wrought by them. As to Mane&grave; Motherlike and Mane&grave; Unslow there were fourteen score in the body of their marauders. Mane&grave; Fatherlike had three hundred and fifty. Mane&grave; Honeyworded had five hundred. Mane&grave; Grasp-them-all had seven hundred. Mane&grave; the Loquacious had seven hundred. Each of the others had five hundred in the body of his marauders.

There was a valiant trio of the men of Cúalu of Leinster, namely, the three Red Hounds of Cualu, called Cethach and Clothach and Conall. Now rapine was wrought by them, and twelve score were in the body of their marauders, and they had a troop of madmen. In Conaire's reign a third of the men of Ireland were reavers. He was of sufficient strength and power to drive them out of the land of Erin so as to transfer their marauding to the other side (Great Britain), but after this transfer they returned to their country.

When they had reached the shoulder of the sea, they meet Ingcél. the One-eyed and Eiccel and Tulchinne, three great-grandsons of Conmac of Britain, on the raging of the sea. A man ungentle, huge, fearful, uncouth was Ingcél. A single eye in his head, as broad as an oxhide, as black as a chafer, with three pupils therein. Thirteen hundred were in the body of his marauders. The marauders of the men of Erin were more numerous than they.

They go for a sea-encounter on the main. "Ye should not do this," says Ingcél: "do not break the truth of men (fair play) upon us, for ye are more in number than I."

"Nought but a combat on equal terms shall befall thee," say the reavers of Erin.

"There is somewhat better for you," quoth Ingcél. "Let us make peace since ye have been cast out of the land of Erin, and we have been cast out of the land of Alba and Britain. Let us make an agreement between us. Come ye and wreak your rapine in my country, and I will go with you and wreak my rapine in your country."

They follow this counsel, and they gave pledges therefor from this side and from that. There are the sureties that were given to Ingcél by the men of Erin, namely, Fer gair and Gabur (or Fer lee) and Fer rogain, for the destruction that Ingcél should choose to cause in Ireland and for the destruction that the sons of Donn Désa should choose in Alba and Britain.

A lot was cast upon them to see with which of them they should go first. It fell that they should go with Ingcél to his country. So they made for Britain, and there his father and mother and his seven brothers were slain, as we have said before. Thereafter they made for Alba, and there they wrought the destruction, and then they returned to Erin.

'Tis then, now, that Conaire son of Eterscél went towards the Hostel along the Road of Cualu.

'Tis then that the reavers came till they were in the sea off the coast of Bregia overagainst Howth.

Then said the reavers: "Strike the sails, and make one band of you on the sea that ye may not be sighted from land; and let some lightfoot be found from among you to go on shore to see if we could save our honors with Ingcél. A destruction for the destruction he has given us."

"Who will go on shore to listen? Let some one go," says Ingcél, "who should have there the three gifts, namely, gift of hearing, gift of far sight, and gift of judgment."

"I," says Mane&grave; Honeyworded, "have the gift of hearing."

"And I," says Mane&grave; Unslow, "have the gift of far sight and of judgment."

"'Tis well for you to go thus," say the reavers: "good is that wise."

Then nine men go on till they were on the Hill of Howth, to know what they might hear and see.

"Be still a while!" says Mane&grave; Honeyworded.

"What is that?" asks Mane&grave; Unslow.

"The sound of a good king's cavalcade I hear."

"By the gift of far sight, I see," quoth his comrade.

"What seest thou here?"

"I see there," quoth he, "cavalcades splendid, lofty, beautiful, warlike, foreign, somewhat slender, weary, active, keen, whetted, vehement, a good course that shakes a great covering of land. They fare to many heights, with wondrous waters and invers."[5]

"What are the waters and heights and invers that they traverse?"

"Easy to say: Indéoin, Cult, Cuiltén, Máfat, Ammat, Iarmáfat, Finne, Goiste, Guistíne. Gray spears over chariots: ivory-hilted swords on thighs: silvery shields above their elbows. Half red and half white. Garments of every color about them.

"Thereafter I see before them special cattle specially keen, to wit, thrice fifty dark-gray steeds. Small-headed are they, red-nosed, pointed, broad-hoofed, big-nosed, red-chested, fat, easily-stopt, easily-yoked, foray-nimble, keen, whetted, vehement, with their thrice fifty bridles of red enamel upon them."

"I swear by what my tribe swears," says the man of the long sight, "these are the cattle of some good lord. This is my judgment thereof: it is Conaire, son of Eterscél, with multitudes of the men of Erin around him, who has travelled the road."

Back then they go that they may tell it to the reavers. "This," they say, "is what we have heard and seen."

Of this host, then, there was a multitude, both on this side and on that, namely, thrice fifty boats, with five thousand in them, and ten hundred in every thousand. Then they hoisted the sails on the boats, and steer them thence to shore, till they landed on the Strand of Fuirbthe.

When the boats reached land, then was Mac cecht a-striking fire in Dá Derga's Hostel. At the sound of the spark the thrice fifty boats were hurled out, so that they were on the shoulders of the sea.

"Be silent a while!" said Ingcél. "Liken thou that, O Fer rogain."

"I know not," answers Fer rogain, "unless it is Luchdonn the satirist in Emain Macha, who makes this handsmiting when his food is taken from him perforce: or the scream of Luchdonn in Temair Luachra: or Mac cecht's striking a spark, when he kindles a fire before a king of Erin where he sleeps. Every spark and every shower which his fire would let fall on the floor would broil a hundred calves and two half-pigs."

"May God not bring that man (even Conaire) there tonight!" say Donn Dés's sons. "Sad that he is under the hurt of foes!"

"Meseems," says Ingcél, "it should be no sadder for me than the destruction I gave you. This were my feast that Conaire should chance to come there."

Their fleet is steered to land. The noise that the thrice fifty vessels made in running ashore shook Dá Derga's Hostel so that no spear nor shield remained on rack therein, but the weapons uttered a cry and fell all on the floor of the house.

"Liken thou that, O Conaire," says every one: "what is this noise?"

"I know nothing like it unless it be the earth that has broken, or the Leviathan that surrounds the globe and strikes with its tail to overturn the world, or the barque of the sons of Donn Désa that has reached the shore. Alas that it should not be they who are there! Beloved foster-brothers of our own were they! Dear were the champions. We should not have feared them tonight."

Then came Conaire, so that he was on the green of the Hostel.

When Mac cecht heard the tumultuous noise, it seemed to him that warriors had attacked his people. Thereat he leapt on to his armour to help them. Vast as the thunderfeat of three hundred did they deem his game in leaping to his weapons. Thereof there was no profit.

Now in the bow of the ship wherein were Donn Désa's sons was the champion, greatly-accoutred, wrathful, the lion hard and awful, Ingcél the One-eyed, great-grandson of Conmac. Wide as an oxhide was the single eye protruding from his forehead, with seven pupils therein, which were black as a chafer. Each of his knees as big as a stripper's caldron; each of his two fists was the size of a reaping-basket: his buttocks as big as a cheese on a withe: each of his shins as long as an outer yoke.

So after that, the thrice fifty boats, and those five thousands—with ten hundred in every thousand,—landed on the Strand of Fuirbthe.

Then Conaire with his people entered the Hostel, and each took his seat within, both tabu and non-tabu. And the three Reds took their seats, and Fer caille with his swine took his seat.

Thereafter Dá Derga came to them, with thrice fifty warriors, each of them having a long head of hair to the hollow of his polls, and a short cloak to their buttocks. Speckled-green drawers they wore, and in their hands were thrice fifty great clubs of thorn with bands of iron.

"Welcome, O master Conaire!" quoth he. "Though the bulk of the men of Erin were to come with thee, they themselves would have a welcome."

When they were there they saw a lone woman coming to the door of the Hostel, after sunset, and seeking to be let in. As long as a weaver's beam was each of her two shins, and they were as dark as the back of a stag-beetle. A greyish, wooly mantle she wore. Her lower hair used to reach as far as her knee. Her lips were on one side of her head.

She came and put one of her shoulders against the door-post of the house, casting the evil eye on the king and the youths who surrounded him in the Hostel. He himself addressed her from within.

"Well, O woman," says Conaire, "if thou art a wizard, what seest thou for us?"

"Truly I see for thee," she answers, "that neither fell nor flesh of thine shall escape from the place into which thou hast come, save what birds will bear away in their claws."

"It was not an evil omen we foreboded, O woman," saith he: "it is not thou that always augurs for us. What is thy name, O woman?"

"Cailb," she answers.

"That is not much of a name," says Conaire.

"Lo, many are my names besides."

"Which be they?" asks Conaire.

"Easy to say," quoth she. "Samon, Sinand, Seisclend, Sodb, Caill, Coll, Díchóem, Dichiúil, Díthím, Díchuimne, Dichruidne, Dairne, Dáríne, Déruaine, Egem, Agam, Ethamne, Gním, Cluiche, Cethardam, Níth, Némain, Nóennen, Badb, Blosc, B[l]oár, Huae, óe Aife la Sruth, Mache, Médé, Mod."

On one foot, and holding up one hand, and breathing one breath she sang all that to them from the door of the house.

"I swear by the gods whom I adore," says Conaire, "that I will call thee by none of these names whether I shall be here a long or a short time."

"What dost thou desire?" says Conaire.

"That which thou, too, desirest," she answered.

"'Tis a tabu of mine," says Conaire, "to receive the company of one woman after sunset."

"Though it be a tabu," she replied, "I will not go until my guesting come at once this very night."

"Tell her," says Conaire, "that an ox and a bacon-pig shall be taken out to her, and my leavings: provided that she stays tonight in some other place."

"If in sooth," she says, "it has befallen the king not to have room in his house for the meal and bed of a solitary woman, they will be gotten apart from him from some one possessing generosity—if the hospitality of the Prince in the Hostel has departed."

"Savage is the answer!" says Conaire. "Let her in, though it is a tabu of mine."

Great loathing they felt after that from the woman's converse, and ill-foreboding; but they knew not the cause thereof.

The reavers afterwards landed, and fared forth till they were at Lecca cinn slébe. Ever open was the Hostel. Why it was called a Bruden was because it resembles the lips of a man blowing a fire.

Great was the fire which was kindled by Conaire every night, to wit, a "Boar of the Wood." Seven outlets it had. When a log was cut out of its side every flame that used to come forth at each outlet was a big as the blaze of a burning oratory. There were seventeen of Conaire's chariots at every door of the house, and by those that were looking from the vessels that great light was clearly seen through the wheels of the chariots.

"Canst thou say, O Fer rogain, what that great light yonder resembles?"

"I cannot liken it to aught," answers Fer rogain, "unless it be the fire of a king. May God not bring that man there tonight! 'Tis a pity to destroy him!"

"What then deemest thou," says Ingcél, "of that man's reign in the land of Erin?"

"Good is his reign," replied Fer rogain. "Since he assumed the kingship, no cloud has veiled the sun for the space of a day from the middle of spring to the middle of autumn. And not a dewdrop fell from grass till midday, and wind would not touch a beast's tail until nones. And in his reign, from year's end to year's end, no wolf has attacked aught save one bullcalf of each byre; and to maintain this rule there are seven wolves in hostageship at the sidewall in his house, and behind this a further security, even Maclocc, and 'tis he that pleads for them in Conaire's house. In Conaire's reign are the three crowns on Erin, namely, crown of corn-ears, and crown of flowers, and crown of oak mast. In his reign, too, each man deems the other's voice as melodious as the strings of lutes, because of the excellence of the law and the peace and the goodwill prevailing throughout Erin. May God not bring that man there tonight! 'Tis sad to destroy him. 'Tis a branch through its blossom.' 'Tis a swine that falls before must. 'Tis an infant in age.

Sad is the shortness of his life!"

"This was my luck," says Ingcél, "that he should be there, and there should be one Destruction for another. It were not more grievous to me than my father and my mother and my seven brothers, and the king of my country, whom I gave up to you before coming on the transfer of the rapine."

"'Tis true, 'tis true!" say the evildoers who were along with the reavers.

The reavers make a start from the Strand of Fuirbthe, and bring a stone for each man to make a cairn; for this was the distinction which at first the Fians made between a "Destruction" and a "Rout." A pillar-stone they used to plant when there would be a Rout. A cairn, however, they used to make when there would be a Destruction. At this time, then, they made a cairn, for it was a Destruction. Far from the house was this, that they might not be heard or seen therefrom.

For two causes they built their cairn, namely, first, since this was a custom in marauding, and, secondly, that they might find out their losses at the Hostel. Every one that would come safe from it would take his stone from the cairn: thus the stones of those that were slain would be left, and thence they would know their losses. And this is what men skilled in story recount, that for every stone in Carn leca there was one of the reavers killed at the Hostel. From that cairn Leca in Húi Cellaig is so called.

A "boar of a fire" is kindled by the sons of Donn Désa to give warning to Conaire. So that is the first warning-beacon that has been made in Erin, and from it to this day every warning-beacon is kindled.

This is what others recount: that it was on the eve of samain (All-Saints-day) the destruction of the Hostel was wrought, and that from yonder beacon the beacon of samain is followed from that to this, and stones (are placed) in the samain-fire.

Then the reavers framed a counsel at the place where they had put the cairn.

"Well, then," says Ingcél to the guides, "what is nearest to us here?"

"Easy to say: the Hostel of Hua Derga, chief-hospitaller of Erin."

"Good men indeed," says Ingcél, "were likely to seek their fellows at that Hostel to-night."

This, then, was the counsel of the reavers, to send one of them to see how things were there.

"Who will go there to espy the house?" say everyone.

"Who should go," says Ingcél, "but I, for 'tis I that am entitled to dues."

Ingcél went to reconnoitre the Hostel with one of the seven pupils of the single eye which stood out of his forehead, to fit his eye into the house in order to destroy the king and the youths who were around him therein. And Ingcél saw them through the wheels of the chariots.

Then Ingcél was perceived from the house. He made a start from it after being perceived.

He went till he reached the reavers in the stead wherein they were. Each circle of them was set around another to hear the tidings—the chiefs of the reavers being in the very centre of the circles. There were Fer gér and Fer gel and Fer rogel and Fer rogain and Lomna the Buffoon, and Ingcél the One-eyed—six in the centre of the circles. And Fer rogain went to question Ingcél.

"How is that, O Ingcél?" asks Fer rogain.

"However it be," answers Ingcél, "royal is the custom, hostful is the tumult: kingly is the noise thereof. Whether a king be there or not, I will take the house for what I have a right to. Thence my turn of rapine cometh."

"We have left it in thy hand, O Ingcél!" say Conaire's foster-brothers. "But we should not wreak the Destruction will we know who may be therein."

"Question, hast thou seen the house well, O Ingcél?" asks Fer rogain.

"Mine eye cast a rapid glance around it, and I will accept it for my dues as it stands."

"Thou mayest well accept it, O Ingcél," saith Fer rogain: "the foster father of us all is there, Erin's overking, Conaire, son of Eterscél."

"Question, what sawest thou in the champion's high seat of the house, facing the King, on the opposite side?"

1: l. e., twenty-one cows.

2: This passage indicates the existence in Ireland of totems, and of the rule that the person to whom a totem belongs must not kill the totem-animal.—W. S.

3: The mouth of the river Boyne.—W. S.

4: They had been banished from the elfmounds, and for them to precede Conaire was to violate one of his tabus.—W. S.

5: Mouths of rivers.

The Room of Cormac Condlongas

"I saw there," says Ingcél, "a man of noble countenance, large, with a clear and sparkling eye, an even set of teeth, a face narrow below, broad above. Fair, flaxen, golden hair upon him, and a proper fillet around it. A brooch of silver in his mantle, and in his hand a gold-hilted sword. A shield with five golden circles upon it: a five-barbed javelin in his hand. A visage just, fair, ruddy he hath: he is also beardless. Modest-minded is that man!"

"And after that, whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of Cormac's Nine Comrades

"There I saw three men to the west of Cormac, and three to the east of him, and three in front of the same man. Thou wouldst deem that the nine of them had one mother and one father. They are of the same age, equally goodly, equally beautiful, all alike. Thin rods of gold in their mantles. Bent shields of bronze they bear. Ribbed javelins above them. An ivory-hilted sword in the hand of each. An unique feat they have, to wit, each of them takes his sword's point between his two fingers, and they twirl the swords round their fingers, and the swords afterwards extend themselves by themselves. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain," says Ingcél.

"Easy," says Fer rogain, "for me to liken them. It is Conchobar's son, Cormac Condlongas, the best hero behind a shield in the land of Erin. Of modest mind is that boy! Evil is what he dreads tonight. He is a champion of valour for feats of arms; he is an hospitaller for householding. These are you nine who surround him, the three Dúngusses, and the three Doelgusses, and the three Dangusses, the nine comrades of Cormac Condlongas, son of Conchobar. They have never slain men on account of their misery, and they never spared them on account of their prosperity. Good is the hero who is among them, even Cormac Condlongas. I swear what my tribe swears, nine times ten will fall by Cormac in his first onset, and nine times ten will fall by his people, besides a man for each of their weapons, and a man for each of themselves. And Cormac will share prowess with any man before the Hostel, and he will boast of victory over a king or crown-prince or noble of the reavers; and he himself will chance to escape, though all his people be wounded."

"Woe to him who shall wreak this Destruction!" says Lomna Drúth, "even because of that one man, Cormac Condlongas, son of Conchobar." "I swear what my tribe swears," says Lomna son of Donn Désa, "if I could fulfil my counsel, the Destruction would not be attempted were it only because of that one man, and because of the hero's beauty and goodness!"

"It is not feasible to prevent it," says Ingcél: "clouds of weakness come to you. A keen ordeal which will endanger two cheeks of a goat will be opposed by the oath of Fer rogain, who will run. Thy voice, O Lomna," says Ingcél, "hath taken breaking upon thee: thou art a worthless warrior, and I know thee. Clouds of weakness come to you....

Neither old men nor historians shall declare that I quitted the Destruction, until I shall wreak it."

"Reproach not our honour, O Ingcél," say Gér and Gabur and Fer rogain. "The Destruction shall be wrought unless the earth break under it, until all of us are slain thereby."

"Truly, then, thou hast reason, O Ingcél," says Lomna Drúth son of Donn Désa. "Not to thee is the loss caused by the Destruction. Thou wilt carry off the head of the king of a foreign country, with thy slaughter of another; and thou and thy brothers will escape from the Destruction, even Ingcél and Ecell and the Yearling of the Rapine."

"Harder, however, it is for me," says Lomna Drúth: "woe is me before every one! woe is me after every one! 'Tis my head that will be first tossed about there to-night after an hour among the chariot-shafts, where devilish foes will meet. It will be flung into the Hostel thrice, and thrice will it be flung forth. Woe to him that comes! woe to him with whom one goes! woe to him to whom one goes! Wretches are they that go! wretches are they to whom they go!"

"There is nothing that will come to me," says Ingcél, "in place of my mother and my father and my seven brothers, and the king of my district, whom ye destroyed with me. There is nothing that I shall not endure henceforward."

"Though a ... should go through them," say Gér and Gabur and Fer rogain, "the Destruction will be wrought by thee to-night."

"Woe to him who shall put them under the hands of foes!" says Lomna. "And whom sawest thou afterwards?"

The Room of the Picts, this

"I saw another room there, with a huge trio in it: three brown, big men: three round heads of hair on them, even, equally long at nape and forehead. Three short black cowls about them reaching to their elbows: long hoods were on the cowls. Three black, huge swords they had, and three black shields they bore, with three dark broad-green javelins above them. Thick as the spit of a caldron was the shaft of each. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Hard it is for me to find their like. I know not in Erin that trio, unless it be yon trio of Pictland, who went into exile from their country, and are now in Conaire's household. These are their names: Dublonges son of Trebúat, and Trebúat son of Húa-Lonsce, and Curnach son of Húa Fáich. The three who are best in Pictland at taking arms are that trio. Nine decads will fall at their hands in their first encounter, and a man will fall for each of their weapons, besides one for each of themselves. And they will share prowess with every trio in the Hostel. They will boast a victory over a king or a chief of the reavers; and they will afterwards escape though wounded. Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction, though it be only on account of those three!"

Says Lomna Druth: "I swear to God what my tribe swears, if my counsel were taken, the Destruction would never be wrought."

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél: "clouds of weakness are coming to you. A keen ordeal which will endanger, etc. And whom sawest thou there afterwards?"

The Room of the Pipers

"There I beheld a room with nine men in it. Hair fair and yellow was on them: they all are equally beautiful. Mantles speckled with colour they wore, and above them were nine bagpipes, four-tuned, ornamented. Enough light in the palace were the ornament on these four-tuned pipes. Liken thou them, O Fer rogain."

"Easy for me to liken them," says Fer rogain. "Those are the nine pipers that came to Conaire out of the Elfmound of Bregia, because of the noble tales about him. These are their names: Bind, Robind, Riarbind, Sibe&grave;, Dibe&grave;, Deichrind, Umall, Cumal, Ciallglind. They are the best pipers in the world. Nine enneads will fall before them, and a man for each of their weapons, and a man for each of themselves. And each of them will boast a victory over a king or a chief of the reavers. And they will escape from the Destruction; for a conflict with them will be a conflict with a shadow. They will slay, but they will not be slain, for they are out of an elfmound. Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction, though it be only because of those nine!"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds of weakness come to you," etc. "And after that, whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of Conaire's Majordomo

"There I saw a room with one man in it. Rough cropt hair upon him. Though a sack of crab-apples should be flung on his head, not one of them would fall on the floor, but every apple would stick on his hair. His fleecy mantle was over him in the house. Every quarrel therein about seat or bed comes to his decision. Should a needle drop in the house, its fall would be heard when he speaks. Above him is a huge black tree, like a millshaft, with its paddles and its cap and its spike. Liken thou him, O Fer rogain!"

"Easy for me is this. Tuidle of Ulaid is he, the steward of Conaire's household. 'Tis needful to hearken to the decision of that man, the man that rules seat and bed and food for each. 'Tis his household staff that is above him. That man will fight with you. I swear what my tribe swears, the dead at the Destruction slain by him will be more numerous than the living. Thrice his number will fall by him, and he himself will fall there. Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction!" etc.

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds of weakness come upon you. What sawest thou there after that?"

The Room of Mac cecht, Conaire's battle-soldier

There I beheld another room with a trio in it, three half-furious nobles: the biggest of them in the middle, very noisy ... rockbodied, angry, smiting, dealing strong blows, who beats nine hundred in battle-conflict. A wooden shield, dark, covered with iron, he bears, with a hard ... rim, a shield whereon would fit the proper litter of four troops of ten weaklings on its ... of ... leather. A ... boss thereon, the depth of a caldron, fit to cook four oxen, a hollow maw, a great boiling, with four swine in its mid-maw great ... At his two smooth sides are two five-thwarted boats fit for three parties of ten in each of his two strong fleets.

A spear he hath, blue-red, hand-fitting, on its puissant shaft. It stretches along the wall on the roof and rests on the ground. An iron point upon it, dark-red, dripping. Four amply-measured feet between the two points of its edge.

Thirty amply-measured feet in his deadly-striking sword from dark point to iron hilt. It shews forth fiery sparks which illumine the Mid-court House from roof to ground.

'Tis a strong countenance that I see. A swoon from horror almost befell me while staring at those three. There is nothing stranger.

Two bare hills were there by the man with hair. Two loughs by a mountain of the ... of a blue-fronted wave: two hides by a tree. Two boats near them full of thorns of a white thorn tree on a circular board. And there seems to me somewhat like a slender stream of water on which the sun is shining, and its trickle down from it, and a hide arranged behind it, and a palace house-post shaped like a great lance above it. A good weight of a plough-yoke is the shaft that is therein. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!

"Easy, meseems, to liken him! That is Mac cecht son of Snaide Teichid; the battle-solider of Conaire son of Eterscél. Good is the hero Mac cecht! Supine he was in his room, in his sleep, when thou beheldest him. The two bare hills which thou sawest by the man with hair, these are his two knees by his head. The two loughs by the mountain which thou sawest, these are his two eyes by his nose. The two hides by a tree which thou sawest, these are his two ears by his head. The two five-thwarted boats on a circular board, which thou sawest, these are his two sandals on his shield. The slender stream of water which thou sawest, whereon the sun shines, and its trickle down from it, this is the flickering of his sword. The hide which thou sawest arranged behind him, that is his sword's scabbard. The palace-housepost which thou sawest, that is his lance: and he brandishes this spear till its two ends meet, and he hurls a wilful cast of it when he pleases. Good is the hero, Mac cecht!"

"Six hundred will fall by him in his first encounter, and a man for each of his weapons, besides a man for himself. And he will share prowess with every one in the Hostel, and he will boast of triumph over a king or chief of the reavers in front of the Hostel. He will chance to escape though wounded. And when he shall chance to come upon you out of the house, as numerous as hailstones, and grass on a green, and stars of heaven will be your cloven heads and skulls, and the clots of your brains, your bones and the heaps of your bowels, crushed by him and scattered throughout the ridges."

Then with trembling and terror of Mac cecht they flee over three ridges.

They took the pledges among them again, even Gér and Gabur and Fer rogain.

"Woe to him that shall wreak the Destruction," says Lomna Drúth; "your heads will depart from you."

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél: "clouds of weakness are coming to you" etc.

"True indeed, O Ingcél," says Lomna Drúth son of Donn Désa.

"Not unto thee is the loss caused by the Destruction. Woe is me for the Destruction, for the first head that will reach the Hostel will be mine!"

"'Tis harder for me," says Ingcél: "'tis my destruction that has been ... there.

"Truly then," says Ingcél, "maybe I shall be the corpse that is frailest there," etc.

"And afterwards whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of Conaire's three sons, Oball and Oblin and Corpre

"There I beheld a room with a trio in it, to wit, three tender striplings, wearing three silken mantles. In their mantles were three golden brooches. Three golden-yellow manes were on them. When they undergo head-cleansing their golden-yellow mane reaches the edge of their haunches. When they raise their eye it raises the hair so that it is not lower than the tips of their ears, and it is as curly as a ram's head. A ... of gold and a palace-flambeau above each of them. Every one who is in the house spares them, voice and deed and word. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain," says Ingcél.

Fer rogain wept, so that his mantle in front of him became moist. And no voice was gotten out of his head till a third of the night had passed.

"O little ones," says Fer rogain, "I have good reason for what I do! Those are three sons of the king of Erin: Oball and Oblíne and Corpre Findmor."

"It grieves us if the tale be true," say the sons of Donn Désa.

"Good is the trio in that room. Manners of ripe maidens have they, and hearts of brothers, and valours of bears, and furies of lions. Whosoever is in their company and in their couch, and parts from them, he sleeps not and eats not at ease till the end of nine days, from lack of their companionship. Good are the youths for their age! Thrice ten will fall by each of them in their first encounter, and a man for each weapon, and three men for themselves. And one of the three will fall there. Because of that trio, woe to him that shall wreak the Destruction!"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél: "clouds of weakness are coming to you, etc. And whom sawest thou afterwards?"

The Room of the Fomorians

I beheld there a room with a trio in it, to wit, a trio horrible, unheard-of, a triad of champions, etc.

Liken thou that, O Fer rogain?

"'Tis hard for me to liken that trio. Neither of the men of Erin nor of the men of the world do I know it, unless it be the trio that Mac cecht brought out of the land of the Fomorians by dint of duels. Not one of the Fomorians was found to fight him, so he brought away those three, and they are in Conaire's house as sureties that, while Conaire is reigning, the Fomorians destroy neither corn nor milk in Erin beyond their fair tribute. Well may their aspect be loathy! Three rows of teeth in their heads from one ear to another. An ox with a bacon-pig, this is the ration of each of them, and that ration which they put into their mouths is visible till it comes down past their navels. Bodies of bone (i. e. without a joint in them) all those three have. I swear what my tribe swears, more will be killed by them at the Destruction than those they leave alive. Six hundred warriors will fall by them in their first conflict, and a man for each of their weapons, and one for each of the three themselves. And they will boast a triumph over a king or chief of the reavers. It will not be more than with a bite or a blow or a kick that each of those men will kill, for no arms are allowed them in the house, since they are in 'hostageship at the wall' lest they do a misdeed therein. I swear what my tribe swears, if they had armour on them, they would slay us all but a third. Woe to him that shall wreak the Destruction, because it is not a combat against sluggards."

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél, etc. "And whom sawest thou there after that?"

The Room of Munremar son of Gerrchenn and Birderg son of Ruan and Mál son of Telband

"I beheld a room there, with a trio in it. Three brown, big men, with three brown heads of short hair. Thick calf-bottoms (ankles?) they had. As thick as a man's waist was each of their limbs. Three brown and curled masses of hair upon them, with a thick head: three cloaks, red and speckled, they wore: three black shields with clasps of gold, and three five-barbed javelins; and each had in hand an ivory-hilted sword. This is the feat they perform with their swords: they throw them high up, and they throw the scabbards after them, and the swords, before reaching the ground, place themselves in the scabbards. Then they throw the scabbards first, and the swords after them, and the scabbards meet the swords and place themselves round them before they reach the ground. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easy for me to liken them! Mál son of Telband, and Munremar son of Gerrchenn, and Birderg son of Rúan. Three crown-princes, three champions of valour, three heroes the best behind weapons in Erin! A hundred heroes will fall by them in their first conflict, and they will share prowess with every man in the Hostel, and they will boast of the victory over a king or chief of the reavers, and afterwards they will chance to escape. The Destruction should not be wrought even because of those three."

"Woe to him that shall wreak the Destruction!" says Lomna. "Better were the victory of saving them than the victory of slaying them! Happy he who should save them! Woe to him that shall slay them!"

"It is not feasible," says Ingcél, etc. "And afterwards whom sawest thou?"

The Room of Conall Cernach

"There I beheld in a decorated room the fairest man of Erin's heroes. He wore a tufted purple cloak. White as snow was one of his cheeks, the other was red and speckled like foxglove. Blue as hyacinth was one of his eyes, dark as a stag-beetle's back was the other. The bushy head of fair golden hair upon him was as large as a reaping-basket, and it touches the edge of his haunches. It is as curly as a ram's head. If a sackful of red-shelled nuts were spilt on the crown of his head, not one of them would fall on the floor, but remain on the hooks and plaits and swordlets of their hair. A gold hilted sword in his hand; a blood-red shield which has been speckled with rivets of white bronze between plates of gold. A long, heavy, three-ridged spear: as thick as an outer yoke is the shaft that is in it. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easy for me to liken him, for the men of Erin know that scion. That is Conall Cernach, son of Amorgen. He has chanced to be along with Conaire at this time. 'Tis he whom Conaire loves beyond every one, because of his resemblance to him in goodness of form and shape. Goodly is the hero that is there, Conall Cernach! To that blood-red shield on his fist, which has been speckled with rivets of white bronze, the Ulaid have given a famous name, to wit, the Bricriu of Conall Cernach.

"I swear what my tribe swears, plenteous will be the rain of red blood over it to-night before the Hostel! That ridged spear above him, many will there be unto whom to-night, before the Hostel, it will deal drinks of death. Seven doorways there are out of the house, and Conall Cernach will contrive to be at each of them, and from no doorway will he be absent. Three hundred will fall by Conall in his first conflict, besides a man for each (of his) weapons and one for himself. He will share prowess with every one in the Hostel, and when he shall happen to sally upon you from the house, as numerous as hailstones and grass on green and stars of heaven will be your half-heads and cloven skulls, and your bones under the point of his sword. He will succeed in escaping though wounded. Woe to him that shall wreak the Destruction, were it but for this man only!"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds," etc.

"And after that whom sawest thou?"

"There I beheld a room, more beautifully decorated than the other rooms of the house. A silvery curtain around it, and there were ornaments in the room. I beheld a trio in it. The outer two of them were, both of them, fair, with their hair and eyelashes; and they are as bright as snow. A very lovely blush on the cheek of each of the twain. A tender lad in the midst between them. The ardour and energy of a king has he and the counsel of a sage. The mantle I saw around him is even as the mist of Mayday. Diverse are the hue and semblance each moment shewn upon it. Lovelier is each hue than the other. In front of him in the mantle I beheld a wheel of gold which reached from his chin to his navel. The colour of his hair was like the sheen of smelted gold. Of all the world's forms that I beheld, this is the most beautiful. I saw his golden-hilted glaive down beside him. A forearm's length of the sword was outside the scabbard. That forearm, a man down in the front of the house could see a fleshworm by the shadow of the sword! Sweeter is the melodious sounding of the sword than the melodious sound of the golden pipes that accompany music in the palace."

"Then," quoth Ingcél, "I said, gazing at him:

I see a high, stately prince, etc.

I see a famous king, etc.

I see his white prince's diadem, etc.

I see his two blue-bright cheeks, etc.

I see his high wheel ... round his head ... which is over his yellow-curly hair.

I see his mantle red, many-coloured, etc.

I see therein a huge brooch of gold, etc.

I see his beautiful linen frock ... from ankle to kneecaps.

I see his sword golden-hilted, inlaid, in its scabbard of white silver, etc.

I see his shield bright, chalky, etc.

A tower of inlaid gold," etc.

Now the tender warrior was asleep, with his feet in the lap of one of the two men and his head in the lap of the other. Then he awoke out of his sleep, and arose, and chanted this lay:

"The howl of Ossar (Conaire's dog) ... cry of warriors on the summit of Tol Géisse; a cold wind over edges perilous: a night to destroy a king is this night."

He slept again, and awoke thereout, and sang this rhetoric:

"The howl of Ossar ... a battle he announced: enslavement of a people: sack of the Hostel: mournful are the champions: men wounded: wind of terror: hurling of javelins: trouble of unfair fight: wreck of houses: Tara waste: a foreign heritage: like is lamenting Conaire: destruction of corn: feast of arms: cry of screams: destruction of Erin's king: chariots a-tottering: oppression of the king of Tara: lamentations will overcome laughter: Ossar's howl."

He said the third time:

"Trouble hath been shewn to me: a multitude of elves: a host supine; foes' prostration: a conflict of men on the Dodder[1]: oppression of Tara's king: in youth he was destroyed: lamentations will overcome laughter: Ossar's howl."

"Liken thou, O Fer rogain, him who has sung that lay."

"Easy for me to liken him," says Fer rogain. No "conflict without a king" this. He is the most splendid and noble and beautiful and mighty king that has come into the whole world. He is the mildest and gentlest and most perfect king that has come to it, even Conaire son of Eterscél. 'Tis he that is overking of all Erin. There is no defect in that man, whether in form or shape or vesture: whether in size or fitness or proportion, whether in eye or hair or brightness, whether in wisdom or skill or eloquence, whether in weapon or dress or appearance, whether in splendour or abundance or dignity, whether in knowledge or valour or kindred.

"Great is the tenderness of the sleepy simple man till he has chanced on a deed of valour. But if his fury and his courage be awakened when the champions of Erin and Alba are at him in the house, the Destruction will not be wrought so long as he is therein. Six hundred will fall by Conaire before he shall attain his arms, and seven hundred will fall by him in his first conflict after attaining his arms. I swear to God what my tribe swears, unless drink be taken from him, though there be no one else in the house, but he alone, he would hold the Hostel until help would reach it which the man would prepare for him from the Wave of Clidna[2] and the Wave of Assaroe[3] while ye are at the Hostel.

"Nine doors there are to the house, and at each door a hundred warriors will fall by his hand. And when every one in the house has ceased to ply his weapon, 'tis then he will resort to a deed of arms. And if he chance to come upon you out of the house, as numerous as hailstones and grass on a green will be your halves of heads and your cloven skulls and your bones under the edge of his sword.

"'Tis my opinion that he will not chance to get out of the house. Dear to him are the two that are with him in the room, his two fosterers, Dris and Snithe. Thrice fifty warriors will fall before each of them in front of the Hostel, and not farther than a foot from him, on this side and that, will they too fall."

"Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction, were it only because of that pair and the prince that is between them, the over-king of Erin, Conaire son of Eterscél! Sad were the quenching of that reign!" says Lomna Drúth, son of Donn Désa.

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds of weakness are coming to you," etc.

"Good cause hast thou, O Ingcél," says Lomna son of Donn Désa.

"Not unto thee is the loss caused by the Destruction: for thou wilt carry off the head of the king of another country, and thyself will escape. Howbeit 'tis hard for me, for I shall be the first to be slain at the Hostel."

"Alas for me!" says Ingcél, "peradventure I shall be the frailest corpse," etc.

"And whom sawest thou afterwards?"

1: A small river near Dublin, which is said to have passed through the Bruden.—W. S.

2: In the bay of Glandore, co. Cork.—W. S.

3: At Ballyshannon, co. Donegal.—W. S.

The Room of the Rearguards

"There I saw twelve men on silvery hurdles all around that room of the king. Light yellow hair was on them. Blue kilts they wore. Equally beautiful were they, equally hardy, equally shapely. An ivory-hilted sword in each man's hand, and they cast them not down; but it is the horse-rods in their hands that are all round the room. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain."

"Easy for me to say. The king of Tara's guardsmen are there. These are their names: three Londs of Liffey-plain: three Arts of Ath cliath (Dublin): three Buders of Buagnech: and three Trénfers of Cuilne. I swear what my tribe swears, that many will be the dead by them around the Hostel.

And they will escape from it although they are wounded. Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction were it only because of that band! And afterwards whom sawest thou there?"

Le fri flaith son of Conaire, whose likeness this is

"There I beheld a red-freckled boy in a purple cloak. He is always a-wailing in the house. A stead wherein is the king of a cantred, whom each man takes from bosom to bosom.

"So he is with a blue silvery chair under his seat in the midst of the house, and he always a-wailing. Truly then, sad are his household listening to him! Three heads of hair on that boy, and these are the three: green hair and purple hair and all-golden hair. I know not whether they are many appearances which the hair receives, or whether they are three kinds of hair which are naturally upon him. But I know that evil is the thing he dreads to-night. I beheld thrice fifty boys on silvern chairs around him, and there were fifteen bulrushes in the hand of that red-freckled boy, with a thorn at the end of each of the rushes. And we were fifteen men, and our fifteen right eyes were blinded by him, and he blinded one of the seven pupils which was in my head," saith Ingcél. "Hast thou his like, O Fer rogain?"

"Easy for me to liken him!" Fer rogain wept till he shed his tears of blood over his cheeks. "Alas for him!" quoth he. "This child is a 'scion of contention' for the men of Erin with the men of Alba for hospitality, and shape, and form and horsemanship. Sad is his slaughter! 'Tis a 'swine that goes before mast,' 'tis a babe in age! the best crown-prince that has ever come into Erin! The child of Conaire son of Eterscél, Lé fri flaith is his name. Seven years there are in his age. It seems to me very likely that he is miserable because of the many appearances on his hair and the various hues that the hair assumes upon him. This is his special household, the thrice fifty lads that are around him."

"Woe," says Lomna, "to him that shall wreak the Destruction, were it only because of that boy!"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds of weakness are coming on you, etc." "And after that whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of the Cupbearers

"There I saw six men in front of the same room. Fair yellow manes upon them: green mantles about them: tin brooches at the opening of their mantles. Half-horses (centaurs) are they, like Conall Cernach. Each of them throws his mantle round another and is as swift as a millwheel. Thine eye can hardly follow them. Liken thou those, O Fer rogain!"

"This is easy for me. Those are the King of Tara's six cupbearers, namely Uan and Broen and Banna, Delt and Drucht and Dathen. That feat does not hinder them from their skinking, and it blunts not their intelligence thereat. Good are the warriors that are there! Thrice their number will fall by them. They will share prowess with any six in the Hostel, and they will escape from their foes, for they are out of the elfmounds. They are the best cupbearers in Erin. Woe to him that shall wreak the Destruction were it only because of them!"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds, etc." "And after that, whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of Tulchinne the Juggler

"There I beheld a great champion, in front of the same room, on the floor of the house. The shame of baldness is on him. White as mountain cotton-grass is each hair that grows through his head. Earrings of gold around his ears. A mantle speckled, coloured, he wore. Nine swords in his hand, and nine silvern shields, and nine apples of gold. He throws each of them upwards, and none of them falls on the ground, and there is only one of them on his palm; each of them rising and falling past another is just like the movement to and fro of bees on a day of beauty. When he was swiftest, I beheld him at the feat, and as I looked, they uttered a cry about him and they were all on the house-floor. Then the Prince who is in the house said to the juggler: 'We have come together since thou wast a little boy, and till to-night thy juggling never failed thee.'

"'Alas, alas, fair master Conaire, good cause have I. A keen, angry eye looked at me: a man with the third of a pupil which sees the going of the nine bands. Not much to him is that keen, wrathful sight! Battles are fought with it,' saith he. 'It should be known till doomsday that there is evil in front of the Hostel.'

"Then he took the swords in his hand, and the silvern shields and the apples of gold; and again they uttered a cry and were all on the floor of the house. That amazed him, and he gave over his play and said:

'O Fer caille, arise! Do not ... its slaughter. Sacrifice thy pig! Find out who is in front of the house to injure the men of the Hostel.'

'There,' said he, 'are Fer Cualngi, Fer lé, Fer gar, Fer rogel, Fer rogain. They have announced a deed which is not feeble, the annihilation of Conaire by Donn Désa's five sons, by Conaire's five loving foster-brothers.'

"Liken thou that, O Fer rogain! Who has chanted that lay?"

"Easy for me to liken him," says Fer rogain. "Taulchinne the chief juggler of the King of Tara; he is Conaire's conjurer. A man of great might is that man. Thrice nine will fall by him in his first encounter, and he will share prowess with every one in the Hostel, and he will chance to escape therefrom though wounded. What then? Even on account of this man only the Destruction should not be wrought."

"Long live he who should spare him!" says Lomna Drúth.

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél, etc.

The Room of the Swineherds

"I beheld a trio in the front of the house: three dark crowntufts on them: three green frocks around them: three dark mantles over them: three forked ... (?) above them on the side of the wall. Six black greaves they had on the mast. Who are yon, O Fer rogain?"

"Easy to say," answers Fer rogain: "the three swineherds of the king, Dub and Donn and Dorcha: three brothers are they, three sons of Mapher of Tara. Long live he who should protect them! woe to him who shall slay them! for greater would be the triumph of protecting them than the triumph of slaying them!"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél, etc.

The Room of the Principal Charioteers

"I beheld another trio in front of them: three plates of gold on their foreheads: three short aprons they wore, of grey linen embroidered with gold: three crimson capes about them: three goads of bronze in their hands. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"I know them," he answered. "Cul and Frecul and Forcul, the three charioteers of the King: three of the same age: three sons of Pole and Yoke. A man will perish by each of their weapons, and they will share the triumph of slaughter."

The Room of Cuscrad Son of Conchobar

"I beheld another room. Therein were eight swordsmen, and among them a stripling. Black hair is on him, and very stammering speech has he. All the folk of the Hostel listen to his counsel. Handsomest of men he is: he wears a shirt and a bright-red mantle, with a brooch of silver therein."

"I know him," says Fer rogain: "'tis Cuscraid Menn of Armagh, Conchobar's son, who is in hostageship with the king. And his guards are those eight swordsmen around him, namely, two Flanns, two Cummains, two Aeds, two Crimthans. They will share prowess with every one in the Hostel, and they will chance to escape from it with their fosterling."

The Room of the Under-Charioteers

"I beheld nine men: on the mast were they. Nine capes they wore, with a purple loop. A plate of gold on the head of each of them. Nine goads in their hands. Liken thou."

"I know those," quoth Fer rogain: "Riado, Riamcobur, Ríade, Buadon, Búadchar, Buadgnad, Eirr, Ineirr, Argatlam—nine charioteers in apprenticeship with the three chief charioteers of the king. A man will perish at the hands of each of them," etc.

The Room of the Englishmen

"On the northern side of the house I beheld nine men. Nine very yellow manes were on them. Nine linen frocks somewhat short were round them: nine purple plaids over them without brooches therein. Nine broad spears, nine red curved shields above them."

"We know them," quoth he. "Oswald and his two foster-brothers, Osbrit Longhand and his two foster-brothers, Lindas and his two foster-brothers. Three crown-princes of England who are with the king. That set will share victorious prowess," etc.

The Room of the Equerries

"I beheld another trio. Three cropt heads of hair on them, three frocks they wore, and three mantles wrapt around them. A whip in the hand of each."

"I know those," quoth Fer rogain. "Echdruim, Echriud, Echrúathar, the three horsemen of the king, that is, his three equerries. Three brothers are they, three sons of Argatron. Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction, were it only because of that trio."

The Room of the Judges

"I beheld another trio in the room by them. A handsome man who had got his baldness newly. By him were two young men with manes upon them. Three mixed plaids they wore. A pin of silver in the mantle of each of them. Three suits of armour above them on the wall. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"I know those," quoth he. "Fergus Ferde, Fergus Fordae and Domáine Mossud, those are the king's three judges. Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction were it only because of that trio! A man will perish by each of them."

The Room of the Harpers

"To the east of them I beheld another ennead. Nine branchy, curly manes upon them. Nine grey, floating mantles about them: nine pins of gold in their mantles. Nine rings of crystal round their arms. A thumb-ring of gold round each man's thumb: an ear-tie of gold round each man's ear: a torque of silver round each man's throat. Nine bags with golden faces above them on the wall. Nine rods of white silver in their hands. Liken thou them."

"I know those," quoth Fer rogain. "They are the king's nine harpers, with their nine harps above them: Side and Dide, Dulothe and Deichrinne, Caumul and Cellgen, Ol and Olene and Olchói. A man will perish by each of them."

The Room of the Conjurers

"I saw another trio on the dais. Three bedgowns girt about them. Four-cornered shields in their hands, with bosses of gold upon them. Apples of silver they had, and small inlaid spears."

"I know them," says Fer rogain. "Cless and Clissíne and Clessamun, the king's three conjurers. Three of the same age are they: three brothers, three sons of Naffer Rochless. A man will perish by each of them."

The Room of the Three Lampooners

"I beheld another trio hard by the room of the King himself. Three blue mantles around them, and three bedgowns with red insertion over them. Their arms had been hung above them on the wall."

"I know those," quoth he. "Dris and Draigen and Aittít ('Thorn and Bramble and Furze'), the king's three lampooners, three sons of Sciath foilt. A man will perish by each of their weapons."

The Room of the Badbs

"I beheld a trio, naked, on the roof-tree of the house: their jets of blood coming through them, and the ropes of their slaughter on their necks."

"Those I know," saith he, "three ... of awful boding. Those are the three that are slaughtered at every time."

The Room of the Kitcheners

"I beheld a trio cooking, in short inlaid aprons: a fair grey man, and two youths in his company."

"I know those," quoth Fer rogain: "they are the King's three chief kitcheners, namely, the Dagdae and his two fosterlings, Séig and Segdae, the two sons of Rofer Singlespit. A man will perish by each of them," etc.

"I beheld another trio there. Three plates of gold over their heads. Three speckled mantles about them: three linen shirts with red insertion: three golden brooches in their mantles: three wooden darts above them on the wall."

"Those I know," says Fer rogain: "the three poets of that king: Sui and Rodui and Fordui: three of the same age, three brothers: three sons of Maphar of the Mighty Song. A man will perish for each of them, and every pair will keep between them one man's victory. Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction!" etc.

The Room of the Servant-Guards

"There I beheld two warriors standing over the king. Two curved shields they had, and two great pointed swords. Red kilts they wore, and in the mantles pins of white silver."

"Bole and Root are those," quoth he, "the king's two guards, two sons of Maffer Toll."

The Room of the King's Guardsmen

"I beheld nine men in a room there in front of the same room. Fair yellow manes upon them: short aprons they wore and spotted capes: they carried smiting shields. An ivory-hilted sword in the hand of each of them, and whoever enters the house they essay to smite him with the swords. No one dares to go to the room of the King without their consent. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easy for me is that. Three Mochmatnechs of Meath, three Buageltachs of Bregia, three Sostachs of Sliab Fuait, the nine guardsmen of that King. Nine decads will fall by them in their first conflict, etc. Woe to him that shall wreak the Destruction because of them only!"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds of weakness," etc. "And whom sawest thou then?"

The Room of Nia and Bruthne, Conaire's Two Waiters

"There I beheld another room, and a pair was in it, and they are 'oxtubs,' stout and thick. Aprons they wore, and the men were dark and brown. They had short back-hair on them, but high upon their foreheads. They are as swift as a waterwheel, each of them past another, one of them to the King's room, the other to the fire. Liken thou those, O Fer rogain!"

"Easy to me. They are Nia and Bruthne, Conaire's two table-servants. They are the pair that is best in Erin for their lord's advantage. What causes brownness to them and height to their hair is their frequent haunting of the fire. In the world is no pair better in their art than they. Thrice nine men will fall by them in their first encounter, and they will share prowess with every one, and they will chance to escape. And after that whom sawest thou?"

The Room of Sencha and Dubthach and Gobniu Son of Lurgnech

"I beheld the room that is next to Conaire. Three chief champions, in their first greyness, are therein. As thick as a man's waist is each of their limbs. They have three black swords, each as long as a weaver's beam. These swords would split a hair on water. A great lance in the hand of the midmost man, with fifty rivets through it. The shaft therein is a good load for the yoke of a plough-team. The midmost man brandishes that lance so that its edge-studs hardly stay therein, and he strikes the haft thrice against his palm. There is a great boiler in front of them, as big as a calf's caldron, wherein is a black and horrible liquid. Moreover he plunges the lance into that black fluid. If its quenching be delayed it flames on its shaft and then thou wouldst suppose that there is a fiery dragon in the top of the house. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easy to say. Three heroes who are best at grasping weapons in Erin, namely, Sencha the beautiful son of Ailill, and Dubthach Chafer of Ulaid, and Goibnenn son of Lurgnech. And the Luin of Celtchar son of Uthider which was found in the battle of Mag Tured, this is in the hand of Dubthach Chafer of Ulaid. That feat is usual for it when it is ripe to pour forth a foeman's blood. A caldron full of poison is needed to quench it when a deed of man-slaying is expected. Unless this come to the lance, it flames on its haft and will go through its bearer or the master of the palace wherein it is. If it be a blow that is to be given thereby it will kill a man at every blow, when it is at that feat, from one hour to another, though it may not reach him. And if it be a cast, it will kill nine men at every cast, and one of the nine will be a king or crown-prince or chieftain of the reavers.

"I swear what my tribe swears, there will be a multitude unto whom tonight the Luin of Celtchar will deal drinks of death in front of the Hostel. I swear to God what my tribe swears that, in their first encounter, three hundred will fall by that trio, and they will share prowess with every three in the Hostel tonight. And they will boast of victory over a king or chief of the reavers, and the three will chance to escape."

"Woe," says Lomna Drúth, "to him who shall wreak the Destruction, were it only because of that trio!"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél, etc. "And after that, whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of the Three Manx Giants

"There I beheld a room with a trio in it. Three men mighty, manly, overbearing, which see no one abiding at their three hideous crooked aspects. A fearful view because of the terror of them. A ... dress of rough hair covers them ... of cow's hair, without garments enwrapping down to the right heels. With three manes, equine, awful, majestic, down to their sides. Fierce heroes who wield against foeman hard-smiting swords. A blow, they give with three iron flails having seven chains triple-twisted, three-edged, with seven iron knobs at the end of every chain: each of them as heavy as an ingot of ten smeltings. Three big brown men. Dark equine backmanes on them, which reach their two heels. Two good thirds of an oxhide in the girdle round each one's waist, and each quadrangular clasp that closes it as thick as a man's thigh. The raiment that is round them is the dress that grows through them. Tresses of their back-manes were spread, and a long staff of iron, as long and thick as an outer yoke was in each man's hand, and an iron chain out of the end of every club, and at the end of every chain an iron pestle as long and thick as a middle yoke. They stand in their sadness in the house, and enough is the horror of their aspect. There is no one in the house that would not be avoiding them. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

Fer rogain was silent. "Hard for me to liken them. I know none such of the world's men unless they be yon trio of giants to whom Cúchulainn gave quarter at the beleaguerment of the Men of Falga, and when they were getting quarter they killed fifty warriors. But Cúchulainn would not let them be slain, because of their wondrousness. These are the names of the three: Srubdaire son of Dordbruige, and Conchenn of Cenn maige, and Fiad sceme son of Scípe. Conaire bought them from Cúchulainn for ... so they are along with him. Three hundred will fall by them in their first encounter, and they will surpass in prowess every three in the Hostel; and if they come forth upon you, the fragments of you will be fit to go through the sieve of a corn-kiln, from the way in which they will destroy you with the flails of iron. Woe to him that shall wreak the Destruction, though it were only on account of those three! For to combat against them is not a 'paean round a sluggard.'"

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds of weakness are coming to you," etc. "And after that, whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of Dá Derga

"There I beheld another room, with one man therein and in front of him two servants with two manes upon them, one of the two dark, the other fair. Red hair on the warrior, and red eyebrows. Two ruddy cheeks he had, and an eye very blue and beautiful. He wore a green cloak and a shirt with a white hood and a red insertion. In his hand was a sword with a hilt of ivory, and he supplies attendance of every room in the house with ale and food, and he is quick-footed in serving the whole host. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"I know those men. That one is Dá Derga. 'Tis by him that the Hostel was built, and since it was built its doors have never been shut save on the side to which the wind comes—the valve is closed against it—and since he began housekeeping his caldron was never taken from the fire, but it has been boiling food for the men of Erin. The pair before him, those two youths, are his fosterlings, two sons of the king of Leinster, namely Muredach and Corpre. Three decads will fall by that trio in front of their house and they will boast of victory over a king or a chief of the reavers. After this they will chance to escape from it."

"Long live he who should protect them!" says Lomna. "Better were triumph of saving them than triumph of slaying them! They should be spared were it only on account of that man. 'Twere meet to give that man quarter," says Lomna Drúth.

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél. "Clouds," etc. "And after that whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of the Three Champions from the Elfmounds

"There I beheld a room with a trio in it. Three red mantles they wore, and three red shirts, and three red heads of hair were on them. Red were they all together with their teeth. Three red shields above them. Three red spears in their hands. Three red horses in their bridles in front of the Hostel. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easily done. Three champions who wrought falsehood in the elfmounds. This is the punishment inflicted upon them by the king of the elfmounds, to be destroyed thrice by the King of Tara. Conaire son of Eterscél is the last king by whom they are destroyed. Those men will escape from you. To fulfil their own destruction, they have come. But they will not be slain, nor will they slay anyone. And after that whom sawest thou?"

The Room of the Doorwards

"There I beheld a trio in the midst of the house at the door. Three holed maces in their hands. Swift as a hare was each of them round the other towards the door. Aprons were on them, and they had gray and speckled mantles. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easily done: Three doorwardens of Tara's King are those, namely Echur ('Key') and Tochur and Tecmang, three sons of Ersa ('Doorpost') and Comla ('Valve'). Thrice their number will fall by them, and they will share a man's triumph among them. They will chance to escape though wounded."

"Woe to him that shall wreak!" etc., says Lomna Drúth.

"Ye cannot," says Ingcél, etc. "And after that whom sawest thou?"

The Room of Fer caille

"There I beheld at the fire in front a man with black cropt hair, having only one eye and one foot and one hand, having on the fire a pig bald, black, singed, squealing continually, and in his company a great big-mouthed woman. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easily done: Fer caille with his pig and his wife Cichuil. They (the wife and the pig) are his proper instruments on the night that ye destroy Conaire King of Erin. Alas for the guest who will run between them! Fer caille with his pig is one of Conaire's tabus."

"Woe to him who shall wreak the Destruction!" says Lomna.

"Ye cannot," quoth Ingcél. "And after that, whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of the Three Sons of Bálthis of Britain

"There I beheld a room with three enneads in it. Fair yellow manes upon them, and they are equally beautiful. Each of them wore a black cape, and there was a white hood on each mantle, a red tuft on each hood, and an iron brooch at the opening of every mantle, and under each man's cloak a huge black sword, and the swords would split a hair on water. They bore shields with scalloped edges. Liken thou them, O Fer rogain!"

"Easily done. That is the robber-band of the three sons of Báithis of Britain. Three enneads will fall by them in their first conflict, and among them they will share a man's triumph. And after that whom sawest thou?"

The Room of the Mimes

"There I beheld a trio of jesters hard by the fire. Three dun mantles they wore. If the men of Erin were in one place, even though the corpse of his mother or his father were in front of each, not one could refrain from laughing at them. Wheresoever the king of a cantred is in the house, not one of them attains his seat on his bed because of that trio of jesters. Whenever the king's eye visits them it smiles at every glance. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easily done. Mael and Mlithe and Admlithe—those are the king of Erin's three jesters. By each of them a man will perish, and among them they will share a man's triumph."

"Woe to him that will wreak the Destruction!" says Lomna, etc. "And after that whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of the Cupbearers

"There I beheld a room with a trio in it. Three grey-floating mantles they wore. There was a cup of water in front of each man, and on each cup a bunch of watercress. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easily done. Black and Dun and Dark: they are the King of Tara's three cupbearers, to wit, the sons of Day and Night. And after that, whom sawest thou there?"

The Room of Nár the Squinter-with-the-left-eye

"There I beheld a one-eyed man asquint with a ruinous eye. A swine's head he had on the fire, continually squealing. Liken thou that, O Fer rogain!"

"Easy for me to name the like. He is Nár the Squinter with the left eye, the swineherd of Bodb of the Elfmound on Femen, 'tis he that is over the cooking. Blood hath been spilt at every feast at which he has ever been present."

"Rise up, then, ye champions!" says Ingcél, "and get you on to the house!"

With that the reavers march to the Hostel, and made a murmur about it.

"Silence a while!" says Conaire, "what is this?"

"Champions at the house," says Conall Cernach.

"There are warriors for them here," answers Conaire.

"They will be needed tonight," Conall Cernach rejoins.

Then went Lomna Drúth before the host of reavers into the Hostel. The doorkeepers struck off his head. Then the head was thrice flung into the Hostel, and thrice cast out of it, as he himself had foretold.

Then Conaire himself sallies out of the Hostel together with some of his people, and they fight a combat with the host of reavers, and six hundred fell by Conaire before he could get to his arms. Then the Hostel is thrice set on fire, and thrice put out from thence: and it was granted that the Destruction would never have been wrought had not work of weapons been taken from Conaire.

Thereafter Conaire went to seek his arms, and he dons his battle-dress, and falls to plying his weapons on the reavers, together with the band that he had. Then, after getting his arms, six hundred fell by him in his first encounter.

After this the reavers were routed. "I have told you," says Fer rogain son of Donn Désa, "that if the champions of the men of Erin and Alba attack Conaire at the house, the Destruction will not be wrought unless Conaire's fury and valour be quelled."

"Short will his time be," say the wizards along with the reavers.

This was the quelling they brought, a scantness of drink that seized him.

Thereafter Conaire entered the house, and asked for a drink.

"A drink to me, O master Mac cecht!" says Conaire.

Says Mac cecht: "This is not the order that I have hitherto had from thee, to give thee a drink. There are spencers and cupbearers who bring drink to thee. The order I have hitherto had from thee is to protect thee when the champions of the men of Erin and Alba may be attacking thee around the Hostel. Thou wilt go safe from them, and no spear shall enter thy body. Ask a drink of thy spencers and thy cupbearers."

Then Conaire asked a drink of his spencers and his cupbearers who were in the house.

"In the first place there is none," they say; "all the liquids that had been in the house have been spilt on the fires."

The cupbears found no drink for him in the Dodder (a river), and the Dodder had flowed through the house.

Then Conaire again asked for a drink. "A drink to me, O fosterer, O Mac cecht! 'Tis equal to me what death I shall go to, for anyhow I shall perish."

Then Mac cecht gave a choice to the champions of valour of the men of Erin who were in the house, whether they cared to protect the King or to seek a drink for him.

Conall Cernach answered this in the house—and cruel he deemed the contention, and afterwards he had always a feud with Mac cecht. —"Leave the defense of the King to us," says Conall, "and go thou to seek the drink, for of thee it is demanded."

So then Mac cecht fared forth to seek the drink, and he took Conaire's son, Lé fri flaith, under his armpit, and Conaire's golden cup, in which an ox with a bacon-pig would be boiled; and he bore his shield and his two spears and his sword, and he carried the caldron-spit, a spit of iron.

He burst forth upon them, and in front of the Hostel he dealt nine blows of the iron spit, and at every blow nine reavers fell. Then he makes a sloping feat of the shield and an edge-feat of the sword about his head, and he delivered a hostile attack upon them. Six hundred fell in his first encounter, and after cutting down hundreds he goes through the band outside.

The doings of the folk of the Hostel, this is what is here examined, presently.

Conall Cernach arises, and takes his weapons, and wends over the door of the Hostel, and goes round the house. Three hundred fell by him, and he hurls back the reavers over three ridges out from the Hostel, and boasts of triumph over a king, and returns, wounded, into the Hostel.

Cormac Condlongas sallies out, and his nine comrades with him, and they deliver their onsets on the reavers. Nine enneads fall by Cormac and nine enneads by his people, and a man for each weapon and a man for each man. And Cormac boasts of the death of a chief of the reavers. They succeed in escaping though they be wounded.

The trio of Picts sally forth from the Hostel, and take to plying their weapons on the reavers. And nine enneads fall by them, and they chance to escape though they be wounded.

The nine pipers sally forth and dash their warlike work on the reavers; and then they succeed in escaping.

Howbeit then, but it is long to relate, 'tis weariness of mind, 'tis confusion of the senses, 'tis tediousness to hearers, 'tis superfluity of narration to go over the same things twice. But the folk of the Hostel came forth in order, and fought their combats with the reavers, and fell by them, as Fer rogain and Lomna Drúth had said to Ingcél, to wit, that the folk of every room would sally forth still and deliver their combat, and after that escape. So that none were left in the Hostel in Conaire's company save Conall and Sencha and Dubthach.

Now from the vehement ardour and the greatness of the contest which Conaire had fought, his great drouth of thirst attacked him, and he perished of a consuming fever, for he got not his drink. So when the king died those three sally out of the Hostel, and deliver a wily stroke of reaving on the reavers, and fare forth from the Hostel, wounded, tobroken and maimed.

Touching Mac cecht, however, he went his way till he reached the Well of Casair, which was near him in Crích Cualann; but of water he found not therein the full of his cup, that is, Conaire's golden cup which he had brought in his hand. Before morning he had gone round the chief rivers of Erin, to wit, Bush, Boyne, Bann, Barrow, Neim, Luae, Láigdae, Shannon, Suir, Sligo, Sámair, Find, Ruirthech, Slaney, and in them he found not the full of his cup of water.

Then before morning he had travelled to the chief lakes of Erin, to wit, Lough Derg, Loch Luimnig, Lough Foyle, Lough Mask, Lough Corrib, Loch Láig, Loch Cúan, Lough Neagh, Mórloch, and of water he found not therein the full of his cup.

He went his way till he reached Uaran Garad on Magh Ai. It could not hide itself from him: so he brought thereout the full of his cup, and the boy fell under his covering.

After this he went on and reached Dá Derga's Hostel before morning.

When Mac cecht went across the third ridge towards the house, 'tis there were twain striking off Conaire's head. Then Mac cecht strikes off the head of one of the two men who were beheading Conaire. The other man then was fleeing forth with the king's head. A pillar-stone chanced to be under Mac cecht's feet on the floor of the Hostel. He hurls it at the man who had Conaire's head and drove it through his spine, so that his back broke. After this Mac cecht beheads him. Mac cecht then spilt the cup of water into Conaire's gullet and neck. Then said Conaire's head, after the water had been put into its neck and gullet:

"A good man Mac cecht! an excellent man Mac cecht!

A good warrior without, good within,
He gives a drink, he saves a king, he doth a deed.
Well he ended the champions I found.
He sent a flagstone on the warriors.
Well he hewed by the door of the Hostel ... Fer lé,
So that a spear is against one hip.
Good should I be to far-renowned Mac cecht
If I were alive. A good man!"

After this Mac cecht followed the routed foe.

'Tis this that some books relate, that but a very few fell around Conaire, namely, nine only. And hardly a fugitive escaped to tell the tidings to the champions who had been at the house.

Where there had been five thousand—and in every thousand ten hundred—only one set of five escaped, namely Ingcél, and his two brothers Echell and Tulchinne, the "Yearling of the Reavers"—three great-grandsons of Conmac, and the two Reds of Róiriu who had been the first to wound Conaire.

Thereafter Ingcél went into Alba, and received the kingship after his father, since he had taken home triumph over a king of another country.

This, however, is the recension in other books, and it is more probably truer. Of the folk of the Hostel forty or fifty fell, and of the reavers three fourths and one fourth of them only escaped from the Destruction.

Now when Mac cecht was lying wounded on the battlefield, at the end of the third day, he saw a woman passing by.

"Come hither, O woman!" says Mac cecht.

"I dare not go thus," says the woman, "for horror and fear of thee."

"There was a time when I had this, O woman, even horror and fear of me on some one. But now thou shouldst fear nothing. I accept thee on the truth of my honour and my safeguard."

Then the woman goes to him.

"I know not," says he, "whether it is a fly or a gnat, or an ant that nips me in the wound."

It happened that it was a hairy wolf that was there, as far as its two shoulders in the wound!

The woman seized it by the tail, and dragged it out of the wound, and it takes the full of its jaws out of him.

"Truly," says the woman, "this is 'an ant of ancient land.'"

Says Mac cecht "I swear to God what my people swears, I deemed it no bigger than a fly, or a gnat, or an ant."

And Mac cecht took the wolf by the throat, and struck it a blow on the forehead, and killed it with a single blow.

Then Lé fri flaith, son of Conaire, died under Mac cecht's armpit, for the warrior's heat and sweat had dissolved him.

Thereafter Mac cecht, having cleansed the slaughter, at the end of the third day, set forth, and he dragged Conaire with him on his back, and buried him at Tara, as some say. Then Mac cecht departed into Connaught, to his own country, that he might work his cure in Mag Bréngair. Wherefore the name clave to the plain from Mac cecht's misery, that is, Mag Brén-guir.

Now Conall Cernach escaped from the Hostel, and thrice fifty spears had gone through the arm which upheld his shield. He fared forth till he reached his father's house, with half his shield in his hand, and his sword, and the fragments of his two spears. Then he found his father before his garth in Taltiu.

"Swift are the wolves that have hunted thee, my son," saith his father.

"'Tis this that has wounded us, thou old hero, an evil conflict with warriors," Conall Cernach replied.

"Hast thou then news of Dá Derga's Hostel?" asked Amorgin.

"Is thy lord alive?"

"He is not alive," says Conall.

"I swear to God what the great tribes of Ulaid swear, it is cowardly for the man who went thereout alive, having left his lord with his foes in death."

"My wounds are not white, thou old hero," says Conall.

He shews him his shield-arm, whereon were thrice fifty wounds: this is what was inflicted upon it. The shield that guarded it is what saved it. But the right arm had been played upon, as far as two thirds thereof, since the shield had not been guarding it. That arm was mangled and maimed and wounded and pierced, save that the sinews kept it to the body without separation.

"That arm fought tonight, my son," says Amorgein.

"True is that, thou old hero," says Conall Cernach. "Many there are unto whom it gave drinks of death tonight in front of the Hostel."

Now as to the reavers, every one of them that escaped from the Hostel went to the cairn which they had built on the night before last, and they brought thereout a stone for each man not mortally wounded. So this is what they lost by death at the Hostel, a man for every stone that is (now) in Carn Lecca.

It endeth: Amen: it endeth.

Contents

- The Story of the Volsungs and the Niblungs
    - Translator's Preface
    - The Names of Those Who Are Most Noteworthy in This Story A Prologue in Verse
    - A Prologue in Verse
- Songs from the Elder Edda
    - Part of the Second Lay of Helgi Hunding’s-Bane
    - Part of the Lay of Sigrdrifa
    - The Lay Called the Short Lay of Sigurd
    - The Hell-Ride of Brynhild
    - Fragments of the Lay of Brynhild
    - The Second or Ancient Lay of Gudrun
    - The Song of Atli
    - The Whetting of Gudrun
    - The Lay of Hamdir
    - The Lament of Oddrun

Translator's Preface

IN offering to the reader this translation of the most complete and dramatic form of the great Epic of the North, we lay no claim to special critical insight, nor do we care to deal at all with vexed questions, but are content to abide by existing authorities, doing our utmost to make our rendering close and accurate, and, if it might be so, at the same time, not over prosaic: it is to the lover of poetry and nature, rather than to the student, that we appeal to enjoy and wonder at this great work, now for the first time, strange to say, translated into English: this must be our excuse for speaking here, as briefly as may be, of things that will seem to the student over well known to be worth mentioning, but which may give some ease to the general reader who comes across our book.

The prose of the Völsunga Saga was composed probably some time in the twelfth century, from floating traditions no doubt; from songs which, now lost, were then known, at least in fragments, to the Sagaman; and finally from songs, which, written down about his time, are still existing: the greater part of these last the reader will find in this book; some inserted amongst the prose text by the original story-teller, and some by the present translators, and the remainder in the latter part of the book, put together as nearly as may be in the order of the story, and forming a metrical version of the greater portion of it.

These Songs from the Elder Edda we will now briefly compare with the prose of the Volsung Story, premising that these are the only metrical sources existing of those from which the Sagaman told his tale.

Except for the short snatch on p. 271 of our translation, nothing is now left of these till we come to the episode of Helgi Hundings-bane, Sigurd's half-brother; there are two songs left relating to this, from which the prose is put together; to a certain extent they cover the same ground; but the latter half of the second is, wisely as we think, left untouched by the Sagaman, as its interest is of itself too great not to encumber the progress of the main story; for the sake of its wonderful beauty, however, we could not refrain from rendering it, and it will be found first among the metrical translations that form the second part of this book.

Of the next part of the Saga, the deaths of Sinfjotli and Sigmund, and the journey of Queen Hjordis to the court of King Alf, there is no trace left of any metrical origin; but we meet the Edda once more where Regin tells the tale of his kin to Sigurd, and where Sigurd defeats and slays the sons of Hunding: this lay is known as the Lay of Regin.

The short chap. xvi. is abbreviated from a long poem called the Prophecy of Gripir (the Grifir of the Saga), where the whole story to come is told with some detail, and which certainly, if drawn out at length into the prose, would have forestalled the interest of the tale.

In the slaying of the Dragon the Saga adheres very closely to the Lay of Fafnir; for the insertion of the song of the birds to Sigurd the present translators are responsible.

Then comes the waking of Brynhild, and her wise redes to Sigurd, taken from the Lay of Sigrdrifa, the greater part of which, in its metrical form, is inserted by the Sagaman into his prose; but the stanzas relating Brynhild's awaking we have inserted into the text; the latter part, omitted in the prose, we have translated for the second part of our book.

Of Sigurd at Hlymdale, of Gudrun's dream, the magic potion of Grimhild, the wedding of Sigurd consequent on that potion; of the wooing of Brynhild for Gunnar, her marriage to him, of the quarrel of the Queens, the brooding grief and wrath of Brynhild, and the interview of Sigurd with her—of all this, the most dramatic and best-considered part of the tale, there is now no more left that retains its metrical form than the few snatches preserved by the Sagaman, though many of the incidents are alluded to in other poems.

Chap. xxx. is met by the poem called the Short Lay of Sigurd, which, fragmentary apparently at the beginning, gives us something of Brynhild's awakening wrath and jealousy, the slaying of Sigurd, and the death of Brynhild herself; this poem we have translated entire.

The Fragments of the Lay of Brynhild are what is left of a poem partly covering the same ground as this last, but giving a different account of Sigurd's slaying; it is very incomplete, though the Sagaman has drawn some incidents from it; the reader will find it translated in our second part.

But before the death of the heroine we have inserted entire into the text as chap. xxxi. the First Lay of Gudrun, the most lyrical, the most complete, and the most beautiful of all the Eddaic poems; a poem that any age or language might count among its most precious possessions.

From this point to the end of the Saga it keeps closely to the Songs of Edda; in chap. xxxii. the Sagaman has rendered into prose the Ancient Lay of Gudrun, except for the beginning, which gives again another account of the death of Sigurd: this lay also we have translated.

The grand poem, called the Hell-ride of Brynhild, is not represented directly by anything in the prose except that the Sagaman has supplied from it a link or two wanting in the Lay of Sigrdrifa; it will be found translated in our second part.

The betrayal and slaughter of the Giukings or Niblungs, and the fearful end of Atli and his sons, and court, are recounted in two lays, called the Lays of Atli; the longest of these, the Greenland Lay of Atli, is followed closely by the Sagaman; the shorter one we have translated.

The end of Gudrun, of her daughter by Sigurd, and of her sons by her last husband Jonakr, treated of in the last four chapters of the Saga, are very grandly and poetically given in the songs called the Whetting of Gudrun, and the Lay of Hamdir, which are also among our translations.

These are all the songs of the Edda which the Sagaman has dealt with; but one other, the Lament of Oddrun, we have translated on account of its intrinsic merit.

As to the literary quality of this work we might say much, but we think we may well trust the reader of poetic insight to break through whatever entanglement of strange manners or unused element may at first trouble him, and to meet the nature and beauty with which it is filled: we cannot doubt that such a reader will be intensely touched by finding, amidst all its wildness and remoteness, such a startling realism, such subtilty, such close sympathy with all the passions that may move himself to-day.

In conclusion, we must again say how strange it seems to us, that this Volsung Tale, which is in fact an unversified poem, should never before have been translated into English. For this is the Great Story of the North, which should be to all our race what the Tale of Troy was to the Greeks—to all our race first, and afterwards, when the change of the world has made our race nothing more than a name of what has been—a story too—then should it be to those that come after us no less than the Tale of Troy has been to us.

[The following text and notes are from the edition by H.H. Sparling.]

The Story of the Volsungs and Niblungs

The Names of Those Who Are Most Noteworthy in This Story

VOLSUNGS

SIGI, son of Odin.
RERIR, son of Sigi, king of Hunland.
VOLSUNG, son of Rerir.
SIGMUND, son of Volsung.
SIGNY, daughter of Volsung.
SINFOTLI, son of Sigmund and Signy.
HELGI, son of Sigmund by Borgny.
SIGURD FAFNIR'S-BANE, posthumous son of Sigmund by Hjordis.
SWANHILD, his daughter, by GUDRUN, Giuki's daughter.

PEOPLE WHO DEAL WITH THE VOLSUNGS BEFORE SIGURD MEETS BRYNHILD

SIGGEIR, king of Gothland, husband of Signy.
BORGNY, first wife of Sigmund.
HJORDIS, his second wife.
KING EYLIMI, her father.
HJALPREK, king of Denmark.
ALF, his son, second husband of Hjordis.
REGIN, the king's smith.
FAFNIR, his brother, turned into a dragon.
OTTER, his brother, slain by Loki.
HREIDMAR, the father of these brothers.
ANDVARI, a dwarf, first owner of the hoard of the Niblungs, on which he laid a curse when it was taken from him by Loki.

GIUKINGS OR NIBLUNGS

KING GIUKI.
GRIMHILD, his wife.
GUNNAR, HOGNI & GUTTORM: sons of Giuki.
GUDRUN, daughter of Giuki, wife of SIGURD FAFNIR'S-BANE.

BUDLUNGS

BUDLI.
ATLI, his son, second husband of GUDRUN.
BRYNHILD, daughter of Budli, first betrothed and love of SIGURD FAFNIR'S-BANE, wife of Gunnar, son of Giuki.

BEKKHILD, daughter of Budli, wife of Heimir of Hlymdale.

OTHERS WHO DEAL WITH SIGURD AND THE GIUKINGS
HEIMER OF HLYMDALE. foster-father of BRYNHILD.
GLAUMVOR, second wife of Gunnar.
KOSTBERA, wife of Hogni.
VINGI, an evil counsellor of King Atli.
NIBLUNG, the son of Hogni, who helps GUDRUN in the slaying of Atli.
JORMUNREK, king of the Goths, husband of Swanhild.
RANDVER, his son.
BIKKI, his evil counsellor.
JONAKR, GUDRUN'S third husband.
SORLI, HAMDIR, AND ERP, the sons of Jonakr and GUDRUN.

The Story of the Volsungs and Niblungs

I. Of Sigi, the Son of Odin

HERE begins the tale, and tells of a man who was named Sigi, and called of men the son of Odin; another man withal is told of in the tale, hight Skadi, a great man and mighty of his hands; yet was Sigi the mightier and the higher of kin, according to the speech of men of that time. Now Skadi had a thrall with whom the story must deal somewhat, Bredi by name, who was called after that work which he had to do; in prowess and might of hand he was equal to men who were held more worthy, yea, and better than some thereof.

Now it is to be told that, on a time, Sigi fared to the hunting of the deer, and the thrall with him; and they hunted deer day-long till the evening; and when they gathered together their prey in the evening, lo, greater and more by far was that which Bredi had slain than Sigi's prey; and this thing he much misliked, and he said that great wonder it was that a very thrall should out-do him in the hunting of deer: so he fell on him and slew him, and buried the body of him thereafter in a snow-drift.

Then he went home at evening tide and says that Bredi had ridden away from him into the wild-wood. "Soon was he out of my sight," he says, "and naught more I wot of him."

Skadi misdoubted the tale of Sigi, and deemed that this was a guile of his, and that he would have slain Bredi. So he sent men to seek for him, and to such an end came their seeking, that they found him in a certain snow-drift; then said Skadi, that men should call that snow-drift Bredi's Drift from henceforth; and thereafter have folk followed, so that in such wise they call every drift that is right great.

Thus it is well seen that Sigi has slain the thrall and murdered him; so he is given forth to be a wolf in holy places,[1] and may no more abide in the land with his father; therewith Odin bare him fellowship from the land, so long a way, that right long it was, and made no stay till he brought him to certain war-ships. So Sigi falls to lying out a-warring with the strength that his father gave him or ever they parted; and happy was he in his warring, and ever prevailed, till he brought it about that he won by his wars land and lordship at the last; and thereupon he took to him a noble wife, and became a great and mighty king, and ruled over the land of the Huns, and was the greatest of warriors. He had a son by his wife, who was called Rerir, who grew up in his father's house, and soon became great of growth, and shapely.

1: "Wolf in holy places," a man put out of the pale of society for his crimes, an outlaw.

II. Of the Birth of Volsung, the Son of Rerir, Who was the Son of Sigi

NOW Sigi grew old, and had many to envy him, so that at last those turned against him whom he trusted most; yea, even the brothers of his wife; for these fell on him at his unwariest, when there were few with him to withstand them, and brought so many against him, that they prevailed against him, and there fell Sigi and all his folk with him. But Rerir, his son, was not in this trouble, and he brought together so mighty a strength of his friends and the great men of the land, that he got to himself both the lands and kingdom of Sigi his father: and so now, when he deems that the feet under him stand firm in his rule, then he calls to mind that which he had against his mother's brothers, who had slain his father. So the king gathers together a mighty army, and therewith falls on his kinsmen, deeming that if he made their kinship of small account, yet none the less they had first wrought evil against him. So he wrought his will herein, in that he departed not from strife before he had slain all his father's banesmen, though dreadful the deed seemed in every wise. So now he gets land, lordship, and fee, and is become a mightier man than his father before him.

Much wealth won in war gat Rerir to himself, and wedded a wife withal, such as he deemed meet for him, and long they lived together, but had no child to take the heritage after them; and ill-content they both were with that, and prayed the Gods with heart and soul that they might get them a child. And so it is said that Odin hears their prayer, and Freyia no less hearkens wherewith they prayed unto her: so she, never lacking for all good counsel, calls to her her casket-bearing may,[1] the daughter of Hrimnir the giant, and sets an apple in her hand, and bids her bring it to the king. She took the apple, and did on her the gear of a crow, and went flying till she came whereas the king sat on a mound, and there she let the apple fall into the lap of the king; but he took the apple, and deemed he knew whereto it would avail; so he goes home from the mound to his own folk, and came to the queen, and some deal of that apple she ate.

So, as the tale tells, the queen soon knew that she was big with child, but a long time wore or ever she might give birth to the child: so it befell that the king must needs go to the wars, after the custom of kings, that he may keep his own land in peace: and in this journey it came to pass that Rerir fell sick and got his death, being minded to go home to Odin, a thing much desired of many folk in those days.

Now no otherwise it goes with the queen's sickness than heretofore, nor may she be the lighter of her child, and six winters wore away with the sickness still heavy on her; so that at the last she feels that she may not live long; wherefore now she bade cut the child from out of her; and it was done even as she bade; a manchild was it, and great of growth from his birth, as might well be; and they say that the youngling kissed his mother or ever she died; but to him is a name given, and he is called Volsung; and he was king over Hunland in the room of his father. From his early years he was big and strong, and full of daring in all manly deeds and trials, and he became the greatest of warriors, and of good hap in all the battles of his warfaring.

Now when he was fully come to man's estate, Hrimnir the giant sends to him Ljod his daughter; she of whom the tale told, that she brought the apple to Rerir, Volsung's father. So Volsung weds her withal; and long they abode together with good hap and great love. They had ten sons and one daughter, and their eldest son was hight Sigmund, and their daughter Signy; and these two were twins, and in all wise the foremost and the fairest of the children of Volsung the king, and mighty, as all his seed was; even as has been long told from ancient days, and in tales of long ago, with the greatest fame of all men, how that the Volsungs have been great men and high-minded and far above the most of men both in cunning and in prowess and all things high and mighty.

So says the story that king Volsung let build a noble hall in such a wise, that a big oak-tree stood therein, and that the limbs of the tree blossomed fair out over the roof of the hall, while below stood the trunk within it, and the said trunk did men call Branstock.

1: A maid.

III. Of the Sword that Sigmund, Volsung's son, drew from the Branstock

THERE was a king called Siggeir, who ruled over Gothland, a mighty king and of many folk; he went to meet Volsung, the king, and prayed him for Signy his daughter to wife; and the king took his talk well, and his sons withal, but she was loth thereto, yet she bade her father rule in this as in all other things that concerned her; so the king took such rede[1] that he gave her to him, and she was betrothed to King Siggeir; and for the fulfilling of the feast and the wedding, was King Siggeir to come to the house of King Volsung. The king got ready the feast according to his best might, and when all things were ready, came the king's guests and King Siggeir withal at the day appointed, and many a man of great account had Siggeir with him.

The tale tells that great fires were made endlong the hall, and the great tree aforesaid stood midmost thereof; withal folk say that, whenas men sat by the fires in the evening, a certain man came into the hall unknown of aspect to all men; and suchlike array he had, that over him was a spotted cloak, and he was bare-foot, and had linen-breeches knit tight even unto the bone, and he had a sword in his hand as he went up to the Branstock, and a slouched hat upon his head: huge he was, and seeming-ancient, and one-eyed.[2] So he drew his sword and smote it into the tree-trunk so that it sank in up to the hilts; and all held back from greeting the man. Then he took up the word, and said—

"Whoso draweth this sword from this stock, shall have the same as a gift from me, and shall find in good sooth that never bare he better sword in hand than is this."

Therewith out went the old man from the hall, and none knew who he was or whither he went.

Now men stand up, and none would fain be the last to lay hand to the sword, for they deemed that he would have the best of it who might first touch it; so all the noblest went thereto first, and then the others, one after other; but none who came thereto might avail to pull it out, for in nowise would it come away howsoever they tugged at it; but now up comes Sigmund, King Volsung's son, and sets hand to the sword, and pulls it from the stock, even as if it lay loose before him; so good that weapon seemed to all, that none thought he had seen such a sword before, and Siggeir would fain buy it of him at thrice its weight of gold, but Sigmund said—

"Thou mightest have taken the sword no less than I from there whereas it stood, if it had been thy lot to bear it; but now, since it has first of all fallen into my hand, never shalt thou have it, though thou biddest therefor all the gold thou hast."

King Siggeir grew wroth at these words, and deemed Sigmund had answered him scornfully, but whereas he was a wary man and a double-dealing, he made as if he heeded this matter in nowise, yet that same evening he thought how he might reward it, as was well seen afterwards.

1: Rede (A.S. ræd), counsel, advice, a tale or prophecy.

2: The man is Odin, who is always so represented, because he gave his eye as a pledge for a draught from the fountain of Mimir, the source of all wisdom.

IV. How King Siggeir wedded Signy, and bade King Volsung and his son to Gothland

NOW it is to be told that Siggeir goes to bed by Signy that night, and the next morning the weather was fair; then says King Siggeir that he will not bide, lest the wind should wax, or the sea grow impassable; nor is it said that Volsung or his sons letted him herein, and that the less, because they saw that he was fain to get him gone from the feast. But now says Signy to her father—

"I have no will to go away with Siggeir, neither does my heart smile upon him; and I wot, by my fore-knowledge, and from the fetch[1] of our kin, that from this counsel will great evil fall on us if this wedding be not speedily undone."

"Speak in no such wise, daughter!" said he; "for great shame will it be to him, yea, and to us also, to break troth with him, he being sackless;[2] and in naught may we trust him, and no friendship shall we have of him, if these matters are broken off; but he will pay us back in as evil wise as he may; for that alone is seemly, to hold truly to troth given."

So King Siggeir got ready for home, and before he went from the feast he bade King Volsung, his father-in-law, come see him in Gothland, and all his sons with him, whenas three months should be overpast, and to bring such following with him, as he would have, and as he deemed meet for his honour; and thereby will Siggeir the king pay back for the shortcomings of the wedding-feast, in that he would abide thereat but one night only, a thing not according to the wont of men. So King Volsung gave his word to come on the day named, and the kinsmen-in-law parted, and Siggeir went home with his wife.

[1] Wraith, or familiar spirit.

[2] Blameless.

V. Of the Slaying of King Volsung

NOW tells the tale of King Volsung and his sons that they go at the time appointed to Gothland at the bidding of King Siggeir, and put off from the land in three ships, all well manned, and have a fair voyage, and made Gothland late of an evening tide.

But that same night came Signy and called her father and brothers to a privy talk, and told them what she deemed King Siggeir was minded to do, and how that he had drawn together an army no man may meet. "And," says she, "he is minded to do guilefully by you; wherefore I bid you get ye gone back again to your own land, and gather together the mightiest power ye may, and then come back hither and avenge you; neither go ye now to your undoing, for ye shall surely fail not to fall by his wiles if ye turn not on him even as I bid you."

Then spake Volsung the king, "All people and nations shall tell of the word I spake, yet being unborn, wherein I vowed a vow that I would flee in fear from neither fire nor the sword; even so have I done hitherto, and shall I depart therefrom now I am old? Yea withal never shall the maidens mock these my sons at the games, and cry out at them that they fear death; once alone must all men need die and from that season shall none escape; so my rede it is that we flee nowhither, but do the work of our hands in as manly wise as we may; a hundred fights have I fought, and whiles I had more, and whiles I had less, and yet ever had I the victory, nor shall it ever be heard tell of me that I fled away or prayed for peace."

Then Signy wept right sore, and prayed that she might not go back to King Siggeir, but King Volsung answered—

"Thou shalt surely go back to thine husband, and abide with him, howsoever it fares with us."

So Signy went home, and they abode there that night; but in the morning, as soon as it was day, Volsung bade his men arise and go aland and make them ready for battle; so they went aland, all of them all-armed, and had not long to wait before Siggeir fell on them with all his army, and the fiercest fight there was betwixt them; and Siggeir cried on his men to the onset all he might; and so the tale tells that King Volsung and his sons went eight times right through Siggeir's folk that day, smiting and hewing on either hand, but when they would do so even once again, King Volsung fell amidst his folk and all his men withal, saving his ten sons, for mightier was the power against them than they might withstand.

But now are all his sons taken, and laid in bonds and led away; and Signy was ware withal that her father was slain, and her brothers taken and doomed to death; that she called King Siggeir apart to talk with her, and said—

"This will I pray of thee, that thou let not slay my brothers hastily, but let them be set awhile in the stocks, for home to me comes the saw that says, Sweet to eye while seen: but longer life I pray not for them, because I wot well that my prayer will not avail me."

Then answered Siggeir—

"Surely thou art mad and witless, praying thus for more bale for thy brothers than their present slaying; yet this will I grant thee, for the better it likes me the more they must bear, and the longer their pain is or ever death come to them."

Now he let it be done even as she prayed, and a mighty beam was brought and set on the feet of those ten brethren in a certain place of the wild-wood, and there they sit day-long until night; but at midnight, as they sat in the stocks, there came on them a she-wolf from out the wood; old she was, and both great and evil of aspect; and the first thing she did was to bite one of those brethren till he died, and then she ate him up withal, and went on her way.

But the next morning Signy sent a man to the brethren, even one whom she most trusted, to wot of the tidings; and when he came back he told her that one of them was dead, and great and grievous she deemed it, if they should all fare in like wise, and yet naught might she avail them.

Soon is the tale told thereof: nine nights together came the shewolf at midnight, and each night slew and ate up one of the brethren, until all were dead, save Sigmund only; so now, before the tenth night came, Signy sent that trusty man to Sigmund, her brother, and gave honey into his hand, bidding him do it over Sigmund's face, and set a little deal of it in his mouth; so he went to Sigmund and did as he was bidden, and then came home again; and so the next night came the she-wolf according to her wont, and would slay him and eat him even as his brothers; but now she sniffs the breeze from him, whereas he was anointed with the honey, and licks his face all over with her tongue, and then thrusts her tongue into the mouth of him. No fear he had thereof, but caught the she-wolf's tongue betwixt his teeth, and so hard she started back thereat, and pulled herself away so mightily, setting her feet against the stocks, that all was riven asunder; but he ever held so fast that the tongue came away by the roots, and thereof she had her bane.

But some men say that this same she-wolf was the mother of King Siggeir, who had turned herself into this likeness by troll's lore and witchcraft.[1]

[1] See note, p. 268.

VI. Of how Signy sent the Children of her and Siggeir to Sigmund

NOW whenas Sigmund is loosed and the stocks are broken, he dwells in the woods and holds himself there; but Signy sends yet again to wot of the tidings, whether Sigmund were alive or no; but when those who were sent came to him, he told them all as it had betid, and how things had gone betwixt him and the wolf; so they went home and tell Signy the tidings; but she goes and finds her brother, and they take counsel in such wise as to make a house underground in the wild-wood; and so things go on a while, Signy hiding him there, and sending him such things as he needed; but King Siggeir deemed that all the Volsungs were dead.

Now Siggeir had two sons by his wife, whereof it is told that when the eldest was ten winters old, Signy sends him to Sigmund, so that he might give him help, if he would in any wise strive to avenge his father; so the youngling goes to the wood, and comes late in evening-tide to Sigmund's earth-house; and Sigmund welcomed him in seemly fashion, and said that he should make ready their bread; "but I," said he, "will go seek firewood."

Therewith he gives the meal-bag into his hands while he himself went to fetch firing; but when he came back the youngling had done naught at the breadmaking. Then asks Sigmund if the bread be ready—

Says the youngling, "I durst not set hand to the meal-sack, because somewhat quick lay in the meal."

Now Sigmund deemed he wotted that the lad was of no such heart as that he should be fain to have him for his fellow; and when he met his sister, Sigmund said that he had come no nigher to the aid of a man though the youngling were with him.

Then said Signy, "Take him and kill him then; for why should such an one live longer?" and even so he did.

So this winter wears, and the next winter Signy sent her next son to Sigmund; and there is no need to make a long tale thereof, for in like wise went all things, and he slew the child by the counsel of Signy.

VII. Of the Birth of Sinfjotli the Son of Sigmund

SO on a tide it befell as Signy sat in her bower, that there came to her a witch-wife exceeding cunning, and Signy talked with her in such wise, "Fain am I," says she, "that we should change semblances together."

She says, "Even as thou wilt then."

And so by her wiles she brought it about that they changed semblances, and now the witch-wife sits in Signy's place according to her rede, and goes to bed by the king that night, and he knows not that he has other than Signy beside him.

But the tale tells of Signy, that she fared to the earth-house of her brother, and prayed him give her harbouring for the night; "For I have gone astray abroad in the woods, and know not whither I am going."

So he said she might abide, and that he would not refuse harbour to one lone woman, deeming that she would scarce pay back his good cheer by tale-bearing: so she came into the house, and they sat down to meat, and his eyes were often on her, and a goodly and fair woman she seemed to him; but when they are full, then he says to her, that he is right fain that they should have but one bed that night; she nowise turned away therefrom, and so for three nights together he laid her in bed by him.

Thereafter she fared home, and found the witch-wife, and bade her change semblances again, and she did so.

Now as time wears, Signy brings forth a man-child, who was named Sinfjotli, and when he grew up he was both big and strong, and fair of face, and much like unto the kin of the Volsungs, and he was hardly yet ten winters old when she sent him to Sigmund's earth-house; but this trial she had made of her other sons or ever she had sent them to Sigmund, that she had sewed gloves on to their hands through flesh and skin, and they had borne it ill and cried out thereat; and this she now did to Sinfjotli, and he changed countenance in nowise thereat. Then she flayed off the kirtle so that the skin came off with the sleeves, and said that this would be torment enough for him; but he said—

"Full little would Volsung have felt such a smart as this."

So the lad came to Sigmund, and Sigmund bade him knead their meal up, while he goes to fetch firing; so he gave him the meal-sack, and then went after the wood, and by then he came back had Sinfjotli made an end of his baking. Then asked Sigmund if he had found nothing in the meal.

"I misdoubted me that there was something quick in the meal when I first fell to kneading of it, but I have kneaded it all up together, both the meal and that which was therein, whatsoever it was."

Then Sigmund laughed out, he said—

"Naught wilt thou eat of this bread to-night, for the most deadly of worms[1] hast thou kneaded up therewith."

Now Sigmund was so mighty a man that he might eat venom and have no hurt therefrom; but Sinfjotli might abide whatso venom came on the outside of him, but might neither eat nor drink thereof.

1: Serpents.

VIII. The Death of King Siggeir and of Signy

THE TALE tells that Sigmund thought Sinfjotli over young to help him to his revenge, and will first of all harden him with manly deeds; so in summer-tide they fare wide through the woods and slay men for their wealth; Sigmund deems him to take much after the kin of the Volsungs, though he thinks that he is Siggeir's son, and deems him to have the evil heart of his father, with the might and daring of the Volsungs; withal he must needs think him in nowise a kinsome man, for full oft would he bring Sigmund's wrongs to his memory, and prick him on to slay King Siggeir.

Now on a time as they fare abroad in the woods for the getting of wealth, they find a certain house, and two men with great gold rings asleep therein: now these twain were spell-bound skin-changers,[1] and wolf-skins were hanging up over them in the house; and every tenth day might they come out of those skins; and they were kings' sons: so Sigmund and Sinfjotli do the wolf-skins on them, and then might they nowise come out of them, though forsooth the same nature went with them as heretofore; they howled as wolves howl, but both knew the meaning of that howling; they lay out in the wild-wood, and each went his way; and a word they made betwixt them, that they should risk the onset of seven men, but no more, and that he who was first to be set on should howl in wolfish wise: "Let us not depart from this," says Sigmund, "for thou art young and over-bold, and men will deem the quarry good, when they take thee."

Now each goes his way, and when they were parted, Sigmund meets certain men, and gives forth a wolf's howl; and when Sinfjotli heard it, he went straightway thereto, and slew them all, and once more they parted. But ere Sinfjotli has fared long through the woods, eleven men meet him, and he wrought in such wise that he slew them all, and was awearied therewith, and crawls under an oak, and there takes his rest. Then came Sigmund thither, and said—

"Why didst thou not call on me?"

Sinfjotli said, "I was loth to call for thy help for the slaying of eleven men."

Then Sigmund rushed at him so hard that he staggered and fell, and Sigmund bit him in the throat. Now that day they might not come out of their wolf-skins: but Sigmund lay the other on his back, and bears him home to the house, and cursed the wolf-gears and gave them to the trolls. Now on a day he saw where two weasels went, and how that one bit the other in the throat, and then ran straightway into the thicket, and took up a leaf and laid it on the wound, and thereon his fellow sprang up quite and clean whole; so Sigmund went out and saw a raven flying with a blade of that same herb to him; so he took it and drew it over Sinfjotli's hurt, and he straightway sprang up as whole as though he had never been hurt. Thereafter they went home to their earth-house, and abode there till the time came for them to put off the wolf-shapes; then they burnt them up with fire, and prayed that no more hurt might come to any one from them; but in that uncouth guise they wrought many famous deeds in the kingdom and lordship of King Siggeir.

Now when Sinfjotli was come to man's estate, Sigmund deemed he had tried him fully, and or ever a long time has gone by he turns his mind to the avenging of his father, if so it may be brought about; so on a certain day the twain get them gone from their earth-house, and come to the abode of King Siggeir late in the evening, and go into the porch before the hall, wherein were tuns of ale, and there they lie hid: now the queen is ware of them, where they are, and is fain to meet them; and when they met they took counsel and were of one mind that Volsung should be revenged that same night.

Now Signy and the king had two children of tender age, who played with a golden toy on the floor, and bowled it along the pavement of the hall, running along with it; but therewith a golden ring from off it trundles away into the place where Sigmund and Sinfjotli lay, and off runs the little one to search for the same, and beholds withal where two men are sitting, big and grimly to look on, with overhanging helms and bright white byrnies;[2] so he runs up the hall to his father, and tells him of the sight he has seen, and thereat the king misdoubts of some guile abiding him; but Signy heard their speech, and arose and took both the children, and went out into the porch to them and said—

"Lo ye! these younglings have bewrayed you; come now therefore and slay them!"

Sigmund says, "Never will I slay thy children for telling of where I lay hid."

But Sinfjotli made little enow of it, but drew his sword and slew them both, and cast them in to the hall at King Siggeir's feet.

Then up stood the king and cried on his men to take those who had lain privily in the porch through the night. So they ran thither and would lay hands on them, but they stood on their defense well and manly, and long he remembered it who was the nighest to them; but in the end they were borne down by many men and taken, and bonds were set upon them, and they were cast into fetters wherein they sit night long.

Then the king ponders what longest and worst of deaths he shall mete out to them; and when morning came he let make a great barrow of stones and turf; and when it was done, let set a great flat stone midmost inside thereof, so that one edge was aloft, the other alow; and so great it was that it went from wall to wall, so that none might pass it.

Now he bids folk take Sigmund and Sinfjotli and set them in the barrow, on either side of the stone, for the worse for them he deemed it, that they might hear each the other's speech, and yet that neither might pass one to the other. But now, while they were covering in the barrow with the turf-slips, thither came Signy, bearing straw with her, and cast it down to Sinfjotli, and bade the thralls hide this thing from the king; they said yea thereto, and therewithal was the barrow closed in.

But when night fell, Sinfjotli said to Sigmund, "Belike we shall scarce need meat for a while, for here has the queen cast swine's flesh into the barrow, and wrapped it round about on the outer side with straw."

Therewith he handles the flesh and finds that therein was thrust Sigmund's sword; and he knew it by the hilts, as mirk as it might be in the barrow, and tells Sigmund thereof, and of that were they both fain enow.

Now Sinfjotli drave the point of the sword up into the big stone, and drew it hard along, and the sword bit on the stone. With that Sigmund caught the sword by the point, and in this wise they sawed the stone between them, and let not or all the sawing was done that need be done, even as the song sings:

"Sinfjotli sawed
And Sigmund sawed,
Atwain with main
The stone was done."

Now are they both together loose in the barrow, and soon they cut both through stone and through iron, and bring themselves out thereof. Then they go home to the hall, whenas all men slept there, and bear wood to the hall, and lay fire therein; and withal the folk therein are waked by the smoke, and by the hall burning over their heads.

Then the king cries out, "Who kindled this fire, I burn withal?"

"Here am I," says Sigmund, "with Sinfjotli, my sister's son; and we are minded that thou shalt wot well that all the Volsungs are not yet dead."

Then he bade his sister come out, and take all good things at his hands, and great honour, and fair atonement in that wise, for all her griefs.

But she answered, "Take heed now, and consider, if I have kept King Siggeir in memory, and his slaying of Volsung the king! I let slay both my children, whom I deemed worthless for the revenging of our father, and I went into the wood to thee in a witch-wife's shape; and now behold, Sinfjotli is the son of thee and of me both! and therefore has he this so great hardihood and fierceness, in that he is the son both of Volsung's son and Volsung's daughter; and for this, and for naught else, have I so wrought, that Siggeir might get his bane at last; and all these things have I done that vengeance might fall on him, and that I too might not live long; and merrily now will I die with King Siggeir, though I was naught merry to wed him."

Therewith she kissed Sigmund her brother, and Sinfjotli, and went back again into the fire, and there she died with King Siggeir and all his good men.

But the two kinsmen gathered together folk and ships, and Sigmund went back to his father's land, and drave away thence the king, who had set himself down there in the room of king Volsung.

So Sigmund became a mighty King and far-famed, wise and high-minded: he had to wife one named Borghild, and two sons they had between them, one named Helgi and the other Hamund; and when Helgi was born, Norns came to him,[3] and spake over him, and said that he should be in time to come the most renowned of all kings. Even therewith was Sigmund come home from the wars, and so therewith he gives him the name of Helgi, and these matters as tokens thereof, Land of Rings, Sun-litten Hill, and Sharp-shearing Sword, and withal prayed that he might grow of great fame, and like unto the kin of the Volsungs.

And so it was that he grew up high-minded, and well-beloved, and above all other men in all prowess; and the story tells that he went to the wars when he was fifteen winters old. Helgi was lord and ruler over the army, but Sinfjotli was gotten to be his fellow herein; and so the twain bare sway thereover.

1: "Skin-changers" were universally believed in once, in Iceland no less than elsewhere, as see Ari in several places of his history, especially the episode of Dufthach and Storwolf o' Whale. Men possessing the power of becoming wolves at intervals, in the present case compelled to so become, wer-wolves or loupsgarou, find large place in medieval story, but were equally well-known in classic times. Belief in them still lingers in parts of Europe where wolves are to be found. Herodotus tells of the Neuri, who assumed once a year the shape of wolves; Pliny says that one of the family of Antæus, chosen by lot annually, became a wolf, and so remained for nine years; Giraldus Cambrensis will have it that Irishmen may become wolves; and Nennius asserts point-blank that "the descendants of wolves are still in Ossory;" they retransform themselves into wolves when they bite. Apuleius, Petronius, and Lucian have similar stories. The Emperor Sigismund convoked a council of theologians in the fifteenth century, who decided that wer-wolves did exist.

2: Corslet, cuirass.

3: "Norns came to him." Nornir are the fates of the northern mythology. They are three—Urd, the past; Verdandi, the present; and Skuld, the future. They sit beside the fountain of Urd (Urdarbrunur), which is below one of the roots of Yggdrasil, the world-tree, which tree their office it is to nourish by sprinkling it with the waters of the fountain.

IX. How Helgi the son of Sigmund, won King Hodbrod and his Realm, and wedded Sigrun

NOW the tale tells that Helgi in his warring met a king hight Hunding, a mighty king, and lord of many men and many lands; they fell to battle together, and Helgi went forth mightily, and such was the end of that fight that Helgi had the victory, but King Hunding fell and many of his men with him; but Helgi is deemed to have grown greatly in fame because he had slain so mighty a king.

Then the sons of Hunding draw together a great army to avenge their father. Hard was the fight betwixt them; but Helgi goes through the folk of those brothers unto their banner, and there slays these sons of Hunding, Alf and Eyolf, Herward and Hagbard, and wins there a great victory.

Now as Helgi fared from the fight, he met a many women right fair and worthy to look on, who rode in exceeding noble array; but one far excelled them all; then Helgi asked them the name of that their lady and queen, and she named herself Sigrun, and said she was daughter of King Hogni.

Then said Helgi, "Fare home with us: good welcome shall ye have!"

Then said the king's daughter, "Other work lies before us than to drink with thee."

"Yea, and what work, king's daughter?" said Helgi.

She answers, "King Hogni has promised me to Hodbrod, the son of King Granmar, but I have vowed a vow that I will have him to my husband no more than if he were a crow's son and not a king's; and yet will the thing come to pass, but and if thou standest in the way thereof, and goest against him with an army, and takest me away withal; for verily with no king would I rather bide on bolster than with thee."

"Be of good cheer, king's daughter," says he, "for certes he and I shall try the matter, or ever thou be given to him; yea, we shall behold which may prevail against the other; and hereto I pledge my life."

Thereafter, Helgi sent men with money in their hands to summon his folk to him, and all his power is called together to Red-Berg: and there Helgi abode till such time as a great company came to him from Hedinsey; and therewithal came mighty powers from Norvi Sound aboard great and fair ships. Then King Helgi called to him the captain of his ships, who was hight Leif, and asked him if he had told over the tale of his army.

"A thing not easy to tell, lord," says he, "on the ships that came out of Norvi Sound are twelve thousand men, and otherwhere are half as many again."

Then bade King Helgi turn into the firth, called Varin's-firth, and they did so: but now there fell on them so fierce a storm and so huge a sea, that the beat of the waves on board and bow was to hearken to like as the clashing together of high hills broken.

But Helgi bade men fear naught, nor take in any sail, but rather hoist every rag higher than heretofore; but little did they miss of foundering or ever they made land; then came Sigrun, daughter of King Hogni, down on to the beach with a great army, and turned them away thence to a good haven called Gnipalund; but the landsmen see what has befallen and come down to the sea-shore. The brother of King Hodbrod, lord of a land called Swarin's Cairn, cried out to them, and asked them who was captain over that mighty army. Then up stands Sinfjotli, with a helm on his head, bright shining as glass, and a byrny as white as snow; a spear in his hand, and thereon a banner of renown, and a gold-rimmed shield hanging before him; and well he knew with what words to speak to kings—

"Go thou and say, when thou hast made an end of feeding thy swine and thy dogs, and when thou beholdest thy wife again, that here are come the Volsungs, and in this company may King Helgi be found, if Hodbrod be fain of finding him, for his game and his joy it is to fight and win fame, while thou art kissing the handmaids by the fire-side."

Then answered Granmar, "In nowise knowest thou how to speak seemly things, and to tell of matters remembered from of old, whereas thou layest lies on chiefs and lords; most like it is that thou must have long been nourished with wolf-meat abroad in the wild-woods, and has slain thy brethren; and a marvel it is to behold that thou darest to join thyself to the company of good men and true, thou, who hast sucked the blood of many a cold corpse."

Sinfjotli answered, "Dim belike is grown thy memory now, of how thou wert a witch-wife on Varinsey, and wouldst fain have a man to thee, and choose me to that same office of all the world; and how thereafter thou wert a Valkyria[1] in Asgarth, and it wellnigh came to this, that for thy sweet sake should all men fight; and nine wolf-whelps I begat on thy body in Lowness, and was the father to them all."

Granmar answers, "Great skill of lying hast thou; yet belike the father of naught at all mayst thou be, since thou wert gelded by the giant's daughters of Thrasness; and lo thou art the stepson of King Siggeir, and were wont to lie abroad in wilds and woods with the kin of wolves; and unlucky was the hand wherewith thou slewest thy brethren, making for thyself an exceeding evil name."

Said Sinfjotli, "Mindest thou not then, when thou were stallion Grani's mare, and how I rode thee an amble on Bravoll, and that afterwards thou wert giant Golnir's goatherd?"

Granmar says, "Rather would I feed fowls with the flesh of thee than wraggle any longer with thee."

Then spake King Helgi, "Better were it for ye, and a more manly deed, to fight, rather than to speak such things as it is a shame even to hearken to; Granmar's sons are no friends of me and of mine, yet are they hardy men none the less."

So Granmar rode away to meet King Hodbrod, at a stead called Sunfells, and the horses of the twain were named Sveipud and Sveggjud. The brothers met in the castle-porch, and Granmar told Hodbrod of the war-news. King Hodbrod was clad in a byrny, and had his helm on his head; he asked—

"What men are anigh, why look ye so wrathful?"

Granmar says, "Here are come the Volsungs, and twelve thousand men of them are afloat off the coast, and seven thousand are at the island called Sok, but at the stead called Grindur is the greatest company of all, and now I deem withal that Helgi and his fellowship have good will to give battle."

Then said the king, "Let us send a message through all our realm, and go against them, neither let any who is fain of fight sit idle at home; let us send word to the sons of Ring, and to King Hogni, and to Alf the Old, for they are mighty warriors."

So the hosts met at Wolfstone, and fierce fight befell there; Helgi rushed forth through the host of his foes, and many a man fell there; at last folk saw a great company of shield-maidens, like burning flames to look on, and there was come Sigrun, the king's daughter. Then King Helgi fell on King Hodbrod, and smote him, and slew him even under his very banner; and Sigrun cried out—

"Have thou thanks for thy so manly deed! now shall we share the land between us, and a day of great good hap this is to me, and for this deed shalt thou get honour and renown, in that thou hast felled to earth so mighty a king."

So Helgi took to him that realm and dwelt there long, when he had wedded Sigrun, and became a king of great honour and renown, though he has naught more to do with this story.

[1] Valkyrja, "Chooser of the elected." The women were so called whom Odin sent to choose those for death in battle who were to join the Einherjar in the hall of the elected, "Val-holl."

X. The Ending of Sinfjotli, Sigmund's Son

NOW the Volsungs fare back home, and have gained great renown by these deeds. But Sinfjotli betook himself to warfare anew; and therewith he had sight of an exceeding fair woman, and yearned above all things for her; but that same woman was wooed also of the brother of Borghild, the king's wife: and this matter they fought out betwixt them and Sinfjotli slew that king; and thereafter he harried far and wide, and had many a battle and ever gained the day; and he became hereby honoured and renowned above all men; but in autumn tide he came home with many ships and abundant wealth.

Then he told his tidings to the king his father, and he again to the queen, and she for her part bids him get him gone from the realm, and made as if she would in nowise see him. But Sigmund said he would not drive him away, and offered her atonement of gold and great wealth for her brother's life, albeit he said he had never erst given weregild[1] to any for the slaying of a man, but no fame it was to uphold wrong against a woman.

So seeing she might not get her own way herein, she said, "Have thy will in this matter, O my lord, for it is seemly so to be."

And now she holds the funeral feast for her brother by the aid and counsel of the king, and makes ready all things therefor in the best of wise, and bade thither many great men.

At that feast, Borghild the queen bare the drink to folk, and she came over against Sinfjotli with a great horn, and said—

"Fall to now and drink, fair stepson!"

Then he took the horn to him, and looked therein, and said—

"Nay, for the drink is charmed drink."

Then said Sigmund, "Give it unto me then;" and therewith he took the horn and drank it off.

But the queen said to Sinfjotli, "Why must other men needs drink thine ale for thee?" And she came again the second time with the horn, and said, "Come now and drink!" and goaded him with many words.

And he took the horn, and said—

"Guile is in the drink."

And thereon, Sigmund cried out—

"Give it then unto me!"

Again, the third time, she came to him, and bade him drink off his drink, if he had the heart of a Volsung; then he laid hand on the horn, but said—

"Venom is therein."

"Nay, let the lip strain it out then, O son," quoth Sigmund; and by then was he exceeding drunk with drink, and therefore spake he in that wise.

So Sinfjotli drank, and straightway fell down dead to the ground.

Sigmund rose up, and sorrowed night to death over him; then he took the corpse in his arms and fared away to the wood, and went till he came to a certain firth; and there he saw a man in a little boat; and that man asked if he would be wafted by him over the firth, and he said yea thereto; but so little was the boat, that they might not all go in it at once, so the corpse was first laid therein, while Sigmund went by the firth-side. But therewith the boat and the man therein vanished away from before Sigmund's eyes.[2]

So thereafter Sigmund turned back home, and drave away the queen, and a little after she died. But Sigmund the king yet ruled his realm, and is deemed ever the greatest champion and king of the old law.

1: Fine for man-slaying.

2: The man in the boat is Odin, doubtless.

XI. Of King Sigmund's last Battle, and of how he must yield up his Sword Again

THERE was a king called Eylimi, mighty and of great fame, and his daughter was called Hjordis, the fairest and wisest of woman-kind; and Sigmund hears it told of her that she was meet to be his wife, yea if none else were. So he goes to the house of King Eylimi, who would make a great feast for him, if so be he comes not thither in the guise of a foe. So messages were sent from one to the other that this present journey was a peaceful one, and not for war; so the feast was held in the best of wise and with many a man thereat; fairs were in every place established for King Sigmund, and all things else were done to the aid and comfort of his journey: so he came to the feast, and both kings hold their state in one hall; thither also was come King Lyngi, son of King Hunding, and he also is a-wooing the daughter of King Eylimi.

Now the king deemed he knew that the twain had come thither but for one errand, and thought withal that war and trouble might be looked for from the hands of him who brought not his end about; so he spake to his daughter, and said—

"Thou art a wise woman, and I have spoken it, that thou alone shalt choose a husband for thyself; choose therefore between these two kings, and my rede shall be even as thine."

"A hard and troublous matter," says she; "yet will I choose him who is of greatest fame, King Sigmund to wit, albeit he is well stricken in years."

So to him was she betrothed, and King Lyngi gat him gone. Then was Sigmund wedded to Hjordis, and now each day was the feast better and more glorious than on the day before it. But thereafter Sigmund went back home to Hunland, and King Eylimi, his father-in-law, with him, and King Sigmund betakes himself to the due ruling of his realm.

But King Lyngi and his brethren gather an army together to fall on Sigmund, for as in all matters they were wont to have the worser lot, so did this bite the sorest of all; and they would fain prevail over the might and pride of the Volsungs. So they came to Hunland, and sent King Sigmund word how that they would not steal upon him, and that they deemed he would scarce slink away from them. So Sigmund said he would come and meet them in battle, and drew his power together; but Hjordis was borne into the wood with a certain bondmaid, and mighty wealth went with them; and there she abode the while they fought.

Now the vikings rushed from their ships in numbers not to be borne up against, but Sigmund the King, and Eylimi, set up their banners, and the horns blew up to battle; but King Sigmund let blow the horn his father erst had had, and cheered on his men to the fight, but his army was far the fewest.

Now was that battle fierce and fell, and though Sigmund were old, yet most hardily he fought, and was ever the foremost of his men; no shield or byrny might hold against him, and he went ever through the ranks of his foemen on that day, and no man might see how things would fare between them; many an arrow and many a spear was aloft in air that day, and so his spae-wrights wrought for him that he got no wound, and none can tell over the tale of those who fell before him, and both his arms were red with blood, even to the shoulders.

But now whenas the battle had dured a while, there came a man into the fight clad in a blue cloak, and with a slouched hat on his head, one-eyed he was,[1] and bare a bill in his hand; and he came against Sigmund the King, and have up his bill against him, and as Sigmund smote fiercely with the sword it fell upon the bill and burst asunder in the midst: thenceforth the slaughter and dismay turned to his side, for the good-hap of King Sigmund had departed from him, and his men fell fast about him; naught did the king spare himself, but the rather cheered on his men; but even as the saw says, No might 'gainst many, so was it now proven; and in this fight fell Sigmund the King, and King Eylimi, his father-in-law, in the fore-front of their battle, and therewith the more part of their folk.

1: Odin coming to change the ownership of the sword he had given Sigmund.

XII. Of the Shards of the Sword Gram, and how Hjordis went to King Alf

NOW King Lyngi made for the king's abode, and was minded to take the king's daughter there, but failed herein, for there he found neither wife nor wealth: so he fared through all the realm, and gave his men rule thereover, and now deemed that he had slain all the kin of the Volsungs, and that he need dread them no more from henceforth.

Now Hjordis went amidst the slain that night of the battle, and came whereas lay King Sigmund, and asked if he might be healed; but he answered—

"Many a man lives after hope has grown little; but my good-hap has departed from me, nor will I suffer myself to be healed, nor wills Odin that I should ever draw sword again, since this my sword and his is broken; lo now, I have waged war while it was his will."

"Naught ill would I deem matters," said she, "if thou mightest be healed and avenge my father."

The king said, "That is fated for another man; behold now, thou art great with a man-child; nourish him well and with good heed, and the child shall be the noblest and most famed of all our kin: and keep well withal the shards of the sword: thereof shall a goodly sword be made, and it shall be called Gram, and our son shall bear it, and shall work many a great work therewith, even such as eld shall never minish; for his name shall abide and flourish as long as the world shall endure: and let this be enow for thee. But now I grow weary with my wounds, and I will go see our kin that have gone before me."

So Hjordis sat over him till he died at the day-dawning; and then she looked, and behold, there came many ships sailing to the land: then she spake to the handmaid—

"Let us now change raiment, and be thou called by my name, and say that thou art the king's daughter."

And thus they did; but now the vikings behold the great slaughter of men there, and see where two women fare away thence into the wood; and they deem that some great tidings must have befallen, and they leaped ashore from out their ships. Now the captain of these folks was Alf, son of Hjalprek, king of Denmark, who was sailing with his power along the land. So they came into the field among the slain, and saw how many men lay dead there; then the king bade go seek for the women and bring them thither, and they did so. He asked them what women they were; and, little as the thing seems like to be, the bondmaid answered for the twain, telling of the fall of King Sigmund and King Eylimi, and many another great man, and who they were withal who had wrought the deed. Then the king asks if they wotted where the wealth of the king was bestowed; and then says the bondmaid—

"It may well be deemed that we know full surely thereof."

And therewith she guides them to the place where the treasure lay; and there they found exceeding great wealth; so that men deem they have never seen so many things of price heaped up together in one place. All this they bore to the ships of King Alf, and Hjordis and the bondmaid went with them. Therewith these sail away to their own realm, and talk how that surely on that field had fallen the most renowned of kings.

So the king sits by the tiller, but the women abide in the forecastle: but talk he had with the women and held their counsels of much account.

In such wise the king came home to his realm with great wealth, and he himself was a man exceeding goodly to look on. But when he had been but a little while at home, the queen, his mother, asked him why the fairest of the two women had the fewer rings and the less worthy attire.

"I deem," she said, "that she whom ye have held of least account is the noblest of the twain."

He answered: "I too have misdoubted me, that she is little like a bondwoman, and when we first met, in seemly wise she greated noble men. Lo now, we will make a trial of the thing."

So on a time as men sat at the drink, the king sat down to talk with the women, and said—

"In what wise do ye note the wearing of the hours, whenas night grows old, if ye may not see the lights of heaven?"

Then says the bondwoman, "This sign have I, that whenas in my youth I was wont to drink much in the dawn, so now when I no longer use that manner, I am yet wont to wake up at that very same tide, and by that token do I know thereof."

Then the king laughed and said, "Ill manners for a king's daughter!" And therewith he turned to Hjordis, and asked her even the same question; but she answered—

"My father erst gave me a little gold ring of such nature, that it groweth cold on my finger in the day-dawning; and that is the sign that I have to know thereof."

The king answered: "Enow of gold there, where a very bondmaid bore it! but come now, thou hast been long enow hid from me; yet if thou hadst told me all from the beginning, I would have done to thee as though we had both been one king's children: but better than thy deeds will I deal with thee, for thou shalt be my wife, and due jointure will I pay thee whenas thou hast borne me a child."

She spake therewith and told out the whole truth about herself: so there was she held in great honour, and deemed the worthiest of women.

XIII. Of the Birth and Waxing of Sigurd Fafnir's-Bane

THE TALE tells that Hjordis brought forth a man-child, who was straightly borne before King Hjalprek, and then was the king glad thereof, when he saw the keen eyes in the head of him, and he said that few men would be equal to him or like unto him in any wise. So he was sprinkled with water, and had to name Sigurd, of whom all men speak with one speech and say that none was ever his like for growth and goodliness. He was brought up in the house of King Hjalprek in great love and honour; and so it is, that whenso all the noblest men and greatest kings are named in the olden tales, Sigurd is ever put before them all, for might and prowess, for high mind and stout heart, wherewith he was far more abundantly gifted than any man of the northern parts of the wide world.

So Sigurd waxed in King Hjalprek's house, and there was no child but loved him; through him was Hjordis betrothed to King Alf, and jointure meted to her.

Now Sigurd's foster-father was hight Regin, the son of Hreidmar; he taught him all manner of arts, the chess play, and the lore of runes, and the talking of many tongues, even as the wont was with kings' sons in those days. But on a day when they were together, Regin asked Sigurd, if he knew how much wealth his father had owned, and who had the ward thereof; Sigurd answered, and said that the kings kept the ward thereof.

Said Regin, "Dost thou trust them all utterly?"

Sigurd said, "It is seemly that they keep it till I may do somewhat therewith, for better they wot how to guard it than I do."

Another time came Regin to talk to Sigurd, and said—

"A marvellous thing truly that thou must needs be a horse-boy to the kings, and go about like a running knave."

"Nay," said Sigurd, "it is not so, for in all things I have my will, and whatso thing I desire is granted me with good will."

"Well, then," said Regin, "ask for a horse of them."

"Yea," quoth Sigurd, "and that shall I have, whenso I have need thereof."

Thereafter Sigurd went to the king, and the king said—

"What wilt thou have of us?"

Then said Sigurd, "I would even a horse of thee for my disport."

Then said the king, "Choose for thyself a horse, and whatso thing else thou desirest among my matters."

So the next day went Sigurd to the wood, and met on the way an old man, long-bearded, that he knew not, who asked him whither away.

Sigurd said, "I am minded to choose me a horse; come thou, and counsel me thereon."

"Well then," said he, "go we and drive them to the river which is called Busil-tarn."

They did so, and drave the horses down into the deeps of the river, and all swam back to land but one horse; and that horse Sigurd chose for himself; grey he was of hue, and young of years, great of growth, and fair to look on, nor had any man yet crossed his back.

Then spake the grey-beard, "From Sleipnir's kin is this horse come, and he must be nourished heedfully, for it will be the best of all horses;" and therewithal he vanished away.

So Sigurd called the horse Grani, the best of all the horses of the world; nor was the man he met other than Odin himself.

Now yet again spake Regin to Sigurd, and said—

"Not enough is thy wealth, and I grieve right sore that thou must needs run here and there like a churl's son; but I can tell thee where there is much wealth for the winning, and great name and honour to be won in the getting of it."

Sigurd asked where that might be, and who had watch and ward over it.

Regin answered, "Fafnir is his name, and but a little way hence he lies, on the waste of Gnita-heath; and when thou comest there thou mayest well say that thou hast never seen more gold heaped together in one place, and that none might desire more treasure, though he were the most ancient and famed of all kings."

"Young am I," says Sigurd, "yet know I the fashion of this worm, and how that none durst go against him, so huge and evil is he."

Regin said, "Nay it is not so, the fashion and the growth of him is even as of other lingworms,[1] and an over great tale men make of it; and even so would thy forefathers have deemed; but thou, though thou be of the kin of the Volsungs, shalt scarce have the heart and mind of those, who are told of as the first in all deeds of fame."

Sigurd said, "Yea, belike I have little of their hardihood and prowess, but thou hast naught to do, to lay a coward's name upon me, when I am scarce out of my childish years. Why dost thou egg me on hereto so busily?"

Regin said, "Therein lies a tale which I must needs tell thee."

"Let me hear the same," said Sigurd.

1: Lingworm—longworm, dragon.

XIV. Regin's Tale of his Brothers, and of the Gold called Andvari's Hoard

"THUS the tale begins," said Regin. "Hreidmar was my father's name, a mighty man and a wealthy: and his first son was named Fafnir, his second Otter, and I was the third, and the least of them all both for prowess and good conditions, but I was cunning to work in iron, and silver, and gold, whereof I could make matters that availed somewhat. Other skill my brother Otter followed, and had another nature withal, for he was a great fisher, and above other men herein; in that he had the likeness of an otter by day, and dwelt ever in the river, and bare fish to bank in his mouth, and his prey would he ever bring to our father, and that availed him much: for the most part he kept him in his otter-gear, and then he would come home, and eat alone, and slumbering, for on the dry land he might see naught. But Fafnir was by far the greatest and grimmest, and would have all things about called his.

"Now," says Regin, "there was a dwarf called Andvari, who ever abode in that force,[1] which was called Andvari's force, in the likeness of a pike, and got meat for himself, for many fish there were in the force; now Otter, my brother, was ever wont to enter into the force, and bring fish aland, and lay them one by one on the bank. And so it befell that Odin, Loki, and Hœnir, as they went their ways, came to Andvari's force, and Otter had taken a salmon, and ate it slumbering upon the river bank; then Loki took a stone and cast it at Otter, so that he gat his death thereby; the gods were well content with their prey, and fell to flaying off the otter's skin; and in the evening they came to Hreidmar's house, and showed him what they had taken: thereon he laid hands on them, and doomed them to such ransom, as that they should fill the otter skin with gold, and cover it over without with red gold; so they sent Loki to gather gold together for them; he came to Ran,[2] and got her net, and went therewith to Andvari's force, and cast the net before the pike, and the pike ran into the net and was taken. Then said Loki—

"'What fish of all fishes,
  Swims strong in the flood,
But hath learnt little wit to beware?
  Thine head must thou buy,
  From abiding in hell,
And find me the wan waters flame.'

He answered—

"'Andvari folk call me,
  Call Oinn my father,
Over many a force have I fared;
  For a Norn of ill-luck,
  This life on me lay
Through wet ways ever to wade.'

"So Loki beheld the gold of Andvari, and when he had given up the gold, he had but one ring left, and that also Loki took from him; then the dwarf went into a hollow of the rocks, and cried out, that that gold-ring, yea and all the gold withal, should be the bane of every man who should own it thereafter.

"Now the gods rode with the treasure to Hreidmar, and fulfilled the otter-skin, and set it on its feet, and they must cover it over utterly with gold: but when this was done then Hreidmar came forth, and beheld yet one of the muzzle hairs, and bade them cover that withal; then Odin drew the ring, Andvari's loom, from his hand, and covered up the hair therewith; then sang Loki—

"'Gold enow, gold enow,
  A great weregild, thou hast,
That my head in good hap I may hold;
  But thou and thy son
  Are naught fated to thrive,
The bane shall it be of you both.'

"Thereafter," says Regin, "Fafnir slew his father and murdered him, nor got I aught of the treasure, and so evil he grew, that he fell to lying abroad, and begrudged any share in the wealth of any man, and so became the worst of all worms, and ever now lies brooding upon that treasure: but for me, I went to the king and became his master-smith; and thus is the tale of how I lost the heritage of my father, and the weregild for my brother."

So spake Regin; but since that time gold is called Ottergild, and for no other cause than this.

But Sigurd answered, "Much hast thou lost, and exceeding evil have thy kinsmen been! but now, make a sword by thy craft, such a sword as that none can be made like unto it; so that I may do great deeds therewith, if my heart avail thereto, and thou wouldst have me slay this mighty dragon."

Regin says, "Trust me well herein; and with that same sword shalt thou slay Fafnir."

1: Waterfall.

2: Ran is the goddess of the sea, wife of Ægir. The otter was held sacred by Norsefolk and figures in the myth and legend of most races besides, to this day its killing is held a great crime by the Parsees (Haug, Religion of the Parsees, page 212). Compare penalty above with that for killing the Welsh king's cat (Ancient Laws and Institutes of Wales. Ed., Aneurin Owen. Longman, London, 1841, 2 vols., 8vo.)

XV. Of the Welding together of the Shards of the Sword Gram

SO Regin makes a sword, and gives it into Sigurd's hands. He took the sword, and said—

"Behold thy smithying, Regin!" and therewith smote it into the anvil, and the sword brake; so he cast down the brand, and bade him forge a better.

Then Regin forged another sword, and brought it to Sigurd, who looked thereon.

Then said Regin, "Belike thou art well content therewith, hard master though thou be in smithying."

So Sigurd proved the sword, and brake it even as the first; then he said to Regin—

"Ah, art thou, mayhappen, a traitor and a liar like to those former kin of thine?"

Therewith he went to his mother, and she welcomed him in seemly wise, and they talked and drank together.

Then spake Sigurd, "Have I heard aright, that King Sigmund gave thee the good sword Gram in two pieces?"

"True enough," she said.

So Sigurd said, "Deliver them into my hands, for I would have them."

She said he looked like to win great fame, and gave him the sword. Therewith went Sigurd to Regin, and bade him make a good sword thereof as he best might; Regin grew wroth thereat, but went into the smithy with the pieces of the sword, thinking well meanwhile that Sigurd pushed his head far enow into the matter of smithying. So he made a sword, and as he bore it forth from the forge, it seemed to the smiths as though fire burned along the edges thereof. Now he bade Sigurd take the sword, and said he knew not how to make a sword if this one failed. Then Sigurd smote it into the anvil, and cleft it down to the stock thereof, and neither burst the sword nor brake it. Then he praised the sword much, and thereafter went to the river with a lock of wool, and threw it up against the stream, and it fell asunder when it met the sword. Then was Sigurd glad, and went home.

But Regin said, "Now whereas I have made the sword for thee, belike thou wilt hold to thy troth given, and wilt go meet Fafnir?"

"Surely will I hold thereto," said Sigurd, "yet first must I avenge my father."

Now Sigurd the older he grew, the more he grew in the love of all men, so that every child loved him well.

XVI. The Prophecy of Grifir

THERE was a man hight Grifir,[1] who was Sigurd's mother's brother, and a little after the forging of the sword Sigurd went to Grifir, because he was a man who knew things to come, and what was fated to men: of him Sigurd asked diligently how his life should go; but Grifir was long or he spake, yet at the last, by reason of Sigurd's exceeding great prayers, he told him all his life and the fate thereof, even as afterwards came to pass. So when Grifir had told him all even as he would, he went back home; and a little after he and Regin met.

Then said Regin, "Go thou and slay Fafnir, even as thou hast given thy word."

Sigurd said, "That work shall be wrought; but another is first to be done, the avenging of Sigmund the king and the other of my kinsmen who fell in that their last fight."

1: Called "Gripir" in the Edda.

XVII. Of Sigurd's Avenging of Sigmund his Father

NOW Sigurd went to the kings, and spake thus—

"Here have I abode a space with you, and I owe you thanks and reward, for great love and many gifts and all due honour; but now will I away from the land and go meet the sons of Hunding, and do them to wit that the Volsungs are not all dead; and your might would I have to strengthen me therein."

So the kings said that they would give him all things soever that he desired, and therewith was a great army got ready, and all things wrought in the most heedful wise, ships and all war-gear, so that his journey might be of the stateliest: but Sigurd himself steered the dragon-keel which was the greatest and noblest; richly wrought were their sails, and glorious to look on.

So they sail and have wind at will; but when a few days were overpast, there arose a great storm on the sea, and the waves were to behold even as the foam of men's blood; but Sigurd bade take in no sail, howsoever they might be riven, but rather to lay on higher than heretofore. But as they sailed past the rocks of a ness, a certain man hailed the ships, and asked who was captain over that navy; then was it told him that the chief and lord was Sigurd, the son of Sigmund, the most famed of all the young men who now are.

Then said the man, "Naught but one thing, certes, do all say of him, that none among the sons of kings may be likened unto him; now fain were I that ye would shorten sail on some of the ships, and take me aboard."

Then they asked him of his name, and he sang—

Hnikar I hight,
When I gladdened Huginn,
And went to battle,
Bright son of Volsung;
Now may ye call
The carl on the cliff top,
Feng or Fjolnir:
Fain would I with you.

They made for land therewith, and took that man aboard.

Then quoth Sigurd,[1] as the song says—

  Tell me this, O Hnikar,
  Since full well thou knowest
Fate of Gods, good and ill of mankind,
  What best our hap foresheweth,
  When amid the battle
About us sweeps the sword edge.

Quoth Hnikar—

  Good are many tokens
  If thereof men wotted
When the swords are sweeping:
  Fair fellow deem I
  The dark-winged raven,
In war, to weapon-wielder.

  The second good thing:
  When abroad thou goest
For the long road well arrayed,
  Good if thou seest
  Two men standing,
Fain of fame within the forecourt.

  A third thing:
  Good hearing,
  The wolf a howling
Abroad under ash boughs;
  Good hap shalt thou have

Dealing with helm-staves,
If thou seest these fare before thee.

No man in fight
His face shall turn
Against the moon's sister
Low, late-shining,
For he winneth battle
Who best beholdeth
Through the midmost sword-play,
And the sloping ranks best shapeth.

Great is the trouble
Of foot ill-tripping,
When arrayed for light thou farest,
For on both sides about
Are the Dísir[2] by thee,
Guileful, wishful of thy wounding.

Fair-combed, well washen
Let each warrior be,
Nor lack meat in the morning,
For who can rule
The eve's returning,
And base to fall before fate grovelling.

Then the storm abated, and on they fared till they came aland in the realm of Hunding's sons, and then Fjolnir vanished away.

Then they let loose fire and sword, and slew men and burnt their abodes, and did waste all before them: a great company of folk fled before the face of them to Lyngi the King, and tell him that men of war are in the land, and are faring with such rage and fury that the like has never been heard of; and that the sons of King Hunding had no great forecast in that they said they would never fear the Volsungs more, for here was come Sigurd, the son of Sigmund, as captain over this army.

So King Lyngi let send the war-message all throughout his realm, and has no will to flee, but summons to him all such as would give him aid. So he came against Sigurd with a great army, he and his brothers with him, and an exceeding fierce fight befell; many a spear and many an arrow might men see there raised aloft, axes hard driven, shields cleft and byrnies torn, helmets were shivered, skulls split atwain, and many a man felled to the cold earth.

And now when the fight has long dured in such wise, Sigurd goes forth before the banners, and has the good sword Gram in his hand, and smites down both men and horses, and goes through the thickest of the throng with both arms red with blood to the shoulder; and folk shrank aback before him wheresoever he went, nor would either helm or byrny hold before him, and no man deemed he had ever seen his like. So a long while the battle lasted, and many a man was slain, and furious was the onset; till at last it befell, even as seldom comes to hand, when a land army falls on, that, do whatso they might, naught was brought about; but so many men fell of the sons of Hunding that the tale of them may not be told, an now whenas Sigurd was among the foremost, came the sons of Hunding against him, and Sigurd smote therewith at Lyngi the king, and clave him down, both helm and head, and mail-clad body, and thereafter he smote Hjorward his brother atwain, and then slew all the other sons of Hunding who were yet alive, and the more part of their folk withal.

Now home goes Sigurd with fair victory won, and plenteous wealth and great honour, which he had gotten to him in this journey, and feasts were made for him against he came back to the realm.

But when Sigurd had been at home but a little, came Regin to talk with him, and said—

"Belike thou wilt now have good will to bow down Fafnir's crest according to thy word plighted, since thou hast thus revenged thy father and the others of thy kin."

Sigurd answered, "That will we hold to, even as we have promised, nor did it ever fall from our memory."

1: This and verses following were inserted from the Reginsmál by the translators.

2: Dísir, sing. Dís. These are the guardian beings who follow a man from his birth to his death. The word originally means sister, and is used throughout the Eddaic poems as a dignified synonym for woman, lady.

XVIII. Of the Slaying of the Worm Fafnir

Now Sigurd and Regin ride up the heath along that same way wherein Fafnir was wont to creep when he fared to the water; and folk say that thirty fathoms was the height of that cliff along which he lay when he drank of the water below. Then Sigurd spake:

"How savedst thou, Regin, that this drake[1] was no greater than other lingworms; methinks the track of him is marvellous great?"

Then said Regin, "Make thee a hole, and sit down therein, and whenas the worm comes to the water, smite him into the heart, and so do him to death, and win for thee great fame thereby."

But Sigurd said, "What will betide me if I be before the blood of the worm?"

Says Regin, "Of what avail to counsel thee if thou art still afeard of everything? Little art thou like thy kin in stoutness of heart."

Then Sigurd rides right over the heath; but Regin gets him gone, sore afeard.

But Sigurd fell to digging him a pit, and whiles he was at that work, there came to him an old man with a long beard, and asked what he wrought there, and he told him.

Then answered the old man and said, "Thou doest after sorry counsel: rather dig thee many pits, and let the blood run therein: but sit thee down in one thereof, and so thrust the worm's heart through."

And therewithal he vanished away; but Sigurd made the pits even as it was shown to him.

Now crept the worm down to his place of watering, and the earth shook all about him, and he snorted forth venom on all the way before him as he went; but Sigurd neither trembled nor was adrad at the roaring of him. So whenas the worm crept over the pits, Sigurd thrust his sword under his left shoulder, so that it sank in up to the hilts, then up leapt Sigurd from the pit and drew the sword back again unto him, and therewith was his arm all bloody, up to the very shoulder.

Now when that mighty worm was ware that he had his death-wound, then he lashed out head and tail, so that all things soever that were before him were broken to pieces.

So whenas Fafnir had his death-wound, he asked, "Who art thou? and who is thy father? and what thy kin, that thou wert so hardy as to bear weapons against me?"

Sigurd answered, "Unknown to men is my kin. I am called a noble beast:[2] neither father have I nor mother, and all alone have I fared hither."

Said Fafnir, "Whereas thou hast neither father nor mother, of what wonder wert thou born then? But now, though thou tellest me not thy name on this my death-day, yet thou knowest verily that thou liest unto me."

He answered, "Sigurd am I called, and my father was Sigmund."

Says Fafnir, "Who egged thee on to this deed, and why wouldst thou be driven to it? Hadst thou never heard how that all folk were adrad of me, and of the awe of my countenance? But an eager father thou hadst, O bright-eyed swain!"

Sigurd answered, "A hardy heart urged me on hereto; and a strong hand and this sharp sword, which well thou knowest now, stood me in stead in the doing of the deed: Seldom hath hardy eld a faint-heart youth."

Fafnir said, "Well, I wot that hadst thou waxed amid thy kin, thou mightest have good skill to slay folk in thine anger; but more of a marvel is it, that thou, a bondsman taken in war, shouldst have the heart to set on me, for few among bondsmen have heart for the fight."

Said Sigurd, "Wilt thou then cast it in my teeth that I am far away from my kin? Albeit I was a bondsman, yet was I never shackled. God wot thou hast found me free enow."

Fafnir answered, "In angry wise dost thou take my speech; but hearken, for that same gold which I have owned shall be thy bane too."

Quoth Sigurd, "Fain would we keep all our wealth till that day of days; yet shall each man die once for all."

Said Fafnir, "Few things wilt thou do after my counsel; but take heed that thou shalt be drowned if thou farest unwarily over the sea; so bide thou rather on the dry land, for the coming of the calm tide."

Then said Sigurd, "Speak, Fafnir, and say, if thou art so exceeding wise, who are the Norns who rule the lot of all mothers' sons."

Fafnir answers, "Many there be and wide apart; for some are of the kin of the Æsir, and some are of Elfin kin, and some there are who are daughters of Dvalin."

Said Sigurd, "How namest thou the holm whereon Surt,[3] and the Æsir mix and mingle the water of the sword?"

"Unshapen is that holm hight," said Fafnir.

And yet again he said, "Regin, my brother, has brought about my end, and it gladdens my heart that thine too he bringeth about; for thus will things be according to his will."

And once again he spake, "A countenance of terror I bore up before all folk, after that I brooded over the heritage of my brother, and on every side did I spout out poison, so that none durst come anigh me, and of no weapon was I adrad, nor ever had I so many men before me, as that I deemed myself not stronger than all; for all men were sore afeard of me."

Sigurd answered and said, "Few may have victory by means of that same countenance of terror, for whoso comes amongst many shall one day find that no one man is by so far the mightiest of all."

Then says Fafnir, "Such counsel I give thee, that thou take thy horse and ride away at thy speediest, for ofttimes it falls out so, that he who gets a death-wound avenges himself none the less."

Sigurd answered, "Such as thy redes are I will nowise do after them; nay, I will ride now to thy lair and take to me that great treasure of thy kin."

"Ride there then," said Fafnir, "and thou shalt find gold enow to suffice thee for all thy life-days; yet shall that gold be thy bane, and the bane of every one soever who owns it."

Then up stood Sigurd, and said, "Home would I ride and lose all that wealth, if I deemed that by the losing thereof I should never die; but every brave and true man will fain have his hand on wealth till that last day; but thou, Fafnir, wallow in the death-pain till Death and Hell have thee."

And therewithal Fafnir died.

1: Lat. draco, a dragon.

2: "Unknown to men is my kin." Sigurd refusing to tell his name is to be referred to the superstition that a dying man could throw a curse on his enemy.

3: Surt; a fire-giant, who will destroy the world at the Ragnarok, or destruction of all things. Æsir; the gods.

XIX. Of the Slaying of Regin, Son of Hreidmar

THEREAFTER came Regin to Sigurd, and said, "Hail, lord and master, a noble victory hast thou won in the slaying of Fafnir, whereas none durst heretofore abide in the path of him; and now shall this deed of fame be of renown while the world stands fast."

Then stood Regin staring on the earth a long while, and presently thereafter spake from heavy mood: "Mine own brother hast thou slain, and scarce may I be called sackless of the deed."

Then Sigurd took his sword Gram and dried it on the earth, and spake to Regin—

"Afar thou faredst when I wrought this deed and tried this sharp sword with the hand and the might of me; with all the might and main of a dragon must I strive, while thou wert laid alow in the heather-bush, wotting not if it were earth or heaven."

Said Regin, "Long might this worm have lain in his lair, if the sharp sword I forged with my hand had not been good at need to thee; had that not been, neither thou nor any man would have prevailed against him as at this time."

Sigurd answers, "Whenas men meet foes in fight, better is stout heart than sharp sword."

Then said Regin, exceeding heavily, "Thou hast slain my brother, and scarce may I be sackless of the deed."

Therewith Sigurd cut out the heart of the worm with the sword called Ridil; but Regin drank of Fafnir's blood, and spake, "Grant me a boon, and do a thing little for thee to do. Bear the heart to the fire, and roast it, and give me thereof to eat."

Then Sigurd went his ways and roasted it on a rod: and when the blood bubbled out he laid his finger thereon to essay it, if it were fully done: and then he set his finger in his mouth, and lo, when the heart-blood of the worm touched his tongue, straightway he knew the voice of all fowls, and heard withal how the wood-peckers chattered in the brake beside him—

"There sittest thou, Sigurd, roasting Fafnir's heart for another, that thou shouldest eat thine ownself, and then thou shouldest become the wisest of all men."

And another spake: "There lies Regin, minded to beguile the man who trusts in him."

But yet again said the third, "Let him smite the head from off him then, and be only lord of all that gold."

And once more the fourth spake and said, "Ah, the wiser were he if he followed after that good counsel, and rode thereafter to Fafnir's lair, and took to him that mighty treasure that lieth there, and then rode over Hindfell, whereas sleeps Brynhild; for there would he get great wisdom. Ah, wise he were, if he did after your redes, and bethought him of his own weal; for where wolf's ears are, wolf's teeth are near."

Then cried the fifth: "Yea, yea, not so wise is he as I deem him, if he spareth him, whose brother he hath slain already."

At last spake the sixth: "Handy and good rede to slay him, and be lord of the treasure!"

Then said Sigurd, "The time is unborn wherein Regin shall be my bane; nay, rather one road shall both these brothers fare."

And therewith he drew his sword Gram and struck off Regin's head.

Then heard Sigurd the wood-peckers a-singing, even as the song says.[1]

For the first sang:

Bind thou, Sigurd,
The bright red rings!
Not meet it is
Many things to fear.
A fair may know I,
Fair of all the fairest
Girt about with gold,
Good for thy getting.

And the second:

Green go the ways
Toward the hall of Giuki
That the fates show forth
To those who fare thither;
There the rich king
Reareth a daughter;
Thou shalt deal, Sigurd,
With gold for thy sweetling.

And the third:

A high hall is there
Reared upon Hindfell,
Without all around it
Sweeps the red flame aloft
Wise men wrought
That wonder of halls
With the unhidden gleam
Of the glory of gold.

Then the fourth sang:

Soft on the fell
A shield-may sleepeth
The lime-trees' red plague
Playing about her:
The sleep-thorn set Odin
Into that maiden
For her choosing in war
The one he willed not.

Go, son, behold
That may under helm
Whom from battle
Vinskornir bore,
From her may not turn
The torment of sleep.
Dear offspring of kings
In the dread Norn's despite.

Then Sigurd ate some deal of Fafnir's heart, and the remnant he kept. Then he leapt on his horse and rode along the trail of the worm Fafnir, and so right unto his abiding-place; and he found it open, and beheld all the doors and the gear of them that they were wrought of iron: yea, and all the beams of the house; and it was dug down deep into the earth: there found Sigurd gold exceeding plenteous, and the sword Rotti; and thence he took the Helm of Awe, and the Gold Byrny, and many things fair and good. So much gold he found there, that he thought verily that scarce might two horses, or three belike, bear it thence. So he took all the gold and laid it in two great chests, and set them on the horse Grani, and took the reins of him, but nowise will he stir, neither will he abide smiting. Then Sigurd knows the mind of the horse, and leaps on the back of him, and smites and spurs into him, and off the horse goes even as if he were unladen.

1: The Songs of the Birds were inserted from Reginsmál by the translators.

XX. Of Sigurd's Meeting with Brynhild on the Mountain

BY long roads rides Sigurd, till he comes at the last up on to Hindfell, and wends his way south to the land of the Franks; and he sees before him on the fell a great light, as of fire burning, and flaming up even unto the heavens; and when he came thereto, lo a shieldhung castle before him, and a banner on the topmost thereof: into the castle went Sigurd, and saw one lying there asleep, and all-armed. Therewith he takes the helm from off the head of him, and sees that it no man, but a woman; and she was clad in a byrny as closely set on her as though it had grown to her flesh; so he rent it from the collar downwards; and then the sleeves thereof, and ever the sword bit on it as if it were cloth. Then said Sigurd that overlong had she lain asleep; but she asked—

"What thing of great might is it that has prevailed to rend my byrny, and draw me from my sleep?"

Even as sings the song[1]—

What bit on the byrny,
Why breaks my sleep away,
Who has turned from me
My wan tormenting?

"Ah, is it so, that here is come Sigurd Sigmundson, bearing Fafnir's helm on his head and Fafnir's bane in his hand?"

Then answered Sigurd—

Sigmund's son
With Sigurd's sword
E'en now rent down
The raven's wall.

"Of the Volsung's kin is he who has done the deed; but now I have heard that thou art daughter of a mighty king, and folk have told us that thou wert lovely and full of lore, and now I will try the same."

Then Brynhild sang—

Long have I slept
And slumbered long,
Many and long are the woes of mankind,
By the might of Odin
Must I bide helpless
To shake from off me the spells of slumber.

Hail to the day come back!
Hail, sons of the daylight!
Hail to thee, dark night, and thy daughter!
Look with kind eyes a-down,
On us sitting here lonely,
And give unto us the gain that we long for.

Hail to the Æsir,
And the sweet Asyniur![2]
Hail to the fair earth fulfilled of plenty!
Fair words, wise hearts,
Would we win from you,
And healing hands while life we hold."

Then Brynhild speaks again and says, "Two kings fought, one hight Helm Gunnar, an old man, and the greatest of warriors, and Odin had promised the victory unto him; but his foe was Agnar, or Audi's brother: and so I smote down Helm Gunnar in the fight; and Odin, in vengeance for that deed, struck the sleep-thorn into me, and said that I should never again have the victory, but should be given away in marriage; but there-against I vowed a vow, that never would I wed one who knew the name of fear."

Then said Sigurd, "Teach us the lore of mighty matters!"

She said, "Belike thou cannest more skill in all than I; yet will I teach thee; yea, and with thanks, if there be aught of my cunning that will in anywise pleasure thee, either of runes or of other matters that are the root of things; but now let us drink together, and may the Gods give to us twain a good day, that thou mayst win good help and fame from my wisdom, and that thou mayst hereafter mind thee of that which we twain speak together."

Then Brynhild filled a beaker and bore it to Sigurd, and gave him the drink of love, and spake—

"Beer bring I to thee,
Fair fruit of the byrnies' clash,
Mixed is it mightily,
Mingled with fame,
Brimming with bright lays
And pitiful runes,
Wise words, sweet words,
Speech of great game.
Runes of war know thou,
If great thou wilt be!
Cut them on hilt of hardened sword,
Some on the brand's back,
Some on its shining side,
Twice name Tyr therein.

Sea-runes good at need,
Learnt for ship's saving,
For the good health of the swimming horse;
On the stern cut them,
Cut them on the rudder-blade
And set flame to shaven oar:
Howso big be the sea-hills,
How so blue beneath,
Hail from the main then comest thou home.

Word-runes learn well
If thou wilt that no man
Pay back grief for the grief thou gavest;
Wind thou these,
Weave thou these,
Cast thou these all about thee,
At the Thing,

  Where folk throng,
Unto the full doom faring.

  Of ale-runes know the wisdom
  If thou wilt that another's wife
  Should not bewray thine heart that trusteth:
  Cut them on the mead-horn,
  On the back of each hand,
And nick an N upon thy nail.

  Ale have thou heed
  To sign from all harm
Leek lay thou in the liquor,
  Then I know for sure
  Never cometh to thee,
Mead with hurtful matters mingled.

  Help-runes shalt thou gather
  If skill thou wouldst gain
To loosen child from low-laid mother;
  Cut be they in hands hollow,
  Wrapped the joints round about;
Call for the Good-folks' gainsome helping.

  Learn the bough-runes wisdom
  If leech-lore thou lovest;
And wilt wot about wounds' searching
  On the bark be they scored;
  On the buds of trees
Whose boughs look eastward ever.

  Thought-runes shalt thou deal with
  If thou wilt be of all men
Fairest-souled wight, and wisest,
  These areded
  These first cut
These first took to heart high Hropt.

  On the shield were they scored
  That stands before the shining God,
  On Early-waking's ear,
  On All-knowing's hoof,
  On the wheel which runneth
  Under Rognir's chariot;

On Sleipnir's jaw-teeth,
On the sleigh's traces.

On the rough bear's paws,
And on Bragi's tongue,
On the wolf's claws,
And on eagle's bill,
On bloody wings,
And bridge's end;
On loosing palms,
And pity's path:
On glass, and on gold,
And on goodly silver,
In wine and in wort,
And the seat of the witch-wife;
On Gungnir's point,
And Grani's bosom;
On the Norn's nail,
And the neb of the night-owl.

All these so cut,
Were shaven and sheared,
And mingled in with holy mead,
And sent upon wide ways enow;
Some abide with the Elves,
Some abide with the Æsir,
Or with the wise Vanir,
Some still hold the sons of mankind.

These be the book-runes,
And the runes of good help,
And all the ale-runes,
And the runes of much might;
To whomso they may avail,
Unbewildered unspoilt;
They are wholesome to have:
Thrive thou with these then.
When thou hast learnt their lore,
Till the Gods end thy life-days.

Now shalt thou choose thee
E'en as choice is bidden,
Sharp steel's root and stem,
Choose song or silence;

  See to each in thy heart,
All hurt has been heeded."

Then answered Sigurd—

"Ne'er shall I flee,
Though thou wottest me fey;
Never was I born for blenching,
Thy loved rede will I
  Hold aright in my heart
Even as long as I may live."

1: The stanzas on the two following pages were inserted here from Sigdrifasmál by the translators.

2: Goddesses.

XXI. More Wise Words of Brynhild

SIGURD spake now, "Sure no wiser woman than thou art one may be found in the wide world; yea, yea, teach me more yet of thy wisdom!"

She answers, "Seemly is it that I do according to thy will, and show thee forth more redes of great avail, for thy prayer's sake and thy wisdom;" and she spake withal—

"Be kindly to friend and kin, and reward not their trespasses against thee; bear and forbear, and win for thee thereby long enduring praise of men.

"Take good heed of evil things: a may's love, and a man's wife; full oft thereof doth ill befall!

"Let not thy mind be overmuch crossed by unwise men at thronged meetings of folk; for oft these speak worse than they wot of; lest thou be called a dastard, and art minded to think that thou art even as is said; slay such an one on another day, and so reward his ugly talk.

"If thou farest by the way whereas bide evil things, be well ware of thyself; take not harbour near the highway, though thou be benighted, for oft abide there ill wights for men's bewilderment.

"Let not fair women beguile thee, such as thou mayst meet at the feast, so that the thought thereof stand thee in stead of sleep, and a quite mind; yea, draw them not to thee with kisses or other sweet things of love.

"If thou hearest the fool's word of a drunken man, strive not with him being drunk with drink and witless; many a grief, yea, and the very death, groweth from out such things.

"Fight thy foes in the field, nor be burnt in thine house.

"Never swear thou wrongsome oath; great and grim is the reward for the breaking of plighted troth.

"Give kind heed to dead men,—sick-dead, sea-dead, or sword-dead; deal heedfully with their dead corpses.

"Trow never in him for whom thou hast slain father, brother, or whatso near kin, yea, though young he be; for oft waxes wolf in youngling.

"Look thou with good heed to the wiles of thy friends; but little skill is given to me, that I should foresee the ways of thy life; yet good it were that hate fell not on thee from those of thy wife's house."

Sigurd spake, "None among the sons of men can be found wiser than thou; and thereby swear I, that thee will I have as my own, for near to my heart thou liest."

She answers, "Thee would I fainest choose, though I had all men's sons to choose from."

And thereto they plighted troth both of them.

XXII. Of the Semblance and Array of Sigurd Fafnir's-Bane

NOW[1] Sigurd rides away; many-folded is his shield, and blazing with red gold, and the image of a dragon is drawn thereon; and this same was dark brown above, and bright red below; and with even such-like image was adorned helm, and saddle, and coat-armour; and he was clad in the golden byrny, and all his weapons were gold-wrought.

Now for this cause was the drake drawn on all his weapons, that when he was seen of men, all folk might know who went there; yea, all those who had heard of his slaying of that great dragon, that the Vœrings call Fafnir; and for that cause are his weapons gold-wrought, and brown of hue, and that he was by far above other men in courtesy and goodly manners, and well-nigh in all things else; and whenas folk tell of all the mightiest champions, and the noblest chiefs, then ever is he named the foremost, and his name goes wide about on all tongues north of the sea of the Greek-lands, and even so shall it be while the world endures.

Now the hair of this Sigurd was golden-red of hue, fair of fashion, and falling down in great locks; thick and short was his beard, and of no other colour; high-nosed he was, broad and high-boned of face; so keen were his eyes, that few durst gaze up under the brows of him; his shoulders were as broad to look on as the shoulders of two; most duly was his body fashioned betwixt height and breadth, and in such wise as was seemliest; and this is the sign told of his height, that when he was girt with his sword Gram, which same was seven spans long, as he went through the full-grown rye-fields, the dew-shoe of the said sword smote the ears of the standing corn; and, for all that, greater was his strength than his growth: well could he wield sword, and cast forth spear, shoot shaft, and hold shield, bend bow, back horse, and do all the goodly deeds that he learned in his youth's days.

Wise he was to know things yet undone; and the voice of all fowls he knew, wherefore few things fell on him unawares.

Of many words he was, and so fair of speech withal, that whensoever he made it his business to speak, he never left speaking before that to all men it seemed full sure, that no otherwise must the matter be than as he said.

His sport and pleasure it was to give aid to his own folk, and to prove himself in mighty matters, to take wealth from his unfriends, and give the same to his friends.

Never did he lose heart, and of naught was he adrad.

1: This chapter is nearly literally the same as chapter 166 of the Wilkinasaga; Ed.: Perinskiold, Stockholm, 1715.

XXIII. Sigurd comes to Hlymdale

FORTH Sigurd rides till he comes to a great and goodly dwelling, the lord whereof was a mighty chief called Heimir; he had to wife a sister of Brynhild, who was hight Bekkhild, because she had bidden at home, and learned handicraft, whereas Brynhild fared with helm and byrny unto the wars, wherefore was she called Brynhild.

Heimir and Bekkhild had a son called Alswid, the most courteous of men.

Now at this stead were men disporting them abroad, but when they see the man riding thereto, they leave their play to wonder at him, for none such had they ever seen erst; so they went to meet him, and gave him good welcome; Alswid bade him abide and have such things at his hands as he would; and he takes his bidding blithesomely; due service withal was established for him; four men bore the treasure of gold from off the horse, and the fifth took it to him to guard the same; therein were many things to behold, things of great price, and seldom seen; and great game and joy men had to look on byrnies and helms, and mighty rings, and wondrous great golden stoups, and all kinds of war weapons.

So there dwelt Sigurd long in great honour holden; and tidings of that deed of fame spread wide through all lands, of how he had slain that hideous and fearful dragon. So good joyance had they there together, and each was leal to other; and their sport was in the arraying of their weapons, and the shafting of their arrows, and the flying of their falcons.

XXIV. Sigurd sees Brynhild at Hlymdale

IN those days came home to Heimir, Brynhild, his foster-daughter, and she sat in her bower with her maidens, and could more skill in handicraft than other women; she sat, overlaying cloth with gold, and sewing therein the great deeds which Sigurd had wrought, the slaying of the Worm, and the taking of the wealth of him, and the death of Regin withal.

Now tells the tale, that on a day Sigurd rode into the wood with hawk, and hound, and men thronging; and whenas he came home his hawk flew up to a high tower, and sat him down on a certain window. Then fared Sigurd after his hawk, and he saw where sat a fair woman, and knew that it was Brynhild, and he deems all things he sees there to be worthy together, both her fairness, and the fair things she wrought: and therewith he goes into the hall, but has no more joyance in the games of the men folk.

Then spake Alswid, "Why art thou so bare of bliss? this manner of thine grieveth us thy friends; why then wilt thou not hold to thy gleesome ways? Lo, thy hawks pine now, and thy horse Grani droops; and long will it be ere we are booted thereof?"

Sigurd answered, "Good friend, hearken to what lies on my mind; for my hawk flew up into a certain tower; and when I came thereto and took him, lo there I saw a fair woman, and she sat by a needlework of gold, and did thereon my deeds that are passed, and my deeds that are to come."

Then said Alswid, "Thou hast seen Brynhild, Budli's daughter, the greatest of great women."

"Yea, verily," said Sigurd; "but how came she hither?"

Alswid answered, "Short space there was betwixt the coming hither of the twain of you."

Says Sigurd, "Yea, but a few days agone I knew her for the best of the world's women."

Alswid said, "Give not all thine heed to one woman, being such a man as thou art; ill life to sit lamenting for what we may not have."

"I shall go meet her," says Sigurd, "and get from her love like my love, and give her a gold ring in token thereof."

Alswid answered, "None has ever yet been known whom she would let sit beside her, or to whom she would give drink; for ever will she hold to warfare and to the winning of all kinds of fame."

Sigurd said, "We know not for sure whether she will give us answer or not, or grant us a seat beside her."

So the next day after, Sigurd went to the bower, but Alswid stood outside the bower door, fitting shafts to his arrows.

Now Sigurd spake, "Abide, fair and hale lady,—how farest thou?"

She answered, "Well it fares; my kin and my friends live yet: but who shall say what goodhap folk may bear to their life's end?"

He sat him down by her, and there came in four damsels with great golden beakers, and the best of wine therein; and these stood before the twain.

Then said Brynhild, "This seat is for few, but and if my father come."

He answered, "Yet is it granted to one that likes me well."

Now that chamber was hung with the best and fairest of hangings, and the floor thereof was all covered with cloth.

Sigurd spake, "Now has it come to pass even as thou didst promise."

"O be thou welcome here!" said she, and arose therewith, and the four damsels with her, and bore the golden beaker to him, and bade him drink; he stretched out his hand to the beaker, and took it, and her hand withal, and drew her down beside him; and cast his arms round about her neck and kissed her, and said—

"Thou art the fairest that was ever born!"

But Brynhild said, "Ah, wiser is it not to cast faith and troth into a woman's power, for ever shall they break that they have promised."

He said, "That day would dawn the best of days over our heads whereon each of each should be made happy."

Brynhild answered, "It is not fated that we should abide together; I am a shield-may, and wear helm on head even as the kings of war, and them full oft I help, neither is the battle become loathsome to me."

Sigurd answered, "What fruit shall be of our life, if we live not together: harder to bear this pain that lies hereunder, than the stroke of sharp sword."

Brynhild answers, "I shall gaze on the hosts of the war-kings, but thou shalt wed Gudrun, the daughter of Giuki."

Sigurd answered, "What king's daughter lives to beguile me? neither am I double-hearted herein; and now I swear by the Gods that thee shall I have for mine own, or no woman else."

And even suchlike wise spake she.

Sigurd thanked her for her speech, and gave her a gold ring, and now they swore oath anew, and so he went his ways to his men, and is with them awhile in great bliss.

XXV. Of the Dream of Gudrun, Giuki's Daughter

THERE was a king hight Giuki, who ruled a realm south of the Rhine; three sons he had, thus named: Gunnar, Hogni, and Guttorm, and Gudrun was the name of his daughter, the fairest of maidens; and all these children were far before all other king's children in all prowess, and in goodliness and growth withal; ever were his sons at the wars and wrought many a deed of fame. But Giuki had wedded Grimhild, the Wise-wife.

Now Budli was the name of a king mightier than Giuki, mighty though they both were: and Atli was the brother of Brynhild: Atli was a fierce man and a grim, great and black to look on, yet noble of mien withal, and the greatest of warriors. Grimhild was a fiercehearted woman.

Now the days of the Giukings bloomed fair, and chiefly because of those children, so far before the sons of men.

On a day Gudrun says to her mays that she may have no joy of heart; then a certain woman asked her wherefore her joy was departed.

She answered, "Grief came to me in my dreams, therefore is there sorrow in my heart, since thou must needs ask thereof."

"Tell it me, then, thy dream," said the woman, "for dreams oft forecast but the weather."

Gudrun answers, "Nay, nay, no weather, is this; I dreamed that I had a fair hawk on my wrist, feathered with feathers of gold."

Says the woman, "Many have heard tell of thy beauty, thy wisdom, and thy courtesy; some king's son abides thee, then."

Gudrun answers, "I dreamed that naught was so dear to me as this hawk, and all my wealth had I cast aside rather than him."

The woman said, "Well, then, the man thou shalt have will be of the goodliest, and well shalt thou love him."

Gudrun answered, "It grieves me that I know not who he shall be; let us go seek Brynhild, for she belike will wot thereof."

So they arrayed them in gold and many a fair thing, and she went with her damsels till they came to the hall of Brynhild, and that hall was dight with gold, and stood on a high hill; and whenas their goings were seen, it was told Brynhild, that a company of women drove toward the burg in gilded waggons.

"That shall be Gudrun, Giuki's daughter," says she: "I dreamed of her last night; let us go meet her! no fairer woman may come to our house."

So they went abroad to meet them, and gave them good greeting, and they went into the goodly hall together; fairly painted it was within, and well adorned with silver vessel; cloths were spread under the feet of them, and all folk served them, and in many wise they sported.

But Gudrun was somewhat silent.

Then said Brynhild, "Ill to abash folk of their mirth; prithee do not so; let us talk together for our disport of mighty kings and their great deeds."

"Good talk," says Gudrun, "let us do even so; what kings deemest thou to have been the first of all men?"

Brynhild says, "The sons of Haki, and Hagbard withal; they brought to pass many a deed of fame in their warfare."

Gudrun answers, "Great men certes, and of noble fame! Yet Sigar took their one sister, and burned the other, house and all; and they may be called slow to revenge the deed; why didst thou not name my brethren, who are held to be the first of men as at this time?"

Brynhild says, "Men of good hope are they surely, though but little proven hitherto; but one I know far before them, Sigurd, the son of Sigmund the king; a youngling was he in the days when he slew the sons of Hunding, and revenged his father, and Eylimi, his mother's father."

Said Gudrun, "By what token tellest thou that?"

Brynhild answered, "His mother went amid the dead, and found Sigmund the king sore wounded, and would bind up his hurts; but he said he grew over old for war, and bade her lay this comfort to her heart, that she should bear the most famed of sons; and wise was the wise man's word therein: for after the death of King Sigmund, she went to King Alf, and there was Sigurd nourished in great honour, and day by day he wrought some deed of fame, and is the man most renowned of all the wide world."

Gudrun says, "From love hast thou gained these tidings of him; but for this cause came I here, to tell thee dreams of mine which have brought me great grief."

Says Brynhild, "Let not such matters sadden thee; abide with thy friends who wish thee blithsome, all of them!"

"This I dreamed," said Gudrun, "that we went, a many of us in company, from the bower, and we saw an exceeding great hart, that far excelled all other deer ever seen, and the hair of him was golden; and this deer we were all fain to take, but I alone got him; and he seemed to me better than all things else; but sithence thou, Brynhild, didst shoot and slay my deer even at my very knees, and such grief was that to me that scarce might I bear it; and then afterwards thou gavest me a wolf-cub, which besprinkled me with the blood of my brethren."

Brynhild answers, "I will arede thy dream, even as things shall come to pass hereafter; for Sigurd shall come to thee, even he whom I have chosen for my well-beloved; and Grimhild shall give him mead mingled with hurtful things, which shall cast us all into mighty strife. Him shalt thou have, and him shalt thou quickly miss; and Atli the king shalt thou wed; and thy brethren shalt thou lose, and slay Atli withal in the end."

Gudrun answers, "Grief and woe to know that such things shall be!"

And therewith she and hers get them gone home to King Giuki.

XXVI. Sigurd comes to the Giukings and is Wedded to Gudrun

NOW Sigurd goes his ways with all that great treasure, and in friendly wise he departs from them; and on Grani he rides with all his war-gear and the burden withal; and thus he rides until he comes to the hall of King Giuki; there he rides into the burg, and that sees one of the king's men, and he spake withal—

"Sure it may be deemed that here is come one of the Gods, for his array is all done with gold, and his horse is far mightier than other horses, and the manner of his weapons is most exceeding goodly, and most of all the man himself far excels all other men ever seen."

So the king goes out with his court and greets the man, and asks—

"Who art thou who thus ridest into my burg, as none has durst hitherto without the leave of my sons?"

He answered, "I am called Sigurd, son of King Sigmund."

Then said King Giuki, "Be thou welcome here then, and take at our hands whatso thou willest."

So he went into the king's hall, and all men seemed little beside him, and all men served him, and there he abode in great joyance.

Now oft they all ride abroad together, Sigurd and Gunnar and Hogni, and ever is Sigurd far the foremost of them, mighty men of their hands though they were.

But Grimhild finds how heartily Sigurd loved Brynhild, and how oft he talks of her; and she falls to thinking how well it were, if he might abide there and wed the daughter of King Giuki, for she saw that none might come anigh to his goodliness, and what faith and goodhelp there was in him, and how that he had more wealth withal than folk might tell of any man; and the king did to him even as unto his own sons, and they for their parts held him of more worth than themselves.

So on a night as they sat at the drink, the queen arose, and went before Sigurd, and said—

"Great joy we have in thine abiding here, and all good things will we put before thee to take of us; lo now, take this horn and drink thereof."

So he took it and drank, and therewithal she said, "Thy father shall be Giuki the king, and I shall be thy mother, and Gunnar and Hogni shall be thy brethren, and all this shall be sworn with oaths each to each; and then surely shall the like of you never be found on earth."

Sigurd took her speech well, for with the drinking of that drink all memory of Brynhild departed from him. So there he abode awhile.

And on a day went Grimhild to Giuki the king, and cast her arms about his neck, and spake—

"Behold, there has now come to us the greatest of great hearts that the world holds; and needs must he be trusty and of great avail; give him thy daughter then, with plenteous wealth, and as much of rule as he will; perchance thereby he will be well content to abide here ever."

The king answered, "Seldom does it befall that kings offer their daughters to any; yet in higher wise will it be done to offer her to this man, than to take lowly prayers for her from others."

On a night Gudrun pours out the drink, and Sigurd beholds her how fair she is and how full of all courtesy.

Five seasons Sigurd abode there, and ever they passed their days together in good honour and friendship.

And so it befell that the kings held talk together, and Giuki said—

"Great good thou givest us, Sigurd, and with exceeding strength thou strengthenest our realm."

Then Gunnar said, "All things that may be will we do for thee, so thou abidest here long; both dominion shalt thou have, and our sister freely and unprayed for, whom another man would not get for all his prayers."

Sigurd says, "Thanks have ye for this wherewith ye honour me, and gladly will I take the same."

Therewith they swore brotherhood together, and to be even as if they were children of one father and one mother; and a noble feast was holden, and endured many days, and Sigurd drank at the wedding of him and Gudrun; and there might men behold all manner of game and glee, and each day the feast better and better.

Now fare these folk wide over the world, and do many great deeds, and slay many kings' sons, and no man has ever done such works of prowess as did they; then home they come again with much wealth won in war.

Sigurd gave of the serpent's heart to Gudrun, and she ate thereof, and became greater-hearted, and wiser than ere before: and the son of these twain was called Sigmund.

Now on a time went Grimhild to Gunnar her son, and spake—

"Fair blooms the life and fortune of thee, but for one thing only, and namely whereas thou art unwedded; go woo Brynhild; good rede is this, and Sigurd will ride with thee."

Gunnar answered, "Fair is she certes, and I am fain enow to win her;" and therewith he tells his father, and his brethren, and Sigurd, and they all prick him on to that wooing.

XXVII. The Wooing of Brynhild

Now they array them joyously for their journey, and ride over hill and dale to the house of King Budli, and woo his daughter of him; in a good wise he took their speech, if so be that she herself would not deny them; but he said withal that so high-minded was she, that that man only might wed her whom she would.

Then they ride to Hlymdale, and there Heimir gave them good welcome; so Gunnar tells his errand; Heimir says, that she must needs wed but him whom she herself chose freely; and tells them how her abode was but a little way thence, and that he deemed that him only would she have who should ride through the flaming fire that was drawn around about her hall; so they depart and come to the hall and the fire, and see there a castle with a golden roof-ridge, and all round about a fire roaring up.

Now Gunnar rode on Goti, but Hogni on Holkvi, and Gunnar smote his horse to face the fire, but he shrank aback.

Then said Sigurd, "Why givest thou back, Gunnar?"

He answered, "The horse will not tread this fire; but lend me thy horse Grani."

"Yea, with all my good will," says Sigurd.

Then Gunnar rides him at the fire, and yet nowise will Grani stir, nor may Gunnar any the more ride through that fire. So now they change semblance, Gunnar and Sigurd, even as Grimhild had taught them; then Sigurd in the likeness of Gunnar mounts and rides, Gram in his hand, and golden spurs on his heels; then leapt Grani into the fire when he felt the spurs; and the mighty roar arose as the fire burned ever madder, and the earth trembled, and the flames went up even unto the heavens, nor had any dared to ride as he rode, even as it were through the deep mirk.

But now the fire sank withal, and he leapt from his horse and went into the hall, even as the song says—

The flame flared at its maddest,
Earth's fields fell a-quaking
As the red flame aloft
Licked the lowest of heaven.
Few had been fain,
Of the rulers of folk,
To ride through that flame,
Or athwart it to tread.

Then Sigurd smote
Grani with sword,
And the flame was slaked
Before the king;
Low lay the flames
Before the fain of fame;
Bright gleamed the array
That Regin erst owned.

Now when Sigurd had passed through the fire, he came into a certain fair dwelling, and therein sat Brynhild.

She asked, "What man is it?"

Then he named himself Gunnar, son of Giuki, and said—"Thou art awarded to me as my wife, by the good-will and word of thy father and thy foster-father, and I have ridden through the flames of thy fire, according to thy word that thou hast set forth."

"I wot not clearly," said she, "how I shall answer thee."

Now Sigurd stood upright on the hall floor, and leaned on the hilt of his sword, and he spake to Brynhild—

"In reward thereof, shall I pay thee a great dower in gold and goodly things?"

She answered in heavy mood from her seat, whereas she sat like unto swan on billow, having a sword in her hand, and a helm on her head, and being clad in a byrny, "O Gunnar," she says, "speak not to me of such things; unless thou be the first and best of all men; for then shalt thou slay those my wooers, if thou hast heart thereto; I have been in battles with the king of the Greeks, and our weapons were stained with red blood, and for such things still I yearn."

He answered, "Yea, certes many great deeds hast thou done; but yet call thou to mind thine oath, concerning the riding through of this fire, wherein thou didst swear that thou wouldst go with the man who should do this deed."

So she found that he spake but the sooth, and she paid heed to his words, and arose, and greeted him meetly, and he abode there three nights, and they lay in one bed together; but he took the sword Gram and laid it betwixt them: then she asked him why he laid it there; and he answered, that in that wise must he needs wed his wife or else get his bane.

Then she took from off her the ring Andvari's-loom, which he had given her aforetime, and gave it to him, but he gave her another ring out of Fafnir's hoard.

Thereafter he rode away through the same fire unto his fellows, and he and Gunnar changed semblances again, and rode unto Hlymdale, and told how it had gone with them.

That same day went Brynhild home to her foster-father, and tells him as one whom she trusted, how that there had come a king to her; "And he rode through my flaming fire, and said he was come to woo me, and named himself Gunnar; but I said that such a deed might Sigurd alone have done, with whom I plighted troth on the mountain; and he is my first troth-plight, and my well-beloved."

Heimir said that things must needs abide even as now they had now come to pass.

Brynhild said, "Aslaug, the daughter of me and Sigurd shall be nourished here with thee."

Now the kings fare home, but Brynhild goes to her father; Grimhild welcomes the kings meetly, and thanks Sigurd for his fellowship; and withal is a great feast made, and many were the guests thereat; and thither came Budli the King with his daughter Brynhild, and his son Atli, and for many days did the feast endure: and at that feast was Gunnar wedded to Brynhild: but when it was brought to an end, once more has Sigurd memory of all the oaths that he sware unto Brynhild, yet withal he let all things abide in rest and peace.

Brynhild and Gunnar sat together in great game and glee, and drank goodly wine.

XXVIII. How the Queens Held Angry Converse Together at the Bathing

ON a day as the Queens went to the river to bathe them, Brynhild waded the farthest out into the river; then asked Gudrun what that deed might signify.

Brynhild said, "Yea, and why then should I be equal to thee in this matter more than in others? I am minded to think that my father is mightier than thine, and my true-love has wrought many wondrous works of fame, and hath ridden the flaming fire withal, while thy husband was but the thrall of King Hjalprek."

Gudrun answered full of wrath, "Thou wouldst be wise if thou shouldst hold thy peace rather than revile my husband: lo now, the talk of all men it is, that none has ever abode in this world like unto him in all matters soever; and little it beseems thee of all folk to mock him who was thy first beloved: and Fafnir he slew, yea, and he rode thy flaming fire, whereas thou didst deem that he was Gunnar the King, and by thy side he lay, and took from thine hand the ring Andvari's-loom;—here mayst thou well behold it!"

Then Brynhild saw the ring and knew it, and waxed as wan as a dead woman, and she went home and spake no word the evening long.

So when Sigurd came to bed to Gudrun she asked him why Brynhild's joy was so departed.

He answered, "I know not, but sore I misdoubt me that soon we shall know thereof overwell."

Gudrun said, "Why may she not love her life, having wealth and bliss, and the praise of all men, and the man withal that she would have?"

"Ah, yea!" said Sigurd, "and where in all the world was she then, when she said that she deemed she had the noblest of all men, and the dearest to her heart of all?"

Gudrun answers, "Tomorn will I ask her concerning this, who is the liefest to her of all men for a husband."

Sigurd said, "Needs must I forbid thee this, and full surely wilt thou rue the deed if thou doest it."

Now the next morning they sat in the bower, and Brynhild was silent; then spake Gudrun—

"Be merry, Brynhild! Grievest thou because of that speech of ours together, or what other thing slayeth thy bliss?"

Brynhild answers, "With naught but evil intent thou sayest this, for a cruel heart thou hast."

"Say not so," said Gudrun; "but rather tell me all the tale."

Brynhild answers, "Ask such things only as are good for thee to know —matters meet for mighty dames. Good to love good things when all goes according to thy heart's desire!"

Gudrun says, "Early days for me to glory in that; but this word of thine looketh toward some foreseeing. What ill dost thou thrust at us? I did naught to grieve thee."

Brynhild answers, "For this shalt thou pay, in that thou hast got Sigurd to thee,—nowise can I see thee living in the bliss thereof, whereas thou hast him, and the wealth and the might of him."

But Gudrun answered, "Naught knew I of your words and vows together; and well might my father look to the mating of me without dealing with thee first."

"No secret speech had we," quoth Brynhild, "though we swore oath together; and full well didst thou know that thou wentest about to beguile me; verily thou shalt have thy reward!"

Says Gudrun, "Thou art mated better than thou art worthy of; but thy pride and rage shall be hard to slake belike, and therefor shall many a man pay."

"Ah, I should be well content," said Brynhild, "if thou hadst not the nobler man!"

Gudrun answers, "So noble a husband hast thou, that who knows of a greater king or a lord of more wealth and might?"

Says Brynhild, "Sigurd slew Fafnir, and that only deed is of more worth than all the might of King Gunnar."

(Even as the song says):

The worm Sigurd slew,
Nor ere shall that deed
Be worsened by age
While the world is alive:
But thy brother the King
Never durst, never bore
The flame to ride down
Through the fire to fare.

Gudrun answers, "Grani would not abide the fire under Gunnar the King, but Sigurd durst the deed, and thy heart may well abide without mocking him."

Brynhild answers, "Nowise will I hide from thee that I deem no good of Grimhild."

Says Gudrun, "Nay, lay no ill words on her, for in all things she is to thee as to her own daughter."

"Ah," says Brynhild, "she is the beginning of all this bale that biteth so; an evil drink she bare to Sigurd, so that he had no more memory of my very name."

"All wrong thou talkest; a lie without measure is this," quoth Gudrun.

Brynhild answered, "Have thou joy of Sigurd according to the measure of the wiles wherewith ye have beguiled me! unworthily have ye conspired against me; may all things go with you as my heart hopes!"

Gudrun says, "More joy shall I have of him than thy wish would give unto me: but to no man's mind it came, that he had aforetime his pleasure of me; nay not once."

"Evil speech thou speakest," says Brynhild; "when thy wrath runs off thou wilt rue it; but come now, let us no more cast angry words one at the other!"

Says Gudrun, "Thou wert the first to cast such words at me, and now thou makest as if thou wouldst amend it, but a cruel and hard heart abides behind."

"Let us lay aside vain babble," says Brynhild. "Long did I hold my peace concerning my sorrow of heart, and, lo now, thy brother alone do I love; let us fall to other talk." Gudrun said, "Far beyond all this doth thine heart look."

And so ugly ill befell from that going to the river, and that knowing of the ring, wherefrom did all their talk arise.

XXIX. Of Brynhild's Great Grief and Mourning

AFTER this talk Brynhild lay a-bed, and tidings were brought to King Gunnar that Brynhild was sick; he goes to see her thereon, and asks what ails her; but she answered him naught, but lay there as one dead: and when he was hard on her for an answer, she said—

"What didst thou with that ring that I gave thee, even the one which King Budli gave me at our last parting, when thou and King Giuki came to him and threatened fire and the sword, unless ye had me to wife? Yea, at that time he led me apart, and asked me which I had chosen of those who were come; but I prayed him that I might abide to ward the land and be chief over the third part of his men; then were there two choices for me to deal betwixt, either that I should be wedded to him whom he would, or lose all my weal and friendship at his hands; and he said withal that his friendship would be better to me than his wrath: then I bethought me whether I should yield to his will, or slay many a man; and therewithal I deemed that it would avail little to strive with him, and so it fell out, that I promised to wed whomsoever should ride the horse Grani with Fafnir's Hoard, and ride through my flaming fire, and slay those men whom I called on him to slay, and now so it was, that none durst ride, save Sigurd only, because he lacked no heart thereto; yea, and the Worm he slew, and Regin, and five kings beside; but thou, Gunnar, durst do naught; as pale as a dead man didst thou wax, and no king thou art, and no champion; so whereas I made a vow unto my father, that him alone would I love who was the noblest man alive, and that this is none save Sigurd, lo, now have I broken my oath and brought it to naught, since he is none of mine, and for this cause shall I compass thy death; and a great reward of evil things have I wherewith to reward Grimhild;—never, I wot, has woman lived eviler or of lesser heart than she."

Gunnar answered in such wise that few might hear him, "Many a vile word hast thou spoken, and an evilhearted woman art thou, whereas thou revilest a woman far better than thou; never would she curse her life as thou dost; nay, nor has she tormented dead folk, or murdered any; but lives her life well praised of all."

Brynhild answered, "Never have I dwelt with evil things privily, or done loathsome deeds;—yet most fain I am to slay thee."

And therewith would she slay King Gunnar, but Hogni laid her in fetters; but then Gunnar spake withal—

"Nay, I will not that she abide in fetters."

Then said she, "Head it not! for never again seest thou me glad in thine hall, never drinking, never at the chess-play, never speaking the words of kindness, never overlaying the fair cloths with gold, never giving thee good counsel;—ah, my sorrow of heart that I might not get Sigurd to me!"

Then she sat up and smote her needlework, and rent it asunder, and bade set open her bower doors, that far away might the wailings of her sorrow be heard; then great mourning and lamentation there was, so that folk heard it far and wide through that abode.

Now Gudrun asked her bowermaidens why they sat so joyless and downcast. "What has come to you, that ye fare ye as witless women, or what unheard-of wonders have befallen you?"

Then answered a waiting lady, hight Swaflod, "An untimely, an evil day it is, and our hall is fulfilled of lamentation."

Then spake Gudrun to one of her handmaids, "Arise, for we have slept long; go, wake Brynhild, and let us fall to our needlework and be merry."

"Nay, nay," she says, "nowise may I wake her, or talk with her; for many days has she drunk neither mead nor wine; surely the wrath of the Gods has fallen upon her."

Then spake Gudrun to Gunnar, "Go and see her," she says, "and bid her know that I am grieved with her grief."

"Nay," says Gunnar, "I am forbid to go see her or to share her weal."

Nevertheless he went unto her, and strives in many wise to have speech of her, but gets no answer whatsoever: therefore he gets him gone and finds Hogni, and bids him go see her: he said he was loth thereto, but went, and gat no more of her.

Then they go and find Sigurd, and pray him to visit her; he answered naught thereto, and so matters abode for that night.

But the next day, when he came home from hunting, Sigurd went to Gudrun and spake—

"In such wise do matters show to me, as though great and evil things will betide from this trouble and upheaving, and that Brynhild will surely die."

Gudrun answers, "O my lord, by great wonders is she encompassed, seven days and seven nights has she slept, and none has dared wake her."

"Nay, she sleeps not," said Sigurd, "her heart is dealing rather with dreadful intent against me."

Then said Gudrun, weeping, "Woe worth the while for thy death! go and see her; and wot if her fury may not be abated; give her gold, and smother up her grief and anger therewith!"

Then Sigurd went out, and found the door of Brynhild's chamber open; he deemed she slept, and drew the clothes from off her, and said—

"Awake, Brynhild! the sun shineth now over all the house, and thou hast slept enough; cast off grief from thee, and take up gladness!"

She said, "And how then hast thou dared to come to me? in this treason none was worse to me than thou."

Said Sigurd, "Why wilt thou not speak to folk? for what cause sorrowest thou?"

Brynhild answers, "Ah, to thee will I tell of my wrath!"

Sigurd said, "As one under a spell art thou, if thou deemest that there is aught cruel in my heart against thee; but thou hast him for husband whom thou didst choose."

"Ah, nay," she said, "never did Gunnar ride through the fire to me, nor did he give me to dower the host of the slain: I wondered at the man who came into my hall; for I deemed indeed that I knew thine eyes; but I might not see clearly, or divide the good from the evil, because of the evil that lay heavy on my fortune."

Says Sigurd, "No nobler men are there than the sons of Giuki, they slew the king of the Danes, and that great chief, the brother of King Budli."

Brynhild answered, "Surely for many an ill-deed must I reward them; mind me not of my griefs against them! But thou, Sigurd, slewest the Worm, and rodest the fire through; yea, and for my sake, and not one of the sons of King Giuki."

Sigurd answers, "I am not thy husband, and thou art not my wife; yet did a farfamed king pay dower to thee."

Says Brynhild, "Never looked I at Gunnar in such a wise that my heart smiled on him; and hard and fell am I to him, though I hide it from others."

"A marvellous thing," says Sigurd, "not to love such a king; what angers thee most? for surely his love should be better to thee than gold."

"This is the sorest sorrow to me," she said, "that the bitter sword is not reddened in thy blood."

"Have no fear thereof!" says he, "no long while to wait or the bitter sword stand deep in my heart; and no worse needest thou to pray for thyself, for thou wilt not live when I am dead; the days of our two lives shall be few enough from henceforth."

Brynhild answers, "Enough and to spare of bale is in thy speech, since thou bewrayedst me, and didst twin[1] me and all bliss;—naught do I heed my life or death."

Sigurd answers, "Ah, live, and love King Gunnar and me withal! and all my wealth will I give thee if thou die not."

Brynhild answers, "Thou knowest me not, nor the heart that is in me; for thou art the first and best of all men, and I am become the most loathsome of all women to thee."

"This is truer," says Sigurd, "that I loved thee better than myself, though I fell into the wiles from whence our lives may not escape; for whenso my own heart and mind availed me, then I sorrowed sore that thou wert not my wife; but as I might put my trouble from me, for in a king's dwelling was I; and withal and in spite of all I was well content that we were all together. Well may it be, that that shall come to pass which is foretold; neither shall I fear the fulfilment thereof."

Brynhild answered, and said, "Too late thou tellest me that my grief grieved thee: little pity shall I find now."

Sigurd said, "This my heart would, that thou and I should go into one bed together; even so wouldst thou be my wife."

Said Brynhild, "Such words may nowise be spoken, nor will I have two kings in one hall; I will lay my life down rather than beguile Gunnar the King."

And therewith she call to mind how they met, they two, on the mountain, and swore oath each to each.

"But now is all changed, and I will not live."

"I might not call to mind thy name," said Sigurd, "or know thee again, before the time of thy wedding; the greatest of all griefs is that."

Then said Brynhild, "I swore an oath to wed the man who should ride my flaming fire, and that oath will I hold to, or die."

"Rather than thou die, I will wed thee, and put away Gudrun," said Sigurd.

But therewithal so swelled the heart betwixt the sides of him, that the rings of his byrny burst asunder.

"I will not have thee," says Brynhild, "nay, nor any other!"

Then Sigurd got him gone.

So saith the song of Sigurd—

"Out then went Sigurd,
The great kings' well-loved,
From the speech and the sorrow,
Sore drooping, so grieving,
That the shirt round about him
Of iron rings woven,
From the sides brake asunder
Of the brave in the battle."

So when Sigurd came into the hall, Gunnar asked if he had come to a knowledge of what great grief lay heavy on her, or if she had power of speech: and Sigurd said that she lacked it not. So now Gunnar goes to her again, and asked her, what wrought her woe, or if there were anything that might amend it.

"I will not live," says Brynhild, "for Sigurd has bewrayed me, yea, and thee no less, whereas thou didst suffer him to come into my bed: lo thou, two men in one dwelling I will not have; and this shall be Sigurd's death, or thy death, or my death;—for now has he told Gudrun all, and she is mocking me even now!"

1: Sunder.

XXX. Of the Slaying of Sigurd Fafnir's-bane

THEREAFTER Brynhild went out, and sat under her bower-wall, and had many words of wailing to say, and still she cried that all things were loathsome to her, both land and lordship alike, so she might not have Sigurd.

But therewith came Gunnar to her yet again, and Brynhild spake, "Thou shalt lose both realm and wealth, and thy life and me, for I shall fare home to my kin, and abide there in sorrow, unless thou slayest Sigurd and his son; never nourish thou a wolfcub."

Gunnar grew sick at heart thereat, and might nowise see what fearful thing lay beneath it all; he was bound to Sigurd by oath, and this way and that way swung the heart within him; but at the last he bethought him of the measureless shame if his wife went from him, and he said within himself, "Brynhild is better to me than all things else, and the fairest woman of all women, and I will lay down my life rather than lose the love of her." And herewith he called to him his brother and spake,—

"Trouble is heavy on me," and he tells him that he must needs slay Sigurd, for that he has failed him where in he trusted him; "so let us be lords of the gold and the realm withal."

Hogni answers, "Ill it behoves us to break our oaths with wrack and wrong, and withal great aid we have in him; no kings shall be as great as we, if so be the King of the Hun-folk may live; such another brother-in-law never may we get again; bethink thee how good it is to have such a brother-in-law, and such sons to our sister! But well I see how things stand, for this has Brynhild stirred thee up to, and surely shall her counsel drag us into huge shame and scathe."

Gunnar says, "Yet shall it be brought about: and, lo, a rede thereto;—let us egg on our brother Guttorm to the deed; he is young, and of little knowledge, and is clean out of all the oaths moreover."

"Ah, set about in ill wise," says Hogni, "and though indeed it may well be compassed, a due reward shall we gain for the bewrayal of such a man as is Sigurd."

Gunnar says, "Sigurd shall die, or I shall die."

And therewith he bids Brynhild arise and be glad at heart: so she arose, and still ever she said that Gunnar should come no more into her bed till the deed was done.

So the brothers fall to talk, and Gunnar says that it is a deed well worthy of death, that taking of Brynhild's maidenhead; "So come now, let us prick on Guttorm to do the deed."

Therewith they call him to them, and offer him gold and great dominion, as they well have might to do. Yea, and they took a certain worm and somewhat of wolf's flesh and let seethe them together, and gave him to eat of the same, even as the singer sings—

Fish of the wild-wood,
Worm smooth crawling,
With wolf-meat mingled,
They minced for Guttorm;
Then in the beaker,
In the wine his mouth knew,
They set it, still doing
More deeds of wizards.

Wherefore with the eating of this meat he grew so wild and eager, and with all things about him, and with the heavy words of Grimhild, that he gave his word to do the deed; and mighty honour they promised him in reward thereof.

But of these evil wiles naught at all knew Sigurd, for he might not deal with his shapen fate, nor the measure of his life-days, neither deemed he that he was worthy of such things at their hands.

So Guttorm went in to Sigurd the next morning as he lay upon his bed, yet durst he not do aught against him, but shrank back out again; yea, and even so he fared a second time, for so bright and eager were the eyes of Sigurd that few durst look upon him. But the third time he went in, and there lay Sigurd asleep; then Guttorm drew his sword and thrust Sigurd through in such wise that the sword point smote into the bed beneath him; then Sigurd awoke with that wound, and Guttorm gat him unto the door; but therewith Sigurd caught up the sword Gram, and cast it after him, and it smote him on the back, and struck him asunder in the midst, so that the feet of him fell one way, and the head and hands back into the chamber.

Now Gudrun lay asleep on Sigurd's bosom, but she woke up unto woe that may not be told of, all swimming in the blood of him, and in such wise did she bewail her with weeping and words of sorrow, that Sigurd rose up on the bolster, and spake.

"Weep not," said he, "for thy brothers live for thy delight; but a young son have I, too young to be ware of his foes; and an ill turn have these played against their own fortune; for never will they get a mightier brother-in-law to ride abroad with them; nay, nor a better son to their sister, than this one, if he may grow to man's estate. Lo, now is that come to pass which was foretold me long ago, but from mine eyes has it been hidden, for none may fight against his fate and prevail. Behold this has Brynhild brought to pass, even she who loves me before all men; but this may I swear, that never have I wrought ill to Gunnar, but rather have ever held fast to my oath with him, nor was I ever too much a friend to his wife. And now if I had been forewarned, and had been afoot with my weapons, then should many a man have lost his life or ever I had fallen, and all those brethren should have been slain, and a harder work would the slaying of me have been than the slaying of the mightiest bull or the mightiest boar of the wild wood."

And even therewithal life left the King; but Gudrun moaned and drew a weary breath, and Brynhild heard it, and laughed when she heard her moaning.

Then said Gunnar, "Thou laughest not because thy heart-roots are gladdened, or else why doth thy visage wax so wan? Sure an evil creature thou art; most like thou art nigh to thy death! Lo now, how meet would it be for thee to behold thy brother Atli slain before thine eyes, and that thou shouldst stand over him dead; whereas we must needs now stand over our brother-in-law in such a case—our brother-in-law and our brother's bane."

She answered, "None need mock at the measure of slaughter being unfulfilled; yet heedeth not Atli your wrath or your threats; yea, he shall live longer than ye, and be a mightier man."

Hogni spake and said, "Now hath come to pass the sooth-saying of Brynhild; an ill work not to be atoned for."

And Gudrun said, "My kinsmen have slain my husband; but ye, when ye next ride to the war and are come into the battle, then shall ye look about and see that Sigurd is neither on the right hand nor the left, and ye shall know that he was your good-hap and your strength; and if he had lived and had sons, then should ye have been strengthened by his offspring and his kin."

XXXI. Of the Lamentation of Gudrun Over Sigurd Dead, as it is Told in the Ancient Songs

GUDRUN[1] of old days
Drew near to dying
As she sat in sorrow
Over Sigurd;
Yet she sighed not
Nor smote hand on hand,
Nor wailed she aught
As other women.

Then went earls to her,
Full of all wisdom,
Fain help to deal
To her dreadful heart:
Hushed was Gudrun
Of wail, or greeting,
But with a heavy woe
Was her heart a-breaking.

Bright and fair
Sat the great earls' brides,
Gold arrayed
Before Gudrun;
Each told the tale
Of her great trouble,
The bitterest bale
She erst abode.

Then spake Giaflaug,
Guiki's sister:

"Lo upon earth
I live most loveless
Who of five mates
Must see the ending,
Of daughters twain
And three sisters,
Of brethren eight,
And abide behind lonely."

Naught gat Gudrun
Of wail and greeting,
So heavy was she
For her dead husband,
So dreadful-hearted
For the King laid dead there.

Then spake Herborg
Queen of Hunland—
"Crueller tale
Have I to tell of,
Of my seven sons
Down in the Southlands,
And the eighth man, my mate,
Felled in the death-mead.

"Father and mother,
And four brothers,
On the wide sea
The winds and death played with;
The billows beat
On the bulwark boards.

"Alone must I sing o'er them,
Alone must I array them,
Alone must my hands deal with
Their departing;
And all this was
In one season's wearing,
And none was left
For love or solace.

"Then was I bound
A prey of the battle,
When that same season
Wore to its ending;

As a tiring may
Must I bind the shoon
Of the duke's high dame,
Every day at dawning.

"From her jealous hate
Gat I heavy mocking,
Cruel lashes
She laid upon me,
Never met I
Better master
Or mistress worser
In all the wide world."

Naught gat Gudrun
Of wail or greeting,
So heavy was she
For her dead husband,
So dreadful-hearted
For the King laid dead there.

Then spake Gullrond,
Guiki's daughter—
"O foster-mother,
Wise as thou mayst be,
Naught canst thou better
The young wife's bale."
And she bade uncover
The dead King's corpse.

She swept the sheet
Away from Sigurd,
And turned his cheek
Towards his wife's knees—
"Look on thy loved one
Lay lips to his lips,
E'en as thou wert clinging
To thy king alive yet!"

Once looked Gudrun—
One look only,
And saw her lord's locks
Lying all bloody,
The great man's eyes
Glazed and deadly,

And his heart's bulwark
Broken by sword-edge.

Back then sank Gudrun,
Back on the bolster,
Loosed was her head array,
Red did her cheeks grow,
And the rain-drops ran
Down over her knees.

Then wept Gudrun,
Giuki's daughter,
So that the tears flowed
Through the pillow;
As the geese withal
That were in the homefield,
The fair fowls the may owned,
Fell a-screaming.

Then spake Gullrond,
Giuki's daughter—
"Surely knew I
No love like your love
Among all men,
On the mould abiding;
Naught wouldst thou joy in Without or within doors,
O my sister,
Save beside Sigurd."

Then spake Gudrun,
Giuki's daughter—
"Such was my Sigurd
Among the sons of Giuki,
As is the king leek
O'er the low grass waxing,
Or a bright stone
Strung on band,
Or a pearl of price
On a prince's brow.

"Once was I counted
By the king's warriors
Higher than any Of Herjan's mays;

Now am I as little
As the leaf may be,
Amid wind-swept wood
Now when dead he lieth.

"I miss from my seat,
I miss from my bed,
My darling of sweet speech.
Wrought the sons of Giuki,
Wrought the sons of Giuki,
This sore sorrow,
Yea, for their sister,
Most sore sorrow.

"So may your lands
Lie waste on all sides,
As ye have broken
Your bounden oaths!
Ne'er shalt thou, Gunnar,
The gold have joy of,
The dear-bought rings
Shall drag thee to death,
Whereon thou swarest
Oath unto Sigurd.

"Ah, in the days by-gone
Great mirth in the homefield
When my Sigurd
Set saddle on Grani,
And they went their ways
For the wooing of Brynhild!
An ill day, an ill woman,
And most ill hap!"

Then spake Brynhild,
Budli's daughter—
"May the woman lack
Both love and children,
Who gained greeting
For thee, O Gudrun!
Who gave thee this morning
Many words!"

Then spake Gullrond,
Giuki's daughter—

"Hold peace of such words
Thou hated of all folk!
The bane of brave men
Hast thou been ever,
All waves of ill
Wash over thy mind,
To seven great kings
Hast thou been a sore sorrow,
And the death of good will
To wives and women."

Then spake Brynhild,
Budli's daughter—
"None but Atli
Brought bale upon us,
My very brother
Born of Budli.
"When we saw in the hall
Of the Hunnish people
The gold a-gleaming
On the kingly Giukings;
I have paid for that faring
Oft and full,
And for the sight
That then I saw."

By a pillar she stood
And strained its wood to her;
From the eyes of Brynhild,
Budli's daughter,
Flashed out fire,
And she snorted forth venom,
As the sore wounds she gazed on
Of the dead-slain Sigurd.

1: This chapter is the Eddaic poem, called the first Lay of Gudrun, inserted here by the translators.

XXXII. Of the Ending of Brynhild

AND now none might know for what cause Brynhild must bewail with weeping for what she had prayed for with laughter: but she spake—

"Such a dream I had, Gunnar, as that my bed was acold, and that thou didst ride into the hands of thy foes: Io now, ill shall it go with thee and all thy kin, O ye breakers of oaths; for on the day thou slayedst him, dimly didst thou remember how thou didst blend thy blood with the blood of Sigurd, and with an ill reward hast thou rewarded him for all that he did well to thee; whereas he gave unto thee to be the mightiest of men; and well was it proven how fast he held to his oath sworn, when he came to me and laid betwixt us the sharp edged sword that in venom had been made hard. All too soon did ye fall to working wrong against him and against me, whenas I abode at home with my father, and had all that I would, and had no will that any one of you should be any of mine, as ye rode into our garth, ye three kings together; but then Atli led me apart privily, and asked me if I would not have him who rode Grani;—yea, a man nowise like unto you; but in those days I plighted myself to the son of King Sigmund and no other; and lo, now, no better shall ye fare for the death of me."

Then rose up Gunnar, and laid his arms about her neck, and besought her to live and have wealth from him; and all others in likewise letted her from dying; but she thrust them all from her, and said that it was not the part of any to let her in that which was her will.

Then Gunnar called to Hogni, and prayed him for counsel, and bade him go to her, and see if he might perchance soften her dreadful heart, saying withal, that now they had need enough on their hands in the slaking of her grief, till time might get over.

But Hogni answered, "Nay, let no man hinder her from dying; for no gain will she be to us, nor has she been gainsome since she came hither!"

Now she bade bring forth much gold, and bade all those come thither who would have wealth: then she caught up a sword, and thrust it under her armpit, and sank aside upon the pillows, and said, "Come, take gold whoso will!"

But all held their peace, and she said, "Take the gold, and be glad thereof!"

And therewith she spake unto Gunnar, "Now for a little while will I tell of that which shall come to pass hereafter; for speedily shall ye be at one again with Gudrun by the rede of Grimhild the Wise-wife; and the daughter of Gudrun and Sigurd shall be called Swanhild, the fairest of all women born. Gudrun shall be given to Atli, yet not with her good will. Thou shalt be fain to get Oddrun, but that shall Atli forbid thee; but privily shall ye meet, and much shall she love thee. Atli shall bewray thee, and cast thee into a wormclose, and thereafter shall Atli and his sons be slain, and Gudrun shall be their slayer; and afterwards shall the great waves bear her to the burg of King Jonakr, to whom she shall bear sons of great fame: Swanhild shall be sent from the land and given to King Jormunrek; and her shall bite the rede of Bikki, and therewithal is the kin of you clean gone; and more sorrows therewith for Gudrun.

"And now I pray thee, Gunnar, one last boon.—Let make a great bale on the plain meads for all of us; for me, and for Sigurd, and for those who were slain with him, and let that be covered over with cloth dyed red by the folk of the Gauls,[1] and burn me thereon on one side of the King of the Huns, and on the other those men of mine, two at the head and two at the feet, and two hawks withal; and even so is all shared equally; and lay there betwixt us a drawn sword, as in the other days when we twain stepped into one bed together; and then may we have the name of man and wife, nor shall the door swing to at the heel of him as I go behind him. Nor shall that be a niggard company if there follow him those five bondwomen and eight bondmen, whom my father gave me, and those burn there withal who were slain with Sigurd.

"Now more yet would I say, but for my wounds, but my lifebreath flits; the wounds open,—yet have I said sooth."

Now is the dead corpse of Sigurd arrayed in olden wise, and a mighty bale is raised, and when it was somewhat kindled, there was laid thereon the dead corpse of Sigurd Fafnir's-bane, and his son of three winters whom Brynhild had let slay, and Guttorm withal; and when the bale was all ablaze, thereunto was Brvnhild borne out, when she had spoken with her bower-maidens, and bid them take the gold that she would give; and then died Brynhild, and was burned there by the side of Sigurd, and thus their life-days ended.

1: The original has raudu manna blodi, red-dyed in the blood of men; the Sagaman's original error in dealing with the word Valaript in the corresponding passage of the short lay of Sigurd.—Tr.

XXXIII. Gudrun Wedded to Atli

Now so it is, that whoso heareth these tidings sayeth, that no such an one as was Sigurd was left behind him in the world, nor ever was such a man brought forth because of all the worth of him, nor may his name ever minish by eld in the Dutch Tongue nor in all the Northern Lands, while the world standeth fast.

The story tells that, on a day, as Gudrun sat in her bower, she fell to saying, "Better was life in those days when I had Sigurd; he who was far above other men as gold is above iron, or the leek over other grass of the field, or the hart over other wild things; until my brethren begrudged me such a man, the first and best of all men; and so they might not sleep or they had slain him. Huge clamour made Grani when he saw his master and lord sore wounded, and then I spoke to him even as with a man, but he fell drooping down to the earth, for he knew that Sigurd was slain."

Thereafter Gudrun gat her gone into the wild woods, and heard on all ways round about her the howling of wolves, and deemed death a merrier thing than life. Then she went till she came to the hall of King Alf, and sat there in Denmark with Thora, the daughter of Hakon, for seven seasons, and abode with good welcome. And she set forth her needlework before her, and did thereinto many deeds and great, and fair plays after the fashion of those days, swords and byrnies, and all the gear of kings, and the ship of King Sigmund sailing along the land; yea, and they wrought there, how they fought, Sigar and Siggeir, south in Fion. Such was their disport; and now Gudrun was somewhat solaced of her grief.

So Grimhild comes to hear where Gudrun has take up her abode, and she calls her sons to talk with her, and asks whether they will make atonement to Gudrun for her son and her husband, and said that it was but meet and right to do so.

Then Gunnar spake, and said that he would atone for her sorrows with gold.

So they send for their friends, and array their horses, their helms, and their shields, and their byrnes, and all their war-gear; and their journey was furnished forth in the noblest wise, and no champion who was of the great men might abide at home; and their horses were clad in mailcoats, and every knight of them had his helm done over with gold or with silver.

Grimhild was of their company, for she said that their errand would never be brought fairly to pass if she sat at home.

There were well five hundred men, and noble men rode with them. There was Waldemar of Denmark, and Eymod and Jarisleif withal. So they went into the hall of King Alf, and there abode them the Longbeards, and Franks, and Saxons; they fared with all their war-gear, and had over them red fur-coats. Even as the song says—

Byrnies short cut,
Strong helms hammered,
Girt with good swords,
Red hair gleaming.

They were fain to choose good gifts for their sister, and spake softly to her, but in none of them would she trow. Then Gunnar brought unto her a drink mingled with hurtful things, and this she must needs drink, and with the drinking thereof she had no more memory of their guilt against her.

But in that drink was blended the might of the earth and the sea with the blood of her son; and in that horn were all letters cut and reddened with blood, as is said hereunder—

On the horn's face were there
All the kin of letters
Cut aright and reddened,
How should I rede them rightly?
The ling-fish long
Of the land of Hadding,
Wheat-ears unshorn,
And wild things' inwards.

In that beer were mingled
Many ills together,
Blood of all the wood
And brown-burnt acorns,
The black dew of the hearth,
The God-doomed dead beast's inwards,
And the swine's liver sodden
Because all wrongs that deadens.

And so now, when their hearts are brought anigh to each other, great cheer they made: then came Grimhild to Gudrun, and spake—

"All hail to thee, daughter! I give thee gold and all kinds of good things to take to thee after thy father, dear-bought rings and bed-gear of the maids of the Huns, the most courteous and well dight of all women; and thus is thy husband atoned for: and thereafter shalt thou be given to Atli, the mighty king, and be mistress of all his might. Cast not all thy friends aside for one man's sake, but do according to our bidding."

Gudrun answers, "Never will I wed Atli the King; unseemly it is for us to get offspring betwixt us."

Grimhild says, "Nourish not thy wrath; it shall be to thee as if Sigurd and Sigmund were alive when thou hast borne sons."

Gudrun says, "I cannot take my heart from thoughts of him, for he was the first of all men."

Grimhild says, "So it is shapen that thou must have this king and none else."

Says Gudrun, "Give not this man to me, for an evil thing shall come upon thy kin from him, and to his own sons shall he deal evil and be rewarded with a grim revenge thereafter."

Then waxed Grimhild fell at those words, and spake, "Do even as we bid thee, and take therefore great honour, and our friendship, and the steads withal called Vinbjorg and Valbjorg."

And such might was in the words of her, that even so must it come to pass.

Then Gudrun spake, "Thus then must it needs befall, howsoever against the will of me, and for little joy shall it be and for great grief."

Then men leaped on their horses, and their women were set in wains. So they fared four days a-riding and other four a-shipboard, and yet four more again by land and road, till at the last they came to a certain high-built hall; then came to meet Gudrun many folk thronging; and an exceedingly goodly feast was there made, even as the word had gone between either kin, and it passed forth in most proud and stately wise. And at that feast drinks Atli his bridal with Gudrun; but never did her heart laugh on him, and little sweet and kind was their life together.

XXXIV. Atli bids the Giukings to Him

NOW tells the tale that on a night King Atli woke from sleep and spake to Gudrun—

"Medreamed," said he, "that thou didst thrust me through with a sword."

Then Gudrun areded the dream, and said that it betokened fire, whenas folk dreamed of iron. "It befalls of thy pride belike, in that thou deemest thyself the first of men."

Atli said, "Moreover I dreamed that here waxed two sorb-tree[1] saplings, and fain I was that they should have no scathe of me; then these were riven up by the roots and reddened with blood, and borne to the bench, and I was bidden eat thereof.

"Yea, yet again I dreamed that two hawks flew from my hand hungry and unfed, and fared to hell, and meseemed their hearts were mingled with honey, and that I ate thereof.

"And then again I dreamed that two fair whelps lay before me yelling aloud, and that the flesh of them I ate, though my will went not with the eating."

Gudrun says, "Nowise good are these dreams, yet shall they come to pass; surely thy sons are nigh to death, and many heavy things shall fall upon us."

"Yet again I dreamed," said he, "and methought I lay in a bath, and folk took counsel to slay me."

Now these things wear away with time, but in nowise was their life together fond.

Now falls Atli to thinking of where may be gotten that plenteous gold which Sigurd had owned, but King Gunnar and his brethren were lords thereof now.

Atli was a great king and mighty, wise, and a lord of many men; and now he falls to counsel with his folk as to the ways of them. He wotted well that Gunnar and his brethren had more wealth than any others might have; and so he falls to the rede of sending men to them, and bidding them to a great feast, and honoring them in diverse wise, and the chief of those messengers was hight Vingi.

Now the queen wots of their conspiring, and misdoubts her that this would mean some beguiling of her brethren: so she cut runes, and took a gold ring, and knit therein a wolf's hair, and gave it into the hands of the king's messengers.

Thereafter they go their ways according to the king's bidding; and or ever they came aland Vingi beheld the runes, and turned them about in such a wise as if Gudrun prayed her brethren in her runes to go meet King Atli.

Thereafter they came to the hall of King Gunnar, and had good welcome at his hands, and great fires were made for them, and in great joyance they drank of the best of drink.

Then spake Vingi, "King Atli sends me hither, and in fain that ye go to his house and home in all glory, and take of him exceeding honours, helms and shields, swords and byrnies, gold and goodly raiment, horses, hosts of war, and great and wide lands, for, saith he, he is fainest of all things to bestow his realm and lordship upon you."

Then Gunnar turned his head aside, and spoke to Hogni—

"In what wise shall we take this bidding? might and wealth he bids us take; but no kings know I who have so much gold as we have, whereas we have all the hoard which lay once on Gnitaheath; and great are our chambers, and full of gold, and weapons for smiting, and all kinds of raiment of war, and well I wot that amidst all men my horse is the best, and my sword the sharpest, and my gold the most glorious."

Hogni answers, "A marvel is it to me of his bidding, for seldom hath he done in such a wise, and ill-counselled will it be to wend to him; lo now, when I saw those dear-bought things the king sends us I wondered to behold a wolf's hair knit to a certain gold ring; belike Gudrun deems him to be minded as a wolf towards us, and will have naught of our faring."

But withal Vingi shows him the runes which he said Gudrun had sent.

Now the most of folk go to bed, but these drank on still with certain others; and Kostbera, the wife of Hogni, the fairest of women, came to them, and looked on the runes.

But the wife of Gunnar was Glaumvor, a great-hearted wife.

So these twain poured out, and the kings drank, and were exceeding drunken, and Vingi notes it, and says—

"Naught may I hide that King Atli is heavy of foot and over-old for the warding of his realm; but his sons are young and of no account: now will he give you rule over his realms while they are yet thus young, and most fain will he be that ye have the joy thereof before all others."

Now so it befell both that Gunnar was drunk, and that great dominion was held out to him, nor might he work against the fate shapen for him; so he gave his word to go, and tells Hogni his brother thereof.

But he answered, "Thy word given must even stand now, nor will I fail to follow thee, but most loth am I to this journey."

1: Service-tree; pyrus sorbus domestica, or p. s. tormentalis.

XXXV. The Dreams of the Wives of the Giukings

SO when men had drunk their fill, they fared to sleep; then falls Kostbera to beholding the runes, and spelling over the letters, and sees that beneath were other things cut and that the runes are guileful; yet because of her wisdom she had skill to read them aright. So then she goes to bed by her husband; but when they awoke, she spake unto Hogni—

"Thou art minded to wend away from home—ill-counselled is that; abide till another time! Scarce a keen reader of runes art thou, if thou deemest thou hast beheld in them the bidding of thy sister to this journey: lo, I read the runes, and had marvel of so wise a woman as Gudrun is, that she should have miscut them; but that which lieth underneath beareth your bane with it,—yea, either she lacked a letter, or others have dealt guilefully with the runes.

"And now hearken to my dream; for therein methought there fell in upon us here a river exceeding strong, and brake up the timbers of the hall."

He answered, "Full oft are ye evil of mind, ye women, but for me, I was not made in such wise as to meet men with evil who deserve no evil; belike he will give us good welcome."

She answered, "Well, the thing must ye yourselves prove, but no friendship follows this bidding:—but yet again I dreamed that another river fell in here with a great and grimly rush, and tore up the dais of the hall, and brake the legs of both you brethren; surely that betokeneth somewhat."

He answers, "Meadows along our way, whereas thou didst dream of the river; for when we go through the meadows, plentifully doth the seeds of the hay hang about our legs."

"Again I dreamed," she says, "that thy cloak was afire, and that the flame blazed up above the hall."

Says he, "Well, I wot what that shall betoken; here lieth my fairdyed raiment, and it shall burn and blaze, whereas thou dreamedst of the cloak."

"Methought a bear came in," she says, "and brake up the king's high-seat, and shook his paws in such a wise that we were all adrad thereat, and he gat us all together into the mouth of him, so that we might avail us naught, and thereof fell great horror on us."

He answered, "Some great storm will befall, whereas thou hadst a white bear in thy mind."

"An erne methought came in," she says, "and swept adown the hall, and drenched me and all of us with blood, and ill shall that betoken, for methought it was the double of King Atli."

He answered, "Full oft do we slaughter beasts freely, and smite down great neat for our cheer, and the dream of the erne has but to do with oxen; yea, Atli is heart-whole toward us."

And therewithal they cease this talk.

XXXVI. Of the Journey of the Giukings to King Atli

NOW tells the tale of Gunnar, that in the same wise it fared with him; for when they awoke, Glaumvor his wife told him many dreams which seemed to her like to betoken guile coming; but Gunnar areded them all in other wise.

"This was one of them," said she; "methought a bloody sword was borne into the hall here, wherewith thou wert thrust through, and at either end of that sword wolves howled."

The king answered, "Cur dogs shall bite me belike; bloodstained weapons oft betoken dogs' snappings."

She said, "Yet again I dreamed—that women came in, heavy and drooping, and chose thee for their mate; mayhappen these would be thy fateful women."

He answered, "Hard to arede is this, and none may set aside the fated measure of his days, nor is it unlike that my time is short."

So in the morning they arose, and were minded for the journey, but some letted them herein.

Then cried Gunnar to the man who is called Fjornir—

"Arise, and give us to drink goodly wine from great tuns, because mayhappen this shall be very last of all our feasts; for belike if we die the old wolf shall come by the gold, and that bear shall nowise spare the bite of his war-tusks."

Then all the folk of his household brought them on their way weeping.

The son of Hogni said— "Fare ye well with merry tide."

The more part of their folk were left behind; Solar and Gnœvar, the sons of Hogni, fared with them, and a certain great champion, named Orkning, who was the brother of Kostbera.

So folk followed them down to the ships, and all letted them of their journey, but attained to naught therein.

Then spake Glaumvor, and said—

"O Vingi, most like that great ill hap will come of thy coming and mighty and evil things shall betide in thy travelling."

He answered, "Hearken to my answer; that I lie not aught: and may the high gallows and all things of grame have me, if I lie one word!"

Then cried Kostbera, "Fare ye well with merry days."

And Hogni answered, "Be glad of heart, howsoever it may fare with us!"

And therewith they parted, each to their own fate. Then away they rowed, so hard and fast, that well-nigh the half of the keel slipped away from the ship, and so hard they laid on to the oars that thole and gunwale brake.

But when they came aland they made their ship fast, and then they rode awhile on their noble steeds through the murk wild-wood.

And now they behold the king's army, and huge uproar, and the clatter of weapons they hear from thence; and they see there a mighty host of men, and the manifold array of them, even as they wrought there: and all the gates of the burg were full of men.

So they rode up to the burg, and the gates thereof were shut; then Hogni brake open the gates, and therewith they ride into the burg.

Then spake Vingi, "Well might ye have left this deed undone; go to now, bide ye here while I go seek your gallows-tree! Softly and sweetly I bade you hither, but an evil thing abode thereunder; short while to bide ere ye are tied up to that same tree!"

Hogni answered, "None the more shall we waver for that cause; for little methinks have we shrunk aback whenas men fell to fight; and naught shall it avail thee to make us afeard,—and for an ill fate hast thou wrought."

And therewith they cast him down to earth, and smote him with their axe-hammers till he died.

XXXVII. The Battle in the Burg of King Atli

THEN they rode unto the king's hall, and King Atli arrayed his host for battle, and the ranks were so set forth that a certain wall there was betwixt them and the brethren.

"Welcome hither," said he. "Deliver unto me that plenteous gold which is mine of right; even the wealth which Sigurd once owned, and which is now Gudrun's of right."

Gunnar answered, "Never gettest thou that wealth; and men of might must thou meet here, or ever we lay by life if thou wilt deal with us in battle: ah, belike thou settest forth this feast like a great man, and wouldst not hold thine hand from erne and wolf!"

"Long ago I had it in my mind," said Atli, "to take the lives of you, and be lord of the gold, and reward you for that deed of shame, wherein ye beguiled the best of all your affinity; but now shall I revenge him."

Hogni answered, "Little will it avail to lie long brooding over that rede, leaving the work undone."

And therewith they fell to hard fighting, at the first brunt with shot.

But therewithal came the tidings to Gudrun, and when she heard thereof she grew exceeding wroth, and cast her mantle from her, and ran out and greeted those new-comers, and kissed her brethren, and showed them all love, — and the last of all greetings was that betwixt them.

Then said she, "I thought I had set forth counsels whereby ye should not come hither, but none may deal with his shapen fate." And withal she said, "Will it avail aught to seek for peace?"

But stoutly and grimly they said nay thereto. So she sees that the game goeth sorely against her brethren, and she gathers to her great stoutness of heart, and does on her a mail-coat and takes to her a sword, and fights by her brethren, and goes as far forward as the bravest of manfolk: and all spoke in one wise that never saw any fairer defence than in her.

Now the men fell thick, and far before all others was the fighting of those brethren, and the battle endured a long while unto midday; Gunnar and Hogni went right through the folk of Atli, and so tells the tale that all the mead ran red with blood; the sons of Hogni withal set on stoutly.

Then spake Atli the king, "A fair host and a great have we, and mighty champions withal, and yet have many of us fallen, and but evil am I apaid in that nineteen of my champions are slain, and but six left alive."

And therewithal was there a lull in the battle.

Then spake Atli the king, "Four brethren were we, and now am I left alone; great affinity I gat to me, and deemed my fortune well sped thereby; a wife I had, fair and wise, high of mind, and great of heart; but no joyance may I have of her wisdom, for little peace is betwixt us, — but ye — ye have slain many of my kin, and beguiled me of realm and riches, and for the greatest of all woes have slain my sister withal."

Quoth Hogni, "Why babblest thou thus? thou wert the first to break the peace. Thou didst take my kinswoman and pine her to death by hunger, and didst murder her, and take her wealth; an ugly deed for a king! — meet for mocking and laughter I deem it, that thou must needs make long tale of thy woes; rather will I give thanks to the Gods that thou fallest into ill."

XXXVIII. Of the Slaying of the Giukings

NOW King Atli eggs on his folk to set on fiercely, and eagerly they fight; but the Giukings fell on so hard that King Atli gave back into the hall, and within doors was the fight, and fierce beyond all fights.

That battle was the death of many a man, but such was the ending thereof, that there fell all the folk of those brethren, and they twain alone stood upon their feet, and yet many more must fare to hell first before their weapons.

And now they fell on Gunnar the king, and because of the host of men that set on him was hand laid on him, and he was cast into fetters; afterwards fought Hogni, with the stoutest heart and the greatest manlihood; and he felled to earth twenty of the stoutest of the champions of King Atli, and many he thrust into the fire that burnt amidst the hall, and all were of one accord that such a man might scarce be seen; yet in the end was he borne down by many and taken.

Then said King Atli, "A marvellous thing how many men have gone their ways before him! Cut the heart from out of him, and let that be his bane!"

Hogni said, "Do according to thy will; merrily will I abide whatso thou wilt do against me; and thou shalt see that my heart is not adrad, for hard matters have I made trial of ere now, and all things that may try a man was I fain to bear, whiles yet I was unhurt; but now sorely am I hurt, and thou alone henceforth will bear mastery in our dealings together."

Then spake a counsellor of King Atli, "Better rede I see thereto; take we the thrall Hjalli, and give respite to Hogni; for this thrall is made to die, since the longer he lives the less worth shall he be."

The thrall hearkened, and cried out aloft, and fled away anywhither where he might hope for shelter, crying out that a hard portion was his because of their strife and wild doings, and an ill day for him whereon he must be dragged to death from his sweet life and his swine-keeping. But they caught him, and turned a knife against him, and he yelled and screamed or ever he felt the point thereof.

Then in such wise spake Hogni as a man seldom speaketh who is fallen into hard need, for he prayed for the thrall's life, and said that these shrieks he could not away with, and that it were a lesser matter to him to play out the play to the end; and therewithal the thrall gat his life as for that time: but Gunnar and Hogni are both laid in fetters.

Then spake King Atli with Gunnar the king, and bade him tell out concerning the gold, and where it was, if he would have his life.

But he answered, "Nay, first will I behold the bloody heart of Hogni, my brother."

So now they caught hold of the thrall again, and cut the heart from out of him, and bore it unto King Gunnar, but he said —

"The faint heart of Hjalli may ye here behold, little like the proud heart of Hogni, for as much as it trembleth now, more by the half it trembled whenas it lay in the breast of him."

So now they fell on Hogni even as Atli urged them, and cut the heart from out of him, but such was the might of his manhood, that he laughed while he abode that torment, and all wondered at his worth, and in perpetual memory is it held sithence.

Then they showed it to Gunnar, and he said —

"The mighty heart of Hogni, little like the faint heart of Hjalli, for little as it trembleth now, less it trembled whenas in his breast it lay! But now, O Atli, even as we die so shalt thou die; and lo, I alone wot where the gold is, nor shall Hogni be to tell thereof now; to and fro played the matter in my mind whiles we both lived, but now have I myself determined for myself, and the Rhine river shall rule over the gold, rather than that the Huns shall bear it on the hands of them."

Then said King Atli, "Have away the bondsman;" and so they did.

But Gudrun called to her men, and came to Atli, and said —

"May it fare ill with thee now and from henceforth, even as thou hast ill held to thy word with me!"

So Gunnar was cast into a worm-close, and many worms abode him there, and his hands were fast bound; but Gudrun sent him a harp, and in such wise did he set forth his craft, that wisely he smote the harp, smiting it with his toes, and so excellently well he played, that few deemed they had heard such playing, even when the hand had done it. And with such might and power he played, that all the worms fell asleep in the end, save one adder only, great and evil of aspect, that crept unto him and thrust its sting into him until it smote his heart; and in such wise with great hardihood he ended his life days.

XXXIX. The End of Atli and His Kin and Folk

NOW thought Atli the King that he had gained a mighty victory, and spake to Gudrun even as mocking her greatly, or as making himself great before her. "Gudrun," saith he, "thus hast thou lost thy brethren, and thy very self hast brought it about."

She answers, "In good liking livest thou, whereas thou thrustest these slayings before me, but may happen thou wilt rue it, when thou hast tried what is to come hereafter; and of all I have, the longest-lived matter shall be the memory of thy cruel heart, nor shall it go well with thee whiles I live."

He answered and said, "Let there be peace betwixt us; I will atone for thy brethren with gold and dear-bought things, even as thy heart may wish."

She answers, "Hard for a long while have I been in our dealings together, and now I say, that while Hogni was yet alive thou mightest have brought it to pass; but now mayest thou never atone for my brethren in my heart; yet oft must we women be overborne by the might of you men; and now are all my kindred dead and gone, and thou alone art left to rule over me: wherefore now this is my counsel that we make a great feast, wherein I will hold the funeral of my brother and of thy kindred withal."

In such wise did she make herself soft and kind in words though far other things forsooth lay thereunder, but he hearkened to her gladly, and trusted in her words, whereas she made herself sweet of speech.

So Gudrun held the funeral feast for her brethren, and King Atli for his men, and exceeding proud and great was this feast.

But Gudrun forgat not her woe, but brooded over it, how she might work some mighty shame against the king; and at nightfall she took to her the sons of King Atli and her as they played about the floor; the younglings waxed heavy of cheer, and asked what she would with them.

"Ask me not," she said; "ye shall die, the twain of you!"

Then they answered, "Thou mayest do with thy children even as thou wilt, nor shall any hinder thee, but shame there is to thee in the doing of this deed."

Yet for all that she cut the throats of them.

Then the king asked where his sons were, and Gudrun answered, "I will tell thee, and gladden thine heart by the telling; lo now, thou didst make a great woe spring up for me in the slaying of my brethren; now hearken and hear my rede and my deed; thou hast lost thy sons, and their heads are become beakers on the board here, and thou thyself hast drunken the blood of them blended with wine; and their hearts I took and roasted them on a spit, and thou hast eaten thereof."

King Atli answered, "Grim art thou in that thou hast murdered thy sons, and given me their flesh to eat, and little space passes betwixt ill deed of thine and ill deed."

Gudrun said, "My heart is set on the doing to thee of as great shame as may be; never shall the measure of ill be full to such a king as thou art."

The king said: "Worser deeds hast thou done than men have to tell of, and great unwisdom is there in such fearful redes; most meet art thou to be burned on bale when thou hast first been smitten to death with stones, for in such wise wouldst thou have what thou hast gone a weary way to seek."

She answered, "Thine own death thou foretellest, but another death is fated for me."

And many other words they spake in their wrath.

Now Hogni had a son left alive, hight Niblung, and great wrath of heart he bare against King Atli; and he did Gudrun to wit that he would avenge his father. And she took his words well, and they fell to counsel together thereover, and she said it would be great goodhap if it might be brought about.

So on a night, when the king had drunken, he gat him to bed, and when he was laid asleep, thither to him came Gudrun and the son of Hogni.

Gudrun took a sword and thrust it through the breast of King Atli, and they both of them set their hands to the deed, both she and the son of Hogni.

Then Atli the king awoke with the wound, and cried out, "No need of binding or salving here!—who art thou who hast done the deed?"

Gudrun says, "Somewhat have I, Gudrun, wrought therein, and somewhat withal the son of Hogni."

Atli said, "Ill it beseemed to thee to do this, though somewhat of wrong was between us; for thou wert wedded to me by the rede of thy kin, and dower paid I for thee; yea, thirty goodly knights, and seemly maidens, and many men besides; and yet wert thou not content, but if thou shouldest rule over the lands King Budli owned: and thy mother-in-law full oft thou lettest sit a-weeping."

Gudrun said, "Many false words hast thou spoken, and of naught I account them; oft, indeed, was I fell of mood, but much didst thou add thereto. Full oft in this thy house did frays befall, and kin fought kin, and friend fought friend, and made themselves big one against the other; better days had I whenas I abode with Sigurd, when we slew kings, and took their wealth to us, but gave peace to whomso would, and the great men laid themselves under our hands, and might we gave to him of them who would have it; then I lost him, and a little thing was it that I should bear a widow's name, but the greatest of griefs that I should come to thee—I who had aforetime the noblest of all kings, while for thee, thou never barest out of the battle aught but the worser lot."

King Atli answered, "Naught true are thy words, nor will this our speech better the lot of either of us, for all is fallen now to naught; but now do to me in seemly wise, and array my dead corpse in noble fashion."

"Yea, that will I," she says, "and let make for thee a goodly grave, and build for thee a worthy abiding place of stone, and wrap thee in fair linen, and care for all that needful is."

So therewithal he died, and she did according to her word: and then they cast fire into the hall.

And when the folk and men of estate awoke amid that dread and trouble, naught would they abide the fire, but smote each the other down, and died in such wise; so there Atli the king, and all his folk, ended their life-days. But Gudrun had no will to live longer after this deed so wrought, but nevertheless her ending day was not yet come upon her.

Now the Volsungs and the Giukings, as folk tell in tale, have been the greatest-hearted and the mightiest of all men, as ye may well behold written in the songs of old time.

But now with the tidings just told were these troubles stayed.

XL. How Gudrun cast herself into the Sea, but was brought ashore again

GUDRUN had a daughter by Sigurd hight Swanhild; she was the fairest of all women, eager-eyed as her father, so that few durst look under the brows of her; and as far did she excel other woman-kind as the sun excels the other lights of heaven.

But on a day went Gudrun down to the sea, and caught up stones in her arms, and went out into the sea, for she had will to end her life. But mighty billows drave her forth along the sea, and by means of their upholding was she borne along till she came at the last to the burg of King Jonakr, a mighty king, and lord of many folk. And he took Gudrun to wife, and their children were Hamdir, and Sorli, and Erp; and there was Swanhild nourished withal.

XLI. Of the Wedding and Slaying of Swanhild

JORMUNREK was the name of a mighty king of those days, and his son was called Randver. Now this king called his son to talk with him, and said, "Thou shalt fare on an errand of mine to King Jonakr, with my counsellor Bikki, for with King Jonakr is nourished Swanhild, the daughter of Sigurd Fafnir's-bane; and I know for sure that she is the fairest may dwelling under the sun of this world; her above all others would I have to my wife, and thou shalt go woo her for me."

Randver answered, "Meet and right, fair lord, that I should go on thine errands."

So the king set forth this journey in seemly wise, and they fare till they come to King Jonakr's abode, and behold Swanhild, and have many thoughts concerning the treasure of her goodliness.

But on a day Randver called the king to talk with him, and said, "Jormunrek the King would fain be thy brother-in-law, for he has heard tell of Swanhild, and his desire it is to have her to wife, nor may it be shown that she may be given to any mightier man than he is one."

The King says, "This is an alliance of great honour, for a man of fame he is."

Gudrun says, "A wavering trust, the trust in luck that it change not!"

Yet because of the king's furthering, and all the matters that went herewith, is the wooing accomplished; and Swanhild went to the ship with a goodly company, and sat in the stern beside the king's son.

Then spake Bikki to Randver, "How good and right it were if thou thyself had to wife so lovely a woman rather than the old man there."

Good seemed that word to the heart of the king's son, and he spake to her with sweet words, and she to him in like wise.

So they came aland and go unto the king, and Bikki said unto him, "Meet and right it is, lord, that thou shouldst know what is befallen, though hard it be to tell of, for the tale must be concerning thy beguiling, whereas thy son has gotten to him the full love of Swanhild, nor is she other than his harlot; but thou, let not the deed be unavenged."

Now many an ill rede had he given the king or this, but of all his ill redes did this sting home the most; and still would the king hearken to all his evil redes; wherefore he, who might nowise still the wrath within him, cried out that Randver should be taken and tied up to the gallows-tree.

And as he was led to the gallows he took his hawk and plucked the feathers from off it, and bade show it to his father; and when the king saw it, then he said, "Now may folk behold that he deemeth my honour to be gone away from me, even as the feathers of this hawk;" and therewith he bade deliver him from the gallows.

But in that while had Bikki wrought his will, and Randver was dead-slain.

And, moreover, Bikki spake, "Against none hast thou more wrongs to avenge thee of than against Swanhild; let her die a shameful death."

"Yea," said the king, "we will do after thy counsel."

So she was bound in the gate of the burg, and horses were driven at her to tread her down; but when she opened her eyes wide, then the horses durst not trample her; so when Bikki beheld that, he bade draw a bag over the head of her; and they did so, and therewith she lost her life.[1]

[1] In the prose Edda the slaying of Swanhild is a spontaneous and sudden act on the part of the king. As he came back from hunting one day, there sat Swanhild washing her linen, and it came into the king's mind how that she was the cause of all his woe, so he and his men rode over her and slew her.—Tr.

XLII. Gudrun sends her Sons to Avenge Swanhild

NOW Gudrun heard of the slaying of Swanhild, and spake to her sons, "Why sit ye here in peace amid merry words, whereas Jormunrek hath slain your sister, and trodden her under foot of horses in shameful wise? No heart ye have in you like to Gunnar or Hogni; verily they would have avenged their kinswoman!"

Hamdir answered, "Little didst thou praise Gunnar and Hogni, whereas they slew Sigurd, and thou wert reddened in the blood of him, and ill were thy brethren avenged by the slaying of thine own sons: yet not so ill a deed were it for us to slay King Jormunrek, and so hard thou pushest us on to this that we may naught abide thy hard words."

Gudrun went about laughing now, and gave them to drink from mighty beakers, and thereafter she got for them great byrnies and good, and all other weed[1] of war.

Then spake Hamdir, "Lo now, this is our last parting, for thou shalt hear tidings of us, and drink one graveale[2] over us and over Swanhild."

So therewith they went their ways.

But Gudrun went unto her bower, with heart swollen with sorrow, and spake—

"To three men was I wedded, and first to Sigurd Fafnir's-bane, and he was bewrayed and slain, and of all griefs was that the greatest grief. Then was I given to King Atli, and so fell was my heart toward him that I slew in the fury of my grief his children and mine. Then gave I myself to the sea, but the billows thereof cast me out aland, and to this king then was I given; then gave I Swanhild away out of the land with mighty wealth; and lo my next greatest sorrow after Sigurd, for under horses' feet was she trodden and slain; but the grimmest and ugliest of woes was the casting of Gunnar into the Worm-close, and the hardest was the cutting of Hogni's heart from him.

"Ah, better would it be if Sigurd came to meet me, and I went my ways with him, for here bideth now behind with me neither son nor daughter to comfort me. Oh, mindest thou not, Sigurd, the words we spoke when we went into one bed together, that thou wouldst come and look on me; yea, even from thine abiding place among the dead?"

And thus had the words of her sorrow an end.

1: Weed, clothing.

2: Graveale, burialfeast.

XLIII. The Latter End of all the Kin of the Giukings

NOW telleth the tale concerning the sons of Gudrun, that she had arrayed their war-raiment in such wise, that no steel would bite thereon; and she bade them play not with stones, or other heavy matters, for that it would be to their scathe if they did so.

And now, as they went on their way, they met Erp, their brother, and asked him in what wise he would help them.

He answered, "Even as hand helps hand, or foot helps foot."

But that they deemed naught at all, and slew him there and then. Then they went their ways, nor was it long or ever Hamdir stumbled, and thrust down his hand to steady himself, and spake therewith—

"Naught but a true thing spake Erp, for now should I have fallen, had not hand been to steady me."

A little after Sorli stumbled, but turned about on his feet, and so stood, and spake—

"Yea now had I fallen, but that I steadied myself with both feet."

And they said they had done evilly with Erp their brother.

But on they fare till they come to the abode of King Jormunrek, and they went up to him and set on him forthwith, and Hamdir cut both hands from him and Sorli both feet. Then spake Hamdir—

"Off were the head if Erp were alive; our brother, whom we slew on the way, and found out our deed too late." Even as the Song says,—

Off were the head
If Erp were alive yet,
Our brother the bold,
Whom we slew by the way,
The wellfamed in warfare.

Now in this must they turn away from the words of their mother, whereas they had to deal with stones. For now men fell on them, and they defended themselves in good and manly wise, and were the scathe of many a man, nor would iron bite on them.

But there came thereto a certain man, old of aspect and oneeyed,[1] and he spake—

"No wise men are ye, whereas ye cannot bring these men to their end."

Then the king said, "Give us rede thereto, if thou canst."

He said, "Smite them to the death with stones."

In such wise was it done, for the stones flew thick and fast from every side, and that was the end of their lifedays.

And now has come to an end the whole root and stem of the Giukings.[2]

NOW MAY ALL EARLS
BE BETTERED IN MIND,
MAY THE GRIEF OF ALL MAIDENS
EVER BE MINISHED,
FOR THIS TALE OF TROUBLE
SO TOLD TO ITS ENDING.

[1] Odin; he ends the tale as he began it.

[2] "And now," etc., inserted by translators from the prose Edda; the stanza at the end from the Whetting of Gudrun.

Part of the Second Lay of Helgi Hunding's-Bane[1]

HELGI wedded Sigrun, and they begat sons together, but Helgi lived not to be old; for Dag,[2] the son of Hogni, sacrificed to Odin, praying that he might avenge his father. So Odin lent Dag his spear, and Dag met Helgi, his brother-in-law, at a place called Fetter-grove, and thrust him through with that spear, and there fell Helgi dead, but Dag rode to Sevafell, and told Sigrun of the news.

Loth am I, sister,
Of sorrow to tell thee,
For by hard need driven
Have I drawn on thee greeting;
This morning fell
In Fetter-grove
The king well deemed
The best in the wide world,
Yea, he who stood
On the necks of the strong.

SIGRUN

All oaths once sworn Shall bite thee sore,
The oaths that to Helgi
Once thou swarest
At the bright white
Water of Lightening,[3]
And at the cold rock
That the sea runneth over.

May the ship sweep not on
That should sweep at its swiftest,
Though the wind desired
Behind thee driveth!
May the horse never run
That should run at his most might
When from thy foe's face
Thou hast most need to flee!

May the sword never bite
That thou drawest from scabbard.
But if round thine head
In wrath it singeth!

Then should meet price be paid
For Helgi's slaying
When a wolf thou wert
Out in the wild-wood,
Empty of good things,
Empty of gladness,
With no meat for thy mouth
But dead men's corpses!

DAG

With mad words thou ravest,
Thy wits are gone from thee,
When thou for thy brother
Such ill fate biddest;
Odin alone
Let all this bale loose,
Casting the strife-runes
'Twixt friends and kindred.

Rings of red gold
Will thy brother give thee,
And the stead of Vandil
And the lands of Vigdale;
Have half of the land
For thy sorrow's healing,
O ring-arrayed sweetling
For thee and thy sons!

SIGRUN

No more sit I happy
At Sevafell;
At day-dawn, at night
Naught love I my life
Till broad o'er the people
My lord's light breaketh;

Till his war-horse runneth
Beneath him hither,
Well wont to the gold bit—
Till my king I welcome.

In such wise did Helgi
Deal fear around
To all his foes
And all their friends
As when the goat runneth
Before the wolf's rage
Filled with mad fear
Down from the fell.

As high above all lords
Did Helgi bear him
As the ash-tree's glory
From the thorn ariseth,
Or as the fawn
With the dew-fall sprinkled
Is far above
All other wild things,
As his horns go gleaming
'Gainst the very heavens.

A barrow was raised above Helgi, but when he came to Valhall, then Odin bade him be lord of all things there, even as he; so Helgi sang—

Now shalt thou, Hunding,
For the help of each man
Get ready the foot-bath,
And kindle the fire;
The hounds shalt thou bind
And give heed to the horses,
Give wash to the swine
Ere to sleep thou goest.

A bondmaid of Sigrun went in the evening-tide by Helgi's mound, and there she saw how Helgi rode toward it with a great company; then she sang—

It is vain things' beguiling
That methinks I behold
Or the ending of all things,
As ye ride, O ye dead men,

Smiting with spurs
Your horses' sides?
Or may dead warriors
Wend their ways homeward?

THE DEAD

No vain things' beguiling
Is that thou beholdest
Nor the ruin of all things;
Though thou lookest upon us,
Though we smite with spurs
Our horses' sides;
Rather dead warriors
May wend their ways homeward.

Then went the bondmaid home, and told Sigrun, and sang—

Go out, Sigrun
From Sevafell,
If thou listest to look on
The lord of thy people!
For the mound is uncovered
Thither is Helgi come,
And his wounds are bleeding,
But the king thee biddeth
To come and stay
That stream of sorrow.

So Sigrun went into the mound to Helgi, and sang—

Now am I as fain
Of this fair meeting,
As are the hungry
Hawks of Odin,
When they wot of the slaying
Of the yet warm quarry,
Or bright with dew
See the day a-dawning.

Ah, I will kiss
My king laid lifeless,
Ere thou castest by
Thy blood-stained byrny.

O Helgi, thy hair
Is thick with death's rime,
With the dew of the dead
Is my love all dripping;
Dead-cold are the hands
Of the son of Hogni!
How for thee, O my king,
May I win healing?

HELGI

Thou alone, Sigrun
Of Sevafell,
Hast so done that Helgi
With grief's dew drippeth;
O clad in gold
Cruel tears thou weepest,
Bright May of the Southlands,
Or ever thou sleepest:
Each tear in blood falleth
On the breast of thy lord,
Cold-wet and bitter-sharp
Swollen with sorrow.

Ah, we shall drink
Dear draughts and lovely
Though we have lost
Both life and lands;
Neither shall any
Sing song of sorrow,
Though in my breast
Be wounds wide to behold:
For now are brides
In the mound abiding;
Kings' daughters sit
By us departed.

Now Sigrun arrayed a bed in the mound, and sang:

Here Helgi, for thee
A bed have I dight,
Kind without woe,
O kin of the Ylfings!
To thy bosom, O king,

Will I come and sleep soft,
As I was wont
When my lord was living.

HELGI

Now will I call
Naught not to be hoped for Early or late
At Sevafell,
When thou in the arms
Of a dead man art laid,
White maiden of Hogni,
Here in the mound:
And thou yet quick,
O King's daughter!

Now needs must I ride
On the reddening ways;
My pale horse must tread
The highway aloft:
West must I go
To Windhelm's bridge
Ere the war-winning crowd
Hall-crower[4] waketh.

So Helgi rode his ways: and the others gat them gone home to the house. But the next night Sigrun bade the bondwoman have heed of the mound. So at nightfall, whenas Sigrun came to the mound, she sang:

Here now would he come,
If to come he were minded;
Sigmund's offspring
From the halls of Odin.
O me the hope waneth
Of Helgi's coming;
For high on the ash-boughs
Are the ernes abiding,
And all folk drift
Toward the Thing of the dreamland.

THE BONDMAID

Be not foolish of heart,
And fare all alone
To the house of the dead,
O Hero's daughter!
For more strong and dreadful
In the night season
Are all dead warriors
Than in the daylight.

But a little while lived Sigrun, because of her sorrow and trouble. But in old time folk trowed that men should be born again, though their troth be now deemed but an old wife's doting. And so, as folk say, Helgi and Sigrun were born again, and at that tide was he called Helgi the Scathe of Hadding, and she Kara the daughter of Halfdan; and she was a Valkyria, even as is said in the Lay of Kara.

1: Only that part of the song is given which completes the episode of Helgi Hunding's-bane; the earlier part of the song differs little from the Saga.

2: Hogni, the father of Dag and Sigrun, had been slain by Helgi in battle and Helgi had given peace to, and taken oaths of Dag.

3: One of the rivers of the under-world.

4: Hall-crower, Salgofnir: lit. Hall-gaper, the cock of Valhall.

Part of the Lay of Sigrdrifa

NOW[1] this is my first counsel,
That thou with thy kin
Be guiltless, guileless ever,
Nor hasty of wrath,
Despite of wrong done—
Unto the dead good that doeth.

Lo the second counsel,
That oath thou swearest never,
But trusty oath and true:
Grim tormenting
Gripes troth-breakers;
Cursed wretch is the wolf of vows.

This is my third rede,
That thou at the Thing
Deal not with the fools of folk;
For unwise man
From mouth lets fall
Worser word than well he wotteth.

Yet hard it is
That holding of peace
When men shall deem thee dastard,
Or deem the lie said soothly;
But woeful is home-witness,
Unless right good thou gettest it
Ah, on another day
Drive the life from out him,
And pay the liar back for his lying.

Now behold the fourth rede:
If ill witch thee bideth,
Woe-begetting by the way,
Good going further
Rather than guesting,
Though thick night be on thee.

Far-seeing eyes
Need all sons of men
Who wend in wrath to war;
For baleful women
Bide oft by the highway,
Swords and hearts to soften.

And now the fifth rede:
As fair as thou seest
Brides on the bench abiding,
Let not love's silver
Rule over thy sleeping;
Draw no woman to kind kissing!

For the sixth thing, I rede
When men sit a-drinking
Amid ale-words and ill-words,
Deal thou naught
With the drunken fight-staves,
For wine stealeth wit from many.

Brawling and drink
Have brought unto men
Sorrow sore oft enow;
Yea, bane unto some,
And to some weary bale;
Many are the griefs of mankind.

For the seventh, I rede thee,
If strife thou raisest
With a man right high of heart,
Better fight a-field
Than burn in the fire
Within thine hall fair to behold.

The eighth rede that I give thee:
Unto all ill look thou,
And hold thine heart from all beguiling;
Draw to thee no maiden,
No man's wife bewray thou,
Urge them not unto unmeet pleasure.

This is the ninth counsel:
That thou have heed of dead folk
Whereso thou findest them a-field;
Be they sick-dead,
Be they sea-dead,
Or come to ending by war weapons.

Let bath be made
For such men fordone,
Wash thou hands and feet thereof,
Comb their hair and dry them
Ere the coffin has them;
Then bid them sleep full sweetly.

This for the tenth counsel:
That thou give trust never
Unto oaths of foeman's kin,
Be'st thou bane of his brother,
Or hast thou felled his father;
Wolf in young son waxes,
Though he with gold be gladdened.

For wrong and hatred
Shall rest them never,

Nay, nor sore sorrow.
Both wit and weapons
Well must the king have
Who is fain to be the foremost.

The last rede and eleventh:
Until all ill look thou,
And watch thy friends' ways ever.
Scarce durst I look
For long life for thee, king:
Strong trouble ariseth now already.

1: This continues the first part of the lay given in Chap. xx. of the Saga and is, in fact, the original verse of Chap. xxi.

The Lay Called the Short Lay of Sigurd

SIGURD of yore,
Sought the dwelling of Giuki,
As he fared, the young Volsung,
After fight won;
Troth he took
From the two brethren;
Oath swore they betwixt them,
Those bold ones of deed.

A may they gave to him
And wealth manifold,
Gudrun the young,
Giuki's daughter:
They drank and gave doom
Many days together,
Sigurd the young,
And the sons of Giuki.Until they wended
For Brynhild's wooing,
Sigurd a-riding
Amidst their rout;
The wise young Volsung
Who knew of all ways—
Ah! he had wed her,
Had fate so willed it.Southlander Sigurd

A naked sword,
Bright, well grinded,
Laid betwixt them;
No kiss he won
From the fair woman,
Nor in arms of his
Did the Hun King hold her,
Since he gat the young maid
For the son of Giuki.No lack in her life
She wotted of now,
And at her death-day
No dreadful thing
For a shame indeed
Or a shame in seeming;
But about and betwixt
Went baleful fate.Alone, abroad,
She sat of an evening,
Of full many things
She fell a-talking:
"O for my Sigurd!
I shall have death,
Or my fair, my lovely,
Laid in mine arms."For the word once spoken,
I sorrow sorely—
His queen is Gudrun,
I am wed to Gunnar;
The dread Norns wrought for us
A long while of woe."Oft with heart deep
In dreadful thoughts,
O'er ice-fields and ice-hills
She fared a-night time,
When he and Gudrun
Were gone to their fair bed,
And Sigurd wrapped
The bed-gear round her."Ah! now the Hun King
His queen in arms holdeth,
While love I go lacking,
And all things longed for
With no delight
But in dreadful thought."These dreadful things Thrust her toward murder:
—"Listen, Gunnar,
For thou shalt lose
My wide lands,

Yea, me myself!
Never love I my life,
With thee for my lord—"I will fare back thither
From whence I came,
To my nighest kin
And those that know me
There shall I sit
Sleeping my life away,
Unless thou slayest
Sigurd the Hun King,
Making thy might more
E'en than his might was!"Yea, let the son fare
After the father,
And no young wolf
A long while nourish!
For on each man lieth
Vengeance lighter,
And peace shall be surer
If the son live not."Adrad was Gunnar,
Heavy-hearted was he,
And in doubtful mood
Day-long he sat.For naught he wotted,
Nor might see clearly
What was the seemliest
Of deeds to set hand to;
What of all deeds
Was best to be done:
For he minded the vows
Sworn to the Volsung,
And the sore wrong
To be wrought against Sigurd.Wavered his mind
A weary while,
No wont it was
Of those days worn by,
That queens should flee
From the realms of their kings."Brynhild to me
Is better than all,
The child of Budli
Is the best of women.
Yea, and my life
Will I lay down,
Ere I am twinned
From that woman's treasure."He bade call Hogni
To the place where he bided;

With all the trust that might be,
Trowed he in him."Wilt thou bewray Sigurd
For his wealth's sake?
Good it is to rule
O'er the Rhine's metal;
And well content
Great wealth to wield,
Biding in peace
And blissful days."One thing alone Hogni
Had for an answer:
"Such doings for us
Are naught seemly to do;
To rend with sword
Oaths once sworn,
Oaths once sworn,
And troth once plighted."Nor know we on mould,
Men of happier days,
The while we four
Rule over the folk;
While the bold in battle,
The Hun King, bides living."And no nobler kin
Shall be known afield,
If our five sons
We long may foster;
Yea, a goodly stem
Shall surely wax.
—But I clearly see
In what wise it standeth,
Brynhild's sore urging O'ermuch on thee beareth."Guttorm shall we Get for the slaying,
Our younger brother
Bare of wisdom;
For he was out of
All the oaths sworn,
All the oaths sworn,
And the plighted troth."Easy to rouse him
Who of naught recketh!
—Deep stood the sword
In the heart of Sigurd.There, in the hall,
Gat the high-hearted vengeance;
For he cast his sword
At the reckless slayer:
Out at Guttorm

Flew Gram the mighty,
The gleaming steel
From Sigurd's hand.Down fell the slayer
Smitten asunder;
The heavy head
And the hands fell one way,
But the feet and such like
Aback where they stood.Gudrun was sleeping
Soft in the bed,
Empty of sorrow
By the side of Sigurd:
When she awoke
With all pleasure gone,
Swimming in blood
Of Frey's beloved.So sore her hands
She smote together,
That the great-hearted
Gat raised in bed;
—"O Gudrun, weep not
So woefully,
Sweet lovely bride,
For thy brethren live for thee!"A young child have I
For heritor;
Too young to win forth
From the house of his foes.—
Black deeds and ill
Have they been a-doing,
Evil rede
Have they wrought at last."Late, late, rideth with them
Unto the Thing,
Such sister's son,
Though seven thou bear,—
—But well I wot
Which way all goeth;
Alone wrought Brynhild
This bale against us."That maiden loved me
Far before all men,
Yet wrong to Gunnar
I never wrought;
Brotherhood I heeded
And all bounden oaths,
That none should deem me
His queen's darling."Weary sighed Gudrun,
As the king gat ending,

And so sore her hands
She smote together,
That the cups arow
Rang out therewith
And the geese cried on high
That were in the homefield.Then laughed Brynhild
Budli's daughter,
Once, once only,
From out her heart;
When to her bed
Was borne the sound
Of the sore greeting
Of Giuki's daughter.Then, quoth Gunnar,
The king, the hawk-bearer,
"Whereas, thou laughest,
O hateful woman,
Glad on thy bed,
No good it betokeneth:
Why lackest thou else
Thy lovely hue?
Feeder of foul deeds,
Fey do I deem thee,"Well worthy art thou
Before all women,
That thine eyes should see
Atli slain of us;
That thy brother's wounds
Thou shouldst see a-bleeding,
That his bloody hurts
Thine hands should bind.""No man blameth thee, Gunnar,
Thou hast fulfilled death's measure
But naught Atli feareth
All thine ill will;
Life shall he lay down
Later than ye,
And still bear more might
Aloft than thy might."I shall tell thee, Gunnar,
Though well the tale thou knowest,
In what early days
Ye dealt abroad your wrong:
Young was I then,
Worn with no woe,
Good wealth I had
In the house of my brother!"No mind had I
That a man should have me,

Or ever ye Giukings,
Rode into our garth;
There ye sat on your steeds
Three kings of the people—
—Ah! that that faring
Had never befallen!"Then spake Atli
To me apart,
And said that no wealth
He would give unto me,
Neither gold nor lands
If I would not be wedded;
Nay, and no part
Of the wealth apportioned,
Which in my first days
He gave me duly;
Which in my first days
He counted down."Wavered the mind
Within me then,
If to fight I should fall
And the felling of folk,
Bold in byrny
Because of my brother;
A deed of fame
Had that been to all folk,
But to many a man
Sorrow of mind."So I let all sink
Into peace at the last:
More grew I minded
For the mighty treasure,
The red-shining rings
Of Sigmund's son;
For no man's wealth else
Would I take unto me."For myself had I given
To that great king
Who sat amid gold
On the back of Grani;
Nought were his eyen
Like to your eyen,
Nor in any wise
Went his visage with yours;
Though ye might deem you
Due kings of men."One I loved,
One, and none other,
The gold-decked may

Had no doubtful mind;
Thereof shall Atli
Wot full surely,
When he getteth to know
I am gone to the dead."Far be it from me,
Feeble and wavering,
Ever to love
Another's love—
—Yet shall my woe
Be well avenged."Up rose Gunnar,
The great men's leader,
And cast his arms
About the queen's neck
And all went nigh
One after other,
With their whole hearts
Her heart to turn.But then all these
From her neck she thrust,
Of her long journey
No man should let her.Then called he Hogni
To have talk with him:
"Let all folk go
Forth into the hall,
Thine with mine—
—O need sore and mighty!—
To wot if we yet
My wife's parting may stay.
Till with time's wearing
Some hindrance wax."One answer Hogni
Had for all;
"Nay, let hard need
Have rule thereover,
And no man let her
Of her long journey!
Never born again,
May she come back thence."Luckless she came
To the lap of her mother,
Born into the world
For utter woe,
To many a man
For heart-whole mourning."Upraised he turned
From the talk and the trouble,
To where the gem-field
Dealt out goodly treasure;

As she looked and beheld
All the wealth that she had,
And the hungry bondmaids,
And maids of the hall.With no good in her heart
She donned her gold byrny,
Ere she thrust the sword-point
Through the midst of her body:
On the bolster's far side
Sank she adown,
And, smitten with sword,
Still bethought her of redes."Let all come forth
Who are fain the red gold,
Or things less worthy
To win from my hands;
To each one I give
A necklace gilt over,
Wrought hangings and bed-gear
And bright woven weed."All they kept silence,
And thought what to speak,
Then all at once
Answer gave:
"Full enow are death-doomed
Fain are we to live yet,
Maids of the hall
All meet work winning."From her wise heart at last
The linen-clad damsel,
The one of few years
Gave forth the word:
"I will that none driven
By hand or by word,
For our sake should lose
Well-loved life."Thou on the bones of you
Surely shall burn,
Less dear treasure
At your departing
Nor with Menia's Meal[1]
Shall ye come to see me.""Sit thee down, Gunnar,
A word must I say to thee
Of the life's ruin
Of thy lightsome bride—
—Nor shall thy ship
Swim soft and sweetly
For all that I
Lay life adown."Sooner than ye might deem Shall ye make peace with Gudrun,

For the wise woman
Shall lull in the young wife
The hard memory
Of her dead husband."There is a may born
Reared by her mother,
Whiter and brighter
Than is the bright day;
She shall be Swanhild,
She shall be Sunbeam."Thou shalt give Gudrun
Unto a great one,
Noble, well-praised
Of the world's folk;
Not with her goodwill,
Or love shalt thou give her;
Yet will Atli
Come to win her,
My very brother,
Born of Budli.—"Ah! many a memory
Of how ye dealt with me,
How sorely, how evilly
Ye ever beguiled me,
How all pleasure left me
The while my life lasted!—"Fain wilt thou be Oddrun to win,
But thy good liking
Shall Atli let;
But in secret wise
Shall ye win together,
And she shall love thee
As I had loved thee,
If in such wise
Fate had willed it."But with all ill
Shall Atli sting thee,
Into the strait worm-close
Shall he cast thee."But no long space
Shall slip away
Ere Atli too
All life shall lose.
Yea, all his weal
With the life of his sons,
For a dreadful bed
Dights Gudrun for him,
From a heart sore laden,

With the sword's sharp edge."More seemly for Gudrun,
Your very sister,
In death to wend after
Her love first wed;
Had but good rede
To her been given,
Or if her heart
Had been like to my heart.—"Faint my speech groweth—
But for our sake
Ne'er shall she lose
Her life beloved;
The sea shall have her,
High billows bear her
Forth unto Jonakr's
Fair land of his fathers."There shall she bear sons,
Stays of a heritage,
Stays of a heritage,
Jonakr's sons;
And Swanhild shall she
Send from the land,
That may born of her,
The may born of Sigurd."Her shall bite
The rede of Bikki,
Whereas for no good
Wins Jormunrek life;
And so is clean perished
All the kin of Sigurd,
Yea, and more greeting,
And more for Gudrun."And now one prayer
Yet pray I of thee—
The last word of mine
Here in the world—
So broad on the field
Be the burg of the dead
That fair space may be left
For us all to lie down,
All those that died
At Sigurd's death!"Hang round that burg
Fair hangings and shields,
Web by Gauls woven,
And folk of the Gauls:
There burn the Hun King
Lying beside me."But on the other side
Burn by the Hun King

Those who served me
Strewn with treasure;
Two at the head,
And two at the feet,
Two hounds therewith,
And two hawks moreover:
Then is all dealt
With even dealing."Lay there amidst us
The ring-dight metal,
The sharp-edged steel,
That so lay erst;
When we both together
Into one bed went,
And were called by the name
Of man and wife."Never, then, belike
Shall clash behind him
Valhall's bright door
With rings bedight:
And if my fellowship
Followeth after,
In no wretched wise
Then shall we wend."For him shall follow
My five bondmaids,
My eight bondsmen,
No borel folk:
Yea, and my fosterer,
And my father's dower
That Budli of old days
Gave to his dear child."Much have I spoken,
More would I speak,
If the sword would give me
Space for speech;
But my words are waning,
My wounds are swelling—
Naught but truth have I told—
—And now make I ending."

1: "Menia's Meal—" periphrasis for gold.

The Hell-Ride of Brynhild

AFTER the death of Brynhild were made two bales, one for Sigurd, and that was first burned; but Brynhild was burned on the other, and she was in a chariot hung about with goodly hangings.

And so folk say that Brynhild drave in her chariot down along the way to Hell, and passed by an abode where dwelt a certain giantess, and the giantess spake:—

"Nay, with my goodwill
Never goest thou
Through this stone-pillared
Stead of mine!
More seemly for thee
To sit sewing the cloth,
Than to go look on
The love of another.

"What dost thou, going
From the land of the Gauls,
O restless head,
To this mine house?
Golden girl, hast thou not,
If thou listest to hearken,
In sweet wise from thy hands
The blood of men washen?"

BRYNHILD

"Nay, blame me naught,
Bride of the rock-hall,
Though I roved a warring
In the days that were;
The higher of us twain
Shall I ever be holden
When of our kind
Men make account."

THE GIANT-WOMAN

"Thou, O Brynhild,
Budli's daughter,
Wert the worst ever born
Into the world:

For Giuki's children
Death hast thou gotten,
And turned to destruction
Their goodly dwelling."

BRYNHILD

"I shall tell thee
True tale from my chariot,
O thou who naught wottest,
If thou listest to wot;
How for me they have gotten
Those heirs of Giuki,
A loveless life,
A life of lies.

"Hild under helm,
The Hlymdale people,
E'en those who knew me,
Ever would call me.

"The changeful shapes
Of us eight sisters,
The wise king bade
Under oak-tree to bear:
Of twelve winters was I,
If thou listest to wot,
When I sware to the young lord
Oaths of love.

"Thereafter gat I
Mid the folk of the Goths,
For Helmgunnar the old,
Swift journey to Hell,
And gave to Aud's brother
The young, gain and glory;
Whereof overwrath
Waxed Odin with me.

"So he shut me in shield-wall
In Skata grove,
Red shields and white
Close set around me;
And bade him alone

My slumber to brake
Who in no land
Knew how to fear.

"He set round my hall,
Toward the south quarter,
The Bane of all trees
Burning aloft;
And ruled that he only
Thereover should ride
Who should bring me the gold
O'er which Fafnir brooded.

"Then upon Grani rode
The goodly gold-strewer
To where my fosterer
Ruled his fair dwelling.
He who alone there
Was deemed best of all,
The War-lord of the Danes,
Well worthy of men.

"In peace did we sleep
Soft in one bed,
As though he had been Naught but my brother:
There as we lay
Through eight nights wearing,
No hand in love
On each other we laid.

"Yet thence blamed me, Gudrun,
Giuki's daughter,
That I had slept
In the arms of Sigurd;
And then I wotted
As I fain had not wotted,
That they had bewrayed me
In my betrothals.

"Ah! for unrest
All too long
Are men and women
Made alive!

Yet we twain together
Shall wear through the ages,
Sigurd and I—
—Sink adown, O giant-wife!"

Fragments of the Lay of Brynhild

HOGNI SAID

What hath wrought Sigurd
Of any wrong-doing
That the life of the famed one
Thou art fain of taking?

GUNNAR SAID

To me has Sigurd
Sworn many oaths,
Sworn many oaths,
And sworn them lying,
And he bewrayed me
When it behoved him
Of all folk to his troth
To be the most trusty.

HOGNI SAID

Thee hath Brynhild
Unto all bale,
And all hate whetted,
And a work of sorrow;
For she grudges to Gudrun
All goodly life;
And to thee the bliss
Of her very body.

Some the wolf roasted,
Some minced the worm,
Some unto Guttorm

Gave the wolf-meat,
Or ever they might
In their lust for murder
On the high king
Lay deadly hand.

Sigurd lay slain
On the south of the Rhine.
High from the fair tree
Croaked forth the raven,
"Ah, yet shall Atli
On you redden edges,
The old oaths shall weigh
On your souls, O warriors."

Without stood Gudrun,
Giuki's daughter,
And the first word she said
Was even this word:
"Where then is Sigurd,
Lord of the Warfolk,
Since my kin
Come riding the foremost?"

One word Hogni
Had for an answer:
"Our swords have smitten
Sigurd asunder,
And the grey horse hangs drooping
O'er his lord lying dead."

Then quoth Brynhild,
Budli's daughter;
"Good weal shall ye have
Of weapons and lands,
That Sigurd alone
Would surely have ruled
If he had lived
But a little longer.

"Ah, nothing seemly
For Sigurd to rule
Giuki's house
And the folk of the Goths,

When of him five sons
For the slaying of men,
Eager for battle
Should have been begotten!"

Then laughed Brynhild—
Loud rang the whole house—
One laugh only
From out her heart:
"Long shall your bliss be
Of lands and people,
Whereas the famed lord
You have felled to the earth!"

Then spake Gudrun,
Giuki's daughter;
"Much thou speakest,
Many things fearful,
All grame be on Gunnar
The bane of Sigurd!
From a heart full of hate
Shall come heavy vengeance."

Forth sped the even Enow there was drunken,
Full enow was there
Of all soft speech;
And all men got sleep
When to bed they were gotten;
Gunnar only lay waking
Long after all men.

His feet fell he to moving,
Fell to speak to himself
The waster of men,
Still turned in his mind
What on the bough
Those twain would be saying,
The raven and erne,
As they rode their ways homeward.

But Brynhild awoke,
Budli's daughter,
May of the shield-folk,

A little ere morning:
"Thrust ye on, hold ye back,
—Now all harm is wrought,—
To tell of my sorrow,
Or to let all slip by me?"

All kept silence
After her speaking,
None might know
That woman's mind,
Or why she must weep
To tell of the work
That laughing once
Of men she prayed.

BRYNHILD SPAKE

In dreams, O Gunnar,
Grim things fell on me;
Dead-cold the hall was,
And my bed was a-cold,
And thou, lord, wert riding
Reft of all bliss,
Laden with fetters
'Mid the host of thy foemen.

So now all ye,
O House of the Niblungs,
Shall be brought to naught,
O ye oath-breakers!

Think'st thou not, Gunnar,
How that betid,
When ye let the blood run
Both in one footstep?
With ill reward
Hast thou rewarded
His heart so fain
To be the foremost!

As well was seen
When he rode his ways,
That king of all worth,
Unto my wooing;

How the host-destroyer
Held to the vows
Sworn beforetime,
Sworn to the young king.

For his wounding-wand
All wrought with gold,
The king beloved
Laid between us;
Without were its edges
Wrought with fire,
But with venom-drops
Deep dyed within.

Thus this song telleth of the death of Sigurd, and setteth forth how that they slew him without doors; but some say that they slew him within doors, sleeping in his bed. But the Dutch Folk say that they slew him out in the wood: and so sayeth the ancient song of Gudrun, that Sigurd and the sons of Giuki were riding to the Thing whenas he was slain. But all with one accord say that they bewrayed him in their troth with him, and fell on him as he lay unarrayed and unawares.

The Second or Ancient Lay of Gudrun

THIODREK the King was in Atli's house, and had lost there the more part of his men: so there Thiodrek and Gudrun bewailed their troubles one to the other, and she spake and said:—

A may of all mays
My mother reared me
Bright in bower;
Well loved I my brethren,
Until that Giuki
With gold arrayed me,
With gold arrayed me,
And gave me to Sigurd.

Such was my Sigurd,
Among the sons of Giuki
As is the green leek
O'er the low grass waxen,

Or a hart high-limbed
Over hurrying deer,
Or glede-red gold
Over grey silver.

Till me they begrudged,
Those my brethren,
The fate to have him,
Who was first of all men;
Nor might they sleep,
Nor sit a-dooming,
Ere they let slay
My well-loved Sigurd.

Grani ran to the Thing,
There was clatter to hear,
But never came Sigurd
Himself thereunto;
All the saddle-girt beasts
With blood were besprinkled,
As faint with the way
Neath the slayers they went.

Then greeting I went
With Grani to talk,
And with tear-furrowed cheeks
I bade him tell all;
But drooping laid Grani,
His head in the grass,
For the steed well wotted
Of his master's slaying.

A long while I wandered,
Long my mind wavered,
Ere the kings I might ask
Concerning my king.

Then Gunnar hung head,
But Hogni told
Of the cruel slaying
Of my Sigurd:
"On the water's far side
Lies, smitten to death,
The bane of Guttorm

To the wolves given over.

"Go, look on Sigurd,
On the ways that go southward,
There shalt thou hear
The ernes high screaming,
The ravens a-croaking
As their meat they crave for;
Thou shalt hear the wolves howling
Over thine husband."

"How hast thou, Hogni,
The heart to tell me,
Me of joy made empty,
Of such misery?
Thy wretched heart
May the ravens tear
Wide over the world,
With no men mayst thou wend."

One thing Hogni
Had for answer,
Fallen from his high heart,
Full of all trouble:
"More greeting yet,
O Gudrun, for thee,
If my heart the ravens
Should rend asunder!"

Thence I turned
From the talk and the trouble
To go a leasing[1]
What the wolves had left me;
No sigh I made
Nor smote hands together,
Nor did I wail
As other women
When I sat over
My Sigurd slain.

Night methought it,
And the moonless dark,
When I sat in sorrow
Over Sigurd:

Better than all things
I deemed it would be
If they would let me
Cast my life by,
Or burn me up
As they burn the birch-wood.

From the fell I wandered
Five days together,
Until the high hall
Of Half lay before me;
Seven seasons there
I sat with Thora,
The daughter of Hacon,
Up in Denmark.

My heart to gladden
With gold she wrought
Southland halls
And swans of the Dane-folk;
There had we painted
The chiefs a-playing;
Fair our hands wrought
Folk of the kings.

Red shields we did,
Doughty knights of the Huns,
Hosts spear-dight, hosts helm-dight,
All a high king's fellows;
And the ships of Sigmund
From the land swift sailing;
Heads gilt over
And prows fair graven.

On the cloth we broidered
That tide of their battling,
Siggeir and Siggar,
South in Fion.

Then heard Grimhild,
The Queen of Gothland,
How I was abiding,
Weighed down with woe:
And she thrust the cloth from her

And called to her sons,
And oft and eagerly
Asked them thereof,
Who for her son
Would their sister atone,
Who for her lord slain
Would lay down weregild.

Fain was Gunnar
Gold to lay down
All wrongs to atone for,
And Hogni in likewise;
Then she asked who was fain
Of faring straightly,
The steed to saddle
To set forth the wain,
The horse to back,
And the hawk to fly,
To shoot forth the arrow
From out the yew-bow.

Valdarr the Dane-king
Came with Jarisleif
Eymod the third went
Then went Jarizskar;
In kingly wise
In they wended,
The hosts of the Longbeards;
Red cloaks had they,
Byrnies short-cut,
Helms strong hammered,
Girt with glaives,
And hair red-gleaming.

Each would give me
Gifts desired,
Gifts desired,
Speech dear to my heart,
If they might yet,
Despite my sorrow,
Win back my trust,
But in them nought I trusted.

Then brought me Grimhild

A beaker to drink of,
Cold and bitter,
Wrong's memory to quench;
Made great was that drink
With the might of the earth,
With the death-cold sea
And the blood that Son[2] holdeth.

On that horn's face were there
All the kin of letters
Cut aright and reddened,
How should I rede them rightly?
The ling-fish long
Of the land of Hadding,
Wheat-ears unshorn,
And wild thing's inwards.

In that mead were mingled
Many ills together,
Blood of all the wood,
And brown-burnt acorns;
The black dew of the hearth,[3]
And god-doomed dead beasts' inwards,
And the swine's liver sodden,
For wrongs late done that deadens.

Then waned my memory
When that was within me,
Of my lord 'mid the hall
By the iron laid low.
Three kings came Before my knees
Ere she herself
Fell to speech with me.

"I will give to thee, Gudrun,
Gold to be glad with,
All the great wealth
Of thy father gone from us,
Rings of red gold
And the great hall of Lodver,
And all fair hangings left
By the king late fallen.

"Maids of the Huns
Woven pictures to make,
And work fair in gold
Till thou deem'st thyself glad.
Alone shalt thou rule
O'er the riches of Budli,
Shalt be made great with gold,
And be given to Atli."

"Never will I
Wend to a husband,
Or wed the brother
Of Queen Brynhild;
Naught it beseems me
With the son of Budli
Kin to bring forth,
Or to live and be merry."

"Nay, the high chiefs
Reward not with hatred,
For take heed that I
Was the first in this tale!
To thy heart shall it be
As if both these had life,
Sigurd and Sigmund,
When thou hast borne sons."

"Naught may I, Grimhild,
Seek after gladness,
Nor deem aught hopeful
Of any high warrior,
Since wolf and raven
Were friends together,
The greedy, the cruel,
O'er great Sigurd's heart-blood."

"Of all men that can be
For the noblest of kin
This king have I found,
And the foremost of all;
Him shalt thou have Till with eld thou art heavy—
Be thou ever unwed,
If thou wilt naught of him!"

"Nay, nay, bid me not
With thy words long abiding
To take unto me
That balefullest kin;
This king shall bid Gunnar
Be stung to his bane,
And shall cut the heart
From out of Hogni.

"Nor shall I leave life
Ere the keen lord,
The eager in sword-play,
My hand shall make end of."

Grimhild a-weeping
Took up the word then,
When the sore bale she wotted
Awaiting her sons,
And the bane hanging over
Her offspring beloved.

"I will give thee, moreover,
Great lands, many men,
Wineberg and Valberg,
If thou wilt but have them;
Hold them lifelong,
And live happy, O daughter!"

"Then him must I take
From among kingly men,
'Gainst my heart's desire,
From the hands of my kinsfolk;
But no joy I look
To have from that lord:
Scarce may my brother's bane
Be a shield to my sons."

Soon was each warrior
Seen on his horse,
But the Gaulish women
Into wains were gotten;
Then seven days long
O'er a cold land we rode,

And for seven other
Clove we the sea-waves
But with the third seven
O'er dry land we wended.

There the gate-wardens
Of the burg, high and wide,
Unlocked the barriers
Ere the burg-garth we rode to.—

Atli woke me
When meseemed I was Full evil of heart
For my kin dead slain.

"In such wise did the Norns
Wake me or now."—
Fain was he to know
Of this ill foreshowing—
"That methought, O Gudrun,
Giuki's daughter,
That thou setst in my heart
A sword wrought for guile."

"For fires tokening I deem it
That dreaming of iron,
But for pride and for lust
The wrath of fair women
Against some bale
Belike, I shall burn thee
For thy solace and healing
Though hateful thou art."

"In the fair garth methought
Had saplings fallen
E'en such as I would
Should have waxen ever;
Uprooted were these,
And reddened with blood,
And borne to the bench,
And folk bade me eat of them.

"Methought from my hand then Went hawks a-flying

Lacking their meat
To the land of all ill;
Methought that their hearts
Mingled with honey,
Swollen with blood
I ate amid sorrow.

"Lo, next two whelps
From my hands I loosened,
Joyless were both,
And both a-howling;
And now their flesh
Became naught but corpses,
Whereof must I eat
But sore against my will."

"O'er the prey of the fishers
Will folk give doom;
From the bright white fish
The heads will they take;
Within a few nights,
Fey as they are,
A little ere day
Of that draught will they eat."
Ne'er since lay I down,
Ne'er since would I sleep,
Hard of heart, in my bed:—
That deed have I to do.[4]

1: Gleaning.

2: Son was the vessel into which was poured the blood of Quasir, the God of Poetry.

3: This means soot.

4: The whole of this latter part is fragmentary and obscure; there seems wanting to two of the dreams some trivial interpretation by Gudrun, like those given by Hogni to Kostbera in the Saga, of which nature, of course, the interpretation contained in the last stanza but one is, as we have rendered it: another rendering, from the different reading of the earlier edition of Edda (Copenhagen, 1818) would make this refer much more directly to the slaying of her sons by Gudrun.

The Song of Atli

GUDRUN, Giuki's daughter, avenged her brethren, as is told far and wide: first she slew the sons of Atli, and then Atli himself; and she burned the hall thereafter, and all the household with it: and about these matters is this song made:—

In days long gone
Sent Atli to Gunnar
A crafty one riding,
Knefrud men called him;
To Giuki's garth came he,
To the hall of Gunnar,
To the benches gay-dight,
And the gladsome drinking.

There drank the great folk
'Mid the guileful one's silence,
Drank wine in their fair hall:
The Huns' wrath they feared,
When Knefrud cried
In his cold voice,
As he sat on the high seat,
That man of the Southland:

"Atli has sent me
Riding swift on his errands
On the bit-griping steed
Through dark woodways unbeaten,
To bid thee, King Gunnar,
Come to his fair bench
With helm well-adorned,
To the home of King Atli.

"Shields shall ye have there
And spears ashen-shafted,
Helms ruddy with gold,
And hosts of the Huns;
Saddle-gear silver-gilt,
Shirts red as blood,
The hedge of the warwife,

And horses bit-griping.

"And he saith he will give you
Gnitaheath widespread,
And whistling spears
And prows well-gilded,
Mighty wealth
With the stead of Danpi,
And that noble wood
Men name the Murkwood."

Then Gunnar turned head
And spake unto Hogni:
"What rede from thee, high one,
Since such things we hear?
No gold know I
On Gnitaheath,
That we for our parts
Have not portion as great.

"Seven halls we have Fulfilled of swords,
And hilts of gold
Each sword there has;
My horse is the best,
My blade is the keenest;
Fair my bow o'er the bench is,
Gleams my byrny with gold;
Brightest helm, brightest shield,
From Kiar's dwelling ere brought—Better all things I have Than all things of the Huns."

HOGNI SAID

"What mind has our sister
That a ring she hath sent us
In weed of wolves clad?
Bids she not to be wary?
For a wolf's hair I found
The fair ring wreathed about;
Wolf beset shall the way be
If we wend on this errand."

No sons whetted Gunnar,
Nor none of his kin,
Nor learned men nor wise men,
Nor such as were mighty.
Then spake Gunnar
E'en as a king should speak,
Glorious in mead-hall
From great heart and high:

"Rise up now, Fiornir,
Forth down the benches
Let the gold-cups of great ones
Pass in hands of my good-men!
Well shall we drink wine,
Draughts dear to our hearts,
Though the last of all feasts
In our fair house this be!

"For the wolves shall rule
O'er the wealth of the Niblungs,
With the pine-woods' wardens
If Gunnar perish:
And the black-felled bears
With fierce teeth shall bite
For the glee of the dog-kind,
If again comes not Gunnar."

Then good men never shamed,
Greeting aloud,
Led the great king of men
From the garth of his home;
And cried the fair son
Of Hogni the king:
"Fare happy, O Lords, Whereso your hearts lead you!"

Then the bold knights
Let their bit-griping steeds
Wend swift o'er the fells,
Tread the murk-wood unknown,
All the Hunwood was shaking
As the hardy ones fared there;
O'er the green meads they urged
Their steeds shy of the goad.

Then Atli's land saw they;
Great towers and strong,
And the bold men of Bikki,
Aloft on the burg:
The Southland folks' hall
Set with benches about,
Dight with bucklers well bounden,
And bright white shining shields.

There drank Atli,
The awful Hun king,
Wine in his fair hall;
Without were the warders,
Gunnar's folk to have heed of,
Lest they had fared thither
With the whistling spear
War to wake 'gainst the king.

But first came their sister
As they came to the hall,
Both her brethren she met,
With beer little gladdened:
"Bewrayed art thou, Gunnar!
What dost thou great king
To deal war to the Huns?
Go thou swift from the hall!

"Better, brother, hadst thou
Fared here in thy byrny
Than with helm gaily dight
Looked on Atli's great house:
Thou hadst sat then in saddle
Through days bright with the sun
Fight to awaken
And fair fields to redden:

"O'er the folk fate makes pale
Should the Norn's tears have fallen,
The shield-mays of the Huns
Should have known of all sorrow;
And King Atli himself
To worm-close should be brought;
But now is the worm-close Kept but for thee."

Then spake Gunnar
Great 'mid the people:
"Over-late sister
The Niblungs to summon;
A long way to seek
The helping of warriors,
The high lords unshamed,
From the hills of the Rhine!"

Seven Hogni beat down
With his sword sharp-grinded,
And the eighth man he thrust
Amidst of the fire.
Ever so shall famed warrior
Fight with his foemen,
As Hogni fought
For the hand of Gunnar.

But on Gunnar they fell,
And set him in fetters,
And bound hard and fast
That friend of Burgundians;
Then the warrior they asked
If he would buy life,
Buy life with gold
That king of the Goths.

Nobly spake Gunnar,
Great lord of the Niblungs;
"Hogni's bleeding heart first
Shall lie in mine hand,
Cut from the breast
Of the bold-riding lord,
With bitter-sharp knife
From the son of the king."

With guile the great one
Would they beguile,
On the wailing thrall
Laid they hand unwares,
And cut the heart
From out of Hjalli,

Laid it bleeding on trencher
And bare it to Gunnar.

"Here have I the heart
Of Hjalli the trembler,
Little like the heart
Of Hogni the hardy,
As much as it trembleth
Laid on the trencher,
By the half more it trembled
In the breast of him hidden."

Then laughed Hogni
When they cut the heart from him,
From the crest-smith yet quick,
Little thought he to quail
The hard acorn of thought
From the high king they took,
Laid it bleeding on trencher
And bare it Gunnar.

"Here have I the heart
Of Hogni the hardy,
Little like to the heart
Of Hjalli the trembler.
Howso little it quaketh
Laid here on the dish,
Yet far less it quaked
In the breast of him laid.

"So far mayst thou bide
From men's eyen, O Atli,
As from that treasure
Thou shalt abide!

"Behold in my heart
Is hidden for ever
That hoard of the Niblungs,
Now Hogni is dead.
Doubt threw me two ways
While the twain of us lived,
But all that is gone
Now I live on alone.

"The great Rhine shall rule
O'er the hate-raising treasure,
That gold of the Niblungs,
The seed of the gods:
In the weltering water
Shall that wealth lie a-gleaming,
Or it shine on the hands
Of the children of Huns!"

Then cried Atli,
King of the Hun-folk,
"Drive forth your wains now
The slave is fast bounden."
And straightly thence
The bit-shaking steeds
Drew the hoard-warden,
The war-god to his death.

Atli the great king,
Rode upon Glaum,
With shields set round about,
And sharp thorns of battle:
Gudrun, bound by wedlock
To these, victory made gods of,
Held back her tears
As the hall she ran into.

"Let it fare with thee, Atli,
E'en after thine oaths sworn
To Gunnar full often;
Yea, oaths sworn of old time,
By the sun sloping southward,
By the high burg of Sigty,
By the fair bed of rest,
By the red ring of Ull!"

Now a host of men
Cast the high king alive
Into a close
Crept o'er within
With most foul worms,
Fulfilled of all venom,
Ready grave to dig
In his doughty heart.

Wrathful-hearted he smote
The harp with his hand,
Gunnar laid there alone;
And loud rang the strings—
In such wise ever
Should hardy ring-scatterer
Keep gold from all folk
In the garth of his foemen.

Then Atli would wend
About his wide land,
On his steed brazen-shod,
Back from the murder.
Din there was in the garth,
All thronged with the horses;
High the weapon-song rose
From men come from the heath.

Out then went Gudrun,
'Gainst Atli returning,
With a cup gilded over,
To greet the land's ruler;
"Come, then, and take it,
King glad in thine hall,
From Gudrun's hands,
For the hell-farers groan not!"

Clashed the beakers of Atli,
Wine-laden on bench,
As in hall there a-gathered,
The Huns fell a-talking,
And the long-bearded eager ones
Entered therein,
From a murk den new-come,
From the murder of Gunnar.

Then hastened the sweet-faced
Delight of the shield-folk,
Bright in the fair hall,
Wine to bear to them:
The dreadful woman
Gave dainties withal
To the lords pale with fate,

Laid strange word upon Atli:

"The hearts of thy sons
Hast thou eaten, sword-dealer,
All bloody with death
And drenched with honey:
In most heavy mood
Brood o'er venison of men!
Drink rich draughts therewith,
Down the high benches send it!

"Never callest thou now
From henceforth to thy knee
Fair Erp or fair Eitil,
Bright-faced with the drink;
Never seest thou them now
Amidmost the seat,
Scattering the gold,
Or shafting of spears;
Manes trimming duly,
Or driving steeds forth!"

Din arose from the benches,
Dread song of men was there,
Noise 'mid the fair hangings,
As all Hun's children wept;
All saving Gudrun,
Who never gat greeting,
For her brethren bear-hardy,
For her sweet sons and bright,
The young ones, the simple
Once gotten with Atli.

The seed of gold
Sowed the swan-bright woman,
Rings of red gold
She gave to the house carls;
Fate let she wax,
Let the bright gold flow forth,
In naught spared that woman
The store-houses' wealth.

Atli unaware
Was a-weary with drink;

No weapon had he,
No heeding of Gudrun—
Ah, the play would be better,
When in soft wise they twain
Would full often embrace
Before the great lords!

To the bed with sword-point
Blood gave she to drink
With a hand fain of death,
And she let the dogs loose:
Then in from the hall-door—
—Up waked the house-carls—
Hot brands she cast,
Gat revenge for her brethren.

To the flame gave she all
Who therein might be found;
Fell adown the old timbers,
Reeked all treasure-houses;
There the shield-mays were burnt,
Their lives' span brought to naught;
In the fierce fire sank down
All the stead of the Budlungs.

Wide told of is this—
Ne'er sithence in the world,
Thus fared bride clad in byrny
For her brothers' avenging;
For behold, this fair woman
To three kings of the people,
Hath brought very death
Or ever she died!

The Whetting of Gudrun

GUDRUN went down unto the sea whenas she had slain Atli, and she cast herself therein, for she was fain to end her life: but nowise might she drown. She drave over the firths to the land of King Jonakr, and he wedded her, and their sons were Sorli, and Erp, and Hamdir, and there was Swanhild, Sigurd's daughter, nourished: and she was given to Jormunrek the Mighty. Now Bikki was a man of his, and gave such counsel to Randver, the king's son, as that he should take her; and with that counsel were the young folk well content.

Then Bikki told the king, and the king let hang Randver, but bade Swanhild be trodden under horses' feet. But when Gudrun heard thereof, she spake to her sons—

Words of strife heard I,
Huger than any,
Woeful words spoken,
Sprung from all sorrow,
When Gudrun fierce-hearted
With the grimmest of words
Whetted her sons
Unto the slaying.

"Why are ye sitting here?
Why sleep ye life away?
Why doth it grieve you nought?
Glad words to speak,
Now when your sister—
Young of years was she—
Has Jormunrek trodden
With the treading of horses?—
"Black horses and white
In the highway of warriors:
Grey horses that know
The roads of the Goths.—

"Little like are ye grown
To that Gunnar of old days!
Nought are your hearts
As the heart of Hogni!
Well would ye seek
Vengeance to win
If your mood were in aught
As the mood of my brethren,
Or the hardy hearts
Of the Kings of the Huns!"

Then spake Hamdir,
The high-hearted—
"Little didst thou
Praise Hogni's doings,

When Sigurd woke
From out of sleep,
And the blue-white bed-gear
Upon thy bed
Grew red with man's blood—
With the blood of thy mate!

"Too baleful vengeance
Wroughtest thou for thy brethren
Most sore and evil
When thy sons thou slewedst,
Else all we together
On Jormunrek
Had wrought sore vengeance
For that our sister.

"Come, bring forth quickly
The Hun kings' bright gear,
Since thou hast urged us
Unto the sword-Thing!"

Laughing went Gudrun
To the bower of good gear,
Kings' crested helms
From chests she drew,
And wide-wrought byrnies
Bore to her sons:
Then on their horses
Load laid the heroes.

Then spake Hamdir,
The high-hearted—
"Never cometh again
His mother to see
The spear-god laid low
In the land of the Goths.
That one arvel mayst thou
For all of us drink
For sister Swanhild,
And us thy sons."

Greeted Gudrun,
Giuki's daughter;
Sorrowing she went

In the forecourt to sit,
That she might tell,
With cheeks tear-furrowed,
Her weary wail
In many a wise.

"Three fires I knew,
Three hearths I knew,
To three husbands' houses
Have I been carried;
And better than all
Had been Sigurd alone,
He whom my brethren
Brought to his bane.

"Such sore grief as that Methought never should be,
Yet more indeed
Was left for my torment
Then, when the great ones
Gave me to Atli.

"My fair bright boys
I bade unto speech,
Nor yet might I win
Weregild for my bale,
Ere I had hewn off
Those Niblungs' heads.

"To the sea-strand I went
With the Norns sorely wroth,
For I would thrust from me
The storm of their torment;
But the high billows
Would not drown, but bore me
Forth, till I stepped a-land Longer to live.

"Then I went a-bed—
—Ah, better in the old days,
This was the third time!—
To a king of the people;
Offspring I brought forth,
Props of a fair house,

Props of a fair house,
Jonakr's fair sons.

"But around Swanhild
Bond-maidens sat,
Her, that of all mine
Most to my heart was;
Such was my Swanhild,
In my hall's midmost,
As is the sunbeam
Fair to behold.

"In gold I arrayed her,
And goodly raiment,
Or ever I gave her
To the folk of the Goths.
That was the hardest
Of my heavy woes,
When the bright hair,—
O the bright hair of Swanhild!—
In the mire was trodden
By the treading of horses.

"This was the sorest,
When my love, my Sigurd,
Reft of glory
In his bed gat ending:
But this the grimmest
When glittering worms
Tore their way
Through the heart of Gunnar.

"But this the keenest
When they cut to the quick
Of the hardy heart
Of the unfeared Hogni.
Of much of bale I mind me,
Of many griefs I mind me;
Why should I sit abiding
Yet more bale and more?

"Thy coal-black horse,
O Sigurd, bridle,
The swift on the highway!

O let him speed hither!
Here sitteth no longer
Son or daughter,
More good gifts
To give to Gudrun!

"Mindst thou not, Sigurd,
Of the speech betwixt us,
When on one bed
We both sat together,
O my great king—
That thou wouldst come to me
E'en from the hall of Hell,
I to thee from the fair earth?

"Pile high, O earls,
The oaken pile,
Let it be the highest
That ever queen had!
Let the fire burn swift,
My breast with woe laden,
And thaw all my heart,
Hard, heavy with sorrow!"

Now may all earls
Be bettered in mind,
May the grief of all maidens
Ever be minished,
For this tale of sorrow
So told to its ending.

The Lay of Hamdir

GREAT deeds of bale
In the garth began,
At the sad dawning
The tide of Elves' sorrow
When day is a-waxing
And man's grief awaketh,
And the sorrow of each one
The early day quickeneth.

Not now, not now,
Nor yesterday,
But long ago
Has that day worn by,
That ancientest time,
The first time to tell of,
Then, whenas Gudrun,
Born of Giuki,
Whetted her sons
To Swanhild's avenging."Your sister's name
Was naught but Swanhild,
Whom Jormunrek
With horses has trodden!—
White horses and black
On the war-beaten way,
Grey horses that go
On the roads of the Goths."All alone am I now
As in holt is the aspen;
As the fir-tree of boughs,
So of kin am I bare;
As bare of things longed for
As the willow of leaves
When the bough-breaking wind
The warm day endeth."Few, sad, are ye left,
O kings of my folk!
Yet alone living
Last shreds of my kin!"Ah, naught are ye grown
As that Gunnar of old days;
Naught are your hearts
As the heart of Hogni!
Well would ye seek
Vengeance to win
If your hearts were in aught
As the hearts of my brethren!"Then spake Hamdir
The high-hearted:
"Naught hadst thou to praise
The doings of Hogni,
When they woke up Sigurd
From out of slumber,
And in bed thou sat'st up
'Mid the banes-men's laughter."Then when thy bed-gear,
Blue-white, well woven
By art of craftsmen
Ail swam with thy king's blood;

Then Sigurd died,
O'er his dead corpse thou sattest,
Not heeding aught gladsome,
Since Gunnar so willed it."Great grief for Atli
Gatst thou by Erp's murder,
And the end of thine Eitil,
But worse grief for thyself.
Good to use sword
For the slaying of others
In such wise that its edge
Shall not turn on ourselves!"Then well spake Sorli
From a heart full of wisdom:
"No words will I
Make with my mother,
Though both ye twain
Need words belike—
What askest thou, Gudrun,
To let thee go greeting?"Weep for thy brethren,
Weep for thy sweet sons,
And thy nighest kinsfolk
Laid by the fight-side!
Yea, and thou Gudrun,
May'st greet for us twain
Sitting fey on our steeds
Doomed in far lands to die."From the garth forth they went
With hearts full of fury,
Sorli and Hamdir,
The sons of Gudrun,
And they met on the way
The wise in all wiles:
"And thou little Erp,
What helping from thee?"He of alien womb
Spake out in such wise:
"Good help for my kin,
Such as foot gives to foot,
Or flesh-covered hand
Gives unto hand!""What helping for foot
That help that foot giveth,
Or for flesh-covered hand
The helping of hand?"Then spake Erp
Yet once again
Mock spake the prince
As he sat on his steed:
"Fool's deed to show

The way to a dastard!"
"Bold beyond measure,"
Quoth they, "is the base-born!"Out from the sheath
Drew they the sheath-steel,
And the glaives' edges played
For the pleasure of hell;
By the third part they minished
The might that they had,
Their young kin they let lie
A-cold on the earth.Then their fur-cloaks they shook
And bound fast their swords,
In webs goodly woven
Those great ones were clad;
Young they went o'er the fells
Where the dew was new-fallen
Swift, on steeds of the Huns,
Heavy vengeance to wreak.Forth stretched the ways,
And an ill way they found,
Yea, their sister's son [1]
Hanging slain upon tree—
Wolf-trees by the wind made cold
At the town's westward
Loud with crane's clatter—
Ill abiding there long!Din in the king's hall
Of men merry with drink,
And none might hearken
The horses' tramping
Or ever the warders
Their great horn winded.Then men went forth
To Jormunrek
To tell of the heeding
Of men under helm:
"Give ye good counsel!
Great ones are come hither,
For the wrong of men mighty
Was the may to death trodden."Loud Jormunrek laughed,
And laid hand to his beard,
Nor bade bring his byrny,
But with the wine fighting,
Shook his red locks,
On his white shield sat staring,
And in his hand
Swung the gold cup on high."Sweet sight for me
Those twain to set eyes on,

Sorli and Hamdir,
Here in my hall!
Then with bowstrings
Would I bind them,
And hang the good Giukings
Aloft on the gallows!"Then spake Hrothglod
From off the high steps,
Spake the slim-fingered
Unto her son,—
—For a threat was cast forth
Of what ne'er should fall—
"Shall two men alone
Two hundred Gothfolk
Bind or bear down
In the midst of their burg?"Strife and din in the hall,
Cups smitten asunder
Men lay low in blood
From the breasts of Goths flowing.Then spake Hamdir,
The high-hearted:
"Thou cravedst, O king,
For the coming of us,
The sons of one mother,
Amidmost thine hall—
Look on these hands of thine,
Look on these feet of thine,
Cast by us, Jormunrek,
On to the flame!"Then cried aloud
The high Gods' kinsman,[2]
Bold under byrny,— Roared he as bears roar;
"Stones to the stout ones
That the spears bite not,
Nor the edges of steel,
These sons of Jonakr!"

QUOTH SORLI

"Bale, brother, wroughtst thou
By that bag's [3] opening,
Oft from that bag
Rede of bale cometh!
Heart hast thou, Hamdir,
If thou hadst heart's wisdom
Great lack in a man
Who lacks wisdom and lore!"

HAMDIR SAID

"Yea, off were the head
If Erp were alive yet,
Our brother the bold
Whom we slew by the way;
The far-famed through the world.—
Ah, the fates drave me on,
And the man war made holy,
There must I slay!"

SORLI SAID

"Unmeet we should do
As the doings of wolves are,
Raising wrong each 'gainst other
As the dogs of the Norns,
The greedy ones nourished
In waste steads of the world."In strong wise have we fought,
On Goths' corpses we stand,
Beat down by our edges,
E'en as ernes on the bough.
Great fame our might winneth,
Die we now, or to-morrow,—
No man lives till eve
Whom the fates doom at morning."
At the hall's gable-end
Fell Sorli to earth,
But Hamdir lay low
At the back of the houses.

Now this is called the Ancient Lay of Hamdir.

1: Randver, the son of their sister's husband.

2: Odin namely.

3: "Bag," his mouth.

The Lament of Oddrun

THERE was a king hight Heidrik, and his daughter was called Borgny, and the name of her lover was Vilmund. Now she might nowise be made lighter of a child she travailed with, before Oddrun, Atli's sister, came to her,—she who had been the love of Gunnar, Giuki's son. But of their speech together has this been sung:

I have heard tell
In ancient tales
How a may there came
To Morna-land,
Because no man
On mould abiding
For Heidrik's daughter
Might win healing.

All that heard Oddrun,
Atli's sister,
How that the damsel
Had heavy sickness,
So she led from stall
Her bridled steed,
And on the swart one
Laid the saddle.

She made her horse wend
O'er smooth ways of earth,
Until to a high-built
Hall she came;
Then the saddle she had
From the hungry horse,
And her ways wended
In along the wide hall,
And this word first
Spake forth therewith:

"What is most famed,
Afield in Hunland,
Or what may be Blithest in Hunland?"

QUOTH THE HANDMAID

"Here lieth Borgny,
Borne down by trouble,

Thy sweet friend, O Oddrun,
See to her helping!"

ODDRUN SAID

"Who of the lords
Hath laid this grief on her,
Why is the anguish
Of Borgny so weary?"

THE HANDMAID SAID

"He is hight Vilmund,
Friend of hawk-bearers,
He wrapped the damsel
In the warm bed-gear
Five winters long
Without her father's wotting."

No more than this
They spake methinks;
Kind sat she down
By the damsel's knee;
Mightily sang Oddrun,
Eagerly sang Oddrun,
Sharp piercing songs
By Borgny's side:

1: Atli's mother took the form of the only adder that was not lulled to sleep by Gunnar's harp-playing, and who slew him.

Till a maid and a boy
Might tread on the world's ways,
Blithe babes and sweet
Of Hogni's bane:
Then the damsel forewearied
The word took up,
The first word of all
That had won from her:

"So may help thee
All helpful things,

Fey and Freyia,
And all the fair Gods,
As thou hast thrust
This torment from me!"

ODDRUN SAID

"Yet no heart had I
For thy helping,
Since never wert thou
Worthy of helping,
But my word I held to,
That of old was spoken
When the high lords
Dealt out the heritage,
That every soul
I would ever help."

BORGNY SAID

"Right mad art thou, Oddrun,
And reft of thy wits,
Whereas thou speakest
Hard words to me
Thy fellow ever
Upon the earth
As of brothers twain,
We had been born."

ODDRUN SAID

"Well I mind me yet,
What thou saidst that evening,
Whenas I bore forth
Fair drink for Gunnar;
Such a thing, saidst thou,
Should fall out never,
For any may Save for me alone."

Mind had the damsel
Of the weary day

Whenas the high lords
Dealt out the heritage,
And she sat her down,
The sorrowful woman,
To tell of the bale,
And the heavy trouble.

"Nourished was I
In the hall of kings—
Most folk were glad—
'Mid the council of great ones:
In fair life lived I,
And the wealth of my father
For five winters only,
While yet he had life.

"Such were the last words
That ever he spake,
The king forewearied,
Ere his ways he went;
For he bade folk give me
The gold red-gleaming,
And give me in Southlands
To the son of Grimhild.

"But Brynhild he bade
To the helm to betake her,
And said that Death-chooser
She should become;
And that no better
Might ever be born
Into the world,
If fate would not spoil it.

"Brynhild in bower
Sewed at her broidery,
Folk she had
And fair lands about her;
Earth lay a-sleeping,
Slept the heavens aloft
When Fafnir's-bane
The burg first saw.

"Then was war waged

With the Welsh-wrought sword
And the burg all broken
That Brynhild owned;
Nor wore long space,
E'en as well might be,
Ere all those wiles
Full well she knew.

"Hard and dreadful
Was the vengeance she drew down,
So that all we Have woe enow.
Through all lands of the world
Shall that story fare forth
How she did her to death
For the death of Sigurd.

"But therewithal Gunnar
The gold-scatterer
Did I fall to loving
And she should have loved him.
Rings of red gold
Would they give to Atli,
Would give to my brother
Things goodly and great.

"Yea, fifteen steads
Would they give for me,
And the load of Grani
To have as a gift;
But then spake Atli,
That such was his will,
Never gift to take
From the sons of Giuki.

"But we in nowise
Might love withstand,
And mine head must I lay
On my love, the ring-breaker;
And many there were Among my kin,
Who said that they Had seen us together.

"Then Atli said
That I surely never Would fall to crime
Or shameful folly:
But now let no one
For any other,
That shame deny
Where love has dealing.

"For Atli sent
His serving-folk
Wide through the murkwood
Proof to win of me,
And thither they came
Where they ne'er should have come,
Where one bed we twain
Had dight betwixt us.

"To those men had we given
Rings of red gold,
Naught to tell
Thereof to Atli,
But straight they hastened
Home to the house,
And all the tale
To Atli told.

"Whereas from Gudrun
Well they hid it,
Though better by half
Had she have known it.
"Din was there to hear
Of the hoofs gold-shod,
When into the garth
Rode the sons of Giuki.

"There from Hogni
The heart they cut,
But into the worm-close
Cast the other.
There the king, the wise-hearted,
Swept his harp-strings,
For the mighty king
Had ever mind

That I to his helping Soon should come.

"But now was I gone
Yet once again
Unto Geirmund,
Good feast to make;
Yet had I hearing,
E'en out from Hlesey,
How of sore trouble
The harp-strings sang.

"So I bade the bondmaids
Be ready swiftly,
For I listed to save
The life of the king,
And we let our ship
Swim over the sound,
Till Atli's dwelling
We saw all clearly.

"Then came the wretch[1]
Crawling out,
E'en Atli's mother,
All sorrow upon her!
A grave gat her sting
In the heart of Gunnar,
So that no helping
Was left for my hero.

"O gold-clad woman,
Full oft I wonder
How I my life
Still hold thereafter,
For methought I loved
That light in battle,
The swift with the sword,
As my very self.

"Thou hast sat and hearkened
As I have told thee
Of many an ill-fate,
Mine and theirs—
Each man liveth

E'en as he may live—
Now hath gone forth
The greeting of Oddrun."

A Prologue in Verse

O HEARKEN, ye who speak the English Tongue,
How in a waste land ages long ago,
The very heart of the North bloomed into song
After long brooding o'er this tale of woe!
Hearken, and marvel how it might be so,
That such a sweetness so well crowned could be
Betwixt the ice-hills and the cold grey sea.

Or rather marvel not, that those should cling
Unto the thoughts of great lives passed away,
Whom God has stripped so bare of everything,
Save the one longing to wear through their day,
In fearless wise; the hope the Gods to stay,
When at that last tide gathered wrong and hate
Shall meet blind yearning on the Fields of Fate.

Yea, in the first grey dawning of our race,
This ruth-crowned tangle to sad hearts was dear.
Then rose a seeming sun, the lift gave place
Unto a seeming heaven, far off, but clear;
But that passed too, and afternoon is here;
Nor was the morn so fruitful or so long
But we may hearken when ghosts moan of wrong.

For as amid the clatter of the town
When eve comes on with unabated noise,
The soaring wind will sometimes drop adown
And bear unto our chamber the sweet voice
Of bells that 'mid the swallows do rejoice,
Half-heard, to make us sad, so we awhile
With echoed grief life's dull pain may beguile.

Naught vague, naught base our tale, that seems to say,—
'Be wide-eyed, kind; curse not the hand that smites;
Curse not the kindness of a past good day,
Or hope of love; cast by all earth's delights,
For very love: through weary days and nights,
Abide thou, striving howsoe'er in vain,
The inmost love of one more heart to gain!'

So draw ye round and hearken, English Folk,
Unto the best tale pity ever wrought!
Of how from dark to dark bright Sigurd broke,
Of Brynhild's glorious soul with love distraught,
Of Gudrun's weary wandering unto naught,
Of utter love defeated utterly,
Of grief too strong to give Love time to die!

WILLIAM MORRIS.

Contents

- The Editor's Introduction To The Harvard Classics
- Reader's Guide To The Harvard Classics
- Class I
  - A The History Of Civilization
  - B Religion And Philosophy
  - C Education
  - D Science
  - E Politics
  - F Voyages And Travels
  - G Criticism Of Literature And The Fine Arts
- Class II
  - A Drama
  - B Biography And Letters
  - C Essays
  - D Narrative Poetry And Prose Fiction

The Editor's Introduction
To The Harvard Classics

MY PURPOSE in selecting The Harvard Classics was to provide the literary materials from which a careful and persistent reader might gain a fair view of the progress of man observing, recording, inventing, and imagining from the earliest historical times to the close of the nineteenth century. Within the limits of fifty volumes, containing about 22,000 pages, I was to provide the means of obtaining such a knowledge of ancient and modern literature as seems essential to the twentieth century idea of a cultivated man. The best acquisition of a cultivated man is a liberal frame of mind or way of thinking; but there must be added to that possession acquaintance with the prodigious store of recorded discoveries, experiences, and reflections which humanity in its intermittent and irregular progress from barbarism to civilization has acquired and laid up. From that store I proposed to make such a selection as any intellectually ambitious American family might use to advantage, even if their early opportunities of education had been scanty. The purpose of The Harvard Classics is, therefore, one very different from that of the many collections in which the editor's aim has been to select the hundred or the fifty best books in the world; it is nothing less than the purpose to present so ample and characteristic a record of the stream of the world's thought that the observant reader's mind shall be enriched, refined, and fertilized by it. With such objects in view it was essential that the whole series should be in the English language; and this limitation to English necessitated the free use of translations, in spite of the fact that it is impossible to reproduce perfectly in a translation the style and flavor of the original. The reader of this collection must not imagine that he can find in an English translation of Homer, Dante, Cervantes, or Goethe, all the beauty and charm of the original. Nevertheless, translations can yield much genuine cultivation to the student who attends to the substance of the author's thought, although he knows all the time that he is missing some of the elegance and beauty of the original form. Since it is impossible to give in translation the rhythm and sweetness of poetry and particularly of lyric poetry far the larger part of the poetry in The Harvard Classics will be found to be poetry which was written in English.

While with very few exceptions every piece of writing included in the series is complete in itself that is, is a whole book, narrative, document, essay, or poem there are many volumes which are made up of numerous short, though complete, works. Thus, three volumes contain an anthology of English poetry comprising specimens of the work of over two hundred writers. There is also a volume of memorable prefaces, and another of important American historical documents. Five volumes are made up of essays, representing several centuries and several nationalities. The principal subjects embraced in the series are history, biography, philosophy, religion, voyages and travels, natural science, government and politics, education, criticism, the drama, epic and lyric poetry, and prose fiction in short, all the main subdivisions of literature. The principal literatures represented in the collection are those of Greece, Rome, France, Italy, Spain, England, Scotland, Germany, and the United States; but important contributions have been drawn also from Chinese, Hindu, Hebrew, Arabian, Scandinavian, and Irish sources. Since the series is intended primarily for American readers, it contains a somewhat disproportionate amount of English and American literature, and of documents and discussions relating to American history and to the development of American social and political ideas.

Chronologically considered, the series begins with portions of the sacred books of the oldest religions, proceeds with specimens of the literature of Greece and Rome, then makes selections from the literature of the Middle Ages in the Orient, Italy, France, Scandinavia, Ireland, England, Germany, and the Latin Church, includes a considerable representation of the literature of the Renaissance in Italy, France, Germany, England, Scotland, and Spain, and, arriving at modern times, comprehends selections derived from Italy, three centuries of France, two centuries of Germany, three centuries of England, and something more than a century of the United States.

Nothing has been included in the series which does not possess good literary form; but the collection illustrates the variations of literary form and taste from century to century, the wide separation in time of the recurrent climaxes in the various forms of literary expression in both prose and verse, and the immense widening of the range and scope of both letters and science during the seventeenth, eighteenth, and nineteenth centuries.

At the very outset of the work unexpected difficulties arose, some of which, although almost mechanical, proved to be insurmountable. Many famous books were too long to be included in the set, that is, they would have taken a disproportionate number of the fifty volumes. Thus, the English Bible could not be included as a whole, because it was too long; and for the same reason only selections from Shakespeare, and the first part of "Don Quixote," could be included. Many famous and desirable books on history had to be excluded because of their length. The works of living authors were in general excluded, because the verdict of the educated world has not yet been pronounced upon them.

Finally, the whole of nineteenth century fiction, with two exceptions, was excluded; partly because of its great bulk, and partly because it is easily accessible. It proved to be possible, however, to represent by selections complete in themselves the English Bible, Shakespeare, and some other works of the highest order. Some authors whose greatest works were too long to be included in the series could be represented by one or more of their shorter works. It was hard to make up an adequate representation of the scientific thought of the nineteenth century, because much of the most productive scientific thought has not yet been given a literary form. The discoverers' original papers on chemistry, physics, geology, and biology have usually been presented to some scientific society, and have naturally been expressed in technical language, or have been filled with details indispensable from the scientific point of view but not instructive for the public in general.

Although a good part of the reading provided in The Harvard Classics may fairly be called interesting, there are also volumes or portions of volumes which make hard reading, even for a practised student. In the literature of other days some of the topics treated are unfamiliar, and, moreover, the state of mind of the authors is apt to be strange to the present generation. The sentiments and opinions these authors express are frequently not acceptable to present-day readers, who have to be often saying to themselves: "This is not true, or not correct, or not in accordance with our beliefs." It is, however, precisely this encounter with the mental states of other generations which enlarges the outlook and sympathies of the cultivated man, and persuades him of the upward tendency of the human race. The Harvard Classics, as a whole, require close attention and a resolute spirit on the part of the reader. Nevertheless large parts of the collection were undoubtedly composed just to give delight, or to show people how to win rational pleasures. Thus, the real values of almost all the tales, dramas, fiction, and poetry in the series are esthetic, not didactic, values. The interested reader ought to gain from them enjoyment and new power to enjoy.

There is no mode of using The Harvard Classics which can be recommended as the best for all readers. Every student who proposes to master the series must choose his own way through it. Some readers may be inclined to follow the chronological order; but shall they begin with the oldest book and read down through the centuries, or begin with the youngest and read backward? Another method would be to read by subjects, and under each subject chronologically. A good field for this method is the collection of voyages and travels. There is also merit in the chronological order in reading the documents taken from the sacred books of the world. Still another method is that of comparison or of contrast. The collection gives many opportunities of comparing the views of contemporaneous writers on the same subject, and also of contrasting the prevailing opinions in different nations or different social states at the same epoch. In government and politics, for example, the collection supplies much material for comparing the opinions of writers nearly contemporary but of different nationality, and for contrasting the different social states at the same epoch in nations not far apart geographically, but distinct as regards their history, traditions, and habits.

Another way of dealing with the collection would be to read first an essay or a group of essays on related subjects, and then to search through the collection to discover all the material it contains within the field of that essay or group of essays. The essays in the collection are numerous, and deal with a great variety of topics both old and new. Whoever should follow the various leadings of the essays in the collection would ultimately cover far the greater part of the fifty volumes.

The biographies, letters, and prefaces contained in the collection will also afford much good guidance to other material. The student who likes the comparative method will naturally read consecutively all the dramas the collection contains; and it will not make much difference at which chronological end he begins, for some persons find the climax of drama in Shakespeare, but others in the Greek tragedies.

The anthology of English poetry is one of the most important parts of the collection, in respect to its function of providing reading competent to impart liberal culture to a devoted reader; but those volumes should not be read in course, but rather by authors, and a little at a time. The poems of John Milton and Robert Burns are given in full; because the works of these two very unlike poets contain social, religious, and governmental teachings of vital concern for modern democracies. Milton was the great poet of civil and religious liberty, Puritanism, and the English Commonwealth, and Burns was the great poet of democracy. The two together cover the fundamental principles of free government, education, and democratic social structure, and will serve as guides to much good reading on those subjects provided in the collection. The poetry contained in The Harvard Classics from Homer to Tennyson will by itself give any appreciative reader a vivid conception of the permanent, elemental sentiments and passions of mankind, and of the gradually developed ethical means of purifying those sentiments and controlling those passions.

In order to make the best use of The Harvard Classics it will be desirable for the young reader to reread those volumes or passages which he finds most interesting, and to commit to memory many of the pieces of poetry which stir or uplift him. It is a source of exquisite and enduring delight to have one's mind stored with many melodious expressions of high thoughts and beautiful imagery.

I hope that many readers who are obliged to give eight or ten hours a day to the labors through which they earn their livelihood will use The Harvard Classics, and particularly young men and women whose early education was cut short, and who must therefore reach the standing of a cultivated man or woman through the pleasurable devotion of a few minutes a day through many years to the reading of good literature.

The main function of the collection should be to develop and foster in many thousands of people a taste for serious reading of the highest quality, outside of The Harvard Classics as well as within them.

It remains to describe the manner in which The Harvard Classics have been made up. I had more than once stated in public that in my opinion a five-foot shelf would hold books enough to give in the course of years a good substitute for a liberal education in youth to any one who would read them with devotion, even if he could spare but fifteen minutes a day for reading. Rather more than a year ago the firm of P. F. Collier & Son proposed that I undertake to make a selection of fifty volumes, containing from four hundred to four hundred and fifty pages each, which would approximately fill my five-foot shelf, and be well adapted to accomplish the educational object I had in mind.

I was invited to take the entire responsibility of making the selection, and was to be provided with a competent assistant of my own choice. In February, 1909, I accepted the proposal of the publishers, and secured the services of Dr. William A. Neilson, Professor of English in Harvard University, as my assistant. I decided what should be included, and what should be excluded. Professor Neilson wrote all the introductions and notes, made the choice among different editions of the same work, and offered many suggestions concerning available material. It also fell to him to make all the computations needed to decide the question whether a work desired was too long to be included. The most arduous part of his work was the final making up of the composite volumes from available material which had commended itself to us both.

It would have been impossible to perform the task satisfactorily if the treasures of the general library and of the department libraries of Harvard University had not been at our disposal. The range of the topics in the series was so wide, and the number of languages in which the desired books were originally written so great, that the advice of specialists, each in some portion of the field, had frequently to be sought. We obtained much valuable advice of this sort from scholarly friends and neighbors.

We are under obligations to the following Harvard professors and instructors, whose advice we obtained on questions connected with their several specialties:

Crawford Howell Toy, Hancock Professor of Hebrew; George Herbert Palmer, Alford Professor of Natural Religion; William James, Professor of Philosophy; William Morris Davis, SturgisHooper Professor of Geology; Ephraim Emerton, Winn Professor of Ecclesiastical History; Charles Rockwell Lanman, Wales Professor of Sanscrit; Edward Laurens Mark, Hersey Professor of Anatomy; George Foot Moore, Frothingham Professor of the History of Religion; Edward Stevens Sheldon, Professor of Romance, Philology; Horatio Stevens White, Professor of German; Josiah Royce, Professor of the History of Philosophy; Harold Clarence Ernst, Professor of Bacteriology; Herbert Weir Smyth, Eliot Professor of Greek Literature; Frank William Taussig, Henry Lee Professor of Economics; Albert Bushnell Hart, Professor of History; Morris Hicky Morgan, Professor of Classical Philology; Theobald Smith, George Fabyan Professor of Comparative Pathology; Albert Andrew Howard, Pope Professor of Latin; George Lyman Kittredge, Professor of English; Samuel Williston, Weld Professor of Law; Charles Hall Grandgent, Professor of Romance Languages; Hugo Miinsterberg, Professor of Psychology; Leo Wiener, Assistant Professor of Slavic Languages and Literatures; Heinrich Conrad Bierwirth, Assistant Professor of German; Theodore William Richards, Professor of Chemistry; George Pierce Baker, Professor of English; James Haughton Woods, Assistant Professor of Philosophy; Irving Babbitt, Assistant Professor of French; Charles Jesse Bullock, Professor of Economics; Edwin Francis Gay, Professor of Economics; Charles Burton Gulick, Professor of Greek; William Zebina Ripley, Professor of Political Economy; Thomas Nixon Carver, David A. Wells

Professor of Political Economy; William Guild Howard, Assistant Professor of German; Fred Norris Robinson, Professor of English; Charles H. C. Wright, Assistant Professor of French; William Rosenzweig Arnold, Andover Professor of the Hebrew Language and Literature; John Albrecht Walz, Professor of the German Language and Literature; Jeremiah D. M. Ford, Smith Professor of the French and Spanish Languages; Edward Kennard Rand, Professor of Latin; Oliver M. W. Sprague, Assistant Professor of Banking and Finance; Jay Backus Woodworth, Assistant Professor of Geology; George Henry Chase, Assistant Professor of Classical Archaeology; William Scott Ferguson, Assistant Professor of History; Roger Bigelow Merriman, Assistant Professor of History; Ralph Barton Perry, Assistant Professor of Philosophy; Louis Allard, Instructor in French; Harold de Wolf Fuller, Instructor in Comparative Literature; Lawrence Joseph Henderson, Assistant Professor of Biological Chemistry; F. W. C. Hersey, Instructor in English; F. W. C. Lieder, Instructor in German; C. R. Post, Instructor in Romance Languages; R. W. Pettengill, Instructor in German; H. W. L. Dana, Assistant in English.

Many other scholars answered specific questions which we laid before them, among whom should be mentioned:

Jefferson Butler Fletcher, Professor of Comparative Literature, Columbia University; A. A. Young, Professor of Economics, Leland Stanford Jr. University; G. R. Noyes, Assistant Professor of Slavic, University of California; Lucien Foulet, Professor of French, University of California; Francis B. Gummere, Professor of English, Haverford College; Curtis Hidden Page, Professor of English Literature, Northwestern University; William Draper Lewis, Dean of the Law Department, University of Pennsylvania; James Ford Rhodes, LL.D. (Harvard), Historian; Henry Pickering Walcott, Chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Health; William Belmont Parker, New York; John A. Lester, Ph.D., the Hill School, Pennsylvania; Alfred Dwight Sheffield, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

The staff of the Harvard Library have also given valuable assistance.

In illustrating the volumes with portraits and facsimiles the publishers are under great obligations to the following owners of valuable prints, manuscripts, and autograph letters, who kindly permitted the publishers to use precious objects from their collections:

J. Pierpont Morgan, Esq.; R. H. Dana, Esq.; Wymberley Jones De Renne, Esq.; Harvard University Library; New York Public Library; Boston Public Library; Library of Congress; Library of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; Fogg Art Museum of Harvard University.

The elaborate alphabetical index is intended to give any person who knows the art of using indexes or concordances, or will acquire k in this instance, immediate access to any author or any subject mentioned in the entire collection, and indeed to any passage in the fifty volumes to which the inquirer has a good clue. This full index should make The Harvard Classics convenient books of reference.

March 10, 1910

Charles W. Eliot

The Editor's Second Introduction

IN seven years The Harvard Classics have demonstrated their fitness for the special work they were intended to do. They were to provide from famous literature, ancient and modern, an ample record of "the stream of the world's thought"; so that a careful reader of the collection might in the course of years attain the standing of a cultivated man or woman, making up through this long course of reading any deficiencies which might have existed in the early education of the reader. I hoped, too, that in spite of the serious character of the entire collection, an interested and patient reader would gain from the collection much enjoyment and a new power to enjoy.

The experience of seven years has proved that the sale of The Harvard Classics has been large and, on the whole, increasing in amount.

Most owners of the set select occasional reading matter from it; but some have read the fifty volumes through, and a few have read the entire set through twice. I have been surprised to see how often I turn to the collection to enjoy pieces of permanent literature, in contrast with the mass of ephemeral reading matter which I am obliged to go through. Many people might use it in this way to advantage. It has also turned out that the collection, through its excellent index, has value as a book of reference for the general reader, and can be especially helpful to teachers, journalists, and authors.

In the original fifty volumes, for reasons which have turned out not to be of permanent effect, fiction in the modern sense was only slightly represented. To-day a supplement of twenty volumes of modern fiction The Harvard Classics Shelf of Fiction provides an ample representation of that new force in the world which the modern historical romance,, the novel, and the short story exert. With this supplement The Harvard Classics may fairly be said to provide a permanent record in high literary form of the powers and achievements of "man thinking" down to the end of the nineteenth century, sufficiently comprehensive to illustrate well the chief powers and achievements of the race.

The last half of the nineteenth century and the opening of the twentieth show a strong tendency to discard the study of the Greek and Latin languages as an indispensable part of American secondary and higher education. This study is to be replaced in part by the study of modern languages, which have many uses in the literary, scientific, and business life of to-day. It is the confident belief of the educational reformers that young people brought up in this new way need not lose the substantial values of ancient thought; because they can get them through translations. The Harvard Classics contain six and a half volumes of choice material for this purpose. The collection contains also three volumes and two half volumes of famous writings belonging to the Middle Ages, writings, which can only be made known to the present generations through translations. The reader who makes himself familiar with these ten volumes and a half, with the Confessions of St. Augustine, and with the two volumes of Sacred Writings, may feel sure that he has followed the course of the best thinking of mankind down to the Italian Renaissance.

From these volumes, the thorough reader may learn valuable lessons in comparative literature. He can see how various the contributions of the different languages and epochs have been; and he will inevitably come to the conclusion that striking national differences in this respect ought in the interest of mankind to be perpetuated and developed, and not obliterated, averaged, or harrowed down. The comparative method has in the study of literature a value similar to that it has recently exhibited in the study of art, government, science, and religion.

One may hope that the collection will endure for some decades to come, not only as a monument or milestone, but also as an active force toward the sound mental equipment of American reading people, both the young and the mature.

February 1, 1917

Charles W. Eliot

List Of Volume Numbers

As Designated In The Following Indexes

Volume I Benjamin Franklin, John Woolman, William Penn

Volume II Plato, Epictetus, Marcus Aurelius

Volume III Bacon, Milton's Prose, Thomas Browne

Volume IV Complete Poems in English, Milton

Volume V Essays and English Traits, Emerson

Volume VI Poems and Songs, Burns

Volume VII The Confessions of St. Augustine, The Imitation of Christ

Volume VIII Nine Greek Dramas

Volume IX Letters and Treatises of Cicero and Pliny

Volume X Wealth of Nations, Adam Smith

Volume XI Origin of Species, Darwin

Volume XII Plutarch's Lives

Volume XIII Aeneid, Virgil

Volume XIV Don Quixote, Part I, Cervantes

Volume XV Pilgrim's Progress, Donne and Herbert, Walton

Volume XVI The Thousand and One Nights

Volume XVII Folk-Lore and Fable, ˆEsop, Grimm, Andersen

Volume XVIII Modern English Drama

Volume XIX Faust, Egmont, etc., Goethe, Doctor Faustus, Marlowe

Volume XX The Divine Comedy, Dante

Volume XXI I Promessi Sposi, Manzoni

Volume XXII The Odyssey, Homer

Volume XXIII Two Years Before the Mast, Dana

Volume XXIV On the Sublime, French Revolution, etc., Burke

Volume XXV J. S. Mill and Thomas Carlyle

Volume XXVI Continental Drama

Volume XXVII English Essays, Sidney to Macaulay

Volume XXVIII Essays, English and American

Volume XXIX Voyage of the Beagle, Darwin

Volume XXX Faraday, Helmholtz, Kelvin, Newcomb, etc.

Volume XXXI Autobiography, Cellini

Volume XXXII Montaigne, Sainte-Beuve, Renan, etc.

Volume XXXIII Voyages and Travels

Volume XXXIV Descartes, Voltaire, Rousseau, Hobbes

Volume XXXV Froissart, Malory, Holinshed

Volume XXXVI Machiavelli, More, Luther

Volume XXXVII Locke, Berkeley, Hume

Volume XXXVIII Harvey, Jenner, Lister, Pasteur

Volume XXXIX Famous Prefaces

Volume XL English Poetry, 1

Volume XLI English Poetry, 2

Volume XLII English Poetry, 3

Volume XLIII American Historical Documents

Volume XLIV Sacred Writings, 1

Volume XLV Sacred Writings, 2

Volume XLVI Elizabethan Drama, 1

Volume XLVII Elizabethan Drama, 2

Volume XLVIII Thoughts and Minor Works, Pascal

Volume XLIX Epic and Saga

Volume L Introduction, Reader's Guide, Indexes

Reader's Guide

Reader's Guide To The Harvard Classics

The following lists have been prepared in order to enable the reader more easily to choose and arrange for himself such courses of study as have been suggested in the Introduction. They fall into two classes, the first being selected with respect to subject-matter, as History, Philosophy, or Science; the second with respect to literary form, as the Drama or Essay. Within each group the arrangement is in general chronological, but this has been occasionally departed from when it seemed wise to introduce national or geographical cross-divisions. While most of the volumes can be most profitably read in some chronological or other sequence, many others, such as the collections of English Poetry and of Essays, are equally suited for more desultory browsing.

These lists are not intended to relieve the reader from the use of the General Index, which has purposely been made so ample that it is possible by its intelligent use to track almost any line of interest through the entire set of volumes.

CLASS I

A

The History Of Civilization

THE following list is by no means confined to works regarded by their authors as history, but includes letters, dramas, novels, and the like, which, by virtue of their character, period, or scene, throw light upon social and intellectual conditions, enriching and making vivid the picture of human progress which is outlined in the more strictly historical narratives.

Professor Freeman's essay, which is suggested as a general introduction to this division, deals in a highly illuminating fashion with the much misunderstood term, "Race"; and by definition and illustration brings out the elements according to which the historian and the anthropologist determine the relationships among the families of mankind.

The oldest civilization with which the ordinary reader has any acquaintance is that of Egypt, and his knowledge of this is usually confined to the dealings of the Egyptians with the Israelites, as narrated in the first books of the Old Testament. The account of Egypt by Herodotus gives a picture of this people from the point of view of a Greek, and is made entertaining by the skill of one of the best story-tellers in the world. A glimpse of life in the days of the patriarchs, in the countries surrounding Palestine, is given in the narrative portions of "The Book of Job," where Job himself is concerned as a powerful and wealthy sheik.

With Homer we come to the civilization which, more than any other, has affected the culture of modern Europe. The wanderings of Odysseus in the "Odyssey" and the account of the fall of Troy in the "yEneid" contain, of course, a large mythical element; but they leave, nevertheless, a vivid picture which must represent with much essential truth the way of life of the Greeks before the historic period. The two poems by Tennyson named here were suggested by the "Odyssey," and express with remarkable power and beauty the modern poet's conception of the Greek hero's character, and the mood of reaction from the life of effort and suffering. The pieces by Wordsworth and Landor are modern retellings of stories from the same treasure-house from which the Greek tragedians drew the plots of those great dramas which, with the dialogues of Plato, represent the height of intellectual achievement in the ancient world. The five Greek lives by Plutarch give portraits of a group of the most distinguished men of affairs in the same period.

Plutarch again, in his "Lives" of famous Romans, brings before us several of the greatest figures of Republican Rome. His main interest was in personality; but incidentally he gives much information as to the political history of this period. For the years immediately preceding the end of the Republic, the "Letters" of Cicero give a detailed picture of Roman politics from the inside. In spite of the frequent allusions to events and persons now known only to the scholar, the general reader may easily find interest in the similarities between the political methods of antiquity and those of our own day. Dryden's "All for Love" is a thorough making-over of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," which in turn is based on Plutarch's "Life of Antony." It is interesting, not only as an excellent example of Dryden's work as a dramatist, but as affording, along with Shakespeare's tragedy, a suggestive study of two of the most picturesque figures of ancient times. From the Alexandrian scenes one can gain an impression of the luxury that was beginning to sap the foundations of the old Roman virtue.

Pliny's "Letters" picture the life of a cultivated Roman under the Empire. Among them, special interest attaches to that giving a graphic account of the eruption of Vesuvius which destroyed Pompeii, and in which the elder Pliny perished, and to those in which Pliny as proconsul consults with the Emperor Trajan about the policy of persecuting the early Christians. The story of the "ˆEneid" does not deal with this period; but its patriotic purpose makes it important in judging the spirit of the times. Tennyson's tribute to Virgil is a superb appreciation of the literary quality of the Roman writer, with whom the Englishman had many points of kinship. In the writings of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius and the slave Epictetus, the moral philosophy of paganism reaches its highest level.

The condition of our Teutonic ancestors during the period of Roman supremacy is admirably described by the historian Tacitus in 'his account of Germany. The description is external, but wellinformed, and is the work of an acute and highly trained observer of society and politics. More intimate are the poems that have come down from the early period of Germanic culture, represented here by the Old English "Beowulf," and the Icelandic "Song of the Volsungs." These stories deal with incidents and personages whose historic bases belong to continental Europe, though the earliest extant literary poems of both happen to be insular. "Beowulf" is the more circumstantial as a picture of life and manners; the Volsung story in its various versions, through the "Nibelungenlied" down to Wagner's operas, has made a more profound appeal to the imagination. The splendid though grotesque specimen of Irish sagawriting given in "The Destruction of Da Derga's Hostel" belongs to nearly the same period. In the case of all three, the material represents a stage of culture considerably earlier than the date of writing, and still essentially pagan.

The books from the New Testament are selected to give the story of the founding of Christianity; St. Augustine's "Confessions" exhibit the development, after a few centuries, of Christian doctrine, Christian standards of conduct, and Christian ways of thinking; while the Hymns of the Early Church, East and West, represent the lyrical expression of the devotional feeling of the young religion.

While Christianity was gradually overcoming the paganism of Europe, Mohammed appeared in Arabia; and from the chapters of the "Koran," which he claimed to have received by inspiration, we can form an idea of the teaching which, with the aid of the sword, so rapidly conquered the East. "The Arabian Nights" are Mohammedan in background, the multiplicity of angels and genii which the Prophet admitted into his system playing a large part in the mechanism of the tales. The representation of the social life of the East is, however, more important than the religious element in these. Omar Khayyam is the free-thinking philosopher in a Mohammedan society, and his quatrains are given here in the free paraphrase of Fitzgerald, a work which ranks higher as an original poem than as an exact translation.

The Middle Ages denotes a period with somewhat vague boundaries; and some of the books already touched on might well be placed within it. Here it includes representative literary products of Western Europe from the time of Charlemagne to the middle of the fifteenth century. "The Song of Roland" begins, on a slight historical foundation, the great structure of French epic, and is itself a simple and vigorous celebration of heroic loyalty. In the passages from the Norse "Saga of Eric the Red" which describes the discovery of America by Icelanders about 1000 A. D., we get a glimpse of the hardy life of the Vikings. In "The Divine Comedy" Dante summed up the essential characteristics of the spiritual and intellectual life of the Middle Ages, and by his emotional intensity and the extraordinary distinctness of his imaginative vision gave his result an artistic preeminence that makes it the supreme creation of the epoch.

The pageantry and pomp of the military and court life of this age are seen at their best in the pages of Froissart; and in Marlowe's "Edward the Second" a dramatic genius of the next period interprets a typical tragedy of the medieval contest between king and nobles. Drayton, Marlowe's contemporary, celebrates, in one of our greatest war-songs, the victory of Agincourt. In contrast with these pictures of the more exciting sides of medieval life is the exquisite series of portraits of typical English men and women which give Chaucer's "Prologue" its unique place among the works, literary and historical, of the time.

Malory, Tennyson, and Morris deal with parts of the great Arthurian legend, the most wide-spread and characteristic of the themes which entranced the imagination of the Middle Ages, and one which continues to attract the modern writer. Romantic in tone, historical in incident, Rossetti's poem on the death of James I. of Scots is one of the most successful modern attempts to render a medieval theme in ballad form; yet its essential literary quality will be apparent at once when it is compared with the popular tone of the genuine traditional ballads.

Our list of the productions of the Renaissance naturally begins with Italy, the country in which the great revival of interest in pagan antiquity first showed itself, and from which came in large measure the impulse to throw off the traditional bonds that had fettered the human spirit in the Middle Ages, and to seek a fuller scope for individual development. Machiavelli and Cellini represent respectively the political and the artistic sides of the Italy of this period; and the impression to be derived from them may be made more distinct by Browning's pictures of the scholar, the painter, and the worldly ecclesiastic, and by Webster's and Shelley's dramas, with their lurid light on the passion and crime which reigned in much of the courtly life of the time. A pleasing contrast is afforded by Roper's Life of the saintly Sir Thomas More, and by More's own "Utopia," with its vision of a perfect society. Later in the sixteenth century came the struggle of Spain to subjugate the Netherlands, an incident of which forms the plot of Goethe's "Egmont." Sir Walter Raleigh, compiling in his prison his vast "History of the World," prefixed to it a long preface which gives us a most interesting conception of the attitude of an Englishman who had lived and thought not only upon the history of past times, but upon the whole problem of man's relation to God and the universe. About the same time, in Spain, the great novelist, Cervantes, was showing in his masterpiece how quickly the world was passing from under the domination of the chivalrous ideals of the previous age.

So far we have been enumerating documents representative of the secular Renaissance. But a religious revolution had also taken place, and in the works of Luther, of Calvin, and of Knox, we have a statement in the words of the leaders themselves of the fundamental principles of the Protestant Reformation.

In Science also a new beginning had been made. In the "Journeys" of Ambroise Pare we have, incidentally, a picture of the armies of the sixteenth century in the field, and also, of more importance to posterity, the beginnings of a new and more humane surgery. Copernicus introduced his revolutionary theory by which the sun took the place of the earth as the center of our system, and Columbus, Vespucci, and the great English navigators opened up the Western world and circumnavigated the globe.

In England itself this exploration of the West brought on the conflict with Spain celebrated with fiery patriotism in the poems by Dray ton, Macaulay, and Tennyson. How Englishmen lived at home is told in intimate detail in Harrison's "Description," and more dramatically represented by Dekker, Jonson, and Beaumont; while in Keats's lines we have a later poet harking back to those literary triumphs which are perhaps the most permanent of the achievements of the "spacious times of great Elizabeth."

In the seventeenth century we find ourselves in what may be regarded as modern times, though the picture of the plague in Manzoni's great novel still suggests a period far remote from modern science. In the "Areopagitica," however, Milton is arguing for that freedom of the press which is a very living question in many modern states; and in the poems of Marvell and Scott we have echoes of the struggle for constitutional liberty through which modern Britain came into existence. Voltaire's "Letters" reflect not only the impressions derived by an acute Frenchman from a visit to England, but describe many important phases of the life and thought of the eighteenth century. Burke's "Reflections" recall the excesses through which some of the things which Voltaire envied the English were achieved by France; and Goethe in his exquisite idyl, "Hermann and Dorothea," lets us hear the echoes of the great Revolution in the quiet life of a German village. In Byron's famous lyric we have a lament over the spirit of liberty not yet reawakened in Greece. Throughout all these later pieces there appear, more or less distinctly, evidences of the gradual spread over the world of the struggle for freedom and equality.

Of this struggle in America the records collected in the "American Historical Documents" and the other works here enumerated need no interpretation.

RACE AND LANGUAGE:

Edward Augustus Freeman	Vol. 28

ANCIENT EGYPT:

Herodotus, Egypt	Vol. 33

THE EAST IN PATRIARCHAL TIMES:

The Book of Job	Vol. 44

ANCIENT GREECE: Legendary

Homer, the Odyssey	Vol. 22
Dramas of AEschylus	Vol. 8
Sophocles	Vol. 8
Euripides	Vol. 8
Fall of Troy, Virgil's AEneid, Book II	Vol. 13
Tennyson, Ulysses	Vol. 42
The Lotos-Eaters	Vol. 42
Landor, Death of Artemidora	Vol. 41
Iphigeneia	Vol. 41
Wordsworth, Laodamia	Vol. 41

ANCIENT GREECE: Historic

Plato, The Apology of Socrates	Vol. 2
Plutarch, Life of Pericles	Vol. 12
Life of Themistocles	Vol. 12
Life of Aristides	Vol. 12
Life of Alcibiades	Vol. 12
Life of Demosthenes	Vol. 12

ANCIENT ROME: Republican

Plutarch, Life of Coriolanus	Vol. 12
Life of Cicero	Vol. 12
Cicero, Treatises and Letters	Vol. 9
Plutarch, Life of Caesar	Vol. 12
Life of Antony	Vol. 12
Dryden, All for Love	Vol. 18

ANCIENT ROME: Imperial

Pliny the Younger, Letters	Vol. 9
Virgil, AEneid	Vol. 13
Tennyson, To Virgil	Vol. 42
Marcus Aurelius, Meditations	Vol. 2
Epictetus, Golden Thoughts	Vol. 2

GERMANIC PEOPLES IN PRIMITIVE TIMES:

Tacitus, Germany	Vol. 33
Song of the Volsungs	Vol. 49
Beowulf	Vol. 49

IRELAND IN PRIMITIVE TIMES:

Destruction of Da Derga's Hostel	Vol. 49

THE EARLY CHRISTIAN CHURCH:

The Gospel according to Luke	Vol. 44
The Acts of the Apostles	Vol. 44
The Epistles to the Corinthians	Vol. 45
St. Augustine, Confessions	Vol. 7
Hymns of the Greek Church	Vol. 45
Hymns of the Latin Church	Vol. 45

THE MAHOMMEDAN EAST:

Koran	Vol. 45
The Arabian Nights	Vol. 6
Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam	Vol. 41

THE MIDDLE AGES:

The Song of Roland	Vol. 49
Voyages to Vinland	Vol. 43
Dante, The Divine Comedy	Vol. 20
Marlowe, Edward the Second	Vol. 46

Froissart, Chronicles	Vol. 35
Chaucer, Prologue to Canterbury Tales	Vol. 40
Drayton, Agincourt	Vol. 40
Malory, The Holy Grail	Vol. 35
Tennyson, Morte d'Arthur	Vol. 42
Galahad	Vol. 42
William Morris, Defence of Guenevere	Vol. 42
Rossetti, The King's Tragedy	Vol. 42
A Gest of Robyn Hode	Vol. 40
Traditional Ballads, especially	Vol. 40
The Battle of Otterburn	Vol. 40
Chevy Chase	Vol. 40
Johnie Armstrong	Vol. 40
Kinmont Willie	Vol. 40

THE RENAISSANCE:

Machiavelli, The Prince	Vol. 36
Macaulay, Machiavelli	Vol. 27
Benvenuto Cellini, Autobiography	Vol. 31
Browning, A Grammarian's Funeral	Vol. 42
Andrea del Sarto	Vol. 42
The Bishop Orders his Tomb	Vol. 42
Webster, The Duchess of Malfi	Vol. 47
Shelley, The Cenci	Vol. 18
Sir Thomas More, Utopia	Vol. 36
Roper, Life of Sir T. More	Vol. 36
Goethe, Egmont	Vol. 19
Raleigh, Preface to History of the World	Vol. 39
Cervantes, Don Quixote	Vol. 14
Luther, Ninety-five Theses	Vol. 36
Address to the German Nobility	Vol. 36
Concerning Christian Liberty	Vol. 36
Calvin, Dedication of the Institutes	Vol. 39
Knox, Preface to History of the Reformation in Scotland	Vol. 39
Pare, Journeys in Diverse Places	Vol. 38
Copernicus, Dedication of Revolutions of Heavenly Bodies	Vol. 39
Columbus, Letter Announcing Discovery of America	Vol. 43
Amerigo Vespucci, Account of his	Vol. 43

First Voyage

Cabot, Discovery of North America	Vol. 43
Sir H. Gilbert's Voyage to Newfoundland	Vol. 33
Sir Francis Drake Revived	Vol. 33
Drake's Famous Voyage Round the World	Vol. 33
Drake's Great Armada	Vol. 33
Raleigh, Discovery of Guiana	Vol. 33
Drayton, To the Virginian Voyage	Vol. 40
Macaulay, The Armada	Vol. 41
Tennyson, The Revenge	Vol. 42
Harrison, Elizabethan England	Vol. 35
Dekker, The Shoemaker's Holiday	Vol. 47
Jonson, The Alchemist	Vol. 47
Beaumont, Letter to Ben Jonson	Vol. 40
Keats, The Mermaid Tavern	Vol. 41

MODERN EUROPE:

Manzoni, I Promessi Sposi	Vol. 21
Milton, Areopagitica	Vol. 3
Marvell, Horatian Ode upon Cromwell's Return	Vol. 40
Scott, Here's a Health to King Charles	Vol. 41
Bonny Dundee	Vol. 41
Voltaire, Letters on the English	Vol. 34
Burke, Reflections on the French Revolution	Vol. 24
Goethe, Hermann and Dorothea	Vol. 19
Byron, The Isles of Greece	Vol. 41

(For the history of recent European thought, see under headings, "Science," "Religion and Philosophy," "Politics," "Education," and the various literary types.)

AMERICA:

First Charter of Virginia	Vol. 43
And the later items in volume of American Historical Documents	Vol. 43
Franklin, Autobiography	Vol. 1
John Woolman, Journal	Vol. 1
Dana, Two Years before the Mast	Vol. 23
Bryant, The Death of Lincoln	Vol. 42
Emerson, Concord Hymn	Vol. 42
Boston Hymn	Vol. 42

Longfellow, Evangeline	Vol. 42
Paul Revere's Ride	Vol. 42
Whittier, Randolph of Roanoke	Vol. 42
Massachusetts to Virginia	Vol. 42
Barbara Frietchie	Vol. 42
Holmes, Old Ironsides	Vol. 42
Lowell, The Present Crisis	Vol. 42
Ode Recited at Harvard Commemoration	Vol. 42
Abraham Lincoln	Vol. 28
Whitman, War Poems	Vol. 42
Pioneers	Vol. 42
Poems on Death of Lincoln	Vol. 42

B

RELIGION AND PHILOSOPHY

IN THIS division are represented the sacred writings of the chief religions of the world, and characteristic works of the most important philosophers, so far as these can be expected to be intelligible to readers without technical training in philosophy. Here, as elsewhere in The Harvard Classics, the interest and profit of the reader have been preferred to formal completeness; yet it has been possible to bring together a selection of the attempts of thinkers to solve the problems of life for twenty-five centuries, with surprisingly few important omissions.

In Class I, A, of the Reader's Guide we noted the historical interest of the narrative setting of "The Book of Job." The speeches themselves show the Hebrew mind wrestling with the problem of reconciling the justice of God with the misfortunes of the righteous. "Ecclesiastes" consists mainly of a collection of pungent and, for the most part, pessimistic comments on life, interspersed with passages of a more inspiring nature, which may be due to a different author. Both books are marvels of literary beauty. "The Psalms" gave utterance to the religious emotions of the people of Israel through many generations, and have appealed to the devout of races and periods far beyond the limits of their origin.

Plato is at once a philosopher and a great man of letters; and the three dialogues given here not only present some of the main ideas about conduct and the future world which he received from Socrates or developed himself, but also draw a distinct and attractive portrait of his master during the closing scenes of his life. The plays of the Greek tragedians, though ostensibly dramatic entertainments, deal profoundly and impressively with some of the vital questions of religion, as these presented themselves to the Greek mind.

In Marcus Aurelius and Epictetus we have the loftiest expression of the Stoic doctrine in its application to the conduct of life; and in the treatises of Cicero the working philosophy of a great lawyer and politician.

The "Sayings" of Confucius, like these Roman writings, are ethical rather than religious; and while to the Western mind they appear curiously concerned with ceremonial, they still appeal to us through their note of aspiration toward a lofty and disinterested scheme of life. Equally remote in their religious and philosophical background are the examples of Hindu and Buddhist teaching, but here again there is much that is inspiring in the moral ideals.

In the previous section, "The Gospel of Luke," "The Acts of the Apostles," and "The Epistles to the Corinthians" were regarded as giving the history of the founding of the Christian Church. Here they should be read as giving a statement of its principles as laid down by its Founder and His immediate followers. Its development after four centuries is shown in the "Confessions" of one of the greatest of the Fathers; and the height of medieval devoutness is beautifully exhibited in "The Imitation of Christ," ascribed to Thomas a Kempis, one of ithe most widely circulated books in the history of literature. The Hymns of the Early Churches bring out those features of Christian belief which obtained prominence in public worship.

Mohammedanism, with its curious borrowings from Hebrew and Christian scripture and tradition, is more interesting as the religion of many millions of people than as a source of spiritual inspiration. An interesting comparison may be made between Omar Khayyam in his relation to Mohammedanism and the author of "Ecclesiastes" in his relation to Judaism.

With the Reformation opens a new chapter in the history of religion, and the figures of Luther, Calvin, and Knox appropriately represent militant Protestantism in Germany, Switzerland, and Scotland. Raleigh is a Protestant layman, a man of action rather than a theologian or philosopher, yet his "Preface" is a remarkably enlightening presentation of the attitude of a detached thinker at the beginning of the seventeenth century. His poems, with those of Southwell, Habington, Rowlands, Herbert, Donne, Quarles, Vaughan, Crashaw, Drummond, Wotton, Watts, Addison, and Christopher Smart, and the collection of modern hymns, still further express, with varieties of emphasis and shade of opinion, the more popular aspects of modern Christianity. In Walton's "Lives" of George Herbert and John Donne, Christian ideals are exhibited in the history of two men of strongly marked character and lofty spirituality. Sir Thomas Browne was a member of the Church of England and a physician, and the splendid prose of his "Religio Medici" conveys a quaint mixture of orthodoxy and independent thought. "The Pilgrim's Progress" is the great popular presentation of Puritan theology in imaginative form; and this theology is again the background of the great religious lyrics and epics of John Milton.

Roman Catholic thought on religion and life is brilliantly represented in .the writings of Pascal, one of the most acute minds and most intensely religious spirits of his age. The "Thoughts," collected and arranged after his death, suffer from lack of sequence; but their fragmentary nature cannot disguise from the careful reader the astounding keenness of the intellect behind them.

In the "Fruits of Solitude" of William Penn, and in John Woolman's "Journal," we have a representation of the views and ideals of the Quakers, who contributed so important a stream of spiritual influence to the Colonial life of America.

Modern philosophy is often said to begin with Bacon, and, though the fresh attack upon the problems of the universe made in the seventeenth century can not be credited to any one person, Bacon as much as any has a right to be regarded as the herald of the new era. The prefatory documents listed here indicate not only the nature and scope of his intellectual ambitions, but present in considerable detail his program for the conquest of nature and his "new instrument" for the advancement of science. The "Essays" deal with a thousand points of practical philosophy; and "The New Atlantis" outlines his view of a model state and foreshadows the modern research university.

For philosophy in its more technical sense Descartes is more important than Bacon, and his influence on succeeding thought is more clearly traceable. Hobbes, Locke, Berkeley, and Hume carried on the quest for philosophical truth in England, and were able to express their views in language that is still intelligible to the ordinary man. Pope, in his "Essay on Man," put into polished and elegant verse, the more obvious principles of a group of thinkers of his day; but the ideas are more memorable on account of their quotable form than their profundity or subtlety.

Voltaire, writing on many aspects of English life, includes in his "Letters" a condensed account of the philosophy of Locke and the investigations of Newton. Rousseau in his "Discourse," one of the earliest of his writings, expounds the fundamentals of that social philosophy which he expanded later in the "Social Contract" and elsewhere, and which had so important a place among the influences leading up to the French Revolution. Lessing, clinging much closer to essential Christianity than Voltaire or Rousseau, elaborates in his "Education of the Human Race" the views he upheld in opposition to the less liberal theologians of Protestant Germany.

With Kant and his successors philosophy becomes more a professional subject, and with an increase in depth and subtlety it loses in breadth of appeal to the world at large. Yet the treatises mentioned in this list will yield to the reader who cares to apply his mind an idea of a view of ethics of immense possibilities of influence over his thought and conduct.

A large part of the remaining titles are of poems whose philosophical bearing it is scarcely necessary to point out. More and more during the last hundred years poetry has been made the medium of serious thought on the problems of life; and if one wishes to learn what earnest and cultivated people have thought on such matters in our day and that of our fathers, as much is to be gained from the poets as from the professional metaphysicians or moralists. In Carlyle and Emerson we have two writers who can not be regarded as systematic philosophers, and who yet have been among the most influential of modern thinkers. Mill has a more definite place in the history of philosophy; but in his fascinating account of his own development, and in his essay "On Liberty," we need have no fear of technical jargon, and may find a clear picture of a mind finely representative of English thought in the middle of the nineteenth century, and an abundance of ideas capable of application to the problems of our own day.

HEBREW

The Book of Job	Vol. 44
Ecclesiastes	Vol. 44
The Psalm	Vol. 44

GREEK

Plato, Apology of Socrates	Vol. 2
Phaedo	Vol. 2
Crito	Vol. 2
The Greek Drama: AEschylus, Sophocles, Euripides	Vol. 8

ROMAN

Marcus Aurelius, Meditations	Vol. 2
Epictetus, Golden Thoughts	Vol. 2
Cicero, On Friendship	Vol. 9
On Old Age	Vol. 9

CHINESE

Confucius, Analects or Sayings	Vol. 44

HINDU

Bhagavad-Gita, or Song Celestial	Vol. 45

Buddhist

Writings	Vol. 45

CHRISTIAN: Primitive and Medieval

The Gospel of Luke	Vol. 44
The Acts of the Apostles	Vol. 44
The Epistles to the Corinthians	Vol. 45
St. Augustine, Confessions	Vol. 7
The Imitation of Christ	Vol. 7
Hymns of the Early Churches	Vol. 45

MOHAMMEDAN

The Koran	Vol. 45
Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam	Vol. 41

CHRISTIAN: Modern

Luther, Ninety-five Theses	Vol. 36
Address to the German Nobility	Vol. 36
Concerning Christian Liberty	Vol. 36
Calvin, Dedication of the Institutes of the Christian Religion	Vol. 39
Knox, Preface to History of the Reformation in Scotland	Vol. 39
Raleigh, Preface to History of the World	Vol. 39
Poems	Vol. 40
Southwell, The Burning Babe	Vol. 40
Habington, Nox Nocti	Vol. 40

Rowlands, Our Blessed Lady's Lullaby	Vol. 40
Walton, Life of George Herbert	Vol. 15
Herbert, Poems	Vol. 40
Walton, Life of John Donne	Vol. 15
Donne, Hymn to God the Father	Vol. 40
Quarles, Poems	Vol. 40
Vaughan, Poems	Vol. 40
Crashaw, Saint Teresa	Vol. 40
Drummond, St. John Baptist	Vol. 40
Wotton, Character of a Happy Life	Vol. 40
Sir Thomas Browne, Religio Medici	Vol. 3
Bunyan, The Pilgrim's Progress	Vol. 15
Milton, Ode on the Nativity	Vol. 4
Ode on the Passion	Vol. 4
Paradise Lost	Vol. 4
Paradise Regained	Vol. 4
Pascal, Thoughts	Vol. 48
Minor Works	Vol. 48
Penn, Fruits of Solitude	Vol. 1
Watts, True Greatness	Vol. 40
Addison, Hymn	Vol. 40
Smart, Song to David	Vol. 41
Woolman, Journal	Vol. 1
Hymns of the Modern Churches	Vol. 45

MODERN PHILOSOPHERS:

Bacon, Prooemium, Epistle Dedicatory, Preface and Plan of the Instauratio Magna	Vol. 39
Preface to the Novum Organum	Vol. 39
Essays	Vol. 3
The New Atlantis	Vol. 3
Descartes, Discourse on Method	Vol. 34
Hobbes, On Man (Bk. I of the Leviathan)	Vol. 34
Locke, Some Thoughts on Education	Vol. 37
Berkeley, Three Dialogues	Vol. 37
Pope, Essay on Man	Vol. 40
Voltaire, Letters on the English	Vol. 34
Rousseau, Discourse on the Causes of Inequality	Vol. 34
Lessing, Education of the Human Race	Vol. 32
Hume, Enquiry concerning Human	Vol. 37

Understanding
Kant, Fundamental Principles of the Metaphysic of Morals	Vol. 32
Transition from Popular Moral Philosophy to the Metaphysic of Morals	Vol. 32
Wordsworth, Ode on Intimations of Immortality	Vol. 41
Ode to Duty	Vol. 41
Lines Written above Tintern Abbey	Vol. 41
Character of the Happy Warrior	Vol. 41
Shelley, Adonais	Vol. 41
Written among the Euganean Hills	Vol. 41
Mill, Autobiography	Vol. 25
On Liberty	Vol. 25
Carlyle, Characteristics	Vol. 25
Emerson, Essays	Vol. 5
Poems	Vol. 42
Tennyson, The Higher Pantheism	Vol. 42
Flower in the Crannied Wall	Vol. 42
Wages	Vol. 42
Maud	Vol. 42
Crossing the Bar	Vol. 42
Thackeray, The End of the Play	Vol. 42
Browning, Prospice	Vol. 42
Abt Vogler	Vol. 42
Rabbi Ben Ezra	Vol. 42
Epilogue	Vol. 42
Emily Bronte, Last Lines	Vol. 42
The Old Stoic	Vol. 42
Clough, Poems	Vol. 42
Arnold, Rugby Chapel	Vol. 42
Dover Beach	Vol. 42
The Better Part	Vol. 42
The Last Word	Vol. 42
Henley, Invictus	Vol. 42
Stevenson, The Celestial Surgeon	Vol. 42
Bryant, Thanatopsis	Vol. 42
Whittier, The Eternal Goodness	Vol. 42
Holmes, The Chambered Nautilus	Vol. 42
Lanier, How Love Looked for Hell	Vol. 42
Whitman, One's-Self I Sing	Vol. 42

C

EDUCATION

THE earlier discussions on education differ from most modern writings on the subject in one important respect: the author had his eye on the single youth, the son of a family of birth and wealth, who was to be educated alone; while the educational theorist of to-day, even when he is not dealing with popular elementary education, is usually concerned with institutions for training pupils in large groups. This distinction has inevitably a profound effect upon the nature of the principles laid down.

Montaigne, Locke, and Milton are all examples of this earlier kind of discussion. It is assumed that all resources are at command, and the only questions to be settled are the comparative value of subjects and the best order and method of learning. On these points the opinions of these men are still valuable; and all three, but especially Locke, give incidentally much information on the manners and state of culture of their times.

The five "Essays" by Bacon named here do not form an attempt to construct a scheme of education, but deal suggestively with single points of importance in the training of children. "The New Atlantis" describes in "Solomon's House" an elaborate institution for advancing knowledge, which anticipates in many respects the departments for research in modern universities.

Swift's so called "Treatise" deals lightly with social rather than intellectual culture; and the chapter on the "Education of Women" by his contemporary, Defoe, shows how long it is since some views which we are apt to regard as entirely modern have been put forward.

Lessing's treatise is more philosophical than educational in the ordinary sense, being rather an interpretation of history as the record of the development of the race than a plan for the future. The letters in which Schiller discussed the "AEsthetic Education of Man" contain the essence of his views on art.

It is characteristic of American democracy that the lectures by Channing should be on the elevation of the laboring classes, and should take up an educational problem at the end of the social scale most remote from that where Montaigne and Locke found their interest.

Mill's "Autobiography" is an account of great interest of the education of a remarkable son by a remarkable father; and though containing much that has no direct bearing upon the training of the average child, it is valuable as showing what extraordinary results can be achieved under exceptional conditions.

Newman's discussion of "The Idea of a University" deals with the ultimate aims of university education, and some of the more important considerations affecting the means of attaining them. Carlyle's address, delivered at Edinburgh while he was Lord Rector of his own University, is a sort of summary of an old man's wisdom on questions of a student's use of his time and the choice of his reading. Ruskin's well-known lectures, "Sesame and Lilies," deal in very different, but equally characteristic fashion with similar topics.

In "Science and Culture," Huxley presents from the point of view of the scientist his side of the standing question of modern education: the comparative value of science and the classics as a means of culture.

Montaigne, Of the Institution and Education of Children	Vol. 32
Bacon, Of Travel	Vol. 3
Of Nature in Men	Vol. 3
Of Custom and Education	Vol. 3
Of Studies	Vol. 3
Of Parents and Children	Vol. 3
The New Atlantis	Vol. 3
Milton, Tractate on Education	Vol. 3
Locke, Some Thoughts on Education	Vol. 37
Swift, Treatise on Good Manners and Good Breeding	Vol. 27
Defoe, Education of Women	Vol. 27
Lessing, On the Education of the Human Race	Vol. 32
Schiller, Letters upon the Æsthetic Education of Man	Vol. 32
Channing, On the Elevation of the Laboring Classes	Vol. 28
Mill, Autobiography	Vol. 25
Newman, The Idea of a University	Vol. 28
Carlyle, Inaugural Address at Edinburgh University	Vol. 25

Ruskin, Sesame and Lilies	Vol. 28
Huxley, Science and Culture	Vol. 28

D

SCIENCE

THE writings of ancient times on physical science are now mainly of historical and curious interest; but from Greek times have come down these two interesting formulas to which the name of Hippocrates is attached, which show how loftly a conception the ancient physician held of his function, and which form the basis of the professional ethics of the modern doctor.

The army surgeon is a modern official. In the sixteenth century, even an officer who wished medical or surgical attendance had to take his personal doctor with him, or trust to the quacks who swindled the rank and file. Pare was such a personal surgeon to several distinguished generals through many campaigns; and the account of his improvements in the treatment of wounds vies in interest with his description of the battles themselves.

Few single scientific discoveries have influenced the world so profoundly as that which showed that the earth was not the center of the universe. The treatise in which Copernicus put forth the new theory is filled with arguments which are often preposterous, so that for the true explanation of the motions of the heavenly bodies the book is practically useless. But from his "Dedication" we gather something of the spirit of the man who led the way in this momentous reform. The "Principia" of Newton has immeasurably greater scientific value, but the reasoning is highly technical, so that the ordinary reader is glad to get the great physicist's own statement of the purpose and method of the work which first expounded the law of gravitation.

The papers by Harvey and Jenner are landmarks in the history of physiology and medicine, the one explaining for the first time the true theory of the circulation of the blood; the other putting forward the method of vaccination which has relieved the world of the scourge of smallpox.

Faraday was not only a great investigator but also a great teacher, and these two books by him are classical expositions of fundamental laws in physics and chemistry.

Dr. Holmes's paper is an interesting scientific argument, which proved of immense value in saving life; it is also an inspiring instance of the courage of a young scientist in risking professional disaster by attacking the practices and prejudices of his colleagues.

The theories which lie behind Lord Lister's application of the antiseptic principle in surgery are expounded in the fascinating papers in which Pasteur makes the original argument for the germ theory of disease, and founds the science of bacteriology.

In the chapters included in the following list from Sir Charles LyelPs "Principles of Geology," he combats the notion that to explain the present condition of the earth it is necessary to assume a series of great catastrophes. A more comprehensive view of a modern geologist's theory of how the physical world arrived at its present form is given in Geikie's essay on "Geographical Evolution."

The great German physicist, von Helmholtz, is here represented by a lecture on the fundamental principle of the conservation of energy, and one on the theory of glaciers, while his colleague in Britain, Sir William Thomson, Lord Kelvin, expounds the wave theory of light and the movement of the tides.

It was on the voyage of the "Beagle" that Darwin collected the material which suggested to him the great generalization later set forth in "The Origin of Species," and gave currency to a theory of development that has proved to be the most pervasive and influential force in the intellectual progress of modern times.

How enormously modern astronomical investigation has increased our notion of the universe, of which we form so minute a part, is expounded by Newcomb in his essay on "The Extent of the Universe."

Thus in the scientific section of these volumes the reader may gain from the pens of the leaders and discoverers themselves an idea of many of the most important conceptions in the sciences of Medicine, Surgery, Physiology, Biology, Bacteriology, Physics, Chemistry, Geology, and Astronomy.

The Oath of Hippocrates	Vol. 38
The Law of Hippocrates	Vol. 38
Pare, Journeys in Diverse Places	Vol. 38
Copernicus, Dedication of Revolutions of the Heavenly Bodies	Vol. 39
Harvey, On the Motion of the Heart and Blood of Animals	Vol. 38

Newton, Preface to the Principia	Vol. 39
Jenner, The Three Original Publications on Vaccination against Smallpox	Vol. 38
Faraday, The Forces of Matter	Vol. 30
The Chemical History of a Candle	Vol. 30
Holmes, The Contagiousness of Puerperal Fever	Vol. 38
Lister, On the Antiseptic Principle in the Practice of Surgery	Vol. 38
Pasteur, The Physiological Theory of Fermentation	Vol. 38
The Germ Theory and its Applications to Medicine and Surgery	Vol. 38
On the Extension of the Germ Theory to the Etiology of Certain Common Diseases	Vol. 38
Lyell, Prejudices which have Retarded the Progress of Geology	Vol. 38
Uniformity in the Series of Past Changes in the Animate and Inanimate Worlds	Vol. 38
Von Helmholtz, On the Conservation of Force	Vol. 30
Ice and Glaciers	Vol. 30
Darwin, The Voyage of the Beagle	Vol. 29
The Origin of Species	Vol. 11
Kelvin, The Wave Theory of Light	Vol. 30
The Tides	Vol. 30
Newcomb, The Extent of the Universe	Vol. 30
Geikie, Geographical Evolution	Vol. 30

E

POLITICS

FROM the point of view that "history is past politics," it is evident that such historical documents as those in the "Lives" of Plutarch and the "Letters" of Cicero and Pliny are also of value from the political point of view. Many of the problems of politics change their form rather than their essence from age to age, and in these records of the political struggles and principles of antiquity there are many illuminating parallelisms to the conditions of our own day. Even the contrast to modern democratic ideas of government which the theories of Machiavelli afford is suggestive; and in the institutions of Elizabethan England as described by William Harrison we may often find the germ of practices which persist here to-day.

More's "Utopia" and Bacon's "New Atlantis" have the value belonging to any sketch of ideal conditions drawn up by men of capacity and experience; and, with much that is fantastic, both books still afford considerable practical suggestion for political progress. Those of Bacon's "Essays" which touch political topics contain abundance of acute observations on the conduct of public men, though the advice is sometimes, but not always, more suited to forming politicians than statesmen.

Though dealing with the special subject of unlicensed printing, Milton, in his "Areopagitica," handles with a noble eloquence many of the fundamental questions affecting free government. Defoe's pamphlet treats in ironical strain the situation during a later period in the progress of England towards freedom and equality in this case, religious equality; while Voltaire, coming from France a few years later, expresses his admiration for English tolerance. Of Rousseau's "Discourse" we have already spoken (I. A). "The Wealth of Nations" may be regarded as founding the modern science of political economy; and it remains the greatest general treatise on the subject. The present edition has been relieved of those passages which are out of date and no longer of value.

In Burke's eloquent "Reflections" we get the view taken by an English constitutionalist of the principles of the French Revolution while it was still in progress; and in his "Letter to a Noble Lord" a vivid glimpse of the workings of politics in England at the same period.

Mill's treatise "On Liberty" is a classical argument on the relation of the individual to the state.

The poetry of the nineteenth century contains much political as well as philosophical thinking; and the pieces by Goldsmith, Wordsworth, and Tennyson are favorable examples of the impassioned treatment of these themes in verse.

The interest and importance of the American Documents here collected are obvious; and a careful study of these alone will go far to give a basis for an intelligent understanding of contemporary politics.

Plutarch, Lives of Greeks and Romans	Vol. 12
Cicero, Letters	Vol. 9
Pliny the Younger, Letters to Trajan	Vol. 9
Machiavelli, The Prince	Vol. 36
Macaulay, Machiavelli	Vol. 27
More, Utopia	Vol. 36
Harrison, Elizabethan England	Vol. 35
Bacon, The New Atlantis	Vol. 3
Essays: Of Unity in Religion, Of Great Place, Of Nobility, Of Seditions and Troubles, Of Empire, Of Counsel, Of Delays, Of Cunning, Of Innovations, Of Despatch, Of the True Greatness of Kingdoms and Estates, Of Plantations, Of Ambition, Of Usury, Of Negotiating, Of Followers and Friends, Of Suitors, Of Faction, Of Judicature, Of Vicissitudes of Things	Vol. 3
Milton, Areopagitica	Vol. 3
Defoe, The Shortest Way with Dissenters	Vol. 27
Voltaire, Letters on the English	Vol. 34
Rousseau, Discourse on the Causes of Inequality	Vol. 34
Smith, The Wealth of Nations	Vol. 10
Burke, Reflections on the French Revolution	Vol. 24
Letter to a Noble Lord	Vol. 24
Goldsmith, The Deserted Village	Vol. 41
Wordsworth, Political Sonnets	Vol. 41
Tennyson, Locksley Hall	Vol. 42

Maud	Vol. 42
Sydney Smith, Fallacies of Anti-Reformers	Vol. 27
Mill, On Liberty	Vol. 25
Emerson, Politics	Vol. 5
Lowell, Democracy	Vol. 28
The Present Crisis	Vol. 42
American Historical Documents, especially
The First Charter of Virginia	Vol. 43
The Mayflower Compact	Vol. 43
The Fundamental Orders of Connecticut	Vol. 43
The Massachusetts Body of Liberties	Vol. 43
Winthrop, Arbitrary Government Described	Vol. 43
The Instrument of Government	Vol. 43
Sir Henry Vane, a Healing Question	Vol. 43
Declaration of Rights	Vol. 43
Declaration of Independence	Vol. 43
Constitution of the United States	Vol. 43
The Federalist, I and II	Vol. 43
Opinion of Chief Justice Marshall	Vol. 43
Washington, First Inaugural Address	Vol. 43
Washington, Farewell Address	Vol. 43
The Monroe Doctrine	Vol. 43
Lincoln, Gettysburg Address	Vol. 43

F

VOYAGES AND TRAVELS

ˆ AHE story of travel has always held a general fascination; and little is needed to introduce to the reader such a list

JL as follows. Beginning with the account of ancient Egypt by Herodotus, the collection gives the narratives of the early voyages to America of Leif Ericsson, Columbus, Amerigo Vespucci, and Cabot; the campaigns followed by the French surgeon, Ambroise Pare, in the sixteenth century; the voyages, partly for exploration, largely for plunder, of the great seamen of Elizabeth's time, Drake, Gilbert, and Raleigh; and, in striking contrast, John Eliot's "Brief Narrative" of his travels in the attempt to propagate the Gospel among the American Indians. Goldsmith's "Traveller" describes many scenes in eighteenth century Europe; and in Dana's absorbing "Two Years Before the Mast" we have the double interest of a picture of life on a sailing vessel two generations ago, and an admirable account of California as it was under the Spaniards, and before '49.

Darwin's "Voyage of the Beagle," apart from its scientific importance, is a highly interesting and modestly told story of exploration in remote seas. Emerson's "English Traits" is a penetrating description and criticism of England, its people and its institutions, as the American philosopher saw it in the middle of the nineteenth century.

Herodotus, Egypt	Vol. 33
Voyages to Vinland from Saga of Eric the Red	Vol. 43
Pare, Journeys in Diverse Places	Vol. 38
Columbus, Letter Announcing Discovery of America	Vol. 43
Amerigo Vespucci, Account of his First Voyage	Vol. 43
Cabot, Discovery of North America	Vol. 43
Sir Francis Drake Revived	Vol. 33
Drake's Famous Voyage Round the World	Vol. 33
Drake's Great Armada	Vol. 3e
Sir Humphrey Gilbert's Voyage to Newfoundland	Vol. 33

Raleigh, Discovery of Guiana	Vol. 33
Eliot, Brief Narrative	Vol. 43
Goldsmith, The Traveller	Vol. 41
Dana, Two Years Before the Mast	Vol. 23
Darwin, The Voyage of the Beagle	Vol. 29
Emerson, English Traits	Vol. 5

G

CRITICISM OF LITERATURE AND THE FINE ARTS

WILLIAM CAXTON, the first printer in England, took a much more personal interest in the productions of his press than does the modern publisher. He himself made several of the translations which he printed; and to other books he attached Prologues and Epilogues, which, if not quite literary criticism after the modern manner, are yet interesting indications of the qualities which made the works which Caxton selected for publication the favorite reading of the end of the Middle Ages.

Of the three critical writings selected from the sixteenth century, Montaigne's is a delightful talk on his personal tastes (see essay by Sainte-Beuve below) ; Sidney defends imaginative literature against the assaults of an extreme Puritan; and Spenser explains to his friend Raleigh the plan and purpose of "The Faerie Queene."

Shakespeare, as is well known, paid no attention to the printing of his plays; and it was left for two of his fellow actors to make the first collected edition of them, seven years after his death. The unique importance of the volume makes the address of its editors to the readers a matter of curious interest. Of more real significance are the opinions, friendly yet candid, which Ben Jonson has left of his great fellow dramatist, and of his patron, Bacon.

But it is with Dryden that we come to the first English critic on a large scale; and in his discussions on Chaucer and on Heroic Poetry we have him, both for style and matter, at his best. Swift's "Advice" is slighter, and, like all his work, displays his ironic temper. Fielding, in a prefatory chapter, defines and expounds his idea of a novel. Dr. Johnson's famous essay on Shakespeare originally formed the Preface to his edition of the plays; and it remains one of the most important estimates of the genius of our greatest writer. In the "Life of Addison," Johnson was dealing with a subject where his eighteenth century limitations hampered him less, and the result is a delightful piece of appreciative criticism.

So far the criticism in this list has been wholly literary. The next four writers are concerned with aesthetic principles in general, with, perhaps, a special interest in painting and sculpture. Goethe, in this manifesto of a new periodical to be devoted to the Fine Arts, gives impressively his view of the fundamentals of artistic training. Schiller, on a more extensive scale, treats of the cultivation of taste and the nature of the pleasure to be derived from art; while Hume and Burke deal with similar problems from different points of view.

The "Prefaces" of Wordsworth and Hugo express in different but equally characteristic terms the revolt of the romantic poets of England and France respectively against the classical conventions that dominated poetry and the drama. Coleridge discourses in his own profound and often illuminating fashion on the essentials of poetry, as does Shelley in his eloquent and philosophical "Defense." Those who know Shelley only as the most exquisite of lyric poets will find that this essay will increase enormously their respect for his intellectual power. In the essay "On the Tragedies of Shakespeare" Lamb utters some of the most penetrating criticism ever passed upon the tragedy of "King Lear," and presses to an extreme his view of the inferiority of the stage to the study for the enjoyment of Shakespeare.

Thackeray's lecture on Swift is a fine example of the biographical essay, and may be compared with Carlyle's estimate of Scott with interesting results. Both men deal more with character than style, and both care passionately for moral quality.

Walt Whitman's "Preface," like his poems, stands by itself, the outspoken plea for an astounding extension of the limits of form and matter in poetry. His poems in the third volume of "English Poetry" in The Harvard Classics should be read in connection with this "Preface."

Sainte-Beuve is generally placed at the head of European criticism in the nineteenth century; and the two papers here given are good examples of his manner. Renan, one of the most eloquent of modern writers in any country, discourses on "The Poetry of the Celtic Races" to which he himself belonged. Mazzini, purest of patriots, is represented by a paper which shows his fine power of generalization and of taking large views. An Italian nationalist in feeling, Mazzini was continental in the range of his intellect. Taine's famous "Introduction" expounds his formula for explaining the characteristics of a literature. Whatever objections may be raised to his theory, there is no question of the brilliance of the presentation.

Few critical writings of our own day have influenced the study of poetry so much as this of Matthew Arnold's. It is an excellent example of his style, and exhibits both the strength and the weakness of his critical thinking.

"Sesame and Lilies" consists of two lectures, largely hortatory, but incidentally containing some notable criticism. Bagehot, best known as a writer on finance, appears here as a specimen of a strong nonliterary intellect applying itself to the discussion of a literary topic. At the opposite extreme is the paper in which Poe, a master of the technical side of his art, treats of what he regards as its essence. In three essays, Emerson discourses suggestively, if unsystematically, on "The Poet," on "Beauty," and on "Literature." Finally, in Stevenson's essay on "Samuel Pepys," one of the most expert of literary craftsmen of modern times sketches the personality of the writer who wrote the most remarkable "Diary" in English Literature.

Caxton, Prologue and Epilogue to the Histories of Troy	Vol. 39
Epilogue to Dictes and Sayings of the Philosophers	Vol. 39
Prologue to the Golden Legend	Vol. 39
Prologue to Caton	Vol. 39
Epilogue to Aesop	Vol. 39
Proem to Chaucer's Canterbury Tales	Vol. 39
Prologue to Malory's King Arthur	Vol. 39
Prologue to Virgil's Eneydos	Vol. 39
Montaigne, Of Bookes	Vol. 32
Sidney, Defense of Poesy	Vol. 27
Spenser, Prefatory Letter to Sir Walter Raleigh on the Faerie Queene	Vol. 39
Heminge and Condell, Preface to the First Folio Edition of Shakespeare's Plays	Vol. 39
Jonson, On Shakespeare	Vol. 27
Jonson, On Bacon	Vol. 27
To the Memory of Mr. William Shakespeare	Vol. 40
Dryden, Preface to Fables (On Chaucer)	Vol. 39
Dedication of the AEneis (On Heroic Poetry)	Vol. 13
Swift, Advice to a Young Poet	Vol. 27
Fielding, Preface to Joseph Andrews (On the Comic Epic in Prose)	Vol. 39
Johnson, Preface to Shakespeare	Vol. 39
Life of Addison	Vol. 27
Goethe, Introduction to the Propyläen	Vol. 39

(On Fine Art)
Schiller, Letters upon the Esthetic Education of Man	Vol. 32
Hume, On the Standard of Taste	Vol. 27
Burke, On Taste	Vol. 24
On the Sublime and Beautiful	Vol. 24
Wordsworth, Prefaces to Various Volumes of Poems	Vol. 39
Appendix to Lyrical Ballads	Vol. 39
Essay Supplementary to Preface	Vol. 39
Coleridge, On Poesy or Art	Vol. 27
Lamb, On the Tragedies of Shakespeare	Vol. 27
Shelley, A Defence of Poetry	Vol. 27
Hugo, Preface to Cromwell (On Romanticism)	Vol. 39
Thackeray, Jonathan Swift	Vol. 28
Carlyle, Sir Walter Scott	Vol. 25
Inaugural Address (On Books and Reading)	Vol. 25
Whitman, Preface to Leaves of Grass	Vol. 39
Sainte-Beuve, Montaigne	Vol. 32
What is a Classic?	Vol. 32
Renan, The Poetry of the Celtic Races	Vol. 32
Mazzini, Byron and Goethe	Vol. 32
Taine, Introduction to History of English Literature	Vol. 39
Arnold, The Study of Poetry	Vol. 28
Ruskin, Sesame and Lilies	Vol. 28
Bagehot, John Milton	Vol. 28
Poe, The Poetic Principle	Vol. 28
Emerson, The Poet	Vol. 5
Beauty	Vol. 5
Literature	Vol. 5
Stevenson, Samuel Pepys	Vol. 28

CLASS II

OF the large variety of literary types represented in The Harvard Classics, only a few of the more prominent have been selected for classification here. Others stand already grouped in the volumes: for, example, the three volumes of English Poetry, along with the works of Milton and Burns, contain most of the Lyric Poetry in the collection; and the Prefaces regarded as independent documents, are in one volume. Still others, such as Allegory, Oratory, the Dialogue, occur in the lists made up according to subject matter; and readers interested in these as forms can easily collect them from the Tables of Contents and the General Index.

A

DRAMA

IN dramatic literature the palm of supremacy lies between Greece and England, and it is natural that these two countries should be most fully represented here. Both countries at a culminating point in their history expressed themselves in this form, and much of the intellectual and imaginative vitality of the Age of Pericles in Greece and the Age of Elizabeth in England can be apprehended from these dramas. Eight of the most distinguished masterpieces of the other countries of Europe have been added; so that the present list represents not unworthily the best in this form that the world has produced.

These thirty-seven plays exhibit a great variety of dramatic form classical and romantic tragedy, satirical and romantic comedy, chronicle history, masque, and cantata. No less varied are the themes; from gods to beggars all types of character appear, and every variety of human motive, human effort, and human suffering is shown. No other literary form could present in so few pages so just and so impressive a reflection of the pageant of human life.

GREEK:

AEschylus, Prometheus Bound	Vol. 8
Agamemnon	Vol. 8
The Libation-Bearers	Vol. 8
The Furies	Vol. 8
Sophocles, OEdipus the King	Vol. 8
Antigone	Vol. 8

Euripides, Hippolytus	Vol. 8
The Bacchse	Vol. 8
Aristophanes, The Frogs	Vol. 8
ENGLISH:
Marlowe, Doctor Faustus	Vol. 19
Edward the Second	Vol. 46
Shakespeare, Hamlet	Vol. 46
King Lear	Vol. 46
Macbeth	Vol. 46
The Tempest	Vol. 46
Dekker, The Shoemaker's Holiday	Vol. 47
Jonson, The Alchemist	Vol. 47
Beaumont and Fletcher, Philaster	Vol. 47
Webster, The Duchess of Malfi	Vol. 47
Massinger, A New Way to Pay Old Debts	Vol. 47
Milton, Comus	Vol. 4
Samson Agonistes	Vol. 4
Dryden, All for Love	Vol. 18
Sheridan, The School for Scandal	Vol. 18
Goldsmith, She Stoops to Conquer	Vol. 18
Burns, The Jolly Beggars	Vol. 6
Shelley, The Cenci	Vol. 18
Byron, Manfred	Vol. 18
Browning, A Blot in the 'Scutcheon	Vol. 18
SPANISH:
Calderon, Life is a Dream	Vol. 26
FRENCH:
Corneille, Polyeucte	Vol. 26
Racine, Phaedra	Vol. 26
Moliere, Tartuffe	Vol. 26
GERMAN:
Lessing, Minna von Barnhelm	Vol. 26
Goethe, Faust	Vol. 19
Egmont	Vol. 19
Schiller, William Tell	Vol. 26

B

BIOGRAPHY AND LETTERS

MOST of the titles in this list have already been the subject of comment; those that remain speak for themselves. Here are a number of records of actual human lives, all of them of notable people, chosen either for their representative or for their intrinsic value. Some of these records are by skilled biographers like Plutarch; in other cases, by letters, or confessions, or in set narratives, the story is told by the man himself; still others are summaries and estimates rather than detailed biographies. Perhaps the formal autobiographies are the most interesting and significant of all; and of these the personal revelations of St. Augustine, of Benvenuto Cellini, of Benjamin Franklin, and of John Stuart Mill stand in the first rank.

Plutarch, Life of Themistocles	Vol. 12
Pericles	Vol. 12
Aristides	Vol. 12
Alcibiades	Vol. 12
Demosthenes	Vol. 12
Coriolanus	Vol. 12
Cicero	Vol. 12
Caesar	Vol. 12
Antony	Vol. 12
Cicero, Letters	Vol. 9
Pliny the Younger, Letters	Vol. 9
St. Augustine, Confessions	Vol. 7
Benvenuto Cellini, Autobiography	Vol. 31
Roper, Life of Sir Thomas More	Vol. 36
Walton, Life of Dr. Donne	Vol. 15
Life of George Herbert	Vol. 15
Johnson, Life of Addison	Vol. 27
Burke, Letter to a Noble Lord	Vol. 24
Franklin, Autobiography	Vol. 1
Woolman, Journal	Vol. 1
Macaulay, Machiavelli	Vol. 27
Thackeray, Jonathan Swift	Vol. 28
Carlyle, Sir Walter Scott	Vol. 25
Mill, Autobiography	Vol. 25
Lowell, Abraham Lincoln	Vol. 28
Stevenson, Samuel Pepys	Vol. 28

C

ESSAYS

THERE is almost no limit to the variety of theme which may be treated in the essay, and few rules can be laid down to regulate its form. Montaigne, who may be said to have originated this type of literature, remains one of the greatest masters of it; and in the specimens from his work in the present list one can find the ease and grace and the pleasant flavor of personal intimacy which constitute much of its charm.

A large proportion of these essays deal with books, and of these something has already been said in the section on Criticism. Some, like those of Milton, Swift, Defoe, Newman, and Huxley, fall also under the heading of Education. A few treat of political matters; such are those of Sydney Smith, Mill, and Lowell. Others, such as some of Montaigne's, Ruskin's, Carlyle's, Emerson's, and Stevenson's, deal with matters of conduct, though not in the formal manner of the ethical philosopher. Bacon's "Essays" are concerned with so great a variety of subjects that classification is difficult; but the largest group form a sort of handbook of the principles on which success in public life was achieved in his time. Yet these more severe themes are mingled with others of more charm, where he chats pleasantly on an ideal palace or garden, or on the contriving of courtly entertainments.

Of all prose forms, the essay is that which gives most scope for pure expression of personality. Those in the present list which rank highest as essays do so, not by virtue of the weight of their opinions, or arguments, or information, but by the spontaneity with which the author gives utterance to his mood or fancy. Thus the delightful essay of Cowley "Of Agriculture" is hardly to be recommended as a guide to farming; but as a quarter of an hour of graceful conversation it is charming. Hazlitt, Leigh Hunt, Lamb, De Quincey, Thoreau, and Stevenson (in "Truth of Intercourse") all exhibit this individual quality, and reveal personalities of different kinds and degrees of attractiveness, but none without a high degree of interest.

Montaigne, That We Should not Judge of our Happinesse untill after our Death	Vol. 32
That to Philosophise is to Learne	Vol. 32

how to Die
Of the Institution and Education of Children	Vol. 32
Of Friendship	Vol. 32
Of Bookes	Vol. 32
Sidney, Defense of Poesy	Vol. 27
Bacon, Essays	Vol. 3
Milton, Tractate on Education	Vol. 3
Cowley, Of Agriculture	Vol. 27
Dryden, Preface to Fables	Vol. 39
Dedication of the AEneis	Vol. 13
Addison, Westminster Abbey	Vol. 27
Steele, The Spectator Club	Vol. 27
Swift, Hints towards an Essay on Conversation	Vol. 27
On Good Manners and Good Breeding	Vol. 27
A Letter of Advice to a Young Poet	Vol. 27
On the Death of Esther Johnson (Stella)	Vol. 27
Defoe, The Shortest Way with Dissenters	Vol. 27
The Education of Women	Vol. 27
Fielding, Preface to Joseph Andrews	Vol. 39
Johnson, Preface to Shakespeare	Vol. 39
Preface to English Dictionary	Vol. 39
Life of Addison	Vol. 27
Hume, On the Standard of Taste	Vol. 27
Burke, On Taste	Vol. 24
Goethe, Introduction to the Propylaen	Vol. 39
Sydney Smith, Fallacies of Anti-Reformers	Vol. 27
Wordsworth, Preface to Various Volumes of Poems	Vol. 39
Appendix to Lyrical Ballads	Vol. 39
Essay Supplementary to Preface	Vol. 39
Coleridge, On Poesy or Art	Vol. 27
Hazlitt, Of Persons One would Wish to have Seen	Vol. 27
Leigh Hunt, Deaths of Little Children	Vol. 27
On the Realities of Imagination	Vol. 27
Lamb, On the Tragedies of Shakspere	Vol. 27
De Quincey, Levana and Our Ladies of Sorrow	Vol. 27

Shelley, A Defence of Poetry	Vol. 27
Channing, On the Elevation of the Laboring Classes	Vol. 28
Hugo, Preface to Cromwell	Vol. 39
Macaulay, Machiavelli	Vol. 27
Sainte-Beuve, Montaigne	Vol. 32
What is a Classic?	Vol. 32
Thackeray, Jonathan Swift	Vol. 28
Renan, The Poetry of the Celtic Races	Vol. 32
Mazzini, Byron and Goethe	Vol. 32
Newman, The Idea of a University	Vol. 28
Arnold, The Study of Poetry	Vol. 28
Ruskin, Sesame and Lilies	Vol. 28
Taine, Introduction to the History of English Literature	Vol. 39
Bagehot, John Milton	Vol. 28
Poe, The Poetic Principle	Vol. 28
Carlyle, Characteristics	Vol. 25
Sir Walter Scott	Vol. 25
Whitman, Preface to Leaves of Grass	Vol. 39
Emerson, Essays	Vol. 5
English Traits	Vol. 5
Mill, On Liberty	Vol. 25
Huxley, Science and Culture	Vol. 28
Freeman, Race and Language	Vol. 28
Thoreau, Walking	Vol. 28
Lowell, Abraham Lincoln	Vol. 28
Democracy	Vol. 28
Stevenson, Truth of Intercourse	Vol. 28
Samuel Pepys	Vol. 28

D

NARRATIVE POETRY AND PROSE FICTION

IN this section we have the largest proportion of what frankly professes to be the literature of entertainment. All these titles belong to works which are in the first place good stories; and most of them have lived largely by virtue of this quality. They come from all centuries within the historic period, and from all the countries within our range. They deal with war and peace, love and hate, gods and men and animals, angels and demons, historic fact, modern observation, and pure fancy; some mean no more than they seem to simple tales of the action and suffering of men; others carry mystical significations hidden under the surface.

But, though they may profess no more than a power to entertain, they, in fact, do far more for us. Each of these tales, in proportion to its truth to human nature and the effectiveness with which it is told, helps to make us more fully acquainted with our kind, broadens our sympathies, deepens our insight, serves us, in fact, as a kind of experience obtained at second hand. No less than the most weighty philosophy or the most informing history or science, then, do these stories in prose and poetry deserve their place among the essential instruments of mental and moral culture.

Homer, The Odyssey	Vol. 22
Virgil, The AEneid	Vol. 13
AEsop's Fables	Vol. 17
Beowulf	Vol. 49
The Song of Roland	Vol. 49
The Song of the Volsungs	Vol. 49
The Destruction of Da Derga's Hostel	Vol. 49
The Arabian Nights	Vol. 16
Dante, The Divine Comedy	Vol. 20
Chaucer, Prologue to the Canterbury Tales	Vol. 40
The Nun's Priest's Tale	Vol. 40
The Gest of Robyn Hode	Vol. 40
Traditional Ballads	Vol. 40
Malory, The Holy Grail	Vol. 35
Cervantes, Don Quixote	Vol. 14
Drayton, Agincourt	Vol. 40

To the Virginian Voyage	Vol. 40
Milton, Paradise Lost	Vol. 4
Paradise Regained	Vol. 4
Bunyan, The Pilgrim's Progress	Vol. 15
Addison, The Vision of Mirza	Vol. 27
Steele, The Spectator Club	Vol. 27
Goethe, Hermann and Dorothea	Vol. 19
Cowper, The Diverting History of John Gilpin	Vol. 41
Burns, Tam o' Shanter	Vol. 6
Manzoni, I Promessi Sposi	Vol. 21
Wordsworth, Michael	Vol. 41
Ruth	Vol. 41
Laodamia	Vol. 41
Coleridge, The Ancient Mariner	Vol. 41
Christabel	Vol. 41
Love	Vol. 41
Scott, Rosabelle	Vol. 41
Lochinvar	Vol. 41
Hogg, Kilmeny	Vol. 41
Byron, The Prisoner of Chillon	Vol. 41
The Destruction of Sennacherib	Vol. 41
Campbell, Lord Ullin's Daughter	Vol. 41
Battle of the Baltic	Vol. 41
Hohenlinden	Vol. 41
Keats, The Eve of St. Agnes	Vol. 41
Landor, The Death of Artemidora	Vol. 41
Iphigeneia	Vol. 41
Grimm, Household Tales	Vol. 17
Andersen, Tales	Vol. 17
Tennyson, Maud	Vol. 42
Morte d'Arthur	Vol. 42
The Lady of Shalott	Vol. 42
The Revenge	Vol. 42
Rizpah	Vol. 42
Locksley Hall	Vol. 42
Browning, My Last Duchess	Vol. 42
How They Brought the Good News	Vol. 42
Macaulay, The Armada	Vol. 41
D. G. Rossetti, The King's Tragedy	Vol. 42
C. Rossetti, In the Round Tower at Jhansi	Vol. 42
W. Morris, The Defence of Guenevere	Vol. 42
Dobell, The Ballad of Keith of	Vol. 42

Ravelston
Poe, The Raven	Vol. 42
Longfellow, Evangeline	Vol. 42
The Wreck of the Hesperus	Vol. 42
Paul Revere's Ride	Vol. 42
Whittier, Randolph of Roanoke	Vol. 42
Barclay of Ury	Vol. 42
Maud Muller	Vol. 42
Skipper Ireson's Ride	Vol. 42
The Pipes at Lucknow	Vol. 42
Barbara Frietchie	Vol. 42
Lowell, The Courtin'	Vol. 42
Lanier, The Revenge of Hamish	Vol. 42

AN INDEX TO THE FIRST LINES OF POEMS, SONGS AND CHORUSES, HYMNS AND PSALMS

A batter'd, wreck'd old man Vol. 42
A book was writ of late called Tetrachordon Vol. 4
A chieftain to the Highlands bound Vol. 41
A feeling of sadness and longing Vol. 28
A fig for those by law protected Vol. 6
A flock of sheep that leisurely pass by Vol. 41
A garden is a lovesome thing, God wot Vol. 42
A good sword and a trusty hand Vol. 42
A grief without a pang, void, dark, and drear Vol. 25
A guid New-year I wish thee, Maggie Vol. 6
A head, pure, sinless quite of brain and soul Vol. 6
A heavy heart, Beloved, have I borne Vol. 41
A high hall is there Vol. 49
A Highland lad my love was born Vol. 6
A hundred, a thousand to one; even so Vol. 42
A hundred thousand cycles vast Vol. 45
A king there was once reigning Vol. 19
A lassie all alone, was making her moan Vol. 6
A late lark twitters from the quiet skies Vol. 42
A little onward lend thy guiding hand Vol. 4
A man in prosperity resembleth a tree Vol. 16
A may of all mays Vol. 49
A mighty fortress is our God Vol. 45
A million emeralds break from the ruby-budded lime Vol. 42
A moody child and wildly wise Vol. 5
A pick-axe, and a spade, a spade Vol. 46
A plenteous place is Ireland for hospitable cheer Vol. 41
A povre widwe somdel stope in age Vol. 40
A prince can mak' a belted knight Vol. 28
A robe of seeming truth and trust Vol. 6
A Rose-bud by my early walk Vol. 6
A School for Scandal! tell me, I Vol. 18

beseech you
A simple Child Vol. 41
A slave to Love's unbounded sway Vol. 6
A slumber did my spirit seal Vol. 41
A sweet disorder in the dress Vol. 40
A voice by the cedar tree Vol. 42
A weary lot is thine, fair maid Vol. 41
A wet sheet and a flowing sea Vol. 41
A widow bird sate mourning for her Love Vol. 41
A wise priest knows he now must reap Vol. 45
Abide with me! fast falls the eventide Vol. 45
Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase!) Vol. 41
Absence, hear thou my protestation Vol. 40
Abstain from censure; for it will strengthen the censured Vol. 16
Accuse me not, beseech thee, that I wear Vol. 41
Adieu I a heartwarm fond adieu Vol. 6
Adieu, farewell earth's bliss Vol. 40
Admiring Nature in her wildest grace Vol. 6
Adopted in God's family, and so Vol. 15
A down winding Nith I did wander Vol. 6
Ae day, as Death, that gruesome carl Vol. 6
Ae fond kiss, and then we sever Vol. 6
Afar the illustrious Exile roams Vol. 6
Afflicted regents of my soul Vol. 31
Again rejoicing Nature sees Vol. 6
Again the silent wheels of time Vol. 6
Again yourselves compose Vol. 5
Ah, broken is the golden bowl! the spirit flown forever Vol. 42
Ah, Chloris! could I now but sit Vol. 40
Ah, Chloris, since it may not be Vol. 6
Ah! County Guy, the hour is nigh Vol. 41
Ah, did you once see Shelley plain Vol. 42
Ah, rich in sorrow, thou Vol. 19
Ah, sun-flower! weary of time Vol. 41
Ah, wasteful woman! she who may Vol. 28
Ah, what avails the sceptred race Vol. 41
Ah, woe is me, my mother dear Vol. 6
Airly Beacon, Airly Beacon Vol. 42
Alas, 'tis true I have gone here and Vol. 40

there
Alexis, here she stayed; among these pines Vol. 40
All along the valley, stream that flashest white Vol. 42
All devil as I am, a damned wretch Vol. 6
All hail! inexorable lord Vol. 6
All in the Downs the fleet was moor'd Vol. 40
All people that on earth do dwell Vol. 45
A* the lads o' Thorniebank Vol. 6
All they who thoughtless are, nor heed Vol. 45
All things are hush'd as Nature's self lay dead Vol. 39
All thoughts, all passions, all delights Vol. 41
A* ye wha live by sowps o' drink Vol. 6
All-conquering have I now become, all-knowing Vol. 45
All's over, then: does truth sound bitter Vol. 42
Altho' he has left me for greed o' the siller Vol. 6
Altho' my back be at the wa' Vol. 6
Altho' my bed were in yon muir Vol. 6
Altho' thou maun never be mine Vol. 6
Although the Cross could not here Christ detain Vol. 15
Amang the trees where humming bees Vol. 6
Amidst the silence of the darkest night Vol. 14
Among the heathy hills and ragged woods Vol. 6
An honest man here lies at rest Vol. 6
An somebody were come again Vol. 6
An old man bending I come among new faces Vol. 42
An ye had been whare I hae been Vol. 6
Ance crowdie, twice crowdie Vol. 6
Ance mair I hail thee, thou gloomy December Vol. 6
An' Charlie, he's my darling Vol. 6
And I'll kiss thee yet, yet Vol. 6
And is this Yarrow? This the stream Vol. 41
And maun I still on Menie doat Vol. 6

An' O for ane an' twenty, Tarn Vol. 6
An' O my Eppie, my jewel, my Eppie Vol. 6
And therefore if to love can be desert, I am not all unworthy Vol. 41
And thou art dead, as young and fair Vol. 41
And will he not come again Vol. 46
And wilt thou have me fashion into speech Vol. 41
And wilt thou leave me thus Vol. 40
And ye shall walk in silk attire Vol. 41
And yet, because thou overcomest so Vol. 41
And yet I cannot reprehend the flight Vol. 40
Anna, thy charms my bosom fire Vol. 6
Answer me when I call, O God of my righteousness Vol. 44
Apples were they with which we were beguil'd Vol. 15
Ariel to Miranda: Take Vol. 41
Arms, and the man I sing, who, forc'd by fate Vol. 13
Art thou pale for weariness Vol. 41
Art thou poor, yet hast thou golden slumbers? Vol. 40
Art thou weary, art thou languid Vol. 45
Artemidora! Gods invisible Vol. 41
As a huge stone is sometimes seen to lie Vol. 39
As cauld a wind as ever blew Vol. 6
As down the burn they took their way Vol. 6
As father Adam first was fooled Vol. 6
As flowers in rich profusion piled Vol. 45
As Heaven and Earth are fairer far Vol. 5
As I cam by Crochallan Vol. 6
As I gaed down the water-side Vol. 6
As I gaed up by yon gate-end Vol. 6
As I in hoary winter's night Vol. 6
As I stood by yon roofless tower Vol. 6
As I stood by yon roofless tower Vol. 6
As I was a-wand'ring ae morning in spring Vol. 6
As I was walking all alane Vol. 40
As I was walking up the street Vol. 6
As it fell upon a day Vol. 40
As Mailie, an' her lambs thegither Vol. 6

As oft as she names Phaedria, you retort Vol. 9
As on the banks o' wandering Nith Vol. 6
As one that for a weary space has lain Vol. 22
As ships, becalmed at eve, that lay Vol. 42
As slow our ship her foamy track Vol. 41
As sunbeams stream through liberal space Vol. 42
As Tarn the chapman on a day Vol. 6
As the hart panteth after the water brooks Vol. 44
As virtuous men pass mildly away Vol. 15
As virtuous men pass mildly away Vol. 40
As well might corn, as verse, in cities grow Vol. 27
As when a wretch, who, conscious of his crime Vol. 24
As when it happeneth that some lovely town Vol. 40
As, when the laboring Sun hath wrought his track Vol. 3
As when 'tis said, The tree bears fruit' Vol. 45
As yielding wax the artist's skill commands Vol. 9
Ascribe unto Jehovah, O ye sons of the mighty Vol. 44
Ask me no more where Jove bestows Vol. 40
Ask not the cause why sullen Spring Vol. 40
Ask why God made the gem so small Vol. 6
At Brownhill we always get dainty good cheer Vol. 6
At Flores in the Azores, Sir Richard Grenville lay Vol. 42
At the corner of Wood Street, when daylight appears Vol. 41
At the last day, men shall wear Vol. 5
At the last, tenderly Vol. 42
At the mid hour of night, when stars are weeping, I fly Vol. 41
At the midnight in the silence of the sleep-time Vol. 42
Attend, all ye who list to hear our noble England's praise Vol. 41
Auld chuckie Reekie's sair distrest Vol. 6

Auld comrade dear, and brither sinner Vol. 6
Avenge, O Lord, thy slaughtered Saints, whose bones Vol. 4
Awake, Aeolian lyre, awake Vol. 40
Awake, awake, my Lyre Vol. 40
Awake, my St. John! leave all meaner things Vol. 40
Away! the moor is dark beneath the moon Vol. 41
Awa' Whigs, awa' Vol. 6
Awa' wi' your belles and your beauties Vol. 6
Awa' wi' your witchcraft o' Beauty's alarms Vol. 6
Ay flattering fortune look you never so fair Vol. 36
Ay, tear her tattered ensign down Vol. 42
Back and side go bare, go bare Vol. 40
Balow, my babe, lie still and sleep Vol. 40
Bannocks o' bear meal Vol. 6
Bards of Passion and of Mirth Vol. 41
Be merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me Vol. 44
Be merciful unto me, O God; for man would swallow me up Vol. 44
Be not dismayed, thou little flock Vol. 45
Be your words made, good Sir, of Indian ware Vol. 40
Bear, lady nightingale above Vol. 19
Beat! beat! drums! blow! bugles! blow Vol. 42
Beauteous Rosebud, young and gay Vol. 6
Beautiful Evelyn Hope is dead Vol. 42
Beauty like hers is genius. Not the call Vol. 42
Beauty sat bathing by a spring Vol. 40
Beauty, sweet Love, is like the morning dew Vol. 40
Because I feel that, in the Heavens above Vol. 42
Because the Few with signal virtue crowned Vol. 42
Because thou hast the power and own'st the grace Vol. 41
Because you have thrown of! your Prelate Lord Vol. 4
Beer bring I to thee Vol. 49

Before the starry threshold of Jove's court Vol. 4
Behind yon hills where Lugar flows Vol. 6
Behold, bless ye Jehovah, all ye servants of Jehovah Vol. 44
Behold her, single in the field Vol. 41
Behold, how fitly are the stages set Vol. 15
Behold, how good and how pleasant it is Vol. 44
Behold, my love, how green the groves Vol. 6
Behold the hour, the boat, arrive Vol. 6
Behold the hour, the boat arrive Vol. 6
Being your slave, what should I do but tend Vol. 40
Beloved, my Beloved, when I think Vol. 41
Beloved, thou hast brought me many flowers Vol. 41
Below thir stanes lie Jamie's banes Vol. 6
Beneath these fruit-tree boughs that shed Vol. 41
Best and Brightest, come away Vol. 41
Between the dark and the daylight Vol. 42
Beyond thee, dearie, beyond thee, dearie Vol. 6
Bid me to live, and I will live Vol. 40
Bird of the wilderness Vol. 41
Birds in the high Hall-garden Vol. 42
Bless Jehovah, O my soul Vol. 44
Bless Jehovah, O my soul Vol. 44
Bless Jesus Christ, O Cardoness Vol. 6
Blessed are they that are perfect in the way Vol. 44
Blessed be Jehovah my rock Vol. 44
Blessed is every one that feareth Jehovah Vol. 44
Blessed is he that considereth the poor Vol. 44
Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven Vol. 44
Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the wicked Vol. 44
Bless'd be the Day that I began Vol. 15
Blessings on thee, little man Vol. 42

Blest be M'Murdo to his latest day Vol. 6
Blest pair of Sirens, pledges of Heaven's joy Vol. 4
Blow, blow, thou winter wind Vol. 40
Blythe, blythe, and merry was she Vol. 6
Blythe hae I been on yon hill Vol. 6
Bonie lassie, will ye go Vol. 6
Bonie wee thing, cannie wee thing Vol. 6
Bonnie Kilmeny gaed up the gle Vol. 41
Borders of kohl enhance the witchery of her glance Vol. 16
Borgia, thou once wert almost too august Vol. 41
Bow down thine ear, O Jehovah, and answer me Vol. 44
Braw, braw lads on Yarrow-braes Vol. 6
Break, break, break Vol. 42
Brief life is here our portion Vol. 45
Bright Star! would I were steadfast as thou art Vol. 41
Brightest and best of the sons of the morning Vol. 45
Bring the bowl which you boast Vol. 41
Build me straight, O worthy Master Vol. 42
Burly, dozing humble-bee Vol. 42
Busk ye, busk ye, my bonnie, bonnie bride Vol. 41
But do not let us quarrel any more Vol. 42
But, knowing now that they would have her speak Vol. 42
But lately seen in gladsome green Vol. 6
But only three in all God's universe Vol. 41
But rarely seen since Nature's birth Vol. 6
But souls that of his own good life partake Vol. 5
But warily tent when ye come to court me Vol. 6
But your allowance, and in that our all Vol. 47
Buy braw troggin frae the banks o' Dee Vol. 6
By all I lov'd, neglected and forgot Vol. 6
By Allah! good sir, I was not a robber Vol. 16
By Allan stream I chanc'd to rove Vol. 6

By cool Siloam's shady rill Vol. 45
By love, and by beauty, by law, and by duty Vol. 6
By Oughtertyre grows the aik Vol. 6
By our first strange and fatal interview Vol. 27
By the cross, on which suspended Vol. 45
By the rivers of Babylon Vol. 44
By the rude bridge that arched the flood Vol. 42
By what word's power, the key of paths untrod Vol. 42
By yon Castle wa', at the close of the day Vol. 6
Ca' the yowes to the knowes Vol. 6
Ca' the yowes to the knowes Vol. 6
Ca' the yowes to the knowes Vol. 41
Call for the robin-redbreast and the wren Vol. 40
Calme was the day, and through the trembling ayre Vol. 40
Can I cease to care Vol. 6
Can it be right to give what I can give Vol. 41
Canst thou leave me thus, my Katie Vol. 6
Captain, or colonel, or knight in arms Vol. 4
Care-charmer Sleep, son of the sable Night Vol. 40
Carle, an the King come Vol. 6
Cast the bantling on the rocks Vol. 5
Cauld blaws the wind frae east to west Vol. 6
Cauld is the e'enin blast Vol. 6
Cease, ye prudes, your envious railing Vol. 6
Cheer up, my mates, the wind does fairly blow Vol. 40
Cherry-ripe, ripe, ripe, I cry Vol. 40
Chief est glory of deathless Gods, Almighty for ever Vol. 2
Child of Adam, let not hope make game of thee Vol. 16
Christ is arisen Vol. 19
Circulate it in the large cup Vol. 16
Clarinda, mistress of my soul Vol. 6
Cold and clear-cut face, why come Vol. 42

you so cruelly meek
Cold's the wind, and wet's the rain Vol. 40
Cold's the wind, and wet's the rain Vol. 47
Coldly, sadly descends Vol. 42
Come all ye jolly shepherds Vol. 41
Come away, come away, Death Vol. 40
Come, bumpers high, express your joy Vol. 6
Come, dear children, let us away Vol. 42
Come, gie's sang, Montgom'rie cried Vol. 41
Come hither, lads, and harken, for a tale there is to tell Vol. 42
Come hither, you that walk along the way Vol. 15
Come into the garden, Maud Vol. 28
Come into the garden, Maud Vol. 42
Come, let me take thee to my breast Vol. 6
Come little babe, come silly soul Vol. 40
Come live with me and be my Love Vol. 40
Come my tan-faced children Vol. 42
Come, rest in this bosom, my own stricken deer Vol. 28
Come, Sleep; O Sleep! the certain knot of peace Vol. 40
Come to me, O ye children Vol. 42
Come under my plaidie, the night's gaun to fa' Vol. 41
Come unto these yellow sands Vol. 46
Comrades, leave me here a little Vol. 42
Condemn'd to Hope's delusive mine Vol. 41
Consider mine affliction, and deliver me Vol. 44
Consider what thou beholdest, O man Vol. 16
Contented wi' little, and cantie wi' mair Vol. 6
"Courage!" he said, and pointed toward the land Vol. 42
Courage, poor heart of stone Vol. 42
Crabbed Age and Youth Vol. 40
Creator Spirit, by whose aid Vol. 45
Creep into thy narrow bed Vol. 42
Criticks, I saw, that others' names efface Vol. 39
Cromwell, our chief of men, who through a cloud Vol. 4

Cupid and my Campaspe play'd Vol. 40
Curse on ungrateful man, that can be pleased Vol. 6
Curs'd be the man, the poorest wretch in life Vol. 6
Cyriack, this three years' day these eyes, though clear Vol. 4
Cyriack, whose grandsire on the royal bench Vol. 4
Daughter of Chaos' doting years Vol. 6
Daughter of Jove, relentless power Vol. 40
Daughter to that good Earl, once President Vol. 4
Daughters of Time, the hypocritic Days Vol. 42
Day of wrath, that day whose knelling Vol. 45
Dead, long dead Vol. 42
Deal bountifully with thy servant, that I may live Vol. 44
Dear , I'll gie ye some advice Vol. 6
Dear love, for nothing less than thee Vol. 40
Dear Myra, the captive ribband's mine Vol. 6
Dear Sir, at ony time or tide Vol. 6
Dear Smith, the slee'st pawkie thief Vol. 6
Death, be not proud, though some have called thee Vol. 40
Death stands above me, whispering low Vol. 41
Degenerate Douglas! oh, the unworthy lord Vol. 41
Deliberate, and haste not Vol. 16
Deliver me from mine enemies, O my God Vol. 44
Deliver me, O Jehovah, from the evil man Vol. 44
Deluded swain, the pleasure Vol. 6
Depart from a place wherein is oppression Vol. 16
Diaphenia like the daffadowndilly Vol. 40
Did I hear it half in a doze Vol. 42
Dire was the hate at old Harlaw Vol. 6
Dizzied faith and guilt and woe Vol. 28
Do ye indeed in silence speak righteousness Vol. 44

Do you remember me? or are you proud Vol. 41
Does haughty Gaul invasion threat Vol. 6
Does the road wind up-hill all the way Vol. 42
Dost thou not rise, indignant shade Vol. 6
Doth then the world go thus, doth all thus move Vol. 40
Doubt thou the stars are fire Vol. 46
Doubt you to whom my Muse these notes intendeth Vol. 40
Down in yon garden sweet and gay Vol. 41
Drink to me only with thine eyes Vol. 40
Dulcinea here beneath Vol. 14
Duncan Gray cam' here to woo Vol. 6
Dweller in yon dungeon dark Vol. 6
Each altar had his fire Vol. 15
Earl March look'd on his dying child Vol. 41
Earth has not anything to show more fair Vol. 41
Earth'd up, here lies an imp o' hell Vol. 6
Edina! Scotia's darling seat Vol. 6
E'en like two little bank-dividing brooks Vol. 40
Erewhile of music, and ethereal mirth Vol. 4
Eternal Spirit of the chainless Mind Vol. 41
Ethereal minstrel! pilgrim of the sky Vol. 41
Even as the dense and solid rock Vol. 45
Even as the word of "chariot" means Vol. 45
Even in a palace life may be led well Vol. 42
Even such is time, that takes in trust Vol. 40
Even let the Fancy roam Vol. 41
Except Jehovah build the house Vol. 44
Excuse me, sirs, I pray I can't yet speak Vol. 18
Expect na, sir, in this narration Vol. 6
Faintly as tolls the evening chime Vol. 41
Fair and fair, and twice so fair Vol. 40
Fair Daffodils, we weep to see Vol. 40
Fair Empress of the poet's soul Vol. 6
Fair fa' your honest, sonsie face Vol. 6
Fair is my Love and cruel as she's fair Vol. 40
Fair is my love, when her fair golden hairs Vol. 40
Fair maid, you need not take the hint Vol. 6

Fair pledges of a fruitful tree Vol. 40
Fair stood the wind for France Vol. 40
Fair the face of orient day Vol. 6
Fairest maid on Devon banks Vol. 6
Fairfax, whose name in arms through Europe rings Vol. 4
False friend, wilt thou smile or weep Vol.18
False world, good night! since thou hast brought Vol. 40
Fare thee well! and if for ever Vol. 41
Farewell to a* our Scottish fame Vol. 6
Farewell, dear friend! may guid luck hit you Vol. 6
Farewell, master; farewell, farewell Vol. 46
Farewell, old Scotia's bleak domains Vol. 6
Farewell, rewards and fairies Vol. 40
Farewell ! thou art too dear for my possessing Vol. 40
Farewell, thou fair day, thou green earth, and ye skies Vol. 6
Farewell, thou stream that winding flows Vol. 6
Farewell to the Highlands, farewell to the North Vol. 6
Farewell, ye dungeons dark and strong Vol. 6
Farewell, ye green meadows Vol. 26
Fate gave the word, the arrow sped Vol. 6
Father of light and life, thou Good Supreme Vol. 1
Fathers that wear rags Vol. 46
Fear death? to feel the fog in my throat Vol. 42
Fear no more the heat o' the sun Vol. 40
Fill me with the rosy wine Vol. 6
Fintry, my stay in worldly strife Vol. 6
First time he kissed me, he but only kissed Vol. 41
First when Maggie was my care Vol. 6
Five years have past; five summers, with the length Vol. 41
Flee with thy life if thou fearest oppression Vol. 16
Flow gently, sweet Afton! amang thy Vol. 6

green braes
Flower in the crannied wall Vol. 42
Fly, envious Time, till thou run out thy race Vol. 4
Follow thy fair sun, unhappy shadow Vol. 40
Follow your saint, follow with accents sweet Vol. 40
For a' that, an' a' that Vol. 6
For a' that, an' a' that Vol. 6
For a' that, an' a' that Vol. 6
For auld lang syne, my dear Vol. 6
For ever, Fortune, wilt thou prove Vol. 40
For ever, O Jehovah Vol. 44
For he that can have good and evil doth choose Vol. 14
For lack of gold she's left me, O Vol. 41
For lo! thy law is passed Vol. 28
For lords or kings I dinna mourn Vol. 6
For never yet hath any one attained Vol. 38
For oh, her lanely nights are lang Vol. 6
For sense, they little owe to frugal Heav'n Vol. 6
For the tired slave, song lifts the languid oar Vol. 23
Fortress with turrets Vol. 19
Forlorn, my Love, no comfort near Vol. 6
Forget not yet the tried intent Vol. 40
For us, down beaten by the storms of fate Vol. 9
For thee is laughing Nature gay Vol. 6
Fortune, that favours fools, these two short hours Vol. 47
Four and twenty bonny boys Vol. 40
Four Seasons fill the measure of the year Vol. 41
Frae the friends and land I love Vol. 6
Fresh from the dewy hill, the merry year Vol. 41
Fret not thyself because of evil-doers Vol. 44
Friday first's the day appointed Vol. 6
Friend of the Poet, tried and leal Vol. 6
Friendship, mysterious cement of the soul Vol. 6
From Harmony, from heavenly Vol. 40

Harmony
From midst the barren earth, here overthrown Vol. 14
From Stirling Castle we had seen Vol. 41
From the forests and highlands Vol. 41
From the white-blossom'd sloe my dear Chloris requested Vol. 6
From thee, Eliza, I must go Vol. 6
From those drear solitudes and frowsy cells Vol. 6
From you have I been absent in the spring Vol. 40
Full fathom five thy father lies Vol. 40
Full fathom five thy father lies Vol. 46
Full many a glorious morning have I seen Vol. 40
Full well thou know'st I love thee dear Vol. 6
Fy, let us a' to Kirkcudbright Vol. 6
Gane is the day, and mirk's the night Vol. 6
Gat ye me, O gat ye me Vol. 6
Gather ye rose-buds while ye may Vol. 40
Gazing from each low bulwark of this bridge Vol. 41
Gem of the crimson-colour'd Even Vol. 41
Get up, get up for shame! The blooming morn Vol. 40
Gie him strong drink until he wink Vol. 6
Gifts of one who loved me Vol. 5
Give a man a horse he can ride Vol. 42
Give all to love Vol. 42
Give ear, O my people, to my law Vol. 44
Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel Vol. 44
Give ear to my prayer, O God . Vol. 44
Give ear to my words, O Jehovah Vol. 44
Give me more love, or more disdain Vol. 40
Give me my scallop-shell of quiet Vol. 40
Give me patience, O Allah Vol. 16
Give me the splendid silent sun with all his beams fulldazzling Vol. 42
Give the king thy judgments, O God Vol. 44
Glooms of the live-oaks, beautiful-braided and woven Vol. 42
Gloomy winter's now awa' Vol. 41
Glory be to God on high Vol. 45

Glory of warrior, glory of orator, glory of song	Vol. 42
Go and catch a falling star	Vol. 40
Go, fetch to me a pint o' wine	Vol. 6
Go from me. Yet I feel that I shall stand	Vol. 41
Go, lovely Rose	Vol. 40
Go not, happy day	Vol. 42
Go now my little Book, to every place	Vol. 15
Go, Soul, the body's guest	Vol. 40
Go, wanton muse, but go with care	Vol. 9
God be merciful unto us, and bless us	Vol. 44
God is our refuge and strength	Vol. 44
God makes sech nights, all white an' still	Vol. 42
God moves in a mysterious way	Vol. 45
God prosper long our noble king	Vol. 40
God standeth in the congregation of God	Vol. 44
Goethe in Weimar sleeps, and Greece	Vol. 42
Gold and iron are good	Vol. 5
Good-bye, proud world! I'm going home	Vol. 42
Good-morrow to the day so fair	Vol. 40
Grade, thou art a man of worth	Vol. 6
Grant me, indulgent Heaven, that I may live	Vol. 6
Great deeds of bale	Vol. 49
Great is Jehovah, and greatly to be praised	Vol. 44
Great spirits now on earth are sojourning	Vol. 41
Green grow the rashes, O	Vol. 6
Grow old along with me	Vol. 42
Gude pity me, because I'm little	Vol. 6
Gudrun of old days	Vol. 49
Guid-mornin' to your Majesty	Vol. 6
Guid speed and furder to you, Johnie	Vol. 6
Ha! whaur ye gaun, ye crowlin ferlie	Vol. 6
Had I a cave on some wild distant shore	Vol. 6
Had I the wyte, had I the wyte	Vol. 6
Had I wept before she did	Vol. 16
Had we never loved sae kindly	Vol. 28

Hail! beauteous Stranger of the wood Vol. 41
Hail, famous man! whom fortune hath so blist Vol. 14
Hail, Native Language, that by sinews weak Vol. 4
Hail, Poesie! thou Nymph reserv'd Vol. 6
Hail, thairm-inspirin', rattlin' Willie Vol. 6
Hail to thee, blithe Spirit Vol. 41
Half a league, half a league Vol. 42
Hallow the threshold, crown the posts anew Vol. 40
Hame, hame, hame, O hame fain wad I be Vol. 41
Happy the man, whose wish and care Vol. 40
Happy those early days, when I Vol. 40
Happy those which, for more commodity Vol. 14
Happy were he could finish forth his fate Vol. 40
Hard Texts are Nuts (I will not call them cheaters) Vol. 15
Hark, hark, my soul! angelic songs are swelling Vol. 45
Hark! hark! the lark at heaven's gate sings Vol. 40
Hark! how all the welkin rings Vol. 45
Hark! I hear the tramp of thousands Vol. 42
Hark the mavis' e'ening sang Vol. 6
Harp of the North, farewell! The hills grow dark Vol. 41
Harry, whose tuneful and well-measured song Vol. 4
Has auld Kilmarnock seen the deil Vol. 6
Hast thou a charm to stay the morning-star Vol. 41
Hasten, ye faithful, glad, joyful, and holy Vol. 45
Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy lovingkindness Vol. 44
Have more than thou showest Vol. 46
Haymakers, rakers, reapers, and mowers Vol. 40
He clenched his pamphlet in his fist Vol. 6
He first by Grace must conquer'd be Vol. 15

He is dead, the beautiful youth Vol. 42
He is gone on the mountain Vol. 41
He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High Vol. 42
He that has and a little tiny wit Vol. 41
He that is down needs fear no fall Vol. 44
He that loves a rosy cheek Vol. 46
He used his lances as pens Vol. 15
He who of Rankine sang, lies stiff and dead Vol. 6
He whom we mourned as dead Vol. 19
He's ower the hills that I lo'e weel Vol. 41
Health to the Maxwells*'veteran Chief Vol. 6
Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots Vol. 6
Hear my cry, O God Vol. 44
Hear my prayer, O Jehovah Vol. 44
Hear my prayer, O Jehovah; give ear to my supplications Vol. 44
Hear my voice, O God, in my complaint Vol. 44
Hear the right, O Jehovah, attend unto my cry Vol. 44
Hear the sledges with the bells Vol. 42
Hear this, all ye peoples Vol. 44
Hear what God, the Lord, hath spoken Vol. 45
Hee balou, my sweet wee Donald Vol. 6
Helen, thy beauty is to me Vol. 42
Help, Jehovah; for the godly man ceaseth Vol. 44
Hence, all you vain delights Vol. 40
Hence, loathed Melancholy Vol. 4
Hence, overshadowing gloom Vol. 19
Hence, vain deluding Joys Vol. 4
Hengist had verament Vol. 5
Her brother is coming back to-night Vol. 42
Her daddie forbad, her minnie forbad Vol. 6
Her flowing locks, the raven's wing Vol. 6
Her of your name, whose fair inheritance Vol. 15
Her skin is like silk, and her speech is soft Vol. 16
Here a little child I stand Vol. 40
Here, a sheer hulk, lies poor Tom Bowling Vol. 41

Here am I laid, my life of misery done Vol. 12
Here awa, there awa, wandering Willie Vol. 6
Here Brewer Gabriel's fire's extinct Vol. 6
Here cursing, swearing Burton lies Vol. 6
Here, ever since you went abroad Vol. 41
Here Holy Willie's sair worn clay Vol. 6
Here is the glen and here the bower Vol. 6
Here lie Willie Michie's banes Vol. 6
Here lies a mock Marquis, whose titles were shamm'd Vol. 6
Here lies Boghead amang the dead Vol. 6
Here lies John Bushby, honest man Vol. 6
Here lies Johnie Pigeon Vol. 6
Here lies, now a prey to insulting neglect Vol. 6
Here lies old Hobson. Death hath broke his girt Vol. 4
Here lies our Sovereign Lord the King Vol. 40
Here lieth Bernardone, ass and pig Vol. 31
Here lieth one who did most truly prove Vol. 4
Here, of a loving swain Vol. 14
Here Souter Hood in death doth sleep Vol. 6
Here Stuarts once in glory reigned Vol. 6
Here was a people whom, after their works Vol. 16
Here, where the Scottish Muse immortal lives Vol. 6
Here, where the world is quiet Vol. 42
Here will I hold. If there's a power above us Vol. 1
Here's a bottle and an honest friend Vol. 6
Here's a health to ane I loe dear Vol. 6
Here's a health to them that's awa Vol. 6
Here's to the maiden of bashful fifteen Vol. 18
Here's to the maiden of bashful fifteen Vol. 41
Here's to the year that's awa' Vol. 41
Here's to thy health, my bonie lass Vol. 6
Hey, ca' thro', ca' thro' Vol. 6
Hey, the dusty Miller Vol. 6
Hie upon Hielands Vol. 40
High grace, the dower of queens; and therewithal Vol. 42

His face with smile eternal drest Vol. 6
His foundation is in the holy mountains Vol. 44
Hnikar I hight Vol. 49
Hold, mighty man, I cry all this we know Vol. 34
Hold not thy peace, O God of my praise Vol. 44
Holy amity! which, with nimble wings Vol. 14
Holy, holy, holy! Lord God Almighty Vol. 45
Home they brought her warrior dead Vol. 42
Homer, thy song men liken to the sea Vol. 22
Honest Will to Heaven's away Vol. 6
Honour, riches, marriage-blessing Vol. 46
How amiable are thy tabernacles Vol. 44
How blest the happy solitude Vol. 45
How can my poor heart be glad Vol. 6
How cold is that bosom which folly once fired Vol. 6
How cruel are the parents Vol. 6
How daur ye ca' me howlet-face Vol. 6
How delicious is the winning Vol. 41
How do I love thee? Let me count the ways Vol. 41
How fresh, O Lord, how sweet and clean Vol. 40
How good is it to pardon one able to resist Vol. 16
How happy is he born and taught Vol. 40
How haps it, Rozinante, thou art so lean Vol. 14
How hath time made me to tremble Vol. 16
How lang and dreary is the night Vol. 6
How, Liberty! girl, can it be by thee named Vol. 6
How like a winter hath my absence been Vol. 40
How long and dreary is the night Vol. 6
How long, O Jehovah? wilt thou forget me for ever Vol. 44
How many companies have alighted Vol. 16
How many wretched persons are destitute of ease Vol. 16
How near to good is what is fair Vol. 5

How often have I stood in fight Vol. 16
How pleasant the banks of the clear winding Devon Vol. 6
How should I your true love know Vol. 40
How should I your true love know Vol. 46
How sleep the Brave, who sink to rest Vol. 41
How soon hath Time, the subtle thief of youth Vol. 4
How sweet the answer Echo makes Vol. 41
How vainly men themselves amaze Vol. 40
How Wisdom and Folly meet, mix and unite Vol. 6
Humid seal of soft affections Vol. 6
"Husband, husband, cease your strife" Vol. 6
I am a Bard of no regard Vol. 6
I am a fiddler to my trade Vol. 6
I am a keeper of the law Vol. 6
I am a mariner to love Vol. 14
I am a son of Mars who have been in many wars . Vol. 6
I am enamoured of her Vol. 16
I am monarch of all I survey Vol. 41
I am my mammy's ae bairn Vol. 6
I am not of the noble Grecian race Vol. 12
I arise from dreams of thee Vol. 41
I arise from dreams of thee Vol. 28
I bought my wife a stane o' lint Vol. 6
I bring fresh showers for the thirsting flowers Vol. 41
I call no Goddess to inspire my strains Vol. 6
I Catherine am a Douglas born Vol. 42
I coft a stane o' haslock woo' Vol. 6
I cry with my voice unto Jehovah Vol. 44
I did but prompt the age to quit their clogs Vol. 4
I die, and if I cannot be believed Vol. 14
I do confess thou art sae fair Vol. 6
I dream 'd I lay where flowers were springing Vol. 6
I dream'd that as I wander'd by the way Vol. 41
I du believe in Freedom's cause Vol. 42
I fear thy kisses, gentle maiden Vol. 41
I fee'd a man at Michaelmas Vol. 6

I fill this cup to one made up Vol. 28
I gaed a waefu' gate yestreen Vol. 6
I gaed up to Dunse Vol. 6
I gat your letter, winsome Willie . Vol. 6
I gazed upon the glorious sky Vol. 42
I got me flowers to strew Thy way Vol. 40
I had a dream, which ˆwas not all a dream Vol. 41
I had sax owsen in a pleugh Vol. 6
I hae a wife of my ain Vol. 6
I hae been at Crookieden Vol. 6
I hate the dreadful hollow behind the little wood Vol. 42
I hate them that are of a double mind Vol. 44
I have called with my whole heart Vol. 44
I have done justice and righteousness Vol. 44
I have had playmates, I have had companions Vol. 41
I have heard tell Vol. 49
I have led her home, my love, my only friend Vol. 42
I heard a thousand blended notes Vol. 41
I heard the trailing garments of the Night Vol. 42
I hold it, sir, my bounden duty Vol. 6
I know a little garden-close Vol. 42
I know, Olalia, thou dost me adore Vol. 14
I know a thing that's most uncommon Vol. 40
I lang hae thought, my youthfu' friend Vol. 6
I lift my heavy heart up solemnly Vol. 41
I like a church; I like a cowl Vol. 42
I lived with visions for my company Vol. 41
I lo'ed ne'er a laddie but ane Vol. 41
I long to talk with some old lover's ghost Vol. 40
I love, and he loves me again Vol. 40
I love Jehovah, because he heareth Vol. 44
I love thee, O Jehovah, my strength Vol. 44
I loved a lass, a fair one Vol. 40
I met a traveller from an antique land Vol. 41
I mind it weel in early date Vol. 6
I murder hate by flood or field Vol. 6
I must not grieve my Love, whose eyes would read Vol. 40

I never gave a lock of hair away Vol. 41
I never saw a fairer Vol. 6
I once was a maid, tho' I cannot tell when Vol. 6
I put my hat upon my head Vol. 39
I rede you, beware at the hunting, young men Vol. 6
I remember, I remember Vol. 41
I said, I will take heed to my ways Vol. 44
I said Then, dearest, since 'tis so Vol. 42
I saw him once before Vol. 42
I saw where in the shroud did lurk Vol. 41
I see a form, I see a face . Vol. 6
I see thine image through my tears to-night Vol. 41
I sing of a Whistle, a Whistle of worth Vol. 6
I sprang to the stirrup, and Joris, and he Vol. 42
I stood on the bridge at midnight Vol. 42
I strove with none; for none was worth the strife Vol. 41
I struck the board and cried, No more Vol. 40
I thank all who have loved me in their hearts Vol. 41
I think of thee! my thoughts do twine and bud. - Vol. 41
I thought of Thee, my partner and my guide Vol. 41
I thought once how Theocritus had sung Vol. 41
I tore, I hackt, abolish'd, said and did . . Vol. 14
I travell'd among unknown men Vol. 41
I waited patiently for Jehovah . Vol. 44
I wander'd lonely as a cloud Vol. 41
I was glad when they said unto me Vol. 44
I was thy neighbour once, thou rugged Pile Vol. 41
I was walking a mile Vol. 42
I weep for Adonais he is dead Vol. 41
I , who erewhile the happy Garden sung Vol. 4
I , who was late so volatile and gay Vol. 18
I will bless Jehovah at all times Vol. 44

I will cry unto God with my voice Vol. 44
I will extol thee, my God, O King Vol. 44
I will extol thee, O Jehovah; for thou hast raised me up . Vol. 44
I will give thanks unto Jehovah with my whole heart . Vol. 44
I will give thee thanks with my whole heart Vol. 44
I will lift up mine eyes unto the mountains Vol. 44
I will sing of lovingkindness and justice Vol. 44
I will sing of the lovingkindness of Jehovah for ever. Vol. 44
I wish I were where Helen lies Vol. 40
I wonder, by my troth, what thou and I Vol. 40
I'll aye ca' in by yon town Vol. 6
I'm now arrived thanks to the gods Vol. 6
I'm o'er young, I'm o'er young Vol. 6
I'm sittin' on the stile, Mary Vol. 41
I'm three times doubly o'er your debtor Vol. 6
I'm wearing awa', Jean Vol. 41
I've heard them lilting at our ewe-milking Vol. 41
I've seen the smiling Vol. 41
If age brought nothing worse than this Vol. 9
If all the world and love were young Vol. 40
If aught of oaten stop or pastoral song Vol. 41
If doughty deeds my lady please Vol. 41
If from the public way you turn your steps Vol. 41
If I be possessed of wealth and be not liberal Vol. 16
If I fail any day to render thee due thanks Vol. 16
If I freely can discover Vol. 40
If I have faltered more or less Vol. 42
If I leave all for thee, wilt thou exchange Vol. 41
If I, my lord, could show to you the truth Vol. 31
If it had not been Jehovah who was Vol. 44

on our side .
If love were what the rose is Vol. 42
If of love we complain, what shall we say Vol. 16
If one says "No," I answer "No" Vol. 9
If the red slayer think he slays Vol. 42
If thou chance for to find Vol. 15
If thou must love me, let it be for nought Vol. 41
If thou should ask my love Vol. 6
If thou survive my well-contented day Vol. 40
If to be absent were to be Vol. 40
If women could be fair, and yet not fond Vol. 40
If ye gae up to yon hill-tap Vol. 6
If yet I have not all thy love Vol. 40
If you rattle along like your Mistress's tongue Vol. 6
Ilk care and fear, when thou art near Vol. 6
Ill-fated genius! Heaven-taught Fergusson Vol. 6
In a coign of the cliff between lowland and highland Vol. 42
In a drear-nighted December Vol. 41
In close intrigue, their faculty's but weak Vol. 5
In comin' by the brig o' Dye Vol. 6
In days long gone Vol. 49
In death for life I seek Vol. 14
In going to my naked bed as one that would have slept Vol. 40
In Jehovah do I take refuge Vol. 44
In Judah is God known Vol. 44
In London city was Bicham born Vol. 40
In Love, if Love be Love, if Love be ours Vol. 42
In Mauchline there dwells six proper young belles . Vol. 6
In my distress I cried unto Jehovah Vol. 44
In Politics if thou would 'st mix Vol. 6
In proportion to one's labour, eminences are gained. Vol. 16
In Scotland there was a babie born Vol. 40
In se'enteen hunder 'n forty-nine Vol. 6

In simmer, when the hay was mawn Vol. 6
In Tarbolton, ye ken, there are proper young men . Vol. 6
In the downhill of life, when I find I'm declining Vol. 41
In the greenest of our valleys Vol. 42
In the highlands, in the country places Vol. 42
In the merry month of May Vol. 40
In the midway of this our mortal life Vol. 20
In the sweet shire of Cardigan Vol. 41
In thee, O Jehovah, do I take refuge Vol. 44
In thee, O Jehovah, do I take refuge Vol. 44
In this strange land, this uncouth clime Vol. 6
In unploughed Maine he sought the lumberers' gang Vol. 42
In vain to me the smiling mornings shine Vol. 39
In wood and wild, ye warbling throng Vol. 6
In Xanadu did Kubla Khan Vol. 41
In youth, when I did love, did love Vol. 46
Indeed this very love which is my boast Vol. 41
Inhuman man! curse on thy barb'rous art Vol. 6
Instead of a Song, boys, I'll give you a Toast Vol. 6
Into the proud erected diamond stock Vol. 14
Inverey cam doun Deeside, whistlin and playin Vol. 40
Iphigeneia, when she heard her doom Vol. 41
Is it indeed so? If I lay here dead Vol. 41
Is it not better at an early hour Vol. 41
Is there a whim-inspired fool Vol. 6
Is there for honest Poverty Vol. 6
Is this thy plighted, fond regard Vol. 6
It befell at Martynmas Vol. 40
It fell about the Lammus time Vol. 40
It fell about the Martinmas time Vol. 40
It fell upon a holly eve Vol. 40
It is a beauteous evening, calm and free Vol. 41
It is a good thing to give thanks unto Jehovah Vol. 44

It is an ancient Mariner Vol. 41
It is na, Jean, thy bonie face Vol. 6
It is not Beauty I demand Vol. 41
It is not growing like a tree Vol. 40
It is not to be thought of that the flood Vol. 41
It little profits that an idle king Vol. 42
It was a dismal and a fearful night Vol. 40
It was a lover and his lass Vol. 40
It was a summer evening Vol. 41
It was a' for our rightfu' King Vol. 6
It was fifty years ago Vol. 42
It was in and about the Martinmas time Vol. 40
It was in sweet Senegal that my foes did me enthral. Vol. 6
It was many and many a year ago Vol. 42
It was not like your great and gracious ways Vol. 42
It was roses, roses, all the way Vol. 42
It was the charming month of May Vol. 6
It was the schooner Hesperus Vol. 42
It was the winter wild Vol. 48
It was three slim does and a ten-tined buck in the bracken lay Vol. 42
It was upon a Lammas night Vol. 6
Ithers seek they ken na what Vol. 6
Jamie, come try me Vol. 6
Jehovah answer thee in the day of trouble Vol. 44
Jehovah, how are mine adversaries increased Vol. 44
Jehovah, I have called upon thee; make haste unto me. Vol. 44
Jehovah is my light and my salvation Vol. 44
Jehovah is my portion Vol. 44
Jehovah is my shepherd . Vol. 44
Jehovah, my heart is not haughty Vol. 44
Jehovah reigneth; he is clothed with majesty Vol. 44
Jehovah reigneth; let the earth rejoice Vol. 44
Jehovah reigneth; let the peoples tremble Vol. 44
Jehovah, remember for David Vol. 44

Jehovah saith unto my lord, Sit thou at my right hand.	Vol. 44
Jehovah, thou hast been favorable unto thy land	Vol. 44
Jehovah, who shall sojourn in thy tabernacle	Vol. 44
Jenny kiss'd me when we met	Vol. 41
Jerusalem the golden	Vol. 45
Jesu, the very thought of thee	Vol. 45
Jesus, lover of my soul	Vol. 45
Jesus shall reign where'er the sun	Vol. 45
Jesus, Thou Joy of loving hearts	Vol. 45
Jockey's taen the parting kiss	Vol. 6
John Anderson, my jo, John	Vol. 6
John Gilpin was a citizen	Vol. 41
Judge me, O God, and plead my cause against an ungodly nation	Vol. 44
Judge me, O Jehovah, for I have walked in mine integrity	Vol. 44
Just for a handful of silver he left us	Vol. 42
Kathrina say	Vol. 19
Kemble, thou cur'st my unbelief	Vol. 6
Ken ye aught o' Captain Grose? Igo and ago	Vol. 6
Kilmarnock wabsters, fidge an' claw	Vol. 6
Kind gentlemen and ladies fair	Vol. 19
Kind Sir, I've read your paper through	Vol. 6
Know, Celia, since thou art so proud	Vol. 40
Know thou, O stranger to the fame	Vol. 6
Lady Onlie, honest Lucky	Vol. 6
Lady! that in the prime of earliest youth	Vol. 4
Lament him, Mauchline husbands a'	Vol. 6
Lament in rhyme, lament in prose	Vol. 6
Lassie wi' the lint-white locks	Vol. 6
Last May, a braw wooer cam doun the lang glen	Vol. 6
Late at e'en, drinkin the wine	Vol. 40
Late crippl'd of an arm, and now a leg	Vol. 6
Late, late yestreen I saw the new Moon	Vol. 41
Lawrence, of virtuous father virtuous son	Vol. 4
Lay a garland on my hearse	Vol. 40

Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom Vol. 45
Lead me, O God, and Thou, O Destiny Vol. 2
Leeze me on drink! it gies us mair Vol. 28
Let God arise, let his enemies be scattered Vol. 44
Let half-starv'd slaves in warmer skies Vol. 6
Let ignorance a little while now muse Vol. 15
Let India boast her palms, nor envy we Vol. 5
Let me not to the marriage of true minds Vol. 40
Let me ryke up to dight that tear Vol. 6
Let my cry come near before thee, O Jehovah Vol. 44
Let not Ambition mock their useful toil Vol. 6
Let not Woman e'er complain Vol. 6
Let other heroes boast their scars Vol. 6
Let other poets raise a fracas Vol. 6
Let others sing of Knights and Paladines Vol. 40
Let schoolmasters puzzle their brain Vol. 18
Let the Most Blessed be my guide Vol. 15
Let the toast pass Vol. 18
Let the world's sharpness, like a clasping knife Vol. 41
Let thy lovingkindnesses also come unto me, O Jehovah . Vol. 44
Let us begin and carry up this corpse. Vol. 42
Let us drink and be merry, dance, joke, and rejoice. Vol. 40
Let us with a gladsome mind Vol. 4
Life! I know not what thou art Vol. 41
Life ne'er exulted in so rich a prize Vol. 6
Life of Life! Thy lips enkindle Vol. 41
Light lay the earth on Billy's breast Vol. 6
Like as the culver, on the bared bough. Vol. 40
Like as the waves make towards the pebbled shore. Vol. 40
Like some brave steed that oft before Vol. 9
Like to the clear in highest sphere Vol. 40
Listen, my children, and you shall hear Vol. 42

Listen to me, as when ye heard our father Vol. 42
Little I ask; my wants are few Vol. 42
Little think'st thou, poor flower Vol. 40
Live in these conquering leaves Vol. 40
Lo, praise of the prowess of people-kings Vol. 49
Lo! 'tis a gala night Vol. 42
Lo! where the four mimosas blend their shade Vol. 41
Lo! where the rosy-bosom'd Hours Vol. 40
Lock the door, Lariston, lion of Liddisdale Vol. 41
Lone on the bleaky hills the straying flocks Vol. 6
Long-expected one-and-twenty Vol. 41
Long fed on boundless hopes, O race of man Vol. 42
Long have I sighed for a calm Vol. 42
Long have I slept Vol. 49
Long life, my Lord, an' health be yours Vol. 6
Long, long the night Vol. 6
Look not thou on beauty's charming Vol. 41
Look, Nymphs and Shepherds, look Vol. 4
Lord of all being, throned afar Vol. 45
Lord Thomas and Fair Annet Vol. 40
Lord, thou hast been our dwelling-place Vol. 44
Lord, to account who dares thee call Vol. 6
Lord, we thank, and thee adore Vol. 6
Lords, knights, and squires, the numerous band Vol. 40
Loth am I, sister Vol. 49
Loud blaw the frosty breezes Vol. 6
Louis, what reck I by thee Vol. 6
Love bade me welcome; yet my soul drew back Vol. 40
Love guards the roses of thy lips Vol. 40
Love in her eyes sits playing Vol. 40
Love in my bosom like a bee Vol. 40
Love not me for comely grace Vol. 40
Love thou thy land, with love far-brought Vol. 42

Love thy country, wish it well Vol. 42
Lovely was she by the dawn Vol. 6
Loving in truth, and fain in verse my love to show Vol. 40
Lythe and listen, gentilmen Vol. 40
Maid of Athens, ere we part Vol. 41
Make a joyful noise unto God, all the earth Vol. 44
Make a joyful noise unto Jehovah, all ye lands Vol. 44
Make haste, O God, to deliver me Vol. 44
Maker of all, the Lord Vol. 7
Mally's meek, Mally's sweet Vol. 6
Man is his own star; and the soul that can Vol. 5
Many a green isle needs must be Vol. 41
Many a time have they afflicted me from my youth up Vol. 44
March, march, Ettrick and Teviotdale Vol. 41
Mark yonder pomp of costly fashion Vol. 6
Martial, the things that do attain Vol. 40
Mary! I want a lyre with other strings Vol. 41
Maud has a garden of roses Vol. 42
Maud Muller on a summer's day Vol. 42
Maugre the ravings that are set abroach Vol. 14
Maxwell, if merit here you crave Vol. 6
May I lose my heart if it cease to love you Vol. 16
Meet me on the warlock knowe Vol. 6
Merrily swinging on brier and weed Vol. 42
Methought I saw my late espoused saint Vol. 4
Milton! thou shouldst be living at this hour Vol. 41
Mine adventure to the Meek One Vol. 43
Mine be a cot beside the hill Vol. 41
Morning arises stormy and pale Vol. 42
Mortality, behold and fear Vol. 40
Most glorious Lord of Lyfe! that, on this day Vol. 40
Most sweet it is with unuplifted eyes Vol. 41
Mother, I cannot mind my wheel Vol. 41
Much have I travell'd in the realms of Vol. 41

gold
Music, when soft voices die Vol. 41
Musing on the roaring ocean Vol. 6
My blessings on ye, honest wife Vol. 6
My blessin's upon thy sweet wee lippie Vol. 6
My bonie lass, I work in brass Vol. 6
My curse upon your venom'd stang Vol. 6
My days among the Dead are past Vol. 41
My dear and only Love, I pray Vol. 40
My faith looks up to thee Vol. 45
My father was a farmer upon the Carrick border, O Vol. 6
My future will not copy fair my past Vol. 41
My girl she's airy, she's buxom and gay Vol. 6
My God, I love thee; not because Vol. 45
My God, my God Vol. 15
My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me Vol. 44
My God, where is that ancient heat towards thee Vol. 15
My godlike friend nay, do not stare Vol. 6
My good blade carves the casques of men Vol. 42
My hair is gray, but not with years Vol. 41
My Harry was a gallant gay Vol. 6
My heart aches, and a drowsy numbness pains Vol. 41
My heart is a-breaking, dear Tittie Vol. 6
My heart is fixed, O God Vol. 44
My heart is sair I dare na tell Vol. 6
My heart is wae, and unco wae Vol. 6
My heart leaps up when I behold Vol. 41
My heart overfloweth with a goodly matter Vol. 44
My heart was ance as blithe and free Vol. 6
My heart's in the Highlands, my heart is not here . Vol. 6
My honor'd Colonel, deep I feel Vol. 6
My lady's gown, there's gairs upon't Vol. 6
My letters! all dead paper, mute and white Vol. 41
My life has crept so long on a broken Vol. 42 wing

My lord a-hunting he is gane Vol. 6
My lord, I know your noble ear Vol. 6
My Love in her attire doth shew her wit Vol. 40
My love, she's but a lassie yet Vol. 6
My lov'd, my honor'd, much respected friend Vol. 6
My lute, be as thou wert when thou didst grow Vol. 40
My mind to me a kingdom is Vol. 40
My minnie does constantly deave me Vol. 28
My mother bids me bind my hair Vol. 41
My mother, the harlot Vol. 19
My own Beloved, who hast lifted me Vol. 41
My peace is gone Vol. 19
My Peggy is a young thing Vol. 40
My Peggy's face, my Peggy's form Vol. 6
My poet, thou canst touch on all the notes Vol. 41
My Sandy gied to me a ring Vol. 6
My Sandy O, my Sandy O Vol. 6
My sister! my sweet sister! if a name Vol. 41
My Son, these maxims make a rule Vol. 6
My soul cleaveth unto the dust Vol. 44
My soul fainteth for thy salvation Vol. 44
My soul waiteth in silence for God only Vol. 44
My spotless love hovers with purest wings Vol. 40
My sword could not at all compare with thine Vol. 14
My thoughts hold mortal strife Vol. 40
My true-love hath my heart, and I have his Vol. 40
Mysterious Night! when our first parent knew Vol. 41
Nae gentle dames, tho' e'er sae fair Vol. 6
Nae heathen name shall I prefix Vol. 6
Nae shoon to hide her tiny taes Vol. 41
Nay, with my goodwill Vol. 49
Nearer, my God, to thee Vol. 45
Never the time and the place Vol. 42
Never trust in women; nor rely upon Vol. 16

their vows
No churchman am I for to rail and to write Vol. 6
No cold approach, no altered mien Vol. 6
No coward soul is mine Vol. 42
No longer mourn for me when I am dead Vol. 40
No more of your guests, be they titled or not Vol. 6
No more, ye warblers of the wood! no more Vol. 6
No, my own love of other years Vol. 41
No, no! go not to Lethe, neither twist Vol. 41
No sculptured marble here, nor pompous lay Vol. 6
No song nor dance I bring from yon great city Vol. 6
No Spartan tube, no Attic shell Vol. 6
No Stewart art thou, Galloway Vol. 6
Nobly, nobly Cape Saint Vincent to the North-west died away Vol. 42
None keepeth a secret but a faithful person Vol. 16
Nor grain, nor wealth, nor store of gold and silver Vol. 45
Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note Vol. 41
Not, Celia, that I juster am Vol. 40
Not here and there, but everywhere Vol. 9
Not marble, nor the gilded monuments Vol. 40
Not mine own fears, nor the prophetic soul Vol. 40
Not to know vice at all, and keep true state Vol. 40
Not unto us, O Jehovah, not unto us Vol. 44
Now daye was gone, and night was come Vol. 39
Now haply down yon gay green shaw Vol. 6
Now in her green mantle blythe Nature arrays Vol. 6
Now, Kennedy, if foot or horse Vol. 6
Now Nature deeds the flowery lea Vol. 6
Now Nature hangs her mantle green Vol. 6

Now, Reader, I have told my Dream to thee Vol. 15
Now Robin lies in his last lair Vol. 6
Now rosy May comes in wi' flowers Vol. 6
Now Simmer blinks on flowery braes Vol. 6
Now sleeps the crimson petal, now the white Vol. 42
Now spring has clad the grove in green Vol. 6
Now thank we all our God Vol. 45
Now the bright morning-star, Day's harbinger Vol. 4
Now the golden Morn aloft Vol. 40
Now the last day of many days Vol. 41
Now this is my first counsel Vol. 49
Now westlin winds and slaught'ring guns Vol. 6
Nuns fret not at their convent's narrow room Vol.41
O a' ye pious godly flocks Vol. 6
O angry fate, forbear Vol. 16
O aye my wife she dang me Vol. 6
O blithe new-comer! I have heard Vol. 41
O bonie was yon rosy brier Vol. 6
O Brignall banks are wild and fair Vol. 41
O brother, rest from miserable mee Vol. 32
O cam ye here the fight to shun Vol. 6
O can ye labour lea, young man Vol. 6
O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done Vol. 42
O could I give thee India's wealth Vol. 6
O Death, had'st thou but spar'd his life Vol. 6
O Death! thou tyrant fell and bloody Vol. 6
O fairest Flower, no sooner blown but blasted Vol. 4
O for him back again Vol. 6
O, for my sake do you with Fortune chide Vol. 40
O Friend! I know not which way I must look Vol. 41
O Friends! with whom my feet have trod Vol. 42
O give thanks unto Jehovah; for he is good Vol. 44

O God, keep not thou silence Vol. 44
O God, the nations are come into thine inheritance . Vol. 44
O God, thou art my God; earnestly will I seek thee. Vol. 44
O God, thou hast cast us off, thou hast broken us down . Vol. 44
O God, why hast thou cast us off for ever Vol. 44
O Goddess! hear these tuneless numbers, wrung Vol. 41
O Gowdie, terror o' the whigs Vol. 6
O gude ale comes and gude ale goes Vol. 6
O had each Scot of ancient times Vol. 6
O had the malt thy strength of mind Vol. 6
O happy dames! that may embrace Vol. 40
O happy shades! to me unblest Vol. 41
O happy souls, which from this mortal vale Vol. 14
O have ye na heard o' the fause Sakelde Vol. 40
O hearken, ye who speak the English Tongue Vol. 49
O how can I be blythe and glad Vol. 6
O how much more doth beauty beauteous seem Vol. 40
O how shall I, unskilfu', try Vol. 6
O if thou knew'st how thou thyself dost harm Vol. 40
O Jehovah, my God, in thee do I take refuge Vol. 44
O Jehovah, our Lord Vol. 44
O Jehovah, rebuke me not in thine anger Vol. 44
O Jehovah, rebuke me not in thy wrath Vol. 44
O Jehovah, the God of my salvation Vol. 44
O Jehovah, thou God to whom vengeance belongeth. Vol. 44
O Jehovah, thou hast searched me, and known me . Vol. 44
O ken ye what Meg o' the Mill has gotten Vol. 6
O Kenmure's on and awa, Willie Vol. 6

O Lady Mary Ann looks o'er the Castle wa' Vol. 6
O lassie, are ye sleepin yet Vol. 6
O lay thy loof in mine, lass Vol. 6
O leave novels, ye Mauchline belles Vol. 6
) leeze me on my spinninwheel Vol. 6
O let me in this ae night Vol. 6
O let the solid ground Vol. 42
O let us howl some heavy note Vol. 47
O listen, listen, ladies gay Vol. 41
O Logan, sweetly didst thou glide Vol. 6
O Logic o' Buchan, O Logic the laird Vol. 41
O Lord, since we have feasted thus Vol. 6
O Lord, when hunger pinches sore Vol. 6
O lovely Polly Stewart Vol. 6
O lovers' eyes are sharp to see Vol. 41
O luve will venture in where it daur na weel be seen. Vol. 6
O lyric Love, half angel and half bird Vol. 42
O Mary, at thy window be Vol. 6
O Mary, go and call the cattle home Vol. 42
O May, thy morn was ne'er so sweet Vol. 6
O me! what eyes hath love put in my head Vol. 40
O meikle thinks my luve o' my beauty Vol. 6
O merry hae I been teethin a heckle Vol. 6
O mirk, mirk is this midnight hour Vol. 6
O Mistress mine, where are you roaming Vol. 40
O Mother Earth! upon thy lap Vol. 42
O mount and go, mount and make you ready Vol. 6
O my Luve's like a red, red rose Vol. 6
O never say that I was false of heart Vol. 40
O Nightingale that on yon blooming spray Vol. 4
O once I lov'd a bonie lass Vol. 6
O Philly, happy be that day Vol. 6
O poortith cauld, and restless love Vol. 6
O praise Jehovah, all ye nations Vol. 44
O raging Fortune's withering blast Vol. 6
O rough, rude, ready-witted Rankine Vol. 6
O rowan tree, O rowan tree! thou'lt aye be dear to me. Vol. 41

O sad and heavy, should I part	Vol. 6
O saw ye bonie Lesley	Vol. 6
O saw ye my Dear, my Philly	Vol. 6
O saw ye my dearie, my Eppie Macnab	Vol. 6
O saw ye not fair Ines	Vol. 41
O saw ye not fair Ines	Vol. 28
O say what is that thing call'd Light	Vol. 40
O sing a new song to the Lord	Vol. 6
O sing unto my roundelay	Vol. 41
O snatch'd away in beauty's bloom	Vol. 41
O soft embalmer of the still midnight	Vol. 41
O stay, sweet warbling, woodlark, stay	Vol. 6
O steer her up, an' haud her gaun	Vol. 6
O stream descending to the sea	Vol. 42
O Swallow, Swallow, flying, flying South	Vol. 42
O sweet and constant hope	Vol. 14
O talk not to me of a name great in story	Vol. 41
O that I had ne'er been married	Vol. 6
O that 'twere possible	Vol. 42
O that's the lassie o' my heart	Vol. 6
O the month of May, the merry month of May .	Vol. 47
O Thou dread Power, who reign'st above	Vol. 6
O Thou Great Being! what Thou art	Vol. 6
O Thou, in whom we live and move	Vol. 6
O thou pale orb that silent shines	Vol. 6
O thou, that sitt'st upon a throne	Vol. 41
O Thou, the first, the greatest friend	Vol. 6
O Thou unknown, Almighty Cause	Vol. 6
O Thou! whatever title suit thee	Vol. 6
O Thou, who in the heavens does dwell	Vol. 6
O Thou who kindly dost provide	Vol. 6
O thou whom Poetry abhors	Vol. 6
O thou with dewy locks, who lookest down	Vol. 41
O Tibbie, I hae seen the day	Vol. 6
O, to be in England	Vol. 42
O waly waly up the bank	Vol. 40

O wat ye wha that lo'es me Vol. 6
O wat ye wha's in yon town Vol. 6
"O well's me o' my gay goss-hawk" Vol. 40
O were I on Parnassus hill Vol. 6
O were my love yon Lilac fair Vol. 6
O wert thou in the cauld blast Vol. 6
O wert thou, Love, but near me Vol. 6
O wha my babie-clouts will buy? Vol. 6
O wha will shoe my fu fair foot Vol. 40
O wha will to Saint Stephen's House Vol. 6
O what a plague is love Vol. 40
O what can ail thee, knight-at-arms Vol. 41
O when shall I a mansion give Vol. 45
O when she cam' ben she bobbed fu' law Vol. 6
O whistle an' I'll come to ye, my lad Vol. 6
O why should Fate sic pleasure have Vol. 6
O why the deuce should I repine Vol. 6
O wild West Wind, thou breath of Autumn's being. Vol. 41
O Willie brew'd a peck o' maut Vol. 6
O wilt thou go wi* me, sweet Tibbie Dunbar Vol. 6
O World! O Life! O Time Vol. 41
O world of wonders! (I can say no less) Vol. 15
O worship the King all glorious above Vol. 45
O ye plants, ye herbs, and ye trees Vol. 14
O ye wha are sae guid yoursel' Vol. 6
O ye whose cheek the tear of pity stains Vol. 6
Obscurest night involved the sky Vol. 41
Of a' the airts the wind can blaw Vol. 6
Of all the girls that are so smart Vol. 40
Of all the numerous ills that hurt our peace Vol. 6
Of all the rides since the birth of time Vol. 42
Of all the thoughts of God that are Vol. 41
Of Heaven or Hell I have no power to sing Vol. 42
Of Lordly acquaintance you boast Vol. 6
Of man's first disobedience and the fruit Vol. 4
Of Nelson and the North Vol. 41

Of old, when Scarron his companions invited	Vol. 41
Of this fair volume which we World do name	Vol. 40
Oft in the stilly night	Vol. 41
Often I think of the beautiful town	Vol. 42
Oh, a dainty plant is the Ivy green	Vol. 42
Oh clap your hands, all ye peoples	Vol. 44
Oh come, let us sing unto Jehovah	Vol. 44
Oh for my sake do you with Fortune chide	Vol. 27
Oh Galuppi, Baldassare, this is very sad to find	Vol. 42
Oh give thanks unto Jehovah, call upon his name .	Vol. 44
Oh give thanks unto Jehovah; for he is good	Vol. 44
Oh give thanks unto Jehovah; for he is good	Vol. 44
Oh how love I thy law	Vol. 44
Oh I am come to the low Countrie	Vol. 6
Oh, open the door, some pity to shew	Vol. 6
Oh sing unto Jehovah a new song	Vol. 44
Oh sing unto Jehovah a new song	Vol. 44
Oh, slow to smite and swift to spare	Vol. 42
Oh that those lips had language!	Vol. 41
Oh, the auld house, the auld house	Vol. 41
Oh, yes! They love through all this world of ours. .	Vol. 41
Oh! young Lochinvar is come out of the west	Vol. 41
Old Chronos once took queen Sedition to wife	Vol. 12
Old Grahame he is to Carlisle gone	Vol. 40
Old Winter, with his frosty beard	Vol. 6
On a bank of flowers, in a summer day	Vol. 6
On a day, alack the day!	Vol. 40
On a Poet's lips I slept	Vol. 41
On Cessnock banks a lassie dwells	Vol. 6
On either side the river lie	Vol. 42
On his lips Persuasion hung	Vol. 9
On Linden, when the sun was low	Vol. 41
On parent knees, a naked new-born	Vol. 41

child
On peace an' rest my mind was bent Vol. 6
On the brink of the night and the morning Vol. 28
On the heights peals the thunder, and trembles the bridge Vol. 26
On the Sabbath-day Vol. 42
On the seas and far away Vol. 6
On these white cliffs, that calm above the flood. . Vol. 41
Once did She hold the gorgeous East in fee Vol. 41
Once fondly lov'd, and still remembered dear Vol. 6
Once in a cellar lived a rat Vol. 19
Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered, weak and weary Vol. 42
One day I wrote her name upon the strand Vol. 40
One more Unfortunate Vol. 41
One more Unfortunate Vol. 28
One night as I did wander Vol. 6
One Queen Artemisia, as old stories tell Vol. 6
One word is too often profaned Vol. 41
One's-self I sing, a simple separate person Vol. 42
Oppress'd with grief, oppress'd with care Vol. 6
Or love of understanding quite is void Vol. 14
Orthodox! orthodox, who believe in John Knox Vol. 6
Others abide our question. Thou art free Vol. 42
Our band is few but true and tried Vol. 42
Our bugles sang truce, for the night-cloud had lower'd . Vol. 41
Our God, our help in ages past Vol. 45
Our signal in love is the glance of our eyes Vol. 16
Our thrissles flourish'd fresh and fair Vol. 6
Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Jehovah. Vol. 44
Out of the night that covers me Vol. 42

Out over the Forth, I look to the North Vol. 6
Out upon it, I have loved Vol. 40
Over the mountains Vol. 40
Pack, clouds, away, and welcome day Vol. 40
Pardon, oh, pardon, that my soul should make Vol. 41
Pausanias you may praise, and Xanthippus he be for Vol. 12
Peg Nicholson was a good bay mare Vol. 6
Phoebus, arise Vol. 40
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu Vol. 41
Pipes of the misty moorlands . Vol. 42
Piping down the valleys wild Vol. 41
Poets, like disputants, when reasons fail Vol. 18
Poor, little, pretty, fluttering thing Vol. 40
Poor Little-jaithl Hast been among the Thieves. . Vol. 15
Poor naked wretches, wheresoe'er you are Vol. 6
Poor Soul, the centre of my sinful earth Vol. 40
Poverty causeth the lustre of a man to grow dim. . Vol. 16
Praise waiteth for thee, O God, in Zion Vol. 44
"Praise Woman still," his lordship roars Vol. 6
Praise ye Jehovah
Blessed is the man that feareth Jehovah Vol. 44
Praise ye Jehovah
For it is good to sing praises Vol. 44
Praise ye Jehovah
I will give thanks unto Jehovah Vol. 44
Praise ye Jehovah
Oh give thanks unto Jehovah Vol. 44
Praise ye Jehovah
Praise God in his sanctuary Vol. 44
Praise ye Jehovah
Praise Jehovah, O my soul Vol. 44
Praise ye Jehovah
Praise, O ye servants of Jehovah Vol. 44

Praise ye Jehovah
Praise ye Jehovah from the heavens Vol. 44
Praise ye Jehovah
Praise ye the name of Jehovah Vol. 44
Praise ye Jehovah
Sing unto Jehovah a new song Vol. 44
Preserve me, O God; for in thee do I take refuge. Vol. 44
Princes have persecuted me without a cause Vol. 44
Proud Maisie is in the wood Vol. 41
Proud word you never spoke, but you will speak . Vol. 41
Put forth thy leaf, thou lofty plane Vol. 42
Queen and Huntress, chaste and fair Vol. 40
Ranged thus for battle on the sacred plain Vol. 45
Rarely, rarely comest thou Vol. 41
Rash mortal, and slanderous poet, thy name Vol. 6
Raving winds around her blowing Vol. 6
Reader! I am to let thee know Vol. 15
Rejoice in Jehovah, O ye righteous Vol. 44
Religion! what treasure untold Vol. 39
Remember me when I am gone away Vol. 42
Remember the word unto thy servant Vol. 44
Remote, unfriended, melancholy, slow Vol. 41
Restore to my eyelids the sleep which hath been ravished Vol. 16
Revered defender of beauteous Stuart Vol. 6
Riches I hold in light esteem Vol. 42
Right, sir! your text I'll prove it true Vol. 6
Righteous art thou, O Jehovah Vol. 44
Ring out your bells, let mourning shews be spread . Vol. 40
"Rise up, rise up, now, Lord Douglas," she says Vol. 40
Rivulet crossing my ground Vol. 42
Robin shure in hairst Vol. 6
Robin was a rovin' boy Vol. 6
Roman Virgil, thou that singest Ilion's lofty temples robed in fire Vol. 42
Round the cape of a sudden came the sea Vol. 42

Rudely thou wrongest my dear heart's desire Vol. 40
Ruin seize thee, ruthless King. Vol. 40
Rusticity's ungainly form Vol. 6
Sabrina fair Vol. 4
Sad thy tale, thou idle page Vol. 6
Sae flaxen were her ringlets Vol. 6
Sae rantingly, sae wantonly Vol. 6
Satyr-king, instead of swords Vol. 12
Save me, O God Vol. 44
Save me, O God, by thy name Vol. 44
Say not the struggle naught availeth Vol. 42
Say over again, and yet once over again Vol. 41
Say, sages, what's the charm on earth Vol. 6
Scorn'd, to be scorn'd by one that I scorn Vol. 42
Scots, wha hae wi' Wallace bled Vol. 6
Search while thou wilt, and let thy Reason go Vol. 3
Searching auld wives' barrels Vol. 6
Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness Vol. 41
See how the flowers, as at parade Vol. 40
See the Chariot at hand here of Love Vol. 40
See the smoking bowl before us Vol. 6
See what a lovely shell Vol. 42
See where she sits upon the grassie greene Vol. 40
See with what simplicity Vol. 40
Sensibility, how charming Vol. 6
Shall I compare thee to a summer's day Vol. 40
Shall I, wasting in despair Vol. 40
Shall they who wrong begin yet rightly end Vol. 15
She came to the village church Vol. 42
She dwelt among the untrodden ways Vol. 41
She is a winsome wee thing Vol. 6
She is not fair to outward view Vol. 41
She walks in beauty, like the night Vol. 41
She was a phantom of delight Vol. 41
She was so fair Vol. 5
She which you view, with triple face Vol. 14

and sheen
She's fair and fause that causes my smart Vol. 6
Shepherd of tender youth Vol. 45
Should auld acquaintance be forgot Vol. 6
Shouldst thou think upon me after the length of my age Vol. 16
Shrewd Willie Smellie to Crochallan came Vol. 6
Sic a reptile was Wat, sic a miscreant slave Vol. 6
Sick, am I sick of a jealous dread Vol. 42
Sigurd of yore Vol. 49
Since all that I can ever do for thee Vol. 42
Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea . Vol. 40
Since cruel thou (I publish) dost desire Vol. 14
Since I am coming to that holy room Vol. 15
Since, then, such blessings manifold Vol. 45
Since there's no help, come let us kiss and part Vol. 40
Sing aloud unto God our strength Vol. 44
Sing hey my braw John Highlandman Vol. 6
Sing lullaby, as women do Vol. 40
Sing on, sweet thrush, upon the leafless bough Vol. 6
Sir, as your mandate did request Vol. 6
Sir, o'er a gill I gat your card Vol. 6
Sir Wisdom's a fool when he's fou Vol. 6
Sir, Yours this moment I unseal Vol. 6
Sleep on, and dream of Heaven awhile Vol. 41
Sleep'st thou, or wak'st thou, fairest creature Vol. 6
So all day long the noise of battle roll'd Vol. 42
So dark a mind within me dwells Vol. 42
So every spirit, as it is most pure Vol. 5
So oft as I her beauty do behold Vol. 40
Soft on the fell Vol. 49
Some books are lies frae end to end Vol. 6
Some say the Pilgrim's Progress is not mine Vol. 15

Sometimes thou seem'st not as thyself alone	Vol. 42
Souls of Poets, dead and gone	Vol. 41
Sound, sound the clarion, fill the fife	Vol. 41
Spring, the sweet Spring, is the year's pleasant king	Vol. 40
St. Agnes's Eve! ah, bitter chill it was	Vol. 41
Stand close around, ye Stygian set	Vol. 41
Star that bringest home the bee	Vol. 41
Stars of the summer night	Vol. 42
Stay, my charmer, can you leave me	Vol. 6
Stay, O sweet, and do not rise	Vol. 40
Stern Daughter of the voice of God	Vol. 41
Still anxious to secure your partial favour	Vol. 6
Still to be neat, still to be drest	Vol. 40
"Stop thief!" dame Nature call'd to Death	Vol. 6
Strait is the spot and green the sod	Vol. 6
Strange fits of passion have I known	Vol. 41
Strange, that I felt so gay	Vol. 42
Streams that glide in orient plains	Vol. 6
Strew on her roses, roses	Vol. 42
Strive thou, O Jehovah, with them that strive with me	Vol. 44
Sun of my soul, Thou Saviour dear	Vol. 45
Sunset and evening star	Vol. 42
Sunshine was he	Vol. 5
Sure never were seen two such beautiful ponies	Vol. 18
Surely God is good to Israel	Vol. 44
Surprised by joy impatient as the wind	Vol. 41
Swallow, my sister, O sister swallow	Vol. 42
Sweet and low, sweet and low	Vol. 42
Sweet are the banks the banks o' Doon	Vol. 6
Sweet are the thoughts that savour of content	Vol. 40
Sweet Auburn! loveliest village of the plain	Vol. 41
Sweet, be not proud of those two eyes	Vol. 40
Sweet closes the evening on Craigieburn Wood	Vol. 6
Sweet day, so cool, so calm, so bright	Vol. 40

Sweet dimness of her loosened hair's downfall Vol. 42
Sweet Echo, sweetest Nymph, that liv'st unseen Vol. 4
Sweet fa's the eve on Craigieburn Vol. 6
Sweet flow'ret, pledge o' meikle love Vol. 6
Sweet Highland Girl, a very shower Vol. 41
Sweet naivete of feature Vol. 6
Sweet stream, that winds through yonder glade Vol. 41
Sweetest love, I do not go Vol. 40
Swiftly walk over the western wave Vol. 41
Symmetrical, and square in shape Vol. 45
Take, O take those lips away Vol. 40
Talk not to me of savages Vol. 6
Tarn Samson's weel-worn clay here lies Vol. 6
Tanagra! think not I forget Vol. 41
Tax not the royal Saint with vain expense Vol. 41
Teach me, my God and King Vol. 40
Teach me, O Jehovah, the way of thy statutes Vol. 44
Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean Vol. 42
Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean Vol. 28
Tell me, Muse, of that man Vol. 22
Tell me not, in mournful numbers Vol. 42
Tell me not of a face that's fair Vol. 40
Tell me not, Sweet, I am unkind Vol. 40
Tell me, thou Star, whose wings of light Vol. 41
Tell me where is Fancy bred Vol. 40
Tell me, ye prim adepts in Scandal's school Vol. 18
Thank Heaven! the crisis Vol. 42
That sir which serves and seeks for gain Vol. 46
That there is a falsehood in his looks Vol. 6
That time of year thou may'st in me behold Vol. 40
That which her slender waist confined Vol. 40
That's my last Duchess painted on the Vol. 42

wall
The Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold Vol. 41
The bairns gat out wi' an unco shout Vol. 6
The battle on Thermodon that shall be Vol. 12
The blast from Freedom's Northern hills, upon its Southern way Vol. 42
The blear-eyed escapeth a pit into which the clear-sighted falleth Vol. 16
The blessed Damozel lean'd out Vol. 42
The blude-red rose at Yule may blaw Vol. 6
The bonie lass made the bed to me Vol. 6
The Brahman who his evil traits hath banished Vol. 45
The bride cam' out o' the byre Vol. 41
The cardin' o't, the spinnin' o't Vol. 6
The castled crag of Drachenfels Vol. 41
The Catrine woods were yellow seen Vol. 6
The clatt'ring thunderbolt that did adorn Vol. 14
The cock is crowing Vol. 41
The cod-piece that will house Vol. 46
The Cooper o' Cuddy came here awa Vol. 6
The crimson light of sunset falls Vol. 42
The curfew tolls the knell of parting day Vol. 40
The day is cold, and dark, and dreary Vol. 42
The day is done, and the darkness Vol. 42
The day is done, and the darkness Vol. 28
The day is past and over Vol. 45
The day returns, my bosom burns Vol. 6
The deil cam fiddlin' thro' the town Vol. 6
The deil's awa, the deil's awa Vol. 6
The Devil got notice that Grose was a-dying Vol. 6
The dusky night rides down the sky Vol. 41
The earth is Jehovah's; and the fulness thereof Vol. 44
Th' expense of Spirit in a waste of shame Vol. 40
The face of all the world is changed, I think Vol. 41
The fault was mine, the fault was mine Vol. 42

The first time that the sun rose on thine oath Vol. 41
The flame flared at its maddest Vol. 49
The flower it blaws, it fades, it fa's Vol. 6
The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God Vol. 44
The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God Vol. 44
The forward youth that would appear Vol. 40
The fountains mingle with the river Vol. 41
The friend whom, wild from Wisdom's way Vol. 6
The future hides in it Vol. 25
The gallant Youth, who may have gained Vol. 41
The gloomy night is gath'ring fast Vol. 6
The glories of our blood and state Vol. 40
The Greeks, when by their courage and their might Vol. 12
The grief increaseth, and withal the shame Vol. 14
The Groups break up, and only they, the wise say Vol. 45
The harp that once through Tara's halls Vol. 41
The heather was blooming, the meadows were mawn. Vol. 6
The heavens declare the glory of God Vol. 44
The Hill, tho' high, I covet to ascend Vol. 15
The isles of Greece! the isles of Greece Vol. 41
The King of love my shepherd is Vol. 45
The king our Emperor Carlemaine Vol. 49
The King shall joy in thy strength, O Jehovah Vol. 44
The king sits in Dumferling toune Vol. 40
The King's most humble servant, I Vol. 6
The Laddies by the banks o' Nith Vol. 6
The Laird o' Cockpen, he's proud and he's great Vol. 41
The lamp of day with ill-presaging glare Vol. 6
The lang lad they ca' Jumpin John Vol. 6
The lark now leaves his wat'ry nest Vol. 40
The last and greatest Herald of Vol. 40

Heaven's King
The last time I came o'er the moor Vol. 6
The lazy mist hangs from the brow of the hill Vol. 6
The Lord is only my support Vol. 15
The lovely lass of Inverness Vol. 6
The Magadhans hold hitherto a doctrine Vol. 45
The man, in life wherever plac'd Vol. 6
The man of life upright Vol. 40
The man whose mind, like to a rock Vol. 45
The master, the swabber, the boatswain, and I Vol. 46
The merchant, to secure his treasure Vol. 40
The Mighty One, God, Jehovah, hath spoken Vol. 44
The moon becometh perfect once each month Vol. 16
The more we live, more brief appear Vol. 41
The murmur of the mourning ghost Vol. 42
The news frae Moidart cam* yestereen Vol. 41
The night is come, but not too soon Vol. 42
The night is come, like to the day Vol. 3
The night was still, and o'er the hill Vol. 6
The noble Maxwells and their powers Vol. 6
The play is done; the curtain drops Vol. 42
The poetry of earth is never dead Vol. 41
The poor man weeps here Gavin sleeps Vol. 6
The poplars are fell'd, farewell to the shade Vol. 41
The red rose whispers of passion Vol. 42
The Robin to the Wren's nest Vol. 6
The rounded world is fair to see Vol. 5
The sacred lowe o' weel-placed love Vol. 28
The sea is calm to-night Vol. 42
The series which doth bear a fruit Vol. 45
The shadows lay along Broadway Vol. 28
The shepherd for the dance was dress'd Vol. 19
The simple bard, rough at the rustic plough Vol. 6
The simple Bard, unbroke by rules of Vol. 6

art
The skies they were ashen and sober Vol. 42
The small birds rejoice in the green leaves returning. Vol. 6
The smile-dimpled lake woo'd to bathe in its deep . Vol. 26
The smiling Spring comes in rejoicing Vol. 6
The Solemn League and Covenant Vol. 6
The soul's Rial to hath its merchandise Vol. 41
The spacious firmament on high Vol. 40
The spacious firmament on high Vol. 45
The splendor falls on castle walls Vol. 42
The sun descending in the west Vol. 41
The sun had clos'd the winter day Vol. 6
The sun has gane down o'er the lofty Benlomond Vol. 41
The sun he is sunk in the west Vol. 6
The sun, in ancient guise, competing Vol. 19
The sun is warm, the sky is clear Vol. 41
The sun set; but set not his hope Vol. 5
The sun, the moon, the stars, the seas, the hills and the plains Vol. 42
The sun upon the lake is low Vol. 41
The sun (which doth the greatest comfort bring,) Vol. 40
The Sundays of man's life Vol. 15
The Thames flows proudly to the sea Vol. 6
The thirsty earth soaks up the rain Vol. 40
The transgression of the wicked saith within my heart Vol. 44
The tree of deepest root is found Vol. 45
The tryals that those men do meet withal Vol. 15
The twentieth year is well-nigh past Vol. 41
The valiant, in himself, what can he suffer Vol. 6
The valiant warrior famoused for fight Vol. 5
The victory now hath this illustrious Buddha won Vol. 45
The wean wants a cradle Vol. 6
The weary pund, the weary pund Vol. 6
The whole world was not half so wide Vol. 25
The wind blew hollow frae the hills Vol. 6
The winter it is past, and the summer Vol. 6 comes at last.

The wintry west extends his blast	Vol. 6
The word of the Lord by night	Vol. 42
The World is too much with us; late and soon	Vol. 41
The world's a bubble and the life of Man	Vol. 40
The world's great age begins anew	Vol. 41
The worthy knight lies there	Vol. 14
The year's at the spring	Vol. 42
The young May moon is beaming, love	Vol. 41
Their groves o' sweet myrtle let Foreign Lands reckon	Vol. 6
Then gudewife, count the lawin	Vol. 6
Then hate me when thou wilt; if ever, now	Vol. 40
Then hey, for a lass wi' a tocher	Vol. 6
Then mounte! then mounte, brave gallants all	Vol. 28
Theniel Menzies' bonie Mary	Vol. 6
There ance was a may, and she loved na men	Vol. 40
There be none of Beauty's daughters	Vol. 41
There dwelt a man in faire Westmerland	Vol. 40
There is a flower, the Lesser Celandine	Vol. 41
There is a garden in her face	Vol. 40
There is delight in singing, though none hear	Vol. 41
There is no flock, however watched and tended	Vol. 42
There is no writer that shall not perish	Vol. 16
There is not in the wide world a valley so sweet	Vol. 41
There is sweet music here that softer falls	Vol. 42
There lived a carl in Kellyburn Braes	Vol. 6
There lived a wife at Usher's Well	Vol. 40
There shall be seen upon a day	Vol. 3
There they are, my fifty men and women	Vol. 42

There, through the long, long summer hours Vol. 28
There was a bonie lass, and a bonie, bonie lass Vol. 6
There was a boor from Gelderland Vol. 47
There was a king in Thule Vol. 19
There was a lad was born in Kyle Vol. 6
There was a lass, and she was fair Vol. 6
There was a lass, they ca'd her Meg Vol. 6
There was a roaring in the wind all night Vol. 41
There was a time when meadow, grove, and stream Vol. 41
There was a wife wonn'd in Cockpen Vol. 6
There was five Carlins in the South Vol. 6
There was once a day, but old Time was then young Vol. 6
There was three kings into the east Vol. 6
There was twa sisters in a bowr Vol. 40
There were three ladies lived in a bower Vol. 40
There were three rauens sat on a tree Vol. 40
There's a woman like a dew-drop, she's so purer than the purest Vol. 18
There's a youth in this city, it were a great pity Vol. 6
There's Auld Rob Morris that wons in yon glen Vol. 6
There's Death in the cup, so beware Vol. 6
There's nane sail ken, there's nane can guess Vol. 6
There's nane that's blest of human kind Vol. 6
There's news, lassies, news Vol. 6
There's not a joy the world can give like that it takes away Vol. 41
There's nought but care on ev'ry han' Vol. 6
These are the five donations great Vol. 45
These eyes, dear Lord, once brandons of desire Vol. 40
They all were looking for a king Vol. 42
They are all gone into the world of light Vol. 40
They bore him barefac'd on the bier Vol. 46

They made use of their power Vol. 16
They shot him dead on the Nine-Stone rig Vol. 41
They snool me sair, and haud me down Vol. 6
They that have power to hurt, and will do none Vol. 40
They that trust in Jehovah Vol. 44
They told me, Heraclitus, they told me you were dead Vol. 42
Thickest night, o'erhang my dwelling Vol. 6
Thine am I, my faithful Fair Vol. 6
Thine be the volumes, Jessy fair Vol. 6
Think me not unkind and rude Vol. 42
This day, Time winds th' exhausted chain Vol. 6
This Doctrine out of toil begot Vol. 45
This is he, who felled by foes Vol. 5
This is no my ain lassie Vol. 6
This is the forest primeval Vol. 42
This is the month, and this the happy morn Vol. 47
This is the ship of pearl, which, poets feign Vol. 42
This is true Liberty when free born men Vol. 3
This Life, which seems so fair Vol. 40
This lump of earth has left his estate Vol. 42
This morning timely wrapt with holy fire Vol. 40
This rich marble doth inter Vol. 4
This Sancho Panza is of body little Vol. 14
This tale of my sore-troubled life I write Vol. 31
This winter's weather it waxeth cold Vol. 40
This wot ye all whom it concerns Vol. 6
Thou comest! all is said without a word Vol. 41
Thou flatt'ring mark of friendship kind Vol. 6
Thou greybeard, old Wisdom! may boast of thy treasures Vol. 6
Thou hast dealt well with thy servant Vol. 44
Thou hast left me ever, Jamie Vol. 6

Thou hast thy calling to some palace-floor Vol. 41
Thou, Liberty, thou art my theme Vol. 6
Thou ling'ring star, with lessening ray Vol. 6
Thou, Nature, partial Nature, I arraign Vol. 6
Thou of an independent mind Vol. 6
Thou Power Supreme, whose mighty scheme Vol. 28
Thou still unravish'd bride of quietness Vol. 41
Thou that my doleful life didst imitate Vol. 14
Thou thoughtest well of the days Vol. 16
Thou unrelenting Past Vol. 42
Thou, who thy honor as thy God rever'st Vol. 6
Thou whom chance may hither lead Vol. 6
Thou whom chance may hither lead Vol. 6
Thou, Whose Almighty word Vol. 45
Thou youngest virgin-daughter of the skies Vol. 40
Thou's welcome, wean; mishanter fa me Vol. 6
Tho' cruel fate should bid us part Vol. 6
Though fickle Fortune has deceived me Vol. 6
Though the day of my destiny's over Vol. 41
Though the day of my destiny's over Vol. 28
Though thou art not a peer, thou hast no peer Vol. 14
Tho' women's minds, like winter winds Vol. 6
Thoughts, words, and deeds, the Statute blames with reason Vol. 6
Three poets, in three distant ages born Vol. 40
Three years she grew in sun and shower Vol. 41
Three years she grew in sun and shower Vol. 28
Through and through th' inspir'd leaves Vol. 6
Through birth and rebirth's endless round Vol. 45
Through the black, rushing smoke-bursts Vol. 42

Thy bosom is endeared with all hearts Vol. 40
Thy braes were bonny, Yarrow stream Vol. 41
Thy hands have made me and fashioned me Vol. 44
Thy hue, dear pledge, is pure and bright Vol. 41
Thy testimonies are wonderful Vol. 44
Thy tomb is fairly placed upon the strand Vol. 12
Thy word is a lamp unto my feet Vol. 44
Tiger, tiger, burning bright Vol. 41
Time consists of two days; this, bright; and that, gloomy Vol. 16
Timely blossom, Infant fair Vol. 40
Timon, the misanthrope, am I below Vol. 12
Tired with all these, for restful death I cry Vol. 40
'Tis Friendship's pledge, my young, fair Friend Vol. 6
'Tis that, that gives the poet rage Vol. 39
'Tis the day of resurrection Vol. 45
'Tis the last rose of summer Vol. 41
'Tis the middle of night by the castle clock Vol. 41
'Tis time this heart should be unmoved Vol. 41
To be or not to be? That is the question Vol. 34
To draw no envy, Shakespeare, on thy name Vol. 40
To fair Fidele's grassy tomb Vol. 41
To heal his heart of long-time pain Vol. 42
To him who in the love of Nature holds Vol. 42
To John I owed great obligation Vol. 40
To make a happy fireside clime Vol. 28
To me, fair friend, you never can be old Vol. 40
To Megara some of our madcaps ran Vol. 12
To Mercy, Pity, Peace, and Love Vol. 41
To my ninth decade I have totter'd on Vol. 41
To my true king I offered, free from stain Vol. 41
To paint fair Nature, by divine Vol. 27

command
To Riddell, much lamented man Vol. 6
To see a world in a grain of sand Vol. 41
To the Lords of Convention 'twas Claver'se who spoke Vol. 41
To the weaver's gin ye go, fair maids Vol. 6
To you, sir, this summons I've sent Vol. 6
Toll for the Brave Vol. 41
To-morrow is Saint Valentine's day Vol. 46
Too many leaders are not well; the way Vol. 12
Toussaint, the most unhappy man of men Vol. 41
True hearted was he, the sad swain o' the Yarrow Vol. 6
True Thomas lay o'er yond grassy bank Vol. 40
Truly, I never have seen the market and street so deserted Vol. 19
Truly woman is of glass Vol. 14
Turn again, thou fair Eliza Vol. 6
Turn all thy thoughts to eyes Vol. 40
Turn, Fortune, turn thy wheel, and lower the proud Vol. 42
Turn on the prudent Ant thy heedless eyes Vol. 39
'Twas at the royal feast, for Persia won Vol. 40
'Twas even, the dewy fields were green Vol. 6
'Twas in that place o' Scotland's isle Vol. 6
'Twas in the seventeen hunder year, Vol. 6
'Twas na her bonie blue e'e was my ruin Vol. 6
'Twas on a Holy Thursday, their innocent faces clean Vol. 41
'Twas on a lofty vase's side Vol. 40
'Twas on a Monday morning Vol. 6
? Twas on a Monday morning Vol. 41
'Twas one of the charmed days Vol. 42
'Twas when the stacks get on their winter hap Vol. 6
Twenty years hence my eyes may grow Vol. 41

Two Voices are there, one is of the Sea Vol. 41
Umbriel, a dusky, melancholy sprite Vol. 34
Under a spreading chestnut-tree Vol. 42
Under the greenwood tree Vol. 40
Under the wide and starry sky Vol. 42
Under yonder beech-tree single on the green-sward Vol. 42
Underneath this sable hearse Vol. 40
Unhappy they, to whom God ha'n't reveal'd Vol. 27
Unlike are we, unlike, O princely Heart Vol. 41
Unto thee do I lift up mine eyes Vol. 44
Unto thee, O Jehovah, do I lift up my soul Vol. 44
Unto thee, O Jehovah, will I call Vol. 44
Up and waur them a', Jamie Vol. 6
Up from the meadows rich with corn Vol. 42
Up in the morning's no for me Vol. 6
Up the airy mountain Vol. 42
Up the streets of Aberdeen Vol. 42
Up wi' the carls o' Dysart Vol. 6
Upon a simmer Sunday morn Vol. 6
Upon my lap, my Sovereign sits Vol. 40
Upon that night, when fairies light Vol. 6
Vane, young in years but in sage counsel old Vol. 4
Vanity, saith the preacher, vanity Vol. 42
Verse, a breeze 'mid blossoms straying Vol. 41
Victorious men of earth, no more Vol. 40
Vigil strange I kept on the field one night Vol. 42
Virupakkhas, I love them all Vol. 45
Wae is my heart, and the tear's in my e'e Vol. 6
Wae worth thy power, thou cursed leaf Vol. 6
Wailing, wailing, wailing, the wind over land and sea Vol. 42
Wake! For the Sun behind yon Eastern bright Vol. 41
Waken, lords and ladies gay Vol. 41
Warriors and chiefs! should the shaft Vol. 41

or the sword
We are na fou, we're nae that fou Vol. 6
We are the music-makers Vol. 42
We cam na here to view your warks Vol. 6
We give thanks unto thee, O God Vol. 44
We grant they're thine, those beauties all Vol. 6
We have heard with our ears, O God Vol. 44
We must resign! heaven his great soul does claim Vol. 34
We praise thee, O God, we acknowledge thee to be the Lord Vol. 45
We talk'd with open heart, and tongue Vol. 41
We trod the steps appointed for us Vol. 16
We twa hae paidl't i' the burn Vol. 28
We walk'd along, while bright and red Vol. 41
We watch'd her breathing thro' the night Vol. 41
We'll hide the Cooper behint the door Vol. 6
We're all deluded, vainly searching ways Vol. 3
Weak-winged is song Vol. 42
Wee, modest, crimson-tipped flow'r Vol. 6
Wee, sleekit, cow'rin, tim'rous beastie Vol. 6
Wee Willie Gray, and his leather wallet Vol. 6
Weep with me, all you that read Vol. 40
Welcome, wild North-easter Vol. 42
Well I remember how you smiled Vol. 41
Well! If the Bard was weather-wise, who made Vol. 41
Were I as base as is the lowly plain Vol. 40
Were I so tall to reach the pole Vol. 40
Wha, in a brulyie, will Vol. 6
Wha is that at my bower-door? Vol. 6
Wha will buy my troggin, fine election ware Vol. 6
Whan bells war rung, an mass was sung Vol. 40
Whan that Aprille with his shoures soote Vol. 40
Whare are you gaun, my bonie lass Vol. 6
Whare live ye, my bonie lass Vol. 6
What ails ye now, ye lousie bitch Vol. 6

What bird so sings, yet so does wail? Vol. 40
What can a young lassie, what shall a young lassie Vol. 6
What can I give thee back, O liberal Vol. 41
What constitutes a State Vol. 41
What danger is the Pilgrim in Vol. 15
What dost thou in that mansion fair? Vol. 6
What flocks of critics hover here to-day Vol. 18
What guile is this, that those her golden tresses Vol. 40
What hath wrought Sigurd Vol. 49
What have I done for you Vol. 42
What I have left, I left not from generosity Vol. 16
What is our life? The play of passion Vol. 40
What man his conduct guardeth, and hath wisdom Vol. 45
What needs my Shakespeare, for his honoured bones Vol. 4
What needs this din about the town o' Lon'on Vol. 6
What one would think doth seek to slay outright Vol. 15
What time my age was twenty-nine, Subhadda Vol. 45
What was he doing, the great god Pan Vol. 4
What will I do gin my Hoggie die Vol. 6
Whatever is, is right. Though purblind man Vol. 1
When a deed is done for Freedom, through the broad Vol. 42 earth's aching breast Vol. 42
When all the world is young, lad Vol. 42
When at the first I took my pen in hand Vol. 15
When biting Boreas, fell and dour Vol. 6
When Britain first at Heaven's command Vol. 40
When, by a generous Public's kind acclaim Vol. 6
When chapman billies leave the street Vol. 6
When chill November's surly blast Vol. 6
When Christians unto carnal men give Vol. 15

ear
When daisies pied and violets blue Vol. 40
When dear Clarinda, matchless fair Vol. 6
When Death's dark stream I ferry o'er Vol. 6
When do I see thee most, beloved one Vol. 42
When Faith and Love, which parted from thee never Vol. 4
When first I came to Stewart Kyle Vol. 6
When first my brave Johnie lad came to this town Vol. 6
When first the fiery-mantled Sun Vol. 41
When fortune is liberal to thee Vol. 16
When God at first made man Vol. 40
When God willeth an event Vol. 16
When Guilford good our pilot stood Vol. 6
When he came to grene wode Vol. 28
When he who adores thee has left but the name Vol. 41
When I am dead, my dearest Vol. 42
When I consider how my light is spent Vol. 4
When I consider life, 't is all a cheat Vol. 34
When I have borne in memory what has tamed Vol. 41
When I have fears that I may cease to be Vol. 41
When I have seen by Time's fell hand defaced Vol. 40
When I survey the bright Vol. 40
When icicles hang by the wall Vol. 40
When in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes Vol. 40
When in the chronicle of wasted time Vol. 40
When Israel went forth out of Egypt Vol. 44
When Januar's wind was blawing cauld Vol. 6
When Jehovah brought back those that returned to Zion Vol. 44
When Lascelles thought fit from this world to depart Vol. 6
When Letty had scarce pass'd her third glad year Vol. 41
When lilacs last in the dooryard bloom'd Vol. 42
When Love with unconfined wings Vol. 40

When lovely woman stoops to folly Vol. 41
When lyart leaves bestrow the yird Vol. 6
When maidens such as Hester die Vol. 41
When men shall find thy flow'r, thy glory, pass Vol. 40
When Morine, deceas'd, to the Devil went down Vol. 6
When Music, heavenly maid, was young Vol. 41
When Nature her great master-piece design'd Vol. 6
When o'er the hill the eastern star Vol. 6
When on my sickly couch I lay Vol. 28
When our two souls stand up erect and strong Vol. 41
When priests are more in word than matter Vol. 46
When Princes and Prelates Vol. 6
When rosy May comes in wi' flowers Vol. 6
When Ruth was left half desolate Vol. 41
When Saints do sleepy grow, let them come hither Vol. 15
When the blest seed of Terah's faithful Son Vol. 4
When the British warrior queen Vol. 41
When the drums do beat, and the cannons rattle Vol. 6
When the hounds of spring are on winter's traces Vol. 42
When the hours of Day are numbered Vol. 42
When the lamp is shatter'd Vol. 41
When the pine tosses its cones Vol. 42
When the sheep are in the fauld, and the kye at hame Vol. 41
When the voices of children are heard on the green Vol. 41
When to her lute Corinna sings Vol. 40
When to the sessions of sweet silent thought Vol. 40
When to the strenuous, meditative Brahman Vol. 45
When we met first and loved, I did not build Vol. 41
When we two parted Vol. 41

When wild war's deadly blast was blawn Vol. 6
Whenas in silks my Julia goes Vol. 40
Where are the joys I have met in the morning Vol. 6
Where are the Kings and the peoples of the earth Vol. 16
Where art thou, my beloved Son Vol. 41
Where, braving angry winter's storms Vol. 6
Where Cart rins rowin' to the sea Vol. 6
Where did you come from, baby dear Vol. 42
Where dost thou careless lie Vol. 40
Where hae ye been sae braw, lad Vol. 6
Where is the home for me Vol. 8
Where lies the land to which the ship would go Vol. 42
Where shall the lover rest Vol. 41
Where the bee sucks, there suck I Vol. 46
Where the bee sucks, there suck I Vol. 40
Where the remote Bermudas ride Vol. 40
Where they once dug for money Vol. 28
Whereas my birth and spirit rather took Vol. 15
Whereas the wise who cultivate Vol. 45
Wherewith shall a young man cleanse his way Vol. 44
Whether is better, the gift or the donor Vol. 42
Which that the sun with his beams hot Vol. 40
While at the stock the shearers cow'r Vol. 6
While briers an' woodbines budding green Vol. 6
While eagerly man culls life's flowers Vol. 45
While Europe's eye is fix'd on mighty things Vol. 6
While larks, with little wing Vol. 6
While new-ca'd kye rowte at the stake Vol. 6
While virgin Spring by Eden's flood Vol. 6
While winds frae aff Ben-Lomond blaw Vol. 6
While you here do snoring lie Vol. 46
Whiles in the early winter eve Vol. 42
Whither, midst falling dew Vol. 42

Who are you, dusky woman, so ancient hardly human Vol. 42
Who doth my weal diminish thus and stain Vol. 14
Who is it worships at my feet Vol. 45
Who is Silvia? What is she? Vol. 40
Who is the happy Warrior? Who is he Vol. 41
Who made the heart, 'tis He alone Vol. 28
Who shall, Mattio, yield our pain relief Vol. 31
Who would true valour see Vol. 15
Whoe'er he be that sojourns here Vol. 6
Whoe'er she be Vol. 40
Whoe'er thou art, O reader, know Vol. 6
Whoever comes to shroud me, do not harm Vol. 40
Whom will you send to London town Vol. 6
Whose is that noble, dauntless brow Vol. 6
Whoso would know the power of God's dominion Vol. 31
Why am I loth to leave this earthly scene Vol. 6
Why art thou silent? Is thy love a plant Vol. 41
Why boastest thou thyself in mischief, O mighty man Vol. 44
Why, Damon, with the forward day Vol. 41
Why do the nations rage Vol. 44
Why dois your brand sae drap wi' bluid Vol. 40
Why, let the strucken deer go weep Vol. 46
Why look the distant mountains Vol. 41
Why so pale and wan, fond lover Vol. 40
Who standest thou afar off, O Jehovah Vol. 44
Why weep ye by the tide, ladie Vol. 41
Why, why tell thy lover Vol. 6
Why, ye tenants of the lake Vol. 6
Will ye go to the Hielands, Leezie Lindsay Vol. 6
Will ye go to the Indies, my Mary Vol. 6
Willie Wastle dwalt on Tweed Vol. 6
Wilt thou be my Dearie? Vol. 6
Wilt Thou forgive that sin where I begun Vol. 40

Wilt Thou forgive that sin where I begun Vol. 15
Winds blow and waters roll Vol. 5
Wishfully I look and languish Vol. 6
Wi' braw new branks in mickle pride Vol. 6
With Esop's lion, Burns says: Sore I feel Vol. 6
With food and drinks and cunning magic arts Vol. 2
With his cross-bow, and his quiver Vol. 26
With how sad steps, O Moon, thou climb'st the skies Vol. 40
With little here to do or see Vol. 41
With numerous tribes from Asia's regions brought Vol. 12
With Pegasus upon a day Vol. 6
With sacrifice before the rising morn Vol. 41
With secret throes I marked that earth Vol. 6
With the same heart, I said, I'll answer thee Vol. 41
Within the glen sae bushy, Vol. 6
Word's gane to the kitchen Vol. 40
Words of strife heard I Vol. 49
Work of his hand Vol. 5
Would that the structure brave, the manifold music I build Vol. 42
Would'st thou hear what man can say Vol. 40
Wow, but your letter made me vauntie Vol. 6
Ye banks and braes and streams around Vol. 6
Ye banks and braes o' bonie Doon Vol. 6
Ye blushing virgins happy are Vol. 40
Ye distant spires, ye antique towers Vol. 40
Ye flaming Powers, and winged Warriors bright Vol. 4
Ye flowery banks o' bonie Doon Vol. 6
Ye gallants bright, I rede you right Vol. 6
Ye Highlands, and ye Lawlands Vol. 40
Ye hypocrites! are these your pranks Vol. 6
Ye Irish lords, ye knights an' squires Vol. 6
Ye Jacobites by name, give an ear, give an ear Vol. 6
Ye learned sisters, which have Vol. 40

oftentimes
Ye maggots, feed on Nicol's brain Vol. 6
Ye Mariners of England Vol. 41
Ye men of wit and wealth, why all this sneering Vol. 6
Ye sons of old Killie, assembled by Willie Vol. 6
Ye true "Loyal Natives" attend to my song Vol. 6
Ye twain, in trouble and distress Vol. 19
Ye wavering shapes, again ye do enfold me Vol. 19
Yes, call me by my pet-name! let me hear Vol. 41
Yes; in the sea of life enisled Vol. 42
Yes! let the rich deride, the proud disdain Vol. 6
Yes, there is holy pleasure in thine eye Vol. 41
Yestreen I had a pint o' wine Vol. 6
Yestreen I met you on the moor Vol. 6
Yet if His Majesty, our sovereign lord Vol. 40
Yet, love, mere love, is beautiful indeed Vol. 41
Yet once more, O ye Laurels, and once more Vol. 4
Yet, pleased with idle whimsies of his brain Vol. 34
Yon wandering rill that marks the hill Vol. 6
Yon wild mossy mountains sae lofty and wide Vol. 6
You ask me, why, tho' ill at ease Vol. 42
You brave heroic minds Vol. 40
You meaner beauties of the night Vol. 40
You promise heavens free from strife Vol. 42
You render me lovelorn, and remain at ease Vol. 16
You spotted snakes with double tongue Vol. 40
You'll love me yet! and I can tarry Vol. 42
You're welcome to Despots, Dumourier Vol. 6
You're welcome, Willie Stewart Vol. 6
Young Jamie, pride of a' the plain Vol. 6

Young Jockie was the blythest lad Vol. 6
Young Peggy blooms our boniest lass Vol. 6
Your billet, sir, I grant receipt Vol. 6
Your friendship much can make me blest Vol. 6
Your hands lie open in the long, fresh grass Vol. 42
Your News and Review, sir Vol. 6

General Index

A

Aaron, references to, in Psalms, xliv, 239 (20), 267 (6), 276 (26), 278 (16); beard of, 314 (2); and the golden calf, 437 (40-1); breastplate of, iv, 150, 384; Calvin on, xxxix, 42; Browning on, xlii, 1099; Mohammed on, xlv, 911

Abaddon, Hebrew for destruction, xliv, 114, note 13; Milton on, iv, 411

Abano, Pietro d', xix, 211, note 35

Abas, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 77, 327, 336

Abascantius, L. Satrius, ix, 361

Abbagliato, Dante on, xx, 122, and note

Abbati, Bocca degli, xx, 133, note 8

Abbondio, Don, in THE BETROTHED, meets the bravoes, xxi, 9-15; character and times of, 16-20; tells Perpetua his mishap, 21-4; plans to put Renzo off, 25-6; with Renzo, 27-30; owns truth to Renzo, 31-3; his fever, 33-4; on night of Renzo's intended marriage, 115-20, 127; ordered to go to Lucia, 368-73; with the Unnamed on the way, 373-9; returns with Lucia, 380-8; complained of, by Agnese, 398; with the Cardinal, 407-9; reprimanded by Cardinal, 415-25; during German invasion, 472-81, 487-91; at castle of Unnamed, 493-5; returns home, 496-9; with Renzo on latter's return, 547-50; anxieties about marrying Renzo, 621-2, 627-30; consents to perform ceremony, 631-3; advises Marquis how to aid lovers, 633-6

Abbott, T. K., translator of Kant, xxxii,

Abbott, Capt., at Gettysburg, xliii, 385,

Abdallah ibn Umm Maktum, xlv, 885 note

Abd-El-Melik, xvi, 296, 297, 324

Abd-Es-Samad, the sheik, xvi, 299, 324

Abdication, Rousseau on right of, xxxiv,

Abdiel, in PARADISE LOST, rebukes Satan, iv, 201-2; leaves the rebel angels, 203; arrival among the faithful, 204-5; combat with Satan, 207-9; in the battle, 213; Bagehot on Milton's, xxviii, 197-8

A Becket (see Becket)

Abel and Cain, Milton on, iv, 330; Mohammed on, xlv, 997; taken from Limbo by Christ, xx, 18; and the tree of Eve, xxxv, 186

Abelard, Carlyle on, xxv, 362-3

ABERFELDY, THE BIRKS OF, vi, 277-8

Aberrant species, xi, 448-9

Abiathar, Winthrop on, xliii, 94

ABIDE WITH ME, xlv, 566-7

Abihu, Browning on, xlii, 1099

Ability, Penn on, worldly, i, 374-7; with humility, i, 392 (247); M. Aurelius on low natural, ii, 223 (5), 243-4 (5), 249 (52), 252 (67), 255 (8); generally accompanied by frankness, iii, 17; certain to make itself felt, v, 286-7

Abtme, the Saracen, xlix, 148-9

Abimelech, and David, xliv, 181

Abindarraez, story of, xiv, 44

Abishag, reference to, xli, 486

Abolitionism, Lowell on, xxviii, 446

Abortion, Hippocrates on, xxxviii, 3

ABOU BEN ADHEM, xli, 870-1

Abra, Pompeia's maid, xii, 271-2

Abradatas, xxvii, 20

Abraham, Milton on, iv, 344-5; and Ephron, x, 30; Bunyan on, xv, 106, 237-8; and Sarah, xxxvi, 272; Paul on, 352; the covenant with, xliv, 275 (9); Stephen on, 435-6 (2-8); Mohammed on, xlv, 904, 910-11, 955, 980; and Iblis, 952, note 5; Pascal on, xlviii, 164 (502), 198, 201, 203, 216 (644), 284 (822), 298; taken from Limbo, xx, 18

Abraxa, early name of Utopia, xxxvi, 172

Abridgments, Swift on, xxvii, no

Abriorix, Gaulish chief, xii, 284

Abrotonon, mother of Themistocles, xii, 5

Absalom, and David, xx, 118; Psalm when David fled from, xliv, 146-7; Bunyan on, xv, 309; David's grief for,

Abscesses, antiseptic treatment of, xxxviii, 263-5

ABSENCE, by Landor, xli, 899

ABSENCE, PRESENT IN, xl, 313

Absence, Lovelace on, xl, 356; Confucius on, xliv, 29-30

Absentees, taxation of, x, 535

Absolutes, Plato on knowledge of, ii, 64-6; participation in, 93-6; further remarks on, 96-8; Schiller on search for, xxxii, 238; Mazzini on, xxxii, 379

Absolution, Luther on unjust, xxxvi, 276; Pascal on, xlviii, 304 (870), 311-2 (904-5), 317 (923)

Abstemiousness, Pliny on, ix, 297-8

Abstinence, Comus on folly of, iv, 63-4; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 866-7

Abstract ideas, Plato on, ii, 63-6; Epictetus on, 157 (109); Schiller on, xxxii, 238; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 250-1; Berkeley on, xxx vii, 212; Hume on, 411, 413-14 note 3

Abstract names, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 328

Abstract philosophy, Hume on, xxxvii, 290-8, 350

Abstract reasoning, Hume on, xxxvii, 412, 418

Abstract sciences, Pascal on, xlviii, 58-9 (144)

Absurdities, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 333-4

ABT VOGLER, xlii, 1100-1102

Abu Bekr, xlv, 964, note 24

Abu Ghal, xlv, 879, note 3

Abu-i-Abbas El-Khidr, xvi, 323

Abu Laheb, xlv, 989, note 20

Abu Sufian, xlv, 943, note 2

Abuses, Sidney on, xxvii, 35; Luther on, xxxvi, 309; Dryden on, xxxix, 174, note 36; Pascal on, xlviii, 314 (916)

Abyssinia, salt as money in, x, 28

Academic philosophy, Hume on, xxxvii, 319-20, 407-20

Academics, St. Augustine on the, vii, 73-4; on nature, xxxix, 109 Academy, Milton's design of an, iii, 239-47 Academy of Plato, ii, 3; first formed by Cimon, xxviii, 40-1; Milton on, iv, 401; Newman on, xxviii, 57

Acadie, A Tale of (see Evangeline)

Acamacari, town of, xxxiii, 360

Acception of persons, xxxiv, 409

Accius, works of, lost, xxvii, 344

Acclimatisation, Darwin on, xi, 144-7

Accolti, Benedetto, xxxi, 73, note 2, note 5

Accomplishments, Locke on, xxxvii, 170

Accorso, Francesco, xx, 64 and note 4

Accounting, as part of female education, i, 93; importance of punctual, 98; Locke on knowledge and practise of, xxxvii, 178-9

Accuracy, essential to beauty, v, 210; Hume on, xxxvii, 292-3; Goethe on, xxxix, 256

Accusations, kill innocent names, xviii, 335; Bentham on public, xxvii, 241; in law, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 399-400; of children, xxxvii, 90; Calvin on, xxxix, 28

Accusers, false, in ancient Rome, ix, 296, note 9

Acedophagi, xxxv, 349

Acelin, Count, xlix, 100, 180

Acestes, King of Sicily, xiii, 92; welcomes JEneas, 179; at games, 180; the arrow of, 195-6

Acetate of lead, under voltaic current, xxx, 129 note

Acetate of soda, xxx, 40 and note

Acevedo, Pietro de, on bravoes, xxi, 12

Achaemenides, xiii, 148-9

Achaia, Pliny on, ix, 332

Achaicus, xlv, 514 (17)

Achan, Dante on, xx, 228; Vane on, xliii, 129

Achates, faithful, xiii, 77; references to, 79. 84, 93, 96, 145, 208, 283

Acheloos River, Herodotus on, xxxiii, ii

Acheron, Plato on the, ii, 108-9; sooty flag of, iv, 60; Milton on the, 123; blood-bedabbled peak of, viii, 453; Virgil on, xiii, 211, 217; Dante on the, xx, 15, 60; Homer on the, xxii, 143; Burke on exhalation of, xxiv, 72 (see xiii, 215)

Acherusian Lake, ii, 108, 109

Achievement, Browning on, xlii, 1096

Achillas, and Caesar, xii, 304-5

Achilles, Socrates on, ii, 17; and Patroclus, iii, 318; xxxii, 77; xlvi, 28; Milton on wrath of, iv, 260; heel of, v, 92; Dryden on, xiii, 8, 14, 26-7; xxxix, 158; father of Pyrrhus, and Priam, xiii, 118; imitated by Alexander, xxxvi, 50; brought up by Chiron, 57; flight from Chiron, xx, 180; in Dante's Hell, 22; javelin of, 127; his quarrel with Ulysses, xxii, 101; Homer on death and funeral of, xxii, 320-2; in Hades, 156-8, 320; Burke on, xxiv, 127; Tom Brown on, xxvii, 313; Shelley on Homer's, 336; and the twenty-five cities, xxxv, 233; and the captive, xxxix, 239

Achillini, and King Louis, xxi, 466

Achoriens, More on the, xxxvi, 159

Acilius, friend of Pliny, ix, 240; soldier of Caesar, xii, 277

Acmon, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 326

Acoetes, servant of Pallas, xiii, 356, 358

Aconcagua, volcano of, xxix, 257, 295-6; height of, 250, note n

Aconteus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 378

Acoustics, in NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 178

Acquiescence, Burns on, vi, 68; Emerson's doctrine of, v, 60, 147-8; Epictetus on, ii, 126 (26, 29), 130 (37), 136 (58), 138 (61), 143 (70, M8 (84), 164 (131), 165 (133, 134), 167 (138, 139), 172 (152), 174 (159, 160), 179-80 (184), 180 (186); Hume on doctrine of, xxxvii, 368; Jesus on, xii, 490-1; Job on, xliv, 73 (10); Kempis on, vii, 276, 278-9, 301, 303, 317-9; M. Aurelius on, ii, 204 (17), 211 (16), 216 (23), 218 (34), 224 (8), 226 (10), 229 (27), 240 (44), 248 (41), 249-50 (51, 54), 250 (58), 258 (32), 262 (50), 269 (28), 279 (14), 281 (28), 286 (6), 297 (14); Pascal's doctrine, xlviii, 340-1, 352, 372-3; Pascal on Epictetus's doctrine, 338; Pope on, xl, 411, 414-5; Raleigh on, xxxix, 97-8; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 279-80; Tennyson on, xiii, 1020; Thackeray on, xiii, 1059-60.

Acrasia, the enchantress, xxxix, 64

Acron, death of, xiii, 346

Acropolis, propylza of the, xii, 50-1

Acta Sanctorum, Carlyle on, v, 456-7

Actaeon, son of Autonoe, viii, 427; and Artemis, 381; reference to, xlvii, 714 note

Actilius, Caxton on, xxxix, 15

Actinic light, xxx, 260

Actinism, xxviii, 418

Action (see also Acts, Activity); Demosthenes on, iii, 31; the value of, to the scholar, v, 12-15; Kant on principles of, xxxii, 325-50; two ways of, xxxix, 117; Longfellow on, xiii, 1264, 1265; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 795, 799-801, 805-6, 809-10, 813, 866-8; Webster on want of, xlvii, 757; Pascal on necessity of, xlviii, 51 (131); sources of, 115 (334); and love, 416, 419

Action and reaction (see Polarity)

Actium, battle of, xii, 371-5; Bacon on, iii, 79; Dryden on Antony at, xviii, 32-3; Virgil on, xiii, 290-1

Actius, razor of, iii, 315, note 9

Activity, Cicero on, ix, 51; Epictetus on, and meditation, ii, 125; M. Aurelius on, 268 (16); Hindu Krishna on, xlv, 799; man prone to shirk, xix, 21; in perceptions, xxxvii, 214-15

Actor, the lance of, xiii, 392

Actors, attitude of, toward the drama, xix, 10, 12, 14-15; as teachers, 29; high rewards of, reason for, x, 109; Lamb on, xxvii, 300-8; legal, xxxiv, 413-15; Montaigne on, xxxii, 70; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 139-40, 147-8; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 152-3

Acts, better than knowledge, xv, 85; xxxii, 59; xliv, 9 (24), 370 (47-9); better than words, ii, 177 (175), 279 (16), 288 (15); Browning on, and intentions, xiii, 1071; Confucius on, and words, xliv, 8 (13), 14 (24), 15-16 (9), 48 (29); consequences of, xlviii, 165 (505); effect of, on faculties and habits, ii, 144 (75); explain themselves, v, 67; carry own rewards, 90, 289; hidden, most noble, xlviii, 62 (159); Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 867-8; Hume on, and motives, xxxvii, 353-60, 362 note, 365-6; Kant on moral worth of, xxxii, 308-15, 349-50; Kempis on judgment of, vii, 296; kind of words, v, 164; not motives, to be judged, xxv, 36; our angels, v, 59; our epochs, xviii, 421; our only possessions, xlv, 676; religiousness of, 864; unsocial, ii, 269 (23)

ACTS OF THE APOSTLES, authorship of, xliv, 352, 423-86; editorial remarks on, 422

Acts of settlement, succession, etc. (see Settlement, Succession)

Acuto, Giovanni, xxxvi, 42

Ad, xlv, 891, 905

Adam, awakening of, iv, 180-1; 250; Bacon on fall of, xxxix, 128; Bagehot on Milton's, xxviii, 196; Browne on, iii, 274, 291, 317; Burns on, vi, 142; Chaucer on, xl, 46; confesses his sin and is judged, iv, 294-6; creation explained to, 248; inquiries of, on creation, 228-30, 240; curse of, xxxvi, 332; Dante on, xx, 398-9; earth, kingdoms of, seen by, in vision, iv, 328-9; Eden, departure of, from, 356-8; Eden, Life in, described by, 250-56; Eden, loss of, dreaded by, 326-7; Eden, sentenced to leave, 321-2; Eve, accused by, 287-90; Eve, discourse with, on laboring apart, 265-70; Eve, love of, for, 256-9; Eve, meeting of, with, 255-6; Eve, supper of, with, 163; Eve, tree of, and, xxxv, 186; Eve, wrath of, at, iv, 312-14; fall of, through own fault, 291; future, vision of, by, 329-55; HAMLET, mentions of, in, xlvi, 191; hides from God, iv, 293; Hobbes on language of, xxxiv, 323; labors of, iv, 186; Lamb on pictures of, xxvii, 312 note; lament of, iv, 309-12; Luther on, xxxvi, 361; Michael, meeting of, with, iv, 324-5; morning hymn, 184-6; Omens, evil, seen by, 323-4; PARADISE LOST, Description of, in, 162-3; supper with Eve, 163; Pascal on state of, xlviii, 184 (560); prayers relieve, iv, 322-3; Raphael discourses with, 192-4; Raphael parts with, 259-60; Raphael welcomed by, 188-90; rest suggested by, 170; retires to rest with Eve, 173; saved by Christ, xx, 18; his place in Paradise, 422; Saviour promised to, xlviii, 215-6; stars, discourse of, on, iv, 171; stars, inquiries of, on, 244; submission advised by, 317-8; tree of knowledge, described to Eve by, 165; wisdom of, xx, 340, note 6; Eve tempts, iv, 282-7; waking, accuses Eve, 287-90

Adam and Eve, Woolman on, i, 214

Adam and Eve's Pools, iii, 170

Adam the First, and his daughters, xv, 73

Adamo of Brescia, xx, 124, note 2; Sinon of Troy, and, 126

Adams, John, Americanism of, v, 67;

American independence, and, xliii, 150 note, 154; treaty with England and, 174-5

Adams, John Quincy, treaty of 1814 and, xliii, 255; treaty with Spain and, 268

Adams, Matthew, i, 14

Adams, Samuel, signer of Declaration, xliii, 154; in Articles of Confederation, 167

Adams, Sarah Flower, hymn by, xlv, 568-9

Adams, William, xliii, 255

Adamus, in Utopia, xxxvi, 181-2

Adaptability, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 239 (39); Montaigne on, xxxii, 57-8; to times, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 81

Adaptation, in nature, xi, 84-5; examples of, 71-2, 91-2, 198, 224-5; xxix, 467; never perfect, 91; to atmospheric conditions, xxxviii, 338-9; to climate, xi, 145-6

Adder, Harrison on the, xxxv, 344-5

Addison, Joseph, birth and education, xxvii, 155-6; Campaign, 159-60, 182-3; Cato of, 158, 165-8, 178; Cato, quotation from, i, 82; character and habits of, xxvii, 176-80; Commissioner of Appeals, 160; critical abilities of, 196-7; death of, 175-6; defense of Christianity, 173; Dennis on Cato of, 185-96; descriptions of life, 198; The Drummer, 169; Dryden on translations of, xiii, 427; early writings of, xxvii, 157-8; Esther Johnson and, 123; Freeholder, 171; Hume on, xxxvii, 291; HYMN by, xl, 400; xlv, 535; Johnson on Cato of, xxvii, 184-5; xxxix, 227; Latin compositions of early, xxvii, 157; Letter to Halifax, 158-9, 182; Life and works of, 72; LIFE by Johnson, 155-99; marriage of, 171-2; Old Whig papers, 174, 175; on Chaucer, xxviii, 81; on criticism of art, xxiv, 28; on love of beauty in animals, 38; on the rotund in building, 63 note; papers for the Guardian, xxvii, 168-9; Peerage Bill Pamphlet, 173-4; plans a dictionary, 173; Poems early, 157; poetry of, estimate on, 180-96; Political Papers, 170; Prose, 199; Regent, secretary to, 171; religion, 107; Rosamond, 160, 184; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 131; Secretary of State, xxvii, 172; Shelley on Cato, 341; The Spectator, 83, 162, 164, 169, 170; Steele, relations with, 156, 160-4, 165-6, 173-5; The Taller, 161-2; Tender Husband, part in, 160; Thackeray on, xxviii, 9; Tragedy on Socrates, xxvii, 172-3; travels, 158; Under-Secretary, 160; VISION OF MIRZA, 73-7; Voltaire on Cato, xxxiv, 135; xxxix, 227; WESTMINSTER ABBEY, xxvii, 78-80; Wharton, Lord, secretary to, 160

Addison, Lancelot, father of Joseph, xxvii, 155

Adeimantus, son of Ariston, ii, 22

Adeimantus, son of Leucolophus, viii, 486

Adeodatus, son of St. Augustine, vii, 3, 96, 146; grief of, over Monica, 155

Ades, reference to, iv, 132

ADESTE FIDELES, xlv, 555-6

Adhibhuta, Adhidaiva, etc., xlv, 822

Adhyatman, xlv, 822, 834

Adimantus, Athenian general, xii, 143

Admetus, king of Molossians, xii, 26

Administratio, defined, xxxvi, 284

Admirable Crichton, (see Crichton)

Admiral, origin of name, xxxv, 358

Admiralty Cases (U. S.), xliii, 189 (Sec. 2)

Admiration, Byron on, xii, 793; caused by ignorance, xxiv, 52; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; degrees of, ii, 234 (14); excited by the perilous, ix, 347; inferior degree of astonishment, xxiv, 49; Pascal on love of, xlviii, 60, (150-1); unknown to animals, xlviii, 130 (401)

Admlithe, the jester, xlix, 242

Admonition, Winthrop on use of, xliii, 94

Adoedatus (see Adeodatus)

Adolius, xxxviii, 392

ADONAIS, Shelley's, xii, 856-70

Adonijah, and Solomon, xliii, 94

Adonis, references to, iv, 71, 99, 271

Adoration, David on, xii, 492-5; "pure, which God likes best," iv, 173

Adoxa, Darwin on the, xi, 215

Adramelech, Milton on, iv, 213

Adrastos, viii, 200 note

Adrastus, king of Argos, xii, 240 note; in Hades, xiii, 223

Adrian, Roman Emperor (see Hadrian)

Adrian V, Pope, Dante on, xx, 223-4, note 8

Adrian VI, Pope, xxxvi, 102

Adrian, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 417, 418, 443

ADRIAN, DYING, TO His SOUL, xl, 398

Adulation, Burke on, xxiv, 148

Adultery in biblical times, xliii, 94; in Dante's Hell, xx, 22-4; in old England, xxxv, 365-6; in old Massachusetts, xliii, 81 (9); in Utopia, xxxvi, 210, 211; Jesus on, xliv, 397 (18); Job on, 119 (9-12); Mohammed on, xlv, 969; punishment of, in ancient Germany, xxxiii, 103

Advancement in Life, Channing on, xxviii, 314-21; Confucius on, xliv, 51 (5); Ruskin on, xxviii, 94-5, 127-8

Adversity, Christ's sake, for, vii, 239 (5), 253-7; Cicero on, ix, 17, 31; despair in, vii, 268, 295 (6), 329, Ecclesiastes on, xliv, 343 (14); Kempis on, vii, 215, 273 (2), 294 (4); love and, viii, 32-3; Pascal on, xlviii, 47 (107), 354; Penn on, i, 344 (239); prosperity of greatness, v, 290; Raleigh on, xxxix, 67, 96-8; religion and, iii, 44; strength proved by, vii, 220, (4); truth's sake, for, i, 191-2

ADVERSITY, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 16-17

ADVERSITY, HYMN TO, Gray's, xl, 450-1

Advice, Æsop on interested, xvii, 37; Bacon on, of friends, iii, 70-1, 120; Carlyle on, xxv, 361; Cicero on, ix, 25, 39; in difficulties, xvii, 44; Kempis on giving and receiving, vii, 213 (3); Mill on liberty of, xxv, 295; of parents, xxxvii, 82; Pliny on seeking, ix, 339 (see also Counsel)

Advocates and judges, iii, 132-3

Æ FOND Kiss AND THEN WE SEVER, vi, 428-9

Æacus, judge in Hades, ii, 29

Æacus, porter in THE FROGS, viii, 453, 457-9, 461-3

Æantodorus, ii, 22

Æ'don, daughter of Pandareus, in the Odyssey, xxii, 270

Æetes, brother of Circe, xxii, 133

Ægæon, and Jove, xiii, 341 (see also Briareus)

Ægina, in Persian war, xii, 20; Pericles on, 43

Ægisthus, in AGAMEMNON, viii, 71-5; Clytemnestra on, 65; Homer on, xxii, 10, 17, 38, 39-41, 59; in THE LIBATIONBEARERS, viii, 110-13; Orestes on, 90, 117-18

Ægospotami, battle of, xii, 143-4

Ægyptus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 21-2, Sextus, Cicero, on, ix, 55, SONG FROM, xii, 558-9

Æhoth, xlix, 132

Æmilianus, Minutius, ix, 200-2

Æmilianus, Scipio (see Scipio)

Æmilius, Papus, ix, 23

Æmilius, Paulus, and the king of Macedon, xxxii, 16; Pascal on, xlviii, 132 (409, 410)

Æneas, adventures related by, xiii, 100-51; Africa, landing of, in, 79-80; Anchises's funeral games celebrated by, 179-97; Anchises rescued by, 122-5; arms of, brought by Venus, 288-92; arms of, made by Vulcan, 282-3; Cervantes on, xiv, 212; Carthage, entered by, xiii, 87-90; Carthage, prepares to sail from, 166-7; Carthage, second warning to fly from, 172; Carthage, warned to leave, 160-1; Chaonia, voyage of, to, 137; Crete, settles in, 131-3; Creusa, ghost of, and, 126-7; Dante places, in Limbo, xx, 19; Dido and, go hunting, xiii, 157-8; Dido curses, 175; Dido, first meeting with, 90-1, 94-9; Dido, love of, for, 152-5; Dido reproaches, 163-6; Dryden on Virgil's, xiii, 9, 18, 19-37; xxxix, 157-8; Evander's aid sought by, xiii, 270-80; 283-7; fire on ships of, 201; Hades visited by, 211-38; Helenus and Andromache receive, 137-44; hell, visit to, referred to, xx, 9-10, note i; Italy, first landing in, xiii, 145-6; Italy, warned to seek, 133-4; Jove prophesies success of, 82; Juno persecutes, 73; Latium, arrival in, 239-44; Mezentius and Lausus killed by, 348-54; Pallas, body of, sent back by, 355-8; parents of, Venus and Anchises, 95; prayer and agreement of, 395-6; ships of, turned to nymphs, 295-8; Sibyl visited by, 207-10; Sicily, driven to, by storm, 178-9; Sicily, first landing in, 147-51; Sicily, leaves settlement in (cf. Dante, xx, p. 220), 202-3; Sidney on, xxvii, 10, 18, 23, 28-9; Spenser on, xxxix, 62; storm overtakes, xiii, 76-7; Strophades, landing of, in the, 135-7; Thrace in, 129-30; Trojan war, in, 366; trophy erected by, 355-6; Troy, in sack of, 109-21; Troy, sets sail from, 128; Troy, withdrawal from, xxxix, 224; Turnus challenged to single combat by, xiii, 359; Turnus, final combat with, 414-23; Turnus, prepares for combat with, 393; Turnus, war with, 259-60; Turnus, war with, renewed, 405-10; Venus heals, wounded, 404; Venus, meeting of, with, 84-7

Æneas, palsied man healed by apostles, xliv, 443 (33-5)

Æneid, The, Dryden's translation, xiii, 73-423; Arguments of, written by Addison, xxvii, 157; Burke on, xxiv, 20, 54, 60, 72, 135-6; Caxton's Prologue to, xxxix, 24-26; Dryden on machinery of, xiii, 46-50; Dryden on his translation of, 51-69; Dryden's defence of, 14-43; editorial remarks on, 3-4; Homer's influence on, xxxix, 158; Milton on, iv, 260-1; Montaigne on, xxxii, 90, 92-3; time of, xiii, 43-6; time of composition, 52; willed by Virgil to be burned, 18

Ænobarbus, Domitius, xii, 353

Æolus, called Hippotades, iv, 74; in the .ENEID, xiii, 75-7; jailer of the winds, 78; Ulysses and, xxii, 130-2

Æronautics, in NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 178-9

Æschere, xlix, 42, 44, 63

Æschines, the orator, xii, 203, 211; metaphors of, ix, 350; on Demosthenes, xii, 193, 201; ix, 215, 349

Æschines, son of Lysanias, ii, 22, 47

Æschylus, Aristophanes on, viii, 486; on Artemis, xxxiii, 79; Euripides's dispute with, in THE FROGS, viii, 462-86; on the hereafter, ii, 103; HOUSE OF ATREUS, viii, 7-165; Hugo on, xxxix, 347; life and works of, viii, 5-6; Milton on, iv, 413; Montaigne on death of, xxxii, 13; on Persians, numbers of, xii, 18; PROMETHEUS BOUND, viii, 166-206; Shelley on choruses of, xxvii, 332; Sophocles beats, in contest, viii, 208; Sophocles and, compared, 208; Suppliants of, xxxix, 341; Taine on, and Euripides, 426-7; Voltaire on tragedies of, 364

Æsculapius, son of Apollo, xxxviii, 2; /Eschylus on death of, viii, 45; Jonson on, xlvii, 615; Virgil on death of, xiii, 265

Æsion, on Demosthenes, xii, 199 and note

Æsir, northern gods, xlix, 294 note

Æson, son of Tyro, xxii, 151; Medea and, xii, 664

Æsop, author of Fables, xvii, 8; Bacon on, iii, 108; Herodotus on, xxxiii, 67

Æsop, the tragedian, xii, 221-2; Cicero on, ix, 108

Æsop's FABLES, xvii, 11-44; CAXTON'S EPILOGUE TO, xxxix, 17-18; editorial remarks on, xvii, 8, 9; Emerson on, v, 176; Locke on, xxxvii, 131-2, 160; Montaigne on, xxxii, 90; Sidney on, xxvii, 18-19; versified by Socrates, ii, 48-9

ÆSTHETIC EDUCATION, LETTERS ON, Schiller's, xxxii, 207-295

Æsthetics (see Art, Beauty, Taste)

Æstivation, of animals, xxix. 105

Æstyans, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 118

Æthiops, river, viii, 196, note 56

Ætna, Æschylus on, viii, 179-80; Milton on, iv, 94; Virgil on, xiii, 147

Afer, Domitius, Pliny on, ix, 221; will of, 328

Affability, a source of power, xxxiv, 360

Affairs, great, by what performed, ix, 51

Affectation, Fielding on, xxxix, 180-1; Locke on, xxxvii, 45-7; of simplicity, ii, 288 (15)

Affectation, in speech, i, 383 (121); of wisdom, iii, 64-5

Affection, never wasted, xlii, 1320; "oft the spring of woe," vi, 195; on blind, xl, 301; (see also Love)

Affliction, Browne on, iii, 304; David's prayer in, xliv, 156; Elihu on, 129 (8-11, 15-16); Eliphaz on, 77 (6, 7, 17-19); Emerson on compensation for, v, 102-3; Herbert on, xv, 389-91; Kempis on patience under, vii, 217 (8), 280, 293-4, 300 (2); Longfellow on, xlii, 1277-8; Mohammedan proverb on, xvi, 76; Pascal on temporal, xlviii, 349; "sons of, brothers in distress," vi, 251; wisdom learned by, viii, 14; Woolman on, i, 197-8, 237-8

AFFLICTION OF MARGARET, xii, 644-6

Affronts, Penn on bearing, i, 339-4O (182-5)

Afranius, Lucius, Cicero on, ix, 96, 159; in civil war, xii, 294, 299, 307

Africa, backward state of, cause of, x, 26; Herodotus on, xxxiii, 21; vegetation and animals of, xxix, 92-4

Africanus, Julius, ix, 300

Africanus, Scipio (see Scipio)

After-games, i, 348 (302)

AFTON, SWEET, vi, 417-18

Agabus, xliv, 448 (28), 469 (10-11)

Agace, Gobin, xxxv, 21, 23

Agag, Samuel on, xxxix, 78

Agamemnon, Achilles and, xiii, 14-15; burial of, viii, 94-5; Cassandra foresees death of, 48-59; Homer on return and death of, xxii, 37, 38, 39, 59-60, 154-6; in Hades, 154-7, 320-2; Iphigenia, sacrifice of, by, viii, 15-17; murder of, 60-71; Orestes on, 140-1; Sidney on, xxvii, 17; Spenser on, xxxix, 62; in Trojan war, viii, 9-13, 26-7; xxii, 101 ; Virgil on death of, xiii, 365

AGAMEMNON, TRAGEDY OF, vEschylus's, viii, 7-75; compared with LEAR, xxvii, 339

Agapetus, Bishop, xx, 306, note 6

Agariste, mother of Pericles, xii, 37 Agassiz, Alexander, on echinodermata, xi, 235, 236

Agassiz, Louis, on amblyopsis, xi, 144; on embryological characters, 437; on embryos, 371, 468; on his first lecture, xxviii, 452; on glacial period, xi, 394; on immutability of species, 348; on movement of glaciers, xxx, 225; on synthetic types, xi, 362; on tertiary species, 336

AGASSIZ [Louis], FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY OF, Longfellow's, xlii, 1293-4

Agatha, St., Kempis on, vii, 309, note 2

Agatharchus, Alcibiades and, xii, 120; Zeuxis and, 49

Agathocles, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 29, 31-2

Agathon, Aristophanes on, viii, 441; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 236; quoted, ii, 214 (18)

Agathonius, age of, ix, 70

Agave, mother of King Pentheus in the BACCHÆ, viii, 368-436; doom of, 433-6; leader of Bacchanals, 399-402; slays Pentheus, 420-1

Age (see also Old Age); not to be regarded, viii, 279; legal, in Massachusetts, xliii, 73 (53)

Agelaus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 281-2, 299, 302, 303, 304

Agents, Bacon on choice of, iii, 118; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 413-14

Agesilaus, Bacon on, iii, 23, 108; Cicero on, ix, 104; on happiness, xxxii, 5

Aggravation, punishment of priests, xxxvi, 308 note

AGINCOURT, Drayton's, xl, 222-6

Agincourt, Macaulay on, xii, 915

Agio, defined, x, 358; of Amsterdam Bank, 256-7

Agis I of Sparta, and Alcibiades, xii, 128

Agis II of Sparta, xii, 210

Agis III, Emerson on, v, 183

Agis the Lycian, xiii, 347

Aglauros, in Dante's Purgatory, xx, 203

Agli, Lotto degli, xx, 57 note

Aglovale, Sir, xxxv, 128

Agnes, St., Luther on, xxxvi, 301, 326

AGNES, ST., EVE OF, Keats's, xii, 883-93

Agnese, in THE BETROTHED (see Mondella, Agnese)

Agnolo, Baccio d', xxxi, 412 note 3

Agnolo, Giuliano di Baccio d', xxxi, 392, 412

Agnolo, Michel, father of Bandinello, xxxi, 14

Agnolo, Michel, the Sienese, xxxi, 55 note i, 59-60

Agnolo, Michel (Buonarroti) (see Michelangelo)

Agnosticism, Huxley on, xxviii, 208

Agostino, xx, 338 note 31

Agouti, Darwin on the, xxix, 76-7

Agrarian Laws, of Rome, xxxv, 303

Agravaine, reference to, xlii, 1189

Agreeableness, Pascal on, xlviii, 419

Agreement, always silent, xxv, 319; a way of honoring, xxxiv, 364

Agrican, and Angelica, iv, 392

Agricola, Julius, Milton on, iii, 222; Tacitus and, xxxiii, 92

Agricultural schools, Cowley on, xxvii, 65-6; Ticknor on, xxviii, 367

Agricultural systems, of political economy, x, 426-46

Agriculture, capital, best employment for, x, 291, 306

Agriculture, Cicero on pleasures of, ix, 63-6; combinations in, x, 128; effect of, on prices of bread and meat, 151-2; Emerson on, v, 50; European policy not favorable to, x, 6, 131; improvement in, 184-6; in Utopia, xxxvi, 1734, 178; labor, division of, in, x, 11-12; Locke on, xxxvii, 174-5; Luther on, xxxvi, 332; manufactures compared with, x, u; manufactures, relation to, 221, 304-7, 444; military spirit and, xxvii, 372-3; Milton on study of, iii, 240; prices in general, x, 192; protective tariffs and, 338; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 178-9, 207-8; skill required in, high, x, 129-30; taxes on profits of, 503; wealth, best source of, iii, 88-9; Woolman's high opinion of, i, 196 note

AGRICULTURE, ESSAY ON, Cowley's, xxvii, 61-9

Agrippa, King, St. Paul and, xliv, 478 (13-27, i) 481 (27-32)

Agrippa, Cornelius, Emerson on, v, 177; in FAUSTUS, xix, 210; on science, xxvii, 30-31

Agrippa, Marcus, Antony and, xviii, 25; at Actium, xii, 372-3; xiii, 290; Augustus and, iii, 67; marriages of, xii, 388; Octavia and, 348

Agrippa, Menenius, xii, 152; Sidney on, xxvii, 24

Agrippina, daughter of Antony, xviii, 64; daughter of Germanicus, xii, 389

Agrippinus, Florus and, ii, 119

Aguarus, xxxv, 148

Aguecheek, Sir Andrew, Macaulay on, xxvii, 385

Aguilar, Pedro de, xiv, 389; sonnets of, 391

Aguirre, Lope de, xxxiii, 322-4

Ahab, reference to, iv, 368

Ahala, C. Servilius, ix, 65

Ahasuerus, Dante on, xx, 213

Ahauton, the Indian, xliii, 142, 143

Ahaz, Rimmon and, iv, 99-100

Ahenobarbus Domitius, xii, 388

Ahitophel, Dante on, xx, 118

Ahriman (see Arimanes)

Ai, Duke, xliv, 8 (19), n (21), 18 (2), 38 (9), 48 (22)

Aias (see Ajax)

Aiguillon, siege of, xxxv, 7, 9

Aiguillon, Duke d', Burke on, xxiv, 249

Aiken, Robert, Burns's inscription to, vi, 134; EPITAPH FOR, vi, 219; references to, vi, 70, 72, 224, 351, note 4

Aims, high, Browning on, xlii, 1089; Johnson on, xxxix, 198

AINSLIE, Miss, EPIGRAM TO, Burns's, vi, 267

Air, composition of, xxx, 144; elasticity of, 149-50; life without (see Anaerobian Life); needed for combustion, 104-5; pressure of, 145-9; resistance of, 19-20, 147-8; temperature dependent on pressure, 212; weight of, 52, 144-5

Air-burner, the, xxx, no note

AIRLY BEACON, xlii, 1060-1

Ajax (Aias), son of Telamon, xxii, 156, 320; Hector and, v, 93; madness of, xxvii, 17; Socrates on, ii, 29; Ulysses and, xxii, 158-9; son of Oileus, xxii, 158-9

Ajib, King, xvi, 92-3 Akber Khan, pigeons of, xi, 40 A Kempis (see Kempis, Thomas a) Aladdin (see Ala-cd-Din) Atean Twins, xiii, 226-7 (see Ephialtes and Otus)

ALA-ED-DIN AND THE WONDERFUL LAMP, xvi, 341-424; manuscript of, 3 Alagia, wife of Malaspina, xx, 224 note Alamanni, Luigi, xxxi, 86 note 4; Cellini and, 86, 91, 259, 260, 261, 276, 299,319

Alam-ed-in Senjer, xvi, 208

Alaopolitanes, Nephelogetes and, xxxvi, 216

AlaraKalama, xlv, 716-7, 722-3

Alaska Purchase, xliii, 432-6

Alaskie, Albert, v, 416

Alba Longa, Virgil on, xiii, 82

Albanians, Freeman on the, xxviii, 264, 266

ALBANY, THE BONIE LASS OF, Burns', vi, 284

Albany, Duke of, in LEAR, xlvi, 215, 217, 219; before battle, 304; Cornwall, war with, 242, 262; Edgar with, 312-3; Edmund with, 308-10; France, war against, 288; Gloucester's wrongs, 28-56; Goneril's death and, 314-5; Goneril denounced by, 311-2; Goneril's letter to, 305; Goneril with, 239-40, 284-6; Lear and Cordelia sent for, by, 314; Lear with, 237-8, 239; plot against, 299; resigns power, 317

Albany Convention, Franklin on, i, 124-6

Albatross, Dana on the, xxiii, 37; food of the, xxix, 167

Albemarle Island, Darwin on, xxix, 380

Alberigo, the friar, xx, 139 and note 4

Alberigo of Como, xxxvi, 44

Albero of Sienna, xx, 122 note 5

Albert I, Emperor, Dante on, xx, 168, 368 notes 5 and 6; Switzerland, conduct of, toward, xxvi, 480-1; murder of, 477-8

Albert, Archbishop of Mayence, xxxvi, 281 note; Luther's address to, 247-9

Alberti, Alessandro and Napoleone, xx, 132 and note 2

Alberto, Abbot, xx, 219, note 8

Albertus Magnus, xx, 327, note 15

Albin, in POLYEUCTE, xxvi, 84-5, 105-8, 119-21, 127

Albinus, Clodius, governor of Britain, xxvii, 8; rival of Severus, xxxvi, 65

Albinus, Spurius, ix, 47

Albinus, D. Brutus surnamed, xii, 316

Albinus, correspondent of Pliny, ix, 282

Albizzi, Girolamo degli, xxxi, 407 and note i, 408

Al-Borak, reference to, xlii, 1358

Albracca, siege of, iv, 392; xiv, 76

Albret, Perducas d', xxxv, 70, 78

Albuquergues, killed by Don Pedro, xxxix, 84

ALCÆUS, ODE IN IMITATION OF, xli, 579

Alcandre, her gifts to Helen, xxii, 49

Alcanor, xiii, 316, 332-3

Alcavala, of Spain, x, 540

Alcestis, Milton on, iv, 86; Ruskin on, xxviii, 142; Wordsworth on, xli, 664

ALCHEMIST, THE, xlvii, 541-664; remarks on, 540

Alchemy, Emerson on, v, 297; metal, the, xxxv, 324; punishment of, in Dante's Hell, xx, 122-3

Alcibiades, accused of impiety, xii, 122-3: Andros expedition and, 141; Aristophanes on, viii, 484; Athenian government, attempts to change, made by. xii, 129-31; Athens' power of, strengthened by, 118-9; Athens, return of, to, 138-9; at Potidaea, 111-2; Anytus and, 109-10; Bacon on, iii, 106; birth of, xii, 106; Bithynia and

Phrygia, retires to, 144; childhood anecdotes of. 107-8; condemned, 126; CORIOLANUS AND, COMPARED, 186-90; death of. 145-6; Emerson on, v, 265; Eupolis and, ix, 149; excesses of, endured by Athenians, xii, 119-20; General, 131-2: Hipponicus and, 112; league broken by, 116-7; marriage of, 112-3; Montaigne on, xxxii, 58; naval victory of. xii, 132; Nicias's jealousy of, 116-7: Olympic games, success of, at, 114-5: Pericles and, 106, 108, in; rivals of. in public life, 115-6; Socrates's relations with, 108-12 (see also xlvi, 28): Sparta, life of, at, 127-8; Syracuse, expedition of, to, 120-1, 125-6; Thrasybulus's accusation against, 125; Timon of Athens and, 120, 376; Tisaphernes with, 129, 133; treason of, 126; warns the generals, 143

ALCIBIADES, LIFE OF, Plutarch's, xii, 106-46

Alcidamas, Moliere on, xxvi, 215

Alcides (see Hercules)

Alcinous, king of Phaeacia, xxii, 81: Poseidon and, 178; descent and marriage of, 91-2; gardens of, iv, 271; Milton on feast of, 22; Ulysses received by, xxii, 94-114; Ulysses sent on way, 174-5

Alcis, German god, xxxiii, 117

Alcmaeon, son of Amphiaraus, xxii, 206: Dante on, xx, 192, 300

Alcmena, Heracles's mother, xxii, 151; xl, 242; Homer on, xxii, 24; Herodotus on, xxxiii, 27

Alcohol, produced by fruits in carbonic acid gas, xxxviii, 302-10

Alcoholic fermentation, xxxviii, 275-302, 309 note, 311-6, 339, 345-363

Alcoholic liquors, Burke on taste for, xxiv, 15; Locke on, xxxvii, 19-20

Alda, Roland betrothed, xlix, 94, 153, 186-7

Aldobrandesco, Omberto, xx, 188 note i

Aldobrandi, Bertino, xxxi, 99

Aldobrandi, Tegghiaio, xx, 66 and note 2

Aldobrandino, Clement VIII called, xviii, 283

Ale, Harrison on English, xxxv, 285

ALE, JOLLY GOOD, AND OLD, xl, 190-2

Alecto, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 250-8; Dante on, xx, 37

Alengon, Earl of, at Cressy, xxxv, 27, 29, 30

Aleotti, Giovanni, xxxi, 120 note 2

Alesia, siege of, xii, 287-8

Alessio, in Dante's Hell, xx, 76; in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 427-8, 429-30

Alethes, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 77, 301, 303

Alexander (see Paris)

Alexander, of Antioch, xii, 358, 359

Alexander, the grammarian, ii, 195 (10)

Alexander the Great, Achilles and, xiii, 27; xv, 368; xxvii, 36; xxxvi, 50; age of, at conquest of Asia, iv, 384-5; Apelles and, ix, 104; Aristotle and, xxxii, 53-4; at Arbela, iii, 74; Athens, orators of, xii, 210; attitude toward arts and sciences, xxxii, 53-4; M. Aurelius on, ii, 206 (3), 236 (24), 254 (3), 270 (29); Browne on, iii, 278; Cervantes on, xiv, 488; chastity and drunkenness of, xlviii, 45 (103); Curtius on, xxxvii, 354; Dante on, xx, 51; Darius's box and, xiv, 51; dogs of, xxxv, 355; Emerson on, v, 202, 265; Hephestion and, xlvi, 28; his wish for more worlds to conquer, xxxix, 316; Pindar and, iv, 78; liberality of, xxxvi, 53; Marlowe on, xix, 237; melancholy of, iii, 49; Montaigne on, xxxii, 13; one of nine worthies, xxxix, 20; Pascal on, xlviii, 51 (132), 235 (701); the Plataeans and, xii, 90; reproved for playing well, 36; reason of security of his conquests, xxxvi, 15-17; Sidney on, xxvii, 36; the shower of flame and, xx, 58; supposed prophecy of, xlviii, 248

Alexander, the Jew, xliv, 466 (33-4)

Alexander, king of Macedonia, at Platza, xii, 92-3

Alexander, the Platonic, ii, 195 (12)

Alexander, the false prophet, xxxvii, 384-5

Alexander, of Syria, xii, 373

Alexander III, Pope, exile of, xxvii, 368

Alexander VI, Pope, Caesar Borgia, father of, xxxvi, 15; church, aggrandizement of the, 39; frauds of, 58; King Louis and, 13, 14-15, 24; son, efforts to aggrandize his, 23-4, 27

Alexander, James, i, 124

Alexander Pheraeus, xxvii, 27-8

Alexander Severus, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 63, 64, 68

Alexander, Wilhelmina, vi, 181, note 7

Alexander, William, To AURORA, xl, 314-15

ALEXANDER'S FEAST, xl, 391-6

Alexandridas, Montaigne on, xxxii, 45

Alexandrine philosophy, Taine on the, xxxix, 427, 431 note

Alexandrine verse, Dryden on, xiii, 54

Alexas of Laodicea, xii, 378-9; character in ALL FOR LOVE, xviii, 23-106; Antony told by, of Cleopatra's death, 95-6; Cleopatra's messenger, 43-4; Cleopatra denounced, 89-90; on Ventidius, 54; Ventidius with, 28-9; with the priests, 24-6

ALEXIS, HERE SHE STAYED, xl, 329

Alf, son of Hjalprek, xlix, 281-2, 338-9; remarks on story of, 250

Alfonso X (The Wise), Bacon on, iii, 130

Alfred the Great, called the truth-speaker, v, 374; crowned and buried at Winchester, 462; Emerson on, 15; book, how he won the, 403

Algalif, the, xlix, 109, in, 158, 159

Algarsife, reference to, iv, 36-7

Algebra, Descartes on, xxxiv, 16, 18-19

Ali, in Dante's Hell, xx, 115; quotation from, v, 82; and Mohammed, xiv, 988 note 17

*ALI BABA AND THE FORTY THIEVES, xvi, 424-41

Alichino, the demon, xx, 88, 92

Alicorno, Traiano, xxxi, 92 note, 120, 144, 147

Alidosi, Lito degli, xx, 351 note 12

Alienations, in Massachusetts, xliii, 68 (10, n, 14, 15)

Alifamfaron, Pentapolin and, xiv, 136-7

Alighieri, grandfather of Dante, xx, 349 note 2

Alisto of Cos, alluded to, ix, 46

ALL FOR LOVE, Dryden's, xviii, 13-106; remarks on, 6; Byron's poem, xli, 789-90

A' THE AIRTS THE WIND CAN BLAW, VI, 306-7

All-Prayer, weapon of Christian, xv, 66-7

Allan, John, Poe and, xxviii, 370

Allan, Dr., on Diodon, xxix, 24; on Holuthuriae, 468

ALLAN STREAM, BY, vi, 468

Allegories, barbarous nations among, xxiv, 18; Bunyan on, xv, 8; Spenser on, xxxix, 62

Allegretti, Antonio, xxxi, 97 note 5, 163, 166

All mand, Francois 1', xxxi, 281 note

Allen, John, translator of Calvin, xxxix, i

Allen, Richard, xxxiii, 164-5

Allen, William, i, 106

ALLERLEIRAUH, story of, xvii, 162-6

Alliances, provision for, under Confederation, xliii, 162, 165; under constitution, 186 (10, 3); Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 72-4; More on, 213; Washington on, xliii, 245-6

Alligators, fights of male, xi, 95

Allingham, William, THE FAIRIES, xiii, 1116-1117

Allori, Angelo (II Bronzino), xxxi, 401 note, 410

Allston, Washington, Coleridge on, v, 319, 320-1

Alluvium, land made of, xxxiii, 11-12; saliferous, in Peru, xxix, 367-8; stratified, in Andes valleys, 319-20

Allworth, Lady, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, in mourning, xlvii, 863, 866-7; at home, 868-9; with Tom, 869-70; scene with Wellborn, 874-6; welcomes Wellborn and Marrall to dinner, 884-5; after dinner, 887-8; thought to be in love with Wellborn, 890-1; at Overreach's, 905-6, 908, 909; at home, with Lovell, 916-9; reconciliation with Lovell, 928-30; with Wellborn, 931; with Overreach, 932, 933, 934-5, 936-37, 939-40; in final scene, 940, 941

Allworth, Tom, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, with Wellborn at Tapwell's, 862-5; at home, with servants, 867-8; with Lady Allworth, 868-70; shuns Wellborn, 873; parting with servants, 881-2; reconciled to Wellborn, 883; with Lovell on way to Overreach's, 892-5; at Overreach's, 901, 9O2, 904, 909; discharged from service, 911; as messenger to Margaret, 912; scene with Margaret, 924-8; Lovell on, 929; married to Margaret, 938; in final scene, 940, 942

Almagro, Diego, xxxiii, 317

Almaris, King, xlix, 120, 139

Almasour, in ROLAND, xlix, 123-4, 134

Almeni, Sforza, xxxi, 366 note

Almon, son of Tyrrheus, xiii, 257

Alms, Buddha on, xlv, 593; Krishna on, 866; Mohammed on, 883 note i, 883-4, 957, 972; never impoverish, v, 27

Alnaschar, story of, xvi, 177-84

Alceus, and Iphimedeia, xxii, 152

Alonso, king of Naples, in THE TEMPEST, in shipwreck, xlvi, 398, 399; his previous conspiracy with Antonio, 403-4; in island after wreck, 417-22; plot against, 425-6; awakened by Ariel, 426-7; in search for Ferdinand, 439-40; at the banquet, 440-1; denounced by

Ariel, 442-3; imprisoned by Ariel, 452-3; in final scene, 454-63

Alonso, Peter, and Don Quixote, xiv, 45

Alonzo III, of Arragon, Dante on, xx, 174 and note 12

Alpha Centauri, distance of, xxx, 316

Alphabet, methods of teaching, xxxvii, 129-30, 131

Alphebo, to Don Quixote, xiv, 12

Alphel, Sir Edmund, xxxv, 83

Alpheus and Arethusa, iv, 42; xiii, 151

Alphonsus of Castile, Bacon on, iii, 130

Alps, Byron on the, xli, 793; Goldsmith on states seen from, 520-1; Helmholtz on the, xxx, 211-14; glaciers of, 215-31

Alps, Witch of the, in MANFRED, xviii, 423-7

Alric, and Eric, v, 344

Alsus, and Podalirius, xiii, 400

Alswid, xlix, 307, 308

Altabin, king of Atlantis, iii, 158

Alternate generation, Darwin on, xi, 458 Alternation, the law of nature, v, 108

Althea, Æschylus on, viii, 102

ALTHEA, TO, FROM PRISON, xl, 355-6

ALTHO' HE HAS LEFT ME, vi, 415

Altmayer, in FAUST, xix, 85-99

Altoviti, Bindo, xxxi, 383 note 2, 385

Altruism, Kant on duty of, xxxii, 334, 341, 351; Locke on, xxxvii, 118; Luther on, 364-6, 369-70; Mill on, xxv, 4-5; More on, xxxvi, 198-9; St. Paul on, xlv, 504 (24)

Alum, crystallization of, xxx, 27, 37; fireproofing qualities of, xxxv, 319

Aluminium, weight of, xxx, n note 2

Alva, Duke of, at Metz, xxxviii, 28; EGMONT, character in Goethe's, xix, 253-334; Egmont's arrest planned by, 303-6; Egmont on, 326-7; Egmont with, 307-14; Gomez on, 301-2; in the Netherlands, 252; Netherlands, ruler of, 295-6; Netherlands, sent to, 286, 289-90; Orange, arrest of, planned by, 303-6; Orange thwarts, 306-7; Raleigh on, xxxix, 87

Alypius, student under St. Augustine, vii, 87-8; at the gladiatorial show, 88-9; apprehended as thief, 89-90; as assessor, 91; advises against marriage, 94; as lawyer, 126; his conversion, 115, 136, 142; baptized with Augustine, 145

Amadeus, Cardinal, xxxix, 42

Amadis of Gaul, Arcalaus and, xiv, 114; Cervantes on romance of, 48-9; Don Quixote on, 92, 212; Don Quixote, supposed sonnet of, to, n; Montaigne on, xxxii, 89; Oriana and, xiv, 116, 212, 218; Sidney on romance of, xxvii, 23; squire of, xiv, 496; sword of, 135

Amadis of Greece, xiv, 49

Amalthea, and Jove, iv, 161; horn of, 380; vi, 321

Amana River, xxxiii, 341

AMANTIUM IRÆ, xl, 201-2

Amantius, friend of Caesar, xii, 305 note

Amapaia, xxxiii, 328-30, 360-1

Amara, Mount, iv, 161-2

Amara, town of, xiv, 577

Amarant, iv, 144

Amaryllis, reference to, iv, 73

Amasis, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 81-90; Ionian guard of, 78

Amastris, city of, ix, 407

Amata, in the ÆNEID, xiii; Æneas, rage against, 251-3; Dante on, xx, 213 note 2; death of, xiii, 410-11; Turnus tries to dissuade, 391

Amaurote, capital of Utopia, xxxvi, 172, 175

Amazon River, discovered by Orellana, xxxiii, 319-20; Thoreau on forests of the, xxviii, 406

Amazons, Æschylus on their war against Athens, viii, 150; home of the, 181 note 25, 192 note 45; Columbus on Indian, xliii, 26; Raleigh on, xxxiii, 326-7

Ambassadors (U. S.), appointed by President, xliii, 188 (2); foreign, received by President, 189; cases affecting, 190 (2); under the Confederation, 162

Amber, Tacitus on, xxxiii, 118-9

Ambiorix, xii, 285 note

Ambition, St. Augustine, St., on, vii, 28, 191-2; Bacon on enviousness of, iii, 24; Burke on, xxiv, 44-5; Burns on, vi, 222, 249, 308; Carlyle on, xxv, 384-5, 420, 448; Epictetus on, ii, 131 (43), 146 (79); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340, 366, 372; Milton on, iv, 94, 264; Montaigne on, xxxii, 115; Pascal on, xlviii, 411-12, 415; Penn on, i, 381; Pope on, xl, 420; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 224; Ruskin on common, xxviii, 94-5; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 132, 349; Webster on, xlvii, 769

AMBITION, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 93-5

Amble, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 866-8, 871, 872-3, 882, 883, 886-7, 916, 941

Amblyrhynchus, Darwin on the, xxix, 389-95, 399

Amboise, Cardinal d', xxxvi, 15, 28

Ambrogio, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 120, 126-7

Ambrose, St., Augustine, St., on, vii, 76, 81-2; Donne, Dr., comparison of, with, xv, 341-2; Justina persecutes, vii, 146; Luther on, xxxvi, 266; Simplicianus, father of, vii, 119; verses by, 156

Ambrosio, the student, xiv, 85, 86, 98, 104, 108-9

Ameipsias, Aristophanes on, viii, 439

Amendment, Confucius on, xliv, 6 (8), 29 (23), 40 (21); Kempi on, vii, 234-7; Penn on, i, 345 (262)

Amendments, Constitutional, xliii, 191 (5); Lincoln on, 320-1

America, Bacon on ancient, iii, 136, 157-9; Browne on animals of, 275; discovery of original documents concerning, xliii, 5-48; Emerson on, v, 454, 461; English colonies in, first, xxxiii, 226, 227 (see also Roanoke, St. John's); foreign powers in (see Monroe Doctrine); natives of, iii, 159; probable geological changes in, xxix, 136-7; glacial period in, xi, 400; Haies on exploration and settlement of, xxxiii, 263-7; Hunt on, xxvii, 294; Irish monks in, xxxii, 175; Pare 1 on Spaniards in, xxxviii, 32; Senecas's prophecy of, iii, 90-1, 93; Smith on discovery of, x, 327-8, 397-403; Thoreau on, xxviii, 405-8; zoology of North and South, xxix, 135-7; zoology of, changes in, 178-80 (see also North America, South America, United States) American art, Emerson on, v, 79 American Civil War, documents of, original, xliii, 313-431; Lowell on, xxviii, 429-33, 442-7; Mill on, xxv, 164-7 American colonies, agriculture and cattle in, x, 186-7; currencies in, 249, 251, 254; documents in history of, original, xliii, 49-105, 138-49; England's trade laws for, x, 424-5; xliii, 148; exportations of meat from, x, 193; Franklin's plan to unite, i, 124-6; Granville on royal government of, 159-60; interest, rates of, in, x, 94; Jefferson on wrongs of, xliii, 151-3; manufactures in, x, 307; newspapers in, i, 19-20; books in, 74; population in, increase of, x, 72; settlement of, motives of, 397-404; settlements in, situation of, 24; slavery in, i, 207-8; trade of, bounties on, x, 407-10; wages in, 71-2; wealth in, progress of, 294; Woolman on state of, i, 261-2

American flag, Haskell on the, xliii, 380; Longfellow on the, xlii, 1286-7

AMERICAN HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS, xliii

American Indians (see Indians)

American literature, Emerson on possibilities of, v, 5, 180; Whitman on, xxxix, 388-409

American mythology, possibilities of an, xxviii, 414-15

American Philosophical Society, founded by Franklin, i, 3, 105, 164 American poets, xlii, 1213-1422 American political institutions, Emerson on, v, 243-6

American Revolution, Burke and the, xxiv, 5-6; Burns on, vi, 51-2; documents of, original, xliii, 150-79; Franklin's part in, i, 4, 76, 165; Franklin's plan of union and, 125; French in the, 136; public libraries, influence of, on, 67; Sheridan on, xviii, 108

AMERICAN SCHOLAR, Emerson's, v, 5-23

AMERICAN WAR, BALLAD ON THE, Burns's, vi, 51-2

Americans, cant of, v, 431; Emerson on interest in, 50; in England, 453-4; faith and hope lacking in, 54-5; materialism of, 277-8; Mill on political abilities of, xxv, 309; morals and religion of, v, 279-80; Thoreau on, xxviii, 407-8; Whitman on, xxxix, 388-9

Amerigo, the enameler, xxxi, 48

Amerzene, Andrew, first mate on "Pilgrim," xxiii, 398

Ames, Fisher, on republics and monarchies, v, 245

Ames's Manner's Sketches, xxiii, 5

Amici, Professor, v, 318

AMIENS' SONG, xl, 268

Aminias, the Decelean, xii, 18

Amity, sonnet on, xiv, 238

Ammanato, Bartolommeo, xxxi, 415 note 2, 420-1, 427

Ammon, the Libyan Jove, iv, 161 (see also Amun); Alexander called son of, xx, 58; xl, 411; oracle of, founding of, xxxiii, 33

Ammonia, production of, by moulds, xxxviii, 298 note; test of organisms, 342

Ammonians, Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 27

AMNESTY PROCLAMATION, LINCOLN'S, xliii, 416-9

Amompharetus, xii, 95

Amoretta, and Busirane, xxxix, 64

Amos, prophecy of, xlviii, 259

Amphialus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 102

Amphiaraiis, Dante on, xx, 82 and note i; Eriphyle and, 300 note n; Homer on, xxii, 206; lines on, xii, 81

Amphilochus, son of Amphiaraiis, xxii, 206

Amphimedon, wooer of Penelope, xxii, 302, 303; death of, 303; in Hades, 322-5

Amphinomus, suitor of Penelope, xxii, 225; advises against killing Telemachus, 225, 279; death of, 298; with Odysseus, 248-9, 256; sees ship of conspirators, 224

Amphion, founder of Thebes, xxii, 151; Dante on, xx, 131; reference to, v, 239; Sidney on, xxvii, 6, 11

Amphithea, grandmother of Ulysses, xxii, 267

Amphitrite, references to, iv, 69; viii, 215; xxii, 78-9, 163

Amphitryon, husband of Alcmene, xxii, 151; Herodotus on, xxxiii, 27; name used to express a good host, v, 207

Amposte, chatelain of, xxxv, 41, 46, 58

Amputations, Pare" on cauterizing after, xxxviii, 8, 20, 21

Amram, father of Mary, xlv, 952 note 4

Amsanctus, Lake, xiii, 258-9

Amsdorff, Nicolaus von, xxxvi, 260 note

Amun, Zeus called, xxxiii, 27 (see also Ammon)

Amusements, Pascal on, xlviii, 13 (u), 56

Amycla, nurse of Alcibiades, xii, 106

Amyclas, the fisherman, xx, 331 note 16

Amycus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 81, 319, 407

Amyntas, king of Lycaonia, xii, 369, 370

Amythaon, Homer on, xxii, 151

Anabaptists, Bacon on, iii, 14; of Munster, xxiv, 286-7

Anachronisms, Dryden on, of Virgil, xiii, 34-6; in Shakespeare and Sidney, xxxix, 218

Anacreon, Byron on, xii, 814; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 236 note 7

Anaerobian life, xxxviii, 277 note, 317, 324. 333-5. 337-40, 344, 365-7

Analogical resemblances, xi, 443-8

Analogous variations, xi, 159-63

Analogy, Emerson on, v, 436; Hume on reasoning by, xxxvii, 371-2, 374 (7), 403-4

Analysis, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 297 (18); Mill on habit of, xxv, 88; Pascal on, xlviii, 421

Ananda, servant of Buddha, xlv, 586, 633-46, 658-60, 701, 713-14, 774, 778

Ananias, husband of Sapphira, xliv, 432 (1-6); Bunyan on, xv, 125; "varlet that cozened apostles," the, xlvii, 588

Ananias, the disciple, and Paul, xliv, 442 (10-18), 472 (12-16); Dante on, xx, 395 note

Ananias, the high priest, xliv, 473 (2), 476 (i)

Ananias, prince of Babylon, xxxvi, 329

Ananias, in THE ALCHEMIST, xlvii, 585-8, 592-9, 638-40, 649, 658-9, 661-2

Anarchy, Sophocles on, viii, 277

Anastasius II, in Dante's Hell, xx, 45 note

Anastasius IV, and Bernard, xxxvi, 339

Anathemas, Burns on, vi, 223

Anatolius, St., hymn by, xlv, 542

Anatomy, Locke on study of, xxxvii, 138, 147; study of, necessary for artists, 293; xxxix, 255-6

Anaxagoras, a native of Ionia, xxviii, 58; Creator, his idea of the, xxxix, 101; Euripides and, viii, 302; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; Pericles and, v, 437; xii, 39-40, 42, 54-5, 69; Socrates on doctrines of, ii, 15, 91-2; Themistocles and, xii, 6; Voltaire on teachings of, xxxiv, 102-3

Anaxarete, Webster on, xlvii, 794

Anaxenor, harper of Antony, xii, 338

Anaxilaus, at Byzantium, xii, 137

Anaximander, on the world, xxxix, 104

Anaximenes, letter to Pythagoras, xxxii, 48; mention of his doctrines, vii, 164; xxxix, 101

Ancestors, Bentham on veneration of, xxvii, 226-8; Huxley on, xxviii, 223; Lowell on, xiii, 1372; More on, xxxvi, 142; Tennyson on, xiii, 1001; Tsengtzu on, xliv, 6 (9)

Anchemolus, death of, xiii, 334

Anchises, father of Æneas, xiii, 95; Crete, advises settlement of, 131-2; death in Sicily, 151; Dante on, xx, 348; Evander and, xiii, 273; funeral games of, 180-197; ghost of, advises Æneas, 202; in Hades, 230-8; Priam, relationship to, 20; Sidney on, xxvii, 17; Troy, in sack of, xiii, 121-5

ANCIENT MARINER, RIME OF THE, xii, 682-701; Wordsworth on the, xxxix, 268

Ancus, Marcius, Virgil on, xiii, 235

Andersen, Hans Christian, life and works of, xvii, 220; remarks on stories of, 2; TALES OF, 221-361

Andes Mountains, appearance and scenery, xxix, 257-8, 262, 279-80, 322-3, 325-6, 337; Darwin on his passage of, 317-40; geology of, 323-5, 335-7; mines of, 321-2; rain, absence of, in, 328; shingle terraces of, 319-20; snow-line of, 249-50; stone, crumbling, of, 323; torrents of, 320-1; upheaval of, 320, 324-5; vegetation and zoology of, 322, 330-1; winds and storms of, 327-8, 364

Andocides, impiety, accused of, xii, 34; on Themistocles, 34

Andrea, in THE CENCI, xviii, 285, 323

ANDREA DEL SARTO, xiii, 1087-94

Andrew, the apostle, xliv, 368 (14), 424 (13); in PARADISE REGAINED, iv, 372-3

Andrew, the boy, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 37-9, 296-9

Andrews, Dr., bishop of Winchester, xv, 339, 383

Andrews, Isaac, Woolman and, i, 181-2

Andrews, Jacob, i, 184

Andrews, Peter, i, 183, 184-6

Androcles, Alcibiades's accuser, xii, 123

ANDROCLES, FABLE OF, xvii, 20-1

Androgeos, death of, xiii, 112-13

Andromache, in Greece, xiii, 137-9, J 434; dream of, xl, 43; Ruskin on, xxviii, 142

Andromachus, a Syrian, xxviii, 58

Andromeda, constellation, iv, 149

Andronicus, Livius, date of, ix, 63; Sidney on, xxvii, 6

Andros, Themistocles at, xii, 23

Andvari, the dwarf, xlix, 285-6

ANE AN' TWENTY, TAM, vi, 415-6

Anemolians, ambassadors of the, xxxvi, 192-3

Aneurin, Celtic bard, xxxii, 166

Aneurism, defined, xxxviii, 81

ANGEL, THE, a story, xvii, 341-3

Angelica, Agrican and, iv, 392; xiv, 76; Orlando Furioso and, xiv, 12, 213, 226; xxxii, 51 note

Angelo, Michael (see Michelangelo)

Angels, Bagehot on Milton's, xxviii, 200-1; bowers of the, iv, 321; Browne on creation of, iii, 284-5; chorus of, in FAUST, xix, 36-8; creation of, xx, 313 note 9, 407-8 notes; Dante on rank among, xx, 298 note 6; habitation of, iii, 286; in FAUSTUS, xix, 208, 219, 224, 226; in PARADISE LOST, iv, 195-7 (see also Michael, Raphael, etc.); rebellion of the, 198-226 (see also Fallen Angels); love among, 259; Milton on nature of, 212-3; number of, xx, 410u; Smart on, xli, 487; Tutelary (see Tutelary Angels)

ANGELS, FOOTSTEPS OF, xiii, 1267-9 Anger, Augustine, St., on, vii, 28; Bacon on, iii, 134-6; Collins on, in music, xli, 477; in Dante's HELL, xx, 31-2, 47; Dante's examples of, 213; Ecclesiastes on, xliv, 342 (9); Epictetus on, ii, 144 (75); Hobbes's definition of, xxxiv, 340; Krishna on, xlv, 862; Manzoni on, xxi, 519; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 201 (10), 204 (16), 229 (28), 239 (26), 280 (25), 291; Pascal on, xlviii, 164 (502); Penn on, i, 346 (270, 271); Plutarch on, xii, 166; Walton on, xv, 328; Webster on, intemperate, xlvii, 788-9

Angle, Guichard d', xxxv, 46, 47, 51

Angles, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 115

Angrivarians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, in Anguillotto of Lucca, xxxi, 99

Angular figures, not beautiful, xxiv, 94; why unpleasant, 99, 120-1

Angus, in MACBETH, xlvi, 327-8, 383-4

Angustia, Donna, xxiii, 238, 383-4, 385

Aniause, King, xxxv, 164, 172

Anicius, Titus, ix, 117

Animal kingdom, how distinguished from vegetable, xxxviii, 341-2

Animalculae, perfection of, v, 89; xlviii, 27

Animals, acclimatisation of, xi, 145-6; Bacon's experiments on, iii, 174-5; beauty in, proportion as cause of, xxiv, 77-8; beauty sense of, xxxvi, 203-4; Blake on cruelty to, xli, 587-8; Buddhist ideas of, xlv, 706-9; Burke on cries of, xxiv, 71; Burke on mating of, 38-9; care of, in Massachusetts, xliii, 79; Carlyle on, xxv, 437 note; death, no fear of, in, xxxiv, 177; Descartes on reason in, 47; domestic (see Domestic Animals); Emerson on, v, 229; extinction of large, cause of, xxix, 178-80; fertilisation of, xi, 106-7; habits, diversity of, 116-17; Hume on reason of, xxxvii, 371-4; Locke on cruelty to, 101-2; love of offspring among, xl, 425; Marcus Aurelius on kindness to, ii, 236 (23), 251 (65); Pascal on mind in, xlviii, 117 (340-3); admiration among, 130 (401); plants and, complex relations of, xi, 79-83; Rousseau on distinction between men and, xxxiv, 175-6; size of, disadvantages in, xi, 355; size of, in relation to vegetation, xxix, 91-6; social instincts of, ii, 267 (9); souls of, xxxvi, 227; truth, love of, among, v, 374; Voltaire on souls in, xxxiv, 107; Woolman on kindness to, i, 300 (see also Organic Beings, Species)

Animism, defined, xvii, 7

Animosities, teach value of friendship, ix, 17

Anius, king of Delos, xiii, 131

Anna, St., in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 422; Jesus found by, iv, 365

Anna, the prophetess, xliv, 359 (36-8)

Anna, sister of Dido, xiii, 152-4; Æneas sought for by, xiii, 167-8; at Dido's death, xiii, 176-7

ANNA, THY CHARMS, vi, 309

ANNABEL LEE, xiii, 1239-40

Annas, the high priest, xliv, 360 (2), 429 (6); Dante on, xx, 97 note 7

Annates, Luther on, xxxvi, 278-9, 288

Anne, St. (see Anna)

Annebault, Claude d', xxxi, 321 note 2, 328; Pare" and, xxxviii, 12

Anneius, M., legate of Cicero, ix, 135, 137

Annibale, the surgeon, xxxi, 31

ANNIE, FOR, xlii, 1236-9

Annotations, Cervantes on, xiv, 6, 8-9; Hugo on, xxxix, 337; Johnson on, 246, 248

Ansars, xlv, 949 note 14, 967 note

Anseis, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 98, 120, 135. 146

Anselm, Bacon on, iii, 51; Harrison on, xxxv, 253; in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 338; life of, 338 note 36

Anselmo, Lothario and, story of, xiv, 307-46, 351-5 Anselmo, in the goatherd s story, xiv, 500-4

Anson's Voyages, Mill on, xxv, II

ANSWER, THE, Scott's, xli, 748

ANT AND GRASSHOPPER, fable of, xvii, 25-6

Antaeus, Dante on, xx, 130 note 6; family of, xlix, 268 note; Hercules and, iv, 409; xiv, 19

Antaeus, chief of Turnus, xiii, 340

Antagoras, of Chios, xii, 101

Antarctic islands, climate and productions of, xxix, 253-6

Anteia, wife of Helvidius, ix, 339

Antenor, founder of Padua, xiii, 81; xx, 163 note 7

Anteon (see Antaeus)

Anterigoli, Piermaria d' (see Sbietta)

Anteros, and Eros, xii, 109 note 3; xviii, 425

ANTHEA, To, xl, 337

Anthemocritus, xii, 66-7

Anthony, St. (see Antony, St.)

Anthony, the goatherd, xiv, 81-4

Anthores, death of, xiii, 34,8-9

Anthrax, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 365, 369-70

Anthylla, city of, xxxiii, 48

Antichrist, Browne on, iii, 298; legend of birth of, 282; Luther on, xxxvi, 295; Pascal on, xlviii, 285-6, 293, 295 (846); Paul, St., on, xxxvi, 274

Anticleia, mother of Odysseus, xxii, 147, 148-50; her death of grief, 209

Anticlus, in the Trojan horse, xxii, 53

Antigone, condemned to perish in cave, viii, 281; death of, 282-6, 295-6; fate bewailed by people, 278; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 237; (Edipus with, viii, 253-4; in The Phoenicians, xxxix, 341; Polynices' burial by, viii, 255-8; Ruskin on, xxviii, 142
ANTIGONE, TRAGEDY OF, Sophicles's viii, 255-99

Antigonus, of Judaea, xii, 349; and the Parthians, iv, 393

Antilochus, son of Nestor, xxii, 36; Achilles and, 322; death of, 51; in Hades, 156, 320

Antinous, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, complains of Penelope, 23-4; counsels suitors to heed Telemachus, 280; death of, 296; Irus encouraged by, to fight with Ulysses, 246, 247; contest with the bow, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290-2; Penelope, his gifts to, 252; Penelope rebukes, 226; Telemachus invited to feast by, 29; Telemachus plotted against by, 62, 66, 224-5; Ulysses and, as beggars, 237-40; with Telemachus, 19

Antioch, Christian Church at, xliv, 448 (26-30), 450 (i)

Antiochus of Ascalon, xii 220

Antiochus, Athenian admiral, xii, 142

Antiochus, king of Commagene, xii, 347

Antiochus Deus, xlviii, 249

Antiochus Epiphanes, and the Jews, iv, 3?8

Antiochus the Great, Ætolians and, iii, 128; anecdote of, v, 293; prophecy of, xlviii, 249; the Romans and, xxxvi, 1112, 73

Antiochus Hierax, xii, 84 note

Antiochus, the pilot, and Alcibiades, xii, H3

Antiope, Homer on, xxii, 151; mentioned, iv, 376

Antipater, the Edomite, iv, 382

Antipater, general of Alexander, xii, 213; and the Athenian orators, 214

Antipathies, national, Browne on, iii, 315; Pascal on, xlviii, 103; Washington on, xliii, 243-4

Antiphates, in the ÆNETO, xiii, 316

Antiphates, the Laestrygonian, xxii, 133

Antiphates, son of Melampus, xxii, 206

Antiphates, and Themistocles, xii, 21

Antiphon, Athenian orator, on Alcibiades, xii, 108; condemnation of, 202

Antiphon of Cephisus, ii, 22

Antiphus, son of Ægyptus, xxii, 21; friend of Ulysses, 229

Antipodes, Darwin on the, xxix, 421

Antiquity, Bentham on, xxvii, 226-9; Browne on, iii, 281; Harvey on, xxxviii, 63; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 370; Hugo on, xxxix, 361; Johnson on, 208; More on, xxxvi, 142; Pascal on, xlviii, 106 (301), 437-44; not the rule of belief, 95 (260)

ANTI-REFORMERS, FALLACIES OF, Sydney Smith on, xxvii, 225-51

Antiseptic principle, Pasteur on the, xxxviii, 381

ANTISEPTIC PRINCIPLE, Lister's, xxxviii, 257-67

Antisthenes, on detraction, ii, 119 (7), 248 (36); on the piper, xii, 36;

with Socrates, ii, 47

Antithesis, Pascal on, xlviii, 17 (27)

Antonia, daughter of Antony, xii, 388; xviii, 64

Antoninus, Marcus Aurelius (see Aurelius, Marcus)

Antoninus, T. Aurelius (Pius), ii, 192; M. Aurelius on, 196 (16), 237 (30)

Antonio, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii; Ancona, banished from, 806-7; Bosola with, 756-7, 774-5, 780-2, 809-10, 848-50; Bosola on, 800-3; Cardinal, relations with, 762, 837-8, 844-5; Delio, scenes with, 755-6, 757-8, 759-61, 774. 777. 780, 789-90, 833-4, 845-7; Duchess, scenes with, 767-72, 775-6, 777, 793-5. 798, 799-Soo, 808-9, 810-11; Duchess, steward of, 758; Ferdinand, relations with, 759, 806, 809-10; orders palace closed, 778; son of, born, 780

Antonio, in TEMPEST, xlvi; Ariel denounces, 441-2; banquet, at the, 440; Prospero and, 402, 454, 456; Sebastian, plot with, 423-6, 440

Antonius, Caius, Roman consul, xii, 2267; Catiline conspiracy, 231, 236; Mark Antony, relationship to, 328; Cicero mentions, ix, 81

Antonius, Lucius, Cicero on, ix, 172

Antonius, Marcus, the orator, grandfather of Mark Antony, xii, 322; Sidney on, xxvii, 48

Antonius, Marcus, the Triumvir (see Antony)

Antonius, Publius, and Caesar, xii, 266

Antonius of Florence, xxxvi, 311

Antony, Caius, brother of Marcus, xii, 337

Antony, Mark, Actium, flight from, xii, 372-3; Antiochus, war with, 347-8; appearance and dress of, 324; Artavasdes seized by, 361-2; in Asia, 338-9; Bacon on, iii, 27; his relations with Octavius, 123-4; burial of, xii, 384; Caesar and Pompey, contest of, 325-8, 290-1, 297, 300-1; Caesar, favorite of, 330; after Caesar's death, 253-4, 331-2, 333; character of, 339; children of, 388; Cicero, relations with, 253-4, 255-6, 259, 322, 335-6; Cicero on his relations with, ix, 93, 177, 178, 180; Cleopatra and, Dryden on, xviii, 13; Cleopatra and sons honored by, xii, 364; Cleopatra, first meeting of, with, 339-44; Cleopatra prevents, from renewing war, 362-3; Cleopatra renews relations with, 349-50; Cleopatra, slave of, charged with being, 367-8; death of, 381-2; Dolabella and, 328, 330; East, campaigns in, early, 323-4; in Egypt after Actium, 376-9; Fulvia, marriage to, 329; in Greece, 337, 3467; Ides of March, at, 317, 318, 330-2; Italy, driven from, 256, 333; LIFE OF, Plutarch's, 322-89; Lupercalia, at the, 313, 330-1; master of horse, 328; Octavia, marriage of, to, 344-5; Octavia neglected by, 362-3; Octavius and, meet at Tarentum, 348; Octavius, break of, with, 333; Octavius, charges against, made by, 364-5; Octavius, contest with, 367-73; Octavius's growing jealousy of, 346; parentage and youth, 322-3; Parthia invaded by, 349-61; Pompey's house bought by, 329; popularity and liberality of, 324-5; prodigies preceding the war, 368-9 (cf. xviii, 23); Sextus Pompey and, 345-6; statues and honors to, abolished, 259; triumvir, 335-6; Virgil on, at Actium, xiii, 291; war of, with republicans, xii, 336-7 (cf. xviii, 38); world divided by, to triumvirs, 344 Antony, in ALL FOR LOVE, xviii, 21; in Egypt after Actium, 25, 27, 29; his lamentation, 30-1; scene with Ventidius, 31-8; remarks on scene with Ventidius, 20; his reply to Cleopatra's appeal, 40-1; on Octavius, prepares to march, 42-3; receives Cleopatra's gift, 44-5; meeting with Cleopatra, 46-53; with Cleopatra in the palace, 53-4; advised by Ventidius, 55-7; with Dolabella, 57-61; scene with Octavia, 61-5; sends farewell to Cleopatra by Dolabella, 69-70; hears Dolabella's falseness, 77-83; accuses Dolabella and Cleopatra, 84-7; betrayed by Egyptian fleet, 91; plans to fight it out, 91; hears Cleopatra dead, 95-6; death of, 99-101

Antony, surnamed Creticus, father of Marcus, xii, 322

Antony, the Younger, xii, 388

Antony, St., Augustine on, vii, 127; Burke on pictures of, xxiv, 54; conversion of, vii, 136; Newman on, xxviii, 38

Ant(s), aphides and, xi, 254; Brazilian, xxix, 43; Browne on, iii, 266 (15); Johnson on, xxxix, 294-5; Milton on, iv, 239; Pope on, xl, 427; slave-making instinct of, xi, 264-8; worker castes of, 57, 278-83

Antyllus, son of Antony, xii, 377, 384, 388

Anubis, called the dog, iv, 14; barking deity, vii, 120

Anuruddha, xlv, 646

Anuweekin, the Indian, xliii, 143

Anville, Marshal d', xxxviii, 25

Anxiety, Arabian verses on, xvi, n; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 374, 376-7; mean and noble, xxviii, 114; physical effects of, xxxviii, 124; Pliny on limits of, ix, 327

Anxur, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 340

Anyder River, in UTOPIA, xxxvi, 175

Anysis, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 69, 70

Anything, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102

Anytus, Alcibiades and, xii, 109-10; first briber in Athens, 159; Socrates's accuser, ii, 6, u, 18, 19, 22, 134 (52)

Aorta, Harvey on the, xxxviii, 86-7, 89, 91, 102, 138

Apathy, in Dante's HELL, xx, 13-15; Pope on, xl, 417

Ape(s), intellectual powers of, xi, 224 Apelles, Alexander and, ix, 104; method of, iii, 106; the "Venus" of, ix, 125; xiii, 12

Apemantus, Timon and, xii, 376-7 Aphides, and ants, xi, 254; development of, 462

Aphrodite, Ares and, xxii, 106-8 Aphrodite, in HIPPOLYTUS, viii, 303-4; Gyrene's image of, xxxiii, 89; home of, viii, 384; queen of rapture, 131; "she whom none subdues," 281; (see also Venus)

Apires, Chilian miners, xxix, 344-5 Apis, court of, at Memphis, xxxiii, 77 Aplysia, Darwin on the, xxix, 16

Apocalyptics, Pascal on the, xlviii, 216-7 (650, 651)

Apodictic principles, xxxii, 326

Apollinarian Heresy, vii, 115

Apollinarii, Milton on the, iii, 199

Apollinaris, Domitius, letter to, ix, 265

Apollo, Cassandra and, viii, 47-8, 53-4; Daphne and, xl, 378; Delphi (Phoebus), fourth prophet of, viii, 122-3; Egypt, king of, xxxiii, 72; god of music, iv, 21, 57; viii, 445; Hyacinth and, iv, 18-9; in Egyptian mythology, xxxiii, 78-9; Latona's son, iv, 80; Loxias, called, viii, 100, 119, 123; Lyceian king, 215; Marsyas and, xx, 285; Phlegyas and, 32 note i; Phoebus, called, viii, 122; Thymbraean god, xx, 191 note; Virgil on, xiii, 157; Zoilus and, xxviii, 383; (see also Delphian Oracle)

Apollo, in THE FURIES, viii, protector of Orestes, 125-6, 129-32; witness for Orestes, 145, 147-9; altercation with the Furies, 151-3

Apollo Belvedere, Cellini on the, xxxi, 318 note; not impossible in life, v, 193

Apollodorus, Socrates's friend, ii, 22, 26, 46-7, 112

Apollodorus, the orator, and Demosthenes, xii, 202-3

Apollodorus, Greek writer, on Chrysippus, xxxii, 31

Apollodorus, the Sicilian, with Cleopatra, xii, 304

Apollonius, Molon, and Cicero, xii, 221; Caesar and, 265

Apollonius, the Stoic, M. Aurelius on, ii, 194 (8), 199; on self-discipline, 154 (100)

Apollonius, of Tyana, Bacon on, iii, 66

Apollos, the Alexandrian, xliv, 463-4 (24-8); St. Paul on, xlv, 494 (5-6), 495 (6), 5M (12)

Apollyon, and Christian, xv, 60-4

Apologies, Bacon on, iii, 63; Emerson on, v, 67; new actions the only, 190; Pascal on, xlviii, 23 (57)

APOLOGY OF SOCRATES, Plato's, ii, 5-30

APOLOGY, THE, Emerson's poem, xiii, 1242-3

Apostasy, Bunyan on, xv, 154-6

Apostles, Calvin on, xxxix, 44; choosing of the, xliv, 368 (13-16); community of goods among, 431; council of, on circumcision, 455-6; xlviii, 223 (672); deacons appointed by the, xliv, 434 (1-6); Holy Spirit received, 425; imprisoned and miraculously freed, 433 (17-20), renew teachings, 433 (2142); in Jerusalem, 439 (i, 14); with Paul, 442-3 (27); Jesus's appearances to, after death, 418 (36-53), 423 (3n), xlv, 511 (5, 7); Jesus with, xliv, 374 (i, 9), 375 (22-5), 378 (10), 378 (18), 379-8o (43-6), 383 (i), 386 (i), 389 (41) 398 (5-10) 402 (31), 410 (14-40), 412 (45-6); Judas's place supplied, 424; Kempis on the, vii, 286 (4), 295 (6); Lessing on the, xxxii, 198-9; Luther on the, xxxvi, 290, 344; Luther on council, 273; Milton on the, iv, 353, 354, miracles done by, xliv, 427 (43), 432 (12-16); Mohammed on the, xlv, 954, 967, 1006; Pascal on the, xlviii, 268 (770), 277-8, 289 (838); Paul, St., on the, xlv, 495 (913); power and authority given to, xliv, 377 (J); sent forth to preach, 377 (2-6)

APOSTLES, ACTS OF THE, xliv, 421-86

Apostles' Creed, xxxix, 47

Apothecaries, Chaucer on, doctors and, xl, 23; profits of, x, 113

Apparel, Perm on, i, 330; Woolman on, 252-4

Apparitions, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 316-7

Apparitor, Chaucer's, xl, 28-9 note 314

Appeal, right of, in Massachusetts, xliii, 72 (36)

Appearances, Emerson on regard for, v, 67; fable of deceptiveness of, xvii, 27; Goethe on, xix, 381; Machiavelli on care of, xxxvi, 59; Marcus Aurelius on, ii 233 (13); Pascal on, xlviii, no (319); Paul, St., on, xxxvi, 276; Schiller on aesthetic, xxxii, 284-9

Appetite, Locke on tempting the, xxxvii, 30

Appius Claudius (see Claudius)

Appius, Marcus, Czsar and, xii, 282; Cicero and, 240; ix, 120, 127, 142, 146; provincial governor, 131, 142; propylaeum of, 151

Applauders, professional, in Rome, ix, 220

Applause (see Praise)

Apple-growing, in Chiloe, short method employed, xxix, 301-2

Apples, Locke on eating of, xxxvii, 21

Appointments, Confucius on, xliv, 41; Koran on, xxv, 244; Presidential, xliii, 188-9 (2, 3)

Appomattox, terms of surrender at, xliii, 421-2

Apprehensions, Pliny on, ix, 327

Apprenticeships, limitation of, x, 122; long, 122-5; Smith on, 104; unknown to ancients, 125

Appropriations, in Massachusetts, xliii, 77 (78); (U. S.) under the Confederation, 164-5; under Constitution, 184 (12), 186 (7)

Apries, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 81-4

April, Chaucer on, xl, n; Shakespeare on, 278

Apteryx, wings of the, xi, 177

Apuleius, Golden Ass of, xxxix, 350; xlii, 1357

Aquila of Pontus, xliv, 462 (2-4), 463 (18-19), 464 (26)

Aquila, P. Attius, ix, 410

Aquleia, Freeman on, xxviii, 256

Aquilius, Cicero on, ix, 81

Aquilo, charioteer of Winter, iv, 18

Aquinas, Thomas, St., angels, reference to, xx, 408 note; death of, 227 note u; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; Dante places in Paradise, xx, 327; life of, sketch of, 327 note 16; pupil of Albertus Magnus, 327 note 15

Aquinius, Marcus, Cicero on, xii, 240

Arabella, Lady (see Stuart, Arabella)

Arabesques, Cellini on, xxxi, 60-1

Arabian Heresy, iii, 258 (7)

ARABIAN NIGHTS' ENTERTAINMENTS, xvi Arabs, adopted children among, xlv, 985 note 2, 989 note; beacon-fires of, i oo i note; chase, ideas of, v, 353; divorce among, xlv, 985 note; Emerson on conquests of the, v, 55-6; hospitality among, xlv, 990 note 28; religion of, 876; Schiller on civilization of, xxxii, 237; sheiks, habits of, v, 139; swords as mirrors among, xx, 343 note 22

Arachne, Dante on, xx, 192; reference to loom of, 70

Aratus, Pliny on, ix, 271

Araviscans, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108

Arbela, battle of, iii, 74

ARBITRARY GOVERNMENT, Winthrop on, xliii, 85-105

Arbitration, Hobbes on legal, xxxiv, 410; Pascal on international, xlviii, 105 (296); U. S. and Mexico, agreement between, for, xliii, 302-3

Arc, Joan of (see Joan of Arc)

ARCADES, MILTON'S, iv, 41-4

Arcadia, Johnson on first inhabitants of, xxxix, 199; Spartan invasion of, xii, 149 note; the "thesmophoria" in, xxxiii, 85

Arcalaus, the enchanter, xiv, 114

Areas, Callisto's son, xx, 416 note 5

Arceisius, father of Laertes, xxii, 218

Arcens, son of, xiii, 313

Arcesilaus, method of teaching, xxxii, 36; Pascal on, xlviii, 124 (375)

Archander, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 48

Archangels, in FAUST, xix, 18

Archedemus, Aristophanes on, viii, 451, 456

Archelaus, Antony and, xii, 324; the tower of, xxxv, 319

Archenomus, Aristophanes on, viii, 486

Archeopteryx, xi, 342

Archiac, M. d', on changes in species, xi, 359

Archias, the exile-hunter, xii, 214-5

Archibius, Cleopatra's friend, xii, 388

Archidamus, king of Sparta, xii, 66, 69

Archidiche, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 68

Archilochus, banished from Sparta, iii, 194

Archimedes, Huxley on, xxviii, 219; Manzoni on, xxi, 115; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 241 (47); Pascal on, xlviii, 275

Archipelagoes, Darwin on, xi, 347

Archippe, wife of Themistocles, xii, 33

Archippus, Flavius, ix, 389-90, 399

Architecture, Burke on colors in, xxiv, 69; Coleridge on, xxvii, 262; effects, its means of producing, xxiv, 129; figures in, various, xxiv, 64; Greenough's theory of, v, 317; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; Hugo on mediaeval, xxxix, 350-1; human body as model in, xxiv, 81-2; light and shade in, 68-9; magnitude in, 64-5; Vitruvius on study of, v, 176; xxxi, 8

Architeles, Themistocles and, xii, n

Archytas of Tarentum, on isolation, ix, 38; on sensual pleasure, 59

Arcite and Palamon, story of, xxxix, 160, 161, 172

Areius and Octavius, xii, 383-4

AREOPAGITICA, MILTON'S, iii, 184-232

Areopagus, Council of, Æschylus on ordaining of, viii, 150-1; Burke on, xxiv, 338; its composition, xii, 44; its powers reduced, 42, 44

Ares, JEschylus on, viii, 23-4; Aphrodite and, xxii, 106-8; Phineus's sons and, viii, 287; worshipped in Egypt, xxxiii, 34, 35, 42; (see also Mars)

Arete, wife of Alcinous, xxii, 91-2; Ulysses with, 93-4, no, 153; Ulysses's farewell to, 175

Aretheus, Eudamidas and, xxxii, 81

Arethusa, Alpheus and, Milton on, iv, 42; Dante on story of, xx, 104; Jupiter and, xix, 246; Virgil on, xiii, 151

Arethusa, in PHILASTER, xlvii, Bellario sent to, 684, 691; Bellario, scenes with, 691-2, 713, 721, 750; hunt, at, 714; king, scenes with, 708-9, 735; lost in wood, 718; Megra denounces, 697, 744; Pharamond and, 667, 669, 682, 692, 693, 724-5; Philaster, letter to, 704; Philaster, scenes with, 677-81, 710, 721-2, 730, 731, 734

Arethusa, Browne on river, iii, 257

Aretino, Pietro, Milton on, iii, 203 note 43; pictures of, reference to, xlvii, 569; portrait by Titian, xxvii, 272

Argand, Aime", inventor of hollow wick, xxx, 104, 156

Argas, friend of Orgon, xxvi, 279

Argas, the poet, xii, 194

Argent, Dr., Harvey to, xxxviii, 62

Argenti, Filippo, in Dante's HELL, xx, 33

Argia, in Limbo, xx, 237

Arginusac, battle of, ii, 20

Argo, Homer on ship, xxii, 163; Milton on ship, iv, 134; Stukeley on, v, 458

Argonauts, date of expedition of, xxxiv, 129-30

Argos, eyes of, references to, iv, 322; xlvii, 567

Argos, Hermes, slayer of, viii, 187 note 37; xxii, 10

Argos, lo and, viii, 187, 190-1

Argos, dog of Ulysses, xxii, 235-6

Argument, Franklin on habit of, i, 15-16, 126-7; Penn on, 335-6

(133-6); Socrates on, ii, 83-4; varieties of, xxxvii, 332 note

Argus, Evander and, xiii, 279; (see also Argos)

Argustus, Eliazar and, xxxv, 154

Ariadne, sister of Minotaur, xx, 49 note 5; placed among stars, 339; Homer on, xxii, 153; Theseus and, xxvi, 136, 143

Ariamenes, Xerxes' admiral, xii, 18

Arians, Bacon on the, iii, 138; Browne on the, 259 (8); Pascal on the, xlviii, 293, 301; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 83-4 Aricia, mother of Virbius, xiii, 265 Aricia, in PHÆDRA, Hippolytus and, xxvi, 135-7, 148-56, 185, 186-7, 194; Theseus and, 188-9, J 96

Ariel, in FAUST, xix, 184, 190

Ariel, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 213

Ariel, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, at banquet, 441-2; Caliban and, 436-9; Ferdinand and, 412-3, 416; Gonzalo and, 422, 426; Prospero and, 405-10, 445, 449-50, 452-3, 453-4, 455; 459-6o, 461, 462-3; Hugo on, xxxix, 354; Hunt on Shakespeare's, xxvii, 294; Shelley on Miranda and, xii, 848-9

Aries, Dante on sign of, xx, 178; sun started in, 6 note 5

Arimanes, in MANFRED, xviii, 431

Arimaspians, Æschylus on the, viii, 195 and note 55; and gryfons, iv, 132

Arimnestus, at Plataea, xii, 89, 97

Ariobarzanes, Cicero and, ix, 136, 142; Plutarch on, xii, 247

Arioch, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 213

Ariosto, Lodovic, Cervantes on, xiv, 50; Dryden on, xiii, 5, 13, 26, 55; Hugo on, xxxix, 351; Hume on, xxvii, 207; Montaigne on, xxxii, 91; Renan on, 160; Sainte-Beuve on, 132; Spenser on, xxxix, 62; Titian's portrait of, xxvii, 272; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 317

Ariovistus, xii, 279-80

Ariphron, guardian of Alcibiades, xii, 106, 108

Aristarchus, friend of Paul, xliv, 466 (29), 467 (4), 481 (2)

Aristarchus of Samos, referred to, xlvi, 80

Aristides, archon, xii, 83; assessment made by, 102; Athenian democracy proposed by, 100; banishment of, 84-5; birth and condition of, 78-9, 103-4, 105; children of, 105; commissioner, as, 100-1; constancy and justice, 81-2, 834; death of, 104; Eleutheria proposed by, 99; levy of Greeks proposed by, 99; LIFE OF, Plutarch's, 76-105; Marathon, at, 82-3; Persian wars, in, 16-7, 19, 8598; public conduct guided by expediency, 103; resentment, freedom from, 189; Themistocles and, 7, 15, 16-7, 19, 22-3, 79-8o, 81-2, 84, 86-7, 100, 102, 104

Aristippus, Horace on, xxxii, 58; not with Socrates in prison, ii, 47; on children, xxxii, 74; quotation from, 63

Aristo, Titus, letters to, ix, 262, 319; Pliny on, 209-10

Aristobulus and Antony, xii, 323

Aristocracy, Channing on, xxviii, 344-5; Mill on government by, xxv, 108: natural and actual, 214; of Europe, v, 214; origin of, xxxiv, 221

Aristocrates, Antony and, xii, 375

Aristodicus, the Tanagraean, xii, 46

Aristogiton, grand-daughter of, xii, 105: Hermodius and, xxxii, 77

Ariston, Claudius, ix, 294

Ariston, of Ceos, xii, 80 note

Ariston, Greek tragedian, xxxii, 70

Aristonicus, death of, xii, 214

Aristophanes, Dryden on, xxxix, 174; Euripides and, viii, 302; THE FROGS, 439-87; Hugo on, xxxix, 347; life and works, viii, 438; Milton on, iii, 194, 206; Samians on the, xii, 63; Socrates on, ii, 7; Taine on comedies of, xxxix, 435

Aristophanes, the grammarian, on Epicurus, xxxii, 64-5

Aristophon, the painter, xii, 120

Aristotle, air and rain, on, xxxviii, 101; Alexander's tutor, iv, 401; xxxii, 53-4; animals, motion of, xxxviii, 134-5; antipater on persuasiveness of, xii, 188: Art of Poesy, xxvii, 39; Augustine on Predicaments of, vii, 59; Bacon on ostentation of, iii, 128; Browne on, 262 (12), 265, 287, 305, 322; Cicero on, xii, 237; comedy on, xxvii, 46: comets, on, xxxiv, 118; Dante's Limbo in, xx, 20 note 8; death, on, xxxviii, 85; democracy, on, xxiv, 259-60 and note; Don Ferrante on, xxi, 445; drama, on the, xiii, 6; xxxix, 220; Emerson on, v, 152-3; Euripus, flux of. xxxviii, 75; friendship, on, xxxii, 73. 80; heart and blood, on the, xxxviii, 81, 84, 93, 123, 128, 130, 132, 133, 137; human understanding, on, xxxiv, 103; Hume on, xxxvii, 291; imitation, on, xxiv, 43-4; inequality, on, xxxiv, 408-9; Lowell on, xxviii, 452; Luther on, xxxvi, 321; Mill on, xxv, 219; medicine, on study of, xix, 206-7 notes 12 and 13; Milton on Lyceum of, iii, 244; iv, 401; Montaigne on, xxxii, 29; natural selection, his idea of, xi, 9 note; Newman on Lyceum of, xxviii. 58; Pascal on, xlviii, 114; Plato's pupil, ii, 3; poetry, on, xiii, 35; xxvii, 50; xxviii, 79; xxxix, 279, 387; poetry and history, on, xxvii, 19; xxviii, 74; Raleigh on his doctrine of eternity, xxxix, 99, 100, 101, 104; Rhetoric of, xxv, 13; ridicule, on, xxxix, 180; soul, on the, 101 ; space, on, v, 175; state, on members of, xx, 318 note 14; summum bonum of, iii, 331 (15); Taine on, xxxix, 431 note; teacher, profits as, x, 137; taste, on, xxviii, 376; things to be avoided, on, xx, 47 note; tragedy, on, iv, 412; xiii, 8; viper, on the, xxxv, 344-5

Arithmetic, Descartes on, xxxiv, 19; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; Hume on, xxxvii, 306; Locke on study of, 153, 154

Arius, Dante on, xx, 343 note 21; Pascal on, xlviii, 288 (832)

Arjuna, Prince (see BHAGAVAD-GITA)

Ark, Browne on story of the, iii, 274; on pigeon sent from, 273; Milton on the, iv, 337

Arkansas River, sediment of, xxxviii, 402

Arkwright, the spinningjenny and, v, 395

ARMADA, THE, by Macaulay, xli, 915-6

Armadillo, Darwin on the, xxix, 102; Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 353

Armado, fish, xxix, 141

Armagnac, Earl of, xxxix, 95

Armenians, Freeman on the, xxviii, 271

Armgart, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 468, 469-73

Armies, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 40-1, 48; mediaeval Italy, of, xxvii, 374-5; 16th century, xxxviii, 8; standing (see Standing Armies)

Arminians, Bacon on the, iii, 138

Arminius, Milton on, iii, 204

ARMOUR, ADAM, PRAYER OF, vi, 121-2

Armour, Jean, farewell to, vi, 224; lines on, 58, 68-9, 92, 306-7, 316-7; references to, 142 note, 173; Robert Burns and, 15, 16

Arms, Don Quixote on profession of, xiv, 373-5377-9; Machiavelli on practice and study of, xxxvi, 40, 48-9; Milton on lack of training in, iv, 347; More on practice of, xxxvi, 144-5; profession of, necessary to empire, iii, 778; right of, in U. S., xliii, 194 (2)

Armstead, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 390

Armstrong, Dr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 228

ARMSTRONG, JOHNIE, xl, 101-3 Army, U. S., under the Confederation, xliii, 161, 164, 165; under Constitution, 184 (12), 185 (14); President commander-in-chief of U. S., 188 (i) Army of the Potomac, Haskell on, xliii, 327-8, 402

Arnaces, the eunuch, xii, 20, 87 Arnams, the beggar, xxii, 245 Arnauld, M., references to, xlviii, 346 note 4, 387

Arnold, Sir Edwin, translator of BHAGAVAD-GITA, xlv, 783

Arnold, Matthew, on culture, xxviii, 2134; life and writings, 64; POEMS by, xiii, 1123-40; STUDY OF POETRY, xxviii, 65-90

Arnold, Sir Nicholas, xxxv, 328

Arnold, Thomas, Matthew Arnold on, xiii, 1130-5

Arnold, Bishop of Liege, xxxv, 101

Arnold's Battery, at Gettysburg, xliii, 337, 351, 381

Aromaia, Raleigh on, xxxiii, 333-4, 353

Aroras, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 351

Arouet, Francois-Marie (see Voltaire)

Arowacai, town of, xxxiii, 349

Arragon, Cardinal of, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 755-855; Antonio, relations with, 759, 762, 883; Bosola, scenes with, 756, 837, 838, 843-5, 8514; Duchess and, 764-6; Ferdinand and, 762, 786-9, 806, 835, 836-7; Julia and, 783-4, 841-3; keeps watch alone, 8478; Loretto, at, 807; Malatesti and, 804

Arrangement, Pascal on, xlviii, 16 (22-3)

Arrests, in U. S., xliii, 194 (4)

Arria, wife of Paetus, ix, 242-4; Certus, in case of, 338, 340-1; exile of, 239; Pliny and, 339

Arrian, Epictetus and, ii, 116 Arrianus, Maturus, letters to, ix, 187-8, 251-2, 278-80, 331-2

Arrigo, Cardinal, xx, 336 note 20

Arrigo, Florentine nobleman, xx, 27 note 12

Arrius, Quintus, xii, 230; Cicero on, ix, 88, 93

Arrogance, Dante places, in HELL, xx, 33; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 364, 409; Marcus

Aurelius on, ii, 279 (13, 19)

Arrows, Raleigh on poisoned, xxxiii, 352

Arruntius, at Actium, xii, 373 note

Arsaces, Parthian empire, founder, iv, 391

Arsago, Pagolo, xxxi, 27

Art, ancient and modern, contrasted, xxviii, 191; Aurelius on nature and, ii, 287 (10); Browne on, and nature, iii, 268; Browning on, xlii, 1072; Burke on, xxiv, 47-8, 65-6, 87-8; Coleridge on, xxvii, 255-63; Confucius on nature and, xliv, 20 (16), 38 (8); Emerson on, v, 180, 301; Goethe on, xxv, 382; xxxix, 251-66; Goldsmith on blessings of, xli, 522; Greenough's ideas of, v, 316; Hugo on, xxxix, 345-6, 348, 3512, 355, 356, 364, 367; human and divine, ii, 138 (61); Hume on, xxvii, 207-8; xxxvii, 292-3; "is long" (original saying), xxxviii, 2; Morley on principles of, xxiv, 28; Pascal on, and nature, xlviii, 49 (120); Penn on, i, 343; public attitude toward, xxviii, 119-20; purism in, satirized, xix, 185; Ruskin on, xxviii, 152; Schiller on, xxxii, 209, 212, 231-8, 253-5, 267-9, 268-74; Sidney on nature and, xxvii, 9; Taine on, xxxix, 429, 431, 434; unity the vital requisite of, xxviii, 371; utility and, xxxii, 211 ; "weaker than Necessity," viii, 185; Whitman on reality in, xxxix, 402 (see also Beauty, Taste)

ART THOU WEARY, xlv, 544-5

Artabanus, Themistocles and, xii, 28-9

Artavasdes, king of Armenia, xii, 350, 351, 361

ARTEMIDORA, THE DEATH OF, xli, 902

Artemidorus, Cxsar and, xii, 316-17; Pliny on, ix, 239-40

Artemis, Actaeon and, viii, 381; Atridae and, 12; Egyptian mythology, in, xxxiii, 79; Bubastis, festival of, 34; oracle of, 42; temple of, 69-70; Homer on, xxii, 83-4; reference to, viii, 215; Thebes, goddess of, 214, 215 (see also Cynthia, Diana)

Artemisia, Burns on, vi, 59

Artemisium, battle of, xii, 12-3

Artemon, the engineer, xii, 63-4

Arteries, Harvey on the, xxxviii, 65-9, 73, 79-81, 88, 89, 102, 109-10, 113, 116, 137, 139

Arthmius of Zelea, xii, 10

Arthur, King, Caxton on, xxxix, 20-4; Cervantes on, xiv, 92, 489; drinking cup and arms of, xxxii, 145; Eliwlod and, 168-9; Guenevere and, xlii, 1186; Mordred and, xx, 132 note 3; Renan on, xxxii, 148-9, 155-7; Spenser on, xxxix, 62; university at Caerleon, xxxv, 371; Uther's son, iv, 102

Arthur, King, in HOLY GRAIL, xxxv, 1056; his custom of adventure, 107; and the marvelous sword, 108; welcomes Galahad, 109, no; and the Sangreal, in; his tourney at Camelot, 111-12; at Holy Grail feast, 113; grief at departure of knights, 113-14, 115, n6: orders chronicles of the Grail, 213

ARTHUR, MORTE D', by Tennyson, xlii, 986-92

Arthur, Prince, son of Henry VII, xxxix, 26

Arthur's hunting, xxxii, 153 note 9

Arthurian legends, Caxton on, xxxix, 20-4; Renan on, xxxii, 146, 148-66 (see also HOLY GRAIL)

Artichoke, compared with cardoon, xxix, 125 note 9; Jerusalem, xi, 147

Article, Dryden on the, xiii, 61

ARTICLES OF CONFEDERATION, xliii, 158-68; Lincoln on, 316

Articulate speech, man and nature, the distinction between, xxvii, 256-7

Artificers, in agricultural system, x, 430-6, 439-46; in policy of Europe, 103-4

Artificial, Carlyle on the, xxv, 330

Artisans, anciently inferior to warriors, xxxiii, 83; Socrates on, ii, 10

ARTIST, EPIGRAM TO AN, vi, 263

Artist, Northern, in FAUST, xix, 185

Artists, Browning on, xlii, 1096; Emerson on duty of, v, 50-1; Goethe on training and duty of, 252, 255; xxxix, 260-1, 263, 265; relations to the public, 259

Arts, Burke on the, xxiv, 40, 44, 47-8: Emerson on the, v, 79-80, 304; Raleigh on the, xl, 206; progress in, due to wants, xxxiv, 177-8; relation of various, xxxix, 261 (see also Architecture, Music, Painting, Poetry, Sculpture)

Arulenus, Rusticus (see Rusticus)

Arundel, Earl of, in Crecy campaign, xxxv, 9, 24, 27

Arundel, Thomas of, xxxv, 255

Arundel, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 43-6, 50, 59

Aruns, Camilla and, xiii, 383-5; doomed by Diana, 386; his death, 386; in Dante's HELL, xx, 82

Aruspiciny, defined, xxxiv, 382

Arwacas, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 341, 374

Aryan Races, Freeman on the, xxviii, 240-2; Taine on the, xxxix, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424

Aryans, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 117

Arybas, the daughter of, xxii, 210-12

Asaf, son of Barkhiya, xvi, 26 note; 27, 308

Asaph, Psalms attributed to, xliv, 144, 203, 232-49

Ascanio, servant of Cellini, xxxi, 185-8, 188-9, 192, 197, 212-14, 258, 261, 265, 277, 278, 279, 304, 327, 335-6, 348, 351.

Ascanius (lulus), in sack of Troy, xiii, 123, 125; Dido's hunt at, 157; Anchises's funeral games, 196-7; in fire of the ships, 200; kills stag of Silvia, 255-6; his fight with Tyrrheus, 257-8; Nisus and Euryalus, with, 301-2; in defence of the town, 313-15, 326; prophecy of his future reign, 82, 269

Ascension Island, Darwin on, xxix, 494-8; rock incrustations at, 19; species of, xi, 414

Ascension Day, Walton on, xv, 403-4

Ascetic goodness, Bagehot on, xxviii, 171-3; disagreeable to women, 182-3 Asceticism, Diogenes on, ii, 180 (187); Epictetus on, 154 (101); pride in, 177 (176); Utopian idea of, xxxvi, 204

Ascham, Johnson on, xxxix, 225

Asciburgium, founded by Ulysses, xxxiii, 94

Asclapo, Roman physician, ix, 154

Asclepius (see Æsculapius)

Ascolano, Aurelio, xxxi, 58

Ascoli, Eurialo d', xxxi, 58 note

Ascot, Duke of, xxxviii, 52, 53, 55, 57

Asdente, Dante on, xx, 84, and note 8

Ashburton, Alexander Lord, xliii, 281

Ashley, Lord, and Locke, xxxvii, 3

Ashtaroth (see Astarte)

Asia, cause of barbarism of, x, 25-6; wealth of ancient, ix, 379 note i

Asinius, friend of Pliny, ix, 256

Asinius, Pollio (see Pollio)

ASK ME No MORE, xl, 351

Askew, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 471, 472-3, 475, 492

Asmach, Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 20

Asmadai, Asmodai, or Asmodeus, reference to story of, iv, 151; in the battle, 213; lustfulness of, 375

Aspasia, of Miletus, accused of impiety, xii, 68, 69; and the Megarians, 67; Plutarch on, xii, 60-1

Aspasia, concubine of Cyrus, xii, 61

ASPATIA'S SONG, xl, 321

Asphalax, blindness of the, xxix, 59

Asphalion, squire of Menelaus, xxii, 51

Aspirations, worldliness and, xix, 33; inborn in man, 48

Ass, descent of the, as traced by stripes, xi, 162-6; why not improved, 52

Ass, Job's description of the wild, xxiv, 56-7

Ass AND BULL, story of, xvi, 11-2

Ass AND HORSE, fable of, xvii, 42

Ass AND LAPDOG, fable of, xvii, 15

Ass IN LION'S SKIN, fable of, xvii, 30

Ass's BRAINS, fable of the, xvii, 41

Assaracus, in Hades, xiii, 229

Assattha, tree of, xlv, 587

Assent, Dante on haste in giving, xx, 342; Harvey on, xxxviii, 96; Penn on, to please, i, 337 (149)

Assertorial principles, xxxii, 326

Assignats, Burke on the, xxiv, 255-8, 322-7, 364-71

Assimilation, Freeman on, xxviii, 248

Assistance, asking, is honoring, xxxiv, 361; Confucius on, xliv, 52 (15); only to be given by superiors, xviii, 8; willingness to accept, ii, 244 (7)

Associates (see Company)

Association, Burke on effects of, xxiv, 104; Emerson on principle of, v, 259-60; Locke on, as means of education, xxxvii, 36 (49), 40 (58); Mill on education by, xxv, 87-8

Association of ideas, Hume on, xxxvii, 304-5, 327-31

Assurance in children, xxxvii, 52, 53

Assyria, Milton on ancient, iv, 390-1; Raleigh on history' of, xxxix, 112

Astarte, Ashtaroth, or Astoreth, Milton on, iv, 13, 99; crescent of, xlii, 1231

Astarte, in MANFRED, xviii, 434-6; Manfred on, 425-6; further references to, 420, 424, 444

Astolfo, in LIFE Is A DREAM, with Estrella, xxvi, 21-2; his claim to throne, 22-3; agrees to king's plan to try Segismund, 28-9; Segismund with, 42-3, 44-5; Rosaura and, 67; in the battle, 69-71; reunited with Rosaura, 73

Astonishment, Burke on, xxiv, 49, 50, 128

Astoreth (see Astarte)

Astrologers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 84

Astrology, Augustine, St., on, vii, 103-5; Don Quixote on, xiv, 86; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; interest in, reason of, v, -98; unknown in Utopia, xxxvi, 195

Astronomy, Augustine, St., on ancient, vii, 63-4; Dante's, xx, 292-3, 325; Emerson on our ignorance of, v, 80-1; Helmholtz on science of, xxx, 174; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; Hume on, xxxvii, 419; Huxley on Greek, xxviii, 219; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 138, 147, 155; Marlowe's, xix, 225; modern foundation of, xxxix, 52 note; Montaigne on study of, xxxii, 48; Prometheus, originator of, viii, 183

Astur, ally of Æneas, xiii, 327

Astyanax, son of Hector, xiii, 115, 144

Astyochus, Greek admiral, xii, 130

Aswattha, the banyan tree, xlv, 857

Asychis, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 68-9

Asylas, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 312, 327, 378

Asyniur, goddesses, xlix, 300 note

Atabalipa, Milton on, iv, 329; Raleigh on, xxxiii, 303, 317, 319, 321, 330

Atalanta, reference to apple of, xxxix, 138

ATALANTA, chorus from, xiii, 1199-1201

Atarbechis, city of, xxxiii, 26

Ate, Æschylus on, viii, 36, 78, 96, 205; Virgil on, xiii, 348

Athamas, in sack of Troy, xiii, 108; Dante on, xx, 123

Athanasian Creed, Bagehot on, xxviii, 196

Athanasius, St., Pascal on, xlviii, 303 (868); on psalm-singing, vii, 186; on the Trinity, xxxiv, 83

ATHEISM, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 42-5

Atheism, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 233; Browne on, iii, 272; Browning on, xli, 931; Burke on, xxiv, 227; Burns on, vi, 204; Hume on, xxxvii, 407; Mill on, xxv, 30; Milton on, iv, 422; Moliere on charges of, xxvi, 213-14; Pascal on, xlviii, 69 (190), 80 (221), 81 (225), 82 (228); of physicians, iii, 253 note; preferable to superstition, 45

Atheist, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 137-8

Atheists, as witnesses, xxv, 224; Pascal on, xlviii, 69 (190)

Athena, birth of, viii, 149; holder of key to thunderbolts, viii, 156; wardress of Delphi, 123; Egyptian worship of, xxxiii, 34, 42, 86, 80-90; Ruskin on, xxviii, 142 (see also Minerva)

Athena, in THE FURIES, with Orestes and the Furies, viii, 138-42; at trial of Orestes, 144, 145, 150-1; ordains court of Areopagus, 150; casts vote for Orestes, 152-3; appeases the Furies, 155-64

Athenzus, and Cicero, ix, 136

Athenais, Queen, ix, 136

Athene, in THE ODYSSEY, friend of Ulysses, xxii, 10-11

Athenians, prayer of the, ii, 224 (7); Taine on the, xxxix, 412

Athenodorus, the ghost and, ix, 312-13

Athenodotus, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 195 (13)

Athens, Æschylus on, viii, 160-5; Aristophanes on decline of manhood at, 473-4; and on politics of, 460-61, 4845; beautifying of, by Pericles, xii, 47-51; books in ancient, xxviii, 56; bounty of ancient, xii, 105; Burke on Areopagus of, xxiv, 338; capital causes in, ii, 25; capital executions in, 45-6; Collins on music in, xli, 479; Dante on, xx, 169-70; economic resources of, xxviii, 43-4; houses and streets of ancient, xxviii, 55; liberty of press in, iii, 193-4; military spirit of, decline of, xxvii, 373-4; Milton on learning of, iv, 401-4; named for Minerva, xx, 206 note 3; Newman on intellectual supremacy of, xxviii, 40-3; population under Pericles, xii, 74-5; religious liberty in, xxxvii, 393; sacred galleys of, xii, 42 note 5; St. Paul in, xliv, 461 (16-34); Schiller on art and liberty in, xxxii, 237; Shelley on golden age of, xxvii, 338-9; on the drama in, 339, 340-1; Spartan policy toward, xxxvi, 18; teachers in, rewards of, x, 136; the Thirty at, xii, 144-5 (for various portions of Athenian history, see PLUTARCH'S LIVES OF THEMISTOCLES, PERICLES, ARISTIDES, ALCIBIADES, DEMOSTHENES)

Athens, Duke of, constable of France, xxxv, 46, 47, 48

ATHENS, MAID OF, xli, 795-6

ATHENS, UNIVERSITY LIFE AT, xxviii, 5161

Athlete, life of an, Epictetus on, ii, 155 (104)

Athole, Earl of, James I and, xiii, 1161

Atilius, Lucius, called the wise, ix, n

Atinas, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 409, 413

Atlantic Sisters, Pleiades called, iv, 308

Atlantis, Bacon on, iii, 157-8

ATLANTIS, NEW (see NEW ATLANTIS)

Atlas, Æschylus on, viii, 178-9 and note 21, 182; Homer on, xxii, 10; Virgil on, xiii, 161, 234, 272

ATLI, THE SONG OF, xlix, 407-17; remarks on, 252

Atli, in the VOLSUNG TALE, xlix, 310; his future foretold, 312, 328, 336; Brunhild and, 334; wedded to Gudrun, 340-1; his dreams, 341; sends for Gunnar, 342-3; in the battle, 346-7, 348, 349; Gunnar and, 349-50; his end, 350-3

Atli, in the EDDA, his future foretold, xlix, 378, 383-4, 392; Brunhild and, 379; wedded to Gudrun, 402-4; his dreams, 404-6; sends for Gunnar, 407-8; with Gunnar, 413-4; Oddrun and, 435-7; his eating of his children, 415-6; death, 416-7

Atmosphere, composition of the, xxx, 144; pressure of the, 146-9; resistance of the, 19-20; a blanket for the earth, 212; temperature dependent on altitude, 212-13

Atolls, Darwin on, xxix, 469-72; formed from barrier reefs, 477-81; causes of destruction of, 482-3; absence of, in West Indies, 484; in the Pacific, 406, 456-69

Atom, the universe in the, xlviii, 27

Atonement, commencement of, xviii, 439

ATREUS, HOUSE OF, viii, 7-165

Atreus, Thyestes and, viii, 71-2; Sidney on, xxvii, 17

Atropos, "the blind Fury," iv, 74

Attachments, Pascal on human, xlviii, 156 (471), 158 (479)

Attagis, species of, in South America, xxix, 101

Attainder, bills of, in U. S., xliii, 185 (3), 186 (10)

Attentions, Yu-tzu on, xliv, 6 (13), 25 (2)

Attia, mother of Octavius, xii, 255

Attic Boy, Cephalus called the, iv, 37

Attic comedy, coarseness of, viii, 438

Attica, Newman on, xxviii, 41-2; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 177

Atticus, Titus Pomponius, character of, ix, 80; Cicero's letters to, 81, 83, 85, 94, 100, 133, 141, 169, 171, 172; essays dedicated to, 9-10, 45-6

Atticus, Herodes, xxviii, 59-60

Attila, in Dante's HELL, xx, 52

Attilio, Count, in THE BETROTHED, at Don Rodrigo's, xxi, 73-81, 105-6, 181-3; goes to Milan, 290-1; procures Cristoforo's removal, 299-303; dies in plague, 536

Attinghausen, Baron, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 405-12, 456-61

Attius, Tullus, xii, 218

Attorney, Hobbes on power of, xxxiv, 413-14

Atys, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 196 Aubignac, D', Corneille and, xxxix, 361; Hugo on, 364

Aubigny, Lord d', xxxv, 25, 31

Aubrecicourt, Eustace d', xxxv, 35, 36, 42, 43. 46

Aubrey, on Milton, xxviii, 174

Auburn, the deserted village, xii, 509-19

Auckland Islands, ferns in, xxix, 249

Audacity, Hippocrates on, xxxviii, 5

Audley, James, at Poitiers, xxxv, 43, 44, 48; honored by Prince Edward, 53; his gift to squires, 55; new gift from Prince, 57

Audley, Lord Chancellor, xxxvi, 112, 117, 119, 120, 123, 125, 128, 129, 130, 131

Audrehem, Arnold d', xxxv, 44

Audubon, on the frigate bird, xi, 180; on birds' nests, 254-5; on transportation of seeds, 412

Auerbach's wine cellar, xix, 84-99

Aufidius, death of, xxxii, 13-4

Aufidius, Tullus, Coriolanus and, xii, 167-9, 171-2, 175, l83-5, death of, 185

AUGURIES OF INNOCENCE, xii, 586-90

Augurs, College of, ix, 213 note 4; duties of, 251 note i; Pliny on, 251-2; seniority among, 68

Augury, defined, xxxiv, 382; among the Germans, xxxiii, 98

AUGUST, SONG COMPOSED IN, vi, 45-6

AUGUSTA, EPISTLE TO, xii, 792-5

AUGUSTA, To, xii, 790-1

Augustan Age, Macaulay on, xxvii, 391

Augustia, Donna, xxiii, 238, 383-4, 385

Augustine, St., Bishop of Hippo, vii, 3-4; Alypius and Nebridius friends of, 8792; astrology rejected by, 103-6; baptism of, 146; books "on the fair and fit," 56-9; Carthage, in, 31-3; Caxton on teachings of, xxxix, 13; Chaucer on, xl, 16, 46; on Christ, vii, 114-15, 196-7; on Christ and Church, xxxix, 33 note; communistic household of, vii, 96; concubine of, 46, 96; CONFESSIONS, 5-198; CONFESSIONS, remarks on, xxxi, i; CONFESSIONS, object in writing, vii, 22, 24, 161-3; conversion of, 76-7, 82-4, 118-43; in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 420 note 4; De Saci on, xlviii, 393-4; on the dead, xxxix, 92; on death, xlviii, 338; deatihis fear of, vii, 96; on deception, xlviii, 105 note; Descartes and, 408; disappointments of, vii, 85-7; diviners and, 46-7; Donatists and, xxxix, 34; on doubtful points, 37 note 31; evil, on question of, vii, 101-2, 106; Faustus and, 67-9; friend, loss of, 48-52; on God, 5-7, 27-8, 37-8, 60, 74-5, 98-9, 115, 164, 174, 176-81; on goodness of all things, no-n; on happiness, 176; Hugo on, xxxix, 345; infancy and boyhood of, vii, 8-20; learning, on his, 59-61; Luther on, xxxvi, 266, 300; on man, xlviii, 32 note; Manichaeans, among, vii, 35-45, 63-6, 74-5; marriage, his wish for, 93-5; memory, on the, 166-76; Milan, in, 76; on miracles, 350-1; xlviii, 281 (812); on monks, xxxix, 36 note 25; mother's death, vii, 151-9; Orosius and, xx, 328; Platonists partly convert, vii, 107-14; Pascal on, xlviii, 87, 304 (869); on praise, xxxix, 67; on righteousness, xlviii, 167; Rome, in, vii, 70-3; scriptures, attitude toward, 35, 114-17; studies of, 34; rhetoric, teacher of, 46, 75, 138-41; trials and temptations of, 181-95; truth, his search for, 92-3; Walton on, xv, 336, 341, 353; wills, on two, in man, vii, 131-3

Augustine of Canterbury, Roper on, xxxvi, 130; See of London, changed by, xxxv, 252; Stamford University, suppressed by, 371

Augustus, Æneas, compared with, xiii, 19-24, 36; ÆNEID saved by, xiv, 99; Agrippa and, iii, 67; Ajax of, iv, 412; arts of, iii, 17; beauty of, 106; Britain's tribute to, xxxv, 315-16; calm nature of, iii, 104-5; censorship of books under, 195; Dante on victories of, xx, 307-8; death of, iii, 10; decree of, in LUKE, xliv, 357 (i); diet of, xxxvii, 17; favorites of, xii, 388; Horace and, xxvii, 68-9; xxxix, 164; Herod's son, on, xlviii, 66 (179); Rome, liberator of, iii, 130; M. Aurelius on, ii, 258 (31); motto of, xix, 369; Ovid and, xiii, 36-7, 54-5; Pascal on, xlviii, 51 (132); on pets, xii, 35; pleasure in small children, 368 note n; postal service of, ix, 369 note; Scribonia, his divorce of, xiii, 37; times of, iii, 45; vestal virgins and, ix, 254 note; Virgil and, xiii, 3, 17-20, 55, 83, 234; xxxix, 164 (see also Octavius)

Auld, William, lines on, vi, 353 note 16; reference to, 228

AULD FARMER'S NEW YEAR SALUTATION, vi, 147-50

AULD HOUSE, THE, xli, 561-2

AULD LANG SYNE, vi, 317; Whittier on air of, xiii, 1362

Auld Lichts, Burns on, party of, vi, 16, 63-6, 90-1, 104-7, I 8s-5

AULD ROB MORRIS, vi, 445-6

AULD ROBIN GRAY, xli, 557-8

Aulestes, death of, xiii, 400

Auletes, Æneas, ally of, xiii, 328

Aunus, death of, xiii, 381

Aurelia, Regulus and, ix, 229

Aurelia, Carsar's mother, xii, 269, 271-2

Aurelian, Bacon on, iii, 130

Aurelius, King, v, 374

Aurelius, Marcus, sketch of life and work, ii, 192; Alexander the prophet and, xxxvii, 384; Arnold on, xiii, 1139; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 63, 68; MEDITATIONS of, ii, 193-301; Pope on, xl, 436

Aurelius, Scaurus, xxxiii, 113

Auret, Marquis d', xxxviii, 52-8

Auricles, of the heart, xxxviii, 82-6, 134-5

Aurinia, worship of, xxxiii, 97

Aurochs, deterioration of the, xi, 134

Aurora, Cephalus, the Attic Boy, and, iv, 37; Orion and, xxii, 71; Tithonus and, v, 92; xxii, 68; Zephyr and, iv, 30

AURORA, To, xl, 314-15

Aurora Borealis, Kelvin on, xxx, 264

Austerity, Bagehot on, xxviii, 171-3; not agreeable to women, 182; party spirit and, 186; strength of, lies in itsel", 190

Austin, St., Augustine called, xxxix, 1314; xl, 16

Austin, Adam, FOR LACK OF GOLD, xli, 532-3

Austin, Charles, edits Parliamentary Review, xxv, 76; in debating society, 7980; Mill on, 51-2, 64; in Utilitarian movement, 67

Austin, John, Mill on, xxv, 49-51; his friendship with Mill, 44, 49; paper for Westminster Review, 63; for Parliamentary Review, 76; later years of, 111-12, 161

Australia, Darwin on, xxix, 435-55; European species in, xi, 84, 403; fossil mammals of, 372; glaciers in, 400; marsupials of, 119; native species reduced, 134-5; productions of, reason of inferiority, in; useful plants, absence of, in, 48

Australians, Darwin on the, xxix, 235, 437-8; dances of the, 454-5; dogs not domesticated by, xi, 258

Austria-Hungary, Freeman on, xxviii, 262-3, 269-70

Authorities, Bacon on, in philosophy, xxxix, 122-3; Emerson on quoting, v, 71; Hugo on citing, xxxix, 387; Raleigh on, 100

Authority, Bacon on vices of, iii, 30, 48; Channing on, in religion, xxviii, 342; Hobbes on legal, xxxiv, 414; Kempis on obedience to, vii, 212; knowledge on, xxxii, 37-9; Lowell on decline of, reverence for, xxviii, 466; Luther on, xxxvi, 274; Mill on limits of, xxv, 203-6, 270-89; Pascal on, and reason, xlviii, 438-44; Pascal on, in religion, 95 (260); Paul on, xxxvi, 274; Pliny's remarks on, ix, 333; truths on, xxv, 229-39

Authors, in law, xxxiv, 414-15* 4*7J Pascal on egotism of, xlviii, 21 (43); relation of, to public, xxxix, 253-4

Autobiographies, preeminent, xxxi, 3

Autobiography, Cellini on, xxxi, 5; Cicero on, ix, 104; James on influence of, i, 68; Vaughan on, 70-1

Autolycus, xxii, 267-8

Automata, Descartes on, xxxiv, 45-6; Hobbes on, 309

Automedon, in sack of Troy, xiii, 116

Autonoe, in THE BACCHIC, viii, 399, 421, 427

Autonomy of the Will, explained by concept of freedom, xxxii, 356-7; Kant on, 341-3, 346; the supreme principle of morality, 343, 350-1, 355

AUTUMN, ODE TO, xli, 879-80

Autumn, Burns on, vi, 231-2; Campbell on, xli, 772; Collins on, 481; Longfellow on, xlii, 1304; Shakespeare on, xl, 277-8; Shelley on the, xli, 833-4

Auxerre, battle of, xxxix, 82

Auxiliary troops, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 45-8

Ava, plant, xxix, 414

Avalanches, cause of, xxx, 214-15

Avalos, Alfonson d', xxxi, 183 note

Avan, province of, xliii, 24

AVARICE, Æsop's FABLE ON, xvii, 32

Avarice, Arabian proverb on, xvi, 201;

Arabian verses on, 302; Browne on, iii, 329; Cicero on, in old age, ix, 68; Dante's punishment of, xx, 29-30, 222-4; instances of, 228-9; Dante on, 225 note i; Epictetus on growth of, ii, 144; Krishna on, xlv, 862; miserliness contrasted with, xxxvi, 51; Mohammed on, xlv, 883-4; Pascal on, xlviii, 164 (502); Penn on, i, 331-2; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 376

AVARICIOUS AND ENVIOUS, fable of, xvii, 32

Avenant, Sir William d', DAWN SONG, xl, 354

Aventinus, son of Hercules, xiii, 262

Avernus, Lake, xiii, 215

Averroes, Dante on, xx, 20 note

Aversion, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 337-40; language of, 344

Avianius, Cicero and, ix, 105

Aviaries, Bacon on, iii, 117

Avicenna, in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; on tumefaction, xxxviii, 114

Avila, Don Louis de, works of, xiv, 55

Avilion, island-valley of, xlii, 992

Aviones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 115

Avitus, letter to, ix, 215

Avoidance, Aurelius on, ii, 236 (20)

AWA', WHIGS, AWA', vi, 360-1

Awe, Confucius on, xliv, 29 (22), 56 (8)

A wood, John, More and, xxxvi, 121-2

Ax, speckled, story of, i, 84-5

Axioms, Montaigne on, xlviii, 392; Pascal's rules for, 405

AYE MY WIFE SHE DANG ME, vi, 515

Ayeshah, wife of Mohammed, xlv, 992 note i

AYR, THE BRIGS OF, vi, 230-7

AYR, FAREWELL SONG TO BANKS OF, vi, 238-9

Ayrton, William, in Hazlitt's discussion, xxvii, 267-78

Aytoun, Sir William, REFUSAL OF CHARON, xli, 917-18

Azara, Don Felix, on carrion-hawks, xxix, 64, 66; on cattle in Paraguay, xi, 80-1; on hydrophobia, xxix, 357; on ostrich eggs, 98; on Pampas Indians, in note; on plants along new tracks, 124; on wild horses in droughts, 139; on wasps and spiders, 44 note 9; on S. American rainfall, 55 note

Azazel, standard bearer of Satan, iv, 101

Azores, stocked by glaciers, xi, 392-3

Azotos, siege of, xxxiii, 79

Azpetia, Don Sancho de, the Biscaine, xiv, 70

Azura, Phineas Ibn, xlv, 964 note 24

Azzecca-Garbugli, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 40, 42-7, 74, 76, 80-1, 406, 637

Azzolino, Dante on, xx, 51, and note 8

B

Baalim, Milton on, iv, 98

Baal-peor, xliv, 279 (28)

Baba Mustafa, in ALI-BABA, xvi, 429-30, 431-2

Babel, Tower of, Browne on, iii, 275; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 323; Milton on, iv, 105, 343; its builders in Limbo, 147

BABIE, THE, by Miller, xli, 918

Babieca, horse of the Cid, xiv, 13-14; saddle of, 490

Babington, Rev. Dr., lines on, vi, 499

Babrius, Valerius, JEsop and, xvii, 8-9

BABY, by MacDonald, xlii, 1118-19

Babylon, Milton on, iv, 391; Milton on captivity in, 350; psalm on captivity in, xliv, 318; Raleigh on, xxxix, 71

BABYLON; or, BONNIE BANKS o' FORDIE, xl, 58-9

Bagan, Alvaro de, xiv, 386

Baccalaos, Newfoundland called, xxxiii, 281

BACCHÆ, THE, of Euripides, viii, 368-436

Bacchic mysteries, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 42

Bacchus, Amalthea's son, iv, 161; Circe and, 46; Dryden on, xl, 392; Euripides on, viii, 371-2, 382-3, 384

Bacchus, India, return from, xiii, 234; mirth, father of, iv, 30; mother of, xii, 271; Pentheus and, viii, 123; Sophocles on, 293; Thebes, guardian of, 215-16; worship of, described, 399-402; worship of, various forms of, xii, 338 note (see also Dionysus lacchus)

Bachelors, ancient penalty on, ix, 404 note i

Bachiacca, the embroiderer, xxxi, 56 note 2, 354 note 5

Bachiacca, the painter, xxxi, 56 note 2, 64, 66

Bachman, on carrion vultures, xxix, 190

Backbite, Sir Benjamin, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii; epigram of, 132; Maria's lover, 119; Sneerwell's, at, 122-6, 1317; Lady Teazle's, at, after the scandal, 181-5

Backsliding, in religion, xv, 154-6

Bacon, Francis, Emerson on, v, 435-6, 438, 440; ESSAYS, iii, 7-142; remarks on ESSAYS, 4; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277 note 14; Herbert, George, and, xv, 383; Hobbes and, xxxiv, 308; inquiry, on, xi, i ; INSTAURATIO MAGNA, PREFACE TO, xxxix, 116-42; INSTAURATIO MAGNA, remarks on preface to, 3; Jonson on, xxvii, 56-7; Jonson on times of, v, 437-8; language of, xxxix, 196; LIFE, xl, 348-9; life and works, iii, 3-4, 144; Montaigne and, xxxii, 3; NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 145-81; NOVUM ORGANUM, preface to, xxxix, 143-7; on inquiry, xi, i; Pope on, xl, 437; on prodigies, xxxvii, 391; Raleigh on, xxxix, 112; on reform, v, 371; on Rome, 362; Shakespeare not mentioned by, xxxix, 317-18; Shelley on, xxvii, 334; on similitudes, 331; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 98-102

Bacon, Sir Nicholas, iii, 3; Jonson on, xxvii, 56

Bacon, Roger, Emerson on, v, 394-5; Newman on, xxviii, 47

Bacteria, absorption of oxygen by, xxxviii, 326-7; air and, 334-5; animal nature of, 342-3; Lister on, 256

Badow, Richard, founder of Clare Hall, xxxv, 381

Baer, Von, on embryos, xi, 459; on standard of organization, 129; on the bee, 370

Bagdemagus, King, xxxv, 116-7; tomb of, 204

Bagehot, Walter, ON MILTON, xxviii, 165-206; life and works of, 164

Baglioni, Malatesta, xxxi, 70 note 5

Baglioni, Orazio, xxxi, 70 note 5, 73-5, 80 and note

Bagot, Charles, correspondence with Mr. Rush, xliii, 265-7

Bahamas, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 377

Bahia, Darwin on, xxix, 21, 498

Bahia Blanca, Darwin on, xxix, 81-111

Bahram, reference to, xli, 945

Bail, excessive, forbidden, xliii, 195 (8); right of, in Massachusetts, 69 (18)

Bailiff, Chaucer's, xl, 27-8

Baillie, Lady Grisel, WERENA MY HEART, xl, 398-400

Baillie, Joanna, Constantine of, xxv, 15 note

Bailly, M., as mayor of Paris, xxiv, 372-3; on October sixth, 211 note; Burke on death of, 216 note

Bain, Alexander, Mill and, xxv, 152 note 3, 161, 189

Baird, Dr., on Franklin, i, 59

Baithis, sons of, xlix, 241-2

Bajazet, Raleigh on, xxxix, 98; Selymus and, iii, 50-1

Bakbak, story of, xvi, 171-4

Baker, Henry Williams, HYMN, xlv, 536

Baker, Sir Samuel, on the giraffe, xi, 221

Bakewell, the agriculturist, v, 362

Balaam, death of, xxxix, 95; Milton on, iv, 371; prophecy of Rome, xxxvi, 327

Balaam's Ass, Luther on, xxxvi, 272

Balaguet, Emir of, xlix, 123, 134

Balan, Balin and, xxxv, in Balance, Penn on, i, 348-9

Balance of Power, Bacon on, iii, 49-50

Balance of Produce and Consumption, x, 369

Balance of Trade, doctrine of, x, 314-30; methods used to make favorable, 330; absurdity of whole doctrine, 359-69; criterions of, 355

Balbo, Girolamo, xxxi, 63 note

Balbus, Cornelius, Caesar and, xii, 313; Cicero and, ix, 114

Bald Head, Australia, xxix, 453-4

BALD MAN AND FLY, fable of, xvii, 18

Baldini, Bernardone, and the diamond, xxxi, 352-3, 361; and the necklace, 391-2; relations with Cellini, 361, 399, 402, 420

Baldock, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 29-31. 38, 55. 62, 64, 65, 66-8

Balducci, Giacopo, xxxi, 109

Baldwin, and the Genovese, iii, 280

Baldwin, son of Ganelon, xlix, 104, 106

Baleen, of whales, xi, 225-9

Baligant, Emir of Babylon, xlix, 184 note

Balin le Savage, xxxv, in Baliol, John, Dante on, xx, 368 note 8

Baliol, the devil, in FAUSTUS, xix, 217-8

Ball, John, Froissart on, xxxv, 61-2; in Wat Tyler's Rebellion, 64, 69, 71, 73, 75; death of, 80

BALLADS, TRADITIONAL, xl, 51-186

Ballantine, John, inscription to, vi, 230; reference to, 351 note 3

Ballantyne, James, and Scott, xxv, 429-30

Ballenar, Chili, xxix, 353

Balliol, John, founder of Balliol College, xxxv, 381

Ballmer, George, loss of, xxiii, 38, 40-1

BALLOCHMYLE, FAREWELL TO, vi, 109-10

BALLOCHMYLE, LASS OF, vi, 220-1

Ballot, Burke on the, xxiv, 338; Mill on the, xxv, 159

Balmerino, Burns on, vi, 291

BALOW, xl, 186-7

Balsam of Fierebras, xiv, 74; prepared by Don Quixote, 128

Balsham, Hugh, founder of Peter College, xxxv, 381

BALTIC, THE BATTLE OF THE, xli, 779, 780

Balzac, Jean Louis de, Philarchus on, xiii, 60

Ban, King, xxxv, 152

Bancroft, George, and Emerson, v, 463

Band dog, Harrison on the, xxxv, 352-3; cross between bear and, 355

Banda Oriental, province of, xxix, 147-63

Bandaging, Harvey on, xxxviii, 110-4

Bande Nere, Giovanni delle, xxxi, 15 note i

Bandinello, Baccio, xxxi, 14 note i; Cellini, relations with, 95, 349, 358-0, 363, 364-5, 367-71, 400, 401-2, 412; choir by, 412; Duke Cosimo and, 345 note 4, 347. 392-3, 416; father of, 14-5;

"Hercules" of, 368-70 note i, 416; knight of St. James, 410 note; "Pieta" of, 419-20

Bandini, Giovan, xxxi, 105 note

Bandini, Don Juan, xxiii, 233-4, 237, 389

Bank failures, Ruskin on, xxviii, 115

BANK OF FLOWERS, ON A, vi, 341-2

Banking corporations, x, 461-2

BANKNOTE, LINES ON A, vi, 221-2

Bank-notes (see Paper Money)

Bankruptcy, Smith on, x, 270

Bankruptcy laws, Ruskin on, xxviii, 115; under control of Congress, xliii, 184 (4)

Banks, power of Congress to incorporate, xliii, 209, 212-15, 222-4

Banks and Banking, Smith on, x, 230-57

BANKS OF AYR, FAREWELL TO, vi, 238-9

BANKS OF THE DEVON, vi, 288

BANKS o' DOON, vi, 398-9

BANKS OF NITH, vi, 342-3

Banks, Sir J., expedition of, xxix, 215

Bannerets, Harrison on, xxxv, 222

BANNOCKBURN, vi, 472

BANNOCKS o' BEAR MEAL, vi, 490

Banquets, Cicero on, ix, 61; skeletons at Egyptian, xxxii, 16, 19

Banquo (in MACBETH), captain of Duncan, xlvi, 323; with witches, 325-7; with king's messengers, 327, 328-9; received by king, 330; at Macbeth's castle, 334; with Fleance, 338; with Macbeth before the murder, 338-9; after murder, 345-7; murder of, 356-7; ghost of, 358-9, 360-1, 369; soliloquy of, 349-50; with Macbeth as king, 350-1; plot to kill, 351-4

Banyan tree, xlv, 857

Baptism, Browne on, iii, 296; Calvin on, xxxix, 50; conversion by, story of, vii, 49; Dante on necessity of, xx, 17, 421; Luther on, xxxvi, 266, 267, 316, 320; Milton on, iv, 353; Pascal on, xlviii, 169 (520), 337; Pascal on, of children, xlviii, 375-6; Paul, St., on, xliv, 464; Quakers on, xxxiv, 66-7

Barabbas, xliv, 414 (18-19, 25)

Baraquan, Orinoco called, xxxiii, 317 note

Barateve, island of, xxxiii, 222-3

BARBARA, by Smith, xlii, 1146-7

BARBARA ALLAN, BONNY, a ballad, xl, 68-9

BARBARA FRIETCHIE, xlii, 1362-4

Barbarians, Milton on invasion of the, iv, 97

Barbariccia, the demon, xx, 88, 90

Barbarossa, Frederick (see Frederick I)

Barbarossa, the pirate, xiv, 386

Barbauld, Anna Laetitia, LIFE, xli, 555;

Burns on, vi, 410

Barberry, crosses of the, xi, 104

BARBER'S STORY, in ARABIAN NIGHTS, xvi, 162-89

Barbers, verses on, xvi, 156

Barca, Giacopino della, xxxi, 86-7, 88

Barce, nurse of Sichaeus, xiii, 175

Barclay, Robert, Apology of, xxxiv, 73-4; on Quaker faith, 67

BARCLAY OF URY, xlii, 1347-51

BARD, THE, xl, 456-60

BARD'S EPITAPH, A, vi, 218-9

Bardi, Simone dei, husband of Beatrice, xx, 3

Barding, among the Germans, xxxiii, 94

Bardism, Renan on, xxxii, 167-9, 141-2

Bards, ancient title of, v, 176; Renan on Celtic, xxxii, 141-2, 167-9

Barebones, Hugo on, xxxix, 380

BAREFOOT BOY, THE, xlii, 1355-7

Barfleur, capture of, xxxv, 10-11 note; importance of, 13 note 3

Bargaining, Bacon on, iii, 89

Bargello, the, xxxi, 99 note

Bar-Jesus, xliv, 450 (6-n); Pascal on. xlviii, 294

Barking-bird, Darwin on the, xxix, 292

Barlaam and]osaphat, xxvi, 6

Barlass, Kate, xlii, 1153-4, H55. "61, 1170-1

Barlow, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 330

Barmekis Feast, xvi, 184-7

Barnabas, at Antioch, xliv, 447-8 (22-6), 456; Jerusalem, mission to, 448 (30), 450 (25), 455; Lystra, men of, and, xxxvi, 297; Paul and, xliv, 442-3 (27), 450 (2-7), 452-4, 457 (36-7)

Barnacle Geese, Harrison on, xxxv, 335

Barnave, on October sixth, xxiv, 211 note

Barnfield, Richard, THE NIGHTINGALE, xl, 283

Barnhelm, Minna von, and Bruchsal, xxvi, 373; Franzisca, scenes with, 313-5, 320-1, 323-4, 343-4, 349-51; Just, scene with, 321-3; landlord, scene with, 315-20, 321; Riccaut de la Marliniere, scene with, 344-9; Tellheim, scenes with, 324-7, 351-8, 362-74

Barnwell, George, xxvii, 305 note, 309-10

BARON OF BRACKLEY, a ballad, xl, 119-21

Baron, origin of word, xxxiv, 368

Barontus, story of, xxxii, 175

Barrande, M., "colonies" of, xi, 350; discoveries of, 345; on palaeozoic, animals, 363; on silurian deposits, 361; on succession of species, 359

Barras, Comte de, xliii, 173

Barratry, in Massachusetts, xliii, 71 (34)

Barre", Burke on, xxiv, 396

Barrett, Elizabeth, and Browning, xviii, 35.8

Barrier-reefs, Darwin on, xxix, 472-81

Barriers, relation of, to species, xi, 379-80

Barry, the actor, xxvii, 275

Barsabbas, xliv, 424 (23), 456 (22)

Bartas, Du, Creation of, xxxix, 317

Barter, human propensity to, x, 18-9; inconveniences of, 27; in relation to division of labor, 20-2

Barterers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 85-6, 89-92

Bartholomew, the apostle, xliv, 368 (14), 424 (13); patron of New Atlantis, iii, 154-5

BARTHRAM'S DIRGE, xli, 769-70

Bartolini, Onofrio de, xxxi, 411 note

Barton, George, xxxiii, 229, 235, 237

Barzanes, in Utopia, xxxvi, 181

Basan and Basil, xlix, 101, 105, no

Bashan, mountain of, xliv, 224 (15)

Bashfulness, Emerson on, v, no; Locke on, xxxvii, 51-2, 120

Basil, Council of, xxxix, 42

Basil, St., at Athens, xxviii, 54, 60-1; on use of Homer, iii, 200

Basil, the smith (see Lajeunesse)

Basilio, in LIFE Is A DREAM, relates story of Segismund, xxvi, 23-6; his plan to try Segismund, 26-30; hears of Segismund from Clotaldo, 30-1; with Segismund, 45-52; in the battle, 69-71; resigns crown to Segismund, 72-3

Basilisk, the serpent, xlvii, 680 note

Baskerville, Sir Thomas, xxxiii, 227

Basket, Fuegia, xxix, 212-3, 226-7, 231, 233

Basoche, Hugo on the, xxxix, 351

Basset, Lord, at Crecy, xxxv, 25; at Poitiers, 42; at Poix castle, 18

Bassompierre, M. de, xxxviii, 51

Basstarnians, xxxiii, 119

Bassus, Aufidius, ix, 232 note 3

Bassus, Gabius, Pliny on, ix, 370, 373

BAT, BIRDS, AND BEASTS, fable of, xvii, 21

Batalus, Plutarch on, xii, 193

Batavians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108-9

Bateman, William, founder of Trinity Hall, xxxv, 381

Bates, Mr., on ants, xi, 282; on butterflies, 445, 446

Bath, Knights of the, xxxv, 220

Baths, health, in NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 174; Locke on cold, xxxvii, 13; origin of name, vii, 156

Bathsheba, Winthrop on, xliii, 94

Batrachians, absence of, from islands, xi, 417-8

Bats, Blake on, xli, 587; Collins on the, 479; range of, xi, 418; wings of, 176-7 Bat's-eyes, Mrs., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 187

Battiferra, Laura, xxxi, 427 note

Battista, Giovan (II Tasso), xxxi, 24-5, 27, 345 note 5, 393

Battle, eyes vanquished first in, xxxiii, 117; not to the strong, xliv, 346 (n)

Batjan, island of, xxxiii, 222-3

Baubo, reference to, xix, 172

Bauge, M. de, at Metz, xxxviii, 25; prisoner to De Vaudeville, 42

Bauhin, Caspar, on the heart, xxxviii, 82

Baumgarten, Conrad (Konrad), in WILLIAM TELL, flight of, xxvi, 382-5; Hedwig and, 457; Rootli League, at, 412-3, 417, 427; Uri, at keep of, 476, 477; Wolfshot killed by, 398

Bavius, Shelley on, xxvii, 358

Bayle, Pierre, Carlyle on, xxv, 446

Bazeilles, the Moine of, xxxv, 25-6

Beagle Channel, xxix, 222

BE NOT DISMAYED, xlv, 559

Beacon, first, in Ireland, xlix, 216

BEAGLE, VOYAGE OF THE, xxix

Beales, Mill on, xxv, 178

BEAR AND Two FELLOWS, fable of, xvii, 30-1

BEAR AND WILLOW WREN, story of, xvii, 190-2

Bearing, Brynhild on, and forbearing, xlix, 304; Epictetus on, and forbearing, ii, 179 (183); Jonson on, xl, 292-3; Kempis on, vii, 219-20; Penn on, i, 340, 347 (294); (see also Patience)

Bears, Darwin on black, xi, 178; in Egypt, xxxiii, 37

BEARSKIN, story of, xvii, 185-90

Bearwards, Harrison on, xxxv, 306

BEAT! BEAT! DRUMS! xlii, 1402-3

Beatitude, Raleigh on, xxxix, 90

Beatrice, Dante and, xx, 3-4

Beatrice, in DIVINE COMEDY, xx, 10-12, 267-75, 280-417, 419; Arnold on speech of, xxviii, 72; Hugo on, xxxix, 349; Ruskin on, xxviii, 140-1

Beattie, James, Minstrel of, xxxix, 299; references to, vi, 166, 177

Beatty, Mr., with Franklin, i, 142

Beauchamp, Philip, On Natural Religion, xxv, 47-8

Beauchamp, Richard, Earl of Warwick, v, 403; xxxv, 104

Beaujeu, Lord, xxxv, 25, 31, 37

Beaumarchais, Hugo on, xxxix, 357, 383

Beaumont, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 27

Beaumont, Francis, sketch of life and works, xlvii, 666; LETTER TO JONSON, xl, 319-21; PHILASTER, xlvii, 667-751; TOMBS IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY, xl, 319

Beaumont, Sir George, Wordsworth on picture by, xli, 605-7

Beaumont and Fletcher, Dryden on, xxxix, 318; editorial remarks on plays of, xlvii, 666; Emerson on plays of, v, 121 ; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 276; PHILASTER, xlvii, 667-751

BEAUTIFUL, THE SUBLIME AND, xxiv, 29-140

BEAUTIFUL Miss ELIZA J N, vi, 498 Beautiful Palace, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 49

BEAUTY, BACON'S ESSAY ON, iii, 106-7

BEAUTY, EMERSON'S ESSAY ON, v, 297-310

Beauty, Augustine, St., on, vii, 56, 58; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 228; Burke on, xxiv, 15, 38, 45, 74-104, 119-28; Burns on, vi, 470, 548; Channing on study of, xxviii, 328; Coleridge on, xxvii, 258, 262; Crashaw on, xl, 360-1; Daniel on, 221; Darley on, xli, 913-4; Darwin on, xi, 200-2, 489-90; xxix, 407-8; David, a thing of, xli, 497; Emerson on, v, 100, 140, 167-8, 199, 219; Hugo on, xxxix, 349, 385; Hume on, xxvii, 206; xxxvii, 292-3, 420; Keats on, and melancholy, xli, 883; M. Aurelius on, ii, 205-6, 215 (20); Milton on, iv, 6, 55, 64, 167, 377, 439-4; More on, xxxvi, 203-4, 212; Nashe on, xl, 260; Pascal on, xlviii, 18 (32), 413-14; Plato on, ii, 94; Poe on sense of, xxviii, 376-8; Poe on, and sadness, 382; Raleigh on, xl, 205; Ruskin on, of woman, xxviii, 146-8; Schiller on influence and development of, xxxii, 209, 212, 234-68, 271-4, 281-95; Shakespeare on, xl, 264, 272, 274-5; xlvi, 145; Waller on, xl, 357; Whitman on, xxxix, 394, 395

Beauty and the Beast, Emerson on legend of, v, 348; Hugo on, xxxix, 351

BEAUTY BATHING, xl, 201

BEAUTY, GENIUS IN, xlii, 1179

BEAUTY, THE TRUE, xl, 351

BEAUTY, TIME, AND LOVE, xl, 219-22

Beaver, Harrison on the, xxxv, 342

Bebius, death of, xxxii, 14

Beccaria, Abbot, in Dante's HELL, xx, 134 and note ii

Be'champ, M., xxxviii, 350 note, 356

Becket, Thomas a, Bacon on, iii, 51; Chaucer on, xl, n; Dryden on, xxxix, 165, note 21 ; Harrison on, xxxv, 254, 382

Bede, Venerable, sketch of life, xx, 329 note 27; first doctor of Cambridge, xxxv, 3775 in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 329; on Purgatory, xxxii, 179

Bedford, Duke of, Burke and, xxiv, 380; Burke's reply to attack of, 381-421; estates of, v, 404

Bedivere, Sir, xlii, 986-92

Bedr, battle of, xlv, 944 note 4, 948 note 12, 950 note 2, 959-60

Bedr Basim, xvi, 335, 338-40

Bedr-ed-Din, the Gardener, xvi, 123-4

Bedr-el-Budur, the Sultan's daughter, xvi, 365-424

Beds, in old England, xxxv, 297; Locke on, for children, xxxvii, 23

Bedsores, Pare" on, xxxviii, 54

Beelzebub, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 91-2, 95, 116-19

Beelzebub, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 29

BEELZEBUB, ADDRESS OF, vi, 205-7

Beer, Harrison on making of, xxxv, 283

Bees, Browne on wisdom of, iii, 266 (15); cell-making instinct of, xi, 268-76; clover and, 101-2; drones and queen, 204; as fertilizing agents, 81-2; Harrison on, xxxv, 346-7; mice and, xi, 82; Milton on, iv, 107, 239; parasitic, xi, 263; Pope on, xl, 427; sting of, xi, 204; Swift on, xxvii, 113; time-saving of, xi, 101; Virgil's description of, xiii, 88; Von Baer on, xi, 370; wax of, 255

Beethoven, his musical setting of EGMONT, xix, 252

Beetles, Brazilian, xxix, 42 and note 7; 'Collins on, xli, 479; dung-feeding, xxix, 493 note; at Port St. Julian, 175; at sea, xi, 411; xxix, 163-4; springing, xxix, 39-40; without anterior tarsi, xi, 141; wingless, 141-2

Beet-root sugar, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 305 note

Begbie, Ellison, vi, 28 note

BEGGARS, THE JOLLY, vi, 122-33

Beggars, Blake on, xli, 588; Luther on, xxxvi, 313-14; More on, 155

BEGGAR'S SONG, in FAUST, xix, 41

Beginnings, Æsop on, xvii, 16, 22; Goethe on, xix, 350; Hugo on, and ends, xxxix, 354; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 12; merry, make sad endings, vii, 226 (7); most easy to check, 216

Behavior, Bacon on, iii, 126; Emerson on, v, 215; Epictetus on, ii, 175 (164)

Behemoth, references to, iv, 239; xliv, 137 (15)

Behmen, Jacob, Emerson on, v, 141, 178, 232-3

BEHOLD, MY LOVE, How GREEN THE GROVES, vi, 503-4

BEHOLD THE HOUR, THE BOAT, ARRIVE, vi, 429

BEHOLD THE HOUR, THE BOAT, ARRIVE, vi, 472-3

Behring, the navigator, Emerson on, v, 81

Bekkluld, sister of Brynhild, xlix, 306-7 Belacqua, in Dante's PURGATORY, xx, 160-1

Belcher, the devil, in FAUSTUS, xix, 217-18

Belgians, eating custom of, xxxv, 288

Belial, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 100, 111-14, 219-20

Belial, in PARADISE REGAINED, iv, 375-6

Belianis, Don, Burke on romance of, xxiv, 20; Cervantes on romance of, xiv, 51; Don Quixote on, 18, 93; to Don Quixote, n

Belief, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 347-8; Hume on, xxxvii, 324, 325-31, 332-4, 373, 376-7, 381; Pascal on, xlviii, 35 (81), 42 (99), 90-102, 172 (536); through understanding and will, 400-2

Belisarius, Dante on, xx, 306; Raleigh on, xxxix, 98

BELL, THE, story of, xvii, 357-61

Bell Mountain, Chili, xxix, 260-3

Bellario, in PHILASTER, as Philaster's boy, xlvii, 681-2; sent to princess, 684, 690; with Arethusa, 691; accused as Arethusa's lover, 698, 702; with Philaster, 704-8; Arethusa ordered to dismiss, 709; parting from Arethusa, 713-4; meets Philaster in woods, 717-8; with Arethusa in wood, 721; asleep on bank, 726;

wounded by Philaster, 726; taken by Pharamond, 727-8; saved by Philaster, 728-30; with Philaster in prison, 731-3; announces to king marriage of Philaster, 734; denounced by Megra, 744-5; condemned to torture, 746; confesses, 746-51

Bellarmati, Girolamo, xxxi, 328 note 3

Bellarmine, Cardinal, xv, 325

Bellay, M. du, Montaigne on, xxxii, 62, 101

BELLE DAME SANS MERCI, LA, xli, 893-5

Bellefontaine, Benedict, the farmer of Grand-Pr, xlii, 1301; on evening of Evangeline's betrothal, 1306, 1309; at betrothal feast, 1311; on day of exile, 1315, 1316; death, 1317-18 Bellegarde, Abbe", on ridicule, xxxix, 179-80

Bellerophon, reference to, iv, 227

Bellerus, reference to, iv, 76

BELLES OF MAUCHLINE, vi, 58

Belles Lettres, Hume on, xxxvii, 291

BELLING THE CAT, fable of, xvii, 38

Bellona, reference to, iv, 131

BELLS, THE, by Poe, xlii, 1233-5

BELLY AND THE MEMBERS, fable of, xvii, 23; Menenius Agrippa on fable of, xii, 152

Belper, Lord, Mill on, xxv, 52, 67

Belphoebe, Spenser's, xxxix, 63, 65; Burke on Spenser's, xxiv, 136

Beltenebros, name assumed by Amadis, xiv, 212

Belus, father of Dido, xiii, 95

Belus, the god, iv, 106

Belzoni, on inhabitants of Gournou, v, 199

Bembo, Pietro, xxxi, 189

Bembus, Cardinal, patron of poets, xxvii, 40, 50

Benchuca, Darwin on the, xxix, 333

Bendedio, Alberto, xxxi, 52, 269, 271, 272

Bene, Albertaccio del, xxxi, 143, 144, 189, 434-5

Bene, Alessandro del, xxxi, 69

Bene, Ricciardo del, xxxi, 319

Benedetto, Ser, xxxi, 132-3

Benedict, St., Dante on, xx, 379 note 3, 420 note 6

Benedict, Emerson on, v, 291-2

Benedictines, Dante on corruption of the, xx, 380-1

Benedicts, Jacobus de, hymn by, xiv, 553

Benefaction, the rule of good men, v, 190-1

Beneficence, Kant on moral worth of, xxxii, 310; recompense of, xvi, 334

Benefices, of Catholic Church, xxxvi, 280, 286; Luther on, 289, 291

Benefits, Bacon on, common and peculiar, iii, 33; Cicero on, ix, 20, 27; Emerson on, v, 96, 220; Hobbes, of receiving, xxxiv, 371; Tacitus on, xlviii, 30 note (see also Favors)

Benegridran, Welsh chief, quoted, v, 403

Benengeli, Cid Hamete, xiv, 70, 176

Benevento, battle of, xx, 66 note i

Benevolence, Bacon on, iii, 32-4; Burns on, vi, 251; Emerson on, v, 27-8, 105, 190-1, 211, 217; Epictetus on, ii, 163 (128); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340; Kant on, xxxii, 340, 345, 351; Mill, James, on, xxv, 35; More on, xxxvi, 198; Pope on, xl, 439; universality of, ix, 352 note

Benezet, Anthony, i, 102, 285

Bengal, cause of early civilization of, x, 25

Benham, William, translator of IMITATION OF CHRIST, vii

Benincasa of Arezzo, xx, 166 note 2

Benintendi, Niccolo, xxxi, 150-1

Ben-Manasseh, Israel, xxxix, 379-80

Bennett, Harry, xxiii, 401

Bensalem (see NEW ATLANTIS)

Bentham, Jeremy, Mill on, xxv, 39, 43, 44-6, 60-1, 65-6, 74-5, 127, 164; Review of his Book of Fallacies, xxvii, 225-51

Bentham, Sir Samuel, Mill on, xxv, 39

Benthamism, Mill on, xxv, 44-5, 65-73, 136

Bentivoglio, Annibale, xxxvi, 61

Benvegnato, Messer, xxxi, 67-8

Benvenuti, Benvenuto, xliii, 28

Benvenuto (see Cellini)

Benzo of Milan, xxxviii, 32

Beowulf, Breca and, xlix, 19; Daeghrefu and, 73; death of, 79-82, 83, 89; Dragon and, 69, 71, 74-9; Eadgils and, 70; funeral of, 88, 90; Grendel and, 24-7, 62; Grendel's mother and, 40-9, 63; Hetwaras and, 70; Hrethel and, 72; Hrothgar and, 11-23, 30-1, 335 Hygelac and, 59-64, 70, 73; Hygelac's thane, 10; king, 65, 70; Renan on, xxxii, 147; Scyld's son, xlix, 5; seaadventures, 20

BEOWULF, epic of, xlix, 5-92; remarks on, 3-4

Be'ranger, Pierre Jean de, Poe on, xxviii, 373

Berard, J. F., on fruits, xxxviii, 306

Berengario, Giacomo (see Carpi)

Berenger, Raymond, daughters of, xx, 174 note 14, 309 note 27; and Romeo, his steward, 309 note 26

Berengier, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 120, 135, 147, 167

Berenice, daughter of Ptolemy, xlviii, 248

Bergamo, Bartolommeo of, xxxvi, 43

Berkeley, in EDWARD II, xlvi, 72-3, 74

Berkeley, George, sketch of life and works, xxxvii, 186; DIALOGUES, 187, 285; Emerson on anecdote of, v, 264; Emerson on idealism of, 153; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277; Hume on philosophy of, xxxvii, 412 note

Berkeley, Lord Thomas, at Poitiers, xxxv, 49-50

Berkenshaw, Mr., and Pepys, xxviii, 298-9

Berlinghieri, Berlinghier, xxxi, 101

Bermuda, birds of, xi, 415, 416; Raleigh on, xxxiii, 377

BERMUDA, SONG OF EMIGRANTS IN, xl, 376-7

Bernabo of Milan, xxxvi, 73

Bernard, of Clairvaux, St., Anastasius and, xxxvi, 339; Considerations of, 344; in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 417-24; hymns by, xlv, 550-1; on idleness, xxxix, 13; IMITATION OF CHRIST, attributed to, vii, 200; quotation from, v, 101; on the soul, xxxiv, 103

Bernard, of Morlaix, hymns by, xlv, 548-9

Bernard, of Quintavalle, xx, 332 note 17

Bernard, son of Pepin, xxxix, 80-1, 83

Bernardi, Giovanni, xxxi, 131 note 2

Bernardo da Carpio (see Carpio)

Bernardo, in HAMLET, xlvi, 93-8, 104-7

Bernardone, Pietro, xx, 332 note 21

Berners, Lord, translator of Froissart, xxxv, i

Berni, Francesco, and the capitolo, xxxi, 237 note i

Bernice, and Agrippa, xliv, 478 (13), 479 (23), 481 (30)

Bernoulli, on conservation of force, xxx, 175; on comets, xxxiv, 118; on integral calculus, 126

Beroe, wife of Doryclus, xiii, 198

Berreo, Antonio de, xxxiii, 303, 313, 314, 315, 320, 324, 327-35, 369

Berries, Locke on, xxxvii, 20

Bert, Paul, on ferments, xxxviii, 351

Bertha of Bruneck, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 395; with Fiirst, 446; with Gessler, 442; Rudenz and, 411, 432-6, 446-7, 463, 475-6, 488-9

Berthelot, M., Pasteur on, xxxviii, 350

Berti, Bellincione, xx, 66 note i, 350

Berti, Gualdrada, xx, 66 note i

Bertoldi, Pierfrancesco, xxxi, 422

Bertrand de Born, in Dante's HELL, xx, 118 note

Bessel, on distance of stars, xxx, 316

Bessy, in FAUST, xix, 155-7

BESSY AND HER SPINNIN' WHEEL, vi, 441

Beste, J. R., translator, xlv, 555

Bestia, the tribune, xii, 236; trial of, ix, 100

Bethsaida, Jesus on, xliv, 381 (13)

Betrayers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 140-4

BETROTHED, THE (I PROMESSI SPOSI), by Manzoni, xxi

BETTER PART, THE, xlii, 1138

Bettini, Baccio, xxxi, 177

Beulah-Land, Bunyan on, xv, 156-7, 309

Beuve, Sir, xlix, 157

Beverages, universal use of, xxix, 300

Beverley, John of, xxxv, 377

Bevilacqua, xxxi, 47

BEWARE o' BONIE ANN, vi, 332

BEWICK AND GRAHAME, xl, 121-8

BEYOND THE VEIL, xl, 346-7

BE YOUR WORDS MADE, GOOD SIR, xl, 213

Beza, patron of poetry, xxvii, 40

Bhaddiya, xlv, 776

BHAGAVAD-GITA, THE, xlv, 785-874; remarks on, 784

Bhutas, evil spirits, xlv, 863 note 2

Bianchi, faction of, its origin, xx, 132 note 4; strife with the Neri, 26-7 notes, 101-2 notes

Biarni Heriulfsson, xliii, 5-7

Bias, one of Seven Sages, ix, 30

Bibbiena, Cardinal, Sidney on, xxvii, 40

BIBLE, BOOKS FROM THE, xliv, 69-486; xlv, 489-532

Bible, Apollinarii and the, in, 199; Augustine, St., on the, vii, 35, 75, 84; Bagehot on the, xxviii, 203; Browne on, iii, 259-62, 271-6, 281; Bunyan on, xv, 230, 303; Calvin on, xxxix, 30-1, 38, 47-8; Dante on, xx, 389, 390, 409; Emerson on, v, 41; xlii, 1248; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 348, 357; Hugo on, xxxix, 352, 353, 354, 386; Hume on, xxxvii, 375, 391; Kempis on the, vii, 210, 354; Locke on, as reading for children, xxxvii, 132, 164; Luther on, xxxvi, 270-1, 325; Mill on, xxv, 243; Milton on, iii, 202-3, 240, 242 ; iv, 329-52; Mohammed on, xlv, 999; Pascal on, xlviii, 100 (283), 137 (428), 171 (532), 175 (548), 186 (568), 189 (573), 190 (579), 195 (598), 196 (601), 214, 228 (684), 230, 310 (900), 349; Burke on pictures of God in the, xxiv, 59; Rousseau on belief in the, xxxiv, 293-8, 300-2; Ruskin on, xxviii, 104; Swift on, xxvii, 107-8; Winthrop on examples of the, xliii, 96, 103;

Woolman on influence of, i, 170 (see also Gospel, New and Old Testaments)

Bibulus, Calpurnius, consul with Caesar, xii, 274, 275; Cicero on, ix, no, 121, 137; edict of, 147; Lucceius and, 88; in Parthia, 147; in Parthian War, xii, 325; Pompey and, ix, 98, 99

BICHAM, YOUNG: a ballad, xl, 84-6

Bigges, Walter, DRAKE'S ARMADA, xxxiii, 226-59

Bigotry, in literature, xxvii, 221; and philosophy, xxxvii, 393

Bikki, in VOLSUNG tale, xlix, 354, 355, 385, 418

Bildad the Shuhite, xliv, 73, 82, 98, no, 141; Walton on, xv, 337

Bill of Rights, in Constitution, xliii, 194-5

Bills of Credit, under Confederation, xliii, 165; forbidden to states under Constitution, i 86 (10)

Bills of Exchange, x, 236, 243

Bimbisara, King, xlv, 755

Bingham, editor, Mill on, xxv, 63, 73, 74, 76

Bingham, the Kanaka, xxiii, 144

Biography, Bagehot on methods of, xxviii, 166-7; Carlyle on, xxv, 397, 398-9; history made up of, v, 68; Johnson on, xxvii, 175; poetry, compared with, xxxix, 280

Bion, Bacon on, iii, 43

Biorn, son of Karlsefni, xliii, 20

Birago, Francesco, Manzoni on, xxi, 448

Birderg, son of Ruan, xlix, 225-6

Birds, Burns on the haunts of, vi, 45-6; Darwin on color of, xi, 139; fears of, 255; xxix, 405; migratory, iv, 238; nests of, xi, 255; non-flying, 140, 177; of oceanic islands, 415; seeds distributed by, 390, 412; sexual selection among, 96; tame, instances of, xxix, 403

BIRKS OF ABERFELDY, THE, vi, 277-8

Birnam Wood, xlvi, 368, 383-4, 386, 389

Birney, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 348

Birth, Browne on life before, iii, 291 (39); Buddha on, xlv, 662-3; Burke on preference to, xxiv, 190; Hippolytus on, viii, 331; Pascal on accident of, xlviii, 378; on advantages of noble, in (322); on respect for, 112 (324), 116 (335, 337); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 112; "a sleep and a forgetting," xii, 596

Birtha, Dame, xx, 343 note 24

BIRTHDAY ODE FOR 31ST DECEMBER, 1787, vi, 290-1

Birthplaces, Plutarch on, xii, 191

Biscop, Benedict, xxxv, 295

BISHOP ORDERS His TOMB, xlii, 1075-8

Bishops, Calvin on, xxxix, 41; in Catholic Church, xxxvi, 282, 293; confirmation of, 289; early elections of, 266; Luther on, 302; Ruskin on, xxviii, 108

Bithynia, Pliny's administration of, ix, 365-416

Bitias, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 99, 316, 317 Bitterness, as source of the sublime, xxiv, 72

BIXBY, MRS., LETTER TO, xliii, 420

Bizcacha, Darwin on the, xxix, 129-30

Black, "wisdom's hue," iv, 34

Black, John, Mill on, xxv, 59

BLACK-EYED SUSAN, xl, 402-3

BLACK ISLANDS, THE YOUNG KING OF THE, xvi, 46-54

Black Prince, Audley and, xxxv, 53-4, 56-7; in campaign of Crecy, 7, 12, 13, 24, 27, 30, 32; Froissart and, 5; King John and, 52, 56, 58; in Poitiers campaign, 34-6, 39-46, 52, 56-9

Blacklock, the poet, Burke on, xxiv, 134

BLACKLOCK, DR., EPISTLE TO, vi, 366-7

Blackmore, Sir Richard, xxxix, 172 note, 175 note

Blackness, Burke on effects of, xxiv, 115-9

BLACKSMITH, THE VILLAGE, xlii, 1271-3

Blackwood's Magazine, Carlyle on, v, 321

Blaesus, Velleius, story of, ix, 228

BLAIR, SIR JAMES, ELEGY ON, vi, 273-4

Blake, William, POEMS, xli, 583-92

Blame (see Censure)

Blamire, Susanna, poem by, xli, 580

Blanc, Mont, Byron on, xviii, 409; Coleridge on, xli, 707

Blancandrin, xlix, 96-7, 99, 107-9, I][I

Blanche-Taque, battle of, xxxv, 21-2

Blasphemers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 46, 57-9

Blasphemy, in early Massachusetts, xliii, 80 (3); penalized in Athens, iii, 193

Blastus, the chamberlain, xliv, 449 (20)

BLENHEIM, AFTER, xli, 732-4

BLESSED DAMOZEL, THE, xlii, 1149-53

Blind animals, Darwin on, xi, 143-4; xxix, 59

BLIND BOY, THE, xl, 441

Blind man, parable of the, xliv, 370 (39)

Blind-man, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

BLINDNESS, Milton, ON His, iv, 84

Blindness, Milton on, iv, 137, 416-18; Schiller on, xxvi, 399

Bliss, Hindu conception of perfect, xlv, 815; Hogg on the greatest, xli, 765

Blood, circulation of the (see Circulation of Blood)

Bloodhounds, Harrison on, xxxv, 350

Blood-poisoning, Harvey on, xxxviii, 125

Bloody-man, the giant, xv, 222 Blossius, Gaius, Gracchus and, ix, 22; Lelius and, xxxii, 79

BLOSSOM, THE, xl, 311-12

BLOSSOMS, To, xl, 338

BLOT IN THE 'SCUTCHEON, A, xviii, 358, 404

BLOW, BUGLE, BLOW, xlii, 973

Blundell, Dr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 223, 231

Bluntness, Shakespeare on, xlvi, 248

Blushing, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 342

BLYTHE HÆ I BEEN ON YON HILL, vi, 463

BLYTHE WAS SHE, vi, 286-7

BOADICEA: AN ODE, xli, 539-40

Boastfulness, Bacon on, iii, 127-9; Kempis on folly of, vii, 211

BOAT SONG, by Burns, vi, 265

Boats, of the Britons, xxxv, 361; in ancient Egypt, xxxiii, 47; of the Germans, 117

Boatswain, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 397-9, 459

Bobadilla, Francesco de, Bishop of Salamanca, xxxi, 34 note 2, 38, 41-5

Bobolink, Bryant on the, xlii, 1215-17

Boccaccio, on Arthur, xxxix, 21; Chaucer and, 155, 160, 164, 167, 170-1; Dryden on, 155; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 271; Hume on, 221; Johnson on language of, xxxix, 202; Macaulay on, xxvii, 370; Montaigne on, xxxii, 89; novels of, xiii, 64; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 132; Sidney on, xxvii, 6

Bochartus, on Virgil, xiii, 34

Bodleian Library, Emerson on, v, 417

Body, Browne on the, iii, 289 (37); Descartes on the, xxxiv, 45; Epictetus on care of the, ii, 160 (118), 177 (173), 178 (178); Goethe on beauty of, xix, 380; Hindu doctrine of soul and, xlv, 851-3; M. Aurelius on the, ii, 200 (2), 206 (3), 211 (16), 251 (60), 257 (21); Montaigne on mind and, xxxii, 55; More on pleasures of the, xxxvi, 201-2, 203; Pascal on mind and, xlviii, 32; Pascal on, after death, 338; Paul, St., on the, xlv, 498 (15, 19-20); Penn on the, i, 321 (2); Socrates on the, ii, 54-5

BODY OF LIBERTIES, THE, xliii, 66-84

Boece (see Boetius)

Boethius, Anicius (see Boetius)

Boethius, Hector, on the Scotch, xxxv, 271 Boetie, Etienne (Stephen) de la, Montaigne and, xxxii, 108, in; Montaigne on, 72-3, 78, 84

Boetius, Anicius Manlius, birth and death of, xx, 328-9 notes 24, 25; Chaucer on, xl, 47; in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 328-9; Sidney on, xxvii, 24, 25

Boeotia, Newman on, xxviii, 41

Bohemia, blind king of (see John of Bohemia)

Boians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108, 116

Boiardo, Dryden on, xiii, 13

Boileau, Addison and, xxvii, 157; on Christianity, xxxii, 160; encomiums and censures of, xxxiv, 145; on human reason, 142-3; on poetry, xxxix, 387; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 123, 131

Boils (see Furuncles)

Bolabola, island of, xxix, 472, 478

Bolas, use of, in S. America, xxix, 52, 117

Boldness, Bacon on, iii, 31-2; Confucius on, xliv, 45 (5); Penn on, i, 334 (119); of saints and wicked men, vii, 225 (3)

Boleyn, Anne (see Bullen)

Bolingbroke, Lord, on Addison's Cato, xxvii, 167; on bishops, xxxiv, 80; Burke on, xxiv, 225, 260; lines to, xxvii, 273; on Marlborough, xxxiv, 99; Pope to, xl, 406-7, 440; Swift and, xxviii, 17; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 156

Bollandists, the, xxxii, 180 note

Bologna, Antonio, in DUCHESS OF MALFI (see Antonio)

Bologna, Giovan, xxxi, 420 note

Bologna, II (see Primaticcio)

Bologna phials, xxx, 30 note 10

Bombast, defined by Burke, xxiv, 132

Bona Dea, worship of, xii, 271

Bonaparte (see Napoleon)

Bonatti, Guido, xx, 84 note 7

Bonaventura, Father, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 132

Bond, Thomas, Franklin on, i, 116-7, 137-8

Bones, used as fuel, xxix, 199

BONIE DUNDEE, vi, 256

BONIE JEAN, vi, 464

BONIE LAD THAT'S FAR AWA, vi, 304

BONIE LASS OF ALBANY, vi, 284

BONIE MOOR-HEN, THE, vi, 261-2

BONIE PEG-A-RAMSAY, vi, 514

BONIE PEGGY ALISON, vi, 30

BONIE WAS YON ROSY BRIER, vi, 538

BONIE WEE THING, vi, 404 Boniface, Archbishop, xx, 243 note 4

Boniface VIII, Pope, arrest and death of, xx, 228 note 15; Dante on, 78 note, 279 note 15, 364 note n, 399 note 3, 410 note 6, 415 note 8; death of, xxxi, 138 note 2; Ghino di Tacco and, xx, 166 note 2; Montefeltro and, 112-13 notes

Bonnell, Captain, anecdote of Lord Loudoun, i, 153-4

BONNIE BANKS o' FORDIE, xl, 58-9

BONNIE GEORGE CAMPBELL, xl, 114

Bonnivard, Byron on, xli, 811

BONNY BARBARA ALLAN, xl, 68-9

BONNY DUNDEE, xli, 752-4

Booby, Darwin on the, xxix, 20

Book, custom of saving by the, xxxv, 367

BOOKES, ESSAY ON, Montaigne's, xxxii, 87-102

Book-keeping (see Accounting)

BOOK-WORMS, THE, vi, 264

Books, Bacon on, iii, 122; Browne on, 272-3, 276-7 (24); Carlyle on, xxv, 363-4, 373; censorship of (see Censorship); Channing on, xxviii, 337-8; Confucius on, xliv, 10 (9); Ecclesiastes on, 349 (12); Emerson on, v, 8-12, 93, 117-8, 176-8; Epictetus on, ii, 170 (145); Goethe on, xix, 31, 49; Heminge on fate of, xxxix, 148; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 327; Hume on use of, xxxvii, 374 (9); Locke on, for children, 131-3; Milton on, iii, 192-3, 200-2, 203-4; Newman on education by, xxviii, 31-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 121 note 9, 410; Pliny on, ix, 233; prefaces of, xxxix, 3; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 294-5; Ruskin on, xxviii, 93-113, 117-8, 127, 137; Ruskin on, for girls, 150-1; tested by durability, xxxix, 208; transcripts of their times, 410-17, 435-6 (see also Reading)

Boorde, Andrew, verses from, xxxv, 289 note

Bootes, constellation, xx, 416 note 5; mentioned by Homer, xxii, 75

Booth, M. L., translator of Pascal, xlviii

BORDER BALLAD, by Scott, xli, 746

Boreas, Orithea and, xxvii, 270; Virgil on, xiii, 77, 137

Borghild, wife of Sigmund, xlix, 272, 276

Borgia, Caesar, son of Pope Alexander, xxxvi, 15; Countess of Forli and, 15; cruelty of, 54; Guido Ubaldo and, 71; Macaulay on, xxvii, 388; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 23-8; Oliverotto and, 31; troops of, 46

BORGIA, LUCRETIA, LINES ON HAIR OF, xli, 904

Borgny, wife of Sigmund (see Borghild)

Borgny, wife of Vilmund, xlix, 431

Borgoignon, Nicolas, xxxiii, 255 note

Borgoo, the negroes of, v, 199

Boric Acid, as antiseptic, xxxviii, 381

Born, Bertrand de, in Dante's HELL, xx, 118 note

Borneil, Giraud de, xx, 253 note 3

Bornoos, language of, v, 200

Boron, Robert de, xxxv, 104

Borromeo, Federigo, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 351-60; Abbondio and, 415-16; Lucia and, 396-401, 413-14; in Milan famine, 456-8, 465; in plague, 505, 527-8, 531, 533; Unnamed and, 361-72

Borrow, George, and the Gypsies, v, 431

Borrowing, Emerson on, v, 95; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109

Bors, Sir, in THE HOLY GRAIL, at the abbey, xxxv, 172; birds, omen of, 164, 172-3; at Carbonek Castle, 206-9; at Carteloise Castle, 190-2; chastity of, 160, 164; Galahad and, 106, no, 1812, 206, 212-3; gentlewoman and, 167; hermit and, 163; lady's champion, 164-6; Lancelot and, 213; Lionel and, 167, 175-6; Percivale and, 178, 213-14; at Sarras, 211; in ship of Faith, 182, 189; temptation of, 169-72; visions of, 164-5, 173; wounded knight rescued by, 196

Borsiere, Guglielmo, xx, 67 and note 4

Bortolo, in THE BETROTHED (see Castagneri) Bos, Abbe du, on painting and poetry, xxiv, 52

Bosanquet, reviser of Pliny, ix, 183

Bosola, Daniel de, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, Antonio and, xlvii, 775, 780-1, 848; Cardinal and, 756-7, 837, 843, 851-2; Castruccio and, 772; death of, 854; Delio and, 805; Duchess and, 761, 773, 775, 779, 799, 800-1, 809, 812, 814, 822-3, 830; Ferdinand and, 762-4, 791-3, 805-6, 813-4, 818, 827-30, 835, 852-3; Julia and, 838-9; old lady and, 772-3. 777-8

Bosquet, M., on cirripedes, xi, 342

Bossu, Le, epic code of, xxxix, 385; on heroes of poetry, xiii, 23

Bossuet, on Cromwell, xxxix, 377; SainteBeuve, History of, xxxii, 126; Taine on, xxxix, 428

Bostock, Mr., Walton on, xv, 409, 417

BOSTON HYMN, xlii, 1261-4

Boston News-Letter, Franklin on, i, 19

Boswell, James, remarks on Life of Johnson, by, xxvii, 154; Burns on, vi, 310 note i ; Thackeray on, xxviii, 9

Boswell, Robert Bruce, translator of PHÆDRA, xxvi, 131

Botallus, on circulation of blood, xxxviii, 93

Botany, Emerson on science of, v, 297; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 147

Botany Bay, morality of children of, v, 245

Botero, Giovanni, xxi, 447

Botofogo Bay, Darwin on, xxix, 35

BOTTLE, A, AND FRIEND, vi, 264

Bouchardat, M., on fermentation, xxxviii, 351

Bougainville, on the Fuegians, xxix, 232

Bouillon, Godfrey de, in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 362 note 5; "one of nine worthies," xxxix, 20-1

Boulders, in the Azores, xi, 392; erratic, Darwin on, xxix, 191, 252; Helmholtz on, xxx, 227-30

Boullogne, Jean, xxxi, 420 note

Bouncer, Bet, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 212, 232

Bounties, Smith, Adam, on, x, 331, 374-88, 407-10, 424

Bountiful, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 232

Bounty, and frugality, i, 327-8; St. Paul on, xlv, 526 (6-7)

Bourbon, Cardinal de, brother of Charles IX, xxxviii, 47

Bourbon, Constable of, his attack on Rome, xxxi, 70; death, 70 note 4

Bourbon, Francois de, xxxi, 333 note; and Cellini, 333

Bourdeaux, Smith on situation of, x, 263

Bourdillon, M. de, xxxviii, 44

Bourges, surrender of, xxxviii, 46

Bourne, Richard, xliii, 139

Boutron, M., on fermentation, xxxviii, 352

Bowie, Alexander, reviser of Harvey, xxxviii, 59

Bowles, William Lisle, DOVER CLIFFS, xli, 682

Bowring, Sir John, xxv, 60, 62, 83

Bowyer, Sir William, and Dryden, xiii, 426

Boyardo, Matthew, Cervantes on, xiv, 50

Boyd, Rev. Wm., Burns on, vi, 165 note 8

Boyhood, Augustine, St., on, vii, 12; Emerson on, v, 61; Wordsworth on, xli, 596

Boyle, Robert Johnson on, xxxix, 230

Boynton, Sir Edward, house of, v, 398

Braccio, Fortebracci, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 42, 44

Brachs, defined, xx, 427

Brackenburg, in EGMONT, xix, 265-6, 269-70, 289-90, 315-8, 321-5

BRACKLEY, THE BARON OF, xl, 119-21

Brackly, Lord, in COMUS, iv, 44

Bracy, the bard in CHRIST ABEL, xli, 719, 723-4, 727

Bradamant, xxxii, 51 note 44

Braddock, Gen., Franklin on, i, 128-36

Braddock's defeat, i, 135

Bradford, Andrew, Franklin with, i, 22, 26, 27; paper of, 59, 60; as postmaster, 64-5, 98

Bradford, William, i, 22, 26-7

Bradlaugh, Charles, and Mill, xxv, 191

Bradley, James, astronomer, xxx, 319

Bradshaw, John, Milton on, v, 194

Bradwardine, Bishop, Chaucer on, xl, 46; Newman on, xxviii, 47

BRÆS o' KILLIECRANKIE, vi, 359-60

BRÆS OF YARROW, by Hamilton, xli, 572-6

BRÆS OF YARROW, by Logan, xli, 500-1

Brage, Norse god, v, 389

Bragging, Emerson on, v, 390

BRAHMA, Emerson's, xlii, 1243

Brahma, Hindu god, xlv, 800, 821, 822-45, 871-2

Brahma Sahampati, xlv, 721-2

Brahman, Buddha on qualities of a, xlv, 627; virtues of a, 870

Brahmins, Emerson on the, v, 179

Brain, Berkeley on the, xxxvii, 229; in birds, xxxviii, 134; Harvey on the, 100; Pascal on the, xlviii, 26 (70)

Bramador, hill of, xxix, 365

Bramber, Nicholas, xxxv, 78 and note

Bramimonde, Queen, xlix, 114, 183, 184, 186, 195

Bran Galed, horn of, xxxii, 146

Branchiae, Darwin on, xi, 186-7

Brand, Bishop, xliii, 20

Brandabarbaray, of Boliche, xiv, 137

Brandan, St., Renan on legend of, xxxii, 143, 174-5; and Judas, 148

Brandebourg, Marquis of, at Metz, xxxviii, 311 Brander, in FAUST, xix, 85-99

Brandini, Giovanbattista, xxxi, 410

Branstock, xlix, 260, 261

Brasidas, quoted, xxxiv, 216

Bratius, on hounds, xxxv, 350

Brava Island, xxxiii, 203

Bravery, Confucius on exterior, xliv, 59 (12); fable of, at a distance, xvii, 18

BRAVING ANGRY WINTER'S STORMS, vi, 288

Bravoes, in Lombardy, xxi, 10-13

BRAW LADS o' GALLA WATER, vi, 452

BRAW WOOER, THE, vi, 536

Brawn, boar meat, Harrison on, xxxv, 331-3

Braxfield, Lord, story of, xxv, 428-9

Brazil, Darwin on, xxix, 21-4, 28-46, 498-503; Francis Pretty on, xxxiii, 203-4 Bread, Locke on eating of, xxxvii, 17, 18; price of, compared with meat, x, 151, 154; wheat and oatmeal, compared, 164

Breadalbane, Burns on district of, vi, 277

Breadalbane, Earl of, vi, 205 note

BREAK, BREAK, BREAK, xlii, 975-6

Breathing (see Respiration)

Breca, and Beowulf, xlix, 19

Bredi, the thrall, xlix, 257-8

Breeding, close, diminishes vigor, xi, 103, 134, 304; cross (see Intercrosses)

Brefeld, Oscar, on fermentation, xxxviii, 313-14, 344

Breintnal, Joseph, i, 57, 58, 60, 63

BREMEN TOWN MUSICIANS, THE, xvii, 113

Brennus, reference to, xx, 306

Breton, Nicholas, PHILLIDA AND CORIDON, xl, 196-7

Bretons (see Celtic Races)

Breuer, Thomas, cow of, xxxv, 325

Brevity, "the soul of wit," xlvi, 127; in speech and writing, xxxii, 44-5

Brewing, in old England, xxxv, 281-6

Briareus, in Dante's HELL, xx, 129, 191; Jupiter and, iii, 40; Milton on, iv, 93; Virgil on, xiii, 217 (see also JEgxon)

BRIAR-ROSE, LITTLE, story of, xvii, 137

Bribery, in elections, Plutarch on, xii, 159; a ground of impeachment, xliii, 189 (4); Penn on, i, 354 (384)

BRIDGE, THE, xlii, 1275-7

BRIDGE OF SIGHS, by Hood, xli, 907-10; Poe on, xxviii, 386

Bridges, expense of maintaining, x, 453; made of hide, xxix, 267

Bridgewater, Earl of, president of Wales, iv, 45

Bright, John, on American Civil War, xxv, 166; on woman suffrage, 186-7

Bright, Mynors, Stevenson on, xxviii, 285

BRIGS OF AYR, THE, vi, 230-7

Brisk, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 230-1

Brissac, M. de, at Perpignan, xxxviii, 15-16

Brissot, Jean Pierre, Burke on, xxiv, 381

Britain, Caesar in, xii, 284; planted by descendant of Æneas, xiii, 19

British Constitution, Burke on the, xxiv, 376-7; Lowell on the, xxviii, 456; James Mill on, xxv, 61; representation under, xxiv, 319-20; Ruskin on, xxviii, 131

Britomartis, Spenser's, xxxix, 63, 65

Britons, agriculture of the, xxxv, 308; boats of the, 360-1; food of the, 271; houses of the, 293; mirrors among, 322; productions of the, 315-16; use of woad by the, 314-15

Brittany, Arthurian legends in, xxxii, 161-2; Christianity in, 170, 171-3, 174 note 26, 180; English descent on, xxxviii, 13-14; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 9; Pare" on pastimes in, xxxviii, 14-15; Renan on, xxxii, 137, 140

Broca, Paul, objections to natural selection, xi, 211

Brockden, Charles, the scrivener, i, 67, 74

Brocket, defined, xxxv, 343

Brodie, Sir Benjamin, on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 247

Brome, Alexander, THE RESOLVE, xl, 369-70

Bromios, Bacchus called, viii, 123, 372

Bronn, Heinrich, on geological formations, xi, 332, 349; objections to natural selection, 210-1

Bronte, Emily, poems by, xlii, 1110-11

Bronze-casting, Cellini's method of, xxxi, 354 note i, 376-80

Bronzino, II (see Allori)

Brooke, Christopher, and Dr. Donne, xv, 327-8

Brooke, Lord, Emerson on, v, 411; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 268-9, 2 ?6; Milton on, iii, 227; tombstone of, v, 459

Brooke, Samuel, xv, 327, 357

Brosse, Pierre de la, xx, 166 note 7

Brothels, Luther on, xxxvi, 333

Brotherliness, Burns on, vi, 83, 251, 389, 512

Brothers, Bacon on emulation between, iii, 20; Browning on, and sisters, xviii, 383-4; Montaigne on, xxxii, 74

Brothers of Death, xxi, 270 note

Brougham, Lord, and Edinburgh Review, xxvii, 224; in Edinburgh society, xxv, 80; on English clergy, v, 430; Mill and, xxv, 60; on Milton's Satan, xxviii, 201; and the Times, v, 448

Broughton, Hugh, xlvii, 580 note, 629 note i

Brouncker, Lord, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 125

Broune, Adam, almoner to Edward Second, xxxv, 381

Brown, Dr., and Franklin, i, 24

Brown, John, Mill on, xxv, 165 and note

Brown, Lieut., at Gettysburg, xliii, 337, 351, 352

Brown, Richard, xxiii, mate of the "Alert," 400-1

Brown, Robert, on classification, xi, 434-5

Brown, Thomas Edward, MY GARDEN, xlii, 1148

Browne, Maurice, xxxiii, 274, 286, 290

Browne, Sir Thomas, on the Bible, iii, 276 (23); Catholic Church, attitude toward, 254 (3), 255 (5); charity of, 311-2, 313-5, 330; Christianity of, 253 (i); on Church of England, 255-6 (5); contentment, dreams, 326-8; on death, 290, 295; on death and burial, his own, 292-3; desires of, 332; disease hated by, 324; Emerson on, v, 433; on faith and reason, iii, 272-4; on the future life, 296-304; on God, 262-5, 280; heresies of, 257-9; Lamb on, xxvii, 268; learning and lack of pride, iii, 321-2; on length of life, 293-5; sketch of life and works, 250; love of the beautiful and harmonious, 323; love of mysteries and miracles, 259-60 (9, 10); on the medical profession, 324-5; his prayers, 319, 329; a Protestant, 253 (2); on providence, 267; RELIGIO MEDICI, 251-332; on religious disputes, 257; on salvation, 305-9; on spirits, 281-5, 289; on study of nature, 264-7; sympathy of, with all things, 310; tenderness and love of friends, 318-19; toleration of, 256 (6); at variance only with himself, 319-21, 324-5

Browne, William, ON COUNTESS OF PEMBROKE, xl, 333

Brownell, George, i, 10

BROWNHILL INN, EPIGRAM AT, vi, 413

Browning, Elizabeth Barrett, lines to, by Robert Browning, xlii, 1094-1100; poems by, xli, 922-42

Browning, Robert, sketch of life and works, xviii, 358; A BLOT IN THE 'SCUTCHEON, 359-404; SHORT POEMS by, xlii, 1065-1110; SONNET on, by Landor, xli, 902

Brown-Sequard, on mutilations, xi, 141

BRUAR WATER, PETITION OF, vi, 278-81

Bruce, Michael, To THE CUCKOO, xli, 570-1

Bruce, Robert, Burns on, vi, 374, 472, in note 4

Bruchsal, Count von, in MINNA VON BARNHELM, xxvi, 352, 373

Bructerians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, in Brummel, Beau, simplicity of, v, 372

Brunelleschi, Agnello, xx, 104 and note

Brunet, Gustave, xxxii, 107

Brunetto Latini (see Latini)

Brunswick, House of, Burke on title of, xxiv, 163-4

Bruttius, Cicero the Younger on, ix, 174

Brutus, Decimus (Albinus), xii, 316, 317, 330; Bacon on, iii, 67; Cicero on, ix, n, 178, 179

Brutus, Lucius junius, first Roman tribune, xii, 152, 158, 313; Corneille on sons of, xxvi, 127; Dante on, xx, 20; death of, ix, 71; Virgil on, xiii, 235

Brutus, Marcus, Caesar and, xii, 302-3, 310, 314, 318-9, 331-2; ix, 164, 171; after Cesar's death, xii, 253, 320, 332; Caesar's ghost and, 321; iii, 91; Cicero and, xii, 255-6, 263; xxxii, 96; Cicero on his relations with, ix, 142-4; letter to, 176-81; in Dante's HELL, xx, 142 and note i; death and burial, xii, 337; descent of, 313; Hobbes on vision of, xxxiv, 316; Lepidus and, xii, 331; loans of, x, 96; at Marseilles, xx, 219 note 7; Montaigne on, xxxii, 96; at Philippi, xii, 336-7; on virtue, v, 126

Bruyere, La (see La Bruyere)

Bryant, William Cullen, poems by, xlii, 1213-24; JUNE of, Poe on, xxviii, 380-1

Brydone, Patrick, vi. 176 note 10

Brynhild, ending of, xlix, 335-7, 380-6, 394-5; grief of, 321-5, 372-3, 379-80; Gudrun and, 311-12, 318-20; Gunnar and, 317-8, 378-9; at Hindfell, 297-8; Morris on, 256; name of, reason of, 307; Oddrun on, 434-5; Sigurd and, 299-306, 307-9, 326-7, 328, 329-30, 373, 377-8, 392-3; wooing of, 315-17, 371-2, 389-90, 395; remarks on story of, 251

BRYNHILD, FRAGMENTS OF LAY OF, xlix, 391-5; remarks on, 251

BRYNHILD, THE HELL-RIDE OF, xlix, 387-90; remarks on, 251

Bryso, Dante on, xx, 343

Bubastis, the Egyptian Artemis, xxxiii, 79

Bubastis, city of, xxxiii, 34, 37; temple of Artemis at, 69-70

Bubble, Madam, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 307-9

Bubonax, death of, xxvii, 51

Buch, Captal de, xxxv, 36, 42, 47, 50, 58

Buchanan, George, and Montaigne, xxxii, 3, 66; Sidney on tragedies of, xxvii, 46

Buchanan, Robert W., Liz, xlii, 1199

Buchheim, C. A., translator of Luther. xxxvi, 2

Buck, defined, xxxv, 343

Buckingham, Dukes of (see Stafford, Villiers)

Buckingham, Earl of, in Tyler's Rebellion, xxxv, 67

BUCKWHEAT, THE, story of, xvii, 355-7

Bucolic poets, Shelley on, xxvii, 342

Buddha, on animals, xlv, 706-9; attainment of Buddhaship, 613-24; birth of, 603-12; daily habits, 629-32; death, 633-46; first resolutions to strive for Buddhaship, 577 note i; on indifference, 712; life of the, 574; Malunkyaputta sermon of, 647-52; on mendicant ideal, 748-50; Middle Doctrine of, 6615; Noble-craving Sermon, 713-30: Pasenadi and, 675-6; story of HareMark in Moon, 697-701; story of Husband-honorer, 693-6; on the truth, 657-8; Visakha and, 754, 770-1, 774, 776-7, 779-81; on way of purity, 702

Buddha-Uproar, xlv, 603

Buddhism, Taine on, xxxix, 424, 432-3

Buddhist priests, ordination of, xlv, 740-7

BUDDHIST WRITINGS, xlv, 573-781 Budli, King, xlix, 310, 315, 317, 321 Budlungs, names of the, xlix, 253 Buenos Ayres, Darwin on, xxix, 126-7; revolution in, 145-6

Buffon, George Louis, on unity in classics, xxxii, 126; on creative force of America, xxix, 178; on evolution, xi, 6, 9; Franklin and, i, 147; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 123

Buford, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 329 BUFFOON AND COUNTRYMAN, fable of, xvii, 43

Bugiardini, Giuliano, xxxi, 86 note Buhel, Burkhart am, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 412-13, 423

BUILDING, Bacon's ESSAY ON, iii, 108-12

Building materials, demand for, x, 167, 179; supply of, does not limit population, 167; value of, 167

BUILDING OF THE SHIP, xlii, 1280-90

Building rent, by what determined, x, 488

Buildings, as capital, x, 218

Bujamonti, Giovanni, xx, 71 note 7

Bulgarians, Freeman on the, xxviii, 233, 268

Bulimus, Darwin on the, xxix, 351

Bull, why more sublime than ox, xxiv, 56

Bull, Bishop, on angels, xx, 406 note 5

BULL AND Ass, story of, xvi, 11-12

Bull feasts, xlix, 202-3

Bullen, Anne, Henry VIII and, xxxvi, 102, in, 114; Thomas More and, 121, 122

Buller, Charles, Carlyle and, xxv, 315; Mill on, 67, 82, 122, 123, 135

Bullies, Burns on, vi, 223

Bullion, movements of, x, 325

Bullock, J. C., editor of Adam Smith, x

Bulls, Papal, Luther on, xxxvi, 313

Bulwer Lytton, Emerson on, v, 439

Bumper, Sir Harry, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 150-2

Bunau-Varilla, Philippe, xliii, 451

BUNDLE OF STICKS, fable of, xvii, 40

Bunyan, John, sketch of life and works of, xv, 3-4; Franklin on, i, 13, 22; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 275; PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 5-319; Thoreau on, xxviii, 420

Buonaccorti, Giuliano, xxxi, 196 note 3, 351

Buonacossi, Pinamonte, xx, 83 note 5

Buonaparte, Lucien, on Macpherson, xxxix, 328-9

Buonaparte, Napoleon (see Napoleon)

Buonarroti (see Michelangelo)

Buonaventura, St., in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 334-9; sketch of, 334 note 4

Buondelmonte, Dante on, xx, 356; murder of, 117 note 12, 357 note 31

Buoso of Cremona, xx, 134 note 10

Burchell, on size of animals and vegetation, xxix, 94; on ostriches, 97; on S. African implements, 272

Burger, Gottfried August, on Percy's Reliques, xxxix, 326-7; Wordsworth on, 326

Burgh, Benet, xxxix, 15

Burghers, in FAUST, xix, 41

Burghersh, Bartholomew de, xxxv, 24, 36, 42, 51, 55

Burgoyne, Gen., Burns on, vi, 51

Burgundy, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 9

Burgundy, Duke of, in LEAR, xlvi, 216, 221-2

Burials, in ancient Egypt, xxxiii, 42-4; in NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 173

Burians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 116

Burke, Edmund, aims and character of, xxiv, 377-8, 402-4; Bagehot on party spirit of, xxviii, 187; Burns on, vi, 52; conservatism of, xxiv, 377-8; on English lawyers, v, 415; Fox and, 211; author of war with France, xxiv, 421; ON FRENCH REVOLUTION, 141-378; generalizations of, v, 438, 441; Goldsmith on, xli, 506; Keppel and, xxiv, 416-17; LETTER TO A NOBLE LORD, 379-421; on liberty, 148-9; life and works, sketch of, 5-6, 28, 142, 380; love of order, 142; on the nobility, 398; Payoffice and Establishment Acts, 386-94; pension of, 380, 383, 401-4; on pensions, 396-7; on his services, 394; ON THE SUBLIME AND BEAUTIFUL, 7-140; ON TASTE, 11-26

Burke, Gen., Mill and, xxv, 179

Burke, Richard, death of, xxiv, 380; Edmund Burke on, 405-6

Burlador, Sonnet of, to Sancho Panza, xiv, 515

Burleigh, Lord, to his son on expenses, v, 394

Burlesque, Fielding on the, xxxix, 177-9

Burn, Dr., on settlement laws, x, 140, 142; on wages, 144

Burnel, the Asse, xl, 47

Burnes, William, father of Robert Burns, vi, 15; epitaph on, 50

Burnet, Bishop, History of his Own Time, xxv, ii ; on French clergy, xxiv, 283

Burnet, Gov., and Franklin, i, 33, 60

BURNET, Miss, ELEGY ON, vi, 395-6

Burney, Martin, in Hazlitt's discussion, xxvii, 272, 278

BURNING BABE, THE, xl, 218-19

Burns, John, of Gettysburg, xliii, 331

BURNS, Miss, LINES ON, vi, 264

Burns, Robert, POEMS AND SONGS, vi, 19-553; Arnold on, xxviii, 77, 78, 84-9; daughter of, vi, 55-7; death, lines on his own, 60; first book of, 221; elegy on himself, 93-4; Emerson on, v, 21, 123, 304; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; Jacobitism of, vi, 281 note; life and works, sketch of, 15-17; possessions, inventory of, 186-8; wife of (see Armour, Jean)

Burton, Sir Richard F., on ARABIAN NIGHTS, xvi, 3; on deserts, xxviii, 411

Burton, Robert, death of, v, 381

Busbacca, the courier, xxxi, 191-4

BUSHBY, JOHN, LINES ON, vi, 488

Bushby, Mr., of New Zealand, xxix, 425-6

Business, character in, v, 185-6; Confucius on, xliv, 5; Emerson on the ways of, v, 45-6; honesty in, iii, 8-9; love and, 28; xl, 311; method in, i, 355 (43); Penn on qualities for, 341-2 (210-12); suspicion bad in, iii, 82; three parts of, 64; time the measure of, 63; Woolman on, i, 180, 195-6 and note, 197, 235-6, 274, 297, 298; youth and age in, iii, 105

Busirane, Spenser's, xxxix, 64

Busiris, city of, xxxiii, 34

Busiris and his Memphian cavalry, iv, 95

Busk, Mr., on avicularia, xi, 237

Buslidius, Hieronymus, xxxvi, 241

Busy-bodies, commonly envious, iii, 23

Butcher, S. H., translator of Homer, xxii

Butchers, excluded from juries, xxxvii, 102

Butes, and Dares, xiii, 190-91; death of, 380-1, 402, 407

Buthrescas, in Utopia, xxxvi, 230

Buti, Cecchino, xxxi, 425

Butler, Joseph, Bishop, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277; on meaning of "natural," xi, i; Mill on Analogy of Religion of, xxv, 29

Butler, Samuel, Emerson on Hudibras of, v, 433; Voltaire on Hudibras of, xxxiv, 147-8

Buto, city of, xxxiii, 34-5, 37; oracle of, 42, 78

Butterflies, in Brazil, xxix, 42; dimorphism of, xi, 57; flocks of, at sea, xxix, 163; imitation by, xi, 446-7; symbol of the soul, xx, 186 note

Button, coffee-house of, xxvii, 179

Button, Jemmy, xxix, 212-14, 222, 223, 225-7, 230-1, 233-4

Butyric acid, production of, xxxviii, 328

Butyric fermentation, xxxviii, 329-40, 341

Butyric vibrios, xxxviii, 327

Buyck, in EGMONT, xix, 253-9

Buys, M., Dutch envoy, xxvii, 101

Buzareingues, Giron de, on fertilization, xi, 311

By-employments, Smith on, x, 119-21

By-ends, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 1029, in, 278, 285

Byron, Admiral John, on brutality of Fuegians, xxix, 221; on wolves in Falkland Islands, 198

Byron, George Gordon, Lord, sketch of life and works, xviii, 406; Arnold on, xlii, 1135-6; Carlyle on, xxv, 345, 420, 425; Emerson on, v, 265, 433, 444; Goethe on, xxxii, 128; Hugo on, xxxix, 362; MANFRED of, xviii, 407-50; Mill on, xxv, 93, 95; and Newstead Abbey, v, 399; Poe on lines by, xxviii, 389-90; POEMS by, xli, 784-816

BYRON AND GOETHE, by Mazzini, xxxii, 377-96

Byzantium, Pliny on expenses of, ix, 383; Trajan on, 397-8

C

CA' THE YOWES TO THE K.NOWES, by Burns, vi, 356, 496 CA' THE YOWES TO THE K.NOWES, by Pagan, xli, 556

Cabbage, fertilization of the, xi, 105

Cabot, John, account of life, xliii, 45 headnote; account of discoveries, 458; Hayes on, xxxiii, 264-5

Cabot, Sebastian, Hayes on, xxxiii, 264-5

Caccia of Asciano, xx, 122 and note 7

Cacciaguida, in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 349-61

Caccianimico, Venedico, xx, 74 and note 2

Cactornis, Darwin on species of, xxix, 383. 399-400

Cactus, Darwin on, xxix, 170 note 9, 265

Cacus, the robber, xiii, 274-5; Burke on, xxiv, 126; Cervantes on, xiv, 8, 26, 50; Dante on, xx, 103; Hercules and, xiii, 274-7

Cadmus, founder of Thebes, viii, 375; Dante on, xx, 104; letters invented by, xxxiv, 322; letters of, Byron on, xli, 814; Milton on, iv, 273; sower of the giant's sod, viii, 378

Cadmus, in the BACCHÆ, viii, 375-6, 3812, 427-35

Cadwallader, John, Woolman on, i, 269

Cadwallo, Gray on, xl, 457

Cadytis, city of Syria, xxxiii, 80

Caecilius, C., Pliny on, ix, 256

Caecilius, Statius, on old age, ix, 54, 58; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 236

Caecilius, the freedman, and Verres, xii, 223

Caecilius, the orator, and Cicero, xii, 248; ix, 82-3; on orators, xii, 192

Czcina, Aulus, letter to, ix, 161

Caeculus, and JEneas, xiii, 340

Caecus, name of, xii, 157

Caedicus, and Remulus, xiii, 305

Caelianus, Sempronius, ix, 374

Caelius, Marcus Rufus, and Cicero, xii, 248 note, 260-1; ix, 149-50; Pliny on, 205 note 4

Caen, city of, xxxv, 13; defence against Edward the Third, 9, 13-14; capture of, 14-16; importance of, 13 note 3

Caeneus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 222, 312

Caepio, Servilius, and Caesar's daughter, xii, 275; in Germany, xxxiii, 113

Caerleon, ancient see of, xxxv, 252; university of, 371

Caesar, Caius Julius, reputed ancestor of /Eneas, xiii, 18; in African War, xii, 306-8; Alexander and, xiii, 27; xxxvi, 50; ambitiousness of, xii, 273; Analogy of, xxvii, 57; Anti-Cato of, xii, 250-1, 266, 308; Antony's funeral oration on, 332; Atticus and, ix, 151; Bacon on, iii, 104, 130; Blake on laurel crown of, xli, 589; brevity of, xii, 305-6; on British tides, xxx, 279-80; Browne on valor of, iii, 278; Brutus on, ix, 171; Brutus and ghost of, xii, 320-1; Brutus, Decimus, and, iii, 67; Burke on, xxiv, 91; Caecina and, ix, 161-2; calendar reformed by, xii, 311-12; Calpurnia, wife of, 275; in Catiline conspiracy, 234-5, 269-70; on Cato, ix, 240; Cervantes on, xiv, 8, 488; Cicero, relations with, xii, 236, 243, 248-9, 250-1, 252, 266, 269-70, 276; Cicero on his relations with, ix, 113, 114, 115, 116, 118, 120, 121, 122, 127-8, 129, 156-7, 162-3, 165, 169, 170, 171, 179; Cicero on character of, 163, 168; Cicero on consulship of, 82, 83; clemency of, xii, 309-10; Cleopatra and, 304-5; xviii, 4749-5 ; Clodius and, ix, 114; conspiracy against, xii, 313-15, 330-2; consulship, first, of, 239, 273-5; consulship, third, 329; consulship, fifth, 330; Curio and, xx, 117 note n; Dante on, 219 note 7, 252, 307; death, prodigies preceding, xii, 315-16; xlvi, 97; death of, xii, 316-18; death, state of affairs after, ix, 170-1, 177-8; death, signs following, xii, 320-1; death of, Webster on, xlvii, 853; dictatorship of, xii, 309-10; Dryden on, xiii, 15, 16; early offices, xii, 267; Egypt, war in, 303-4, 305; Egyptian priest and, v, 265; Emerson on, 68, 202, 265; extravagance of, xii, 267-8; Fiorino of Cellino and, xxxi, 6; funeral orations on aunt and wife, xii, 267; in Gaul, 276, 279-88; generalship of, 276-9; generosity to the Republicans, 164; as High-Priest, 269; Hugo on, xxxix, 356; kingship desired by, xii, 312-13; Lucceius and, ix, 88; at the Lupercalia, xii, 313-14, 330; Machiavelli on liberality of, xxxvi, 53; Marian party revived by, xii, 268-9; Milton on, iv, 385; Montaigne on history of, xxxii, 97, 99; Octavius, heir of, xii, 255; one of nine worthies, xxxix, 20; Pascal on, xlviii, 51 (132); Pharnaces and, xii, 305; Pharsalia, magnanimity after, 250, 302-3; the pilot and, iii, 100-1; pirates and, xii, 264-5; plans of, 310-11; Pliny on, ix, 205; Plutarch's LIFE OF, xii, 264-321; Pompeia, wife of, 267, 271-2, 241, 242; Pompey, early relations with, 274, 2756, 282, 284, 285; Pompey, final contest with, 288-303, 248-9, 325-6, 327; and Pompey's statues, 252; Pompey and, Bacon on, iii, 79, 123, 141; Pompey and, Cicero on, ix, 6, 123, 162, 163; Pompey's sons and, xii, 309; Pope on, xl, 434; as praetor, xii, 270-1, 236; Revelius and, 310; Suetonius on, xxxii, 64; Senate, relations with, ix, 124; Shakespeare on portents before death of, xlvi, 97; sick soldier and, xxxii, 21; Sidney on, xxvii, 21; in Spain, xii, 273; story of the storm, 296; studies at Rhodes, 265-6; Sylla and, 264; iii, 41; Tacitus on, xxxiii, 108; triumphs of, xii, 308, 309-10; Virgil on, xiii, 234; will of, xii, 319; worshipped as a god, 319

Caesar, Lucius, saved by sister, xii, 336

Ca-sarion, son of Czsar, xii, 305; death of, 384; made king by Antony, 364

Caesonius, Cicero on, ix, 81

Caestius, Cicero and the younger, xxxii, 96

Cagli, Benedetto da, xxxi, 204, 231

Cagnano, Angelo da, xx, 116 note 9

Cagnazzo, the demon, xx, 88, 92

Cahors, reference to, xx, 46

Ca'iaphas, the high priest, xliv, 360 (2), 429 (6); in Dante's HELL, xx, 96

Cain, and Abel, xlvi, 192 note 7; Bacon on, iii, 24; author of BEOWULF on, xlix, 8, 39; Cowley on, xxvii, 64; Milton on, iv, 330; Mohammed on, xlv, 997; tree of Eve and, xxxv, 186

Cai'na, first round of Hell, xx, 131-5

Cairns, in old Ireland, xlix, 216

Cairo, Arabian idea of, xvi, 144

Caithness, in MACBETH, xlvi, 383-4

Cajeta, nurse of yneas, xiii, 239

Cajetan, Cardinal, xxxvi, 341

Calaber, Quintus, Shelley on, xxvii, 349

Calamities, Emerson on compensation of, v, 101-2; limitation of, 131; human delight in, xxiv, 40-3; Montaigne on consolation in, xxxii, 45-6; Woolman on, i, 237

Calandrino, Boccaccio's, xxvii, 385

Calasirians, district of the, xxxiii, 83

Calatinus, Atilius, epitaph of, ix, 67

Calboli, Fulcieri da, xx, 200 and note 13

Calboli, Rinieri da, in Dante's PURGATORY, xx, 199-201

Calc Spar, crystallization of, xxx, 31, 239-40; effect of, on polarized light, 34-5

Calcabrina, the demon, xx, 88, 92

Calchas, the seer, Æschylus on, viii, 13; Landor on, xii, 903; Sinon and, xiii, 103-5; an d Trojan War, 106

Calculus, integral and differential, xxxiv, 125-6

Calderon de la Barca, Pedro, sketch of life and works, xxvi, 3-4; LIFE is A DREAM, 7-74; Shelley on, xxvii, 340

Caldwell, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 346, 349, 392

CALEDONIA: A BALLAD, vi, 329-31

Calendar, Caesar, reforms, xii, 312

Calendar, Egyptian, xxxiii, 8; Lateran Council, revision of, xxxix, 57

Calentura, Bigges on the, xxxiii, 247

CALF, THE, vi, 225

Caliban, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, son of Sycorax, 409; Prospero and, 410-12, 427, 436-9, 450-2, 460-2; Stephano and, 429-31, 435-6; Trinculo and, 428, 429; Hugo on, xxxix, 354; Hunt on, xxvii, 294; Johnson on, xxxix, 228

California, admission of, xliii, 306 headnote; Dana on history of, xxiii, 165-6; Dana in (1835), 56-254, 377-8; Dana in (1859), 378-96; Drake in, xxxiii, 213-17; southern boundary of, xliii, 292-3

California, Gulf of, navigation of, xliii, 294

California Rangers, xxiii, 244-7

Caligula (Caius Germanicus), his descent, xii, 388-9; Germans and, xxxiii, 114; wish of, iii, 316 note

Callao, Darwin on, xxix, 369, 371; ruins of old, 372

Callias, Alcibiades and, xii, 111-12; Aristides and, 103-4; Aristophanes on, viii, 452; birth of, xii, 60; at Marathon, 83; Socrates and, ii, 7

Callicles, son of Arrhenidas, xii, 212

CALLICLES, THE SONG OF, xiii, 1126-8

Callicrates, builder of Parthenon, xii, 50; of Athenian wall, 50

Callicrates, the soldier, xii, 95

Callidromus, the slave, ix, 369

Callimedon, called the Crab, xii, 213

Callinicus, meaning of, xii, 156 note

Calliope, mother of Orpheus, iv, 73, 228

Callippides, the tragedian, xii, 138

Callisthenes, Alexander and, xxvii, 36; xxxii, 57; on the Phocian War, ix, 102

Callisto, Diana and, xx, 249; changed to constellation, 416 note 5

Callistratus, the orator, influence on

Demosthenes, xii, 194; Melanopus and, 201

Callixtus, Bishop, xx, 400 note 5

Callot, Hugo on, xxxix, 347

Calodera Maculata, xxix, 130

Calonne, M. de, on reign of Louis XVI, xxiv, 266 note 33; on France under the Revolution, 267-8 notes, 318-19, 368 note

Calosoma, instance of, at sea, xxix, 163

Calpurnia, wife of Caesar, xii, 275; her dream, 315; and Antony, 332 Calpurnia, wife of Pliny, ix, 248 note 5; Pliny on, 258; letters to, 280, 298

Calumniators, punishment of, in Rome, ix, 296 note 9

Calumny (see Detraction)

Calvary, Mount, xliv, 415 note 4

Calventius, Cicero on, ix, 114

Calvin, John, DEDICATION OF THE INSTITUTES, xxxix, 27-51; Knox and, 58 note; life and works, sketch of, 27 note; Pope on, xl, 434; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 84; Wyclif and, iii, 223

Calvinism, doctrines of, xxxix, 47-51; in France, 27-47; Mill on, xxv, 256

Calvinists, debt of, to St. Augustine, vii, 4; in France, xxxix, 83-4; low ideas of human nature, xxviii, 308; Pascal on, xlyiii, 270 (777), 301

Calvinus, Domitius, at Pharsalia, xii, 300-1

Calvisius, correspondent of Pliny, letters to, ix, 228, 229, 272, 317, 335

Calvisius, dependent of Caesar, xii, 367

Calypso, Dido and, xxxix, 157; Odysseus and, xxii, 9, 10, 60, 69-75, 95-6

Cambalu, seat of Cathaian Can, iv, 328

Cambray, peace of, More at, xxxvi, 104-5

Cambrian Period, antiquity of the, xi, 344-5; absence of deposits before, 3458

Cambridge University, Emerson on, v, 415; Harrison on, xxxv, 371-381

Cambuscan, reference to, iv, 36

Cambyses, expedition against Egypt, xxxiii, 7; Ladike and, 89; prophecy of, xlviii, 248

Camden, the antiquary, and Ben Jonson, xlvii, 540

Camera Apostolica, xxxi, 41 note 3

Camerinus, Sulpicius, ix, 189 note 5 Gamers, son of Volsc-:ns, xiii, 340

Camertus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 397

Camiccione de Pazzi, xx, 133 and note 6

Camilla, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 266-7, 374' 7, 379-88; Dante on, xx, 8, 19

Camilla, in story of CURIOUS-IMPERTINENT, xiv, 307-46, 351-5

Camillo, Cardinal, in THE CENCI, at banquet, xviii, 291-2; Beatrice and, 353, 355-6; Bernardo and, 351-2; Count Cenci and, 281-5; with Giacomo, 3001; at the trial, 342-6

Camillus, Cicero on, ix, 160; Virgil on, xiii, 235

Camino, Ga'ia da, xx, 212 note 10

Camino, Gherardo da, xx, 211 note 7, 212

Camino, Riccardo da, death of, xx, 321 note 13; Lombardo and, 209 note; wife of, 177 note 4

Camoens, Wordsworth on sonnets of, xii, 681

Campana, mountain, xxix, 260-2

Campanella, the physiognomist, xxiv, 1067

CAMPASPE AND CUPID, xl, 209

CAMPBELL, BONNIE GEORGE, a ballad, xl, 114

Campbell, J., FREEDOM AND LOVE, xii, 782

Campbell, Thomas, poems by, xii, 770-81; Mill on poems of, xxv, 16; on English nobility, v, 413

Campegines, Cardinal, xxxvi, 103, 104

Campion, Thomas, poems by, xl, 284-7

Campistron, Hugo on, xxxix, 360, 364

CAN YE LABOUR LEA, vi, 438

Canace, reference to story of, iv, 37

Canada, invited into the Confederation, xliii, 166

CANADIAN BOAT-SONG, by Moore, xii, 819

CANADIAN BOAT SONG, by Wilson, xiii, 1064-5

Canals, expense of, x, 453-5; Smith on, 150

Canary Islands, Drake in the, xxxiii, 233; Vespucci on, xliii, 30

Candace, queen of Ethiopia, xliv, 440 (27)

CANDLE, CHEMICAL HISTORY OF A, xxx, 86-170

Candle-wood, xxx, 87

Candolle, A. de, on alpine species, xi, 171; on Australian species, 405; on insular plants, 414; on naturalization of plants, 118; on oaks, 62-3; on plants with large seed, 389; on struggle for life, 72; on wide-ranging plants, 65-6, 134, 427; on winged seeds, 150

Candor, Whitman on, xxxix, 402

Candour, Mrs., in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 120-5, 132-5, 180-5

Candy, Locke on, xxxvii, 21

Canidia, Sidney on, xxvii, 19

Canidius, lieutenant of Antony, xii, 348; in Parthian war, 354-5; in war of Antony and Octavius, 365, 370-1, 372, 374-5, 377

Caninius, letter to, ix, 350

Canneschi, Machiavelli on the, xxxvi, 61

Canning, George, and free trade, xxv, 65; on reform, v, 371

Cannon, known to ancients, iii, 139

Canobos, city of, viii, 197

Canoes, Columbus on Indian, xliii, 24; Vespucci on, 36

Canon law, Luther on, xxxvi, 305, 307, 323

Canonization of saints, Mill on, xxv, 215

CANST THOU LEAVE ME THUS, MY KATIE, vi, 509

Canterbury, Harrison on the See of, xxxv, 252; archbishops of, 252-3, 255-6

Canterbury, Archbishop of, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 14-15, 16-18, 81

Canterbury Tales, Arnold on, xxviii, 7680; Dryden on, xxviii, 77; xxxix, 164, 165-7; NUN'S PRIEST'S TALE of, xl, 3451; proem to, xxxix, 18-19; sources of, 159-60, 172

CANTERBURY TALES, PROLOGUE TO, xl, n34; Dryden on, xxviii, 77; xxxix, 160, 165-7; editorial remarks on, xl, 10

Cantillon, on wages, x, 69

Cantiron, John de, xxxv, 96

Cantyman, the cacique, xxxiii, 313

Canuri, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 373

Canute, buried in Winchester, v, 462; Knighton Guild and, xxxv, 314; laws against adultery, 365-6; suppers of, 287

Capaneus, in Dante's HELL, xx, 59

Cape de Verd Islands, Darwin on, xxix, 11-15; Pretty on, xxxiii, 201-3; productions of, xi, 421-2

Capernaum, Jesus on, xliv, 381 (15)

Capet, Hugh, Dante on, xx, 226-7; Raleigh on, xxxix, 83

Capillary Attraction, Faraday on, xxx, 93

Capilupus, Montaigne on, xxxii, 32

Capital, accumulation of, x, 264-77; cir culating and fixed, 215-17 (see also Circulating Capital, Fixed Capital); combinations of, to fix wages, 145; defined, 215; distribution of, in agriculture, manufactures, and trade, 3059; employments of, 287-303; importance of increase of, 270-1; increase of, effect on profits, wages, and interest, 281-2; investment of, 221-2; labor and, relations of, 6, 67-9, 212-13, 260, 333; loans as, 278; naturally seeks domestic industries, 333-5; naturally seeks most profitable industries, 335; profits in relation to, 90, 96-7; revenue and, as determining industry, 262-5; taxes on, 505-11; wages in relation to increase of, 70-5

Capital Causes, in ancient Athens, ii, 25; Bacon on mercy in, iii, 131

Capital Cities, industry in, x, 263-5; virtual universities, xxviii, 36-7, 38

Capital Punishment, in old Massachusetts, xliii, 73 (44, 47), 79-81; More on, xxxvi, 149-50

Capitalists, combinations of, x, 68; Smith on interests of, 209-11

Capitation taxes, Smith on, x, 514-15; in U. S., xliii, 185 (4), 191 (5)

Capitolo, the, xxxi, 237 note

Capocchio, in Dante's HELL, xx, 122-4

Capons, Harrison on, xxxv, 336

Caprara, Cardinal, and Napoleon, v, 208

CAPRICE, MONODY ON, vi, 484

Caprichioso, on Rozinante, xiv, 514

Caprona, surrender of, xx, 87 note

CAPTAIN CAR, a ballad, xl, 103-7

CAPTAIN! MY CAPTAIN, xlii, 1412

CAPTAIN'S LADY, THE, vi, 344

Captiousness, Locke on, xxxvii, 123

CAPTIVE RIBBAND, THE, vi, 361-2

Captive, story of the, xiv, 382-423

Captivity in Babylon, Pascal on, xlviii, 212 (637, 639)

Capuchins, Manzoni on the, xxi, 51

Capulets, Dante on the, xx, 169

Capuri, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 340

Capybara, Darwin on the, xxix, 57-8

Capys, author of the Capuan name, xiii, 326; Privernus and, 312;
  Trojan horse and, 101

CAR, CAPTAIN, a ballad, xl, 103-7

Caracalla, as a charioteer, iii, 48; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 64, 65-6, 68

Caracaras, Darwin on, xxix, 63

Caradoc, mantle of, xxxix, 21

Caradosso, Messer, xxxi, 48 note 5, 61-2

Carapana, district of, xxxiii, 325 note 23, 325, 369, 370

Carapana, king of Emeria, xxxiii, 331-2, 334

Caratach, on valor, v, 76-7

Carbo, Gaius, Africanus and, ix, 99; Gracchus and, 24-5

Carbolic Acid, as an antiseptic, xxxviii, 257-66, 381

Carbon, Faraday on combustion of, xxx, 158-9, 160-2, 168-9; Helmholtz on combustion of, 201; tests of presence of, 161

Carbonek Castle, xxxv, 206-7

Carbonic Acid, as gas, liquid, and solid, xxx, 14 note; composition of, 158; method of decomposing, 159-61; heat generated by formation of, 201 ; made by burning candles, 150-2; natural sources of, 152-3; produced in respiration, 164-8; used by plants, 167-8; properties and weight, 153-5; tested by lime-water, 151-2, 153-4

Carbonic Acid Gas, fermentation in, xxxviii, 302-13

Cardan, Emerson on, v, 177; on dogs, xxxv, 355-6; on pigeons, 336; on rogues in England, 369; on sheep, 329-30

Cardenio, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 201-5, 238-51, 264, 268-9, 356-65

CARDIN' O'T, THE SPINNIN' O'T, vi, 526-7

Cardinals, Luther on, xxxvi, 277

Cardoness, lines on, vi, 498, 499

Cardoon, Darwin on the, xxix, 125-6, 153

Cards, Locke on playing, xxxvii, 176

Care, Burns on, vi, 305; Cicero on freedom from, ix, 26; Cowper on, xli, 542; David on uses of, 491; Goethe on, xix, 33; Milton on, iv, 85; pays not debt, xlvii, 502

Careless, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 150-3. 157-62

Carelessness in children, xxxvii, 48, 107-9

Carentan, Edward III at, xxxv, 10; importance of, 13 note

Carew, Thomas, poems by, xl, 351-3

Carey, Dr., Bishop of Exeter, xv, 347

Carey, Henry, SALLY IN OUR ALLEY, xl, 403-5

Carians in Egypt, xxxiii, 77-8, 82

Caribbean Savages, lack of foresight in, xxxiv, 178; love among, 192

Caricatures, Fielding on, xxxix, 178-9

Cariola, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 761, 766-7, 771, 772, 780, 794-5. 798, 8034, 811, 819-20, 824-5, 826-7

Carlandrea, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 128

CARLE, AN THE KING COME, vi, 347

Carlile, Christopher, with Drake, xxxiii, 226, 227, 229, 230, 231, 232, 234; at St. Domingo, 240-1; at Cartagena, 244, 246, 250; at St. Augustine, 254-5; re " marks on his services, 253-4

Carlile, Richard, prosecution of, xxv, 58

Carlo, San, body of, in Milan plague, xxi, 522-3; plague named after, 502

Carlo Emanuele I, of Savoy, xxi, 434-6, 466

Carloman, son of The Bald, xxxix, 82

Carloto, and Valdovinos, xiv, 43

Carlovingian Poetry, Renan on, xxxii, 158, 159

Carlovingians, Raleigh on the, xxxix, 81-3

Carlyle, Thomas, on America and Americans, v, 453-4; xxviii, 463; on art, v, 454; CHARACTERISTICS, xxv, 319-56; first entry into Edinburgh, 359; Emerson and, v, 3; Emerson on, 21, 315, 321-3, 441; ESSAY ON SCOTT, xxv, 393-451; French Revolution, 135; heroism in, v, 123; INAUGURAL ADDRESS, xxv, 359-89; remarks on INAUGURAL ADDRESS, 318; life and works, 315-18; Life of Cromwell, xxxix, 415; London Review and, xxv, 129; Mill and, 84, no; Mill on, 90, 102; reading of, v, 456-7; on unbelief, xxv, 104; Wordsworth on, v, 324-5

Carmagnola, and the Venetians, xxxvi, 43

Carmenta, the prophetess, xiii, 279

Carnal Policy, town of, xv, 21

Carnal Sinners, in Dante's HELL, xx, 21-4, 47

Carneades, an African, xxviii, 58; in Athens, x, 137; Manzoni on, xxi, 115; Montaigne on, xxxii, 54; in Rome, iii, 194

Carnesecchi, Pietro, xxxi, 140 note 6

Carnot, Sadi, on heat, xxx, 195

Caro, Annibale, xxxi, 97 note 5; Cellini and, 163, 166; Giovanni Gaddi and, 97 note 4, 133; language of, xxxix, 202; translator of Virgil, xiii, 55

Caroli River, xxxiii, 355, 357

Caroline, Queen, and the Times, v, 448

Carpathian Wizard, Proteus called, iv, 67

Carpenter, Chaucer's, xl, 21

Carpentry, as recreation, xxxvii, 174

Carpi, Giacomo da, xxxi, 51 and note, 272

Carpigna, Guido di, xx, 202 note 16

Carpino, Piano, x, 311

Carpio, Bernardo del, Cervantes on romance of, xiv, 50, 491; Orlando and, 19, 226

Carr, Sir Robert, Hugo on, xxxix, 380

Carranchas, Darwin on, xxix, 63-4

Carrero, Don Pedro de Puerto, xiv, 388

Carrion Hawks, of South America, xxix, 63-7; smelling-power of, 189-91

CARRON IRON WORKS, IMPROMPTU ON, vi, 275

Carrying Trade, capital used in, x, 299, 333-4; encouragement of the, 371-2; limits of, 302; a sign of wealth, 301

Cartagena, Drake at, xxxiii, 144-5, 156-60, 244-53, 259

Carthage, Cato on, ix, 51-2; city of Dido, xiii, 85, 89; loved by Juno, 73-4, 88-9; Machiavelli on destruction of, xxxvi, 18; mercenaries of, 42; More on mercenaries of, 145; Raleigh on, xxxix, 71, 113; Rome and, xiii, 174, 321; schools of, vii, 69-70

Carthagena (see Cartagena)

Carthusian Monks, Pascal on, xlviii, 172 (539)

Carus, Metius, Regulus and, ix, 188-9; Fannia and, 308

Cartwright, William, ON THE QUEEN'S RETURN, xl, 358

Cary, Henry F., translator of Dante, xx

Casa, Cecchino della, xxxi, 69

Casa, Giovanni della, "book on manners" (Galateo), reference to, xxvii, 162, 163

Casalodi, Alberto da, xx, 83 note 5

Casarita, Darwin on the, xxix, 102

Casati, Father Felice, xxi, 511, 592-5

Casaubon, Isaac, at Oxford, v, 416; on changes, xxxix, 73-4

Casca, and Caesar, xii, 317-18

Cascades, in glaciers, xxx, 221-3, 235

Casella, Dante and, xx, 151 and note 5; Milton on, iv, 81

Cash Credits, in Scodand, x, 236-7, 244-5

Casion, Mount, xxxiii, 80

Casnero River, xxxiii, 360

Caspians, Harrison on the, xxxv, 352

Cassada, Darwin on, xxix, 32

Cassandane, wife of Cyrus, xxxiii, 7

Cassander, Demades and, xii, 217

Cassandra, in AGAMEMNON, viii, 47-59; Apollo and, 53; Coroebus and, xiii, in, 113-14; death of, viii, 65; Homer on death of, xxii, 155; prophecy of settlement of Italy, xiii, 134; Ruskin on, xxviii, 141-2; Trojan horse and, xiii, 108

Cassavi, a kind of bread, xxxiii, 152, 239

Cassero, Giacopo del, xx, 163 and note 5

Cassero, Guido del, xx, 116 note 9

Cassiodorus, John, on idleness, xxxix, 13

Cassiopeia, reference to, iv, 34

Cassipa, Lake, xxxiii, 358-9

Cassipagotos, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 354, 356, 358

Cassius, the consul, in Germany, xxxiii, 113

Cassius, Quintus, xii, 326

Cassius, Roman jurist, ii, 169 (144); ix, 310 note 2

Cassius Longinus, Caesar and, xii, 310, 314-15, 317, 330; ix, 164; Cicero on, 147; conduct after Caesar's death, xii, 253, 331; in Dante's HELL, xx, 142 and note i; xiii, 16; flight of, xii, 320; at Philippi, 320, 336-7

Castagneri, Bortolo, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 285-8, 432-3, 542-5, 641

Castalio, Locke on, xxxvii, 71

CASTARA, ROSES IN BOSOM OF, xl, 252-4

CASTAWAY, THE, xii, 540-2

Castello, Guido da, xx, 211 and note 9

Castes, Channing on, xxviii, 343-6; the four Hindu, xlv, 870-1

Castiglione, Baldassare, the Courtier of, xxvii, 162

Castiglione, Valeriano, xxi, 447

CASTLE GORDON, vi, 282-3

Casdemaine, Lady, xxviii, 296

Castor and Pollux, Homer on, xxii, 152; in Rome, xii, 149; seamen's term, xxxiii, 295; Virgil on, xiii, 211; worshipped in Germany, xxxiii, 117

Castor-berry, cultivated in Egypt, xxxiii, 47

Castoro, Francesco, xxxi, 16

Castracani, Castruccio, xxvii, 399

Castration, Harvey on, xxxviii, no

Castriota, John (see Kastriota)

Castro, Chili, Darwin on, xxix, 281-2

Castruccio, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 758-9, 772, 774, 783, 785, 845

Casualties, of feudal law, x, 506-7

Caswall, E., translator of hymns, xlv, 550, 556

Cat, "turning of the," iii, 59

CAT, ON A FAVOURITE, xl, 462-3

CAT AND Fox, fable of, xvii, 26

CAT-MAIDEN, fable of the, xvii, 42; Bacon on fable of, iii, 97

Catabaptists, Calvin on, xxxix, 44

Cataclysms, Darwin on, xi, 81, 102-3; Lyell on, xxxviii, 407, 417

Catalano, in Dante's HELL, xx, 96-7

Catamarans, described, xxiii, 26

Catastrophes, Pope on, xl, 411-12; require a comic element, xxviii, 177-8

Catastrophism (see Cataclysms)

Catechising, Herbert on, xv, 406

Catechumens, Pascal on, xlviii, 376-7

Categorical Imperative, Kant on the, xxxii, 325-6, 330-431, 363-5, 371, 395

Categories (see Predicaments)

Caterina, mistress of Cellini, xxxi, 305-9, 312-16, 318

Caterpillars, instincts of, xi, 252

Gates, Thomas, xxxiii, 227, 229

Catesby, and Hastings, xxxix, 76

Cathedrals, Burke on grandeur of old, xxiv, 63-4; Hugo on mediaeval, xxxix, 350-1; origin of, xxxv, 257

Catherine of Aragon, queen of Henry VIII, xxxvi, 102-5, 114; xxxix, 86

Catholic Church, Roman (see Roman Catholic Church)

Catiline, Lucius, Augustine, St., on, vii, 27; Cicero on, ix, 81, 83; xxvii, 47; conspiracy of, xii, 226-236, 269-70; ix, 5; Pope on, xl, 411; Virgil on, xiii, 290

Catillus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 262, 372, 379

Cato, Addison's drama of, xxvii, 158, 165-8, 178; Dennis on, 184-96; Johnson on, 185; Shelley on, 341; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 135; xxxix, 227

Cato, Gaius, Cicero on, ix, 97, 99

Cato, Dionysius, alleged author of Caton, xxxix, 15

Cato the Censor, on agriculture, ix, 63-5; x, 341; on Carthage, ix, 51; in Cicero's essay on OLD AGE, 10, 45-76; as club member, 61, 240; conciseness of, 205; on dreams, xl, 38, 39; on enemies and friends, ix, 39; Fabius Maximus and, 48-9; on feeding, x, 153; on friendships, ix, 35; Greek literature studied late by, 54; Greek philosophers and, iii, 194-5; knowledge of herbs, xxxv, 240; Livy on, iii, 100; Locke on, xxxvii, 175; Lucius Flaminus and, ix, 60; old age of, 46, 50, 56, 58-9, 61; on orators, 251; Origins of, 58, 72; quzstorship of, 48; Sidney on, xxvii, 12, 36-7; son of, ix, 12, 75, 168; Virgil on, xiii, 236; the wise, ix, n; on yeomen, xxxv, 229

Cato of Utica, Burke on, xxiv, 41, 91; Csesar and, xii, 270, 273-4, 275-282, 283, 307-8, 325-6, Czsar on, ix, 240; during Catiline conspiracy, xii, 235, 270; Cicero and, 236-7, 246-7, 249, 250-1, 261; Cicero's correspondence with, ix, 135, 152, 153; Cicero on, xxiv, 303; on Cicero, xxxii, 62; in Civil War, xii, 249, 250, 298-9, 306; Dante on, xx, 58, 146-8; death of, xii, 307-8; ix, 159; indictment for extortion, 115; Pompey and, 98; xii, 288-9; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 226; as a senator, ix, 88, 99; Sidney on, xxvii, 21; Virgil on, xiii, 17, 290

CATON, PROLOGUE TO, xxxix, 15-16

Catorthoseis, defined, ii, 227 (14)

Cats, breeds of, why impossible to improve, xi, 51-2; correlated variation in, 27, 148; in Egypt, xxxiii, 36-7; flowers dependent on, xi, 82; fruit trees injured by, xxix, 140-1; inherited mental qualities in, xi, 256; Jenner on, xxxviii, 145; in S. America, xxix, 126

Cattans, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 109-11, 113

Cattinaro (see Gattinara)

Cattle, color of, its importance, xi, 199; crosses between Indian and common, 292; descent of, 33, 41; in old Egypt, xxxiii, 25-6; iu Falkland Islands, xxix, 195-6; forests and, x, 170; grassgrowth and, xxix, 124; importation of foreign, x, 339, 342; insects and, xi, 80-1; as medium of exchange, x, 30; new breeds of, xi, 114; Niata, 219; xxix, 150-2; price of, in relation to agriculture, x, 183-4; recognition among, xxix, 150; trees and, xi, 80; as wealth, x, 312

Catullus, Gaius Valerius, Montaigne on, xxxii, 90; pet-bird of mistress of, xii, 368 note

Catulus, Quintus Lutatius, Caesar and, xii, 269; in Catiline conspiracy, 270; Clodius and, 242

Catulus, teacher of Aurelius, ii, 195 (13)

Caulfield, Capt., xxxiii, 315, 336, 337, 342, 343, 345, 351, 357, 363-4, 369, 372

Cauquenes, mineral springs of, xxix, 267-9

Cause and effect, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 192; in divine matters, xxxix, 104-6; Emerson on, v, 83, 90, 283-4; in human affairs, xxxvii, 352-62; Hume on, 307-18, 320-2, 330, 331, 333-4, 337-43, 346-50, 363-4 and note, 371-2, 396-7, 403 note, 405-6, 415; Hume's doctrine, Emerson on, v, 438; in ideas, xxxvii, 304-5, 327, 329; Lowell on, xxviii, 446; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 219 (45); in matter, xxxvii, 352-3; Raleigh on, xxxix, 100; Shelley on, xxvii, 338-9

Causes, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 236-7, 257; Browne on, iii, 265 (14); Burke on, xxiv, 103-4; definitions of, xxxvii, 3489, 364 note; Emerson on, v, 133; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 374-7; Hume on ignorance of, xxxvii, 332; Hume on ultimate, 310; Hunt on, xxvii, 290; identity of ancient and modern, xxxviii, 385, 417-8; as immediate volitions of God, xxxvii, 343-5; Lyell on uniformity of secondary, xxxviii, 386; Socrates on, ii, 89-95; Taine on moral, xxxix, 417; Whewell on, xi, i CAUTERETZ, THE VALLEY OF, xlii, 976 Caution, Confucius on, xliv, 22 (10); Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 82; mountain of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 124; Penn on, i, 334

Cautions, Penn's personal, i, 347-8

Cavalcanti, Cavalcante, Dante on, xx, 412

Cavalcanti, Guido, xx, 42 notes 6 and 7, 189 note 5

CAVALIER, SONG OF THE, xxviii, 392

Cavalletti, Scipione, xxxi, 17

Cava Rumia, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 416

Cave, Edward, Gentleman's Magazine of, i, 147

Cave-animals, blindness of, xi, 142-4

Cavendish, Henry, on gravitation, xxx, 281 Caves, use of, in NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 172-

Caviare, to the general, xlvi, 137

Cawdor, thane of, in MACBETH, xlvi, 323, 327, 328, 329

Caxton, William, life and works of, xxxix, 5, note; PREFACES AND EPILOGUES, 5-26; remarks on prologues of, 3

Caylen, Darwin on, xxix, 284

Cebes, friend of Socrates, ii, 33; book on virtue, iii, 240 and note 23; with Socrates in prison (see PHÆDO, Plato's)

Cecidomyia, Darwin on the, xi, 458

Cecil, Sir Robert, dedication to, xxxiii, 301-4

Cecil, William, xxxiii, 229, 247, 258

Cecilia, St., Dryden on, xl, 390, 395-6

CECILIA'S, ST., DAY, SONG FOR, xl, 389-96

Celamo, the Harpy, and Æneas, xiii, 136

Celandine, Wordsworth on the, xli, 614-15

Celano, Thomas a, DIES IRÆ, xlv, 551

Celer, Asinius, surmullet of, x, 182

Celer, friend of Pliny, ix, 305

Celer, Metellus, origin of name, xii, 156; wife of, 242

Celer, Roman knight, ix, 254

Celestial city, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 156-7

CELESTIAL SURGEON, THE, xlii, 1212-13

Celestine V, Dante on, xx, 14 note 2, 113 note 14

CELIA, by Sedley, xl, 384

CELIA, To, by Jonson, xl, 291-2

Celibacy, Calvin on, xxxix, 38; Luther on, xxxvi, 302-5; vows of, 302 note

Cellini, Andrea, xxxi, 8-9, 10

Cellini, Benvenuto, accident to eye, xxxi, 373; Alessandro de' Medici and, 149, 157, 172, 174; Altoviti, bust of, 383, 385; Angelica, the Sicilian, and, 127, 129, 135, 137; Anguillara, Count, and, 54; "Apollo and Hyacinth" of, 372; arabesques of, 60; arms of, 103; in artists' club, 55; Ascanio, servant of, 185-9, 212-3, 258, 261, 262, 265, 2778, 279, 304, 327, 335-6, 348, 351; AUTOBIOGRAPHY of, 5-436; AUTOBIOGRAPHY of, remarks on, 1-2; Baldini and, 399; Bandinello and, 364-5, 367-71; banishment of, 16; Benedetto and, 132-3; Benintendi and, 150-3; birth and family, 5-9; bronze statues, first, 288-90; brother of, 15-16, 19; brother's death, 98-106; CAPITOLO ON THE PRISON, 251-7; Caterina and, 305-9, 312-16, 318; Charles V and, 178, 1801; childhood of, 10-11; "Christ" of, 417, 419, 433-4 and note; Clement, Pope, early relations with, 16, 40-1, 45. 73. 76, 78-80; Clement, in service of, 86-95, 98, 104, 105-17, 119-26, 133. 135. 139-42; coin designs by, 945, 98, 146, 156-7, 309, 312; Comte de Saint Paul and, 333; Cosimo de' Medici and, 341-50, 354-5. 357-68, 372-8, 383, 386-93. 395-404. 405-9, 409-21, 429-31, 433-6; country-house at Trespiano, 423 note; daughter by Jeanne Scorzone, 318-19; dog of, 106, no, 175, 229; escape from prison, 215-22; Etampes, Mine, d', and, 292-3, 296-8, 300-1, 310, 322, 325, 328-30; Farnese, Pier, and, 339-40; Faustina's maid and, 52; in Ferrara, 268-73; Ferrara, Cardinal, and, 201-2, 258-62, 275-6; fever in Florence, 377-9; Fontainebleau, work at, 288-9, 294, 295-6, 301, 318-19; France, journey to, 188-195; in France, 195-7, 274-5, 279-82, 299-300, 302-3, 323-4; France, queen of, and, 434-5; Francis First and, 196-7, 201-2, 207-8, 212, 249, 261, 269, 274-5, 278-96, 300, 309-10, 312, 317, 319-35, 348, 350-2, 374; Giovanni Gaddi and, 97, in, 133-4, 160, 164-6, 167; Galluzzi and, 250; Gambetta and, 355-6; Giacomo da Carpi and, 50-2; Guasconti and, 28-32; Guidi and, 298-9, 422; halo of, 251; Holy Land, intentions to visit, 277-8; II Bologna and, 310-12, 314; imprisonment of, 203-22; imprisonment, second, 227-50; at the inn, 154-5; Jeanne Scorzone and, 318-19; Julius III and, 385; "Jupiter " of, 279, 282, 288, 324-6; pedestal for "Jupiter," 292, 324, 331; "Jupiter," exhibition of, 324-6; life after 1562, 2; Lippi, Francesco, and, 24, 28; Lo Sbietta and, 421-7, 428-30, 431-3; Lucagnolo and, 35-8; Luigi Pulci and, 62-8; "Mars" of, 295, 310 note 2, 326-7, 331; medals by, 45-6, 48, 61-2, 85-6, 126, 139-40, 157, 174-5, 189-90, 268-9; Medici, Cardinal de', and, 139; Michael Angelo and, 24, 85-6, 384, 386; minor works, 24, 26-7, 28, 34, 35, 42, 51, 61, 90-3, 103, 112, 119, 179, 181-3, 258-60, 279, 289; mistress in Rome, 106; monument to brother, 103; Moro's daughter and, 96-8; musical training, n, 12, 13, 15, 17-18, 21-2, 39; musician to the Pope, 40-1; "Narcissus" of, 372-3; necromancy, practised by, 127-31; "Neptune" of, 414-21, 423, 427, 428, 434-5; Pantasilea and, 55-6; Pascucci and, 200-1; Paul, Pope, and, 145-6, 159, 163-4, 178-80, 183-5, 202-3, 207-9, 212, 213, 222-3, 225-6, 227-8, 232, 239-40, 243, 244-5, 249-50; Paulino and, 39-40, 42; "Perseus" of, 342 notes 3 and 4, 348, 354, 358, 373, 375-8, 379:83, 397, 400-3, 406-8, 409-12; pilgrimage of thanksgiving, 404-5; Pompeo and, 121, 125-6, 133, 135, 142-4; Pompeo's daughter and, 146-9; Porzia Chigi and, 34-5, 36-7, 38, 45; prophecies of, 1767, 251; pulpits for S. Maria del Fiore, 413-4; reliquary for Mantua, 82; restorations by, 367, 372, 374, 395, 398; robbery of, attempted, 285-7; in Rome, 24-8, 33-4, 174-6, 383-6; among Roman ruins, 49, 50; in sack of Rome, 69-80, 206-7; Salamanca, Bishop of, and, 34, 38, 41-6; in Siena, trouble with postmaster, 263-7; in Siennese war, 392-5, 405-6; sick with plague, 53-4; sister of, 81-2, 267, 341; soldier of Ceri and, 46-7; son of, 364-5; SONNET ON His LIFE, 4; SONNET TO CASTELLAN, 244; Taine on memoirs of, xxxix, 435; Torrigiani, relations with, xxxi, 22-4; Vasari and, 172-3; in Venice, 149-53, 356-7

Cellini, Cecchino, brother of Benvenuto, xxxi, 15, 19, 84, 88 note i; Bargello guard and, 99-100; death of, 102; duel and exile, 15-16; monument, 103

Cellini, Cosa, xxxi, 81-2

Cellini, Cristofano, xxxi, 7-8

Cellini, Giovanfrancesco (see Cellini, Cecchino)

Cellini, Giovanni, father of Benvenuto, xxxi, 8-13, 14, 16, 18, 19, 20-2, 32-3, 39, 41-2, 80-1; death of, 83; the Eight and, 39, 81; the Medici and, 88 note; Pierino and, 17-19

Cellini, Liperata, xxxi, 83-4, 167, 341, 349.

Cellini, Luca, xxxi, 7

Cellino, Fiorino da, xxxi, 6

Celsus, Aulus Cornelius, Bacon on, iii, 82; Milton on, 241 note 33; on care of stomach, ix, 354 note

Celsus, governor of Cilicia, xxviii, 60

Celsus, the philosopher, Pascal on, xlviii, 194 (597), 269 (770)

Celtchar, the Luin of, xlix, 238

CELTIC RACES, POETRY OF THE, xxxii, 135-182

Celtic Races, Christianity and, xxxii, 170-81; Emerson on the, v, 338, 342; future of, xxxii, 181-2; Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 22; literature of the, xxxii, 141-70; mythology of, 153-5; Renan on character of the, 137-44

Cemetery Ridge, at Gettysburg, xliii, 336

CENCI, THE, by Shelley, xviii, 281-356; editorial remarks on, 272; story of the, 275-6

Cenci, Beatrice, arrest of, xviii, 334-7; assassins and, 344-51; at banquet, 289-94; Bernardo and, 355-6; Camillo and, 282-3; Count Cenci and, 285, 297-8, 309-13, 320-5; condemned to death, 353-6; Giacomo and, 316-17; Lucretia and, 294-7, 33 l '35 madness of, 305-9; Orsino and, 286-8, 309-13; portrait of, by Guido, 278-9; in prison, 346-51; Shelley on character of, 278-9; trial of, 340-6

Cenci, Bernardo, Beatrice and, xviii, 2947, 346-9, 355-6; Count Cenci and, 298, 322, 332-3; Lucretia and, 294-7; Pope and, 351-2

Cenci, Cristofano, sent to Salamanca, xviii, 285; death announced 289-90

Cenci, Count Francesco, banquet of, xviii, 288-94; Beatrice and, 285, 296, 297-8, 320-6; Cardinal Camillo and, 281-5; chapel built by, 277; Lucretia and, 298-9, 320-2; murdered, 328-30; plots against, 312-16, 319-20

Cenci, Giacomo, accused by Marzio, xviii, 341; Beatrice and, 316-17, 347-51, 354; Camillo and, 300-1; Orsino and, 301-3, 313-20, 337-9

Cenci, Lucretia, accused by Marzio, xviii, 341; arrest of, 334-7; at the banquet, 289; Beatrice and, 295-7, 305-13, 326-30, 331-3, 347-50, 354; Bernardo and, 294; Count Cenci and, 298-9, 320-5; remarks on religion of, 277-8

Cenci, Rocco, son of Francesco, xviii, 285, 289-90

Cenci Palace, Shelley on, xviii, 279

Cennini, Bastiano, xxxi, 158

Censorinus, Plutarch on, xii, 147

CENSORIOUS CRITIC, Burns's REPLY TO A, vi, 276

Censoriousness, Burns on, vi, 183-5; Kempis on, vii, 243 (i, 2); Jesus on, xliv, 370 (41-2); Locke on, xxxvii, 121 ; M. Aurelius on, ii, 289-90, 297 (12); Moliere on, xxvi, 215; Penn on, i, 346 (274), 395; Raleigh on, xxxix, 69; Sidney on, xxvii, 30-1

Censors, duties of Roman, ix, 398 note 2

Censorship, Milton on government, iii, 206-10

Censorship of Press, Milton on, iii, 189-232; Pascal on, xlviii, 314-15

Censure, Browne on, iii, 316-7; Heminge and Condell on, xxxix, 148; man's dislike of, ii, 140-1 (67); Marcus Aurelius on endurance of, 195 (13), 269 (27), 271 (34); Pascal on human dislike of, xlviii, 44-5

Census (U. S.), provisions for taking, xliii, 180-1 (3)

Centano, Andrea, xxxi, 227-8

Centaurs, beginning of their feud with men, xxii, 292; in Dante's HELL, xx, 50; Theseus and, 245 note

Centralization, Mill on, xxv, 120-1, 307-12

Cephalos, the Attic boy, iv, 37

Cephas, Peter called, xx, 377 note 16; Christ's appearance to, xlv, 511 (4)

Cephisophon, in THE FROGS, viii, 484

Cerbaia, Orso da, xx, 166 note 6

Cerbellon, Gabriel, xiv, 388

Cerberus, Æneas and, xiii, 221; in Dante's HELL, xx, 25-6; Hercules and, 38 and note

Cerchi, Veri de', head of Bianchi faction, xx, 27 note 4

Cerealis, letter to, ix, 226

Ceremonies, Browne on religious, iii, 255 (3); Confucius on, xliv, 9 (4), ii (15); Hume on religious, xxxvii, 328; Locke on excess of, 123-4; Luther on religious, xxxvi, 372-8; Montaigne on, xviii, 14; Pascal on religious, xlviii, 92-3 (250-2); Penn on religious, i, 363

(507), 387 (175); Rousseau on religions, xxxiv, 282-3, 302-3; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 204, note 35, 358; lead to superstition, iii, 45-6; Swift on, xxvii, 100-1

CEREMONIES, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 124-6

Ceres, daughter of (see Proserpine); Proserpine and, iv, 161; in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 446-7

Ceri, Rienzo da, xxxi, 46 note 2, 70

Ceroxylus laceratus, xi, 225

Certainty, Descartes on, xxxiv, 29; impossibility of, xlviii, 30, 128 (387), M7 (437) ;; Pascal on, 87-8 (234)

Certus, Publicius, ix, 340-3

Cervantes, Miguel de, author of DON QUIXOTE, xiv; captivity of, 393-4; Galatea of, 54; Hugo on, xxxix, 351; life and works of, xiv, 3-4; SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 131-2

Cervolles, Arnaud de, xxxv, 39 note 4, 47

Cesano, Gabriel, xxxi, 259 note 3, 260, 261

Ceserino, Gabbriello, Gonfalonier of Rome, xxxi, 45

CESSATION, THE TRANCE OF, xlv, 731-7

Cethegus, Caius, in Catiline conspiracy, xii, 269, 230-232; executed, 235, 243

Cethegus, Marcus, old age of, ix, 63

Ceylon, slavery not practised in, xxxv, 226 note

Chacao, Chili, xxix, 278-9

Chachidiablo, on Don Quixote, xiv, 515

Chaerephon, Plato on, ii, 8

Chaeronea, Demosthenes at battle of, xii, 206; iv, 79

Chafing Gear, defined, xxiii, 19

Chagos Islands, xxix, 482

Chagres, river, xxxiii, 143-4

Chalk Formations, Darwin on, xi, 357-8

Chalmers, on the public, xxviii, 126

CHALMERS, WILLIE: a song, vi, 227-8

Chalybe, priestess of Juno, xiii, 254

Chalybes, the, viii, 192 and note 43

Cham, Amalthea and, iv, 161

Chama, shells of the, xxix, 464

Chamavians, Tacitus on, xxxiii, in

CHAMBERED NAUTILUS, THE, xlii, 1365-6

Chamberland, THE GERM THEORY, xxxviii, 269, 364-70

Chamisso, on coral islands, xxix, 471; on seeds, 459; on transported stones, 465 Chamois Hunter, in MANFRED, xviii, 417-22

Chamois Hunter, song of, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 380-1

Chamouni, glacier of, xxx, 217-19, 222-3

CHAMOUNI, HYMN IN THE VALE OF, xli, 707-9

Champlain, Lake, naval forces on, xliii, 266

Chance, in Chaos, iv, 131-33; Emerson on, v, 83; Hume on, xxxvii, 332, 364; Pope on, xl, 415; providence in, iii, 268-9; Sophocles on, viii, 293; in thoughts, xxxix, 119

Chancellorsville, Haskell on, xliii, 327

Chandos, Sir John, in French invasion, xxxv, 18-19; Lord Clermont and, 40-1; at Crecy, 24; at Poitiers, 43, 45, 52

Ch'ang-chii, Confucius on, xliv, 62 (6)

Change, Carlyle on, xxv, 350-2; Confucius on, xliv, 53 (36), 57 (3); dread of, v, 94-5; Emerson on, xlii, 1261; Goethe on, xxxix, 259; Hooker on, 185-6; the law of the universe, ii, 218 (36), 219 (42, 43), 245-6 (18, 19, 23), 246 (25), 249 (47), 254 (6), 268 (19), 276-7 (7), 278 (ii), 279 (18), vi, 502; xxix, 497-8; Lowell on, xlii, 138-67; Lyell on uniformity of, xxxviii, 398-418; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 200 (3), 212-3 (3); Pascal on, pleasure of, xlviii, 119-20 (355); Shakespeare on, xl, 274; tendency to, xi, 345-6, 304; Tennyson on, xlii, 992 (see also Innovation, Vicissitude)

Changelings, legerdemain of, iii, 282

Channa, charioteer of Buddha, xlv, 644-5

Channing, Dr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 251

Channing, Edward T., cousin of R. H. Dana, xxiii, 398-9

Channing, William Ellery, Coleridge on, v, 319; life and character of, xxviii, 308; ON THE LABORING CLASSES, 309-367

CHANSON DE ROLAND, xlix, 93-195; Arnold on, xxviii, 70-1

Chanticleer, in NUN'S PRIEST'S TALE, xl f 35-51

Chao, Duke, xliv, 23 (30) note 8

Chao of Sung, xliv, 20 (14)

Chaos, Descartes on, under natural laws, xxxiv, 36-7; Milton's description of, iv, 131-3

Chapelain, Jean, Corneille and, xxxix, 362-3; Dryden on, xiii, 13

Chapman, George, Arnold on, xxviii, 81; Dryden on, xiii, 62; on man, v, 176

CHAPMAN'S HOMER, ON FIRST LOOKING INTO, xli, 895-6

Character, beauty and, v, 310; Browne on outward signs of, iii, 312-3; circumstances and, xxv, 106; concealment of, impossible, v, 285; consistency of, 66; culture and, xxxii, 236-7, 254-5; discernment of, v, 142; education and natural, xxxvii, 44-5; force of, cumulative, v, 67; influence of, in our civilization, 248; Locke on the native, xxxvii, 84-5; maker of its own forms, v, 206; M. Aurelius on, ii, 217 (28), 288 (15); Mill on, xxv, 255; the supreme end, v, 248; talent and, contrasted, 159

CHARACTER, ESSAY ON, Emerson's, v, 183-197

CHARACTERISTICS, Carlyle's, xxv, 319-56; remarks on, 317

Charaxos, and Rhodopis, xxxiii, 67, 68

Charcoal, combustion of, xxx, 158-9

Charesha, island of, xxxiii, 144, 156

CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE, Tennyson's, xlii, 1005-7

Charity, Bacon on, iii, 33-4, 90; xxxix, 129; Browne on, iii, 310, 312, 313-14, 330; Dante on, xx, 205-6, 395-7; Dante's allegory of, 265 note 11; Dante's star of, 177 note 9; David on, xliv, 193-4; Emerson on popular, v, 63; Emerson on relating our, 130; Herbert on, xv, 408; Hobbes's definition of, xxxiv, 340; Kempis on works of, vii, 218-9; Luther on, xxxvi, 248, 254; method or, iii, 256; Milton on, iv, 356; More on, xxxvi, 198; offences against, iii, 314-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 187-8, 220 (663, 665), 274-5 (793) 275-6; Paul, St., on, xlv, 508 (1-13); Penn on, i, 327, 360 (469-70), 396-7; pleasure from, xix, 41; Pope on, xl, 430, 439; pure and sentimental, xviii, 179

Charity, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 54-6

Charity, Mount, xv, 291

Charixenus, and Endamidas, xxxii, 81

Charlatanism, Arnold on, xxviii, 66

Charlemagne, and the Church, xx, 308; in Dante's PARADISE, 362; division of empire of, iii, 139; extinction of race of, xxxix, 801 ; at Fontarabbia, iv, 102; HYMN attributed to, xlv, 547-8; one of nine worthies, xxxix, 20; the Northmen and, v, 342; in Spain, xlix, 94

Charlemagne, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 94

Charles I, of Anjou, abilities of, xx, 173 note n; Conradine and, 115 note 3, 227 note 10 ; Machiavelli on success of, xxxvi, 41; Nicholas, Pope, and, xx, 80 note 9; Thomas Aquinas and, 227 note 11; victories in Italy, 66 note i, 115 notes; wife of, 174 note 14

Charles I, of England ("martyr"), controversy over, iv, 4-5; Drake to, xxxiii, 125; on English law, v, 422; execution of, place of, xxxix, 359; fondness for plays, xxxiv, 153; Harvey and, xxxviii, 60; Marvell on death of, xl, 374; Milton on, xxviii, 187; Swift on reign of, xxvii, 98; Vane on, xliii, 121, 125-6; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 87

Charles II, of England, Emerson on, v, 402; Hobbes and, xxxiv, 308; Milton on restoration of, iv, 5; Presbyterians and, xxxiv, 81; Puritans and, xxvii, 136; Quakers and, xxxiv, 73-4; Shelley on drama under, xxvii, 341-2; Waller and, xxxiv, 145-6

CHARLES II, EPITAPH ON, xl, 383

Charles II of Naples, Dante on, xx, 174 note 13, 227 note 14, 309 note 24, 368 note 11

Charles V, Emperor, Adrian, Pope, and, xxxvi, 102; Clement VII and, xxxi, 114 note 5; on Eraso, xv, 327; France, passage of, through, xxxi, 321 and note; at Landresy, xxxviii, 17; Luther on, xxxvi, 246, 263; melancholy of, iii, 49; at Metz, xxxviii, 23-4, 26, 29-32; More, Thomas, on, xxxvi, 134; the Netherlands and, xix, 252; Raleigh on, xxxix, 86; Rome, visit of, to, xxxi, 178-9; Ruysum in EGMONT on, xix, 255; Seldius and, xxxix, 91; at Therouenne, xxxviii, 34-43; in triumvirate of kings, iii, 50; Valdesso and, xv, 412-3; war with Francis I, xxxi, 68 note, 328 note i, 334 note i; wealth of, xxxiii, 307

Charles V, in DR. FAUSTUS, xix, 233, 236-9

Charles VI of France, Duke of Guelders and, xxxv, 100; Voltaire on wars under, xxxiv, 87

Charles VII, organizes national army, xxxvi, 47

Charles IX of France, in Bayonne, xxxviii, 49-50; at Bourges, 46-7; at Havre de Grace, 49; Navarre, King of, and, 47-8; Pare and, 48-9, 50-1, 52; Raleigh on, xxxix, 83; Voltaire on reign of, xxxiv, 87

Charles, Duke of Alengon, xxxv, 27, 29, 30

Charles of Almaine, in Crecy campaign, xxxv, 11-12, 28-9

Charles the Bald, son of Debonnaire, xxxix, 82

Charles of Burgundy, secrecy of, iii, 68

Charles the Fat, xxxix, 82-3

Charles of Lorraine, xx, 226 note 7

Charles of Luxembourg, at Crecy, xxxv, 28-9

Charles Martel, king of Hungary, xx, 315-9

Charles the Simple, xxxix, 82-83

Charles of Valois, and the empire, xx, 309 note 24; in Florentine troubles, 27 note 8, 227 note 12

Charles, Elizabeth, translator, xlv, 559

Charles, Mr., agent of Pennsylvania, i, 159, 162

Charles Island, Galapagos group, xxix, 379

Charles's Wain (see Wain)

CHARLES, KING, HERE'S A HEALTH TO, xli, 754-5

CHARLIE, HE'S MY DARLING, vi, 489

CHARLIE IS MY DARLING, xli, 566

CHARMING MONTH OF MAY, vi, 504

Charmion, maid of Cleopatra, xii, 368; death of, 387

Charmion, in ALL FOR LOVE, xviii, 39-41, 71-2, 75, 88, 90, 100, 102-5

Charms, Burns on immortal, vi, 289; origin of term, xxvii, 8-9

Charny, Sir Geoffrey, xxxv, 51

CHARON, THE REFUSAL OF, xli, 917-18

Charon, Æneas and, xiii, 220-1; Dante on, xx, 15-16; description of, xiii, 217-8; Dirce and, xli, 899; reference to, viii, 443

Charon, in THE FROGS, viii, 444-5

Charondas, iii, 242 note 46

Charron, Montaigne and, xxxii, 105; Pascal on, xlviii, 24 (62); on reason, xxxix, 99-100; on religious creeds, xxxiv, 284 note

Chartel, Capt., xxxviii, 18

Chartism, and the Times, v, 448-9

Chartist Day, nobility on, v, 408

Charybdis, and Circe's song, iv, 51; description of, xiii, 141-2; Ulysses at, xxii, 167-8, 172-3

Chase, Mohammed on the, xlv, 994-1004; Pascal on the, xlviii, 53-4; value of the, to princes, xxxvi, 49

Chassoygnet, the tree, xxxix, 12

Chaste women, often forward, iii, 22

Chastillon, M. de, xxxviii, 18

Chastisement of children, xxxvii, 34, 35-7. 38-3940, 41, 56, 60-63, 65-68, 93-94

Chastisements of heaven, Woolman on, i, 237

Chastity, beauty and, xlvi, 145; Franklin's rule of, i, 80; Jonson on, xl, 296; Pascal on, xlviii, 127 (385); Paul, St., on, xlv, 499 (25-6); "she that has," iv, 55-6; spirit of, in NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 168; sun-clad power of, iv, 65; "unblemished form of," 50

Chasuarians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 111

Chateau le Comte, xxxviii, 21-3

Chateaubriand, Carlyle on, xxv, 425; on criticism, xxxix, 385; Taine on, 414

Chateauneuf, John of, xxxv, 96, 100

Chatelet, court of, Burke on, xxiv, 340

Chatham Island, Darwin on, xxix, 377-9

Chatham, Lord, better than his speeches, v, 183; on confidence, 371; and the dictionary, 169; reference to, 167

Chatterton, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; SAXON POEMS of, xxxix, 329; Shelley on, xli, 867; SONG FROM ÆLLA, xli, 558-9; Wordsworth on, 659

Chaucer, Geoffrey, Arnold, Matthew, on, xxviii, 76-81; Boccaccio and, xxxix, 171; CANTERBURY TALES, PROLOGUE TO, xl, 11-34; Caxton on, xxxix, 18-20; Dido, his picture of, v, 276; Dryden on, xxxix, 154-5, J 59-72 ; Emerson on, v, 144, 181, 433; Froissart and, xxxv, 6, on good blood, v, 176; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 271-2; NUN'S PRIEST'S TALE, xl, 34-51; Ovid, compared with, xxxix, 154, 159-162; reference to, iv, 36-7; Ruskin on, xxviii, 142; Shakespeare and, xxxix, 229-30; Shelley on, xxvii, 350; Sidney on, 6-7, 42; sources of his tales, xxxix, 159-61, 172; Thoreau on, xxviii, 413; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 330; Wordsworth on language of, 272 note

Chaucians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 112

Chaumber, Christopher, xlii, 1161

Chaurias, ii, 259

Chaussier, on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 247

Cheagle, John, i, 182

Cheating, impossibility of, v, 98-9

Chebar, Milton on, iv, 24 (6)

Checks and Balances, Washington on, xliii, 241-3

Cheek, Sir John, Milton on, iv, 80

CHEER UP, MY MATES, xl, 366

Cheerfulness, in music, xli, 478; Penn on, i, 334 (JI 9); i n prosperity, no credit, vii, 247 (i)

Cheiron, and Prometheus, viii, 203 note 69

Chemical affinity, capacity of, to do work, xxx, 200-5; converted to heat and light, 58-9, 201-2, 202; correlation with electricity, 73-82, 202-4; defined, 47; illustrations of, 47-60; measurement of, 208

CHEMICAL HISTORY OF A CANDLE, xxx, 86-170

Chemistry, Huxley on study of, xxviii, 221

Chemmis, island of, xxxiii, 79; worship of Perseus in, 44-5

Chemos, description of, iv, 98

Ch'en Ch'eng, xliv, 48 (22)

Ch'en Wen, xliv, 16-17

Chenab, sediment of the, xxxviii, 402

Chenier, Marie-Joseph, on reason, xxxii, 125

Cheops, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 63-4

Chephren, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 64-5

Cherbourg, taking of, by Edward III, xxxv, 10, ii note

Chernubles, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 125-36

Cherries, Locke on eating of, xxxvii, 20-1

CHERRY-RIPE, by Campion, xl, 284

CHERRY-RIPE, by Herrick, xl, 334

Cherubim, the, in Heaven, iv, 40, 10 (n)

Cherubino, Maestro, xxxi, 262, 265-6, 267

Cheruscans, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 112-13

Chess, among Mohammedans, xlv, 1003 note 12

Chesterfield, Lord, Johnson's letter to, xxxix, 206-7, *82 note; lines ascribed to, 308; on truth in gentlemen, v, 374

Cheucau, Darwin on the, xxix, 292, 282

CHEVALIER'S LAMENT, THE, vi, 305

CHEVY CHASE, xl, 93-101; Johnson on, xxvii, 197-8

Chi, Confucius on the, xliv, 9-10 (i, 6) 20 (22), 34 (16), 54 (i)

Chi Huan, xliv, 61 (4)

Chi K'ang, xliv, 8 (20), 19 (6), 34 (6), 39 (17) note (18, 19), 47 (20)

Ch'i-tiao K'ai, xliv, 15 (5)

Chi Tzu-ch'eng, xliv, 38 (8)

Chi Tzu-jan, xliv, 35 (23)

Chi Wen, xliv, 17 (19)

Chiana, river, xx, 120 note 2, 339

Chicheley, Henry, xxxv, 381

Chicken-pox, and smallpox, xxxviii, 173

Chicken Cholera, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 374

Chickens, counting, before they're hatched, xvii, 42; Harvey on incubation of, xxxviii, 84, 85-6; incubation of, 127; instinctive fears of, xi, 257-8

Chiding of children, Locke on, xxxvii, 40-1, 42-3, 48-50, 60-1, 63-4, 90-1, 94

Chidley, Mr., on Dr. Donne, xv, 343

Chief Justice, presides at impeachment of president, xliii, 182 (6)

Chieh-yu, xliv, 61 (5)

Chieh-ni, xliv, 62 (6)

Chien, Duke, xliv, 48 (22) note

Chigi, Agostino, xxxi, 34 note 4

Chigi, Porzia, and Cellini, xxxi, 34-8, 45

Chih, music-master, xliv, 26 (15)

Chilaway, Job, i, 264-5

Child is father of the man, xli, 600

CHILD, ON A NEW-BORN, xli, 580

CHILD OF QUALITY, To A, xl, 396-7

CHILD'S GRACE, A, xl, 334

Childbirth, Browne on curse of, iii, 261 (10); Holmes on, xxxviii, 242-3, 251-3; Pasteur on, 380-1

Childeric III, xx, 226 note 7

Childhood, intimations of immortality in, xli, 595-600; shows the man, iv, 400; wisdom sends us to, xlviii, 97 (271)

Children, Arabian proverb on, xvi, 345-6; Bacon on, iii, 21-2, xl, 349; confidence of, v, 61-2; Confucius on, xliv, 5 (6); Dante on, and parents, xx, 317-19; De Quincey on griefs of, xxvii, 320; fable on training of, xvii, 28-9; Goethe on fashioning of, xix, 355; ingratitude of, Lear on, xlvi, 237, 238, 268; Jesus on, xliv, 401 (15-17); liberties of, in Massachusetts, xliii, 77-8; Locke on training of, xxxvii, 9-184; memory's voices, viii, 98; Mill on control of, xxv, 302; misfortune made harder by, vi, 224; Montaigne on, and parents, xxxii, 73-5; Penn on training of, i, 384; the Psalmist on, xliv, 310 (3-5); in Utopia, xxxvi, 183-4, 186-7, 192

CHILDREN, by Longfellow, xlii, 1279-80

CHILDREN, DEATHS OF LITTLE, xxvii, 285-288

CHILDREN, INSTITUTION AND EDUCATION OF, xxxii, 29-71

CHILDREN AND PARENTS, Bacon's ESSAY ON, iii, 19-21

CHILDREN'S HOUR, THE, xlii, 1294-5

Chile, climate of, xxix, 250; Darwin on, 257-365 ; horses in, 158-9; Lyell on earthquakes in, xxxviii, 390; Pretty on coast of, xxxiii, 208-9

Chileus the Arcadian, xii, 10

Chillingworth, Locke on, xxxvii, 159

CHILLON, ON THE CASTLE OF, xli, 811

CHILLON, THE PRISONER OF, xli, 801-811

Chiloe, climate and productions of, xxix, 248-50; Darwin on, 277-82, 295-301; orchard-making in, 301-2

Chimaera, reference to, xiii, 217

Chimaera, statue called, xxxi, 395

Chimango, Darwin on the, xxix, 63-5

Chimborazo, Emerson on, v, 164-5

Chimneys, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 298

China, ancient government of, xliv, 66 note i; ancient ordnance in, iii, 139-40; ancient, selection in, xi, 45; ancient shipping of, iii, 157; cause of early civilization of, x, 25; inoculation in, xxxiv, 97; law against visitors in, iii, 160-1; Mill on unprogressiveness of, xxv, 266-7; Pascal on history of, xlviii, 192-4; Smith on conditions in, x, 73; state of wealth of, 97-8, 295; women of, xxxvii, 15-16

CHINESE SACRED WRITINGS, xliv, 5-67 Ching, Duke, xliv, 39 (n), 42 (8), 56 (12), 61 (3)

Chioccia, Bartolommeo, xxxi, 304, 313

Chionis Alba, xxix, 101

Chiostra, Ulivieri della, xxxi, 20

Chiromancy, Browne on, iii, 313; Jonson on, xlvii, 560

Chiron, iii, 306; with the Argonauts, xxxiv, 129-30; the Centaur, xxxvi, 57; in Dante's HELL, xx, 50-1; his refusal of immortality, xxxii, 27

Chironomus, asexual reproduction of, xi, 458

Chiu, Duke, xliv, 47 (17) note

Chivalry, Burke on age of, xxiv, 212-13;

Cervantes on books of, xiv, 473-7, 481, 487-8; Don Quixote's defence of, 488-94; examples of romances of, 48-54; order of, for girls and boys, xxviii, 157 note; Renan on origin of, xxxii, 158-9; romances of, parodied by Cervantes, xiv, 3, 9; Ruskin on, xxviii, 143-4 (see also Knight-errantry)

Chlorate of potash, experiments with, xxx, 53-4

Chloreus, the priest, xiii, 383-4

Chloride of calcium, experiment with, xxx, 54 note 18

Chloris, in Hades, xxii, 152

Chloris, sonnets to, xiv, 331

CHLORIS, ON, vi, 498

CHLORIS BEING ILL, vi, 532

CHLORIS, INSCRIPTION TO, vi, 541

CHLORIS, Sedley's, xl, 383-4

Choaspes, river, iv, 391

Chochilaicus, Danish king, xlix, 3

CHŒPHORÆ (see LIBATION-BEARERS)

Choiseul, Duke de, Burke on estate of, xxiv, 249

Choler, Bacon on, iii, 93

Chonos Archipelago, Darwin on, xxix, 285-294

Chorazin, Jesus on, xliv, 381 (13)

Chorus, the, in tragedy, iv, 412-13

Chorus of Captive Women (see LIBATIONBEARERS, viii)

Chorus, of Dinites (see SAMSON AGONISTES, iv)

Chorus of Frogs (see FROGS, THE, viii)

Chorus of Trozenian Women (see HIPPOL YTUS, viii)

Chorus of Furies (see FURIES, THE, viii)

Chorus of Huntsmen (see HIPPOLYTUS, viii)

Chorus of Initiated Persons (see FROGS, THE, viii)

Chorus of Inspired Damsels (see BACCH.'E, THE, viii)

Chorus of Old Men (see AGAMEMNON, viii)

Chorus of Priests and Suppliants (see CEoiPus THE KING, viii)

Chorus of Theban Elders (see ANTIGONE, viii)

Chou, Chinese dynasty, xliv, 9 note 9, ii (14)

Chou, Duke of, xliv, 21 (5) note, 26 (n), 63 (10, n)

Chou, Emperor, xliv, 61 note i, 65 (20), 66 (i) note, 67 note

Chriemhild (see Grimhild)

Christ, Arnold on, xlii, 1138-9; Augustine, St., on, vii, 54-5, 74, 108-9, II 4'5196-7; Bacon on prophecy of, iii, 91; Bunyan on, xv, 56-7, 212-16, 285-6; Calvin on, xxxix, 48-50; Church doctrine of, xlviii, 328; Clement, St., on, xlv, 541-2; the "Counsellor," iii, 52; Dante on, xx, 311-3, 340 note 6; in Dante's PARADISE, 383-6; as David's son, xliv, 407 (41-4); genealogies of, 190-1; Greek Hymn on, xlv, 541; Hell visited by, xx, 35 note, 49 note; Herbert on, xv, 401-2; Hugo on, xxxix, 343; Jewish rejection of, xlviii, 266-7 (760-2); Jews in NEW ATLANTIS on, iii, 167; John the Baptist on, xliv, 361 (15-17); Keble on, xlv, 565-6; the kingdom of, xxxvi, 276; Lessing on, xxxii, 197-8, 201-2; Luther on, xxxvi, 345, 347, 356-9; Luther on belief in, 346-8, 350-4, 355-6, 358-9; Moses's prophecy of, xliv, 437 (37); Niceta of Remisiana on, xlv, 546-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 155 (466), 159-60 (483), 166 (512), 170 (526-8), 174-80 (543, 545-54), 182, 183, 194 (596), 194 (599, 600), 197-8 (607, 609), 220 (665), 220-1 (666, 668), 222 (670), 225-6, 267-9 (764-74), 270 (776) 271 (780, 781-5), 276 (794-7), 277 (800), 284 (822), 295 (846), 332-4, 348-9; Paul, St., on, xxxvi, 366-8; Penn on, i, 359 (456); Platonists on, vii, 107-8; proofs of, 254-72; prophecies of, xlviii, 186-9, 201, 202 (616-17), 204-5, 214, 215 (644), 218 (656), 219 (659), 219-20 (662), 222 (670), 231, 234-5 (701, 706), 236-8 (707-12), 244 (715), 245 (720), 247-8, 251-9, 263 (744), 263 (749), 264-6 (751-8, 761), 287, 292-3; Quakers on, i, 190; second coming of, xliv, 388-390 (35-59), 399-400 (2237), 400 (8), 408 (8-n), 409 (2536); second coming of, Browne on, iii, 277; "unconscious prophecies" of, viii, 197 note 59, 203 note 69; Vane on, xliii, 122 (see also Jesus)

Christ, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 137-46, 1956, 199, 221-7, 231-43, 292-7, 319-20; Bagehot on Milton's, xxviii, 195-9

Christ, in PARADISE REGAINED, iv, 359-411

CHRIST, IMITATION OF, Kempis's, vii, 201-364

CHRIST'S NATIVITY, ON THE MORNING OF, iv, 7-15

CHRISTABEL, by Coleridge, xli, 709-28

Christian, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv; ancestors of, 264-5; Apollyon and, 59-64; Atheist and, 137-8; at Beautiful Palace, 49-51, 56-8; in Beulah-land, 156-8; burden of, 13, 42; By-ends and, 102-6; charity and, 54-6; death of, 159-60; in Delectable Mountains, 122-6; at Difficulty Hill, 45-6; in Enchanted Ground, 138-9; Evangelist and, 14-15, 24-8, 89-96; Faithful and, 70-90; Flatterer and, 135-7; Formalist and Hypocrisy with, 43-5; Giant Despair and, 116-22; Good-Will and, 29-32; on Guilt, Mistrust, and Faint-Heart, 133-4; Holdthe-world and, 108-9; Ignorance and, 126-8, 146-52; at Interpreter's House, 32-41; on Little-Faith, 128-32; on Lot's wife, 112-3; at Lucre Hill, 109-11; at Mount Sinai, 24; Obstinate and, 115-7; Piety and, 51-3; Pliable and, 15-19; Prudence and, 53-4; at River of Life, 113-14; Simple and Sloth with, 42; in Slough of Despond, 18-20; Talkative and, 81-9; Timorous and Mistrust with, 46-7; in valley of Humiliation, 59-242; in valley of the Shadow of Death, 65-9; at Vanity Fair, 91-7; Worldly Wiseman and, 21-4

Christian of Troyes, xxxv, 104; on the Bretons, xxxii, 180; on France, xxviii, 76; Renan on, xxxii, 147

CHRISTIAN BROKER, STORY OF THE, xvi, 120-33

Christian Church, Calvin on, xxxix, 40-3, 50; schools of early, xxxv, 269-70

CHRISTIAN CHURCH, HYMNS OF, xlv, 533-72

Christian Holy Days, xv, 403-4

CHRISTIAN LIBERTY, Luther on, xxxvi, 344-78; remarks on Luther's, 246

Christian Morality, Mill on, xxv, 242-6

CHRISTIAN SACRED LITERATURE, xliv, 351-486; xlv, 491-532

Christiana, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv; at Beautiful Palace, 224-7, 237-9; death of, 310-12; at Difficulty Hill, 218-20; dream of, 200; in Enchanted Ground, 301; Great-Heart and, 211-17; Honest and, 252; ill-favored ones and, 197-9; in Immanuel's Land, 285; at the Inn, 263; at Interpreter's House, 200-12; lions and, 222-3; Mercy and, 186-90, 194-5; at Mnason's Inn, 278-9; pilgrimage of, 180-4; in Slough of Despond, 190-1; song of, 196; Timorus and, 184-7; in valley of Humiliation, 240-3; in valley of Shadow of Death, 245-6; at wicket-gate, 191-2

Christianity, Bacon on, iii, 33; bardism and, xxxii, 168-9; Browne on, iii, 253 (2), 260 (9, 10), 278, 305; Carlyle on modern, xxv, 337-8; Celtic Races and, xxxii, 170-82; Channing on influence of, xxviii, 361; Dante on, and salvation, xx, 367-8; Emerson on, v, 30-7, 81, 155; and freedom of conscience, xliii, 122; Goethe on, xxv, 381; heathenisms in modern, v, 277-8; Hobbes on belief in, xxxiv, 347-8, 379; Hugo on, xxxix, 342-5; Hume on, xxxvii, 375, 391-2; Lessing on, xxxii, 197-202; Luther on, xxxvi, 368-9, 375-6; Manzoni on, xxi, 171; Marcus Aurelius and, xxv, 220-2; James Mill on, 29-31; J. S. Mill on, 235-6, 242-6; paganism in, v, 276; Pascal on, xlviii, 69, 84, 89 (241), 91 (245), 92 (251), 97 (269), 146, 148 (441, 444), 151 (450), 155 (468), 161 (491), 164 (503), 172 (537-8), 173 (542), 174 (544), 181-92, 193 (589), 195-6 (601), 197 (606), 198, 202 (615), 233 (693), 272 (783), 337, 371-2; Pascal on fundamentals of, 181-92; Pascal's proofs of, 102 (289), 260; Penn on, i, 360 (468), 397 (296-99); perpetuity of, xlviii, 200-5; poetry and, xxxix, 345, 355; porches of, xii, 490; Renan on marvelous element of, xxxii, 160; Rousseau on belief in, xxxiv, 294-9, 300-2; Rousseau on miracles of, 288 note; Ruskin on modern, xxviii, 123-5; rapid spread of, xxxiv, 385-7; Shelley on, xxvii, 345-6; spread without books, iii, 209; Taine on, xxxix, 424-5, 432; in Utopia, xxxvi, 225-6; Vanity Fair opposed to, xv, 97; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 314

Christians, Browne on instability of, iii, 277; disciples first called, xliv, 448 (26); early, forbidden to teach, vii, 124; forbidden to read by Julian, iii, 199; and heathen taxes, i, 218 note; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 285 (3); Mohammed on, xlv, 996, 999, 1001-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 94 (256), 116 (3378), 173 (540-i), 223 (671), 311 (903); Pascal on early and later, 374-7; persecutions of, foretold by Jesus, xliv, 408 (12-19); persecution of, in Jerusalem, 439 (i), 448 (i); persecution of, by Marcus Aurelius, ii, 192; Pliny's letter on the, ix, 404-6; attitude towards poetry, xxxix, 314; Trajan on the, ix, 407 and note; Woolman on oppression by, i, 306

Christina, Queen, Pascal to, xlviii, 359-61

Christmas, celebration of, xv, 403; spirits at, xlvi, 98

CHRISTMAS HYMN, xlv, 561-2

Chronology, Hakluyt on, xxx, 325; Hume on, xxx vii, 419; Locke on study of, 138, 153, 156-7; Newton's system of, xxxiv, 126-30

Chryseis, Agamemnon's slave, viii, 65

Chrysippus, ii, 178 (177)

Chrysogonus, Alcibiades and, xii, 138; freedman of Sylla, 219-20

Chrysostom, St., and Aristophanes, iii, 194; in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 338 note 35; Olympias and, xv, 377; Walton on eloquence of, 394

Chrysostom, in DON QUIXOTE, burial of, xiv, 98-100, 108-9; canzone of, 101-4; Marcella and, 85-90, 104-08

Chryssipus, citations of, xxxii, 31; on logic, 63

Ch'ii Po-yii, xliv, 48 (26), 51 (6)

Chung-kung, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 15 note 2, 18 (i), 19 (4), 33 (2), 37 (2), 41 (2)

Church, Burke on an established, xxiv, 228-35; civil authority in the, xliii, 74; Emerson on decline of the, v, 33-4, 275; Emerson on the future of the, 294; Emerson on revivification of, 40-1; liberty and the, xliii, 66; liberties of the, in Massachusetts, 81-4; Mill on an established, xxv, 69; Pascal on early idea of the, xlviii, 374-5; politics and the, xxiv, 151-2; Raleigh on, xl, 205; Ruskin on the true, xxviii, 125; Tennyson on the, xlii, 1053; in Utopia, xxxvi, 232-5

CHURCH, FUTURE PEACE AND GLORY OF THE, xlv, 563

Church Councils (see Councils)

Church Fathers, Calvin on the, xxxix, 35-8; Kempis on the, vii, 220-2

Church Music, Augustine, St., on, vii, 186; Dr. Donne on, xv, 352-3 Church Services, Herbert on, xv, 400-2; Paul, St., on, xlv, 510 (26-35)

Church of England (see England, Church of)

Churchman, John, i, 201, 228, 229

Churchmen, best single, iii, 21; kings and, 51; remuneration of, x, 133-5

Churchyards, Montaigne on, xxxii, 19

Chyle, Harvey on, xxxviii, 126-7

Ci-Devant Genius, in FAUST, xix, 187

Ciacco, the glutton, in Dante's HELL, xx, 26-8

Ciampolo, in Dante's HELL, xx, 90-2

Cianghella, Dante on, xx, 351 note

Ciawani, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 339 Gibber, Colley, THE BLIND BOY, xl, 441-2; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 139

Cibo, Cardinal, xxxi, 45

Cicero, Marcus, Tullius, the orator, Antony and, xii, 253-4, 256, 259, 322, 333-4, 335; at Athens, xxviii, 52; Atticus and, ix, 85-8, 94-7; made Augur, xii, 247; Augustine, St., on Hortenses of, vii, 34; Bestia, case of, and, ix, 99-100; birth and parentage, xii, 218; brother, his love for, ix, 90-4; building ideas, in; Caesar and, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 120, 121-3, 126, 127, 128, 129-30, 156, 161-3, !64-5, 169, 170-1, xii, 250-1, 252, 266-7, 270, 308, 309-10, 312; conspiracy against Caesar, 253; after Caesar's death, ix, 177-80; xii, 253-4; Catiline and, 226-36, 259; xxvii, 47; Cato and, ix, 135, 139, 140-1, 152-4; xii, 308; xxxii, 62; character, 79-80; ix, 101-5, 139-1; xii, 223, 224; 237, 247, 261; iii, 128; in Cilicia, ix, 135-41; xii, 247-8; in Civil War, ix, 162; xii, 248-9, 290; Clodius and, 241-6; 246-8; consulship, ix, 80-3, 84; xii, 226; Crassus and, ix, 128; on death of daughter, ix, 168-9; xii, 253; death, 258-9; at Delphi, 221; DEMOSTHENES COMPARED WITH, xii, 260-3, a ls I 92 '3J xxxix, 159; on divination, ix, 161-2; divorce, xii, 253; stories of miraculous dreams, xl, 39-42 note 66; eloquence of, xxxii, 96; exile, ix, 88-90, 92-4, 123-4; xii, 244-6; called father of his country, 227; on fear as a critic, ix, 307; flight, xii, 257; on FRIENDSHIP, ix, 7-44; on public games, 107-8; on gestures in speaking, 226 note; Greek epistles, xii, 238; on right of heirs to prosecute, ix, 173; design for a history, xii, 252; Hume on, xxxvii, 291; on husbandry, xxvii, 61-2; impeachment, xii, 242-4; Jonson on, xxvii, 56; as a lawyer, xii, 230; ix, 89, 109; Lentulus and, 118-20; LETTERS, 80-181; on his library, 100-1, 105-6; life and works, 5-7; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 157, 159, 161; Lucretius and, iii, 195; on study of lyric poets, xxxii, 53; defence of Milo, xii, 246-7; Montaigne on works of, xxxii, 94; Octavius and, xii, 254-6, 259, 334; xlvi, 28; ON OLD AGE, ix, 45-76; as an orator, xii, 221-2; on orators, iii, 109; Pascal on, xlviii, 18 (31); on philosophers, xxxiv, 333; on philosophy, xii, 251; xxxii, 9; on physical knowledge, xxiv, 9; Pliny on, ix, 185, 205, 252, 348; Plutarch's LIFE OF, xii, 218-59; as a poet, xii, 219; iii, 324; Pompey and, ix, 88, 94, 96, 113, 115-6, 120-1, 122, 122-3, 128-9, 161-2; as praetor, xii, 224-6; on his public services, ix, 84-5; quotations from, i, 82; xlviii, 121-2 notes 4, 5, 7, 14; in retirement, ix, 158-60; return from exile, 94-7, 120, 125-6; xii, 246; on Roman success, iii, 44-5; case of Roscius, xii, 219-20; instances of sarcasm, 238-41, 310, 312; case of Satyrus, ix, 82; at school, xii, 219; Senate thanks, ix, 152-4; as Senator, 88, 96, 98, no; case of Sestius, 99, 100; Shelley on, xxvii, 334; in Sicily, xii, 222; iii, 215; Sidney on, xxvii, 28; principles of statesmanship, ix, 129; with Sylla, xii, 219; travels, 220-1; case of Vatinius, ix, 127-8; case of Verres, xii, 223; on his writings, ix, 114, 130-1, 145 Cicero, Marcus Tullius, 2d (son of the above), birth, ix, 83; Caestius and, xxxii, 96; Cicero on, ix, 92; as consul, xii, 259; letter to, ix, 89; at school, 146, 171, 172-3, 175

Cicero, Quintus, Atticus and, ix, 85-6; Caesar and, 113, 114, 118, 127, 129-30; in Clodian troubles, xii, 246; death of, 257; in Gallic wars, 285 note; letters to, ix, 90, 97, no; in Parthian War, 138; with Pompey, 121-2; Pomponia and, 134; letter of, to Tiro, 175

Cichuil, in DA DERGA'S HOSTEL, xlix, 209, 241

Cicones, Ulysses and the, xxii, 116

Cid, The, Cervantes on, xiv, 491; Emerson on, v, 202, 213; excommunication of, xiv, 150

Cieza, Pedro de, xxxiii, 317

Cimabue, Giovanni, Dante on, xx, 189; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279, 281

Cimaroons, of Central America, xxxiii, 134; Drake and the, 152-5, 165-84, 188, 190, 192, 194; houses of, 168; king's residence, 170; religion of, 169; Spaniards and, 166, 170; town of, 169; weapons of, 167

Cimber, Tullius, and Caesar, xii, 317

Cimbrians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 113

Cimmeria, Homer on, xxii, 145

Cimon, builder of porticoes at Athens, xxviii, 40-1; commissioner to Greek confederacy, xii, 100-1; death of, 46; Emerson on, v, 265; military successes of, xii, 33; Montaigne on, xxxii, 33; at Olympic games, xii, 9; ostracism of, 44-5; Pericles and, 41, 45-6; Plato on, 104; political arts of, 44; sons of, 65; Spartans favor, 23

Cincinnatus, Cicero on, ix, 65; Dante on, xx, 307 note 12; Locke on, xxxvii, 175

CINDERELLA, story of, xvii, 98-104 Cinna, Caius Helvius, death of, xii, 319-20

Cinna, Lucius Cornelius, Caesar, relationship to, xii, 264; Cicero on supremacy of, ix, 122; Dryden on, xiii, 15

Cioli, Francesco, xxxi, 420 note 2

Cioli, Simone, xxxi, 420 note 2

Cipango, Cabot in, xliii, 47

Circassia, inoculation in, xxxiv, 94-5

Circe, daughter of Helios, xxii, 133-4; Bacchus and, iv, 46; goddess of speech, xxii, 145; Jove, horses of, and, xiii, 248-9; Picus and, 245; songs of, iv, 51; Ulysses and, xxii, 137-44, 162-6; Ulysses's companions and, 135-6; Virgil on, xiii, 239

Circensian Games, Pliny on, ix, 335

Circles, Essay on, v, 149-60

Circulating Capital, defined, x, 215-16; four kinds of, 219; maintenance of, in regard to neat revenue, 226; necessity of, 220; sources of, 220-1

Circulation of the Blood, Descartes on, xxxiv, 39-44; Harvey on, xxxviii, 60, 62, 82-3, 86-139; Pascal on, xlviii, 41 (96)

Circumcision, ancient practice of, xxxiii, 51; the apostles on, xliv, 455-6; Dante on, xx, 421; in Egypt, xxxiii, 23, 24; Emerson on, v, 169; Pascal on, xlviii, 199, 222, 223 (672); Paul, St., on, xiv, 499 (18-19); the Quakers on, xxxiv, 66-7

CIRCUMCISION, UPON THE, iv, 40-1

Circumcision of Christ, feast of the, xv, 403

Circumstances, Emerson on indifferency of, v, 89; independence of (see Independence of C.); Johnson on, xxxix, 225; Lowell on consideration of, xxviii, 437, 442; Mill on doctrine of, xxv, 107; Penn on importance of, i, 346 (278), 347 (293); political institutions, the result of, xxiv, 148; Pope on, xl, 432

Ciriatto, the demon, xx, 88, 90

Cirongilio, of Thracia, xiv, 303-4

Cirripedes, crosses of, xi, 107; development of branchiae of, 187; first appearance of, 327, 342; larvae of, 461; parasitic, 151

Cisseus, death of, xiii, 332, 409

Citations, Cervantes on, xiv, 9; Emerson on, v, 71; Hugo on, xxxix, 387; Montaigne on, xxxii, 30-1

Cities, Bacon on, iii, 66; xl, 349; country and, relations of, i, 342-3; v, 203-4; x, 304; Cowley on life in, xxvii, 63-4; Emerson on, v, 224; Goldsmith on, xli, 516-18; Newman on, xxviii, 38-9; pleasures of, iv, 33; poetry and, xxvii, 66; power of inhabitants of, 368-9; Thoreau on life in, xxviii, 397-8; in Utopia, xxxvi, 174-7; Whitman on life in, xlii, 1411-12; Wordsworth on life in, xxxix, 273

Citizens, Confucius on pattern, xliv, 59 Citizenship, American, xliii, 196, 197, 198

Citizenship, M. Aurelius on, ii, 228 (22), 242 (54), 275 (6), 283 (33)

Cittern, defined, xx, 427

CITY OF BRASS, story of, xvi, 296-325

City of Destruction, xv, 15, 178

City of God, St. Augustine's, vii, 4

Civil Law, Locke on study of, xxxvii, 158

Civil Wars, Pascal on, xlviii, 109 (313)

Civilis, on the gods in war, v, 358

Civility, in children, xxxvii, 48, 103; Locke on, 123-4; Manzoni on, xxi, 489

Civility, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 23, 27

Civilization, Carlyle on our, xxv, 336-7; Channing on modern, xxviii, 361, 3656; dependent of power of navigation, x, 24-6; disease and, xxxviii, 145; due to wants of men, xxxiv, 178; Emerson on our, v, 80-1, 248; fire-arms and, x, 450; Hugo on progress of, xxxix, 339-45; morality and, xxxiv, 162, 187; Pope on growth of, xl, 426-3 progress of, in relation to poetry, xxxix, 339-53 ; Rousseau on beginnings of, xxxiv, 198-208, 227-8; Rousseau on cost of, 169-75; Woolman on, i, 214-5

Clackitt, Mrs., in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 116, 121

Clara, in EGMONT, Brackenburg and, xix, 265-7, 291-2, 315-18, 320-5; Egmont and, 268-9, 292-6, 332

Clara, Donna, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 4315, 443, 446

Clare, Saint, xx, 296 note 5

Claribel, daughter of Alonso, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 418, 424

Claridiane, Alphebo and, xiv, 12

Clarin of Balaguet, xlix, 97

CLARINDA, MISTRESS OF MY SOUL, vi, 295

CLARINDA, VERSES TO, vi, 304-5

Clark, Dr., on Unitarianism, xxxiv, 84

Clarke, Bishop of Bath, xxxvi, 103, 109, 114

Clarke, Edward, Locke to, xxxvii, 5-7

Clarus, Septitius, letter to, ix, 202

CLASSIC, WHAT is A, xxxii, 121-33

Classics, Arnold on, xxviii, 69; Hericault on, 68

Classical Literature, Augustine on, vii, 16-18; Browne on, iii, 273; the grotesque in, xxxix, 350; Hugo on, 346; Hume on, xxvii, 219-20; Huxley on study of, xxviii, 209-16; Locke on, xxxvii, 77; Milton on study of, iii, 199-200; Shelley on immorality in, xxvii, 336-7; Swift on study of, no Classification, Darwin on, xi, 136-7, 431-43; Darwin's theory, effect of, on, 502-4; embryos in, 467-8; Emerson on, v, 7; Hackel on, xi, 452; rudimentary organs in, 475

Claudian, the poet, Shelley on, xxvii, 349; Taine on, xxxix, 426

Claudine, Claudas's son, xxxv, 210

Claudius, name of, xii, 157

Claudius I, Emperor, descent of, xii, 388; famine in reign of, xliv, 448 (28); and the Jews, 462 (2); Nonianus and, ix, 199

Claudius, Appius (Caecus), old age of, ix, 58; Pyrrhus and, 51

Claudius, Appius, the decemvir, iii, 27; Plutarch on, xii, 165

Claudius, King, in HAMLET, xlvi, 93-211; death of, 208; Gertrude and, 99, 169-70; Hamlet and, 101-2, 141, 147, 172-4, 205-7; Hamlet on, 165-6; Hamlet's father murdered by, 116; Hamlet's friends and, 124-5, 142, 159-60; Laertes and, 100, 179-81, 182-3, 184-8, 197-8, 205-7; marriage of, 99; Norway and, 100, 127; Ophelia and, 177-8; Polonius and, 127-9; remorse of, 160-1

Claudius, Publius (see Clodius)

Clauserus, on poets, xxvii, 50-1

Clausius, on freezing-point, xxx, 232

Clausus, in ÆNEIS, xiii, 263, 333

Claveret, and Corneille, xxxix, 361

Claverhouse (see BONNY DUNDEE)

Clay, Henry, in Treaty of 1814, xliii, 255, 264

Clean Beasts, texts on, interpreted, xv, 83

Cleandrides, and Pericles, xii, 59

Cleanliness, Franklin on, i, 80; Woolman on, 309

Cleante, in TARTUFFE, Damis and, xxvi, 272-80; Orgon and, 208-17, 266, 278-80, 292, 294; Mme. Pernelle and, 201, 203-4, 205-6; Tartuffe and, 262-3, 296; on Valere's marriage, 216-17

Cleanthes, Newman on, xxviii, 51; on philosophy, ii, 169 (142); remark of, xii, uo-i; verses on acquiescence, ii, 179 (184); on the voice, xxxii, 30

CLEANTHES, HYMN OF, ii, 186-7

Clearness, less affecting than obscurity, xxiv, 51-4

Cleigenes, Aristophanes on, viii, 460

Cleisthenes, reference to, viii, 452

Cleitophon, pupil of Euripides, viii, 468

Cleitus, son of Mantius, xxii, 206

Clemency, in commanders, xxxvi, 56; More on, 185; pity and, xxxiv, 189; Pliny on, ix, 344; in princes, xxxvi, 53-4

Clemens, Attius, letter to, ix, 195-7, 249-50

Clement, St., of Alexandria, hymn by, xlv, 541-2

Clement, Friar, Bacon on, iii, 98

Clement V, Pope, Dante on, xx, 79 and note 4, 400 note 8, 415 note 7

Clement VII, Pope, bastard son of Medici, xxxi, 84-5 note; Cellini and, 40-1, 45, 73, 75-6, 78, 79-8o, 86-7, 88-90, 91-5, 98, 104, 106, 107-9, 111-17, 119-26, 133, 135, 140-2; Charles V and, 114 note 5; the Colonnesi and, 69 note; death of, 142; election of, 33; events of life, 16 note; Foiano and, 237 and note 2; Machiavelli and, xxvii, 384, 399; reputed father of Alessandro de' Medici, xxxi, 174; in sack of Rome, 68, 70, 71, 73, 75-6, 78, 79-80, 206-7; war with Florence, 86

Clement VIII, in THE CENCI, xviii, 275, 281-2, 301, 351-2

Clemenza, Queen, xx, 319 note i

Cleobuline, Pascal on, xlviii, 14 (13)

Cleocritus, the Corinthian, xii, 86, 98

Cleodora, daughter of Pandareiis, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 274

Cleombrotus, in Limbo, iv, 147; not with Socrates in prison, ii, 47

Cleomenes, Emerson on, v, 183; and the Samians, xxxii, 61

Cleon, the Athenian, Aristophanes on, viii, 456; dream of, iii, 92;

Pericles and, xii, 70, 72

Cleon, in POLYEUCTE, xxvi, 94, 108-9

Cleonice, called Byzantine Maid, xviii, 428

Cleopas, xliv, 417 (18); and Jesus, xv, 407

Cleopatra, at Actium, xii, 371-3; Antony and, 339-46, 349. 362-71, 375-6, 381-2; Antony's soldier and, 379-80; burial and statues of, 388; Caesar and, 304-5; Caesar and, Dryden on, xviii, 46-53; Dante on death of, xx, 308, in Dante's HELL, 22; daughter of, xii, 388; death of, 386-7; death, plans for, 378; monument of, 379; Octavius and, 378-80, 382-3, 384-6; Octavius and, Dryden on, xviii, 51; Pascal on nose of, xlviii, 62-3; revels in Alexandria, xii, 378; Seleucus and, 379; Virgil on, xiii, 291-2

Cleopatra, in ALL FOR LOVE, xviii, 13; Alexas and, 88-93; Antony, her love for, 25, 28, 38-41; Antony, message to, 43-5; Antony, scenes with, 46-53, 53-4, 84-8, 100-2; death of, 103-5; Dolabella and, 58-9, 71-6; Octavia and, 14, 66-8; suicide attempted by, 89; Ventidius on, 76-7

Cleopatra, statue called, xxxi, 318

Cleophantus, son of Themistocles, xii, 33

Cleophon, Aristophanes on, viii, 459, 486-7

Cleremont, in PHILASTER, xlvii, 667-751

Clergy, Dryden on satires on the, xxxix, 164-5; Emerson on the, v, 12, 33-41, 299; Herbert on duties of the, xv, 406-7; Luther on the, xxxvi, 357; Luther on marriage of the, 302-5; maintenance of the, x, 464; More on idleness of the, xxxvi, 180; paid, remarks on a, v, 429; scandal of the, breeds atheism, iii, 44

Clergymen, as examples, xv, 395-6

Clerk, Chaucer's, xl, 19

Clerk, John, manoeuvre of breaking the line, v, 358

Clermont, Lord, and Chandos, xxxv, 401; death of, 44

Cletus, Bishop, xx, 400 note 4

Cleveland, Grover, and Hawaii, xliii, 437 note

CLEVER ELSIE, story of, xvii, 121-3

Clifford, Lord Thomas, xxxv, 24

Clifton, John, and street-lamps, i, 120

Climate, adaptation to (see Acclimatization); aesthetic disposition and, xxxii, 283; compensations of, v, 86-7; enjoyment of life and, xxix, 258; influence of, in struggle for existence, xi, 78, 85; industry and, xxxiv, 177; jurisprudence and, xlviii, 104; martial disposition and, iii, 139; of northern and southern hemispheres, xxix, 253-4; reacts on man, xxviii, 407; relation of, to productions, xi, 378-9; Taine on effects of, xxxix, 424; variations due to, xi, 139

Climbing Plants, development of, xi, 241-3; various methods of, 185-6

Climorin, xlix, 114, 144

Cline, Henry, on inoculation, xxxviii, 198-9

Clinias, father of Alcibiades, xii, 106

Clinton, Sir Henry, Burns on, vi, 51

Clinton, Gov., story of, i, 106

Clisthenes, Aristides and, xii, 79; Plutarch on, 37

Clitandre, Moiiere on, xxvi, 215

Clitumnus River, Pliny on the, ix, 318

CLOAK, THE OLD, xl, 188-9

Cloanthus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 91, 95, 182-6

Clocks, gravity, xxx, 178-9

Clodia, and Cicero, xii, 241-2; called Quadrantia, 242

Clodius, Publius, Antony and, xii, 323; Carsar and, 276; ix, 114; Caesar's wife and, xii, 241, 271-2; Cicero and, 242-6; ix, 6, 96, 124; death of, xii, 246; Pompey and, ix, 98, 99; trial of, xii, 241-2; widow of, 329; the soldier, and Antony, 334

CLOE, by Prior, xl, 397-8

Cloelia, reference to, xiii, 289

Clonius, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 312, 347

Clotaldo, in LIFE Is A DREAM, in battle, xxvi, 69-70; escape and recapture, 61, 68; Rosaura and, 18-21, 67-8; Segismund and, 30-1, 37-41, 52-6, 73

Cloth, garments of, xlv, 581 note 9

Clothing, demand for materials of, x, 168, 178; Locke on, xxxvii, 10-11, 15, 29; materials of, do not limit population, x, 167; price of, 203-7; price of materials of, 165-6

Clothing (see also Apparel, Dress)

Clotho, Dante on, xx, 230

CLOUD, THE, by Shelley, xii, 852-4

Clouds, on the Corcovado, xxix, 37; lesson from the, xv, 235

Clough, Arthur Hugh, POEMS by, xiii, 1119-22; reviser of Plutarch's Lives, xii, 4

Clover, and bees, xi, 81-2, 101-2

Clubs, established by Cato, ix, 61

Clusius, Charles, xxxv, 241

Clymene, in Hades, xxii, 153; mother of Phaeton, xx, 357 note i; reference to, iv, 376

Clytemnestra, in HOUSE OF ATREUS, viii, 17-20, 29-30; Ægisthus and, 74-5; Agamemnon and, 39-40; 62-70, 98; Cassandra and, 45-6; dream of, 99-100; ghost of, 126-7; Homer on, xxii, 3940, 155; Orestes and, viii, 104-5, IJ 3" 17; Voltaire on, xxxix, 364

Clytius, Cydon and, xiii, 332; death of, 319

Clytoneus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 102

Cnossus, Governor of, and Epictetus, ii, 151 (93)

Coadjutors, Luther on, xxxvi, 283, 288

Coal, heat from burning of, xxx, 201; price of, x, 169-71

Coal-gas, cause of brightness of, xxx, no-i; carbon in, 161

Coal-mines, rent of, x, 169, 171

Coan, Hippocrates called, xx, 266 note 15

Coati, Dana on the, xxiii, 152

Coats of Arms, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 367

Cobbett, William, Carlyle on, xxv, 408, 445

Cobham, Raynold, in Crecy campaign, xxxv, 8, n, 19, 24, 30, 33; at Poitiers, 42, 51, 52, 54

Cobites, alimentary canal of, xi, 185

Cock, lesson on the, xv, 251-2

Cock, Thoreau on the, xxviii, 424

COCK AND Fox, fable of, xvii, 34

COCK AND HORSES, fable of, xxvii, 133

COCK AND PEARL, fable of, xvii, 11 ; Bacon on, iii, 33

Cock-Fights, Blake on, xli, 587

Cockatrix, fabulous serpent, xlvii, 836 note 3

Cockburn, Alexander, in Jamaica case, xxv, 183

Cockburn, Alison R., FLOWERS OF THE FOREST, xli, 482

COCKPEN, THE LAIRD o', xli, 563-4

Codes, Horatius, Virgil on, xiii, 289

Cocoanut Trees, Francis Pretty on, xxxiii, 202

Cocoanuts, Biggs on, xxxiii, 236

Cocytus, Dante on the, xx, 60; Homer on, xxii, 143; Milton on, iv, 123;

Plato on, ii, 109; Virgil on, xiii, 212

Codes, the conscience of nations, v, 246

Codfish, Hayes on the, xxxiii, 275

Coelius, at Actium, xii, 372

Coffee, Burke on the taste for, xxiv, 15

Cog-wheels, considered as levers, xxx, 183-4

Cohesion, Faraday on, xxx, 25-43

Cohn, on bacteria, xxx viii, 326 note

Coila, Burns on, vi, 87-8, 239

Coilus, king of Picts, vi, 175 note 7

Coinage, expense of, x, 358, 454; origin of, 30; regulation of, by Congress, xliii, 163-4, J 65, 184 (5)

Coke, Sir Edward, Burke on, xxiv, 170

Colbert, Jean Baptiste, administration of, x, 426; policy of, 347

Colchians, Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 50-1

Cold, Locke on endurance of, xxxvii, 10, n, 14

COLD'S THE WIND, xl, 318

Coleman, Mr., EPILOGUE by, xviii, 196-7

Coleman, William, i, 58, 61, 62

Coleridge, Hartley, SHE Is NOT FAIR, xli, 912

Coleridge, Samuel Taylor, Arnold on, xxviii, 81; Bagehot on, 203; Emerson on, v, 318-21; 440-1; on fancy, xxxix, 307; on French Language, v, 388-9; life and works of, xxvii, 254; Mill on, xxv, 51, 102-3; n Milton's Satan, xxviii, 199; POEMS by, xli, 682-732; ON POESY OR ART, xxvii, 255-63; Wordsworth on, v, 325

Colewort, only medicine in Rome, xxxv, 240

Colgrevance, Sir, xxxv, 176-7

Coligni, Burke on, xxiv, 186

Coliseum, Byron's lines on the, xviii, 445

COLLAR, THE, xl, 343-4

Colleagues, Confucius on sordid, xliv, 59

College Men, Franklin on, i, 15

College of the Six Days' Works (see Solomon's House)

Colleges, Carlyle on use of, xxv, 364; genius and, v, 423; office of, ii; study of dead matter in, 257

Collier, Jeremy, xxxix, 157 note 6, 173-4

Collingwood, Admiral, Emerson on, v, 348, 358, 377

Collins, Anthony, Burke on, xxiv, 225

Collins, John, friend of Franklin, i, 15, 22, 28, 31, 32-4, 37

Collins, John, the poet, TO-MORROW, xli, 592-3

Collins, Michael, case of, xxviii, 121-3

Collins, William, POEMS by, xli, 475-81; Wordsworth on poems of, xxxix, 325

Collinson, Peter, Franklin on, i, 146-7,

159 Colnett, on discolored sea, xxix, 26-7; on lizards, 389-90; on Galapagos Islands, 395-6

Colonia del Sacramento, xxix, 149

Colonies, Bacon on, iii, 85-7; motive of establishing, x, 395-404; in subject states, xxxvi, 10-11; wages and profits in, x, 94

Colonna, Fabrizio, xxvii, 392

Colonna, House of, and Clement VII, xxxi, 69 note

Colonna, Stefano, xxxi, 367 note

Colonna Infame, story of, xxi, 4-6

Colonnades, Burke on, xxiv, 64, 113

Colonnesi, Alexander VI and the, xxxvi, 23-4; Orsini and, 39-40; Valentino and, 24

Color, beauty and, xxiv, 95-6, 127-8; Berkeley and, xxxvii, 202-3, 265; cause of, xxxiv, 122-3; climate and, xi, 139; constitutional peculiarities and, 27-8; Goethe on operation of, xxxix, 257; Hume on, xxxvii, 302; importance of, to animals, xi, 92, 199; nature of, illustrated, xxx, 261-2; as source of the sublime, xxiv, 69

Colpoda, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 337, 342

Columba, Renan on, xxxii, 172, 174

Columbus, Christopher, Emerson on, v, 81; Smith on, x, 398; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 100

COLUMBUS, LETTER OF, xliii, 21-7

COLUMBUS, PRAYER OF, xlii, 1420-2

Columbus, Realdus, on the circulation, xxxviii, 97; on the heart, 70; on the lungs, 67

Columella, on agriculture, xxvii, 64-5; on country life, 61; on enclosures, x, 157; on flowers, xxxv, 238; on vineyards, x, 158

Combe, George, xxviii, 210 note

Combination, of capitalists, x, 68; Mill on liberty of, xxv, 206; to fix wages, x, 145; of workmen, 69

Combustion, of carbon and other substances compared, xxx, 161-2, 168-9; chemical affinity, the cause of, 56-7; with and without flame, 105-6; heat generated by, 200-1; oxygen necessary to, 57-8, 104-5; illustrations of, in oxygen, 48-9, 55-6, 137-8; water produced by, 113-5

COME, LET ME TAKE THEE TO MY BREAST, vi, 470-1

COME UNDER MY PLAIDIE, xli, 577-8

Comedy, burlesque and, xxxix, 177-8; Cervantes on, xiv, 477-82; Fielding on epic, xxxix, 176; Hugo on, 346-51, 356; Hume on standards of, xxvii, 218-9; Johnson on, xxxix, 213, 223; Macaulay on wit in, xxvii, 383-4; M. Aurelius on, ii, 286 (6); popular notions of, xxxix, 214-5; Sidney on, xxvii, 27, 45-6; Voltaire on translations of, xxxiv, 139-40

Comenius, John Amos, iii, 236 note

Comestor, Petrus, xx, 338 note 33

Comets, Bacon on effects of, iii, 137; nature and motion of, xxxiv, n8

Comfort, Confucius on, xliv, 45 (3); Kempis on, vii, 237 (9), 239 (4), 2479, 269-78

COMIC EPIC IN PROSE, Fielding's, xxxix, 176-81

Comines, Philip de, on England, v, 356; Montaigne on, xxxii, 101

Cominius, Roman consul, xii, 152-3, 154; names Coriolanus, 156

Comitatus, institution of the, xlix, 77 note 2

Commandments, The Ten, Locke on, xxxvii, 132; Milton on giving of, iv, 348; More on, xxxvi, 150

Commendams, Luther on, xxxvi, 283, 288

Commendation, St. Augustine on, vii, 56

Commentators, Johnson on, xxxix, 241-9; Locke on, xxxvii, 169; Montaigne on, xxxii, 107; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 132

Commerce, in agricultural system, x, 431-5, 438-42; Bacon on, in ancient times, iii, 156-7, 159; capital used in, x, 290, 292, 295-302; domestic, sacrificed to foreign, 316; favored above agriculture, 6; foreign (see Foreign Commerce); Harrison on, xxxv, 224-5; honor and, xli, 522-3; interferences with, by landed nations, x, 436; internal, 304, 444-5; language and, xxxix, 202; military spirit and, xxvii, 373-4; necessity of, x, 23-4, 288; regulation of (U. S.), xliii, 184 (3), 185 (6); Wordsworth on, xli, 677; works and institutions for facilitating, x, 453-63 (see also Trade)

Commercial Policy, Washington on our, xliii, 246-7

Commercial Pursuits, Emerson on, v, 45

Commercial System, x, 311-31; Channing on the, xxviii, 361; Emerson on the, v, 45-7; false relations under, 255, Harrison on, xxxv, 225; More on, xxxvi, 181; origin of, x, 27; producers and consumers under, 424-5; results of, v, 400-1; Ruskin on the, xxviii, 116; Tennyson on the, xlii, 1015-16; ways of trade under, v, 45-6

Commercial Treaties, Smith on, x, 389-94

COMMISSARY GOLDIE'S BRAINS, vi, 459

Commissions, Bacon on standing, iii, 55

Commodus, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 64, 66, 68; statue called, xxxi, 318 note i

Common, Dorothy (see Dol Common)

Common Law, suits at, in U. S., xliii, 195 (7); Winthrop on the, 104

Common Sense, Dryden on, xxxix, 163; Epictetus on, ii, 150 (90); limitations of, xxviii, 415; Montaigne on, xlviii, 392, 395; in morals, Kant on, xxxii, 316-7

Common Things, Emerson on, v, 20; Penn on, i, 329 (68)

Commons, House of, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 89-91

Commonwealth, English (see Instrument of Government)

Commonwealths, More on, xxxvi, 236

Commotions, Calvin on, xxxix, 43-5

Communion, holy, Bunyan on, xv, 233-4; Calvin on, xxxix, 37; Kempis on, vii, 335-64; St. Paul on, xlv, 503 (16-17); Quakers on, xxxiv, 67; Rousseau on, 303

Communism, Emerson on, v, 259-60; instituted by Christ, xxxvi, 226; Lowell on, xxviii, 469; More on, xxxvi, 167-9, 184-5, J 86, 189-90, 236, 238-9, 240

Commutative Justice, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 406

Como, Lake, Manzoni on, xxi, 7

Compacts, Mohammed on, xlv, 916

Companies, regulated and joint-stock, x, 458-9

Company, Confucius on, xliv, 29 (29), 54 (39); determines manners, xxxvii, 1245; Epictetus on choice of, ii, 166 (137); Epictetus on vulgar, 153 (99), 156 (107), 175 (167); Kempis on, vii, 212; Locke on importance of, xxxvii, 50, 127; Massinger on, xlvii, 870; Pascal on choice of, xlviii, 12 (6); St. Paul on, with evil-doers, xlv, 497 (913); Penn on, i, 335 (128); of strong and weak, xvii, 31

Comparison, necessary to criticism, xxxix, 208-9

Comparisons, Goethe on, xxxix, 256; Hume on, xxvii, 213; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 313

Compass, of the Phoenicians, v, 458

Compass-flower, xlii, 1333

Compassion, Augustine, St., on, vii, 32; Bacon on, iii, 34; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 342-3; Pliny on, ix, 353 note (see also Pity, Sympathy)

Compensation, Darwin on growth of, xi, 150-2; Epictetus on, ii, 126 (27); Gray on, xl, 461-2; Pope on, in nature, 412; of pleasure and pain, Socrates on, ii, 48; Whitman on, xxxix, 404-5

COMPENSATION, ESSAY ON, Emerson's, v, 85-103

Competition, as cause of quarrels, xxxiv, 388-9; excessive, generates fraud, xxviii, 316; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 370; of labor, restraints on, x, 121-33, J 37-46; of labor, unnaturally encouraged, 133-38; Mazzini on, xxxii, 380-1; necessary to good management, x, 150-1; in professions, 133-6; as regulator of prices, 57-8; results of, v, 400

Competitive Prices, tendency to minimum, x, 63

Competitive System, Ruskin on the, xxviii, 132

Complacency, Penn on, i, 337

COMPLAINT OF THE ABSENCE OF HER LOVER, xl, 193-4

Complaints, of children, xxxvii, 90; Kempis on, vii, 228 (6)

Complaisance, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 407

Compleat Angler, Walton's, xv, 322

Compliance, Cicero on, ix, 39-40; Locke on, xxxvii, 122

Compliments, Bacon on, iii, 126

Compositae, Darwin on, xi, 149, 215, 470

Composition, Hume on, xxvii, 206

Compositions, Luther on papal, xxxvi, 286

Compound Animals, Darwin on, xxix, 207

Compound Fractures, Lister on, xxxviii, 257-9, 262-3

Compound Words, Johnson on, xxxix, 189-90

Comprehension, Raleigh on, xxxix, 103 note

Compromise of 1850, xliii, 306 note

Compromises, Lowell on, xxviii, 462; Mill on, xxv, 57; with sin, xlii, 1371

Compulsion, Locke on, in education, xxxvii, 57, 174

Compunction, Kempis on, vii, 225 (5), 226-7

Comte, Auguste, Mill on, xxv, 104-5, 131-3, 152 note 3, 208

COMUS: A MASK, iv, 44-72; Bagehot on, xxviii, 205-6; at Ludlow Castle, v, 411

Conaire, story of, xlix, 202-47

Conall Cernach, xlix, 226-7, 231-2, 243, 244, 247-8

Conceit, Æsop's fable of, xvii, 20; Epictetus on, ii, 143 (72); results of, xxxiv, 353; Smith on, of mankind, x, 109

Conceit, country of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 126

Concentration, Buddha on, xlv, 702-4, 705, 728

Concepcion, Chili, earthquake at, xxix, 307-13

Conception, Point, Dana on, xxiii, 69; gale off, 212-19

Conceptions, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 219-20; Descartes on reality of, xxxiv, 29, 34; Hobbes on impossible, 323; Taine on various kinds of, xxxix, 419-20

Conchenn, the giant, xlix, 239

Concini, wife of, v, 186

Concino, Bartolommeo, xxxi, 430 note

Conciseness, Pliny on, ix, 204; Pope on, xl, 407

Concord, even among devils, iv, 121

CONCORD HYMN, xlii, 1245-6

Concrete Qualities, due to participation in abstracts, ii, 94-5

Coney, Raoul of, xxxv, 35-6

Conde, Prince of (Louis I of Bourbon), constable at Bourges, xxxviii, 46; at Danvilliers, 19-20; in Germany, 18-19; at Metz, 23; at Turin, 9; wounded at St. Denis, 50; wounded at St. Quentin, 44-5

Conde "the Great," before Rocroi, xxi, 25; at Seneffee, xxxix, 174

Condell, Henry, PREFACE TO SHAKESPEARE, xxxix, 148-9

Condillac, Abbe" de, on languages, xxxiv, 180; Mill on, xxv, 43-7

Condiments, Locke on, xxxvii, 16-17

Conditions of Life, direct and indirect effects of, xi, 24-6, 138-40; effect of changed, on fertility, 302; law of, 207; slight changes in, beneficial, 303; Taine on, xxxix, 423-5

Condolence, Sulpicius on, ix, 165; Pliny on, 274

Condor, Darwin on the, xxix, 187-191

Condorcet, Burke on, xxiv, 420; death of, alluded to, 216 note; Life of Turgot by, xxv, 73

Conduct, Buddha on, xlv, 702-4; not motives, to be judged, xxv, 35-6; Penn's rules of, i, 334

Confectionery, Locke on, xxxvii, 21

CONFEDERATION, ARTICLES OF, xliii, 158-68

Conference, maketh a ready man, iii, 122

Confervas, Darwin on, xxix, 24-7

Confession, Augustine, St., on, vii, 62; Dante on, xx, 272 (note 2); Herbert on, xv, 400; Kempis on, vii, 281 (i); Luther on, xxxvi, 306, 364; Pascal on, xlviii, 44

CONFESSIONS OF ST. AUGUSTINE, vii, 5197

Confidence, between parents and children, xxxvii, 81-2; daughter of fortune, iii, 100; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340-1, 365; Kempis on over-, vii, 225 (4); in self, Emerson on, v, 59-63, 67; Epictetus on, ii, 120 (9)

Confiscations, Burke on, xxiv, 288, 289; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 55, 59

Conformity, Burke on, xxiv, 44; Emerson on, v, 62, 64-5; Mill on, xxv, 157, 251, 253, 256, 264-5; Milton on, in religion, iii, 228-9; Penn on, i, 392-3

Confucius, the basket-bearer on, xliv, 49; Chi Huan and, 61 (4), note 3; Chiehyii and, 61 (5); Duke Ching and, 61 (3); the gate-keeper on, 49 (41); habits and character of, 6 (10), 21 (4), 22 (9-12-13), 22 (17), 23 (20), 23 (26), 24 (31), 24 (37), 27 (4, 9), 30-2; on himself, 7 (4), 17-8 (25, 27), 21 (i), 21 (2, 3, 5, 7, 8), 22 (10, ii), 22 (l6), 22-3 (l8), 23 (19, 20, 22, 23), 23 (27, 29), 24 (32), 24 (33), 27 (2), 27 (6, 7, 8), 28 (15), 32 (i), 42 (10), 48 (30), 49 (37), 51 (2), 63 (8); in K'nang, 28 note, 35 (22); life and works, 3; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130; story of, v, 454; on his teachings, xliv, 13 (15), 16 (12), 23 (23), 23 (24), 27 (i); on tiger-skins, xxviii, 416; Tzu-kung on, xliv, 65 (22) note 6, 65-6 (23), 66 (24-5); the warden of Yi on, 12 (24); wanderings of, 61-2

CONFUCIUS, SAYINGS OF, xliv, 5-67; remarks on SAYINGS, 3

Confusion, and grandeur, xxiv, 66; worse confounded, iv, 133

Congregation Day, Mohammedan, xlv, 942 note 2

Congress, power to propose amendments, xliii, 191 (5); power to incorporate banks, 209-10, 212-16, 222-4; under the Confederation, 159-60 (5), 162-5 (9); under the Constitution, 180-6; power to establish courts, 189 (i); powers forbidden to, 194 (i); implied powers of, 212-22; relations with President, 189; power to prescribe proofs of state records, 190; power to admit new states, 191 (i); power over territories, 191 (2); power to punish treason, 190

Congress of 1774, xliii, 206-7

Congreve, William, comedies of, xxxix, 233; Dryden and, xiii, 67; Macaulay on, xxvii, 383-4; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 139; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 330

Conio, Alberigo of, xxxvi, 44

Conjectural Criticism, Johnson on, xxxix, 246-7

Connate Ones, the seven, xlv, 612

CONNECTICUT, THE FUNDAMENTAL ORDERS OF, xliii, 60-5

Conon, at yEgospotami, xii, 144

Conquered States, arms in, xxxvi, 69; factions in, 69-70; Machiavelli on, 812, 18

Conquerors, Jesus on, iv, 386

Conquerors, Locke on, xxxvii, 102

Conquest, Hobbes on right of, xxxiv, 388; More on foreign, xxxvi, 159-60; Rousseau on right of, xxxiv, 213; vanity of, xl, 253

Conrad III. and Cacciaguida, xx, 351 note 15

Conradino, of Naples, xx, 227 note 10

Conrayer, Father, xxxiv, 80, 96

Conscience, Bacon on matters of, iii, 14; Beaumont on, xlvii, 672; Carlyle on, xxv, 325; Cenci on, xviii, 326; Dante on, xx, 118, 153; Emerson on, v, 62; Epictetus on power of good, ii, 161 (119); Goethe on persistency of, xix, 21 ; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 347; intellect and, xxviii, 323; Kempis on good, vii, 244; liberty and, v, 246; liberty of, Vane on, xliii, 122-4; Mill on liberty of, xxv, 210-49; Milton on liberty of, iii, 221-7; Pascal on rest and security of, xlviii, 312; Raleigh on, xxxix, 70; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 239-40, 268-75; Webster on guilty, xlvii, 830, 851

Consciousness, Carlyle on, xxv, 332; in death and rebirth, xlv, 681-2; of modern society, xxv, 334; origin of, xxxii, 263

Consecration, Luther on, xxxvi, 266

CONSERVATION OF FORCE, Helmholtz on, xxx, 171-210; discovery of the law, 175; statement of the law, 176, 208-9

Conservatism, Burke on, xxiv, 290, 377; Emerson on, v, 264; Lowell on, xxviii, 470

Conservatism, false, Smith on, xxvii, 225-51.

Consideration, Penn on, want of, i, 325, 345 (263)

Considius, the Senator, Czsar and, xii, 275-6

Consigne, Queen, and the mastiff, xxxv, 354

Consistency, Confucius on, xliv, 53 (36); Emerson on, v, 66-7

Consolation, fallacy of false, xxvii, 242; for death, God alone can give, vi, 273; Kempis on, vii, 252 (3), 217-8; Kempis on inward, 258-334; Pascal on, xlviii, 331, 338-9; Pliny on, ix, 274; in public calamities, xxxii, 117; Sulpicius on, ix, 165

Conspicuousness, why honorable, xxxiv, 366

Conspiracies, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 60-1

Constable, Henry, DIAPHENIA, xl, 228-9

Constable, Thomas, translator of Corneille, xxvi, 75

Constance, Council of, xxxvi, 317-8

Constance, wife of Henry VI, xx, 296 note 7

Constancy, hyacinth, the flower of, vi, 407; Penn on, i, 334 (119)

CONSTANT LOVER, THE, xl, 353

CONSTANT TIN SOLDIER, THE, xvii, 293-7

Constantine the Great, and Council of Nicaea, xxxvi, 273; Dante on, xx, 80 note 10; 278 note n, 305 note i, 371 notes 7, 8; the Donation of, xxxvi, 295 note; and the nails of the cross, iii, 280; sons of, 50; Sylvester and, xx, 80 note 10, 113

Constitution, first written, xliii, 60 note; Lowell on an unwritten, xxviii, 468

Constitution, Holmes on the frigate, xlii, 1366 note

CONSTITUTION OF UNITED STATES, xliii, 180-98; the act of the people, not of States, 210-11, 212; defended in Federalist, 199-207; Hamilton on the, 199-203; implied powers under the, 212-22; Lincoln on the, 316, 317-18, 320-1; Lowell on framers of the, xxviii, 461-2; powers of nation and state under, xliii, 208-9, 210-12, 215, 216, 224; Washington on the, 239, 240

Constitutional Convention, Jay on, xliii, 205-6, 207; suggested by Vane, 133

"Constitutional Society," Burke on the, xxiv, 145

Consulates, expense of, x, 458

Consumers, sacrificed in Commercial System, x, 424

Consumption, annual, dependent on annual labor, x, 5; the end of production, 424; immediate and durable, 275; productive and unproductive, 259, 266-70; taxes on, 517-48; unproductive, More on, xxxvi, 181; unproductive, Smith on, x, 233

Contagious Diseases, Holmes on, xxxviii, 226 (3); Jenner on, 163-4

Contemplation, activity and, ii, 125 (24); Buddha on, xlv, 705, 729; Burke on, xxiv, 39, 46-7; Epictetus on duty of, ii, 121 (13, 14), 141 (68); Hindu ideal of, xlv, 814-5; Kempis on, vii, 250 (3), 296 (3), 320 (i); Mill on, xxv, 94; Montaigne on, xxxii, 9; More on, xxxvi, 206-7, 229; Pascal on, xlviii, 59 (146); Plutarch on proper objects of, xii, 356; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 279; Schiller on, xxxii, 280; two ways of, xxxix, 117

Contempt, Bacon on, iii, 135-6; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 338, 364; Kempis on self, vii, 274 (i); Locke on, xxxvii, 121; Rousseau on beginnings of, xxxiv, 204-

CONTENT, by Greene, xl, 282-3

CONTENT AND RESOLUTE, xl, 329

CONTENT, O SWEET, xl, 318-19

CONTENTED wi' LITTLE AND CANTIE wf MAIR, vi, 507-8

Contentment, Epictetus on, ii, 118 (6), 121 (14), 127 (31), 159 (114), 163 (127), 165 (133), 179 (182), 184 (17)

CONTENTMENT, by Holmes, xlii, 1368-70

Contentment, Kempis on, vii, 211 (2), 286 (5); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 201 (5), 204 (13), 211 (16), 211 (3), 216 (23), 216 (25), 233 (n), 241-2 (49, 50), 247 (27), 255 (7), 257 (26), 274 (0, 283 (35), 286 (7), 292 (20); Rousseau on, xxxiv, 261; Shelley on, xli, 827; wealth and, 522-3; Woolman on, i, 214; work necessary to, 141 (see also Acquiescence, Independence of Circumstances, Tranquillity)

Contiguity of ideas, xxxvii, 304, 327-8

Continental Congress, xliii, 150 note, 158 note

CONTINENTAL DRAMA, xxvi

Continents, Darwin on, xi, 347; Geikie on evolution of, xxx, 328-51; are rising areas, xxix, 484; species, affinity of, in same, xi, 380-1

Continuity, Pascal on, xlviii, 119-20

Contracts, Descartes on, xxxiv, 22; Hobbes on, 394-400, 414; known only to man, x, 18; laws impairing, forbidden in U. S., xliii, 186; Mill on freedom of, xxv, 298-300

Contradiction, Locke on, xxxvii, 122, 125; Montaigne on, xxxii, 41; Pascal on, xlviii, 126; Penn on, i, 337 (149)

Contraries, the life of each other, iii, 316; in temper and distemper, 49

Contrast of ideas, xxxvii, 305 (note 4)

Contrite, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 280-1, 283

Contrition, Dante on, xx, 272 note 2; Kempis on, vii, 321; Luther on, xxxvi, 252-3; Pascal on, xlviii, 317 (923)

Controversies, Bacon on, iii, 12; Browne on religious, 256-7; Franklin on habit of, i, 15, 126; Penn on, 340 (184); truth and, xxxiv, 54; uncertainty indicated by, xlviii, 310 (902); unsettled, iii, 3M-5

Contumely, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 408

Conveniences, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 202

Convention, society loves, v, 210

Conventionalities, Lowell on, xxviii, 439

Convents, Luther on, xxxvi, 301-2, 3056, 326

Convergence of Character, xi, 132-3

Conversation, attention to, ii, 243 (4), 247 (30); Bacon on, iii, 83-5; Emerson on, v, 154; Epictetus's rules of, ii, 175 (164), 176 (171), 177 (175); Franklin on the ends of, i, 18; Goethe on, xxxix, 253; Kempis on, vii, 213; one to one, v, 113-4; Penn on, i, 335-6 (see also Intercourse) CONVERSATION, ESSAY ON, Swift's, xxvii, 91-8

Conversini, Benedetto, governor of Rome, xxxi, 203-4, 224 Conversion, joy in, of men, vii, 122; Pascal on, xlviii, 383-6; true, Emerson on, v, 32 Conveyances, in Massachusetts, xliii, 68 (14, 15)

Conviction, Epictetus on, ii, 153-4 (99) 5 is genius, v, 60; necessary to persuasion, xix, 30

Convicts, children of, moral sentiment of, v, 244-5; More on, xxxvi, 151-4

Conway, Gen., i, 136

Cook, Chaucer's, xl, 21; Dryden on Chaucer's, xxxix, 166-7

Cook, Capt., on kelp, xxix, 244

Cook, Lady (see Danvers, Jane), xv (418)

Cook, Sir Robert, xv, 418

Cookery, Penn on, i, 329 (61)

Cooper, Fenimore, Carlyle on, xxv, 3934. 397

Cooper, Joseph, i, 54

COOPER o' CUDDY, vi, 527

Cooperation, conscious and unconscious, ii, 240 (42); of labor (see Division of Labor); man made for, ii, 200 (i); in nature, 219 (40, 45), 239 (38), 240 (43), 244 (9)

Cope, Prof., on reproduction period, xi, 187

Copenhagen, battle of, v, 345; industries of, x, 264

Copernicus, Nicolaus, life and works, xxxix, 52 note; misunderstood, v, 66; Pascal on opinion of, xlviii, 80 (218); REVOLUTIONS OF HEAVENLY BODIES, xxxix, 52-7

Copiapo, town of, xxix, 358; valley of, 353-4

Copiers, Horace on, xiii, 39

Copland, on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 254

Copley Medal, given to Franklin, i, 149

Copper, action of nitric acid on, xxx, 128

Copulation, unnatural, in Massachusetts law, xliii, 80 (7, 8)

Copyrights, provision for, xliii, 184 (8)

Coquimbo, earthquake at, xxix, 346-7; terraces at, 347; town of, 346

Coral formations, Darwin on, xxix, 406, 456-85; Lyell on, xxxviii, 406, 409-10

Corallines, Darwin on, xxix, 206

Corals, fish feeding on, xxix, 468; stinging, 468; unable to live out of water, 465

Coras, ally of Turnus, xiii, 262

Corbet, Richard, FAREWELL, REWARDS AND FAIRIES, xl, 315-16

CORBIES, THE TWA, xl, 74

Corcovado, Mount, Brazil, xxix, 37-8;

Chiloe, 279, 295

Cord, proverb of the, iii, 39

Cordelia, in KING LEAR, xlvi, 217; disowned by father, 218-9, 2235 rejected by Burgundy, 223; grief for father's misfortunes, 287-8; her suitors, 216-7, 221-2; letter to Kent, 251; ordered to be hanged, 316; remarks on character of, 214; taken by France, 223; taken prisoner, 306; with doctor in French camp, 288-9; with Kent, 300; with father at his awakening, 301-3

Cordilleras (see Andes)

Cordova, Gonzalo Fernandez de, in Mantuan contest, xxi, 434-6, 466-8

Corellia, Pliny and, ix, 256-7, 303-4

Corellius, Pliny on, ix, 256-7, 261, 340

Corfinius, in Civil War, xii, 300; house of, 306

Cori, Smith on the, x, 399

CORIDON, PHILLIDA AND, xl, 196-7

CORINNA SINGS, xl, 285

CORINNA'S MAYING, xl, 339-40

CORINNA TO TANAGRA, xli, 899-900

Corinth, Christian Church of, xlv, 489

CORINTHIANS, EPISTLES TO THE, xlv, 489-532

Corinthians, crafts most respected among, xxxiii, 83

Coriolanus, accusations against, xii, 1623; ALCIBIADES, COMPARED WITH, 186-90; Antiates, inroad of, into, 158; banishment of, 165-7; character of, 147-8; consulship, defeat of, for, 1589; Johnson on, xxxix, 239; love of, for mother, xii, 150; on the multitude, 161; name, origin of, 156; reprieved, 163-5; Rome, in war against, 171-7; seditions of the poor and, 150-1, 152, 158-9; training of, to arms, 148; trial and death of, 184; among the Volscians, 167-9; in Volscian War, 152-6; war, first experience in, 148-9

CORIOLANUS, PLUTARCH'S LIFE OF, xii, 147-85

Cormac Condlongas, xlix, 218-9, 244~5

Cormac, King of Ulaid, xlix, 201

Cormorant, Harrison on the, xxxv, 340

Cormorants, habits of, xxix, 203-4

Corn, Cicero on growth of, ix, 63-4; duties on importation of, x, 522, 340-1; as measure of value, 38-9, 42; parable of the, xv, 205; price of, as affected by bounties, x, 375-6, 382-3; prices of, 12; real value of, 385; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 206

Cornaro, Francesco, xxxi, 144 note, 145, 170, 212, 221-2, 227-8

Cornaro, Marco, xxxi, 46 note

Cornaro, Pietro, xxxi, 112 note 4

Cornbury, Lord, lines to, xxvii, 273

Corneille, and his critics, xxxix, 361-3; Hugo on, 372-3; Hugo on Athalie of, 354; Hume on POLYEUCTE of, xxvii, 221; on length of the drama, xiii, 7; life and works, xxvi, 76; on love, xlviii, 62-3 (162); Macaulay on, xxvii, 383; POLYEUCTE, xxvi, 77-130; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 124; Shakespeare and, xxxix, 357; Voltaire and, 426; Voltaire on Pompey of, xxxiv, 135

Cornelia, vestal virgin, ix, 253-4

Cornelia, in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20

Cornelia, wife of Caesar, xii, 264, 267

Cornelianus, letter to, ix, 294-7

Cornelius, Caius, prophecy of Pharsalia, xii, 303

Cornelius, the centurion, xliv, 444-6 (148)

Cornelius, in DR. FAUSTUS, xix, 209-11

Cornelius, in HAMLET, xlvi, 100, 126-7

Corners, of corn, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 245-7, 249-50

Corn hill Magazine, xxviii, 5

Cornificius, in Civil War, xii, 300 note; fellow candidate of Cicero, ix, 81

Cornwall, tin-mines of, x, 172

Cornwall, Duke of, in LEAR, xlvi, given part of kingdom, 215, 216, 219; at Gloucester's, 244-5; with Kent and Oswald, 246-9; death of, reported, 2856, 303; Edmund and, with Gloucester's letter, 273; reported war with Albany, 242, 262; with Gloucester, 277-80; with Lear, 255, 257, 258, 261

Cornwall, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 532

Cornwallis, Burns on, vi, 51; surrender of, xliii, 169-73

Coroebus, builder of Eleusis, xii, 50; death of, xiii, 114; in sack of Troy, 111-4

CORONACH, by Scott, xii, 747

Coroner's Juries, in Massachusetts, xliii, 74 (57)

Corporal Punishment, of children, xxxii, 56; xxxvii, 35-7, 38-40, 41, 56, 60-3, 65-6, 67-8, 93-4; in Massachusetts, xliii, 73 (46)

Corporations, Burke on punishment of, xxiv, 274-5; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 415-6; power of Congress to create, xliii, 212-16, 222-3; Smith on, x, 460-2; trade, 121-33

Corpre, son of Conaire, xlix, 224

Corpse, in THE FROGS, viii, 444

Corpuscularians, xxxvii, 165

Correcting, Pascal on, xlviii, 12 (9)

Correction, acceptance of, ii, 236 (21); advantages of, xlviii, 172 (535); in anger, i, 346 (271), 347 (289-90); of children, xxxvii, 103-4; Marcus Aurelius on, of others, ii, 195 (10), 275 (4), 290-1; reason of anger under, xlviii, 35 (80) (see also Punishment)

Corrections, Locke on, xxxvii, 125

Correggio, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278

Correlated Variation, xi, 27-8, 147-50; instances of, 199

CORRELATION OF PHYSICAL FORCES, Faraday on, xxx, 73-85

Corruption, implies goodness, vii, in; Locke on, xxxvii, 54; in public affairs, iii, 29-30

Corsablis, King, xlix, 123, 133

Corsets, Locke on, xxxvii, 15

Corsica, Freeman on, xxviii, 256

Corso Donati (see Donati)

Cortese, Tommaso, xxxi, 94 note, 108 note

Cortez, Keats on, xii, 896; Raleigh on, xxxiii, 317, 330

Coruncanius, Tiberius, ix, 15, 24, 60

Coruncanius, Titus, ix, 55

Corvees, defined, x, 457

Corvus, M. Valerius, old age of, ix, 67

Cory, William Johnson, poems by, xiii, 1113-14

Corybantes, reference to the, viii, 373

Corycian Rock, the, viii, 123

Corydon, and Thyrsis, iv, 32

Corynzus, xiii, 215, 400

Coseguina, eruption of, xxix, 295-6

Cosimo, St., xxxi, 156 note i

Cosington, Sir Thomas, xxxv, 65

Cosmography, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363

Cosmos, the, ii, 236 (25); Milton's ideas of, iv, 245-7 (see also Universe)

Cosmus, Duke of Florence, on faithless friends, iii, 15; calm nature of, iii, 104-5

Cossus, Virgil on, xiii, 236

Cost of Living (see Food-supply)

Costanza, Queen of Arragon, xx, 156 note 5, 174 note 14

Costiveness, Locke on, xxxvii, 23-5

Costume (see Dress)

Cotta, Lucius, Cicero on, xii, 240

Cotta, Publius, Cicero on, xii, 239

Cottage, and palace, vi, 139

Cotters, life of, Burns on, vi, 152-4; Scotch, x, 119

COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT, THE, vi, 134-40; an idyllic poem, xxxix, 299; remark on, vi, 16

Cottius (see Spurinna)

Cotton, Charles, and Walton, xv, 322; Wordsworth on Winter of, xxxix, 309-10

Cotytto, goddess of nocturnal sport, iv, 48

Coulson, Walter, xxv, 58, 76

Councillors, of kings, iii, 53-4; of kings, More on, xxxvi, 141-2; Penn on, i, 352 (360); Webster on duty of, xlvii, 756

Councils, Church, Luther on, xxxvi, 265; Pascal on, xlviii, 304 (871)

Councils, Ecclesiastical, Luther on, xxxvi, 272-5, 290

Counsel, boldness in, iii, 32; of friends, 70-1, 120; good, excels wealth, viii, 289; right of legal, in U. S., xliii, 1945 (6); safer to receive than to give, vii, 213 (3)

COUNSEL, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 52-6

Counsellors, Confucius on, xliv, 56 (6); evil, in Dante's HELL, xx, 106-14; of kings, xxxvi, 157-8; Machiavelli on, 77-8

Count, meaning of, xxxiv, 368

Countenance, expressions of the, xxviii, 279-81

Counterfeiters, in Dante's HELL, xx, 124-

Counterfeiting, punishable by Congress, xliii, 184 (6)

Country', pleasures of the, iv, 30-3; and town, relations of, x, 127-31, 304-7

COUNTRY GLEE, xl, 317-18

COUNTRY LAIRD, EPIGRAM ON A, vi, 498-9

COUNTRY LASS, THE, vi, 440-1

Country Life, Bacon on, iii, 88-9; Cicero on, ix, 63-6; Cowley on, xxvii, 61-9; Emerson on, v, 50; Locke on, xxxvii, 174-5; Penn on, i, 342-3; Smith on, x, 129-31; Smith on attractiveness of, 306; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 271

COUNTRY LIFE, ESSAY ON, Cowley's, xxvii, 61-9

COUNTRY SEAT, ON A BEAUTIFUL, vi, 499

Country Workmen, Smith on, x, 22-3

Courage, Buddha on, xlv, 595-6; Confucius on, xliv, 44 (27), 48 (30), 58 (8), 60 (23, 24); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340, 365; in Latin the same as virtue, xii, 148; Locke on, xxxvii, 95-101; and oppression, iii, 38-9; not roughness, xxxvii, 51; without courtesy, xliv, 25 (2), 60 (24); without good breeding, xxxvii, 72; worldly, Socrates on, ii, 57

Court, fees of, x, 451-2

Court Mantle, trial by, xxxii, 146 note

Court Records, in Massachusetts, xliii, 73 (48), 75 (64)

COURT OF SESSION, EXTEMPORE IN, vi, 256-7

Courtesy, Bacon on, iii, 34; benevolence of, v, 211, 217; first point of, is truth, 208; intellectual quality in, 209-10; oft found in lowly sheds, iv, 53; Yu-tzu on, xliv, 6 (12, 13); Confucius on, 6 (15), 7 (3), 10 (8), ii (18), 12 (22), 13 (13), 21 (25), 25 (2, 8), 37 (i), 39 (15), 41 (3), 50 (44), 53 (32), 57 (13), 59 (n), 67 (3)

Courtiers, Burns on, vi, 222; Confucius on, xliv, 55 (2); Montaigne on, xxxii, 42-3,; Simon Eyre on, xlvii, 503

COURTIN', THE, xlii, 1376-9

Courts, Bacon on, xl, 349; congressional regulation of, xliii, 184 (9); pleasures of, iv, 33; Raleigh on, xl, 204-5; United States, xliii, 189, 190; Webster on princes', xlvii, 755-6 (see Judicature)

Courtship, naturally done by men, xlviii, 419

Couthony, Mr., on coral-reefs, xxix, 478 note

Covenants, Hobbes on, xxiv, 394-401, 414; the keeping of, 401-6

Coventry, Sir William, and Pepys, xxviii, 302

Coventry, Bishop of, in EDWARD II, xlvi, 12-13

Coventry, Countess of, beauty of, v, 305

Covered, chapter of the, xlv, 879-81

Coverley, Sir Roger de, xxvii, 83-4; Addison's and Steele's parts in, 82, 163-5

Covetousness, Buddha on, xlv, 669; freedom from, 670-1; the cause of war, xxviii, 130-1; Epictetus on, ii, 152 (95); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340, 366; Jesus on, xliv, 387 (15); Locke on, xxxvii, 91; Mohammed on, xlv, 971; More on cause of, xxxvi, 185; Pascal on, xlviii, 188, 220 (663); Penn on, i, 331-2, 373 (4); Paul, St., on, xlv, 497 (n, 10); the sin of, in FAUSTUS, xix, 227 (see Avarice)

Cowardice, Locke on, xxxvii, 95-6; how developed, 97-8

Cowards, insult dying majesty, xvii, 14-15

Cowley, Abraham, OF AGRICULTURE, xxvii, 61-9; on Chaucer, xxviii, 81; xxxix, 168-9; Dryden on, xiii, 62, 427; Dryden on, xxxix, 162 note 13; life and works, xxvii, 60; Poems by, xl, 365-9; Pindaric Odes of, xxxix, 320; popularity of works of, 320

Cowper, William, Hymns by, xlv, 562, 563; Poems by, xii, 533-53; Emerson on, v, 21 ; Mill on works of, xxv, 16; Verses of Selkirk.' xxxix, 295-6; The Task of, 299

Cowpox, first appearance of, xxxviii, 1678; inoculation for, 169-70, 190-1, 199-202, 203-15, 216-17, 220; Jenner on, 142, 143-220; not fatal or infectious, 168-9, J 78-9, 210-11, 215-17; origin and symptoms of, 146, 155-60, 161-3, 170, 180-3, 184-191, 198-203, 204-6, 209, 212, 216-17; return of, 151-2, 162-4; scarlatina and, 215-16; and measles, 215 note; smallpox and, 147-154, 156-7, 160-1, 172, 174, 186 note, J87, 193, 196-199, 200-1, 202-3, 206 note, 209, 210, 212-14, 216, 219-20; sources of spurious, 172-83; treatment of, 186-7, J 87-9, 200-1, 208-9, 212, 217-18

Cows, held sacred in Egypt, xxxiii, 25-6

Cox, William, xxxiii, 274, 288, 289

COXCOMB, EPITAPH ON A NOTED, vi, 487

Coya (see Peru)

Crabs, at St. Paul's, xxix, 20; hermit, 461 and note; notopod, 166

Crabs, giant, of Keeling Islands, xxix, 466-7

CRABS, FABLE OF THE, xvii, 30

Crabtree, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, uncle of Backbite, xviii, 119; at Lady Sneerwell's, 122-25; n Backbite's epigram, 131-2; in gossip at Sneerwell's, 132-3, 134-5; a* Teazle's, after the scandal, 182-5

Crabwinch, the, xxx, 184

Craft, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 352, 366; Revenge's scheming child, viii, 116

Craftiness, Eliphaz on, xliv, 77 (12-14); Locke on, xxxvii, 119 (see Cunning)

Craigdarroch, Burns on, vi, 363-5, 381

CRAIGIEBURN WOOD, vi, 403, 512

Crane, in FAUST, xix, 187; the prudent, iv, 238

CRANE AND WOLF, fable of the, xvii, 1213

Cranes, war with dwarfs alluded to, iv, 102

Cranmer, Archbishop of Canterbury, xxxvi, 114, 117, 120

Craon, Lord, xxxv, 35

Crashaw, Richard, WISHES FOR MISTRESS, xl, 359-63; ON SAINT TERESA, 363-4

Crassipes, son-in-law of Cicero, ix, 129

Crassus, Gaius Licinius, law of, ix, 41

Crassus, Lucius, the orator, Sidney on, xxvii, 48

Crassus, Marcus Licinius, Asia contract, ix, 93; Catiline's Conspiracy and, xii, 229-30; Cicero and, ix, 121, 128-9; xii, 238-9, 242, 246; death of, 288; Dryden on, xiii, 16; influence of, xii, 224; Milo and, ix, 98; and the Parthians, xxxiii, 113-14; Pompey and, ix, 99; reference to, xx, 229 note 20

Crassus, Publius, Roman jurisconsult, ix, 55, 63, 67; son of Marcus, admirer of Cicero, xii, 246; killed in Parthia, 247

Crassus, brother of Piso Galba's adopted son, victim of Nero, ix, 189 note 4

Crassinius, Caius, at Pharsalia, xii, 301

Cratais, mother of Scylla, xxii, 165

Craters, of Galapagos Islands, xxix, 376; of elevation, 487

Cratinus, reference to, viii, 449

Cratinus, on Aspasia, xii, 61; on Pericles, 37-8, 50

Cratippus, Cicero and, xii, 237; Cicero the Younger, and, ix, 174

Craving, Buddha on noble and ignoble, xlv, 715

Cravings, of children, xxxvii, 86-8

Creation, Bacon on the, iii, 8; Berkeley on the, xxxvii, 272-8; Calvin on the, xxxix, 47-8; centres of, xi, 383-6; Dante on manner of, xx, 313-14 note 9; Descartes on, xxxiv, 38-9; Dryden on the, xl, 389; Emerson on the, xlii, 1260-1; greater than destruction, iv, 242; Hume on, of matter, xxxvii, 419 note; Job, description of, in, xliv, 132 (4-11); March, date of, xl, 44; Mill on problem of, xxv, 32; Mohammed on the, xlv, 888-9, 899; Mohammed on, of man, 879, 885, 889, 891, 900; music on morning of, iv, n (12); Owen on, xi, 13-14; Pascal on the, xlviii, 82-3, 207 (625); prophecy of, iv, 104, 117; Raleigh on the, xxxix, 99, 101-6, 107n; reason of the, iii, 287; of the soul, 288-9; special, objections to, xi, 399, 413-14, 417, 418-19, 427, 453-4, 455, 472-3, 488-9, 490, 491, 493, 494, 495, 496, 499-500; special, of species, objections to, 67-8, 102-3, 136-7, 143, 144, 154, 157, 159-60, 166, 180, 192, 196, 247-50, 296, 315; special, Owen on, 13-14; Raphael relates story of, iv, 232-43; Uriel describes the, 153-4

Creative Genius, Aristophanes on, viii, 442

Creator, Addison on the, xlv, 535

Crecy, battle of, xxxv, 27-31; losses at, 32-3 and note; order of the English at, 24-5; order of French, 25-6

CRECY, THE CAMPAIGN OF, xxxv, 7-33

Credit, Bacon on assuming, iii, 100-1; Franklin on assuming, i, 75; Luther on, xxxvi, 331-2 (see also Loans)

Credits, cash, in Scotland, x, 237, 244-5

Credulity, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 374; reason of, human, xxiv, 18

CREECH, WILLIAM, LAMENT FOR, vi, 267-9

Creeds, best when clearest, xxxiv, 289; Bronte on, xlii, mo; decline of, reason of, xxv, 233-7; xxxiv, 383-7; determined by accident of birth, 284 note; Emerson on modern, v, 77; Hobbes on belief in, xxxiv, 348; Locke on, xxxvii, 127-8; origin of, xxxiv, 375; Pope on religious, xl, 430; Rousseau on usefulness of, xxxiv, 302-3; truth of, impossibility to finding, 292-8; of Utopia, xxxvi, 223-36

Creeper, the, in Tierra del Fuego, xxix, 242

Creighton, Robert, Bishop of Wells, xv, 392

Cremona, reference to, iv, 24 (4)

Creon, brother of Jocasta, sent to Delphi by GEdips, viii, 211; returns, 211-13; suspected by CEdipus, 221; disclaims guilt, 224-8; last scene with CEdipus, 251-4; King of Thebes, forbids burial of Polynices, 256, 260-3; hears of burial, 263-5; condemns Antigone, 267-74; with Haemon, 276-80; warned against his crimes, 287-91; sees death of son, 295-6; death of wife, 297-8

Cresceus, Attilius, Pliny on, ix, 281-2

Crespino, the Bargello, xxxi, 203

Cressy, Drayton on, xl, 224 (see Crecy)

Cretaceous Era, in Europe, xxx, 346-7

Crete, Anchises on, xiii, 131-2; Homer on, xxii, 261-2

Creteus, death of, xiii, 319

Cretheus, son of Æolus, xxii, 150

Creiisa, ghost appears to Æneas, xiii, 1267; in sack of Troy, 123, 125

Crevasses, formation of, xxx, 226-7, 2375 in glaciers, 215, 220-2

Crewe, Mrs., lines addressed to, xviii, 108-12

Crichton, Admirable, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277

CRICKET AND GRASSHOPPER, by Keats, xli, 895

Crifford, John, xxxv, 381

Crime, reasons of, Augustine, St., on, vii, 27-30; Confucius on causes of, xliv, 25 (10); and law, xlviii, 104 note 2; made by distrust, v, 56; nature hostile to, 97; prevention of, laws for, xxv, 291-2; and punishment, inseparable, v, 90; retribution of, 100; retribution of (see Retribution); Stoic doctrine of, ix, 317 note i; trials of, in U. S., xliii, 194 (5), 194-5 (6) (see also Penology)

Crimes, great, never single, xxvi, 176 Criminal Codes, sanguinary, Emerson on, v, 89

Criminals, equality of, v, 116; public and private, 279; proper treatment of, ii, 150 (88); real punishment of, 120 (12)

Crinisus, father of Acestes, xiii, 179

Crises, Lowell on, xlii, 1371

Crisis, the, shows the man, ii, 173 (157)

Crispinus, and Horace, xviii, 18

Crispus, xliv, 463 (8); baptism of, xlv, 491 (14); destruction of, iii, 50

Cristoforo, Father, in THE BETROTHED, Attilio and, xxi, 181; death, 623; life and character, 53-67; Lucia and, 38-9, 50-1, 123, 130-3, 604-11; Renzo and, 582-91, 609-11; Rodrigo and, 83-7

Critias, and Alcibiades, xii, 139, 145

Critical Periods, xxv, 103-5

Criticism, of art, xxiv, 28; of art, Goethe on, xxxix, 261-3, 264; Bagehot on, xxviii, 194-5; comparison necessary to, xxvii, 213; xxviii, 73-4; xxxix, 208-9; delicacy requisite to just, xxvii, 209-11; false method of, xxxix, 289-90; fallacies of poetic, xxviii, 67-72; Hugo on, xxxix, 383-5; Hume on, xxxvii, 297, 359, 420; Johnson's ideas of, xxxix, 242-8; Johnson on conjectural, 244-5, 246, 247-8; of manners, morals, and religion, xxvii, 219-21; Mazzini on mission of, xxxii, 396; Montaigne on, xlviii, 390-1; need of negative, xxv, 239; of others (see Censoriousness); Pascal's method of, xlviii, 17-18; physical organs in relation to, xxvii, 209; practice necessary to, 211-12; prejudice fatal to, 213-14; of poetry, xxxix, 311-16; possibility of fixing standard of, xxvii, 216-19; reason in, 215-16 (see also Taste)

Critics, Burke on mistake of, xxiv, 48; Burns on, vi, 321; Dryden on, xviii, 15-17, 21 ; Johnson on, xxxix, 239; knowledge requisite to, xxiv, 18-21; qualifications of, xxvii, 208-16; xxxix, 315-16

Crito, friend of Socrates, ii, 22, 26, 47, 51-2, 110-13

CRITO, Plato's, ii, 31-43

Critobulos, of Cyrene, xxxiii, 89

Critobulus, and Socrates, ii, 22, 26, 47

Critolaus, in Rome, iii, 194

Crobylus, the orator, xii, 204

Croce, Baccino della, xxxi, 98, 126

Crocodile, in Book of Job, xliv, 138 note i; the, creation of, iv, 239; Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 37-8

Crocker, Mrs., and More, xxxvi, 116

Crocus, David on the, xii, 494

Croesus, Chaucer on dream of, xl, 43; death of, xxxii, 5; and Solon, iii, 74

Croghan, George, and Braddock, i, 134

Croll, on age of earth, xi, 344; on geological time, 324-5; on glacial period, 401

Cromwell, Burke on, xxiv, 186; Carlyle on, xxv, 366-7, 368-70; Carlyle's Life of, xxxix, 415; Defoe on, xxvii, 135; Emerson on, v, 239; his fast proclamation, xliii, 118 note; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 275; Hugo on, xxxix, 356, 376-80; as Lord Protector, xliii, 106 note, 115 (33); Milton on, xxviii, 188-9; Pascal on, xlviii, 65 (176); Pope on, xl, 437; and the Quakers, xxxiv, 72, 73; quotation from, v, 159-60; Swift on, xxvii, 96; Waller's elegy on, xxxiv, 145-6

Cromwell, preface to Hugo's, xxxix, 337-87

CROMWELL, SONNET TO, iv, 82-3

CROMWELL'S RETURN, ODE UPON, xl, 3726

Cromwell, Sir Richard, xxxvi, 121 Cromwell, Sir Thomas, and More, xxxvi, 113, 117, 120

Cronion, father of Venus, xxii, 106; name of Zeus, 160; references to, 35, 36, 51

Cronos, his curse on Zeus, viii, 199-200; overthrown by Zeus, reference to, 148; the war against, 173-4

Crosfield, George, i, 306

Crosfield, Jane, i, 308

Cross, the, in architecture, xxiv, 63-4

Cross, of Jesus, exhortation to bear the, vii, 329; few bearers of, 251-2; royal way of the, 253-7; spell of the, xix, 56

Cross Breeding (see Intercrosses)

Cross Lies, iii, 128

Cross, Robert, xxxiii, 230, 245

Crossbow, Helmholtz on the, xxx, 188-9

Crossing (see Intercrossing)

CROSSING THE BAR, xlii, 1057

Crossley, Hastings, translator of Epictetus, ii, 115

Crossness, founded in Vinland, xliii, 13

CROW AND Fox, fable of, xvii, 14

CROW AND PITCHER, fable of, xvii, 32

CROWDIE EVER MAIR, vi, 543

Crowds, not company, iii, 66

Crown Servants, Confucius on, xliv, 43 (20); Tzu-hsia on, 64 (13)

Crowns, Hippolytus on usurped, viii, 3478; Jesus on, iv, 383

Crucifixion, The, xliv, 415-16

Cruelty, in children, xxxvii, 102-3; in commanders, xxxvi, 55-6; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 343, 408; in princes, xxxvi, 53-5; of single and married men, iii, 22; well and ill employed, xxxvi, 32

Cruelty, Mr., juryman in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Cruger, Dr., on orchids, xi, 194-5

CRUIKSHANK, Miss, To, vi, 331

CRUIKSHANK, MR., EPITAPH FOR, vi, 288

Crusaders, in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 362

Crustacea, South American, xxix, 166-7

Crying, of children, Locke on, xxxvii, 92-

Crystallization, different forms of, xxx, 30-2, 37

Crystals, perforated, xxix, 154

Ctesius, son of Ormenus, xxii, 210

Ctesiphon, Emerson on, v, 226; indictment of, xii, 210

Ctesippus, xxii, 303; death of, 303; and Demosthenes, xii, 203; with Socrates, ii, 47; and Ulysses, xxii, 280-1

Ctimene, daughter of Anticleia, xxii, 209

Cuba, Independence of, xliii, 440-1, 443 (i), 448-9 (16); slavery in, v, 45-6

Cucao, Chiloe Islands, xxix, 298-9

Cuccagua, land of the, xxi, 193 note

Cuchulainn, xlix, 239

Cuckoo, habits of the, xxix, 60-1; instincts of, xi, 259-62; Wordsworth on the, xxxix, 303

CUCKOO, To THE, by Michael Bruce, xli, 450-1

CUCKOO, To THE, by Wordsworth, xli, 641-2

Cudworth, Dr., xiii, 30; xxxvii, 166

Cudworth's Risk, v, 273

Cuentas, Sierra de las, xxix, 154

Cuevas, Luis Gonzaga, xliii, 289

Culan, Baron de, xxxviii, 37

Cultivated Classes, rage of the, v, 65

Culture, Arnold on, xxviii, 213-14; Confucius on, xliv, 16 (14); Huxley on, xxviii, 214; and morality, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 162; necessity of valor in our, v, 123-4; Rousseau on progress of, xxxiv, 177; proper aim of, xxxii, 276; in relation to freedom and virtue, 219, 236-7, 254-5, 266-7, 271-4; Schiller on office of, 244; Thoreau on, xxviii, 417-18; timidity of our, v, 95

CULTURE AND SCIENCE, Huxley's, xxviii, 207-23

Cumberland, Goldsmith on, xli, 505-7

Cuming, on shells, xxix, 395, 396, 492

Cunizza, xx, 320 note 6

Cunning, Bacon on, iii, 57-60; fable on, xvii, 34; Locke on, xxxvii, 119; Penn on, i, 337 (150-1); Webster on, xlvii, 765

CUNNINGHAM, ALEX., To, vi, 308-9

CUNNINGHAM, ALEXANDER, song to, vi, 538-9

Cunningham, Allan, poems by, xli, 782-4

Cupavo, son of Cycnus, xiii, 328

Cupentus, death of, xiii, 409

Cupid, assumes form of Ascanius, xiii, 97-8; blindness of, v, 301; Dante on worship of, xx, 314; and Psyche, iv, 71

CUPID AND CAMPASPE, xl, 209

Cupidity (see Covetousness)

Curan, in KING LEAR, xlvi, 242

Curianus, Assidius, ix, 260-2

Curiatii, reference to the, xx, 306 note 9

Curio, Gaius Scribonius, xx, 117 note n; and Antony, xii, 322-3, 325; and Caesar, 270, 289, 291; and Memmius, ix, 150; and Pompey, 98, 99

Curiosity, Augustine, St., on, vii, 28, 189-90; Burke on, xxiv, 29-30; in children, xxxvii, 104-7; folly of, vii, 207 (i); Goethe on, xix, 19, 339, 340; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 341, 375; Kempis on, vii, 262 (4), 288 (i); Locke on, in children, xxxvii, 89; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 206 (4); Montaigne on, xxxii, 43; noble and mean, xxviii, 114; Pascal on, xlviii, 15 (18), 60 (152); Penn on, i, 384 (135); Tzu-kung on, xliv, 60 (24)

Curious-impertinent, history of the, xiv, 305-46, 351-5

Curious Persons, envious, iii, 22-3

Curius, Manius, Cicero on, ix, 15, 19, 81; and Coruncanius, 23; old age of, 65; reference to, iv, 383; in war with Pyrrhus, ix, 60

Curie, Dr., xv, 393

Curnach, xlix, 220

Currency, debasement of the, x, 32; depreciation of the, 563-4; effect of debasement on rents, 38-9 (see Money)

Curricle, Lady Betty, epigram on, xviii, 132

Curse, of Faust, xix, 66-7

Curses, Chaucer on, xl, 29

Curtius, Quintus, on Alexander, xxxvii, 354; Cicero and, ix, 114

Curtis, John, i, 265

Curule-chair, defined, xx, 427

Curves, more beautiful than angles, xxiv, 94-5, 98

Cusco, Milton on, iv, 329

Cuscrad, son of Conchobar, xlix, 233-4

Cush, the Benjamite, Psalm concerning words of, xliv, 150-1

Cushing's Battery, at Gettysburg, xliii, 337. 351, 375, 381, 382

Custom, Calvin on, xxxix, 38-9; Descartes on ease of following, xxxiv, 14; Emerson on defiance of, v, 68-9; Harvey on, xxxviii, 101 ; "honored in breach," xlvi, 112; Hume on, xxxvii, 309, 321-2, 330-373; and innovations, iii, 62; and justice, xlviii, 104, 105 (297), 108 (309), 109 (312); and manners, xxxvii, 355-6; Mill on, xxv, 199-200, 265-6; in modes of living, v, 51-2; and nature, iii, 96; obedience to, xlviii, 112 (325); obedience to, a result of ignorance, xxxiv, 373-4; overcome by custom, vii, 227 (2); Pascal on, xlviii, 40 (89, 90), 41 (92, 93), 42 (97); in religion, 91 (245), 93 (252); not resisted, becomes necessity, vii, 124; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 167-8; Winthrop on, xliii, 85 (see also Conformity, Habit, Precedent)

CUSTOM, Bacon's ESSAY ON, iii, 98-9

Customs, Augustine, St., on, vii, 39; Burke on, xxiv, 85, 289-90; Goethe on, xix, 80; Woolman on, i, 192 (see Duties)

Customary Conjunction, xxxvii, 324, 330, 346-7, 415

Cuttle-fish, Darwin on habits of, xxix, 16-18; eyes of, xi, 190-1; supposed to have no heart, xii, 16 note

Cuvier, on conditions of life, xi, 207-8; on the Diodon, xxix, 23-4; on monkeys, xi, 341; reference to, v, 18

Cybele, mother of the Gods, iv, 42; viii, 371, ix, 385 note; xiii, 132; and the ships of Æneas, 295-6

Cyclades, the, described, xiii, 132

Cyclic-Uproar, xlv, 603

Cycloid, invention of the, xxxiv, 126

Cyclops, the, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 148-50; and the Phaeacians, xxii, 81; of Sindbad, xvi, 252-5; and Ulysses, xxii, 117-29; at Vulcan's forge, xiii, 282

Cycnus, and Phaeton, xiii, 328

Cydon, and Clytius, xiii, 332

Cyllene, hoar, iv, 44

Cyllenius, messenger of Jove, xiii, 83 (see also Mercury)

Cymodoce, the nymph, xiii, 329

Cymothoe, reference to, xiii, 78

Cynemernes, in Utopia, xxxvi, 232

Cynesians (see Kynesians)

Cynicism, Comus on, iv, 63; Epictetus on true, ii, 157-61; tolerated in Athens, iii, 193

Cynics (see Diogenes, Demetrius, Antisthenes)

Cynosarges, at Athens, xii, 5

Cynthia, and the boar of Calydon, xiii, 249; and the Latmian shepherd, xl, 244; the moon called, 232, 244, 248; name of Diana, xxxix, 63; reference to, iv, 35 (see also Artemis, Diana)

Cyprian Epic, of Homer, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 57

Cyprian, St., xxxix, 37 note 30; xxxvi, 134; Luther on, 280; on sin, xxxix, 39-40

Cypris (see Aphrodite)

Cyprus, conquered first by Amasis, xxxiii, 90

Cyrene, Amasis and, xxxiii, 88-9; School of, iii, 193

Cyrus, the Elder, Bacon on, iii, 129-30; and Cassandane, xxxiii, 7; the cities of, iv, 391; first post ascribed to, ix, 368 note; gardening of, xxxvii, 175; on immortality, ix, 73-4; and the Jews, xxxii, 194 (39); xlviii, 210 (633); liberality of, xxxvi, 53; Machiavelli on, 20, 21, 83; on his old age, ix, 55-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 234 (701); prophecy of, 240-1; and Scipio, xxxvi, 50; Sidney on, xxvii, 10-11, 18; and Tomyris, xx, 192; the young soldier of, xxxii, 82

Cyrus, the Younger, and Aspasia, xii, 61; park of, ix, 66-7; Xenophon on, 66-7

Cytheris, and Antony, xii, 328

D

DA DERGA'S HOSTEL, DESTRUCTION OF, xlix, 197-248

Dacia, Freeman on, xxviii, 265

Dacier, Dryden on, xiii, 12

Daedalus, Dante on, xx, 318 note 15; Virgil on, xiii, 207

Daeghrefn, death of, xlix, 73-4

DÆR, LORD, LINES ON MEETING, vi, 240-2

DAFFODILS, THE, xii, 639

DAFFODILS, To, xl, 337-8

Dag, son of Hogni, xlix, 361-3

Dagon, god of the Philistines, iv, 99, 414, 425-6

Dahish, the 'Efrit, xvi, 306-10

Daigne, the apothecary, xxxviii, 23

DAINTY DAVIE, vi, 471

Dairy Products, price of, x, 190-1

Daisies, Shelley on, xii, 842-3; for simplicity, vi, 407, 470

DAISY, STORY OF THE, xvii, 297-301

DAISY, To THE, xii, 640-1

Dalibard, M., i, 147, 148

Dalila, wife of Samson, iv, 420, 424-5, 428, 432-8

Dalmatia, Freeman on, xxviii, 256

Dalrymple, Dr., reference to, vi, 351

Damaris, xliv, 462 (34)

Damiano, Pietro, xx, 377 and note 13

Damiano, St., xxxi, 156 note i

Damien, reference to, xii, 531

Damis, in TARTUFFE, disinherited, xxvi, 259; Dorine and, 208, 244-5; Loyal and, 288, 289; Pernelle and, 200, 201-2; Tartuffe and, 248, 253-4, 2558, 281

Damoetas, reference to, iv, 73

Damon, ostracism of, xii, 79; Pythias and, Browne on, iii, 318; teacher of Pericles, xii, 38

DAMON AND SYLVIA, vi, 414

Damonides, of OEa, xii, 44

Dampier, on gold countries, xiii, 60

Dana, Francis, xxiii, 3

Dana, Richard Henry, Jr., life and works, xxiii, 3-4; Two YEARS BEFORE THE MAST, 5-374; TWENTY-FOUR YEARS AFTER, 375-405

Danae, founder of Ardua, xiii, 253; Jove and, vii, 18; xlvi, 55; xlvii, 612; Marlowe on, xlvi, 33; Sophocles on, viii, 286; Carew on, xl, 352; Tennyson on, xiii, 974

Danaos, an Egyptian, xxxiii, 45; daughters of, viii, 197-8; xiii, 338; xxxiii, 85,90

Danby, Earl of, Dedication to, xviii, 7u; George Herbert and, xv, 391-2

Dancer, in FAUST, xix, 188

Dancing, Confucius on, xliv, 9 (i); Cowley on, xxvii, 65; Emerson on beauty of, v, 303; among the Germans, xxxiii, 106; Locke on, xxxvii, 47, 170

Dancing-Master, in FAUST, xix, 188

Dandini, on Socrates, etc., v, 268

Danger, admiration excited by, ix, 347; Bacon on, iii, 56; Goethe on, xix, 341; Locke on insensibility to, xxxvii, 95; of others, pleasure in, xxiv, 42-3; passions excited by, 35; way of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 45, 218

Daniel, the prophet, Dante on, xx, 238 and note 12; on dreams, xl, 43; on God, xxxvi, 328; learning of, iii, 199; Luther on, xxxvi, 329; Milton on, iv, 380; Nebuchadnezzar and, xx, 297 note i; Pascal on, xlviii, 232; prophecies of, 245 (722-3), 254

Daniel, Arnault, Dante on, xx, 253 and note 2

Daniel, Samuel, sonnets by, xl, 219-22

Daniel, the Saxon, xxxiii, 285, 290

Dante Alighieri, ancestry of, xx, 349 notes i and 2; Arnold on selections from, xxviii, 72, 79; banishment of, xx, 178 and note 10, 227 note 12; banishment predicted, 42, 63-5, 356-60; Beatrice and (see Beatrice); Browning on the painting of, xiii, 1095-6, at Campaldino, xx, 164 note 8; Carlyle on, xxv, 444; Casella and, iv, 81; Cavalcanti and, xx, 42 note 6; Cellini on line of, xxxi, 303; date of descent into Hell, xx, 88 note; DIVINE COMEDY, xx; Dryden on, xxxix, 155; Emerson on, v, 179; English love of, 433; father of, xx, 349 note 2; as a Franciscan, 68 note 9; Goethe on, xxxii, 389; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 272; Hugo on, xxxix, 349, 354-5; Huxley on, xxviii, 217; life and works, xx, 3-4; Macaulay on, xxvii, 370; Milton on, xxviii, 174; on the ocean, xliii, 30; on St. Peter's keys, xxviii, no; in poet's band, xx, 19; religious belief of, 390, 396; rescue of child from drowning, 77 note; Ruskin on creed of, xxviii, 112; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 122, 128, 132; Shelley on, xxvii, 332, 335, 347, 348, 349, 350; Sidney on, 6; Thoreau on, xxviii, 420; Wordsworth on sonnets of, xii, 681 Danti, Vincenzo, xxxi, 420 note Danube, Herodotus on the

(Ister), xxxiii, 22; Tacitus on the, 93

Danvers, Charles, and George Herbert, xv, 392-3

Danvers, Jane, wife of George Herbert, xv, 392, 396, 397, 407-8, 418

Danvilliers, siege of, xxxviii, 19-21

Daphne, and Apollo, xl, 378; iv, 62; grove of, iv, 161; Webster on, xlvii, 794

Daphne, in TARTUFFE, xxvi, 204

Dapper, in THE ALCHEMIST, xlvii, 550-58, 602, 604, 607-11, 649-50, 651-53

Darby, Earl of, and Dryden, xiii, 425

Dardanus, born in Italy, xiii, 133; Electra's son, 272; founder of Troy, xx, 19 note 5; Virgil on, xiii, 246

Dare-not-lye, Mr., xv, 282, 283

Dares, death of, xiii, 402; and Entellus, 190-4; xxxix, 173

Dares, Trojan priest, Caxton on, xxxix, 9

Daring, Graham on, xl, 359; Locke on, xxxvii, 96; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 336

Darius, prophecy of, xlviii, 248

Darius III, Dryden on, xl, 393; empire of, xxxvi, 17; Greek cities and, 22; Raleigh on, xxxix, 98

Dark Ages, Shelley on the, xxvii, 345-6

Dark-land, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 297

Darkness, in architecture, xxiv, 68; children's fear of, xxxvii, 118; sublimity and, xxiv, 67-8; sublimity of, 114-18; terror in idea of, 60-1; usefulness of, xxviii, 418; "visible," iv, 89

DARKNESS, Byron's poem, xii, 796-8

Darkness, Our Lady of, xxvii, 324

Darley, George, LOVELINESS OF LOVE, xli, 913-14

DARNING-NEEDLE, THE, xvii, 315-18

Darwin, Charles Robert, ORIGIN OF SPECIES, xi; sketch of life and works, 5-8; VOYAGE OF BEAGLE, xxix

Darwin, Erasmus, xi, 5, 10 note

Darwin, George, on lunar disturbances, xxx, 282-3; on long period tides, 298

Darwin, Horace, on lunar disturbances, xxx, 282-3

Darwinism, Lowell on, xxviii, 462 note

Datarius, Papal, xxxvi, 284 note, 285

Dathan, reference to, xliv, 278 (17)

Datis, general of Darius, xii, 82

Dativo, the pedagogue, xxxviii, 14-15

DATUR HORA QUIETI, xli, 754

DAUNTON ME, To, vi, 303

Dauphin, heir-apparent of France, xxxv, 217

Davaine, Dr., xxxviii, 364

Davenant, Dr., Bishop of Salisbury, xv, 394

D'Avenant, Sir William, DAWN SONG, xl, 354; Swift on, xxvii, 109

David, and the Amorites, xliii, 103; Bagehot on, xxviii, 169-70; Burns on, vi, 229; on Christ, xliv, 426-7 (25-31); Dante on, xx, 184-5; in Dante's PARADISE, 371; faults of, xv, 260; God's covenant with, xliv, 254 (3), 255 (4), 256 (20-37), 257 (38-51); Goliath and, xxxvi, 46-7; Kempis on, vii, 337 (8); Locke on stories of, xxx vii, 133; Mephibosheth and, xliii, 104; Milton on, iv, 350, 393-4; Mohammed on, xlv, 917; Nathan and, xxvii, 25; one of nine worthies, xxxix, 20; Pascal on, xlviii, 91 (243), 230 (690), 231-2, 264 (752); Paul on, xliv, 451 (22); on the Sabbath, xliv, 368 (3-4); sword of, xxxv, 187-8; and the tabernacle, xliv, 313-14; and the temple, 438 (46); in valley of death, xv, 66, 134-5; water, story of, i, 285-6; v, 126; Winthrop on, xliii, 94

DAVID, PSALMS OF, xliv, 146-94, 205-30, 251-2, 268, 271-2, 283-87, 307-8, 3089, 312-13, 314-15, 319-32; remarks on, 144; Sidney on, xxvii, 9, 11

DAVID, SONG TO, xli, 484-98

David, King, of Britain, xxxv, 252

DAVIE, EPISTLE TO, vi, 66-70

DAVIE, SECOND EPISTLE TO, vi, 107-8

DAVIES, CHARMS OF LOVELY, vi, 405

DAVIES, Miss, EPIGRAM ON, vi, 404

Davies, Mr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 229

Davies, Tom, Lamb on, xxvii, 300 note

Davy, Sir Humphry, and conservation, law of, xxx, 175; Faraday and, 5; on frictional heat, 197; potassium, discovered by, 119 note

DAWN SONG, by D'Avenant, xl, 354

DAWN SONG, by Shakespeare, xl, 268

DAY Is COMING, THE, xlii, 1195-7

DAY Is DONE, THE, xlii, 1274-5

DAY Is PAST AND OVER, THE, xlv, 542-3

DAY RETURNS, vi, 314

DAYS, by Emerson, xlii, 1243-4

DAYS THAT WERE, THE, xlii, 1197-8

Dead, Brynhild on the, xlix, 370; Calvin on masses for the, xxxix, 36-7; grief for, xxvii, 286; knowledge of the, xxxix, 92; Luther on masses for, xxxvi, 306-7; Pascal on prayers for the, xlviii, 339-40

Dead Man's Lane, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 128

DEAN OF FACULTY, THE, vi, 545-6

Death, Adam's first view of, iv, 330; Addison on contemplation of, xxvii, 80; Æschylus on, viii, 80; Arabian inscriptions on, xvi, 300-4, 312, 317, 320-1, 425, 441; Aristophanes on, viii, 483; Aristotle on, xxxviii, 84; Barbauld on, xli, 555; Beaumont on, xlvii, 707; Beowulf on, xlix, 43; Browne on, iii, 251, 290, 291-2, 295-6, 324; Browning, Robert, on, xlii, 1065; Browning, Elizabeth B., on, xli, 941-2; Bryant on, xlii, 1213-15; Buddhist ideas of, xlv, 662, 681, 683-4, 736; Bunyan's allegory of, xv, 158-60, 310-18; Burke on idea of, xxiv, 35; Burns on, vi, 62, 297; Byron on fear of, xviii, 427; Calderon on, xxvi, 70; children mitigate, iii, 20; Cicero on, ix, 69-72; Clough on, xlii, 1120; comes to all alike, xxvii, 78 note 2; Confucius on, xliv, 34 (n); Diogenes on, ii, 180 (187); Drummond on, xl, 326; Dryden on, xviii, 98, 99-100; Ecclesiastes on, xliv, 341 (i), 345 (5) 346 (6); Emerson on, v, 131, 293-4; Epictetus on, ii, 131 (44), 132 (45), 135 (55), 158 (112), 164 (130, 131), 165 (132, 134, 135), 167 (139), 174 (161), 181 (188); Euripides on, in misery, viii, 349; Faust on, xix, 66; fear of, disposes to peace, xxxiv, 370; "felicity of wretched men," xlvi, 72; Fitzgerald on, xli, 945-7, 950, 952; friends lessen fear of, iii, 71; friendship takes sting from, ix, 17; Goethe on, xix, 401-2; Gray on, xl, 446, 454; Grenville on, xlii, 1010; Hamlet's soliloquy on, xlvi, 144; xxxiv, 132-3; the happiest, ii, 181 (189); Harvey on cause of, xxxviii, 122; Harvey on two kinds of, 109; Henley's wish for, xlii, 1210; Herbert on, xl, 342; Hindu conception of, xlv, 792; Job on, xliv, 74-5, 92 (10-12), 104 (23), 105 (24-6); Kempis on meditations of, vii, 230-2; knowledge of world after, xxxix, 96-7; Longfellow on, xlii, 1278; love and, 1036; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 202 (u, 12), 203 (14), 204 (17), 206 (3), 208 (7), 213 (5, 6), 214 (14), 220 (47, 48), 221 (50), 223 (4), 230 (29), 232 (2), 236 (24), 237 (28), 241 (47), 244 (10), 245 (19), 247 (32), 249 (50), 256 (18), 257 (25), 258 (31), 264 (58), 265-6 (3), 268 (21), 271 (33), 281 (29), 284 (36), 285 (3), 296 (5), 298 (23), 300 (31), 301 (34, 35, 36); Milton on, iv, 165, 320, 356, 454; Mohammed on, xlv, 975; Montaigne on, xxxii, 5-8, 9-28; Montaigne's conceptions, Pascal on, xlviii, 25, 395; More on, xxxvi, 120; Nashe on, xl, 260-1; to be overcome by Christ, iv, 141-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 63 (166, 168), 64 (169), 65 (175) 571, 79 (210), 80 (215-16), 150 (447), 330-8; Penn on, i, 363 (500-5); Pope on knowledge of, xl, 424; Raleigh on, xxxix, 94, 98; Raleigh on thoughts of, xl, 204; Roman expression for, xii, 235; Rossetti, C. G., on xlii, 1181, 1182; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 261-2; Schiller on, xxvi, 473; scholar's dread of, xix, 30-1; Shakespeare on, xl, 269, 270; Shakespeare on fear of, xlvi, 313; Shelley on, xviii, 308-9, 310, 353-4; xli, 833, 869; Shirley on, xl, 349, 350; Socrates on, ii, 16-17, 25, 27, 28-9, 50-9, 60-1; Sophocles on, v, 121-2; viii, 272; Stevenson on, xlii, 1213; Swinburne on, 1205; terror of animals, xxxiv, 177; Utopian ideas of, xxxvi, 228; Valley of Shadow of, xv, 65-9, 245-9; Vaughan on, xl, 347; "where is thy victory," xlv, 513 (55); White on, xli, 913; Whitman on, xlii, 1417-18, 1422; "who kings and tars dispatches," xli, 503-4; Woolman on nearness to, i, 198

Death, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 125-8, 134, 296-301, 305-7; Burke on, xxiv, 50-1

DEATH, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 9-10

DEATH BED, THE, xli, 910

DEATH AND DOCTOR HORNBOOK, vi, 74-9

DEATH, by Donne, xl, 305-6

DEATH OF A FAIR INFANT, ON THE, iv, 18-20

DEATH AND THE OLD MAN, a fable, xvii, 39

DEATH OF POOR MAILIE, vi, 41-2

DEATH, PRAYER IN PROSPECT OF, vi, 34-5

DEATH, SONG OF, vi, 426

DEATH STANDS ABOVE ME, xli, 905

DEATH, THE TERROR OF, xli, 897

DEATH'S MESSENGERS, xlv, 685-92

DEATHS OF LITTLE CHILDREN, Hunt's, xxvii, 285-8

Debasement, of currency, x, 31-2; effect on money rents, 38

Debates, Penn on, i, 335 (133-5), 336 (136)

Debauchery, Burns on, vi, 185; courage and, xxxvii, 54

De Bouillon, Cardinal Retz on, v, 307

Debt, Emerson on, v, 96; Franklin on, i, 91; imprisonment for, in Massachusetts, xliii, 71 (33); Penn on collecting, i, 327 (48); in Utopia, xxxvi, 190

Decebalus, King of Dacia, ix, 369 note 2, 370 note 4

Deceit, Pascal on sources of, xlviii, 37-8; punishment of, in Hell, xx, 46-7; Whitman on, xxxix, 402-3

DECEMBER, THOU GLOOMY, vi, 430

Decemviri, Roman, ix, 277 note 2

Decency, Mill on offences against, xxv, 294

Decii, deaths of the, ix, 72

Decius, Publius, Cicero on, ix, 60

Decius, Roman Emperor, persecutions under, xxxviii, 392

Decker (see Dekker)

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, xliii, 150-5; Lincoln on, 316

DECLARATION, THE MECKLENBURG, xliii, 156-7

Declaration of Right, Burke on, xxiv, 156-7, 171-2

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS, xliii, 147-9

Decow, Isaac, i, 54-5

Decurii, Roman, ix, 194 note

DEDICATION, A, by Burns, vi, 211-14

Dee, Dr., the magician, xlvii, 589 note 4

Deer, ages, various of the, xxxv, 343; in Brazil, xxix, 56-7

Defects, compensation for, v, 98; Hugo on, xxxix, 385-6; Shakespeare on single, xlvi, 112

Defence, national, expense of, x, 447-50

Deference, Emerson on, v, 209; Pascal on, xlviii, no (317)

Definitions, Burke on, xxiv, 12; Goethe on, xix, 132; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 326-7, 333; Hume on, xxxvii, 351-2; Johnson on, xxxix, 191-5; Pascal on, xlviii, 404, 405, 422-4, 425-8, 433-4

Defoe, Daniel, EDUCATION OF WOMEN, xxvii, 148-51; Emerson on, v, 433; on Englishmen, 340; Essay on Projects, i, 14; Franklin on, i, 23; life and works, xxvii, 132; SHORTEST WAY WITH

DISSENTERS, xxvii, 133-47

DEFORMITY, BACON'S ESSAY ON, iii, 107-8

Deformity, Browne on, iii, 267-8; Burke on, xxiv, 83-4; envy and, iii, 23

Degerando, Landor on, v, 317

Deglutition, Harvey on, xxxviii, 87

Degradation, geological (see Denudation)

De'ianira, and Nessus, xx, 50 and note

Deidamia, Dante on, xx, 108, 237

DEIL, ADDRESS TO THE, vi, 140-3

DEIL'S AWA wi' THE EXCISEMAN, vi, 439

Deiotarus, Cicero on, ix, 136, 137, 140, 143, 147; in war of Antony and Octavius, xii, 370

De'iphile, in Limbo, xx, 237

De'iphobe, the Sibyl, and Æneas, xiii, 207-38

Deiphobus, in Hades, xiii, 223-5; at Trojan horse, xxii, 53

Deism, Franklin on, i, 55; Mill on, xxv, 33-4, 47-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 181, 183; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 280, 282-3, 284, 288-9, 299-300

Dejection, Coleridge on, xxv, 86; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 342; results of, 353

DEJECTION: AN ODE, xli, 728-32

DEJECTION, STANZAS WRITTEN IN, xli, 827-8

Dekker, Thomas, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 276; life and works, xlvii, 468; POEMS BY, xl, 317-19; SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 469-537

Delaware, Lord, at Crecy, xxxv, 24; at Poitiers, 42

Delay, Bacon on, iii, 56-7; Penn on, i, 354 (39o); Shakespeare on, xl, 262

Delectable Mountains, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 58, 122-3

DELIA, AN ODE, vi, 340

Deliberation, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 343; language of, 344

Delicacy, as cause of beauty, xxiv, 95; of imagination, Hume on, xxvii, 209-12

Delight, Burke on, xxiv, 33-4; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 339-40; how caused by pain, xxiv, 107-8; Shelley on, xli, 825-7

Delilah (see Dalila)

Delille, Hugo on, xxxix, 369-70

Delio, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 755, 757; in presence-chamber scene, 757, 759-61; learns Antonio's marriage, 774; advises Antonio, 777; despatched to Rome, 780; with Antonio, after interval, 789-91; on Malatesti, 804-5; on Bosola, 805-6; with Julia in Rome, 785-6; on Antonio's betrayal, 786; with Antonio in Milan, 831-4, 845-7; i* 1 final scene, 854-5

Dellius, and Cleopatra, xii, 339-40, 368

Delos, island of, xiii, 133

Delphi, navel of earth, v, 334; building of temple of, xxxiii, 88

Delphian Oracle, Æschylus on ambiguity of, viii, 56; Emerson on, xlii, 1248; prophets of, viii, 122-23

Delphos, King, viii, 123

Delrio, Manzoni on, xxi, 532

Deltas, Lyell on, xxxviii, 401

DELUDED SWAIN, THE PLEASURE, vi, 474-5

Deluge, Calvin on the, xxxix, 39; Locke on, xxxvii, 165; Milton on, iv, 337-40; Pascal on, xlviii, 207 (625), 215-16 (644)

Deluges, Bacon on, iii, 136-7

Demades, Alexander and, xii, 210; death of, 217; Demosthenes and, 197, 200, 214; fickleness of, 201

Demagogues, Hamilton on, xliii, 201-2

Demand, effectual and absolute, x, 57

Demand and Supply, equalization of, x, 58; of laborers in regard to population, 82; as regulators of price, 57-8

Demaratus, the Spartan, xii, 31

Demas, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 110n, 309

Demeter, functions of, viii, 379; Hades, ruler of, xxxiii, 62; hymn to, viii, 450-1; lasion and, xxii, 71; the Isis of Egyptians, xxxiii, 34, 79; mystic rites of, 85; Rhampsinitos and, 62

Demetrius, the Cynic, and Nero, ii, 132 (45)

Demetrius, the Grammarian, and the philosophers, xxxii, 49-50

Demetrius, of Phaleron, and JEsop, xvii, 8; on Aristides, xii, 78, 79

Demetrius, son of Philip II, iii, 51

Demetrius, the silversmith, xliv, 465, 466

Democracy, Aristotle on, xxiv, 260 note; Burke on, 229-30, 259-60; education and, xxv, 108; Emerson on, v, 243; justified by example of Lincoln, xxviii, 448; Machiavelli on, xxv, 368-9; Mill on, 107, 120, 144, 196-8, 261; James Mill on, 68-9; nobility and, iii, 35; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 221; supposed shortcomings of, xxviii, 431

DEMOCRACY, ESSAY ON, Lowell's, xxviii, 451-70

Democracy in America, Mill on, xxv, 120-1; James Mill on, 126

Democritus, Browne on, iii, 316; death of, ii, 206 (3); Huxley on, xxviii, 219; on kitchen gardens, x, 157; in Limbo, xx, 20 note 9

Demodocus, the minstrel, xxii, 100, 101, 105, 111-12; Milton on, iv, 22

Demogorgon, xlvii, 567 note 13; Milton on, iv, 132

Demoleiis, and Æneas, xiii, 187

Demons, Hobbes on possession by, xxxiv, 355-6; Milton on, vi, 36

Demonstration, Hume on, xxxvii, 332 note, 418-19; judgment and fancy in, xxxiv, 351; Pascal's method of, xlviii, 404-7, 421-37

Demophon, steward of Alexander, xxxii, 57

Demophoon, Dante on, xx, 323

Demosthenes, on action, iii, 31 ; Æschines on, ix, 215; Alexander demands, xii, 209-10; early ambition, 194; opposes Antipater, 213; compared with other Athenian orators, 197; Athens honors, 216-17; birth and education, 193; Carlyle on, xxv, 378; Cicero compared with, xii, 192-3, 258-9; COMPARISON OF CICERO AND, 260-3; xxxix, 159; Cicero on, xii, 237; condemnation and banishment, 212-13; courage in resisting populace, 202; on the Crown, 210-11; death of, 215-16, 263; iv, 79; determined disposition, xii, 201; fiery eloquence of, ix, 348-9; not an extempore speaker, xii, 196-7; faults, 201-2; flight from battle, 206-7; pronounces funeral oration, 207; suit against guardians, 194-5; Harpalus and, 211-12; forms new league, 209; Midias and, 200; Mill on, xxv, 18; nicknames, xii, 193-4; old woman and, ix, 346; orations, xii, 202-3; Philip of Macedon and, 200-1, 203-7, 208-9; Pliny on, ix, 187, 205; Plutarch's LIFE OF, xii, 191-217; first entry on public business, 194-5, 200; on public speaking, ix, 251; recalled to Athens, xii, 213-14; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 131; urged to new studies, xii, 196; style, 199-200; teachers, 194; methods of training himself, 199-200

Dempster, George, Burns on, vi, 159, 170, 177

Denham, Sir John, Dryden on, xxxix, 163; on Henry VIII, xxiv, 252

Denham, Mr., and Franklin, i, 39, 40, 41, 48, 48-50

Denial, not scepticism, xxxvii, 191-2

Denman (see Denham)

Dennis, John, on Addison's Cato, xxvii, 166, 167, 168, 185-96; on Shakespeare, xxxix, 212, 231-2

Denny, Gov., Franklin on, i, 127, 146, 149-50, 161, 162

Dente, Vitaliano del, xx, 71 note 6

Denudation, Darwin on geological, xi, 322-3, 325, 330-1; xxix, 319-20; Giekie on, xxx, 340-1; Lyell on, xxxviii, 400, 414

DEPARTURE, by Patmore, xlii, 1112-13

Dependencies, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 812, 18-19; arms in, 69; factions in, 6970

Dependent Origination, xlv, 625, 664-5

Deposition, Rousseau on right of, xxxiv, 220, 226

Depravity, Dante on human, xx, 209-11; Emerson on doctrine of, v, 267

Depth, grander than other dimensions, xxiv, 60-2

De Quincey, Thomas, life and works, xxvii, 318; LEVANA AND LADIES OF SORROW, 319-25

Dercennus, in ;NEID, xiii, 386

Dercetaeus, and Antony, xii, 382

Descartes, Rene", on comets, xxxiv, 118; geometry, work in, 112, 125; on God, xxxvii, 345 note; life and works of, xxxiv, 3; on light, 122; Locke on system of, xxxvii, 165; ON THE METHOD, xxxiv, 5-62; reasons for and against publishing METHOD, 49-62; remarks on METHOD, 3-4; provisory code of morals, 21-5; compared with Newton, 108-13; Pascal on, xlviii, 34, 408; beginning of new philosophy, xxxiv, 28-34; physical investigations, 35-48, 51-3; idea of planetary motions, 114; on rainbow, 122; Rousseau on, 249; scepticism of, xxxvii, 407-8; on the soul, xxxiv, 103; on telescopes, 124; travels, 10-11, 257; Voltaire on, 108-13

Descent, in classification, xi, 441-2

Description, Burke on verbal, xxiv, 51-4; Wordsworth on powers of, xxxix, 297

Desdemona, Lamb on, xxvii, 312

DESERTED VILLAGE, THE, xli, 509-19; an idyllic poem, xxxix, 299

Deserters, article on, in Spanish Treaty, xliii, 275 (13)

Deserters, the Egyptian, xxxiii, 19-20

Desert, "use man after his," xlvi, 139

Deserts, Burton on, xxviii, 411

DESIDERIA, xli, 674-5

Desire, defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 337; love contrasted with, 337-8; xxiv, 74; Milton on, iv, 167; offences through, ii, 201 (10)

Desires, Augustine, St., on worldly, vii, 182-94; Bacon on, and fears, iii, 48; Buddha on noble and ignoble, xlv, 715; Dante on, xx, 215-18; Descartes on limitation of, xxxiv, 23-4; Emerson on unbridled, v, 92; Epictetus on, ii, 170 (145); Hindu reward of righteous, xlv, 817; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 336-40, 352-3, 369-71; Kempis on, vii, 211, 272, 276, 291, 317 (6); language of, xxxiv, 344; Locke on, xxxvii, 109; Locke on, of children, 86-90; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 211 (16); Mill on, xxv, 254

Despair, defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 340; Epictetus on, ii, 173 (156); in music, Collins on, xli, 477

Despair, the giant, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 116-22, 287-9

Despoblado, valley of, interesting features of, xxix, 359

DESPONDENCY: AN ODE, vi, 197-9

Despondency (see DisponJency)

Despotism, legitimate with barbarians, xxv, 204; origin of, xxxiv, 215-19; Rousseau on, 225-6; secrecy surrounding, xxiv, 50

De Stael, Madame, and the Emperor, xxvii, 235; on herself, v, 432

Destinies, in MANFRED, xviii, 428-33

DESTRUCTION OF DA DERGA'S HOSTEL, xlix, 197-248

Destruction, Way of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 45-6

Determination, why honorable, xxxiv, 366; Pliny on, ix, 250

Determinism (see Free Will)

Detraction, Jesus on, xliv, 369 (22); Kempis on, vii, 292, 310 (5), 323-4; Penn on, i, 345-6, 380-1 (85-89); Socrates on, ii, 16; superiority to, ii, 119 (7)

DETRACTION, ON THE, WHICH FOLLOWED CERTAIN TREATISES, iv, 79-80

Detritus (see Denudation)

Detroit, River, navigation of, xliii, 286 (7)

Deucalion, son of Minos, xxii, 262

DEUKS, DANG O'ER MY DADDIE, vi, 439

DEUS, EGO AMO TE, xlv, 556

De Vere, Sir Aubrey, GLENGARIFF, xli, 911-12

De Vere, Edward, A RENUNCIATION, xl, 289

DeVere, house of, its motto, v, 374

Devereux, Col., at Gettysburg, xliii, 385, 387

Devereux, Penelope, and Sidney, xxvii, 3-4

Devereux, Robert, A PASSION, xl, 287

Devil, Bacon on, enviousness of the, iii, 26; Bunyan on, xv, 195; Dante on, xx, 164 note 12; Goethe on, xix, 22; Kempis on, vii, 266 (7); More on, xxxvi, 100-1; Penn on, i, 345 (267)

DEVON, BANKS OF THE, vi, 288

Devonshire, Duke of, Emerson on, v, 412-13

DEVOTED WIFE, THE, xlv, 693-6

Devotion, false, Kempis on, vii, 262-3 (5); Moliere on false, xxvi, 213, 214

Dexter, Afranius, case of, ix, 322-4

Dexter, H. M., translator of hymn, xlv, 541-2

Dexterity, favored by division of labor, x, 13

Dextro-Tartrate of Lime, fermentation of, xxxviii, 316-23

Dhananjaya, xlv, 754, 755-6, 760-5

Dhritirashtra, xlv, 785

Diadematus, surname of Metellus, xii, 156

Dialects, Johnson on, xxxix, 183-4

Dialogue, Franklin on, i, 23

DIALOGUE SONG: PHILLY AND WILLY, vi, 506-7

DIALOGUES OF HYLAS AND PHILONOUS, ETC., xxxvii, 185-285; remarks on, 186

DIALOGUES OF PLATO, ii, 5-113

Diamonds, same as charcoal, xxx, 29; pounded, as means of death, xxxi, 246

Diana, Camilla and, xiii, 375-7; chastity of, iv, 56; goddess of childbirth (called Cinthia), xl, 244; Latmian Shepherd and (Cinthia), 244; worship of, at Ephesus, xliv, 465-6 (see also Artemis, Cynthia)

DIANA, HYMN TO, xl, 299

Diana of Foix, Montaigne to, xxxii, 29

DIANEME, To, xl, 336

DlAPHENIA, Xl, 228-9

Diaries, in travel, iii, 46-7

Diastole (see Systole and Diastole)

Diaz, Ruy (see Cid)

Dibdin, Charles, TOM BOWLING, xli, 502

Dicearcus, Montaigne on, xxxii, 20

Dicers, More on, xxxvi, 200

Dichogamous Plants, xi, 105

Dickens, Charles, Emerson on, v, 439, 471; THE IVY GREEN, xlii, 1147-8

Dickie of Dryhope, xl, in

Dickson, J. F., paper by, xlv, 740

Dicomcs, king of the Getx, xii, 371

Dictes, Caxton on, xxxix, 9

DICTES AND SAYINGS OF THE PHILOSOPHERS, xxxix, 9-13, 5 note

DICTIONARY, PREFACE TO JOHNSON'S, xxxix, 182-206

Didactic Art, Schiller on, xxxii, 270-1

Didactic Poetry, Poe on, xxviii, 375; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 299

Diderot, Carlyle on, xxv, 353; Hobbes and, xxxiv, 308

Didias, Julianus (see Julianus)

Dido, Æneas and, xiii, 83-175; Calypso and, xxxix, 157; Carthage founded by, xiii, 86; Chaucer's picture of, v, 276-7; death of, xiii, 176-7; Dryden on, 2937; harshness of her reign, xxxvi, 54; in Hell, xx, 23; in the Mournful Fields, xiii, 222-3

Didymus, Newman on, xxviii, 38

Diego, the negro, with Drake, xxxiii, 139, 143, 148, 152

DIES IRÆ, DIES ILLA, xlv, 551-3

Diet, Bacon on changes of, iii, 81; of children, Locke on, xxxvii, 16-21

Difficulty, Burke on, xxiv, 299; Channing on value of, xxviii, 314-15; source of the sublime, xxiv, 65

Difficulty, hill of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 45, 218

Diffidence, Browning on, xviii, 364; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340, 365; Pliny on, ix, 275; quarrels caused by, xxxiv, 388, 389

Diffidence, wife of Despair, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 117, 120-1, 287 Digby, Sir Kenelm, v, 354-5; Pope on, .xl, 433

Diggory, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 216-17, 252

Dignity, Confucius on, xliv, 53 (32); Emerson on, v, 208-9; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 361; Kant on, xxxii, 345; morality alone possesses, 345

Digressions, Raleigh on, xxxix, 112

Dilettantes, Emerson on, v, 161

Diligence, Carlyle on, xxv, 361-2; Penn on, i, 343 (234)

Dimorphism, Darwin on, xi, 57; reciprocal, 305-8

Dinas Bren, eagles of, xxxv, 338

Dinmont, Dandie, Ruskin on, xxviii, 140

Dinomache, mother of Alcibiades, xii, 106

Diocles, son of Orsilochus, xxii, 45, 204

Diocletian, Bacon on, iii, 49; miracles under, xlviii, 288 (832)

Dioclides, accuser of Alcibiades, xii, 124

Diodon Antennatus, habits of, xxix, 23-4

Diodorus, on Themistocles, xii, 34

Diogenes of Apollonia, on the soul, xxxiv, 103

Diogenes, the Cynic, Browne on, iii, 306; on comedies, ii, 286 (6); Dandini on, v, 268; Emerson on, 203; Epictetus on, ii, 163 (128); freedom of, 168 (141); on friends, xxxii, 81; health of, ii, 160-1 (118); Hegesias and, xxxii, 59; on indifference of circumstances, ii, 180-1 (187); in Limbo, xx, 20; lines on, xxv, 438; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 254 (3); mission of, 157 (108); Philip and, 158-9 (113); on philosophy, xxxii, 59; on recommendations, ii, 136 (57); Rome, Ambassador to, x, 137; in Rome, iii, 194; ix, 53; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 226; and the statues, ii, 177 note; on strength of soul, 138 (62); tub of, referred to, vi, 189; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 103; will of, iii, 292 note

Diognetus, Aurelius's debt to, ii, 193 (6)

Diogoras, iii, 43

Diomede, in Hell, xx, 108; Minerva and, xiii, 105; reference to, 89; return of, from Troy, xxii, 37

Diomedes, Dryden on, xiii, 25; in Italy, 268; refuses aid to Latinus, 364-6

Diomedes, friend of Alcibiades, xii, 114-15

Dion, Cocceianus, ix, 399-401

Dion, in PHILASTER, xlvii; in presence chamber scene, 667-77; before Pharamond's house, 692-9; scene with Philaster, 699-703; at the hunt, 714-16, 718-21, 725, 727-31; on Philaster, 733; on Arethusa, 735; in the sedition, 736, 737-8; in final scene, 744, 746-8

Dion Prusceus, and the Rhodians, iii, 191

Dion, of Syracuse, and Plato, xii, 78

Dione, mother of Venus, xx, 314 note i, 382 note 13

Dionysius, the Elder, in Hell, xx, 51; and tragedy, iv, 412

Dionysius, the Younger, Plato and, iii, 194, 206; xxvii, 38; xxxvi, 157; as a poet, xviii, 17

Dionysius, St., of Alexandria, xx, 328 note 22; on God, xxxix, 103; quoted, xxxv, 328; vision of, iii, 200

Dionysius, the Areopagite, xx, 406 notes 3 and 5; xliv, 462 (34)

Dionysius, king of Portugal, xx, 369 note 15

Dionysius, school of, ix, 158

Dionysius, surnamed Thrax, Cicero on, ix, 146-7

Dionysus, in the BACCHÆ, viii, 368-436; Dryas's son and, 286-7; Euripides on, 377, 379. 391-3; festivals of, 438; in the FROGS, 439-87; Hades, ruler of, xxxiii, 62; Osiris and, identified by Herodotus, 26, 29-30, 72-3, 79 (see also Bacchus)

Diophantus, at Athens, xxviii, 59

Diopithes, decree of, xii, 68-9

Diores, death of, xiii, 407; in the footrace, 188-9

Dioscorides, Dante on, xx, 20

Dioscuroi, unknown in Egypt, xxiii, 27 (see Castor and Pollux)

Diotimus, ii, 257 (25), 259-60 (37)

Dipamkara, xlv, 582-4; Buddha and, 585-7, 590-600

Diphilides, and Themistocles, xii, 9

Diphilus, Cicero on, ix, no-n; xxvii, 386 note 8

Dirae, the, xiii, 420

Dirce, daughter of Achelous, viii, 391

Dirce, river, Bacchus bathed in, viii, 391

DIRCE, by Landor, xli, 899

Direct Taxes, apportionment of, xliii, 180-1 (3), 185 (4), 191 (5); under the Confederation, 162

DIRGE, by Sidney, xl, 211-12

DIRGE, Fidele's, xl, 269

DIRGE OF LOVE, Shakespeare's, xl, 268-9

DIRGE, A SEA, xl, 270

Dis, in Scandinavian mythology, xlix, 291 note; Proserpine and, iv, 161

Dis, Pluto called, xlvi, 446

Dis, city of, xx, 34 et seq.

Disappointment, defined by Burke, xxiv, 34; Penn on, i, 325 (32), 385 (152)

Disasters, bring out leaders, xix, 374

Disciples, chorus of, in FAUST, xix, 38; Pascal on, xlviii, 169 (519); Woolman on, i, 201

Discipline, Kempis on, vii, 236 (7); Penn on, i, 328; Plutarch on lack of, xii, 147; self, Epictetus on, ii, 154 (100)

Discontent, cause of, xxviii, 456-7; Emerson on, v, 77; Penn on, i, 326

(38-40)

Discontent, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 75

Discontentment, Epictetus on, ii, 123-4 (20), 127 (31, 32), 128 (35), 133 (49), 167 (140); Marcus Aurelius on, 211-2 (3), 224-5 (8), 233 (n), 256 (i?), 259 (34), 280 (25), 281 (28), 292 (20), 299 (26); public, iii, 25-6, 36, 38, 40-1

Discord, Burke on Homer's figure of, xxiv, 54; in chaos, iv, 133; daughter of sin, 308; Pope on, xl, 415; proclaims itself, xxv, 319

Discouragement, easy, Emerson on, v, 75-6

Discourse, absurdities of, xxxiv, 358-9; discretion and fancy in, 351; excessive length or brevity of, xlviii, 29; Hobbes on ends of, xxxiv, 346-8; Kempis on proper, vii, 212; Pascal on natural, xlviii, 14 (14) (see also Conversation, Inquiry, Reasoning)

DISCOURSE, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 83-5

Discretion, better than daring pride, xlix, 153; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 350; in discourse, 351

Discretion, damsel in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 50

Discussion, liberty of, James Mill on, xxv, 69, 210-11, 250

Disease, Browne on, iii, 295; carried by Europeans, xxix, 439-40; cause of, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 172-3; caused by animals, xxxviii, 145; contagious, Jenner on, 163-4; death's messenger, xlv, 686; Emerson on, v, 123; germ theory of, xxxviii, 364-82; Herodotus on cause of, xxxiii, 40; inheritance of, Pliny on, ix, 198; sign of sanitary neglect, xxviii, 457; source of error, xlviii, 38

Diseases, Adam's vision of, iv, 331; cure of desperate, xlvi, 172; effects of, different, xxix, 438 note; incurable, in Utopia, xxxvi, 208

Disgrace, fear of, in children, xxxvii, 3941; Locke on fear of, 96

Dishonesty, for gain, i, 387 (184)

Disinterestedness, Hume on, xxxvii, 355

Dislike (see Aversion)

Disobedience, Locke on, xxxvii, 61-3

Disorder, and grandeur, xxiv, 66

DISORDER, A SWEET, xl, 336

Dispatch, Bacon on, iii, 62-4; in public business, i, 354-5

Dispensations, Luther on, xxxvi, 309, 315-16

Dispersal, means of, of plants and animals, xi, 386-94; during glacial period, 394-9, 404-8; of fresh-water species, 409-13

Dispondency, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 288-9, 290-2, parts with Christiana, 312; death, 314-16

Disposition, Locke on, xxxvii, 57-8; not inherited, xx, 318-19

Dispositions, of children, xxxvii, 44-5, 84-5, 90

Disputes, passion in, iii, 314-15

Disputing, Franklin on habit of, i, 15, 126; Locke on habit of, xxxvii, 125, 126-7, 159-60; Montaigne on, xxxii, 41-2, 43; Penn on, i, 335 (133-5), 336 (136), 340 (184)

Disrespect, Locke on, xxxvii, 119-20

Dissatisfaction, Pascal on human, xlviii, 47 (I09)

Dissections, Harvey on, xxxviii, 106-7, 139

Dissent, dishonoring, a way of, xxxiv, 364; Locke on, xxxvii, 125-6

Dissenters, Mill on duty of, xxv, 33; Milton on value of, iii, 224, 230; Price on duty of, xxiv, 152 note 3 (see Nonconformity)

DISSENTERS, SHORTEST WAY WITH, Defoe's, xxvii, 133-47

Dissertation on Liberty and Necessity, i, 42, 55

Dissimulation, Bacon on, iii, 19 (see also Hypocrisy); in Hell, xx, 46; Pascal on, xlviii, 43; Penn on, i, 374 (15-16), 376 (37-44), 377 (44-6); Raleigh on, xxxix, 68-9; Stevenson on, xxviii, 281-2

Distance, Berkeley on idea of, xxxvii, 220-2

DISTANT FRIEND, To A, xli, 674

Distinction, Carlyle on love of, xxv, 393-5; human thirst for, xxviii, 94-5; Rousseau on love of, xxxiv, 224

Distinctions, Locke on, xxxvii, 170; nice, Bacon on, iii, 64-5

Distress, goods taken in, xliii, 71 (35)

Distresses, of others, pleasure in, xxiv, 4-3

Distribution, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 409-10; importance of just, xxviii, 350-1; in agricultural systems, x, 437; in Utopia, xxxvi, 184-5, 189-90; Mill on laws of, xxv, 152; progress of wealth dependent on, x, 54-5; of produce (see Wages, Rent, Profits)

Distributive Justice, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 406, 409; Hume on, xxxvii, 400-1

District of Columbia, slave-trade in, xliii, 306 note; under Congress, 185 (17)

Distrust, Emerson on, v, 278-9; expensiveness of, 56; opponent of reform, xxvii, 239; Webster on, xlvii, 762-3

Disturbances, charges of creating, xxxix, 43-5

Disuse, of parts, effects of, xi, 140-4

DITTY, by Sidney, xl, 212

DITTY IN PRAISE OF ELIZA, xl, 245-7

Divergence of Character, xi, 115-19; how it leads to formation of species, etc., 119-23; limits to, 133-5

Diversification, of structure and habits, xi, 116-19; limits to, 133-5

Diversion, Pascal on, xlviii, 52-8, 63 (167-8), 64 (170-1), 112 (324)

Diversity, Mill on need of, xxv, 266-7

Dives, and Lazarus, xv, 35; xliv, 397 (19-25), 398 (26-31)

Divination, Augustine, St., on, vii, 106; in Egypt, xxxiii, 42; among the Germans, 98; pagan methods of, xxxiv, 381-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 282-3; Prometheus first teacher of, viii, 184 and note 35; Vindicianus on, vii, 47-8, 104

DIVINE COMEDY, Dante's, xx; Arnold on selections from, xxviii, 72; Carlyle on, xxv, 444; Cellini on line of, xxxi, 303; its relation to Celtic myths, xxxii, 180; Dante on, xx, 360, 391; Hugo on, xxxix, 349, 354; Macaulay on the, xxvii, 370; remarks on, xx, 3-4; Shelley on, xxvii, 347, 349

DIVINE IMAGE, THE, xii, 591

Divine Laws, Emerson on, v, 26-7

Divine Men, Emerson on, v, 193

Divine Mercy, in DIVINE COMEDY, xx, n note 5

Divine Nature, attributed to only one or two, v, 29

Divine Right, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 220

DIVINE SERVICE AT LAMINGTON, vi, 427

Divine Spirit (see Over-soul)

Divine Things, judged by human, iii, 46; iv, 195

Divine Truths, Pascal on, xlviii, 400-1

Diviners, punishment of, in Hell, xx, 81-4

Divinity, Emerson on, in man, v, 70-3; study of, Faustus on, xix, 207-8, 210

DIVINITY STUDENTS, ADDRESS TO, v, 25-41

Divisibility, infinite, Hume on, xxxvii, 413-14 note; Pascal on, xlviii, 430-7

Division of Labor, advantages of, x, 9-17, 21 ; dependent on amount of capital, 213; Kant on, xxxii, 300; limits to, x, 22-6; mischief of, v, 400; in nature, xi, 100; origin of, x, 18-21

Divisions, fable on, xvii, 31

Divorce, among Arabs, xlv, 985 note; Bagehot on, xxviii, 183-4; Jesus on marriage after, xliv, 397 (18); Mill on, xxv, 300-1; Milton on, xxviii, 183-6; Paul, St., on, xlv, 498-9 (10-11); in Utopia, xxxvi, 210-11

Do You REMEMBER ME, xii, 904

Dobell, Sydney, BALLAD by, xlii, 1114-16

Dobrizhoffen, on hail-stones, xxix, 121; on ostriches, 100

Dobson, story of, xlv, 689-92

Docility, Pascal on, xlviii, 94 (254)

Doctor, Chaucer's, xl, 22

Doctors (see Physicians)

Doctrinaires, Lowell on, xxviii, 437

Doctrines, Confucius on strange, xliv, 8 (16); traditional, absence of vitality in, xxv, 236

Dodger, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 475, 491-3, 496, 526

Dodington, George Bubb, SHORTEN SAIL, xl, 463-4

Dodona, Oracle of, yEschylus on, viii, 196; Herodotus on, xxxiii, 32; origin of, 33

DOE, ONE-EYED, fable of, xvii, 37

Doeg, the Edomite, xliv, 206

DOES HAUGHTY GAUL INVASION THREAT, vi, 530-1

DOG IN THE MANGER, fable of, xvii, 27

DOG AND SHADOW, fable of, xvii, 12

DOG AND WOLF, fable of, xvii, 22

Dog Watches, explained, xxiii, 18

Dogmas, Dunkers' attitude towards, i, no-i; Emerson on, v, 35; Goethe on, xix, 132

Dogmatism, Franklin on, in speech, i, 1819; Hume on, xxxvii, 417; Pascal on, xlviii, 129 (395), 144; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 289-92

Dogmatist, in FAUST, xix, 188

Dogs, associative instinct in, xxix, 155-6; Burke on our contempt for, xxiv, 57; Darwin on instincts of, xi, 256, 257; held sacred in Egypt, xxxiii, 37; Harrison on, xxxv, 350-6; Hunter on descent of, xxxviii, 145 note; man, love of, in, iii, 44; xi, 258; origin of, 31, 33, 34, 45-6

Dol Common, in THE ALCHEMIST, Dapper and, xlvii, 602, 609, 652-3; Face and, 543, 546-50, 563-4, 655-7; Mammon and, 579, 584, 610, 613-18, 629-36; Spanish don and, 599-602; Subtle and, 543, 546-50, 563, 654-5

Dolabella, Cornelius, accusation of, xii, 299; Antony and, 328, 330; Caesar and, 329; Cicero and, ix, 157; Cleopatra and, xii, 386; extravagance of, 306

Dolabella, in ALL FOR LOVE, Antony and, xviii, 25, 56, 59-65, 69-70, 83-7; Cleopatra and, 56, 58-9, 71, 77

Dolben, Gilbert, and Dryden, xiii, 426

Dolcino, the friar, xx, 116 note 6

Dolius, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 65, 325, 329, 332

Dolphin, Dana on the, xxiii, 22; of Hippo, Pliny's story of, ix, 351-2

Domat, Burke on, xxiv, 285 note

Domestic Animals, adaptability of, to climate, xi, 145-6; breeding of, 42-3; descent of, 31-41; diseases from, xxxviii, 145-6; fertility of, xi, 291-2, 309-10; mental qualities of, 255-8

Domestic Industries, capital naturally seeks, x, 332-4; protection of (see Protective Duties)

Domestic Races, improvement not limited, xi, 51-2; adapted to use of man, 48-9; origin of, 32-3, 41, 42-3, 49-50, 53

Domestic Trade, capital used in, x, 295-6; limit of, 301-2

Domestication, improves fertility, xi, 2912; eliminates sterility of species, 39; variation under, 23-53

Dominant, technical definition of, xi, 65-6

Dominic, St., Dante on, xx, 330 note 8, 335-7; Luther on, xxxvi, 300

Dominica, Drake at, xxxiii, 226, 239

Dominicans, Dante on the, xx, 333 note 30; Milton on the, iv, 147

Dominis, Antonio de, on the rainbow, xxxiv, 122

Domitian, as an archer, iii, 48; dream of, 91; Helvidius and, ix, 338 and note i; philosophers and, ii, 116; ix, 239 note; Pliny on, 253-4, 261 note, 314, 320 and note i; spiders, toys of, xxxv, 348; Tiberius and, xxxvi, 3; the turbot of, xxxix, 356

Domitius, and Antony, xii, 370; Cicero on, ix, 116; xii, 249; in Civil War, 293, 299, 300; Pharnaces and, 305

Donalbain, in MACBETH, xlvi, 322, 334, 341, 346, 347, 349, 383

DONALD THE BLACK, GATHERING SONG OF, xii, 745-6

Donatello, his "Judith," xxxi, 342 note 3, 343 note 5; Cellini on, 343, 358, 359

Donati, Corso, enemy of Dante, xx, 239 note 3; death of, 244 and note 6; head of Neri faction, 27 note 5; Piccarda and, 296 note 6

Donati, Simon, and Schicchi, xx, 124 note

Donatists, Calvin on the, xxxix, 34; Pascal on the, xlviii, 284 (822)

Don Galaor, Cervantes on, xiv, 18, 95

Don John of Austria, xiv, 385, 386, 387; Raleigh on, xxxix, 87-8

Donkey (see Ass)

DONKEY, MAN, AND BOY, fable of, xvii, 35-6

Donn Desa, xlix, 202; sons of, 202, 204, 211, 212, 216, 232

Donne, John, advowsons presented to, xv, 344; appearance and character, 369; benefice declined by, 330-2; birth and education, 323-5; Book, of Devotions by, 353; burial of, 366-7; charity in life of, 358-9; conduct of Deanery, 359-60; Dean of St. Paul's, 347; death of, 366-7; domestic sorrows, 333-4; Ellesmere, Lord, and, 325-6, 327; embassy to Bohemia, 346; in France, 335; friends of, 353; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 269-70; Herbert and, xv, 354-5, 383-4; Mrs. Herbert and, 376-8; HYMN TO GOD, 355-6; James the First and, 339-40, 342, 348-9; King, Dr., and, 349-50; last sickness of, 351, 361-4; lecturer of Lincoln's Inn, 345; LINES TO GEORGE HERBERT, 354-5; LINES ON His MISTRESS, xxvii, 270-1; lines from Epithalatnion of, 269; marriage of, xv, 326-8, 351; monument of, 365, 368; More, Sir George, and, 327-8; mother of, 359; ordination of, 341-2; POEMS by, 338-9, 354-5; xxvii, 270; xl, 303-13; as a poet, xv, 352; preaching of, 343; Prolocutor of the Convocation, 348; Pseudo-Martyr of, 339-40; studies and writings, 356-7; travels of, 323-5; VALEDICTION by, 338-9; vision of, 335-7; Walton and, 322; Walton's LIFE OF, 323-69; wife's death, 344; will of, 357-8; Wolly, Francis, and, 329

Don Quixote, Amadis of Gaul imitated by, xiv, 226-8; on arms and learning, 374-80; balsam prepared by, 128; Biscaine squire and, 66-7, 70-2; calling and manner of life of, 17; at Chrysostom's funeral, 108-9; countryman and his boy and, 36-9; disciplinants and, 507-9; Dorothea and, 270-7, 280-3, 368-70, 459; dream of triumph of, 170-3; Dulcinea and, 96-7, 213-19, 222; encaged, 63-72, 482-7; epitaphs on, 513-14, 515; first sally, 23; friars and, 63-5; galley slaves and, 176-86; goatherds and, 78-90; hearse, adventure of, 145-8; Holy Brotherhood and, 455-7; home, returning to, 510-13; at the inn, 25-8, 117-19, 125-6, 129-31, 430; innkeeper and, 445-6; knighting of, 29-35; on knight errantry, 92-6; knightly tales read by, 17-19; "Knight of the Ill-favoured Face", 149-50; library burnt, 48-54; Mambrino's helmet and, 165-7, 448-51; Maritornes and, 120-2, 435-40; merchants of Toledo and, 40-2; on romances, 489-95; Sancho Panza and, 58-9, 73-7, 284-7, etc.; sheep and, 136-41; sickness of, 55; sonnets in praise of, 11-14; windmills, adventure of, with, 60-1; winebags and, 347-50; Yanguesian carriers and, 110-16 DON QUIXOTE OF THE MANCHA, Cervantes's, xiv; Lowell on, xxviii, 438

DOON, THE BANKS o', vi, 398-400

Doria, Branca, xx, 139 note 6

Dorian Music, described, iv, 102

Dorigen, and Sophocles, v, 121

Dorine, in TARTUFFE, Cleante and, xxvi, 206-7, 264-5; Damis and, 208, 244-5; Elmire and, 268-9; Loyal and, 285-6, 288-9, 290; Mariane and, 228-33, 239-43; Orgon and, 209-10, 219-28, 282, 284, 290-1; Mme. Pernelle and, 200, 202-3, 204-5; Tartuffe and, 245-7, 293-4

Doris, eggs of the, xxix, 205 note

Dorothea, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 252-77, 280-3, 356-65, 368-70

Dorothea, in HERMANN AND DOROTHEA, with the fugitives, xix, 345-6; described by Hermann, 372; in the French invasion, 379; found by the doctor, 380-1; the magistrate on, 382; with Hermann at the fountain, 387-90; returns to bid farewell to companions, 391-4; goes home with Hermann, 395-9; presented to his parents, 402-3; reproved in play by the pastor, 403-4; resolves to return to companions, 405-6; Hermann tells her his love, 407; begs father's forgiveness, 407-8; betrothed to Hermann, 408; tells of her first lover, 408-9

Dorset, Earl of, Raleigh on, xxxix, 75; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 147

Doson, name of, xii, 156 note

Dotage, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 176

Doubleday, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 329, 350, 365, 384

Doubt, Blake on, xli, 589; Carlyle on, xxv, 346; Dante on, xx, 301; Descartes on state of, xxxiv, 15, 21-4, 28, 32-3; Hobbes's definition of, 346; Krishna on, xiv, 808 (see also Scepticism)

Doubting Castle, xv, 116, 287-9

Doughty, Master, with Drake, xxxiii, 201, 202, 204, 205-6

Douglas, Burns on family of, vi, 374; family and arms of, xxxv, 99-100

Douglas, Sir Archambault, xxxv, 93, 100

Douglas, Earl James, burial of, xxxv, 99; at Otterburn, 86, 88-9, 90-1; Percy and, 82-4; raid of, 81 (see also ballads of OTTERBURN and CHEVY CHASE)

Douglas, John, the author, Goldsmith on, xli, 505, 507

Douglas, John, ship's master, with Raleigh, xxxiii, 334-5, 336, 337

Douglas, Katherine (see Barlass)

Douglas, Lord, at Poitiers, xxxv, 47

Douglas, Lady Margaret (see DOUGLAS TRAGEDY)

Douglas, Stephen A., Lowell on, xxviii, 440

DOUGLAS TRAGEDY, THE, xl, 51-4

DOVE, JOHN, EPITAPH ON, vi, 120

Dove-house, Blake on a, xli, 587

DOVER BEACH, xlii, 1137-8

DOVER CLIFFS, by Bowles, xli, 682

DOWN THE BURN, DAVIE, vi, 473

DOWY HOUMS o YARROW, xl, 115-16

Draghinazzo, the demon, xx, 88, 91

DRAKE, SIR FRANCIS, REVIVED, xxxiii, 121-96

DRAKE'S FAMOUS VOYAGE ROUND THE WORLD, xxxiii, 199-224

DRAKE'S GREAT ARMADA, xxxiii, 229-259

Drake, Sir Francis, armadas of, xxxiii, 226-7; on Barbary Coasts, 199-200; at Cape Blanco, 200; Cacafuego pursuit, 211 ; in Canaries, 233; at Canno, 212; at Cape Verde Islands, 201-2, 234-8; Cartagena, expeditions against, 144-5, 155-60, 244-53; Chagres Fleet and, 185; Chili, on coast of, 209-11; Cimaroons and, 152-5; in Cuba, 253; death of, 227; DEDICATORY EPISTLE TO ELIZABETH, 126-7; at Dominica, 239; at Ferro and Cape Blanco, 233-4; fleet of, and commanders of, 229-30; at Fogo and Brava Islands, 202-3; French captain and, 186-8; Garret, John, and, 132; at Guatulco, 212; Harrison on, xxxv, 321; at Isle of Pinos, xxxiii, 134, 143; at Isle of Victuals, 141-2; at La Mocha, 208; life of, chief events, 122, 128; at Lima, 210-11; in Malay Islands, 218-24; in New Albion, 213-7; at Nombre de Dios, 135-40, 166; in Pacific Ocean, 171, 207, 217; in Panama, 166-78; at Port Pheasant, 131-3; at Port St. Julian, 205-6; prizes and losses of, 258-9; Raleigh's colony and, 256-8; Resolution of Land-Captains, 248-50; Rio Grande expedition, 149-51; at St. Augustine, 254-6, 258; at St. Christopher's, 239; at St. Domingo, 240-4; 258-9; at St. Helena, 256; at Santiago, 202-3; at Santa Marta, 161; in Sound of Darien, 148; on coast of S. America, 203-5; on coast of Spain, 230-3; Spanish prize, 163; Spanish treasure train taken by, 187-9; stores of, 151-2, 160-1; in Strait of Magellan, 206-7; at Venta Cruz, 178-9; plan against Veragua, 182-5; wound of, 140-1; wrongs and purpose to avenge, 129-30

Drake, Sir Francis (nephew) xxxiii, 123; DEDICATION TO CHARLES I, 125; DEDICATION TO THE READER, 128

Drake, Dr., James, xxxix, 165

Drake, John, brother of Sir Francis, xxxiii, 130, 136, 138, 139, 143, 146-7, 152, 155; death of, 164

Drake, Joseph, brother of Francis, xxxiii, 165

Drake, Thomas, brother of Francis, xxxiii, 205, 230 and note

Drama, in Athens, xxvii, 339, 340; Burns on imported, vi, 374; Dryden on, xiii, 6-1 o, 13; Goethe on, xxxix, 260; Hugo on, 352-75; Hugo on Greek, 341, 3467; language in, correctness of, xxxix, 374-5; length of, 382-3; love as basis of, 211 ; Macaulay on, xxvii, 383; influence of, on morals, 339-40; narrations in, xxxix, 218; originality in, 364-6; pleasure in, reason of, 222-3; popular and poetical ideas of, xix, 1117; reading of, xxxix, 223; reality in, 366-9; refinement in false, 370-1; Shelley on, xviii, 276, 278; xxvii, 339-40; Sidney on place and time in, 43-4; society, state of, and 339-42; tragedy and comedy in, mingled, xxxix, 213; unities of, 220-4, 258-63; verse in, 369, 371-4

DRAMAS, CONTINENTAL, xxvi

DRAMAS, ELIZABETHAN, xlvi, xlvii

DRAMAS, GREEK, viii

DRAMAS, MODERN ENGLISH, xviii

Dramatic Poetry, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 298

Dramatists, Aristophanes on duty of, viii, 470, 472

Drances, and tineas, xiii, 359-60; denounces Turnus, 363, 368-9

Drawbacks, Smith on, x, 330-1; called bounties, 357; on exports, 371-3

Drawing, Locke on knowledge of, xxxvii, 135

Drayton, Michael, poems by, xl, 222-8

DREAM, A, by Burns, vi, 207-11

DREAM, A, OF THE UNKNOWN, xli, 842-3

DREAM, THE, by Donne, xl, 306

Dreams, Adam on, iv, 183; Augustine, St., on, vii, 182; Bunyan on, xv, 226-7; Calderon on, xxvi, 52-5, 56, 67-8; Chaucer on, xl, 37-8 note 34, 39-43; Descartes on, xxxiv, 33-4; Elihu on, xliv, 123-4 (15-17); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 315-17; Homer on, xxii, 271; Hume on, xxxvii, 304; Pascal on, xlviii, 127 (386); Pliny on, ix, 202-3; Tennyson on, xiii, 1004

Dress, in ancient Egypt, xxxiii, 41-2; in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 289-92; of the Germans, xxxiii, 102; Herrick on disorder in, xl, 336; Locke on, xxxvii, 10, 15-16, 29-30; Luther on luxury in, xxxvi, 331; Pascal on, xlviii, 37-8, no (315-16); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109; in Utopia, xxxvi, 178-9, 182-3, 193-4, 199 (see also Apparel)

Dreux, battle of, xxxviii, 48-9

Dreux, Earl of, xxxv, 16

Drewry, Sir Robert, and Dr. Donne, xv, 335, 353

Drinking, Burns on, vi, 100, 185; Brynhild on, xlix, 369; of children, xxxvii, 19-20, 30; Cotton on, xxxix, 309; Dryden on, xl, 392-3; Johnson on, xxvii, 179; Locke on, xxxvii, 14, 176-7; More on, xxxvi, 203; Omar Khayyam on, xli, 943. 946, 976, 950-2, 954-5, 956-7J Penn on, i, 329 (65-7); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 343-4

DRINKING, by Cowley, xl, 366-7

Drinking Song, by Jordan, xl, 364-5

DRINKING SONG, by Sheridan, xli, 567

Drinking Song (16th century), xl, 190-2

Drinking Song, of Tony Lumpkin, xviii, 211-12

Dris, fosterer of Conaire, xlix, 229 effects of, xxix, 137-9

Drought, Bacon on, iii, 136; Darwin on effects of, xxix, 137-9

Drugger, in THE ALCHEMIST, xlvii, 558-62, 589-91, 603, 606-7, 638, 640, 6534, 656, 662

Druids, Burke on, xxiv, 50; Milton on, iv, 73; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 88

DRUMLANRIG, ON DESTRUCTION OF WOODS OF, vi, 411-12

Drummond, William, poems by, xl, 326-30

Drunkenness, as a crime, xxv, 294; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 354; St. Paul on, xlv, 497 (10), 497 (11); Penn on, i, 329 (72); price of wine and, x, 364; Woolman on, i, 196-7

Drusilla, wife of Felix, xliv, 477 (24)

Drusus, in Germany, xxxiii, 114; marriage of, xii, 388; Pillars of Hercules and, xxxiii, 112

Dryden, John, translation of ÆNEIS and DEDICATION, xiii; ALL FOR LOVE, xviii, 7-106; Arnold on, xxviii, 81-3; CHARLEMAGNE, HYMN OF, translation of, xlv, 547-8; on Chaucer, xxviii, 77-81; as a critic, xxvii, 197; on his critics, xxxix, 172-5; Gray on, xl, 456; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 274; life and works, xxxix, 153 note; xviii, 5-6; Locke and, xxxvii, 3; Macaulay on, xxvii, 383; Mill on, xxv, 16; on Milton, xxviii, 203; Pepys and, 304-5; PREFACE TO FABLES, xxxix, 153-75; remarks on his work, xiii, 424; 1, 47; on Shakespeare, xxxix, 249, 317; SHORT POEMS by, xl, 384-96; Taine on, xxxix, 428; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 134; Wordsworth on Indian Emperor of, xxxix, 323-4 and note

Dryops, death of, xiii, 333

Duad, of St. Augustine, vii, 58

Dualism, in nature (see Polarity)

Duan, meaning of, vi, 172 note

Duban, the Sage, story of, xvi, 30-9

Dubartas, The Creation of, xxxix, 317

Dubthach Chafer, xlix, 238, 245

Duca, Guido del, in Purgatory, xx, 199-201, 205 note

Ducato, value of the, xxxi, 37 note I

DUCHESS, MY LAST, xiii, 1074-5

DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 755-855; remarks on, 754

DUCKLING, THE UGLY, xvii, 221-30

Ducks, descent of, xi, 33; non-flying, 140; shoveller, 226-7; steamer, xxix, 204-5; wild and domestic, compared, xi, 27

Duclaux, M., Pasteur and, xxxviii, 273

DUDDON RIVER, VALEDICTORY SONNET TO, xli, 679

Duelling, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 367; Locke on, xxxvii, 172-3; Swift on, xxvii, 100

Duera, family of, xx, 134 note 10

Dufferin, Lady, LAMENT by, xli, 919-20

Dugong, Owen on the, xi, 434

Du Guesclin, saying of, v, 307

Duilius, Gaius, Cato on, ix, 61

Duke, meaning of, xxxiv, 368

Dulcinea del Toboso, mistress of Don Quixote, xiv, 22, 70; Don Quixote and, 96-7, 221; epitaph on, 515; Oriana to, 13; Sancho Panza and, 219-20, 290-1; Solis Dan on, 12-3; Sonnet on, 514

Dull, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 217

Dumas, M., on fermentation, xxxviii, 351

Dumont, Pierre Etienne, on Bentham's works, xxv, 44, 45; Traite des]udicaires, xxv, 74

DUMOURIER, GENERAL, IMPROMPTU ON

DESERTION OF, vi, 461

Dunbar, Col., Franklin on, i, 132, 135, 137, 145-6

Dunbar, William, lines to, vi, 256 note

Duncan, in MACBETH, in camp near Forres, xlvi, 322-4; horses of, 348; Lady Macbeth and, 332, 333, 334-5, 340; Macbeth and, 330-1, 334, 355; murder of, 337

DUNCAN DAVISON, vi, 301

DUNCAN GRAY, vi, 448-9

Duncon, Edmund, xv, 409-10, 413-14

DUNDAS, ROBERT, ON THE DEATH OF, vi, 292-3

Dundee, Burns on, vi, 291

DUNDEE, BONIE, by Burns, vi, 256

DUNDEE, BONNY, by Scott, xli, 752-4

Dunkers, beliefs of the, i, no-n

Dunlop, John, poem by, xli, 581-2

Dunning, Mr., Burke on, xxiv, 396

Dunstan, St., Harrison on, xxxv, 253

Dunyzad, in ARABIAN NIGHTS, xvi, 10

Duport, Dr., Dean of Peterborough, xv, 382

Duppa, Dr., Walton on, xv, 353

Duquesne, Fort, attack on, i, 134-5, J 37

Duranti, Durante, xxxi, 180 note, 245

Duras, Robert of, xxxv, 45

Durer, Albert, method of, iii, 106

Duress, in Massachusetts, xliii, 72 (40)

Durham, Bishop of, at Otterburn, xxxv, 85. 94, 95-6, 97-8

Durham, John George Lambton, Lord, xxv, 134-5

Durindana, sword of Roland, xlix, 119, 128, 130, 145, 171-2

Duris, the Samian, on Alcibiades, xii, 138; Cicero on, ix, 149; on

Pericles, xii, 64

Dust, infusorial, in St. Jago, xxix, 14-5

Dutch, Goldsmith on the, xli, 528

Duties, Customs, administration of, best, x, 528-30; discriminating, 353-70; excise and customs, 524; exemption from, 389, 406; high, effect of, 527; historically considered, 524; on importation of necessities, 516; name, origin of, 524; origin of, 458; of passage, 533-4; protective, on foreign goods, 332-42; removal of, 348; retaliatory, 347; for revenue, 352, 372; to equal taxes, 3345; under U. S. Constitution, xliii, 181 (i), 185 (5, 6), 186 (2, 3); for war purposes, x, 342-3

Duty, Channing on, xxviii, 335-6; Confucius on, xliv, 52 (23); defined, xxxii, 344, 349-50; Emerson on, v, 26, 41, 75, 290; Epictetus on, ii, 117 (2), 150 (91), 162 (124), 165 (132), 176 (170, 172), 183 (22); Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 800; Hobbes on natural, xxxiv, 392, 401-12; imperatives of, xxxii, 332-44, 363-4; Kant on, 309-16, 317, 318-24, 336-7; Kempis on, vii, 223 (5); Ladius on, ix, 11-12; Locke on, xxxvii, 57, 59, 129; M. Aurelius on, ii, 201 (5), 216 (24), 218 (33), 222 (i), 223 (6), 232 (2), 236 (22), 237 (26), 248 (45); Mill on compulsion to, xxv, 205; Pascal on reminders of, xlviii, 46 (104"): perfect and imperfect, xxxii, 332 note; Poe on sense of, xxviii, 376; poetry, as the subject of, 376, 378; principles of, xxxii, 350-4, 342-3; Ruskin on, xxviii, 96, 157; Vishnu Purana on, 420; Woolman on, i, 189; worth of, intrinsic, xxxii, 345-6, 350

DUTY, ODE TO, by Wordsworth, xli, 649-51

Dyer, Chaucer's, xl, 21

Dyer, Sir Edward, MY MIND TO ME, xl, 207-9

Dyes, Woolman on, i, 309-10

DYING MAN IN His GARDEN, xli, 481

Dymas, in ÆNEID, xiii, in, 113, 114

Dyslogistic Fallacies, xxvii, 245-6

E

Eadgils, xlix, 70 note 3, 71 note

Eagerness, Confucius on, xliv, 26 (16)

EAGLE AND ARROW, fable of, xvii, 41

Eagle(s), in old England, xxxv, 338; Job's description of, xliv, 136-7; Manfred on, xviii, 416-7

Eanmund, xlix, 70 note 3, 77

Earle, John, letter of, xxxviii, 176-7

EARLY PIETY, xlv, 563-4

Early Rising, Locke on, xxxvii, 21-2

EARNEST CRY AND PRAYER, vi, 157-63

Earnestness, Confucius on, xliv, 58 (6); Kempis on, vii, 236 (7)

Ears, drooping, cause of, xi, 27

Earth, age of, xi, 321-5, 344-5. 394-5' ancient opinions of its motion, xxxix, 55; changes in, xi, 345-7, 387; xxxviii, 385-418; Copernicus on motion of the, xxxix, 52-7; Descartes on the, xxxiv, 37; Faraday on, xxx, 9-10; Geikie on past history of, 338-9; interior of the, 299-300, 305-6; Lactantius on the, xxxix, 56; Milton on, iv, 169, 195, 245-7, 263, 307-8; motion of poles of, xxxiv, 128-9; palpitation of, xxx, 283; Raleigh on changes in the, xxxix, 107; rigidity of the, xxx, 299, 300, 305-6; Socrates's idea of the, ii, 104-8; temperature of, changes in, xxxviii, 395

Earth-Spirit, in FAUST, xix, 27

EARTHLY PARADISE, PROLOGUE OF THE, xlii, 1193-4

Earthquakes, Darwin on, xxix, 305-16, 507; effect of, on the weather, 355-6; Lyell on, xxxviii, 406-7; oblivion in, iii, 136; rain and, xxix, 355-6; Woolman on, as judgments of God, i, 237 Ease, after pain, iv, 61; Confucius on, xliv, 6 (14); deliciousness of, due to toil, xxviii, 314-5; Hobbes on desire for, xxxiv, 370-1; Tennyson on, xlii, 994-8; Yutzu on, xliv, 6 (12)

Ease, Plain of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 109

East India Company, end of, xxv, 154; forts of, x, 457; Mill on, xxv, 212; mismanagement of, x, 470

Eastburn, Samuel, i, 234, 239, 249

Easter, celebration of, xv, 403

EASTER, Spenser's, xl, 249

Easter Choruses, in FAUST, xix, 36

EASTER SONG, by Herbert, xl, 345

Eating, Augustine, St., on continency in, vii, 183; Confucius on excessive, xliv, 60 (22); Locke on children's, xxxvii, 16-21, 31; Luther on freedom of, xxxvi, 309-10; More on pleasure of, 203; Penn on, i, 328 (59)

Ebusus, and Corynacus, xiii, 400

Ecbatan, reference to, iv, 329

Eccentricity, Mill on, xxv, 262

Eccentrics, defined, iii, 45 note

Eccius, John, xxxvi, 340-1

ECCLESIASTES, BOOK OF, Buddha, resemblances of, to, xlv, 574; xliv, 335-49; remarks on, 334; 1, 29

Ecclesiastical Princedoms, xxxvi, 38-40

Ecgtheow, xlix, 12, 15, 18 note 3

Echecrates of Phlius, ii, 45-7, 81, 95*6

Echeneus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 94, 153

Echephron, son of Nestor, xxii, 43

Echetus, the king, xxii, 247, 292

Echinades, Herodotus on the, xxxiii, n

Echion, father of Pentheus, viii, 390, 392; husband of Agave, 429

Echo, the nymph, Dante on, xx, 334 note 3; Milton on, iv, 50-1; Shelley on, xli, 860

ECHOES, by Moore, xli, 821-2

Eclipses, foretold by ancient philosophers, vii, 64; Pericles on, xii, 72; signs of ill, xlviii, 65 (173)

Economical Table, of Quesnai, x, 438, 444

Economists, of France, x, 443-4; on land taxes, 481

Economy, beauty in, v, 304; Burke on true, xxiv, 397; Emerson on, v, 52; of nature, xi, 151-2 ECSTASY, AN, xl, 341

Ector, Sir, in the HOLY GRAIL, xxxv, 1568, 159, 160-1, 162, 179-80, 203-4

Ed-Dejjal, Muslim Antichrist, xvi, 239 note

Ed-Dimiryat, king of the Jinn, xvi, 308, 309. 310

EDDA, ELDER, SONGS FROM THE, xlix, 359-438; remarks on, 250-2

Edelfla, the tree, xxxix, 12

Eden, Burns on, vi, 142; Dante in, xx, 258-84; Milton on, iv, 158, 160-2

Edgar, king of England, navy of, xxxv, 361; and the wolves, 341

Edgar, in KING LEAR, Edmund and, xlvi, 226-9, 310 '4; flight of, 242-3, 251-2; Gloucester and, 281-3, 291-3, 297-300, 306; Goneril's letter found by, 299, 305; Lear and, 273-7; as madman, 269-72; madness of, remarks on, 214; soliloquy of, 280-1

Edh-Dhubyani, Arab poet, xvi, 297 note

Edinborough, Franklin on men of, i, 15

Edinburgh, built of foreign timber, x, 170; industries of, 264

EDINBURGH, ADDRESS TO, vi, 252-3

Edinburgh Review, Emerson on the, v, 315; establishment of, xxvii, 225; Mill on, xxv, 61-62, 137; Whig organ, xxvii, 362; Wordsworth on, v, 464

Editors, Carlyle on, xxv, 446; Johnson on, xxxix, 235-6, 242-8; Stevenson on duty of, xxviii, 285

Edmund, in KING LEAR, bastard son of Gloucester, xlvi, 216; Albany and, 305, 308-10; before battle, 305; character of, 214; confession of, 312-15; Curan and, 242; death of, 316; Edgar and, 225-9, 242-3, 311; Gloucester and, 267, 273; Goneril and, 277, 283-4, 299; Lear and Cordelia with, 306-7; Regan and, 290, 303-4

Education, Channing on, xxviii, 358-60; Confucius on, xliv, 45 (28), 53 (38); Emerson on, v, 7-15, 48-50, 191-2, 256-7, 261-2; Epictetus on lack of, ii, 156 (105); Franklin on female, i, 15, 93; Goethe on, xxv, 381-2; Goethe on, of artists, xxxix, 252, 255-7, 264-6; Hippocrates on, xxxviii, 4; Hume on importance of, xxxvii, 355-6; Huxley on, xxviii, 210-23; Kant on moral, xxxii, 322 note 2; Luther on, xxxvi, 321-7; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 193 (4); Mill on, xxv, 9, 28, 29, 37-8, 70, 87-8, 108, in, 115, 302-5; Newman on, xxviii, 31-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 19 (34), 38, 41 (95); Penn on, i, 321-3; Pliny on, ix, 301-3, 320-1; Ruskin on, xxviii, 94, 102-3, 111, 135, 136, 146-56; Schiller on, xxxii, 207-95; Smith on, x, 133-7, 219, 463-4; in Utopia, xxxvi, 231-2; Vaughan on, i, 69-70; Washington on need of public, xliii, 243; Wordsworth on, v, 323

EDUCATION, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 98-9

EDUCATION, LOCKE'S THOUGHTS CONCERNING, xxxvii, 5-183; remarks on, 3-4

EDUCATION, MILTON'S TRACTATE ON, iii, 235-47; remarks on, 234

EDUCATION OF CHILDREN, Montaigne's, xxxii, 29-71

EDUCATION OF THE HUMAN RACE, xxxii, 185-206; remarks on, 184; 1, 32, 36-7

EDUCATION OF WOMEN, by Defoe, xxvii, 148-51; remarks on, 1, 36

EDWARD, a ballad, xl, 56-8

Edward I, of England, Dante on, xx, 174 note 16, 368 note 8

Edward the Second, of England, in EDWARD THE SECOND, in abbey, xlvi, 65; at Berkeley, 72-3, 82-3; at Boroughbridge, 52-3; capture of, 66-8; crown yielded by, 68-70; delights of, 9; death of, 84-6; flight of, 62; Gaveston and, 7-8, 9-21, 26-7, 31-4, 38-9, 43, 50-1; Gurney and Matrevis with, 74-5, 77-9; Isabella, Queen, and, 20-2, 25-7, 38; iii, 50; in Kenil worth Castle, xlvi, 6870; nobles' quarrel with, 35-8, 54-5, 59-60; Normandy lost by, 49; Raleigh on murder of, xxxix, 72; Spencer and, xlvi, 47-8, 51-2; at Tynemouth, 40

EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 7-89; remarks on, 5; Lamb on, 6

Edward the Third, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 49, 56-9, 63-4, 81-2, 87-9; in France (see Crecy); St. Patrick's Purgatory and, xxxii, 178; Raleigh on, xxxix, 72; victories over kings, xxxv, 221

Edward IV, beauty of, iii, 106; census of England under, xxxv, 231; founder of King's College, 380; licence to sheep exporters, 328-9; Raleigh on, xxxix, 74-5

Edward V, murder of, xxxix, 75-6

Edward the Confessor, miracles of, xlvi, 377-8

Edward, the Black Prince (see Black Prince)

Edwardes, Richard, AMANTIUM IR.E, xl, 201-2

Edwards, Jonathan, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277

Edwards, Milne, on organization, xi, 129; on physiological division of labor, 118; on types, 451

Eels, in Egypt, xxxiii, 39

Effects, Pascal on reason of, xlviii, no (315)

Effiat, Marquis d', and Bacon, xxxiv, 98-9

Effort, Channing on value of, xxviii, 314-15; Confucius on, xliv, 20 (20);

ECCLESIASTES on uselcssness of, xliv, 335-8, 341 (15-16); Johnson on high, xxxix, 198-9

Efrits, species of genii, xvi, 9

Egbert, the navy of, xxxv, 361

Egerton, Lady Alice, in COMUS, iv, 44

Egerton, Lord, Jonson on, xxvii, 56-7

Egerton, Thomas, in COMUS, iv, 44

Eggs, number of, as security against destruction, xi, 75-6

Egidio, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 173-4, 321, 323

Egidius, the disciple, xx, 332 note 18

Egil, Emerson on, v, 344

Eglemore, Sir, xiv, 93

Eglentyne, Madame, in CANTERBURY TALES, xl, 14

EGMONT, Goethe's, xix, 253-334; remarks on, 252

Egmont, Count, Alva and, xix, 298, 303, 305, 307-14; arrested, 313-14; Clara and, 267-8, 291-6, 315-18; Ferdinand and, 305, 326-32; historically, 252; Machiavel and, 262-4; Netherlanders' love of, 254, 255; with Orange, 283-8; in prison, 318-20; Raleigh on, xxxix, 89; rashness of, xix, 281-2; rioters and, 276-7; on way to scaffold, 333-4; with secretary, 278-83; hears his sentence, 326; sleep and vision, 332

Ego, Berkeley on the, xxxvii, 254-5; Buddhist denial of the, xlv, 653-60; Pascal on, xlviii, in (323), 155 (469); Schiller on, xxxii, 238-41

Egotism, Emerson on value of, v, 232-3; Kant on, xxxii, 334, 341; Pascal on, xlviii, 152 (457)

Egremont, Earl of, i, 49

Egypt, agriculture of, xxxiii, 12-13; artificial lake iu, 75-6; canals of, 52-3, 7980; civilization of, why early, x, 25; "Deserters" of, xxxiii, 19-20; fathers and sons in, x, 64; freedom in ancient, v, 89; gods in, xxxiii, 72-3; xxxviii, 387; history of, xxxiii, 48-89; Israel in, xliv, 435-8; kings of, xxxiii, 9, 48-89; labyrinth of, 74-5; land of, nature and extent, 9-15; pigeons in ancient, xi, 40; plagues of, iv, 346; xliv, 242 (43-51), 276 (27-36); pyramids of, xxxiii, 63-5, 67, 68-9; Rousseau on arts of, xxxiv, 177; shipping in ancient, iii, 157; species in, unchanged, xi, 210; wealth of ancient, x, 295; wonders of, xxxiii, 22

EGYPT, ACCOUNT OF, Herodotus's, xxxiii, 7-90; remarks on, 5-6; 1, 19

Egyptian Feasts, skeleton at, xxxii, 16, 19

Egyptians, anointing among, xxxiii, 47; antiquity of the, 7-8, 13-4; athletics among, 45; boats and navigation of, 47-8; calendar of the, 9; chronology of the, xxxiv, 127; circumcision among, xxxiii, 23, 51; classes among the, 82-3; costumes, 41-2; diet and feasts of, 40-1, 45-6; divination among, 42; of the fens, 45-7; gnats, manner of protection from, 47; gods of the, 9, 26-31, 72-3, 78-9; health, care of, 40; hero-worship not practised by, 31; lotos and papyrus eaters, 45-6; manners and customs of the, 22-3; medical skill of, Homer on, xxii, 52; medicine among, xxxiii, 42; memory of, 40; mode of greeting, 41; monogamy practised by, 45; mourning and burial customs, 42-4; old age, respect for, 41; oracles of, 33, 42, 78-9; Perseus worshipped by, 44-5; religious celebrations of, 33-5; religious customs, 23-4; sacrer animals of, 24-30, 36-40; sanctity of temples, 35-6; song of, 41; transmigration believed in by, 62

Ehrenberg, on infusoria, xxix, 15; on phosphorescence of sea, 168

Eichthal, Gustave d', xxv, 105

Eidothee, daughter of Proteus, xxii, 55-7

Eimeo, island of, xxix, 410

Ekphantus, on motion of earth, xxxix, 55

Elaine, mother of Galahad, xxxv, 203 (see Galahad, birth of); Renan on, xxxii, 153

Eland, Gumming on the, xxviii, 409

Elasticity, force of, xxx, 188-92

Elater, Darwin on the, xxix, 39-40

Elatreus, in the games, xxii, 102

El-Bakbuk, story of, xvi, 164-8

Elbe, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 116

Elbo, island of Anysis, xxxiii, 70

ELDER EDDA, SONGS FROM THE, xlix, 359-438

Eldon, Lord, and the cartoons, v, 417; Holdship and, 370; on impressment, 364; never "ratted," 377

El Dorado, city of, Milton on, iv, 329; Smith on, x, 403 (see also Manoa)

Elect, Pascal on the, xlviii, 189 (575, 577) Election, doctrine of eternal, xxxix, 4950

ELECTION BALLAD, vi, 379-383

ELECTION BALLAD FOR WESTERHA', vi, 370-1

Election Expenses, Mill on, xxv, 173

Elective Franchise, Emerson on the, v, 241; Mill on the, xxv, 159-60; in U. S., xliii, 197 (15), 198 (19), (see also Suffrage)

Electoral College, first provision of, xliii, 187 (2, 3); amended provisions 195-6 (12), 196-7 (14), 197-8 (17)

Electra, daughter of Atlas, xiii, 272; Dante on, xx, 19 and note 5; in THE LIBATION-BEARERS, viii, 79-101; Voltaire on, xxxix, 364

Electric Fish, xi, 188-90

Electricity, and the ether, xxx, 263, 264; Franklin on, i, 146-8; magnetism and, xxx, 82-5, 206; motive force of, 203-7; production of, 61-4, 74-81, 203, 204; transferability of, 66-72

Electro-magnetism, xxx, 83, 206

Elegance, born, not bred, v, 214; Burke on, xxiv, 98; true, in few wants, v, 53

Elegiac Poets, Milton on, xxviii, 173-4

Elegy, Sidney on the, xxvii, 29; Wordsworth on the, xxxix, 298

ELEGY, by Byron, xli, 790

ELEGY IN A COUNTRY CHURCHYARD, Gray's, xl, 443-7

Eleians, in Egypt, xxxiii, 80-1

Elements, creation of the, xx, 313-14

Elephantine, Herodotus on, xxxiii, n

Elephants, habits of, xxix, 91; increase of, xi, 74; insects and, 355; seldom destroyed by beasts of prey, 77; weight of, xxix, 94

ELEU LORO, xli, 742-3

Eleusis, chapel of, at Athens, xii, 50

Eleutheria, establishment of the, xii, 99

Elevation, coral reefs and land, xxix, 483; Lyell on, of land, xxxviii, 401, 406, 409, 411

El-Fadl, the vizier, xvi, 193-9

El-Feshsharf, story of, xvi, 177-84

ELFIN MOUND, THE, xvii, 259-65

Elfmounds, champions of the, xlix, 240-1

Elgin, song of, Burns on, vi, 138

Elgin, Lord, and the Greek remains, v, 361

El-Heddar, story of, xvi, 168-71

Eli, name of Chief Good, xx, 398; sons of, iv, 100

Elian le Blank, xxxv, 163

Elias, Calvin on, xxxix, 40, 44; St. James on, xlviii, 303 (868)

Eliazar, and Argustus, xxxv, 154; son of Pelles, 206-7, 208

Eligius, St., xl, 14 note 68

Elihu, son of Barachel, xliv, 121-32; remarks on speech of, 72

Elijah, Augustine on, vii, 185; Bunyan on, xv, 159; Jesus and, xliv, 379 (30); Milton on, iv, 368, 372, 378; Zarephath and, xliv, 364 (25-6)

Eliot, John, BRIEF NARRATIVE, xliii, 138-46; life and works of, 138 note; on wine, v, 126

Eliott, Sir Thomas, xxxvi, 134

Eliphaz, the Temanite, xliv, 73, 75, 93, 105, 141

Elisabat, the barber, xiv, 207, 210

Elisabeth, mother of John, xliv, 353 (5, 7, 13), 354 (24-5), 359 (36, 41-5), 356 (57-60)

Elisha, and Naaman, xliv, 364 (27) 214

Eliwlod, xxxii, 168-9

Elixir, Sir Mammon on the, xlvii, 565-6

ELIXIR, THE, xl, 342-3

ELIZA, FAREWELL TO, vi, 218

ELIZA, QUEEN OF THE SHEPHERDS, xl, 245-7

ELIZABETH, L. H., EPITAPH ON, xl, 297 Elizabeth, of Bohemia, Walton on, xv, 347

ELIZABETH OF BOHEMIA, xl, 287-8

Elizabeth, Queen of England, Drake and, xxxiii, 122, 126-7; in The Faerie Queene, xxxix, 63; Harrison on progresses of, xxxv, 327; Hugo on, xxxix, 356; Johnson on times of, 218; literary age of, xviii, 5; Mary Queen of Scots on, vi, 396-7; the navy of, xxxv, 357-9; Philip II and, xxxiii, 226; pictures of, xxxix, 80; Raleigh and, 67 note i; xxxiii, 300; secretaries of, stories of, iii, 57, 59; Sidney and, xv, 384; stockings first worn by, x, 206

Elizabethan Age, Emerson on the, v, 434-8

ELIZABETHAN DRAMAS, xlvi, xlvii

Elizabethan England, ale-drinking in, xxxv, 285-6; ale-houses in, 245; apparel and attire, 289-92; the church in, 252, 256-70; cities, towns, bishoprics, parishes, and estates of, 230-5; climate, soil, and products, 307-17; commerce of, 224-6; customs of, 330-1; degrees of people in, 217-29; dishes of, 298-9, 321-2; dogs in, 350-6; fairs and markets, 244-51, 327; food and diet in, 271-88; fowls, wild and tame, 334-40; gardens and orchards of, 236-43; holidays in, 266; houses and furniture in, 293-8, 309-10; interest in, 299-300; laws and licences in, 315; learning in, xxxix, 225-6, 229; live stock of, xxxv, 325-33; luxuries of life in, 297-9, 321-2; manners in, 223, 226-7, 232, 273-5, 277-9, 286-8; minerals and metals, 318-24; navy and shipping of, 357-62; poor relief, beggars, vagabonds, and jugglers, 301-6; punishment of vagabonds, 305-6; punishments of crime in, 363-70; rents and tenures, 299, 300; universities of, 371-83; wealth of, 299, 300; wild beasts, vermin, and insects, 341-9; woolen manufactures in, 328-9

ELIZABETHAN ENGLAND, DESCRIPTION OF, xxxv, 215-383

Elizabethan Language, Johnson on, xxxix, 196-7

El-Kuz el Aswani, story of, xvi, 174-7

Ellesmere, Lord, relations with John Donne, xv, 325-6, 327

Elliot, Sir Gilbert, xl, no

Elliot, Jane, LAMENT FOR FLODDEN, xli, 483

Elliot of Lariston, xli, 768

Elliott, Willie, and Scott, xxv, 414

Ellis, Sarah, wife of Woolman, i, 187

Ellis, William, xxv, 54, 63, 78, 80

El-Mihraj, the king, xvi, 239

Elmire, in TARTUFFE, Cleante and, xxvi, 208; Orgon and, 266-70, 278; Pernelle and, 199-201, 206; Tartuffe and, 247-54, 270-6, 284, 291, 293-4, 296

El-Moin, the vizier, xvi, 193-209, 225-7, 229

El-Muntasir bi-llah, Caliph, xvi, 162-3

Eloquence, Augustine, St., on, vii, 67; Burke on, xxiv, 29-40, 299; Carlyle on, xxv, 377; Descartes on study of, xxxiv, 8-9; Hobbes on, 360, 373; Hume on, xxx vii, 381-3; Milton on, iv, 122; Montaigne on, xxxii, 62, 64; Pascal on, xlviii, 12, 14-15, 17 (25-6); Pennon, i, 336; Pliny on, ix, 346-8; Woolman on, i, 311

Elpenor, and Artemidora, xli, 902; Homer on, xxii, 144, 146-7, 162

ELPHINSTONE'S TRANSLATIONS, ON, vi, 264

Elpinice, sister of Cimon, xii, 45; Pericles and, 64

Elsbeth, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 437, 440

ELSIE, CLEVER, story of, xvii, 121

Ely, Island of, xxxv, 314, 317

Elymas, the sorcerer, xliv, 450 (8-n)

Elysian Fields, Æneas's visit to, xiii, 229; Britain reputed locality of, xxxv, 307; Homer on the, xxii, 60

Elysium, Socrates on, ii, 105-6, 109

Emancipation, Lincoln and, xxviii, 442-7

EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION, xliii, 3235; Emerson on the, xlii, 1261 note

Emathian Conqueror, Alexander called the, iv, 78

Embalming, in ancient Egypt, xxxiii, 42-4

Embassies, origin of, x, 457-8

Embellishment, is deformity, v, 302

Emblems, use of, v, 167-9, 175-6

Embryo Spirit, in FAUST, xix, 185

Embryological Characters, in classification, xi, 437

Embryological Resemblances, xi, 249-50

Embryology, Darwin on, xi, 457-69

Embryos, early death of, xi, 301-2; in Milton's Limbo, iv, 147; pictures of past, xi, 371-2

Emendation, Johnson on, xxxix, 243-8

Emeria, country of, xxxiii, 325 note 23, 331

Emerson, Ralph Waldo, Carlyle and, xxv, 316-17; ENGLISH TRAITS, v, 315-474; Essays of, 5-310; life and work of, 3-4; Lowell on, xxviii, 467; personal acquaintances in England, v, 462-6; Poems by, xlii, 1241-64; remarks on, 1, 36; SPEECH AT MANCHESTER, v, 4714; visit to Stonehenge, 453-62

EMIGRANTS IN BERMUDA, xl, 376-7

Emilius, Paulus (see Æmilius)

Eminence, Confucius on, xliv, 40 (20); verses on, xvi, 235

Emlen, Samuel, i, 289-91, 301

Emmet, Æsop's fable of the, xxxiii, 129

Emmets (see Ants)

Emonides, death of, xiii, 339-40

Emotions, Emerson on the, v, 66-70; Mill on the, xxv, 35-6; Stevenson on display of, xxviii, 280-1

Empedocles, Bacon on, iii, 66; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; on evolution, xi, 6; in Milton's Limbo, iv, 147; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 116; Sidney on, xxvii, 7; sphere of, ii, 295 (3); on the world, xxxix, 104

EMPEROR'S NEW CLOTHES, THE, xvii, 234

EMPIRE, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 48-52

Employers (see Capitalists)

Employment, necessary to contentment, i, 141; Woolman on, 236

Employments, Johnson on the lower, xxxix, 182; Smith on, x, 63-4, 102-46

Empty Sack, proverb of the, i, 91

Emulation, Bacon on, between brothers, iii, 20; envy and, xl, 420; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 343

Enceladus, and JEtna, xiii, 147

Enchanted Ground, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 138-9, 301-5

Enclos, Ninon de 1', xxvii, 274

Enclosures, advantage of, x, 154; Democritus and Columella on, 157; effect of, xi, 80

Encolpius, reader to Pliny, ix, 316

Encyclopaedists, Burke on the, xxiv, 246; Carlyle on the, xxv, 335

END OF THE PLAY, xlii, 1058-60

Endicott, Gov., xliii, 88

Endor, Witch of, iii, 90; xviii, 428

Endowments, Carlyle on, xxv, 374-5; Mill on, 114-15

Ends, Kant's kingdom of, xxxii, 343-4, 347 note, 348-9

Endurance, Locke on, xxxvii, 94-5, 99-101

Endymion, called Latmian shepherd, xl, 244

Enemies, fable of despicable, xvii, 18: fable on promises of, 29; Jesus on loving, xliv, 369 (27, 35)

Energy, Hume on idea of, xxxvii, 336-50; ill-temper and, xxviii, 175-6 (see also Force)

Engagements, Mill on liberty of, xxv, 299

En-gedi, reference to, xli, 485

Engelier, the Gascon, xlix, 120, 135, 138, 144, 167

Enghien, Due d', xxxviii, 23

Engines, Helmholtz on, xxx, 190-4; improvement in, due to boy, x, 15

England, Alfieri, on, v, 331; in American Civil War, xxv, 166-7; xxviii, 115; apprenticeships in, x, 122; artificiality of, v, 362-3; Carlyle on history of, xxv, 366; Catholic Church in, xxxv, 252-6, 266, 267; climate and situation, v, 331-6; coasts of, action of sea on, xxxv, 319; commercial laws of, x, 405-25; country of contradictions, v, 362-3; Elizabethan (see Elizabethan England) ; estates of, 404-7; first book in, xxxix, 5 note; food in, xxxv, 237, 245, 330-3, 335, 336, 347; foreign policy, v, 467-8; France and, in trade, x, 367-8; France and, in war, iii, 75; free trade movement in, xxv, 65; Goldsmith on, xli, 528-31; influence of, v, 332-3; interest, rates of, in, x, 91; liberalism in, xxv, 64-5; liberty, ideas of, in, 202-3; luxury and rioting in, xxxvi, 147-8; Milton on, iii, 215, 222-4, 225-6; minerals and metals, xxxv, 319-24; money of, x, 43; More on causes of theft in, xxxvi, 1438; names of places in, v, 405; Norman, navy of, xxxv, 361; pauperism in, v, 467;

peerage of, Carlyle on, xxv, 371; penalties in, xliii, 92; poor laws of, X, 139-41; post-office established in, ix, 368 note 4; press of, v, 447-53; prices in, i, 304; x, 195-6, 205; xxxv, 224-5, 228, 247-9; progress of wealth of, x, 272-3; races of, v, 352-3; Raleigh on, xxxix, 72-80; Royal Society and Academies of, xxxiv, 154-9; Saxon, x, 30, 194; xxxv, 361; sea-power of, iii, 80; serving men in, xxxvi, 144-6; sheepraising in, 146-7; stage-coaches in (1772), i, 304-5; state of (1782), xxiv, 387-9; Tennyson on, xlii, 998; Thomson on, xl, 442-3; trade treaty with Portugal, x, 390-4; universities of, v, 415-23; wages in, i, 304; x, 77, 143-4; weights and measures in, xxxv, 249; Winthrop on government of, xliii, 91; Wordsworth on, xli, 675, 677; workmanship in, xxxv, 228, 321-2 ENGLAND AND SWITZERLAND, xli, 675-6 England, Bank of, operations of, x, 241-3; power of, v, 396; privileges of, x, 461; profits of, 469

England, Church of, Browne on, iii, 2556; Burke on, xxiv, 235-40; Defoe on establishment of, xxvii, 133-47; under Elizabeth, xxxv, 252, 256-70; Emerson on, v, 424-32; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 7881

ENGLAND, MY ENGLAND, xlii, 1210-12

ENGLAND, YE MARINERS OF, xli, 777-8

English, ability of the, v, 361; American interest in the, 50; aristocracy, 402-15; Austin on the, xxv, in; belles lettres among the, xxxiv, 140-54; brutality among the, v, 346-7; Burke on the, xxiv, 222-3; character of the, v, 379-87; character summarized, 466-71; close union of the, 365; cockayne, 387-92; constitutional force, 381; courage and tenderness of, 348; diet of, 349; dinner among the, 372; domestic life of the, 369; dulness of the, 377; freedom of, 355; Goldsmith on the, xli, 528-9; government of the, xxxiv, 85-92; hatred of pretension, v, 372; horsemanship of, 350; industry and machinery, 394-6; literature of, 432-46; love of custom, 370; love of home, 369; love of private independence, 387; machinery, results of, on, 399-400; maritime inclinations of the, 347; mechanical tendencies of the, 367; Mill on the, xxv, 41-2, 96-7, 148-9; Mirabeau on the, xxviii, 468; moroseness, v, 379; narrow patriotism of, 388-9; natural sincerity of the, 373-9; patience of the, 359-60; pertinacity of the, 360-1; physique of, 347; plain-dealing of the, 354; pluck of the, 366; practicalness of, 355; pride in wealth, 392-4; propriety of the, 371-2; prosperity, love of, 359; the race, 336-51, 352-3; religion of, 423-32; xxiv, 226-7; religious sects among the, xxxiv, 65-85; respect for property, v, 397-8; Ruskin on the, xxviii, 116-27; sea supremacy of the, v, 330; self-esteem, 389-90; social system, artificiality of, 364; sports of, 350; stoutness of mind of the, 381; Taine on the, xxxix, 416, 421, 425; testiness of the, v, 384-5; thoroughness of the, 360; trade of the, xxxiv, 92-3; travellers, v, 382; underlying strength, 386; universities, 415-23; utility, love of, 357, 443-4; vigor of the, 367-8; in war, 358; wars of the, xxxiv, 85-7; wealth of the, v, 396; wealth, use of, 400-1; Wordsworth on the, xli, 676-7

ENGLISH, LETTERS ON THE, Voltaire's, xxxiv, 65-159

English Channel, tides of, xxx, 287-8

English Civil War, Marvell on, xl, 370-1; Vane on, xliii, 121

English Comedy, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 136-40

English Commonwealth, Milton on the, xxviii, 188-9; discussion under the, 189-90 (see also INSTRUMENT OF GOVERNMENT)

English Drama, blank verse in, xix, 204; gentility in, v, 121; Shakespeare and, xxxix, 229-30, 231-3; Shakespearized, v, 10; in Shakespeare's time, xxxix, 230; (16th century) Sidney on, xxvii, 43-6; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 130-40

ENGLISH DRAMAS, MODERN, xviii

ENGLISH ESSAYS, xxvii

English Language, Caxton on old, xxxix, 24-5; Dryden on, xiii, 54; Johnson on, xxxix, 182-96; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 162-3; Milton on, iii, 197; iv, 20-1 ; Sidney on, xxvii, 49-50; Whitman on the, xxxix, 408

English Law, Mill on, xxv, 44

English Literature, Bagehot on, xxviii, 176-7; Emerson on, v, 432-46; in 17th century, xxxix, 427-8; Taine on, 436-7; Thoreau on, xxviii, 413

ENGLISH LITERATURE, INTRODUCTION TO TAINE'S, xxxix, 410-37

English Money, Smith on, x, 30-2

ENGLISH PHILOSOPHERS, xxxiv, 307-417; xxxvii

English Poetry, Arnold's review of, xxviii, 75-90; Eliot on, 1, 4;

Emerson on, v, 180; Wordsworth's retrospect of, xxxix, 316-30

ENGLISH POETRY, xl, xli, xlii

English Revolution, Burke on principles of, xxiv, 155-172; Price on the, 155

English Tragedy, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 130-6

ENGLISH TRAITS, Emerson's, v, 315-474; remarks on, 1, 45

ENID'S SONG, xlii, 976-7

Enipeus, and Tyro, xxii, 150-1

Enis-el-Jelis, story of, xvi, 193-230

Enjoyment, of the present, xliv, 337 (24), 338 (12-13), 341 (18-19), 345 (15); social, ii, 118 (3); temperance in, 198

Enlightenment, Kempis's prayer for, vii, 287-8

Enna, field of, iv, 161

En-Nabighah, Arab poet, xvi, 297 note i

Ennius, on death, ix, 71; Dryden on, xxxix, 163; on Fabius, ix, 49; old age of, 50; on principles of nature, xxvii, 61; quoted, ix, 17-31; Shelley on, xxvii, 344; Sidney on, 6, 36-7

Enoch, Bunyan on, xv, 159; identified with Idris, xlv, 911 note 5; Pascal on, xlviii, 201; book of, 210

Enoch's Pillars, in, 276 note 53

Ens, father of the Predicaments, iv, 22

Entellus, character of, xiii, 60; Dares and, 191-4

Enteritis, Holmes on, xxxviii, 247

Enthusiasm, Emerson on, v, 55, 159; method of divination, xxxiv, 381

ENVIER AND ENVIED, story of, xvi, 78-81

ENVIOUS WEZIR, story of, xvi, 35-6

Environment, of a race, Taine on, xxxix, 423-5

ENVY, ESSAY ON, Bacon's iii, 22-6

Envy, Æschylus on, viii, 38; Augustine, St., on, vii, 28; Bacon on extinguishing of, iii, 129; beginnings of, xxxiv, 204; Blake on, xli, 588; Burns on, vi, 89; Dante on, xx, 201; in Dante's PURGATORY, 195; death and, iii, 10 ; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 343; Emerson on, v, 60; emulation and, xl, 420; fable on, xvii, 32; Moliere on, xxvi, 282; physical effects of, xxxviii, 124; Penn on, i, 345-6 (267-9), 380-1; public, Penn on, 353 (367); sin of, in FAUSTUS, xix, 228; Socrates on, results of, ii, 16; the vice of republics, xlii, 1301

Envy, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 97

Eocene Period, in Europe, xxx, 347

Eocene Strata, Lyell on, xxxviii, 404

Eochaid Feidlech, xlix, 199-201

Eofor, xlix, 73 note i, 86-7

Eomer, in BEOWULF, xlix, 58

Eos, and Kephalos, viii, 323

Eotens, sword of, xlix, 48, 49, 50-1, 76

Eozoon, Darwin on the, xi, 345

Epaminondas, Bacon on, iii, 101; Cicero on death of, ix, 103; on death, xxxii, 7; Emerson on, v, 128, 203; Pascal on, xlviii, 119 (353); Plutarch on, xii, 150, 189; poverty of, 78; Sidney on, xxvii, 41

Epaphos, child of Zeus and lo, viii, 197; the same as Apis, xxxiii, 77

Epaphroditus, freedman of Octavius, xii, 383

Epaphroditus, master of Epictetus, ii, 116; and the shoemaker, 130 (40)

Epeius (Epeiis), and the horse of Troy, xiii, 108-9; xxn 112

Ephesian Books, burning of the, iii, 201

Ephesians, on examples of virtue, ii, 293 (26)

Ephesus, Herodotus on plains about, xxxiii, ii

Ephialtes, the Athenian, xii, 42, 44; murder of, 46

Ephialtes, the giant, in Dante's HELL, xx, 129, 130; Homer on, xxii, 152-3 (see also Alsean Twins)

Ephorus, and Theopompus, ix, 146

Ephraim, children of, xliv, 240 (9); Milton on, iv, 421; son of Jacob, xlviii, 237

EPIC AND SAGA, xlix

Epic Poetry, Dryden on, xiii, 5-11, 14; xxxix, 158; Fielding on, 176; Hugo on, 340-2, 352, 353-4; Milton on, v, 175; Poe on, xxviii, 372; Shelley's, xxvii, 349; Sidney on, xxvii, 28-9; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 298

Epicaste, in Hades, xxii, 151

Epicharmus, rule of, ix, 118; on the understanding, xxxii, 38

Epicles, of Hermione, xii, 9

Epicrates of Acharnse, xii, 26-7; Cicero the Younger on, ix, 174

Epics, prose, xxxix, 176-7

Epictetus, on anger, xlviii, 35 (80); banishment of, ix, 239 note; on changes, ii, 293 (35); on consistency, xlviii, 118X 9 (35); corn-superintendent and, ii, 125 (24); on desire and avoidance, 293-4 (37); on Æe will, 293 (36); GOLDEN SAYINGS OF, 117-85; Governor of Cnossus and, 151-2 (93); on himself, 159 (114); Hume on philosophy of, xxxvii, 319; on impossibilities, ii, 293 (33); We an d teachings of, n6; Marcus Aurelius's acquaintance with, 194 (7); Pascal on, xlviii, 13 (18), 142 (431), 155 (466-7), 388-9, 396-400; priest of Augustus and, ii, 131 (43); the rich man and, 126 (25); on soul and body, 219 (41); the thief and, 120 (ii); on words of bad omen, 293 (34); the young man and, 140 (65)

Epicureans, Bacon on, iii, 8

Epicurism, Locke on, xxxvii, 30-1

Epicurus, Aristophanes on, xxxii, 64-5; in Athens, iii, 193; xxviii, 58; xxxvii, 393; Augustine, St., on, vii, 97; Chaucer on, xl, 20; Dante on, xx, 40; freedom from citations, xxxii, 31; on God, iii, 43; Hugo on, xxxix, 343; on man as proper study of self, iii, 27; Mill on, xxv, 355 not an atheist, iii, 272; on pain, ii, 251 (64); on philosophy, xxxii, 54; property of, xxviii, 59; quotation from, xxxix, 114; religious principles of, xxxvii, 394-401; on sickness, ii, 272-3 (41); on the soul, xxxiv, 103

Epicycles, defined, iii, 45 note

Epicydes, and Themistocles, xii, 10

Epidaurian Giant, xxvi, 136

Epidaurus (see Æsculapius)

Epidemics, as a check to increase, xi, 78-9

Epigenes, with Socrates, ii, 22, 47

EPIGRAM, by Prior, xl, 398

EPILOGUE, by Browning, xlii, 1109-10

Epimenides, iii, 66; viii, 184 note 34

Epimetheus, fable of, iii, 40; Pandora and, iv, 172.

Epiphanius, leader of Arabic school, xxviii, 59; Milton on, iii, 203

EPIPHANY, xlv, 565

Epirot, Pyrrhus called the, iv, 83

Epitaphs, Wordsworth on poetic, xxxix, 299

EPITHALAMION, Spenser's, xl, 234-45

Epitomes, Shelley on, xxvii, 335

Epixyes, and Themistocles, xii, 31

Epoch, Taine on importance of, xxxix, 422, 426-7

EPODE, by Jonson, xl, 294-7

Epuremei, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 354-5, 358, 365; religion of, 374

Equability, is piety, xlv, 795

Equality, among low races, xxix, 234; ants pattern of, iv, 239; Ball, John, on, xxxv, 61; Burke on, xxiv, 175-6, 187; envy of, iii, 24; of fortune, 33; v, 88; of goods, Milton on, iv, 65; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 387-8, 408-10; Jefferson on, xliii, 150; Lowell on, xxviii, 469; Montaigne on, xxxii, 25; More on, xxxvi, 167, 168; natural, of men, v, 268; x, 21 ; Pascal on, xlviii, 106 (299), 378-80; Paul, St., on, xlv, 525 (14); principle of, discovered by Plato, xxvii, 346; realized in esthetics, xxxii, 295; of rights, v, 240-1; sedition bred by, iii, 36; Spartan principle of, v, 241; of trades, x, 116-21

Equanimity, Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 855; Marcus Aurelius on the term, ii, 277 (8)

Equestrian Order, of Rome, ix, 204 note 2

Equipage, demand for, x, 167-8

Equity, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 409; Mohammed on, xlv, 986

Equivocation, Penn on, i, 336 (144)

Erasistratus, xxxviii, 67, 88-9

Erasmus, on the English universities, xxxv, 374; on folly, xxvii, 31; More on, xxxvi, 89; at Oxford, v, 416

Eraso, secretary of Charles V, xv, 327

Erastus, the disciple, xliv, 465 (22)

Erato, reference to, xiii, 240

Ercilla, Alonso de, Cervantes on, xiv, 54

Ercoco, reference to, iv, 329

Erechtheus, Athens the city of, viii, 352; references to, 157; xxvi, 153

Eric the Red, xliii, 5, 6, 8, ii, 13

Ericetes, death of, xiii, 347

Erichtho, Dante on, xx, 36

Erichthonius, reference to, xiii, 70

Erinyes, reference to the, viii, 290

Eriphyle, Homer on, xxii, 153; in the Mournful Fields, xiii, 222; slain by son, xx, 300 note 12, 192

Erisichthon, Dante on, xx, 239

Eristics, Socrates on the, ii, 95

Ermine, hunting of the, xiv, 316; Smart on the, xii, 494

Ernst, H. C., translator of Pasteur, xxxviii, 269

Eros, and Anteros, xii, 109 note 3; xviii, 425; song to, viii, 326-8

Eros, servant of Antony, xii, 381

Erosion, Darwin on, xxix, 320-1; Geikie on, xxx, 341 (see also Denudation)

Erotic Poetry, Shelley on, xxvii, 342-3

Erp, son of Gudrun, xlix, 353, 357, 418, 426-7, 430

Erpingham, at Agincourt, xl, 224

Error, Augustine, St., on origin of, vii, 58; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 228; Emerson on, v, 17, Euripides on, viii, 325; hill of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 123; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 332-3; knowledge of, necessary to truth, iii, 202; Milton on, iv, 401; Pascal on sources of, xlviii, 38-9; Sophocles on correction of, viii, 289

Erskine, Thomas, Lord, Burns on, vi, 159, 256-7, 449

Ertanax, the fish, xxxv, 183

Erymanthus, death of, xiii, 317

Erymanthus (region), and Hercules, xiii, 234

Erynnis, references to the, xx, 37; xxu, 206

Erysipelas, and puerperal fever, xxxviii, 236-7, 240 note, 242, 248-9, 252, 253

Erythrabolos, city of, xxxiii, 54

Erythraean Sea, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 10, 11; Milton on, iv, 16

Esau, Augustine, St., on, vii, 185; Bunyan on, xv, 125, 130-1;

Woolman on, i, 298

Eschilus (see iEschylus)

Escobar, Pascal on, xlviii, 313 (915)

Escovedo, Raleigh on, xxxix, 88

Escremis, xlix, 124, 135

Escurial, Bacon on the, iii, 109

Esdras, Pascal on, xlviii, 209-10; Raleigh on, xxxix, 100

ESOPUS TO MARIA, vi, 485-7

Espanola, Drake at, xxxiii, 226

Esquife, friend of Don Quixote, xiv, 46

Esquimaux, Darwin on the, xxix, 234

ESSAY ON MAN, Pope's, xl, 406-40; 1, 32

Essays, founded by Montaigne, xxxii, 3

ESSAYS, AMERICAN, xxviii, 307-470

ESSAYS, Bacon's, iii, 7-142

ESSAYS, Emerson's, v, 5-310

ESSAYS, ENGLISH, xxvii, xxviii

ESSAYS, FRENCH, GERMAN, etc., xxxii

Essence, defined, ii, 70; knowledge of, 64-5 (see also Real Existence)

Essex, Earl of, and Bacon, iii, 3; Emerson on, v, 183; Jonson on, xxvii, 56; A PASSION, xl, 287

Es-SINDIBAD OF THE SEA, Xvi, 231-95

Es-Sindibad, the Porter, xvi, 231-4, 294-5

Establishment, misuse of word, xxvii, 245

Estampes, M. d', governor of Brittany, xxxviii, 13-14, 15

Este, Azzo da, and Del Cassero, xx, 163 note 5

Este, Ippolito d', Cardinal of Ferrara, xxxi, 197 note 5, 201-2, 249, 258-61, 267, 274-6, 278, 282-3, 284-5, 294, 319-20, 334-5

Este, Obizzo da, and Ghisola, xx, 74 note 2; murder of, 52 note 9

Esteem, love of, in children, xxxvii, 3941; Pascal on, xlviii, 60 (148-9), 61 (153), 115 (333), 131 (404); Perm on, i, 348 (313); for rank, Pascal on, xlviii, 381

ESTEEM FOR CHLORIS, vi, 500

Esther, reference to, xx, 213

Estorause, King, xxxv, 211

Estorgan, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 124, 135

Estouteville, Jean d', xxxi, 279 note

Estramarin, xlix, 97, 124, 135

Estrella, in LIFE A DREAM, with Astolfo, xxvi, 21-3; her claim to throne, 22-3; agrees to king's plan, 28-9; with Segismund, 43-4; chosen queen of Segismund, 73

Estres, M. d', Pare on, xxxviii, 25, 43

Etain, daughter of Eochaid, xlix, 201-2

Etain, daughter of Etar, xlix, 200-1

Etampes, Madame d', mistress of Francis I, xxxi, 283 note, 328 note; Cellini and, 292-3, 296-8, 300-1, 310, 322, 325-6, 329-30, 333

Etearchos, king of Ammonians, xxxiii, 20-2

Eteocles, and Polynices, xx, 107 note; viii, 255, 260, 261-2; sung by Statius, xx, 235 note 3

Eteoneus, squire of Menelaus, xxii, 46-7, 202

ETERNAL GOODNESS, THE, xiii, 1338-41

Eternal Life, Kempis on desire of, vii, 315

Eternity, Browne on, iii, 262; Burke on idea of, xxiv, 52-3; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 791-2; in an hour, xli, 586; human life and, ii, 271 (32); ocean of, in MIRZA, xxvii, 74, 76-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 31; shadows of, xl, 348; time and, iv, 39

Eterscel, King, xlix, 201, 202

Ethan the Ezrahite, Maschil of, xliv, 254-7

Ethelred, navy of, xxxv, 361

Ethel wald, at Winborne, v, 354

Ether, luminiferous, Kelvin on, xxx, 255, 263-6, 271-3

Ethics, common rational basis of, xxxii, 305-17; empirical and metaphysical bases of, 318-55; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; Hume on standard of, xxvii, 2045; Kant on science of, xxxii, 299-300; Mill on Christian, xxv, 242-3; need of metaphysic of, xxxii, 300-3; need of philosophical basis, 316-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 25-6 (67), 313 (912); Pope on study of, xl, 406-7 (see also Morals)

Ethiopia, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 16, 19-20

ETHIOPIA SALUTING THE COLORS, xlii, 1407-8

Ethiopian Eunuch, xliv, 440-1 (27-40)

Ethiopians, circumcision among, xxxiii, 51; Homer on the, xxii, 9-10

Ethnology, importance of, xxviii, 230-4; a physical science, 235-6 (see also Race)

Etna (see Ætna)

ETON COLLEGE, ON A DISTANT PROSPECT OF, Xl, 447-50

Ettrick Forest, men of, at Flodden, xli, 482 note

Etymology, Johnson on English, xxxix, 186-8

Eu, Comte d', at Dreux, xxxviii, 48

Eu, Earl of, in English wars, xxxv, 13, 50

Eucharist, Calvin on the, xxxix, 37, 50; institution of the, xliv, 410 (19-20); Kempis on the, vii, 335-64; Luther on the, xxxvi, 320; Newman on doctrine of the, xxviii, 38; Pascal on the, xlviii, 81

(224), 218 (654), 220 (666), 223 (670), 273 (789), 301-2, 335, 348-9; St. Paul on the, xlv, 505-6 (23-9)

Euchidas, the Platsean, xii, 99

Euclia, the goddess, xii, 99

Euclid, the mathematician, Huxley on, xxviii, 219; in Limbo, xx, 20; on unity, xlviii, 434-5

Euclid, friend of Socrates, ii, 47

Eudaemon, name of, xii, 156 note

Eudamidas, will of, xxxii, 81, 82

Eudes, Mayor of Palace, xxxix, 83

Euergetes, name of, xii, 156 note

EUGANEAN HILLS, LINES WRITTEN AMONG, xli, 835-41

Eugene, Prince, xli, 734; and the English merchants, xxxiv, 92-3; story of, xxvii, 102

Eugenio, the goatherd, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 499-507

Eugenius, Calvin on, xxxix, 42, 43

Eulogies, fancy and judgment in, xxxiv, 350

Eulogistic Fallacies, xxvii, 245-6

Eumaeus, swineherd of Odysseus, xxii, 186-99, 207-12, 215-19, 228, 232-6, 236, 241-4, 289-90, 293-4, 298-309; Cowley on, xxvii, 68

Eumedes, death of, xiii, 402

Eumenides, Hugo on the, xxxix, 348; name of, xxvii, 324

Eumenius, death of, xiii, 379

Eumolpus, Pliny on, ix, 399-400

Eunapius, at Athens, xxviii, 53-4

Eunoe, river, xx, 261-2

Eunomus, and Demosthenes, xii, 195

Eunuchs, envy of, iii, 23; king's favor for, 108

Euodius, conversion of, vii, 147; at funeral of Monnica, 155

Eupeithes, father of Antinous, xxii, 330-1; death of, 333

Euphelia, and Cloe, xl, 397-8

Euphrantides, the Prophet, xii, 17

Euphrasia, in PHILASTER (see Bellario)

Euphrates, the philosopher, ix, 195-6; quoted, ii, 172-3 (154)

Euphrosyne, reference to, iv, 30

Eupolis, and Alcibiades, ix, 149; on Pericles, ix, 207 note; xii, 38

Euripides, and Æschylus, xxxix, 426; Aristophanes on, viii, 438, 441; BAO CHi of, 368-436; defeats of, xxxix, 317; dispute with yschvlus in THE FROGS, viii, 462-85; domestic relations of, 472; on hiding wickedness, xxxix, 70; HIPPOLYTUS of, viii, 303-67; Hugo on, xxxix, 347; Hugo on Suppliants of, 341; Johnson on, 210; on liberty of speech, iii, 183; life and works, viii, 302; in Limbo, xx, 236 note 6; Milton on, iv, 413; Shelley on, xxvii, 338; Sophocles, compared with, viii, 208; on the Spartans, iii, 194; verses of, in Syracuse, xxvii, 37

Euripus, the flux of, xxxviii, 75, 98, 99

Europa, reference to, xx, 401

Europe, American policy toward, xliii, 278-9; "better fifty years of," xlii, 985; civilization of, cause of, xxxiv, 206; eastern, Freeman on, xxviii, 262-72; growth of continent of, xxx, 342-51; races of, xxviii, 257-73

Europeans, contact of, with native races, xxix, 439-40

Eurus, reference to, xiii, 77

Euryades, death of, xxii, 303

Euryalus, and Nisus, xiii, 188, 298-308

Euryalus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 102, 103, 109-10

Eurybates, henchman of Ulysses, xxii, 263

Eurybiades, Admiral of Greeks, xii, n; given rewards for valor, 20; at Salamis, 86; Themistocles and, 15-16

Eurycleia, nurse of Telemachus, xxii, 20, 30, 65, 228-9, 266-70, 306-7, 310-12

Eurycles, and Antony, xii, 374

Eurydamas, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 252, 303

Eurydice, wife of Creon, viii, 294-6, 298-9

Eurydice, wife of Nestor, xxii, 44

Eurydice, wife of Orpheus, iv, 34

Eurylochus, in Circe's isle, xxii, 135-7, 141; at island of Helios, 169, 170-1

Eurymachus, suitor of Penelope, xxii, 1920, 25-6, 62, 200, 213, 251-2; death of, 297-8; Melantho and, 253; Telemachus and, 226; Theoclymenus and, 282; Ulysses and, 254-5, 289-93

Eurymedon, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 91

Eurymedusa, Homer on, xxii, 90

Eurynome, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 241, 249-50, 259, 3H

Eurynomus, wooer of Penelope, xxii, 21, 302

Eurypilus, Dante on, xx, 84

Euryptolemus, and Pericles, xii, 41-2

Eurypylus, in ÆNEID, xiii, 104

Eurystheus, Epictetus on, ii, 142-3 (71)

Eurythmus, freedman of Trajan, ix, 295

Eurytion, in ;NEID, xiii, 194, 196

Eurytion, the Centaur, xxii, 291

Eurytus, Homer on, xxii, 105

Eusebius, at Athens, xxviii, 60; on the Creation, xxxix 102; Milton on, iii, 203

Eustochium, vision of, iii, 200

Euterpe, mother of Themistocles, xii, 5

Eutyches, on Christ, xx, 306 note 5

Eutychus, and Octavius, xii, 372 note

Eutychus, and St. Paul, xliv, 467 (9-12)

Evadne, and Laodamia, xiii, 222

Evandale, Lord, character of, v, 122-3

Evander, and Æneas, xiii, 271-280, 2837; Cowley on Virgil's, xxvii, 68; in Italy, xiii, 270; lament over Pallas, 361-2

EVANGELINE, Longfellow's, xiii, 1300-38; its debt to HERMANN AND DOROTHEA, xix, 336

Evangeline, daughter of Benedict Bellefontaine, xiii, 1301-2; her suitors, 1303; her love for Gabriel, 1303-4; her heifer, 1305; on evening of betrothal, 1306, 1307, 1309-10; at feast of betrothal, 1311; waiting for father's return, 1313-14; on day of expulsion, 1315, 1316, 1317-18; in exile, 1319; her search for Gabriel, 1319-34; in Philadelphia, as Sister of Mercy, 1334-5; during the plague, 1335-6; with Gabriel at last, 1336-7

Evangelist, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 14-15, 24-8, 89-91

Evangelus, servant of Pericles, xii, 54

Evans, mate of the "Alert," xxiii, 401

Eve, Adam accuses, iv, 287-9; Adam, first meeting with, 165-7, 255-7; Adam, her dependence on, 170-1; Adam, evening meal with, 163; Adam denounces, 312-14; Adam's love besought by, 314; Adam tempted by, 280-7; appearance of, at the feast, 190, 191-2; Bagehot on Milton's, xxviii, 192, 202-3; beauty of, v, 305; Browne on creation of, iii, 274; Bunyan on apple of, xv, 237; creation of, iv, 255-6; Dante on, in PARADISE, xx, 419 note i; death suggested by, iv, 315-6; departs from Eden, 358;

description of, 162; dream of, 181-3; feast prepared by, for Raphael, 188-9; hides from God, 293-4; judged, 294-6; labors of, 186; lamentation of, at loss of Eden, 325-6; prayer of, 184-6: temptation of, 273-80; tree of, xxxv, 186, 188

EVE OF ST. AGNES, xii, 883-93

Evelake, King, xxxv, 118-20, 138, 151, 207, 209

EVELYN HOPE, xiii, 1078-80

Evening, Goethe on influence of, xix, 52, 53; Milton's description of, iv, 169-70

EVENING, To, xii, 479-81

EVENING STAR, To THE, xii, 771, 776-7

Events, cause of, Whewell on, xi, i; Emerson on origin of, v, 133; relation of, to causes, xxxvii, 352-7; tests of worth of, v, 187-88

Evenus, the Parian, ii, 8, 48, 49

Everett, Edward, oration at Gettysburg, xliii, 415 note

Evil, Augustine, St., on, vii, 37, 58, 74, 101-3, IZI ; Buddha on, xlv, 661; Carlyle on, xxv, 343; Dante on cause of, xx, 209-10; Emerson on, v, 27; Epictetus on, ii, 174 (162); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 338-9; Hume on problem of, xxxvii, 368-70, 398; knowledge of, Mrs. Herbert on, xv, 376; knowledge of, Milton on, iii, 202; iv, 278; last infirmity of, xviii, 416; made by thought, xlvi, 132; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 202 (n), 204 (17), 213 (7), 214 (8), 219 (30), 232 (i), 268 (13), 27 J (35); Omar Khayyam on, xli, 955; Pascal on, xlviii, 132 (408), 332; Pope on, xl, 409-15, 433; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 260-2, 278-9; seeds of, fable on, xvii, 16; Socrates on, ii, 37-8; speaking and believing, vii, 209 (i); Woolman on, i, 256

Evils, as benefactors, v, 98; choose less of two, vii, 273; Goethe on imagined, xix, 33; Milton on imagined, iv, 54

Evolution, antiquity of idea of, xi, 6; Descartes on growth by, xxxiv, 12-3; generally accepted, xi, 246; growth of idea of, xi, 9-24

EVOLUTION, GEOGRAPHICAL, xxx, 328-51

Ewaipanoma, the, xxxiii, 359-60

Ewell, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 343, 344, 355-6, 362-3

Exaggeration, Emerson on, v, 231

Example, best precept, xvii, 30; Chaucer on, and precept, xl, 25; Confucius on guiding by, xliv, 7 (3); education by, ix, 320; Epictetus on, and precept, ii, J77 (*75); Epictetus on teaching by, 154 (102); Locke on teaching by, xxxvii, 55-6, 59, 65-6, 69-70; Spenser on teaching by, xxxix, 62

Examples, Bacon on use of, xxxix, 140; great men as, xlviii, 45-6 (103); Machiavelli on high, xxxvi, 19; Pascal on effect of, xlviii, 49 (117); Raleigh on historical, xxxix, 70-2, 89; true and feigned, xxvii, 20; use of good and evil, iii, 29

Excalibur, sword of Arthur, xlii, 986-90

Excess, causes defect, v, 87; Confucius on, xliv, 34 (15); Epictetus on, ii, 184 (12); Pascal on, xlviii, 30

Exchange, advantages of, x, 21; ancient media of, 28; effects of high price of, 315; medium of (see Money); power of, limits division of labor, 22; propensity to, 18; rates of, as criterion of balance of trade, 355-8; rates of international, 314-5

Excise, Duties, vexation of, x, 539

Excises under U. S. Constitution, xliii, 184 (i)

EXCISEMEN, KIRK AND STATE, vi, 460

Excitement, man's sphere, xix, 72; Pascal on quest of, xlviii, 54, 55, 56; Wordsworth on thirst for, xxxix, 273-4

Exclusionists, Emerson on, v, 94

Excommunication, Chaucer on, xl, 29 note 330; Dante on, xx, 364 note 10; Luther on, xxxvi, 275, 291, 292, 307-8; in Utopia, 230-1

Excuses, Confucius on, xliv, 54 (i); fable of, xvii, ii; Locke on, xxxvii, 114-15, 118; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 195 (12); Pascal on, xlviii, 23 (58); Penn on, i, 337 (150); Thackeray on, xxviii, n; Tzu-hsia on, xliv, 64 (8)

Executive Power (U. S.), xliii, 186-9

Exercise, Burke on necessity of, xxiv, 108-9; Cicero on, ix, 58

Existence, annihilation of, heresy of, xlv, 657-8, 664; definition of, impossible, xlviii, 425-6; Hindu doctrine of persistent, xlv, 791-2; persistent, heresy of, 657-8, 664; struggle for (see Struggle for Existence) (see also Real Existence)

Exorcism, Pascal on, xlviii, 284 (820)

Expectation, Manzoni on, xxi, 639; never satisfied, v, 232

Expediency, St. Paul on, xlv, 498 (12), 504 (23)

Expenditure (see Consumption)

Expense, Bacon on, iii, 72; educational, xxxvii, 70-1; immediate and durable, x, 274-7

Experience, in animals, xxxvii, 371-2; Bacon on analysis of, xxxix, 134, 137-40; Bunyan on, xv, 293; Descartes on value of, xxxiv, 10, 13; education by actual, v, 12-15; faith superior to, 133; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 314, 320; Hume on, xxxvii, 300-303, 308-11, 354-5, 375-6, 400-1; Hume on conclusions from, 312-18, 320, 321-3, 330; mother of sciences, xiv, 165; necessity of moral, xxviii, 172; of others, i, 70; Raleigh on, xxxix, 100; reason and, 12T, xxxvii, 322 note; teacher of wisdom, best, xxviii, 339; thought and, Thoreau on, 399

Experience, the shepherd, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 123-6

Experiment, Bacon on necessity of, xxxix, 125, 127, 134, 135-6; Descartes on truth by, xxxiv, 12-3, 51

Explanations, actions the only true, v, 190-91

Expletives, Johnson on, xxxix, 192

Exports, and Exportation, bounties on, x, 374-88, 522; drawbacks on, 371-2; encouragement of, 330; of materials, discouraged, 405, 410-22; taxes on, from U. S., xliii, 185 (5)

Ex Post Facto Laws, xliii, 185 (3), 186 (10)

Expression, Locke on correct, xxxvii, 1602; means of, other than words, xxviii, 280-1 ; necessary to beauty, v, 306-7

EXTEMPORANEOUS EFFUSION, vi, 355

EXTEMPORE IN COURT OF SESSION, vi, 256-7

Extempore Speaking, Locke on, xxxvii, 148

Extempore Writing, Carlyle on, xxv, 443-7

Extension, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 207-9, 211-2, 265; Hume on idea of, 411-2; infinite divisibility of, xlviii, 430-7; as source of grandeur, xxiv, 61-7

External Circumstances, independence of (see Independence of C.)

Extinction of Species, Darwin on, xi, 113-4, 124-5, 353-7; xxix, 179-81; Lyell on causes of, xxxviii, 403-4

Extortioners, St. Paul on, xlv, 497 (n), 497 (10)

Extradition, between U. S. and Great Britain, xliii, 281, 287-8; under Confederation, 159

Extravagance, economically considered, x, 266-8; public, 269-70

Extremes, Moliere on man's tendency to, xxvi, 213-4; Pascal on, xlviii, 29-30; Plutarch on, xii, 148

Eye, beauty of the, xxiv, 97; development of the, xi, 181-4; Helmholtz on the, 203-4; interpreter of the heart, xlviii, 415

Eyes, temptation of, St. Augustine on, vii, 187-8

Eylimi, King, xlix, 278, 279

Eyre, Gov., prosecution of, xxv, 182

Eyre, Margery, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 473-5, 480-3, 488-91, 497-5O4, 530

Eyre, Simon, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, character of, xlvii, 468; king and, 531-2, 534-7; Leadenhall built by, 535 note; Lord Mayor and, 496, 501-4; Mayor, 514, 521, 528-31; Ralph and, 473-6; Rowland and, 482-3, 520, 5256; sheriff, 500-1; ship bought by, 489-91; at his shop, 479-83, 488-9

Eyre's Sound, glaciers in, xxix, 251

Eystein, and Sigurd, v, 344

Eyvind, and Olaf, v, 276

Ezekiel, and /Eschylus, viii, 5; Pascal on, xlviii, 307 (886); vision of, iv, 99

Ezra, and the ass, xvi, 116 note

Ezzelin, reference to, xviii, 301

F

Fa, Jacques de la, xxxi, 310 note 1

Fabatus, letters to, ix, 248, 293, 303

Faber, Frederick William, HYMN BY, xlv, 571-2

Fabian, in POLYEUCTE, xxvi, 87-90, 118

Fabius Maximus, Cicero on, ix, 48-9; Pericles and, compared, xii, 37; Scipio and, xxxvi, 56; Virgil on, xiii, 236

FABLES AND FOLK-LORE, xvii

FABLES, PREFACE TO, Dryden's, xxxix, 153-75

Fables, law of compensation in, v, 91-2; remarks on, xvii, 8-9

Fabricius, Gaius, Cicero on, ix, 19; Dante on, xx, 225; on Epicurus, ix, 60; Milton on, iv, 383; More on, xxxvi, 162; Virgil on, xiii, 236

Fabricius, Hieronymus, Harvey on, xxxviii, 76; on lungs, 65, 71; on veins, 117-8

Face, Burke on beauty of the, xxiv, 96-7; character in the, iii, 312; expressions of the, xxviii, 280-1; ideal, rare, v, 305-6; sign of mind, as, Shakespeare on, xlvi, 330

Face, in THE ALCHEMIST, confederates betrayed by, xlvii, 655-7; Dame Pliant and, 591-2, 618, 620-1, 625-9; Dapper with, 551-8, 602, 607-10, 651-2, 653; Drugger and, 559-62, 589-91, 603-607; as Jeremy the servant, 645-50; Lovewit and, 650-1; Mammon and, 564, 567-70, 572, 574-5. 579-83, 611-2, 613-4, 617-18, 630-1, 632-3; Subtle and, 543-50, 621-2; Surly and, 582-3, 584, 622-5, 636-8

Facing-both-ways, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102

Fact, Hume on matters of, xxxvii, 306-18, 321-3, 330-1, 415, 418-9

FACTION, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 123-4

Factions, Bacon on, iii, 37, 39; Franklin on, i, 89

Facts, Burns on, vi, 208; Emerson on, v, 183; worship of, 187

Fadl-ed-Din, the vizier, xvi, 193-9

Faerie Queene, LEAR, story of, in, xlvi, 214; Shelley on, xxvii, 349

FÆRIE QUEENE, PREFATORY LETTER ON, xxxix, 61-5

Fafnir, xlix, 284, 285, 286, 292-5; the heart of, 296

Failure, M. Aurelius on, ii, 225 (9), 242 (50) Faint-Heart, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 128, 133

Fainting, Harvey on cause of, xxxviii, 113

FAIR ANNET, LORD THOMAS AND, xl, 61-5

FAIR INES, xli, 905-7; Poe on, xxviii, 384-6

FAIR Is MY LOVE, xl, 250

FAIR YOUNG LADY, SONG TO A, xl, 388-9

FAIREST MAID ON DEVON BANKS, vi, 553

Fairfax, motto of house of, v, 374

Fairfax, Edward, Dryden on, xxxix, 154, 163

FAIRFAX, LORD GENERAL, AT SIEGE OF COLCHESTER, iv, 82

FAIRIES, THE, by Allingham, xlii, 1116-17

Fairness, and fitness, Augustine, St., on, vii, 57

Fair-speech, Lord, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102-3

Fair-speech, town of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102

Faith, American lack of, v, 54; Arnold on decline of, xlii, 1138; Augustine, St., on, in Scripture, vii, 82; Bacon on, and suspicion, iii, 82-3; Blake on children's, xli, 589; Browne on, iii, 260 (9, 10), 271, 309; Bunyan's allegory of, xv, 33-4; Calvin on, xxxix, 30-1, 49-50; Carlyle on, xxv, 343; Dante on, xx, 388-9; Dante's allegory of, 265 note ii ; Dante's star of, 177 note 9; decline of, modern, v, 37, 277; xxv, 343-5; Emerson on, v, 133, 147, 274, 281, 298; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 846, 848, 863, 865; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 3478; Hume on Christian, xxxvii, 392; Isidore on, xxxix, no-n; Jesus on, xliv, 398 (5-6); justification by, xxxvi, 346-59, 362-3, 363-4, 367-8, 3755 Justification by, Hindu idea of, xlv, 794; Kempis on necessity of, vii, 363-4 (2), 364 (5); Longfellow on, xlii, 1333; Luther on Christian, xxxvi, 344-5, 351-7, 372-3; Milton on, iii, 217-20; iv, 50, 352; More on, under difficulties, xxxvi, 100; Pascal on, xlviii, 92 (248), 96 (265-7), 99 (278-9), 136, 165 (504), 168 (516), 301; Paul, St., on, xlv, 508 (2, 13); Penn on, i, 359 (454); Pope on modes of, xl, 430; Rousseau on, articles of, xxxiv, 289; Tzu-chang on, xliv, 63 (2); Voltaire on, and reason, xxxiv, 107; Whitman on, xxxix, 392-3; Wordsworth on, 314-15; of youth, xix, 37 (see also Fidelity, Promises)

Faithful, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 59, 70, 72-90, 93-101

FAITHFUL JOHN, tale of, xvii, 57-64

Faithfulness, Confucius on, xliv, 5 (8), 13 (15), 29 (24), 39 (10), 45 (8), 51 (5); Jesus on, 397 (10-12)

Falada, the speaking horse, xvii, 173-7

Falconer, Hugh, on crocodiles, xi, 349-50; on elephants, 355; on periods of modification, 337

Falconer, the Jesuit, xxix, 112-3

Falkland Islands, climate and productions of, xxix, 247-8; Darwin on, 55-6, 193-208; peat in, 291; tameness of birds in, 404

Falkland, Lord, on ceremony, v, 202; Pope on, xl, 433

FALL OF FYERS, LINES ON THE, vi, 281

FALL OF THE LEAF, vi, 315-6

FALLACIES OF ANTI-REFORMERS, Smith's, xxvii, 225-51

Fallen Angels, in PARADISE LOST, muster of, iv, 100-2; names on earth of, 97; number of, 95-7; in Pandemonium, 107-8; pastimes of the, 121-4; punishment of, yearly, 304-5; rebellion of, 198, 206-7, 209-26

Falling Bodies, law of, xxx, 19-21

Falloppio, system of, xxxviii, 388

Falsaron, xlix, 123, 133

False accusers, branded in Rome, ix, 296 note 8

False Opinions, injuriousness of, ii, 242 (57)

False Prosecutions, in Massachusetts, xliii, 72 (37)

False Witness, punished by death, xliii, 81 (ii)

Falsehood, Bacon on, iii, 7-9, 128; Dante places, in Hell, xx, 46; Emerson on, v, 27, 100; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 326; Kant on, xxxii, 314-5, 330, 333, 351; Locke on early training in, xxxvii, 30; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 264 (i); Montaigne on, iii, 8-9; Penn on, i, 336 (144); semblance of, to be avoided, xx, 69; Spanish proverb on, iii, 19; Whitman on, xxxix, 402

Fame, Augustine, St., on, vii, 56; Bacon on, iii, 36, 126; Burns on, vi, 260, 308; Byron on, xli, 789-80; Carlyle on, xxv, 419; Confucius on, xliv, 5 (i), 7 (16), 13 (14), 40 (20), 48 (32); Dante on, xx, 99, 189, 309 note 25; death and, iii, 10; Diogenes on, ii, 180 (187); Epictetus on, 131 (43); Huxley on, xxviii, 209; "infirmity of noble minds," last, iv, 74; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 202 (12), 204 (17), 209 (10), 211-2 (3), 215 (19), 218 (33, 35), 235 (16, 18), 242 (51), 244 (6), 247 (34), 261 (44); Milton on, iv, 74, 336, 384-7; Pascal on love of, xlviii, 60 (148), 61 (153, 158); Pliny on, ix, 291, 351; Pope on, xl, 436-8; results of desire for, xxxiv, 371; Seneca on, xxxix, 67; Virgil's figure of, xiii, 1589; Virgil's figure of, Burke on, xxiv, 54

FAME, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 140-2

Familiarity, Bacon on, iii, 125; breeds contempt, xvii, 25; defeats dignity, xii, 42; Emerson on, v, 208-9; i n friendship, 115; Kempis on, vii, 212; Locke on, of children, xxxvii, 80-3; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 219 (44), 243 (i\ 254 (6); Penn on, i, 334 (119); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109; wonder destroyed by, xlviii, 40 (90)

Familiars, defined, xlvii, 763

Family, Feast of, in NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 163-6; founders of a, indulgent, 20, 35; origin of the, xxxiv, 202; Taine on the, xxxix, 429-30; in Utopia, xxxvi, 183-4

Famine, Woolman on, as a judgment, i, 237

Fan Ch'ih, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 7 (5), 20 (20), 40 (21, 22), 41-2 (4), 43 (19)

Fanaticism, Burke on, xxiv, 286-7

Fancy, feeling and, xlviii, 98 (274-5); imagination and, xxxix, 301, 307-9; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 313, 350-1; Milton on, iv, 83; Pascal on, xlviii, 39 (86), 40 (87); Wordsworth on, xxxix, 301-2, 307-9 (see also Imagination)

FANCY, by Shakespeare, xl, 263

FANCY, THE REALM OF, xli, 871-3

Fannia, mother-in-law of Helvidius, ix, 338, 341

Fannia, wife of Helvidius, ix, 307-8

Fannius, contemporary of Pliny, ix, 264

Fannius, Gaius, in Cicero's essay on FRIENDSHIP, ix, 9-10

Fano, Ludovico da, xxxi, 97 note 5, 162, 166

Faraday, Michael, CHEMICAL HISTORY OF A CANDLE, xxx, 86-170; FORCES OF MATTER, 7-85; life and work of, 5-6; on regelation of ice, 233, 243, 245

FARE THEE WELL, by Byron, xli, 799-801

FAREWELL, THE, by Burns, vi, 215-6, 224

FAREWELL, LOVE'S, xl, 228

FAREWELL, REWARDS AND FAIRIES, xl, 315-16

FAREWELL THOU STREAM, vi, 508

FAREWELL TO ELIZA, vi, 218

FAREWELL TO THE WORLD, xl, 292-3

Farfarello, the demon, xx, 88, 91

Farinata degli Uberti, Dante on, xx, 41-4

FARMER, IN THE CHARACTER OF A RUINED, vi, 22-3

Farmers, in agricultural system, x, 427-8, 440-1; capital of, 216; indolence of, reason for, 14; monopoly unknown among, 342; pleasures of, ix, 63-6; studies for, xxviii, 327-8

Farming (see Agriculture)

Farnese, Alessandro, xxxi, 74 note, 75, 249 note (see also Paul III)

Farnese, Pier Luigi, xxxi, 147 note 2, 340 note 2; Cellini and, 149, 202-3, 207, 225, 245, 257 note n, 330; prevision of his murder, 251, 257 note 8; wife of, 232 note

Farrel, Capt., at Gettysburg, xliii, 370, 385

Farrer, Nicholas, xv, 410-2; George Herbert and, 388, 409, 412, 413-15; letter from Herbert to, 413

Farrington, Abraham, i, 179, 183

Fashion, Channing on, xxviii, 317-8; classes of, v, 203-6, 210-15; Emerson on, 201, 204, 211-12, 217; Goldsmith on pleasures of, xli, 515

Fastidiousness, in love, xlviii, 415-16; Penn on, i, 384 (135-46)

Fasts, Calvin on, xxxix, 38; Luther on, xxxvi, 309-10

Fatalism (see Necessity)

Fata Morgana, references to, xvii, 273; xlii, 1330

Fate, Academics, the, on, xxxix, 108; Calderon on, xxvi, 72; Chaucer on, xl, 45-6, 48; fable on, xvii, 37; Herodotus's belief in, xxxiii, 6; irremovable, by prescience, xiii, 304; lines on, v, 273; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 80; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 200 (3), 213 (6), 214 (9), 216 (26), 224 (8), 253 (75), 275 (5); Omar Khayyam on, xli, 9534; ordained of old, viii, 96; superior to gods, 45; unavoidable rather than unexpected, xii, 315 (see also Necessity)

Fates, the, iv, 43; Æschylus on the, viii, 161-2; De Quincey on the, xxvii, 320; guides of necessity, viii, 185; of Norse mythology, xlix, 272 note (see also Destinies)

Father, loss of a, Plutarch on, xii, 147

Father Abraham's Sermon, i, 3, 92

Fathers, honored in NEW ATLANTIS, iii, 165; tyrannical, Shelley on, xviii, 302 (see also Parents)

Fathers of the Church, Calvin on, xxxix, 35-38; Milton on, iv, 210

Fatimeh, in story of Ala-ed-Din, xvi, 418-20

Fattore, II, xxxi, 34 note 3, 39, 57

Faucon, Capt., xxiii, 161, 162, 185; (in 1859), 383; in Boston, 400

Faulkner, F., translator of Pasteur, xxxviii, 269

Fault-finding (see Censoriousness)

Faults, compensation for, v, 98; Confucius on, xliv, 13 (7), 53 (29); man's dislike to hear own, ii, 140-1 (67); Pascal on hiding of, xlviii, 43-4; Penn on, i, 335 (123); pointing out of, xlviii, 172 (535); Shakespeare on single, xlvi, 112; uncorrected, become habits, ii, M4 (75)

Faults, geological, xi, 323-4

Fauns, referred to, iv, 73

Faunus, Latin god, xiii, 417; father of Latinus, 241

Faust, Doctor, historical character, original of Goethe's tragedy, xix, 6

Faust, in Goethe's FAUST, at Auerbach's wine-cellar, xix, 90, 96; in witches' kitchen, 100-1; vision of Helena, 104; restored to youth, 108-9; before Margaret's door, 158-9; kills Valentine, 162; compact with Mephistopheles, 6475; curse of, 66-7; starts out, 83-4; dissatisfied, calls on spirits, 23-9; interrupted by Wagner, 29-31; first sight of Margaret, 112; demands her from Mephistopheles, 112-14; in Margaret's chamber, 115-18; his corruption undertaken by Mephistopheles, 20-2; in despair, attempts suicide, 33-6; in forest cavern, 142-5; urged by Mephistopheles to return to Margaret, 145-7; in study, Mephistopheles appears, 57-66; learns appointment with Margaret, 130-4; with Margaret in garden, 133-9; in summer-house, 141-2; learns casket given to church, 121-2; on Walpurgis'Night, 167-82; vision of Margaret, 1812; learns her imprisonment and determines to free her, 190-3; on way to prison, 192-4; in dungeon with Margaret, 193-202; with Margaret, on his religion, 149-51; on Mephistopheles, 152; plans secret meeting with Margaret, 153; with Mephistopheles, 155-6; with Wagner before the gate, 43-8; his aspirations, 49; with the dog, 51-2

FAUST, tragedy of, Goethe's, xix, 9-202; remarks on, 5-8

Faustina, wife of Marcus Aurelius, ii, 199 (17)

Faustus, in Marlowe's FAUSTUS, and the horse-courser, xix, 239-41; at court of Vanholt, 241-2; recalls spirit of Helen of Troy, 243; birth, education, and practise of magic, 205-6; dissatisfied with human learning, takes to magic, 206-7; na lf repents, 224; discusses astronomy, 225; calls on Christ, 226; with Lucifer, 226-227; w i tn Seven Sins, 227-8; promised to see Hell, 229; studies astronomy on Olympus, 229; remarks on dying utterance of, 204; remarks on speech to Helen, 204; renounces God for Belzebub, 218; compact with Mephistophilis, 219-24; travels of, 229; in Rome, at Pope's feast, 231-2; returns home, his fame, 233; at Emperor's court, 236-8; urged to repent, 244; renews compact, 245; wins Helen of Troy for paramour, 245-6; last hours, 246-7; taken by devils, 249-50; with Valdes and Cornelius, 208-9; conjures Mephistophilis, 213-15

FAUSTUS, DR., Marlowe's, xix, 205-50; remarks on, 204

Faustus, Bishop of Manichees, vii, 63; St. Augustine on, 67-9

Favonius, iv, 84; ix, 96; Caesar, opposed by, xii, 282; Pompey and, 292-3, 299

Favorinus, ii, 179 note

Favorites, Marlowe on, xlvi, 28; royal, Bacon on, iii, 66-7, 94

Favors, apt to be repeated, i, 98; Cicero on, ix, 34; claim returns, xix, 131; Emerson on receiving, v, 95-6; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 371; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 194 (8); Mohammed on, xlv, 880, 884; Socrates on, ii, 293 (25); Woolman on, i, 245

FAVOUR, ON RECEIVING A, vi, 354

FAVOURITE CAT, ON A, xl, 462-3

Fawcett, Mr., xxv, 184

Fawkener, Everard, postmaster-general, i, 145

Fawkes, Guy, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 280

Fawn, defined, xxxv, 343

Fay, Godemar du, xxxv, 21-2

Fazio, Friar, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 131

Fear, Augustine, St., on, vii, 28; Burke on, xxiv, 49-50; cause of, 105-7; critic, the most rigid, ix, 307; darkness, cause of, xxiv, 68, 114-17; David on use of, xli, 491; delight caused by, xxiv, 109; dishonorableness of, 362; Emerson on, v, 94; Epictetus on, ii, 135 (55); eyes of, to see under the ground, xiv, 154; of God, Bunyan on, xv, 152-3; of God, necessary to grace, 259; guide to duty, v, 129; Hobbes's definition of, xxxiv, 341; honoring, a way of, 364; hope and, iv, 55; ignorance, cause of, v, 17; instinctive, xi, 255; judge of souls, viii, 143; Locke on, xxxvii, 95-6, 98; loudness, cause of, xxiv, 69-70; love and, xxxvi, 54-6; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 280 (25), 283 (34); music and, xli, 476; obscurity cause of, xxiv, 50-1; Pascal on religious, xlviii, 95 (262); power, idea of, cause of, xxiv, 55-60; in privation, 60; sounds, intermitting, cause of, 70-1; suddenness, cause of, 70; vastness, in idea of, 61-2, 109-110 (see also Sublime)

Fearing, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 174, 253-9. 273

Fearlessness, Confucius on, xliv, 45 (4), 47 (21)

Fears, and desires, iii, 48; make us traitors, xlvi, 370; may be liars, xlii, 1119

Feasts, in New Atlantis, iii, 166

FEATHERS, THE THREE, xvii, 156-9

Feathers, fine, and fine birds, xvii, 20

Febo, Cavalier del, xiv, 114

Federal Government and state governments, xliii, 208-9, 210-13, 215-16, 224; Jay's argument for a, 203-7

FEDERALIST, THE (Nos. I and II), xliii, 199-207

Federigo, Cardinal, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 351-60; with the Unnamed, 361-72; visits Lucia, 396-401; visits Lucia's village, 406-9; advises Lucia, 414; reprimands Abbondio, 415-25; in Milan famine, 456-8, 465; in plague, 505, 527-8, 531, 533

Feeble-mind, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 174, 271-4, 275-6, 281-2, 284, 288, 290, 302; parts with Christiana, 312; death, 314

Feejee Islanders, cannibalism of, v, 199

Feeling, the beautiful in, xxiv, 98-9; fancy and, xlviii, 98 (274-5); Longfellow on, xlii, 1323; Mill, James, on, xxv, 71; necessary to persuasion, xix, 30; reason and, xlviii, 98 (276-8), 99 (282); reason and, Schiller on, xxxii, 243-9; reasoning and, xlviii, 10; virtue, basis of, xxxii, 352; Ruskin on, xxviii, 113-15; sense of, as source of sublime, xxiv, 73; Wordsworth on need of developing, xxxix, 273-4

Feelings, Mill on the, xxv, 36, 91-2, 254; thoughts and, xxxix, 272-3; undermined by analysis, xxv, 88

Fees, in New Atlantis, not permitted, iii, 148, 149

Feet, Locke on care of the, xxxvii, 11-12

Feigning, Lady, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102

Felice, Father (see Casati Felice), xxi

Felice, partner of Cellini, xxxi, 132, 1657, 169-70, 171-2, 176

Felician, Father, in EVANGELINE, xlii, 1303; in the church, 1312-13; on day of exile, 1316, 1317, 1318; with Evangeline in wanderings, 1320, 1323, 1326; at Basil's, 1327, 1329

Felician of Silva, books of, xiv, 18

Felicion, the shoemaker, ii, 130 (40)

Felicity, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 345; lies in progress, 370

Felix, Roman governor, xliv, with Paul, 475 (24-35) 477 (22-7)

Felix, governor of Armenia, in POLYEUCTE, tells Pauline of Severus's approach, xxvi, 84-7; his wrath at Polyeucte 1, 102-6; his dilemma, 107-8; determines not to pardon Polyeucte, 119-21; with Polyeucte, 121-3, 1255 condemns Polyeucte to death, 126-7; becomes a convert, 129-30 Felix V, Pope (see Amadeus, Cardinal) Felixmarte of Hircania, xiv, 92, 303-4 Fellowes, Sir Charles, researches of, v, 361

Fellow-feeling, Confucius on, xliv, 52 (23)

Fellowship, in pain, divides not smart, iv, 369

Felon, origin of word, xxxv, 364

Felons, children of, v, 346

Felony, crimes included under, xxxv, 364-5

Feltro, Bishop of, xx, 321 note 15

Fencing, Locke on, xxxvii, 171-2; Milton on, iii, 244

Fenelon, Hume on ethics of, xxvii, 204

Fennians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 119-20

Feoblas, balsam of (see Balsam of Fierebias)

Fer Caille, xlix, 209, 214, 232, 241

Fer Gair, xlix, 202, 210, 217, 232

Fer Le, xlix, 202, 210, 232

Fer Regain, xlix, 202, 210, 212, 215, 217-8 et seq.

Ferdinand II, in THE BETROTHED, in Mantuan contest, xxi, 78

Ferdinand IV, Dante on, xx, 368 note 9

Ferdinand V, of Spain, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 72-3; Pope Julius and, 45; Raleigh on, xxxix, 85-6

Ferdinand, son of Alva, in EGMONT, xix, 303, 304-6, 313-14; final scene with Egmont, 326-32

Ferdinand of Naples, iii, 50

Ferdinand, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, in presence chamber scene, xlvii, 758-9; hires Bosola to watch Duchess, 761-4; Antonio on, 760; at court of Malfi, 791; with Duchess, 791; with Bosola, 792-3; in Milan, his frenzy, 833, 8346, 849; death, 853; learns flight of

Duchess, 806; letter to Duchess, 809-10 ; on Malatesti, 804; parting counsel to Duchess, 764-6; learns her fault, 787-9; with Bosola after murder, 818-30; with Bosola at Malfi, 813-14; with Duchess in prison, 814-15; his purposes of vengeance, 818-19; with Duchess in chamber, 795-7; his return to Rome, 799

Ferdinand, in THE TEMPEST, in shipwreck, xlvi, 398, 406; led by Ariel's song, 412-13; meeting with Miranda and Prospero, 413; at his task, 432; with Miranda, 432-5; betrothed to Miranda, 443-9; at chess with Miranda, 458; reunion with father, 458-9 Ferguson, Sir Adam, vi, 159 and note 4; Carlyle on, xxv, 366

Ferguson, Sir Samuel, FAIR HILLS OF IRELAND, xli, 921-2

Fergusson, Robert, vi, 16; Burns on, 81, 87; INSCRIPTION FOR HEADSTONE OF, 257; INSCRIPTION UNDER PORTRAIT OF, 257; LINES ON THE POET, 431

Fermentation, Pasteur's Theory of, xxxviii, 275-363.

Fermo, Oliverotto of, xxxvi, 30-2

Fernando Noronha, Darwin on, xxix, 21

Fernando, in Cardenio's story, xiv, 203-5, 240-7

Fernando, and Dorothea, xiv, 257-79

Fernando, and Lucinda, xiv, 264-5

Fernando, Don, reunion with Dorothea, xiv, 356-65

Ferragosto, the, xxxi, 40 note 2

Ferrante, Don, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 410, 413; learning of, 444-8; in the plague, 623-5

Ferrara, Cardinal (see Este, Ippolito d')

Ferrara, Duke of, xxxvi, 8; and Cellini, xxxi, 199, 268, 271, 273; and Louis, xxxvi, 13; and Paul III, xxxi, 268

Ferrara, Marquis of, xx, 52 note 9

Ferrer, Antonio, at Milan, xxi, 197-8, 199, 214-24

FERRIER, Miss, To, vi, 275

Ferro, Drake at, xxxiii, 233

Fertility, as distinction between varieties and species, xi, 312 (see also Sterility)

Fertilization, methods of, xi, 193-4; remarks on, 103-7

Fesque, defined, xxvii, 105

Festino, Mrs., xviii, 121

Festus, Porcius, xliv, 477 (27); and Paul, 477-9 (1-27), 481 (24, 30-1)

FETE CHAMPETRE, THE, vi, 309-11

Feudal Laws, of succession, x, 506

Feure, Raoul le, xxxix, 5

Fevers, Indian treatment of, xliii, 35

Fevre, le, Dryden on, xiii, 14

"Few sometimes may know when thousands err," iv, 208

Fewster, Mr., xxxviii, 183, 194, 213

Fiad sceme, the giant, xlix, 239

Fiaschino, the chamberlain, xxxi, 270, 273

Fichte, Mazzini on, xxxii, 380; patriotism of, 386-7; on silent work, xxv, 417

Ficinus, on nature, xxxix, 109

FICKLE FORTUNE: A FRAGMENT, vi, 36

Fickleness of man, vii, 297-8 (i)

Fiddler, in FAUST, xix, 188

FIDDLER, A, IN THE NORTH, 479-80

Fiddler's Song, from JOLLY BEGGARS, vi, 127-8

FIDELE, by Collins, xli, 475

FIDELE'S DIRGE, xl, 269

Fidelity, Penn on, i, 340; of princes, xxxvi, 56-7; worth of, intrinsic, xxxii, 345

Field, Barren, in Hazlitt's discussion, xxvii, 275

Field, parable of the, xv, 205

Fielding, Henry, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 275; HUNTING SONG, xli, 501-2; his Joseph Andrews, xiv, 3; PREFACE TO JOSEPH ANDREWS, xxxix, 176-81; sketch of life and works, 176 note; religion of, xxviii, 17-8; Thackeray on, 9, 19

Fiennes, house of, motto of, v, 374

Fierabras, xiv, 489

Fierebras, Balsam of, xiv, 74-5

Fieschi, Bonifazio de', xx, 243 note 4

FIESOLE, EPITAPH AT, xli, 904

Fife, in LIFE is A DREAM, with Rosaura, arrival in Poland, xxvi, 7-13; with Segismund, 14-7; arrested, 18-9; in the tower, 56-8; found by soldiers, 59-61; with Rosaura again, 66-7; in the battle, 69-70; death, 70

Fig-tree, Indian, iv, 288; parable of, xliv, 390 (6-9); proverb of the, v, 10

Figulus, C. Marcius, mention of, ix, 83

Figures, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 207-8; Plato's definition of, v, 175-6

FILE AND SERPENT, fable of, xvii, 22

Filippo, Francesco di (see Lippi Francesco)

Final Causes (see First Cause)

Finance, Burke on science of, xxiv, 358

Finches, in Galapagos Islands, xxix, 383

Findlater, Andrew, xxv, 188

Findlay, song on, vi, 48

Fineness, defined by Burke, xxiv, 98, 125

Fines, excessive, forbidden, xliii, 195 (8); More on, xxxvi, 160, 163

Fingers, in story of DARNING-NEEDLE, xvii, 316

Finite, the, a manifestation of the infinite, xxviii, 341

Finitude, Kelvin on, xxx, 258

Finn, story of, xlix, 34 note 5, 35, 36, 37

Finnbogi, the Norseman, xliii, 17-18

Finns, sailors' notion of, xxiii, 41-2

Fiorentino, Giuliano, xxxi, 70

Fiorino of Cellino, xxxi, 6

Fiornir (see Fjolnir)

Firdousi, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130

Fire, lesson of the, xv, 235; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 267 (9); methods of producing, xxx, 59; methods of producing, by friction, xxix, 413-4

Fire-arms, and civilization, x, 450

Fire Bells, Poe on, xlii, 1234

Fire-engines, ancient, ix, 377 note

Fireflies, Darwin on, xxix, 38-9

Firenzuola, Giovanni of, xxxi, 26-7

Fireside, to make a happy, vi, 367

Firk, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, at Ralph's departure, xlvii, 473-6; at Eyre's, 480-3, 487-91, 497-8; announces Eyre's appointment, 500-1; at Old Ford, 5034; before shop, 509-10; with Ralph, 512-13; at Lord Mayor's, 516-17; at Hammon's wedding, 521-2; at Eyre's dinner, 528-9, 531, 535

Firmament, Addison on the, xl, 400; xiv, 535; Habington on the, xl, 253

Firminus, and his astrology, vii, 104-5

Firmus, Romanus, letter to, ix, 204, 259

First Cause, Hume on the, xxxvii, 309-10; ideas of different, xxxix, 101, 103; Marcus Aurelius on the, ii, 253 (75), 265 (i), 269-70 (28); Pascal on knowledge of, xlviii, 27-8, 331; Rcw~ seau on, xxxiv, 249

First Fruits (see Annates)

First Principles, Pascal on, xlviii, 99 (282)

Fish, creation of, iv, 237; electric organs of, xi, 188-9; flying, 177; flying, Pretty on, xxxiii, 203; fresh-water, distribution of, xi, 409; heart in, xxxviii, 69, 90, 131-2; Herodotus on breeding of, xxxiii, 46-7; Mohammed on eating of, xiv, 1004; price of, by what determined, x, 52, 200; price of, rent as element in, 148; respiration of, xxx, 168; teleostean, xi, 343

Fisher, Bishop of Rochester, xxxvi, 114-5

FISHER, THE, fable of, xvii, 27-8

FISHER AND LITTLE FISH, fable of, xvii, 31-2

Fisher Boy, song of, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 379-80

Fisheries, produce of, source of capital, x, 221

FISHERMAN, THE, AND His WIFE, xvii, 83-90

FISHERMAN, THE, story of, xvi, 25-54

Fishes, hearts in, xxxviii, 77, 84; Smart n, xli, 488

Fishing, Franklin's early ideas of, i, 35

Fistinghound, the, xxxv, 351

Fitch, the shop-keeper, xxiii, 390

Fitela, and Sigemund, xlix, 29

Fitness, Augustine, St., on, vii, 57; beauty and, v, 301-2; cause of beauty, xxiv, 85-7; in works of art, 87-8; Penn on, i, .338 (161)

Fitzgerald, Edward, RUBAIYAT OF OMAR KHAYYAM, xli, 943-58

Fitz-James, Lord, xxxvi, 130

Fitz Roy, Capt., Darwin on, xxix, 9

Five, Nature's love of number, xlii, 1250

FIVE CARLINS, THE, vi, 367-70

Fixed Capital, denned, x, 216; depends on circulating capital, 220; expense of maintaining, 224-6, 230; kinds of, four, 218; resemblance to money, 226, 230

Fjolnir, xlix, 289-90, 345, 409

Flaccus, Gaius Valerius, Dante on, xx, 19

Flaccus, M. Lamius, Cicero on, ix, 89

Flame, direction of, xxx, 97; Faradav on, 95; forms of, 96-7; illumination from, cause of, 106-12, 157; structure of, in candles, 101-4

Flamens, Roman, ix, 218 note i

Flamingoes, Darwin on, xxix, 73

Flamininus, Lucius, expelled from Senate, ix, 60

Flat-fish, peculiarities of, xi, 229-32

Flatterer, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 135-6

Flatterers, Epictetus on, ii, 183 (4), 184 (13); fable of, xvii, 14; in Hell, xx, 46, 76

Flatteries, the four, xii, 343 note

Flattery, Bacon on, iii, 126-7; Burke on, xxiv, 45, 148; Chaucer on, xl, 48; Cicero on, ix, 39-42; Confucius on, xliv, 5 (3), 17 (24), 59 (17); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 373; Kempis on avoiding, vii, 292 (5); love of, reason for, v, 219; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 76-7; parasite of Luxury, vi, 250; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 149; a way of honoring, xxxiv, 361, 364

Flavius, the tribune, and Caesar, xii, 3134; Cicero on, ix, 145, 149

Fleance, in MACBETH, xlvi, 338-9, 354, 356-7, 363

Fleetness, limits of, xi, 52

Fleetwood, Dr., and the Spectator, xxvii, 162

Fletcher, John, ASPATIA'S SONG, xl, 321-2; Custom of the Country, xxxix, 174; life and works, xlvii, 666; Massinger and, 858; MELANCHOLY, xl, 322 (see also Beaumont and Fletcher)

Fletcher, Master, with Drake, xxxiii, 206, 209

Flibbertigibbet, xlvi, 270

Flies, Harrison on, and spiders, xxxv, 348; Pascal on, xlviii, 122 (367)

Flipotte, in TARTUFFE, xxvi, 199, 206

FLODDEN, LAMENT FOR, xli, 483

Flodden, men of Ettrick Forest at, xli, 482 note

Flogging, Dana on, xxiii, 363-4; in England, v, 346

Florence, arms of commune of, xxxi, 13 note 3; auxiliaries employed by, xxxvi, 45; built in imitation of Rome, xxxi, 5-6; Dante on, xx, 43 note 12, 106 note, 117 note 12, 169-70, 350-7; dress in (16th century), xxxi, 29 note 2; the "Eight" of, 16 note 2; factions in, xx, 26-7, 101-2 and notes; Guelfi and Ghibellini in, 66 notes i, 2; guilds of, xxxi, 12 note 2; Macaulay on, xxvii, 372; mercenaries of, xxxvi, 42-4; name, origin of, xxxi, 5; patrons of, xx, 57 note 5; Pistoja and, xxxvi, 54-5; the plague in, xxxi, 84 note 6; policy towards Pisa and Pistoja, xxxvi, 69; republican party of, xxxi, 30 note 2, 32 note i; subjugation of, xxvii, 392, 400; wealth of (14th century), 369, 370

Florida, cession of, xliii, 268-76

Florimell, Spenser's, xxxix, 65

Florio, John, translator of Montaigne, xxxii, 3

Floripes, Princess, xiv, 489

Florismarte of Hircania, xiv, 49

Florus, and Agrippinus, ii, 119 (8)

Flower, Prof., on conformity of type, xi, 453

FLOWER IN THE CRANNIED WALL, xlii, 1005

FLOWER, THE, by Herbert, xl, 344-5

Flowers, Bacon on, iii, 112-3; beauty of, Burke on, xxiv, 77; beauty of, Darwin on, xi, 201; Columella on, xxxv, 238; correlation in, xi, 149-50; Emerson on, as gifts, v, 219, 230; insects and, relations of, xi, 99-100, 101-2; parable of the, xv, 205

FLOWERS OF THE FOREST, xli, 482

FLOWERS, LITTLE IDA'S, xvii, 334-41

FLOWERY BANKS OF CREE, vi, 483-4

Flue, Klaus von der, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 412-3, 423

Flute, Alcibiades on the, xii, 107-8; Dryden on the, xl 390

Fluxions, invented by Newton, xxxiv, 125-6

Fly, on the chariotwheel, iii, 127

FLY AND BALD MAN, fable of, xvii, 18

Flycatchers, tyrant, Darwin on, xi, 178

Flying-fish, Darwin on, xi, 177-8; Pretty on, xxxiii, 203

FLYING TRUNK, THE, xvii, 344-9

Focaccia of Cancellieri, xx, 132 note 4

Foetus, blood in the, xxxviii, 72-3; circulation in the, 92-4; Harvey on formation of the, 127; heart in the, 84, 131, 135-6; liver in the, 127

Fogliani, Giovanni, xxxvi, 30, 31

Fogo, Island of, xxxiii, 202-3

Foiano, Benedetto da, xxxi, 237 note

Foix, Diana of, Montaigne to, xxxii, 29

Foix, Gaston de, xlvii, 757

Folco, of Genoa, xx, 320 note 8, 322

Folger, Peter, i, 9

FOLK-LORE AND FABLE, Xvii

FOLLOW THY FAIR SUN, xl, 285

FOLLOWERS, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 119-20

Folly, Burns on, vi, 184; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 346 (1-3), 347 (12-15)

FOLLY, HUMAN, xl, 327

FOLLY, RAPTURES OF, vi, 460

Folques, of Marseilles (see Folco)

Fonblanque, Mill on, xxv, 59, 63, 67, 81, 109, 123

Fondness, Confucius on, xliv, 58 (8)

Fontaine, M. de, xxxviii, 50

Fontainebleau, Cellini's work on, xxxi, 294

Fontana, Domenico, xxxi, 136

Fontanes, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130

Fontenelle, M., on affectation in nature, v, 335; on Newton, xxxiv, 109, 119

Fontenelle, Miss, addresses spoken by, vi, 446-7, 477-8; EPIGRAM on, 447

Food, in ancient Egypt, xxxiii, 40, 45; animal, Darwin on, xxix, 122-3; as circulating capital, x, 219; labor in relation to, 149; Locke on, of children, xxxvii, 15-21; materials and, comparative values of, x, 178-9; Mohammed on lawful, xlv, 994-5, 1003; necessity of, iv, 191; Penn on selection of, i, 328-9 (59-62); rent of land used for, x, 149-65; of rich and poor, 167-8; variability due to excess of, xi, 23

Food-supply, industry and, x, 83-4, 84-5, 86-7; population and, 81-3, 167; wages and, 75-6, 85, 87

Fool, in KING LEAR, xlvi, 233-6, 239-41, 252-5, 264-70, 274-6; remarks on character of, 214

Fool, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 292 Fool, song of, from JOLLY BEGGARS, vi, 125

Fool-hardiness, Locke on, xxxvii, 95

Fools, disclosed by words, xvii, 30; Browne on, iii, 270 (18); Paradise of, iv, 148; Pascal on, xlviii, 35 (80); "rush in where angels fear," xxiv, 183-4; Solomon on, xxxvi, 156; test of, iii, 57; in Utopia, xxxvi, 211; wise men and, 260-1

Foot-pound, defined, xxx, 179

FOOTSTEPS OF ANGELS, xlii, 1267-9

Foppa, Ambrogio, xxxi, 48 note

FOR A' THAT, vi, 133-4

Forbearance, Brynhild on, xlix, 304; Epictetus on, ii, 179 (183); Locke on habit of, xxxvii, 19

Forbes, Edward, on Atlantic Islands, xi, 386; on distribution, 395, 399; on fossils, 326; on glaciers, xxx, 224, 228, 231; on shells, xi, 139

Force, Bacon on, iii, 96; Emerson on, v, 247; Hume on idea of, xxxvii, 336-50; Milton on, iv, 104, 445; Pascal on, xlviii, 115 (334)

Force, in PROMETHEUS BOUND, viii, 166

FORCE, CONSERVATION OF, xxx, 173-210

FORCES, CORRELATION OF, xxx, 73-85; Helmholtz on, 188, 206, 208

FORCES OF MATTER, Faraday on, xxx, 7-85

Foreign Commerce, advantages of, x, 326-7, 359-63; of agricultural states, 435-6; capital least attracted to, 308; capital used in, 295-9; disadvantages of, 306; gains in, 359-63; government interferences in, 330-88; Luther on, xxxvi, 331, 332; Mun on, x, 313; necessity of, 300-1

Foreign Competition, Emerson on, v, 286

Foreign Conquests, More on, xxxvi, 159-60

Foreign Dominions, Bacon on, iii, 76-7; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 7-12, 18-19; arms in, 68-9; factions in, 69-70

Foreign Missions, "pious editor's" view of, xlii, 1373-4

Foreign Nations, Washington on relations with, xliii, 243-8

Foreign Things, Emerson on love of, v, 79; Harrison on love of, xxxv, 236-7, 239; Holinshed on love of, 318 Foreigners, liberty of, in Massachusetts, xliii, 79

Foreknowledge, Chaucer on, xl, 45 note 146, 46 note 149; is fore-sorrow, viii, 16; Milton on, iv, 138; not necessity, xx, 358 note 7

Forel, on tides, xxx, 283

Forese, in Purgatory, xx, 239-41

Foresight, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 320, 345; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 47; may be vain, vi, 120

Foresters, Emerson on, xlii, 1254, 1255

Forests, Darwin on sublimity of, xxix, 506; Emerson on beauty of, v, 223-4; Geikie on destruction of, xxx, 350-1; growth of, checked by cattle, x, 169-70; rent of, 170; Thoreau on, xxviii, 411-12

Forgers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 120

Forgetful Green, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 243

Forgetfulness, Augustine, St., on, vii, 1723; Keats on, xli, 875; Pascal on, xlviii, 123 (372)

Forgiveness, Bacon on, iii, 15, 16, 34; Jesus on, xliv, 398 (3-4); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 194 (7); Pittacus on, 153 (96)

Forli, Countess of, xxxvi, 13, 72

FORLORN, MY LOVE, No COMFORT NEAR, vi, 535

Formal, and material, ii, 216 (21), 227 (13), 244 (10), 247 (29)

Formal Instinct, Schiller on the, xxxii, 242-8

Formalist, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 43-5.

Formality, Bacon on, iii, 125-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 92 (249-51), 93 (252); Penn on, i, 334 (119), 386; as source of power, xxxiv, 360; Swift on, xxvii, 103

Fornication, Mohammed on, xlv, 916; Mohammedan punishment of, 969 note 6, 971; Paul, St., on, 496-7, 498 (1318); punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 365-6; punishment of, in Utopia, xxxvi, 208-9; Spirit of, iii, 168

FORSAKEN GARDEN, A, xlii, 1207-9

FORSAKEN MERMAN, THE, xlii, 1123-6

Fort George, massacre of, i, 153

Fort William Henry, attack on, i, 220

Fortebraccio (see Braccio)

Fortescue, George, xxxiii, 230, 258

Fortinbras, in HAMLET, xlvi, 96, 99, 127, 174, 209-11; not in original story, 92

Fortitude, Dante's star of, xx, 146 note 5; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; Locke on, xxxvii, 96-7, 98-101; the virtue of adversity, iii, 16-17

Fortresses, Machiavelli in, xxxvi, 71

Fortunatus, xlv, 514 (17)

FORTUNE, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 99-101

Fortune, Browne on, iii, 268-70; Burns on fading, vi, 170; changes of, xxxix, 96, 98; Chaucer on, xl, 50; Cicero on, ix, 28, 103; Cockburn on, xli, 482; Dante on, xx, 30-1; Descartes on, xxxiv, 23; Emerson on, v, 83, 88; favors the brave, ix, 286; good, honorable, xxxiv, 365; inequality of, verses on, xvi, 232; injustice of, lines on, vi, 431; life entangled with, ii, 183 (i); love and, xlvi, 153-4; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 80-2; Marcus Aurelius on good, ii, 232 (36); Montaigne on changes of, xxxii, 5-6; More's lines on, xxxvi, 1245; Mortimer on, xlvi, 88; Pope on gifts of, xl, 432-7; Raleigh on, xxxix, 91-2, 96-7; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 131-2, 1389; Tennyson on, xlii, 976-7; Vespucci on, xliii, 29; virtue and, xxxi, 12

FORTUNE, FICKLE, a fragment, vi, 36

FORTUNE, RAGING, a fragment, vi, 36

FORTUNE, To, by Thomson, xl, 443

Fosco, Bernardin di, xx, 202 note 18

Fosians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 113

Fossiliferous Strata, Lyell on formation of, xxxviii, 400-3, 407-8, 411, 413-15

Fossils, Falloppio on, xxxviii, 388; old ideas of, xi, 166; xxxviii, 396 (see Palaeontological Collections) Fothergill, Dr., i, 120, 147, 159, 160

Fouche's Police, v, 450

Foulk, Samuel, i, 256, 257, 269

Foundations, Pascal on, xlviii, 114 (330)

Founders of States, Bacon on, iii, 129-30; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 19-22

FOUNTAIN, THE, xli, 602-4

Fountains, Bacon on, iii, 115-16

Fourier, Mill on, xxv, 106

Fowl, descent of, xi, 33

Fox, Bishop, and More, xxxvi, 91; quoted, xxxv, 378

Fox, Charles J., and Burke, xxiv, 5; v, 211 ; Burns on, vi, 52, 161, 338-9; the debt of honor, v, 211; Emerson on, 265; Napoleon on, 211

Fox, Dr., and John Donne, xv, 364-5

Fox, George, Emerson on, v, 141, 232-3; Penn and, xxxiv, 75; on slavery, i, 168; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 71-3 Fox AND CAT, fable of, xvii, 26

Fox AND CROW, fable of, xvii, 14

Fox AND GOAT, fable of, xvii, 44

Fox AND GRAPES, fable of, xvii, 24

Fox AND LION, fable of, xvii, 25

Fox AND MASK, fable of, xvii, 19

Fox AND MOSQUITOES, fable of, xvii, 36-7

Fox AND STORK, fable of, xvii, 19

Fox AND WOLF, Grimm's story of, xvii, 167-8

Fox, COCK, AND DOG, fable of, xvii, 34

Fox WITHOUT A TAIL, fable of, xvii, 37

Foxes, in San Pedro Island, xxix, 284

Fox-goose, the, in Egypt, xxxiii, 39

Fracastorius, on the heart, xxxviii, 75

FRAGMENT OF SONG, vi, 237, 443

Frailty, Burns on, vi, 185

Framms, of the Germans, xxxiii, 95

France, apprenticeships in, x, 124; armies of, xxxvi, 47; belles lettres in (18th century), xxxiv, 140; Burke on old regime in, xxiv, 261-6; Calvinism in, xxxix, 27-47; church property, confiscation of, in, xxiv, 241-56; clergy of, under old regime, 273-80; departments, communes, and cantons in, 305-6, 314-15; economists of, x, 443-4; England and, trade of, 367-8; England and, in war, iii, 75; Goldsmith on, xli, 526-7; interest, rates of, in, x, 92-3; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 8-9, 16-17, 61-2; More on kingdom of, 159; nobility of, under the old regime, xxiv, 269; parliaments, abolition of, 161-2; parliaments, old, of, 338; poetry, early, of, xxviii, 75-6; Raleigh on kings of, xxxix, 80-1; revenue laws of, x, 541-2; Swiss mercenaries in, xxxvi, 47; Taine on, xxxix, 430-1; taxation in (18th century), x, 545-7; theatre in (18th century), xxxiv, 154; treaty with U. S., xliii, 250-4; Voltaire on civil wars of, xxxiv, 87

France, King of, in LEAR, in love with Cordelia, xlvi, 216, 222-3; notified of Lear's misfortunes, 262-3; his invasion of England, 286-7, 2 %9

Francesca di Rimini, in Hell, xx, 23-4

Francesco, Gian (see Penni)

Franchise, qualifications for the, v, 241

Francis, Mr., Attorney-General of Pennsylvania, i, 113

Francis I, Andrea del Sarto and, xlii, 1091, 1093; Calvin to, xxxix, 27-8, 45-7; at Camp Marolle, xxxviii, 13; Charles V and, xxxi, 68 note, 321, 328 note i, 334 note i; Cellini and, 91, 196, 201-7, 212, 249, 261, 269, 274-5, 278-82, 282-6, 289-99, 291-2, 292-6, 299, 300, 301, 309-10, 312, 317, 319-22, 322-3, 324-6, 327-8, 329-35, 348, 350-2, 374; Clement and, 119; expedition against Turin, xxxviii, 9; Guido Guidi and, xxxi, 298 note i; at Landresy, xxxviii, 17; Piero Strozzi and, xxxi, 291-2; and poets, xxvii, 40; Raleigh on, xxxix, 83; in triumvirate of kings, iii, 50; war with England, xxxi, 334 and note i

Francis II, Raleigh on, xxxix, 83

Francis, St., Dante on, xx, 330-3; Luther on, xxxvi, 300; in Paradise, xx, 420; quoted, vii, 320

Francis, St., Xavier, hymn attributed So, xlv, 556

Franciscans, Dante on the, xx, 337 note 28; in Limbo, iv, 147

Francisco, in HAMLET, xlvi, 93-4

Francisco, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 420, 441

Franco of Bologi-a, xx, 189 note 3

Franklin, Chaucer's, xl, 20-1

Franklin, Abiah, mother of Benjamin, i, 9, 12-13

Franklin, Benjamin, ability to write, advantages gained by, i, 60, 63; aids his workmen to start in business, 93, 104; ancestry and family of, 6-10; anecdote of fish, 35; anecdote of wharf, n; Art of Virtue, 86-7; as Assembly's commissioner to England, 150-62, 164; assists Braddock, 128-34, 136-7; AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF, 5-162; becomes printer, 14; becomes vegetarian, 17; birth of, 3, 9, 163; Bond, the Doctors, and, 137-8; Boston, departure from, 22; Boston, first return to, 29-30; Bradford, work for, 22, 27; in business with Meredith, 53-4, 56, 59, 60-2; in business for self, 62-4; in charge of frontier defences, 139-43; city-watch, suggests reform of, 98-9; clerk of Assembly, 97, 107, 115; colonel of militia, 144-6; commissioner to the Indians, 115-16; daily program of, 83; death of, 165; degrees conferred on, 123, 164; Dialogue advocating a militia, 138-9, 144; disputatious turn of, 15; Dissertation on Liberty and Necessity, 42, 55; domestic life of, 66, 76; Denham, Mr., work for, 48-50; early occupations of, 3, 10-11, 13-14; education of, 3, 10, 12, 17-8; felicity of his life, 5, 85; "fire" engine, no; five kings and, 76; food, indifference to, 12; Hemphill and, 94; hospital, 116-18; industry of, 46, 49, 59, 64, 75; influence of, 116-17; influence of Abel James on, 68; intrigues of, 66; Journal of, 49 note; journalist, 92-3; Junto formed by, 57-8; at Keimer's, 26-8, 35-6, 50-4, 56; Keimer's new religion and, 35-6; Keith, Sir William, relations with, 28-31, 34-5, 39-41, 49-50; languages studied by, 95; letters of, as Busy Body, 60; library, founds first public, 66-7, 74-5; life of, 3-4; life of, chief events in, 163-5; i n London, 409; on London streets, 120-2; marriage of, 66; match for, projected by Mrs. Godfrey, 65-6; member Royal Society, 148-9; moderation of, 87, 18; moral living, plan of, 78-86; New England Courant, connection of, with, 3, 19-21; open stove invented by, 111-2; organizes fire company, 99-100; organizes militia, 105-7; paper money discussion, 62-3; parents of, 11-13; Party for Virtue projected by, 89-91; Pennsylvania Gazette established by, 59-60, 104; Philadelphia, arrival at, 25-6; Philadelphia, second trip to, 31-3; Philosophical Society founded by, 105; Plain Truth, 105; Plan of Union, 124-6; poetry of, juvenile, 14-15; Poor Richard's Almanac, 91-2; postmaster, 98; postmaster-general, 123, 145, 165; prayers used by, 78, 82-3; Presbyterian Church and, 76-8; proprietary quarrels, 126-8, 144-6, 149-51; prose writing, practise in, 15-17; public offices, 3-4, 114-15; public printer, 60, 63, 97-8; Read, Miss, and, 25, 28, 36, 39, 42, 50, 66; reading, love of, 13-18, 42 '3755 James, relations with brother, 3, 14, 17, 19-22, 30, 96; religious belief of, 6, 18, 42, 55-6, 76-7, 82-3, 90; Revolution, share in, 4, 165; scientist, 3, 114, 146-9; settlement of claims, 155; son, death of, 96; street-lamps improved by, 120; streets, moves improvement of, 119-23; Socratic method adopted by, 17-18, 35-6; success, reason of, 87-8; surname, origin of, 6; swimming abilities of, 47-8, 49; temperance of, 44; tyranny, hatred of, 20; University of Pennsylvania founded by, 105, 112-14; Vaughan on character and influence of, 69-73; Way to Wealth, 164; Whitefield and, 101-4; Woolman's book on slavery published by, 189 note

Franklin, Benjamin, uncle of the preceding, i, 7, 8, 10

Franklin, Benjamin, Mrs. (see Read, Miss)

Franklin, James, establishes New England Courant, i, 19-21; relations of, with Benjamin, 3, 14, 17, 19-22, 30, 96

Franklin, John, brother of Benjamin, i, 13, 31

Franklin, John, uncle of Benjamin, i, 7

Franklin, Josiah, brother of Benjamin, i, 13

Franklin, Josiah, father of Benjamin, i, 3, 9, 10-13

Franklin, Matthew, i, 194

Franklin, Samuel, i, 7, 13

Franklin, Sir John, equipment of, v, 81; Parry on, 349; search for, 361

Franklin, Thomas, grandfather of Benjamin, i, 7

Franklin, Thomas, uncle of Benjamin, i, 7

Franklin, William, son of Benjamin, i, 115, 129, 131, 133, 139, 158

Frankness, Bacon on, iii, 8, 17; Cicero on, ix, 39-41; Confucius on, xliv, 35 (20); Emerson on, v, 62

Franzesi, Matio, xxxi, 165

Franziska, in MINNA VON BARNHELM, with Minna, xxvi, 313-15; with landlord, 315-19; with Minna on finding Tellheim's ring, 319-21; with Just, 321-3; prepares Minna to receive Tellheim, 323; drags off landlord, 324; with Just, agrees to meet Tellheim, 327-30; with the landlord, 330-2; warned to beware of the landlord, 332; with Werner, talk of Tellheim, 333-4; with

Tellheim, 340-2; with Werner again, 342-3; with Minna, the plot to win Tellheim, 343-4; in scene with Riccaut, 344-5, 347, 348-9; growing interest in Werner, 350-1; tells her mistress's misfortunes, 358-9; with Tellheim, in the plot, 360-2; at interview of Minna and Tellheim, 363, 365, 370, 372-3; tries to explain to Werner, 371; reconciliation with Werner, 374-5

Fraser, on Berkeley's DIALOGUES, xxxvii, 186

Fraser, General, reference to, vi, 51

Fraser's Magazine, Carlyle on, v, 321

Fraternities, ancient, ix, 404 note 2

Fraud, Dante on, xx, 69 note; punishment of, in Hell, 46, 73-144

Freawaru, xlix, 60 and note, 61 note

Frederick I, Luther on, xxxvi, 263; and Milan, xx, 219-20 note 8

Frederick II, birth of, xx, 296 note 7; in Hell, 44 note 14; Luther on, xxxvi, 263; Parma, defeat at, xx, 211 note 6; Pierro delle Vigne and, 54 note 2, 55; treason punished by, 95 note 3

Frederick of Sicily, Dante on, xx, 368 note 12

Frederick the Great, Mill's interest in, xxv, n; and Voltaire, xxxiv, 64

Freedom, Æschylus on uncontrolled, viii, 143; from care, Cicero on, ix, 26; definition of perfect, v, 17; Emerson on, xiii, 1262; Epictetus on, ii, 148 (83), 166 (136), 168 (141), 169 (142), 184 (10, 15); fable on, xvii, 22-3; Goethe on, xix, 378; insolence and, vi, 261; inward slaves, impossible to, iv, 398; of labor, Smith on, x, 124-5; law of nature, xxvi, 14; necessary to true allegiance, iv, 138; Penn on use of, i, 393 (253); from worldly things, vii, 290

FREEDOM AND LOVE, xli, 782

Freeman, Edward A., life and works, xxviii, 226; RACE AND LANGUAGE, 225-73; 1, 22

Freeport, Sir Andrew, xxvii, 85; Johnson on, 165

Freethinkers, Burke on, xxiv, 225; Carlyle on, xxv, 354

Free Trade, Bacon on, Hi, 86-7; Emerson on, v, 255; Mill on, xxv, 65, 291-2; Smith on, x, 4, 332-52, 368-9, 433-4

Free-Will, Adam's, iv, 186; beauty and, xxxii, 266-7; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 258; cause of evil, vii, 101; Channing on, xxviii, 332; Confucius on, xliv, 29 (25); Dante on, xx, 210, 218, 302 and note 2; distinguishes man from beasts, xxxiv, 175-6; Epictetus on, ii, 124 (20, 22), 127 (29), 148 (83); given to man, iv, 138-9; human, 291-2; Hume on, xxxvii, 351-2, 363-4, 366, 369-74; Kant on, xxxii, 356-68; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 80, 84; Mill on doctrine of, xxv, 107; Raphael on, iv, 194-5; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 259-60; Schiller on, xxxii, 262-3 (see also Autonomy of the Will)

Freezing-point, of water, xxx, 231-2

Freke, Dr., on origin of species, xi, 15

Fremont, John C., Dana on, xxiii, 391

Fremy, M., xxxviii, 307-9, 352-3

French, Colonel, i, 29, 40

French, in American Revolution, i, 136; Burke on the, xxiv, 224-5; descent from Hector, claimed for, xiii, 19; Dryden on the, 23; Goldsmith on the, xli, 526-7; influence of the, v, 378; military abilities of the, xxv, 309; polite rather than true, v, 375; sentiments of the, xxv, 41; sociability of the, 42; Taine on the, xxxix, 416, 425, 430; wiser than they seem, iii, 64

French Academy, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 1549

French Civil War, Burke on the, xxiv, 186-7

French Classical Drama, Pellisson on, xxviii, 68

French Classics, xxxii, 122-3, 124-6, 129-30

FRENCH DRAMAS, xxvi, 75-296; Dryden on, xviii, 14-15

FRENCH ESSAYS, xxxii, 3-182

French Language, Burke on the, xxiv, 140; Dryden on, xiii, 54; Hugo on changes in, xxxix, 374-5; Huxley on study of, xxviii, 220; Johnson on changes in, xxxix, 204; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 136, 153-4; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 119; Sidney on, xxvii, 50
French Literature, Hugo on, xxxix, 384;

Taine on, 427-8 French and Indian War, in America, i, 127-43; Woolman on, 220-2, 232, 2623. 264

French Money, Smith on, x, 31-2

French Nation, Freeman on the, xxviii, 255, 257-8

FRENCH PHILOSOPHERS, xxxiv, 3-305

French Revolution, aristocrats in, xxiv, 410-11; army under, 341-53; assignats of, 256-8, 322-7, 364-71; church-lands sale, 257-8, 323-4; church property confiscated in, 240-56, 281-95; clergy in, 273-4; clergy, civil constitution of the, 281-2; completeness of, 382; population and wealth, decline of, under, 266-8; executive power, constitution of, 330-7; fanaticism and proselytism of, 247, 286-7; finances of, 357-78; Goethe on, xix, 336, 376-9; good of the, xxiv, 376; gunpowder, making of, in, 414 note; inconsistencies of, 353-6; invasion of Holland, 419-20; judicial power, constitution of, 337-41; leaders of, 299-300; letters, men of, in, 246-8, 411-12; Lowell on, xxviii, 435; Mill on, xxv, 43, 84, 197; mistakes of, xxiv, 174-9; monied interest in, 244-5; municipal guards, 356-7; Napoleon on, xxviii, 468; National Assembly in, xxiv, 178-88, 205-8, 296-9, 329-30, 353-6; nobility in, 268-73, 418-19; October sixth and, 208-17; paper currency of, 3227, 364-71; Paris, preeminence of, in, 328-9; parliaments abolished by, 257; public debts, care of, 242-50; representation under, 305-22; revenue system of, 357-74; Sheridan on, xviii, 108; spread of principles of, xxiv, 390-2; sympathy of English clubs with, 144-50; Washington's policy toward, xliii, 247-8

FRENCH REVOLUTION, REFLECTIONS ON THE, Burke's, xxiv, 141-378

Freneda, counselor of Philip II, xix, 290

Frenzy, first of ills, viii, 15

Fresh-water Productions, Darwin on, xi, 111-12; distribution of, 409-13

Frestron, the enchanter, xiv, 57, 61

Fretting, uselessness of, David on, xliv, 186 (7, 8)

Freydis, daughter of Eric the Red, xliii, 6; in Vinland, 17-19

Freyia, the goddess, xlix, 259

Freyr, Germanic god, xlix, 13 note 2

Friar, Chaucer's, xl, 16-18; Dryden on Chaucer's, xxxix, 164

Friars, in Milton's Limbo, iv, 148; More on, xxxvi, 155-6

FRIARS' CARSE HERMITAGE, INSCRIPTION AT, vi, 514

FRIARS' CARSE HERMITAGE, LINES WRITTEN IN, vi, 307-8

FRIARS' CARSE HERMITAGE, WRITTEN IN, vi, 319-20

Friction, chemical effects of, xxx, 197; heat generated by, 59, 196-7

FRIEND, To A DISTANT, xli, 674

Friends, Confucius on, xliv, 55 (4); Confucius on choice of, 5-6; Emerson on love of, v, 152; faithful, rare, vii, 309 (2); falling out of faithful, xl, 201-2; forgiveness of, iii, 15; little, may prove great, xvii, 16; many, equal to none, 39; no whit worse than brothers, xxii, 114: Pascal on advantage of, xlviii, 61 (155); Ruskin on impossibility of choosing, xxviii, 96-7; Samson on, iv, 419; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109-10; Shelley on false, xviii, 302-3; single men best, iii, 21

Friends, Society of (see Quakers)

FRIENDS, FOLLOWERS AND, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 119-20

FRIENDS AND LAND I LOVE, FRÆ THE, vi, 419-20

Friendship, Augustine, St., on false and true, vii, 52; Blair on, vi, 167; Browne on, iii, 318-9; Burns on, vi, 181; Coleridge on, xli, 703-4; Confucius on, xliv, 41 (23); Confucius on false, 17 (24); Emerson on, v, 195; Epictetus on true, ii, 148 (82); excess in, ix, 314 and note; Goethe on, xxxix, 252-3; xix, 381; Hume on, xxxvii, 399; immortality of, i, 383 (127-31), 384 (1324); Kempis on true, vii, 306; Locke on, xxxvii, 6-7; Lothario on, xiv, 312; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 55; Manzoni on, xxi, 186; Marcus Aurelius on false, ii, 289 (15); of parents and children, xxxvii, 81-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 44-5, 45 (101); Penn on, i, 334 (111-17); pity and, xxxiv, 189; seldom between equals, iii, 120; Shakespeare on, xivi, 109; Swift on, xxvii, 91; toast to, xli, 582; Tzu-chang on, xliv, 63 (3)

FRIENDSHIP, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 65-71

FRIENDSHIP, ESSAY ON, Emerson's, v, 105-19

FRIENDSHIP, ESSAY ON, Montaigne's, xxxn, 72-86; remarks on, 3

FRIENDSHIP, SONNET ON, xiv, 238

FRIENDSHIP, TREATISE ON, Cicero's, ix, 9-44

Friesshardt, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 436-41, 468-9

Frigate-bird, Darwin on the, xi, 180, 181

Frights, Locke on, xxxvii, 97-9, 116-18

Fringing-reefs, Darwin on, xxix, 475-81

Frisians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 111-12

Frivolousness, Confucius on, xliv, 5 (8)

Frobisher, John, Harrison on, xxxv, 321

Frobisher, Martin, death of, xxxiii, 227; with Drake, 226, 229, 239-40, 245, 255; northwest passage and, 262

Froda, xlix, 60 note, 61 note

Frog, story of, who became a god, xlv, 706-7

Frog and Mouse, fable of, xx, 93 note

FROG AND Ox, fable of, xvii, 20

FROG-KING, tale of the, xvii, 47-50

Frogs, in Brazil, xxix, 38; hearts in, xxxviii, 83; in oceanic islands, xi, 417; snakes and, xxxv, 345; on volcanic islands, xxix, 386

FROGS, THE, of Aristophanes, viii, 439-87; remarks on, 438

FROGS AND HARES, fable of, xvii, 17-18

FROGS DESIRING A KING, fable of, xvii, 16-17

Froissart, Jean, BATTLE OF OTTERBURN, xxxv, 81-101 ; BATTLE OF POITIERS, 3459; CAMPAIGN OF CRECY, 7-33; CHRONICLES of, remarks on, 1, 22; on the English, v, 379; life and works, xxxv, 5-6; Montaigne on, xxxii, 98; in Scotland, xxxv, 86-7; WAT

TYLER'S REBELLION, 60-80

Fronde, Pascal on the, xlviii, 306 (878)

Frondeurs, the, xxxiv, 87 note

Frontinus, Roman lawyer, ix, 261

Fronto, teacher of Marcus Aurelius, ii, 192, 195 (n)

Frosch, in FAUST, xix, 84-99

Froth, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 859-63, 919-22

Frothingham, Ellen, translator of Goethe, xix, 335

Frugal, Master, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 877-8

Frugality, Bacon on, iii, 72; economically considered, x, 265; Franklin on, i, 85, 91; Franklin's rule of, 79, 80; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 373; motives of, x, 269, 270; Penn on, i, 327-8

Fruits, beauty of, reason for, xi, 201-2; cultivation of, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 241-2; fermentation of, xxxviii, 275, 310; fermentation of, in carbonic acid gas, 302-12; as gifts, v, 219; importance of down and color of, xi, 92; Locke on eating of, xxxvii, 20-1; ripening of, xxxviii, 306

FRUITS OF SOLITUDE, Penn's, i, 317-97

Fucci, Vanni, in Hell, xx, 101-2

Fuegians, Darwin on the, xi, 47; xxix, 209-14, 217-21, 223-8, 230-5, 238-9

Fuentes, Darwin on, xxix, 13-14

Fugger, commercial house of, xxxvi, 286 note 15, 332

FUGITIVE SLAVE ACT, xliii, 306-12

Fugitive Slaves, constitutional provision for, xliii, 191; Lincoln on, 314-15, 319; Whittier on, xlii, 1345-7

Fugitives, usually single men, iii, 21

Fulgentio, and Dr. Donne, xv, 357

Fullarton, Col., vi, 176 note, 177, 182

Fuller's Teazel, xi, 42

Fulvia, wife of Antony, xviii, 48; xii, 329; Cicero and, 230; death of, 3445; Octavius and, 341, 344; son of, 388

Fulvius, and Ennius, xxvii, 36-7

Functions, conversion of, xi, 185-7

FUNDAMENTAL ORDERS OF CONNECTICUT, xliii, 60-5

Fundanus, daughter of, ix, 273-4

FUNDEVOGEL, story of, xvii, 140-2

Funding, system of, x, 555, 558-9 (see National Debt)

FUNERAL, THE, xl, 303

Funerals, in ancient Egypt, xxxiii, 42-4; German, 107; Indian, xliii, 34-5; in Utopia, xxxvi, 228

Fungi, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 296, 298 and note

Fungus, edible, in Tierra del Fuego, xxix, 240-1

Fur, thickness of, to what due, xi, 139

Furies, Dante on the, xx, 37; De Quincey on the, xxvii, 320; Emerson on, v, 92; Virgil on the, xiii, 419-20

FURIES, THE, of Æschylus, viii, 122-65; Voltaire on, xxxix, 364

Furnace, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 866-8, 871-2, 873, 875, 876, 8812, 883-4, 885-8, 923, 941

Furnius, and Antony, xii, 367

Furnivall, Dr., xxxv, 216

Furst, Walter, in WILLIAM TELL, friend of StaufTacher, xxvi, 391; Melchthal and, 395-6, 400-1; with Stauffacher, 397-9; begins revolt, 401-5; at the rendezvous, 417-27; with Tell at Altdorf, 440-9; at death of Attinghausen, 456-61; with Rudenz, 462-4; at destruction of Keep, 474-7; hears death of Emperor, 478-81; in final scene, 488-9

Furuncles, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 371-4

Fusconi, Francesco, xxxi, 164 note, 166-7, 170

Fuscus, letters to, ix, 353, 355

Fusella, Ambrogio, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 236, 246-7

Future, Confucius on knowledge of the, xliv, 9 (23); Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 320-1; Kempis on care of the, vii, 294 (2, 3); Milton on foreknowledge of the. iv, 338; Pascal on the, xlviii, 356; Pascal on our care for, 64 (172); past to, reasonings from, xxxvii, 316-17; Pope on blindness to, xl, 409; uncertainty of the, xxxix, 96-7; veil of the, v, 142; worry over the, ii, 123 (19), 244 (8)

Future Life (see Immortality, Hereafter)

FUTURE PEACE AND GLORY OF THE CHURCH, xlv, 563

FYERS, FALL OF, LINES ON THE, vi, 281

G

Gabinia, Lex, Cicero on, ix, 24

Gabinius, Aulus, campaigns of, xii, 3234; Cicero and, 244; in Civil War, 327; Crassus and, ix, 128; return to Rome, 118; suit against, 115; Syria given to, xii, 242

Gabriel, Archangel, song of, in FAUST, xix, 18; in Luke's gospel, xliv, 354 (19, 26-30), 355 (31-8); Mohammed and, xlv, 897 note i; Gabriel in PARADISE LOST, iv, 169, 174, 176-80, 205, 213, 291; in PARADISE REGAINED, iv, 362

Gabriel, in EVANGELINE (see Lajeunesse)

Gadarenes, xliv, 375 note 5

Gaddi, Agnolino, xxxi, 128-30

Gaddi, Cardinal de', xxxi, 73, 201-2

Gaddi, Giovanni, xxxi, 97-8 note 4, in, 133-4, 160, 164, 167

Gaddi, Niccolo, xxxi, 73 note

Gaia, daughter of Gherardo, xx, 212 note 10

Gain, Confucius on pursuit of, xliv, 12, 56 (10); Penn on thirst for, i, 335 (127), 344 (252); Smith on hope of, x, 109-10; Tennyson on lust of, xlii, 1016

Gaius, friend of Paul, xliv, 466 (29), 467 (4); baptism of, xlv, 491 (14)

Gaius, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 263-75

Galahad, Sir, in HOLY GRAIL, at Abblasoure, xxxv, 124-5; Arthur and, no, 115, 210; bed of, 186-7; birth of, 109-10, 112, 115, 152; Bors and, 206; buried at Sarras, 196; adventure of burning tomb, 205-6; at castle of Carbonek, 206-7; at castle of Carteloise, 190-2; at court, 108-9; death, 211-12; Gawaine and, 156-7, 179-80; at abbey of Gore, 205-6; Guenever and, 114-15; sees hart and four lions, 192-3; Holy Grail and, 104, 207-8; made king, 211-12; knighting of, 105-6; Launcelot and, 128-9, 198-9; at castle of Maidens, 124-5, 128; Sir Melias and, 120-1, 1223; Mordrains and, 205-6; at Mortaise, 144; at parting of the roads, 122; Percival and, 128, 138, 197-8; prayer for death, 209-10; thrown into prison, 211 ; at Sarras, 210-11; shield of, 117-19; led to ship of Faith, 181-2; Siege Perilous and, 109-10; at castle of strange custom, 193-7; sword of, 1826, 189-90; adventure of the tomb, 119-20; at tourney, 112-13; at hermitage of Ulfin, 180; virginity of, 160, 205; and queen of Waste Lands, 135; at the well, 205; at the White Abbey, 116

GALAHAD, SIR, by Tennyson, xlii, 1002-4

Galaor, Don, mistress of, xiv, 95-6

Galapagos Archipelago, Darwin on, xxix, 376-405; health conditions in, 369; species of, xi, 414, 421-5

Galatea, in PHILASTER, xlvii, 668-9; Arethusa and, 690-1; at the hunt, 714-21; Pharamond and, 686-8, 689, 690, 6923; on Philaster, 674, 675

Galaxy, Milton on, iv, 241 (see also Milky Way)

Galba, Emperor, death of, iii, 10; empire foretold to, 91; speech of, 41; Tacitus on, 30

Galdino, Father, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, xxi, 48-51, 297-9

Galeazzo de' Visconti, xx, 177 notes 5 and 7

Gale-Jones, Mill and, xxv, 80

Galen, on the arteries, xxxviii, 65, 66, 68, 81, 94-5; on the blood, 88-9; Browne on, iii, 265 (14); on the circulation, xxxviii, 97-100; on the heart, 82, 136; Huxley on, xxviii, 219; immortality doubted by, iii, 273; ostentation of, 128; on the pulse, xxxviii, 65, 69

Galesus, in YNEID, xiii, 257-8

Galfridus, on Arthur, xxxix, 21

Galileo, Emerson on, v, 66, 81; heliocentric theory and, xxxix, 52 note; the Inquisition and, xxxiv, in; Milton on, iii, 215; on tides, xxx, 280; "Tuscan artist," iv, 95

Galitta, case of, ix, 294

GALLA WATER, BRAW LADS o', vi, 452

Galland, Antoine, translator of ARABIAN NIGHTS, xvi, 3

GALLANT WEAVER, THE, vi, 412

Gallatin, Albert, in Treaty of 1814, xliii, 255, 264

Galleotti, Pietro Pagolo, xxxi, 157, 158 note 7, 160, 174, 262, 266, 267, 277, 279. 304, 335, 348, 351

Galleys, of the Germans, xxxiii, 117

Gallinazo, Darwin on the, xxix, 66

Gallio, proconsul of Achaia, xliv, 463 (12-17)

Gallipoli, description of, xxviii, 55

GALLOWAY, EARL OF, EPIGRAMS ON, vi, 466

Gallura, Nino di, in Purgatory, xx, 176 and note 2; Ugolino and, 135-6 note

Gallus, Cornelius, Cicero on, ix, 62-3; death of, xxxii, 13-14; Ladius on, ix, 12

Gallus, Flavius, xii, 354-5

Gallus, M. Fadius, letter to, ix, 105

Gallus, friend of Pliny, letters to, ix, 221, 329

Galluzzi, Bernardo, xxxi, 250

GALLUPI'S, A TOCCATA OF, xlii, 1080-1

Galvanic Batteries, xxx, 203-4

Gama, Vasco de, x, 398

Gamaliel, xliv, 433 (34), 434 (35-9); Paul and, 472 (3)

Gambier, James, Lord, xliii, 255, 264

Gambling, Blake on, xli, 589; Locke on, xxxvii, 176; Pascal on pleasure of, xlviii, 55-6

Gambling Laws, Mill on, xxv, 296-7

Games, five, of skill, xii, 73 note; in Utopia, xxxvi, 180

Gandaline, squire of Amadis, xiv, 163; sonnet to Sancho Panza, 13

Ganelon, in Charlemagne's Council, xlix r 100, 101-2; sent to King Marsil, 103-6; death of, 194; Count Walter on, 139; embassy and crime, 106-18, 121, 122; in Hell, xx, 134 note 13; Marsil and, xlix, 103-6; Roland and, 127, 131, 142, 154; trial of, 186, 187-90

Ganges, Harrison on, xxxv, 233-4

Ganymede, and Jove, xiii, 186; xx, 179

Garba, Pedro, xiv, 490

Garcia, Diego, xiv, 302-3

GARDEN, A, by Marvell, xl, 370-1

Garden of Delight, Harun Er-Rashid's, Xvi, 21O-12

GARDEN, THE DYING MAN IN His, xli, 481

GARDEN, A FORSAKEN, xlii, 1207-9

GARDEN, MY, by Brown, xlii, 1148

Garden, parable of the, xv, 205-6

GARDEN OF PARADISE, THE, xvii, 280-93

GARDEN OF PROSERPINE, xlii, 1203-5

GARDEN, THOUGHTS IN A, xl, 377-9

Gardening, Locke on, xxxvii, 174-5

GARDENS, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 4, 112-17

Gardens, kitchen, Smith on, x, 156-7; proportion in, xxiv, 82-3; in Utopia, xxxvi, 176

GARD'NER Wi' His PAIDLE, vi, 340-1

Gareth, Sir, xxxv, 126, 127; xxxix, 23

Garget, superstition of the, xxxv, 311

Garland, Hugo on, xxxix, 380

Garnett, on THE PRINCE, xxxvi, 3-4

Garret, John, and Drake, xxxiii, 132

Garrick, David, epitaph on, xxvii, 299;

Goldsmith on, xli, 505, 507-8; as Hamlet, xxvii, 303-4; Hazlitt on, 275-6; Lamb on, 308-9; PROLOGUES by, xviii, 113-14, 203-4

Garrison, William Lloyd, Mill on, xxv, 165

Garter, Order of the, xxxv, 221-2

Gartner, Joseph, on sterility of hybrids, xi, 287-8; on mongrels and hybrids, 313-14; on prepotency, 104; on reciprocal crosses, 294, 295; on sterility of species, 285-6, 300-1, 309; on varieties, 311-12

Gas, cause of brightness of illuminating, XXX, IIO-II

Gasabel, squire of Don Galaor, xiv, 163

Gascoigne, George, LOVER'S LULLABY, xl, 195-6

Gascony, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 9

Gases, expansion of, Joule on, xxx, 198; expansion of, measurement of, 189; transparency of, 44-5; vapors and, difference of, 102-3; volume of, 43; weighing, method of, 144-6

GATHERING SONG OF DONALD THE BLACK, xli, 745-6

Gatta, II, Cellini on, xxxi, 304

Gattinara, Giovanni Bartolommeo di, xxxi, 206 and note 2

Gauchos, character of, xxix, 161-2; compared with Guasos, 263; riding skill of, 157-8

Gaudry, M., on fossils, xi, 362

Gaufred, and Richard, xl, 48

Gaul, Caesar's campaigns in, xii, 279-88

Gauls, risings of, repeated, xxxvi, 17; in Rome, xiii, 290; Tacitus on, xxxiii, 108

Gautama, Siddhartha, xlv, 574

Gaveston, in EDWARD THE SECOND, banishment, xlvi, 16-21; conspiracies against, 13-16, 34; Coventry and, 1213; Edward and, 11-13, 16-17, 18, 1921, 33, 38-9, 40; flight and capture, 42-6; historically, 5; preparations for marriage, 39; Mortimer and, 28, 38-9; nobles and, 9-11, 16; return, 33-4; Spencer and, 29; in Tynemouth, 40; Warwick and, 46-7

Gawaine, Sir, in HOLY GRAIL, meets Aglovale, xxxv, 128; nephew of Arthur, no; Bagdemagus and, 204; dream of, 156-7, 159-60; Galahad and, 126, 179-80; Guenevere and, xlii, 1184, 1185, 1188-9, 1192; at hermitage, xxxv, 127-8; Holy Grail and, 113, 115, 156, 158; mother of, xlii, 1188-9; at Nacien, xxxv, 159-62; return home, 204; meets Seven Knights, 127; skull of, xxxix, 21 ; and the sword, xxxv, 108; Uwaine and, 158-9

Gay, John, Addison and, xxvii, 175-6; Eclogues of, xxxix, 322; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; POEMS by, xl, 402-3; Swift and, xxviii, 17

GAY GOSS-HAWK, THE, xl, 69-73 Gay-Lussac, on fermentation, xxxviii, 299 Gazehounds, Harrison, xxxv, 350

GAZELLE, THE SHEYKH AND THE, xvi, 1718

Geary, General, at Gettysburg, xliii, 362

Geese, of Falkland Islands, xxix, 204-5; Harrison on, xxxv, 336

Gehenna, Hinnom called, iv, 98

Geikie, Sir Archibald, GEOGRAPHICAL EVOLUTION, xxx, 325-51; life and works, 324

Gellius, Aulus, on classics, xxxii, 121

Gellius, Lucius, xii, 239

Gellius, Marcus, Cicero on, xii, 240

Gelon, gift of, xii, 160; Macaulay on, xxvii, 399

Gemellinus, Virdius, ix, 374

Gemini, sign of, Dante on, xx, 381 note 8

Geminius, and Antony, xii, 367-8

Geminius, friend of Pliny, ix, 309, 337, 367

Genera, formation of, illustrated, xi, 119-22, 127; in geological record, 340-4, 352-3; large, vary most, 66-8; species in, resemble each other, 68-9

General Principles, Hume on, xxxvii, 297

Generalization, Bacon on, xxxix, 134; Bentham on, xxvii, 245; Emerson on, v, 151-3; Hume on, xxxvii, 373 (6), 414 note

Generation, alternate, xi, 458; artificial, in New Atlantis, iii, 175; death and, xxxviii, 84; economic aspect of, x, 80; Heraclitus on, ii, 220 (46); Marcus Aurelius on, 213 (4, 5), 227 (13); passions of, xxiv, 36-8; Socrates on, ii, 59-61; spontaneous, Harrison on, xxxv, 346

Genesis, Bagehot on, xxviii, 204; Browne on, iii, 286; Hugo on, xxxix, 340; Milton on events of, iv, 329 et seq.; selection, principle of, in, xi, 45

Geneva, Lake, sedimentary deposits in, xxxviii, 401

Genii, ancient belief in, v, 300; species of different, xvi, 9 note

Genitor, Julius, letters to, ix, 239, 343

Genius, Carlyle on, xxv, 322-3; colleges and, v, 422; Emerson on, 10, 59, 135, 143-6, 171-2, 263, 281-2; excesses and, 174-5; freedom requisite to, xxv, 260; Hugo on, xxxix, 365, 369, 385-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 274-5 (793); penalty of, v, 87-8; Poe on, xxviii, 373; recognition of, v, 197; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 125; Schiller on, 237; talent and, v, 165; Thoreau on, xxviii, 413; trade and, v, 45, 185; tragedy of, 51; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 333

GENIUS IN BEAUTY, xlii, 1179

Gens, nature of the, xxviii, 246

Gentilesse, Chaucer on, v, 176; Emerson on word, 201

Gentility, Emerson on word, v, 201; in English drama, 121

Gentillis, Albericus, at Oxford, v, 416

GENTLEMAN, LINES TO A, vi, 375-6

Gentlemen, Chi Tzu-ch'eng on, xliv, 38 (8); Confucius on, 5 (1), 8 (12, 13, 14), 10 (7), 13 (5, 10, 11), 14 (16, 24), 16 (15), 18 (3), 20 (16, 24), 23 (25), 24 (36), 27 (6), 28 (13), 37 (4), 38 (58), 45 (7), 48 (24, 29), 50 (45, i), 52 (17-22), 53 (31, 33, 36), 56 (7, 8, 10), 60 (23, 24), 67 (2, 3); Emerson on, v, 200-3, 210-13; Locke on making of, xxxvii, 72, 77; Newman on education of, xxviii, 34; Pascal on, xlviii, 19 (35), 26 (68); Ruskin on production of, xxviii, 1334; Tseng-tzu on, xliv, 25 (4, 6), 41 (24), 48 (28); Tzu-hsia on, 64 (9, 10, 12); Yu-tzu on, 5 (2)

Gentleness, ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 347 (4); manliness of, ii, 291

Gentry, Burns on the, vi, 152-6, 235; Confucius on example of, xliv, 25 (2); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 368

Gentucca, Dante on, xx, 243, 272 note 3

Genus (see Genera)

Geoffrey of Anjou, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 98, 180, 182

Geoffrey of Monmouth, on Arthur, xxxii, 155; chronicle of, 161; legend of Lear in, xlvi, 214

Geographical Changes, Darwin on, xi, 387

Geographical Distribution, xi, 378-430; in classification, 437-8

GEOGRAPHICAL EVOLUTION, by Geikie, xxx, 323-51

Geography, Geikie on study of, xxx, 3256; geology, relations to, 326-7; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; Hume on, xxxvii, 419-20; Locke on study of, 138, 147, 1534, 155-6; Milton on study of, iii, 241

Geological Evolution, Geikie on, xxx, 324, 328-51

Geological Formations, age of, xxx, 3356; Darwin on, xi, 332-5; Lyell on, xxxviii, 398-415

Geological Record, Darwin on the, xi, 319-77; Lyell on imperfections in, xxxviii, 399-415 Geology, Emerson on, v, 228-9, 297;

Geikie on importance of, xxx, 327-8; Lyell on, xi, 102; xxxviii, 384, 418; papers on, 383-418; species, theory of, in relation to, xi, 504-5

GEOLOGY, PROGRESS OF, Lyell's, xxxviii, 385-97

Geometrical Spirit, Pascal on the, xlviii, 421-37

Geometry, beginning of, xxxiii, 53; Descartes on, xxxiv, 16, 17, 18, 31; Descartes's work on, 3, 112, 125; Hobbes on, 326, 363; Hume on, xxxvii, 306, 311, 413-14 note; Locke on study of, 138, 153, 155; Newton on, xxxix, 1501; Pascal on, xlviii, 28, 409-10, 421-3 note, 424, 428

George, St., Carlyle on, xxv, 421; Emerson on, v, 392

George II, and Pitt, xxiv, 332

George III, and American Colonies, xliii, 151-3, 174; Burns to, vi, 207-11

George IV, debauchery of, v, 412; picture ships of, 302

George, Henry, Lowell on, xxviii, 469

GEORGE CAMPBELL, BONNIE, xl, 114

Georgia, island of, vegetation in, xxix, 253

Georgia, State of, settlement of, i, 101

Geraint, saint of Brittany, xxxii, 161

Geraldine, in CHRISTABEL, xli, 712-27

Gerard, in A BLOT IN THE 'SCUTCHEON, xviii, 359-61, 362, 377-80

Gerard of Roussillon, xlix, 120, 158, 167

Gerard, Balthazar, murderer of William of Orange, iii, 98

Gereia, in ROLAND, xlix, 98, 100, 120, 134, 138, 146, 167

Gergonne, M., Mill on, xxv, 40

Geri of Bello, in Hell, xx, 119 and note

Gerier, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 98, 100, 120, 134, 138, 146, 167

GERM THEORY, Pasteur's, xxxviii, 364-82

German Empire, Freeman on the, xxviii, 259-60; language as factor in forming of, 256

GERMAN ESSAYS, xxxii, 185-373

GERMAN NOBILITY, ADDRESS TO, Luther's, xxxvi, 260-335; remarks on, 246

German Language, Huxley on study of, xxviii, 220

German Literature, established by Luther, xxxvi, 246; in igth century, xxxix, 4278; Taine on, two centuries of blankness in, 436

German Philosophy, Carlyle on, xxv, 353-4

Germanic Peoples, works dealing with early, 1, 21, 24-5

Germanic Races, Taine on, xxxix, 420, 424, 430

Germanicus, Ca:sar, hatred of cocks, xxxii, 57; descent and children of, xii, 388-9; in Germany, xxxiii, 114

Germanicus, Caius (see Caligula)

Germans, agriculture of, xxxiii, 101, 107, 118-19, 120; arms and practices of war, 96, 97, 98, 100-1, 109-10, 114, 117, 118; assemblies of, 99; bathing of ancient, cold, xxxvii, 13; boats of, xxxiii, 117; Caesar's campaign against the, xii, 279-80, 283-4; chastity of, xxxiii, 1034; children of, 104; coats of arms among, xxxiv, 368; crimes, penalties of, xxxiii, 99, 105; dances and games, 106; divination among, 97-8; dress of, 102, 114; Emerson on, v, 338, 342, 373; family ties and hospitality, xxxiii, 104-5; feasts, broils, and reconciliations, 105; food and drink, 106; funerals among, 107; gifts, their delight in, 101, 105; habitations of, 102; heroes and battle-songs, 94; inheritance, laws of, 104; kings and generals, 96, 117-18; lands, herds, and use of metals, 95-6, 107, 118; life, daily, 105-6; marriage among, 103-4; origin of, 93; physical character of, 94-5; priesthood, power of, among, 96-7; princes among the, 99-102; purity of race, 94-5; queen among, only, 119; religion of the, 978, 114-5, JI 7' IJ 8; Romans and, 1134; seasons of, 107; slavery among, 1067; slavery among, Harrison on, xxxv, 226-7; Taine on, xxxix, 416, 420, 424; time, reckoning of, xxxiii, 99; tribes and name of, 93-4, 108-20; usury unknown to, 107; village chiefs, 99-100; women, 97, 102

Germany, classes in, v, 365; Emerson on science of, 438, 443; geography of, xxxiii, 93, 95; Luther on temporal state of, xxxvi, 331-4; Machiavelli on cities of, 36-7; monasteries in, 315; papal power in, 276-81, 288-9, 293*6, 306-7, 327-30; pilgrimages in, 310; Romans in, xxxiii, 113-14 GERMANY, by Tacitus, xxxiii, 93-120; remarks on, 92

Germs, defined by Pasteur, xxxviii, 343 Gerson, Jean de, as author of IMITATION OF CHRIST, vii, 200

Gertrude, the Signora, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 139-75, 295-6, 323-5, 622-3

Gertrude, Queen, in HAMLET, Claudius and, xlvi, 99, 102-3; death, 208; Hamlet and, 101, 102, 162-9; Laertes and, 180; Ophelia and, 143, 176-8; at Ophelia's funeral, 196, 197, 198; at the play, 150, 154, 155; with Polonius, 127-30

Gertrude, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 387-91

Gertrude of Wyoming, Mill on, xxv, 16

Gervase, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 94-5, 109-12, 114, 117-18, 119, 125, 183

Gervais of Tilbury, xxxii, 153 note 8

Gervasius, the martyr, vii, 147

Geryon, monster, Dante on, xx, 69-70, 73; Virgil on, xiii, 217, 262

Gessler, in WILLIAM TELL, Armgart and, xxvi, 469-72; cap of, 393, 476; death of, 472-3; Rudenz and, 445-6; Stauffacher and, 388-9, 426; Tell and, 4301, 441-9, 452, 453-4, 464-7471-2; tyranny of, 389

GET UP AND BAR THE DOOR, a ballad, xl, 87-8

GETTYSBURG, BATTLE OF, xliii, 326-414

GETTYSBURG ADDRESS, Lincoln's, xliii, 415

GHENT, TREATY OF, xliii, 255-64

Gherardeschi, Ugolino de', xx, 135-38

Ghibellines, Dante on, xx, 308 note 23; in Florence, 66 note i; friends of Papacy, 306 note 7; Guelfs and (see numerous notes to DIVINE COMEDY)

Ghirlandajo, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279, 281

Ghosts, Browne on, iii, 289-90; Burke on fear of, xxiv, 50; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 316-17, 377; Locke on, xxxvii, 117-18, 163-4; Milton on, iv, 56; Pliny on, ix, 311-14; Socrates on, ii, 73-4

GHULEH, THE PRINCE AND THE, xvi, 35-6

Gianciotto, Lord of Rimini, xx, 24 note 3

Giangiacomo of Cesena, xxxi, 40-1

Giannotti, Giannotto, xxxi, 26

Giants, Burke on, xxiv, 126; in Dante's HELL, xx, 128-31; in Milton's Limbo, iv, 147

Gibbon, Edward, Carlyle on, v, 322; on changes in human affairs, xxxviii, 3923; style of, v, 21 ; on Tacitus, xxxiii, 92; Wordsworth on, v, 464

Gibbon, General John, at Gettysburg, xliii, 326 note, 331, 332, 335, 336, 345. 348, 350, 352, 358, 359, 360, 361, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 376, 377, 379, 380, 381, 391, 402, 403, 406, 407

Gibeah, the Levite woman in, iv, 100

Giberti, Gianmatteo, xxxi, 98 note

Giddiness, defined, xxxiv, 352-3

Gideon, Locke on, xxxvii, 175; Milton on, iv, 382, 421; Pascal on, xlviii, 284 (822), 298

Giese, Tidemann, xxxix, 53

Gifford, George, with Raleigh, xxxiii, 315, 336, 337, 342, 343, 345, 351, 357, 369, 372

Gifts, Burns on, vi, 191; among the Germans, xxxiii, 105; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 364, 395, 396; Kempis on, vii, 265 (4); Krishna on, xlv, 865; in law, xxxiv, 395-6; Penn on, i, 323-4 (20); Plutarch on accepting, xii, 78; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 145; Stella's definition of, xxvii, 127-8; Woolman on, i, 201; worth of, lies in giver, xlv, 807

GIFTS, by Thomson, xlii, 1149

GIFTS, EMERSON'S ESSAY ON, v, 219-22

GIFTS, HER, by Rossetti, xlii, 1181

Gila River, navigation of, xliii, 294-5

Gilbert, Sir Humphrey, life of, xxxiii, 262; Spaniards, expeditions against, 300; VOYAGE TO NEWFOUNDLAND, 263-98; remarks on voyage of, 226

Gilbert, Sir John, xxxiii, 297, 337, 351, 356

Gildas, and the bards, xxxii, 168

Giles, St., on Archbishop Turpin, xlix, 165-6

Giles, Peter, on More's UTOPIA, xxxvi, 136, 241-3

Giliolo, Girolamo, xxxi, 268, 270

Gill, Mr., on changes of drainage, xxix, 362-3

GILPIN, JOHN, DIVERTING HISTORY OF, xli, 546-54

Gines, of Passamonte, xiv, 181-2, 184-5, 188-9, 287

Ginn, Mohammed on the, xlv, 900

Ginori, Federigo, xxxi, 85-6, 91

Giotto, Dante on, xx, 189 note 4; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279, 281

Giovanna, Queen of Naples, xxxvi, 42

Giovanni, Pier, xxxi, 121

Gipsies, Browne on, iii, 313

Giraffe, development of, xi, 219-22; tail of, 196

Giraldus Cambrensis, narratives of, xxxii, 177

GIRDLE, ON A, xl, 357

GIRL WITHOUT HANDS, THE, xvii, 116-21

Girls, Confucius on, xliv, 61 (25); Locke on training of, xxxvii, n, 14, 51; Ruskin on education of, xxviii, 146-56

Giuki, King, xlix, 309, 313-14; daughter of, 297, 309

Giukings (see Niblungs)

Giulio, value of the, xxxi, 156 note 3

GIVE ALL TO LOVE, xlii, 1244-5

GIVE ME MORE LOVE, xl, 352-3

GIVE ME THE SPLENDID SILENT SUN, xlii, 1410-12

Giver, "God loveth a cheerful," xlv, 526 (7)

Glacial Period, Darwin on, xi, 399-401; distribution of life, effect of, on, 3949, 404-8; in Europe, xxx, 349; species, effect of, on, xxxviii, 409

Glaciers, of the Alps, xxx, 214; appearance of, 215-23; bending and bursting of, explained, 231-9; boulders, distribution of, by, 227-8, 229-30; cause of, 214-15; crevasses in (see Crevasses); Darwin on, xxix, 250-3; dirt-bands of, xxx, 228-9; extent of former, 229-30; longitudinal rifts explained, 238; movement of, 224-6; origin of name, 215; purity of waters from, 241; effect of, on rocks, 229-30; structure of ice of, 239-40; temperature of, 232; utility of, 241-2

Gladstone, and free trade, xxv, 65; on King of Naples, v, 278

Glass, discovery of, xxxv, 295-6

Glaucus, Dante on, xx, 287; death of, xiii, 402; in Hades, 223

Glaumvor, wife of Gunnar, xlix, 343, 344, 345

Gleichen, Baron de, xxv, 224 note 4

GLENCAIRN, EARL OF, LAMENT FOR, vi, 400-2

Glendowyn, Simon, at Otterburn, xxxv, 92, 99

GLENGARIFF, by De Vere, xli, 911-12

GLENRIDDELL'S Fox, ON, vi, 407-9

Glibness, Confucius on, xliv, 15 (4), 35 (24), 49 (34), 51 (10), 55 (4)

GLOOMY WINTER'S Now AWA', xli, 594

GLORIA IN EXCELSIS, xlv, 541

GLORIES OF OUR BLOOD AND STATE, xl, 349-50

Glory, Byron on, xli, 789-90; Hobbes on desire for, xxxiv, 389; Kempis on, vii, 244 (2), 305 (5); Milton on, iv, 377, 385-8; Pascal on love of, xlviii, 60 (150-1), 112 (324), 131 (404); "paths of," xl, 444; Pliny on, ix, 194; Plutarch on desire of, xii, 245; Tennyson on, xlii, 1005; Walton on, xv, 364; Webster on, xlvii, 823

Glosses, Luther on, xxxvi, 284

Gloucester, Earl of, in KING LEAR, blinded, xlvi, 279; Cornwall and, 277-80; Edgar and, 216, 272, 281-3, 2913, 297-300, 306, 313; Edmund and, 216, 225-8, 243-6, 267, 273; Kent and, 247, 248, 250; Lear and, 254-5, 261, 267, 271-2, 276, 294-6; Oswald and, 298

Glub, Charles, xxxiii, 163

Gluttony, Dante's punishment of, xx, 256, 238-40; examples of, 245; Kempis on punishment of, vii, 233 (3); sin of, in FAUSTUS, xix, Glycerin, production of, xxx, 88

GLYNN, THE MARSHES OF, xlii, 1390-3

Gmelin, on independent creations, xi, 394

Gnadenhut, Franklin fortifies, i, 140-2; massacre at, 139

Gnatho, Sidney on, xxvii, 17, 27

Gnomon, learned from Babylon, xxxiii, 53

Go, LOVELY ROSE, xl, 357-8

Go ON, SWEET BIRD, AND SOOTH MY CARE, vi, 295

GOAT AND Fox, fable of, xvii, 44

Goatherd, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 499-504

Goats, sacred to Mendesians, xxxiii, 28-9

GOBLET, INSCRIPTION ON A, vi, 513

Goblins, Burke on fear of, xxiv, 50; Locke on, xxxvii, 117-18, 164

God, Aristotle on, xxxix, 104; Augustine, St., on, vii, 5-10, 38, 59-60, 74-5, 98-103, 115-16, 164-5, 174-8i; v, 149; Bacon on unworthy ideas of, iii, 43, 45; Berkeley on existence and nature of, xxxvii, 232-5, 252-4, 257-8, 260-2, 265, 275-6, 279; Browne on, iii, 262, 263, 265-6, 281; Burke on, xxiv, 39, 57-60; Calvin on knowledge of, xxxix, 47-8; Channing on study of, xxviii, 329, 331; Cowper on ways of, xlv, 562; Dante on, xx, 298, 390; Descartes on existence and nature of, xxxiv, 29-33; "dice of, always loaded," v, 90; Emerson on, 146-7; Emerson on ideas of, 275; Emerson on knowledge of, 70-1; Epictetus on, ii, 137 (59-61), 141 (68); "helps those who help themselves," xvii, 35; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 375; Hume on, xxxvii, 301, 343-5, 367-70, 396-404; Locke on, 116, 118; Marcus Aurelius on existence of, ii, 300 (28); Mill on common notions of, xxv, 30-1; Mill on worship of, 170; Milton on, iv, 145, 231, 253-4, 4225 Montaigne on existence of, xlviii, 3912; morality and idea of, xxxii, 353; Pascal on existence and nature of, xlviii, 82, 84-6, 90-1, 159-61, 190 (580); Pascal on misery of man without, 24, 67, 128 (389); Penn on low ideas of, i, 387; Pope on knowledge of, xl, 408; Raleigh on, xxxix, 109-11;

Raleigh on, as the Creator, 101-2, 1034, 105-6, 107-8; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 249, 251-5, 266-8, 289, 377 (see also Providence, Sacred Books)

God, in FAUST, xix, 19-22

God, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 137-41, 1424, 195-6, 199, 221-2, 231, 306-7, 321-2; Bagehot on Milton's, xxviii, 200

GOD, A MIGHTY FORTRESS IS OUR, xlv, 557-8

GOD, Now THANK WE ALL OUR, xlv, 558

GOD THE FATHER, HYMN TO, xl, 304

Godfrey de Bouillon, in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 362 note 5; "one of nine worthies," xxxix, 21

Godfrey, Thomas, i, 56, 58, 65

Godlyman, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 291

Godolphin, Lord, and Addison, xxvii, 159-60

Gods, date of, on earth, xxxiii, 71-2, 73; first named in Egypt, 9, 26-7, 30-2; Herodotus on the, 8-9; Plutarch on, xii, 76; Roman and Greek, Dryden on, xiii, 46, 47

Godwin, Mary, second wife of Shelley, xviii, 272

Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von, Arnold on, xlii, 1135, 1136, 1137; on the beautiful, v, 301; Byron compared with, xxxii, 388-92; Carlyle and, xxv, 315-16; Carlyle on, v, 454; xxv, 324, 387, 424, 444; characteristics of, xxxii, 380, 385-9; charities of, v, 191; on classics, xxxii, 127; on compensation of growth, xi, 150; as a critic, xxxii, 124; device of, xxv, 103; EGMONT, xix, 253-334; Emerson on, v, 21; on evolution, xi, 6, 10 note; FAUST, xix, 9202; HERMANN AND DOROTHEA, 335-410; on himself, xxv, 408; honor due to, xxxii, 393; the Iphigenia of, xxxix, 415; life and works, xix, 5-8; loneliness of, xxviii, 19; MAHOMET'S SONG, xxx, 241-2; on Manzoni's drama, xxi, 3; Mazzini on, xxxii, 377-8; PROPYLÆN, INTRODUCTION TO, xxxix, 251-66; remarks on PROPYLÆN, 1, 47-8; reaction against, xxxii, 378; Schiller and, xxvi, 378; on self-development, xxv, 158; Taine on, xxxix, 428; Wilhdm Meister, xxv, 380-2; on the will, v, 290

GOETHE AND BYRON, ESSAY ON, Mazzini's, xxxii, 377-96 Goeze, J. M., and Lessing, xxxii, 184

Goguier, M. de, and Pare", xxxviii, 23, 43

Gold, "all not, that glitters," xviii, 203; all doth lure, xix, 120; found generally virgin, x, 175; good to buy gold, v, 239; Harrison on, xxxv, 321; man's god, i, 331 (87); More on, xxxvi, 1912, 193-4; not "all tnat glisters," xl, 463; "sacred hunger of pernicious," xiii, 130; type of wisdom, xxviii, 101-2 (see also Precious Metals)

GOLD, FOR LACK OF, xli, 532-3

Gold-mining, in Chili, xxix, 270-1

Golden Age, Don Quixote on the, xiv, 79; Hume on, xxxvii, 398; Milton on, iv, ii

Golden Calf, xliv, 278 (19), 437 (41); Milton on, iv, 100

Golden Fleece, Stukeley on, v, 457-8

GOLDEN GOOSE, story of the, xvii, 159-62

Golden Hind, Drake's ship, xxxiii, 206 note 5; in Gilbert's voyage 262, 274, 296

Golden Legend, iii, 42 note; PROLOGUE TO, xxxix, 13-14

Golden Rule, of Confucius, xliv, 37 (2), 52 (23); of Jesus, 369 (31); Kant on the, xxxii, 340 note; of Tzu-kung, xliv, 16 (11)

GOLDEN SAYINGS OF EPICTETUS, ii, 117-87

Golden Years, Luther on, xxxvi, 298-9 and note

GOLDIE, JOHN, EPISTLE TO, vi, 94-5

GOLDIE'S BRAINS, ON COMMISSARY, vi, 459

Goldsmith, Oliver, DESERTED VILLAGE, xli, 509-19; Emerson on, v, 21; to Johnson, xviii, 201; life and works, 200; RETALIATION, xli, 505-9; SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 128; SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 199-269; Thackeray on, xxviii, 9, ii, 19; THE TRAVELLER, xli, 520-31; WHEN LOVELY WOMAN, 505

Goleta, loss of, xiv, 387-8; sonnet on, 391

Goliath, Cervantes on, xiv, 8; Mohammed on, xiv, 914 note

Gomez, in EGMONT, xix, 301-3

Gomita, the friar, in Hell, xx, 91 and note 4

Gomorrah, Browne on, iii, 272

Goneril, in KING LEAR, Albany and, xlvi, 284-5, 309, 311-12; before battle, 304; Cordelia and, 223-4; death of, 314; Edmund and, 283-4, 289-90, 299, 305, 311; Lear and, 217, 224, 229-30, 235-40, 256-7; Regan and, 240, 253, 258-61, 286, 308-9; Ruskin on, xxviii, 139

Gonzaga, Carlo, xxi, 434

Gonzaga, Ercole, xxxi, 83 note 3

Gonzaga, Ippolito, xxxi, 335, 339

Gonzaga, Ludovic, death of, xxxii, 14

Gonzaga, Vincenzo, xxi, 434

Gonzago, Federigo, xxxi, 82 note 2

Gonzales, Mariano, companion of Darwin, xxix, 318, 365

Gonzalo, in THE TEMPEST, Ariel and, xlvi, 426-7; at banquet, 440-1, 443; in island after wreck, 417-22, 439-40; Prospero and, 405, 454-6, 459; in shipwreck, 398, 399

Gonzalo, Don, xxi, 434-7, 466-8

Gooch, Dr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 229

Good, Arabian verse on sowing, xvi, 24; Browning on, xlii, 1102; Confucius on, xliv, 14 (25), 52 (12), 56 (n); for evil, ii, 153 (96); xliv, 49 (36), 369 (27-35); f r good's sake, ii, 163 (126); i, 358 (441); nature of, ii, 137 (59, 60); Pascal on search for, xlviii, 136-7, 154 (462); unlimited, xx, 205-6

Good and evil, Augustine, St., on, vii, 58; Emerson on, v, 218; Euripides on, viii, 352; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 388-9, 412; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 219 (39), 239-40 (41), 253-4 (1) 280 (20), 289 (16); Milton on, iii, 201-2; Pope on, xl, 409-15; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 132

Good Breeding, Locke on, xxxvii, 72-3, 77, 78, 79-80, 121, 122, 123; Swift on, xxvii, 99-103 (see also Manners)

GOOD-BYE, by Emerson, xlii, 1241-2

Good-conscience, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 315

Good Friday, Walton on, xv, 403

Good Hope, Cape of, xxxiii, 224

GOOD MANNERS AND GOOD BREEDING, ESSAY ON, xxvii, 99-103

GOOD MORROW, THE, xl, 312-13

Good Nature, Emerson on, v, 210; Hobbes's definition of, xxxiv, 340; Locke on, xxxvii, 72, 118

Goodness, Cicero on, ix, 15, 16; Emerson on, v, 62; Pliny on, ix, 263; sensuous and ascetic, xxviii, 169-72; "thinks no ill," iv, 153; Tzu-chang on, xliv, 63 (2)

GOODNESS AND GOODNESS OF NATURE, iii, 32-4

Good Sense, Descartes on, xxxiv, 5

Good-Will, Buddha on, xlv, 598; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340; Kant on, xxxii, 305-6, 325, 347-8, 350

Good-Will in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 29, 31

Goody, Blake, tale of, xxxix, 268

Gookins, Capt., xliii, 143, 145

GOOSE WITH GOLDEN EGGS, fable of, xvii, 33

GOOSE-GIRL, THE, xvii, 173-8

Gorboduc, Sidney on, xxvii, 43

GORDON CASTLE, vi, 282-3

Gordon, Dr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 227-8

Gordon, Lord George, in Newgate, xxiv, 220

Gordon, Thomas, translator of Tacitus, xxxiii, 91

Gorges, Butshead, xxxiii, 337, 351, 357

Gorgias, Cicero on, xii, 237-8; native of Sicily, xxviii, 58; old age of, ix, 50; Plato on, ii, 7; riches of, x, 137

Gorgons, Æschylus on the, viii, 195

Goring, John, xxxiii, 229, 236, 237, 247, 250

Gorini, Lattanzio, xxxi, 345-6, 364, 393

Gorner Glacier, xxx, 219, 226

Gosan, fertility of, xxxv, 312

Gospel, Bunyan's parable of the, xv, 33-4; Calvin on the, xxxix, 49; Jesus on the, xliv. 397 (16); Luther on the, xxxvi, 255, 256, 325-7, 346-7; Mohammed on the, xlv, 999; Pascal on the, xlviii, 186 (568), 218 (658), 262 (742), 277 (798-800), 397, 398; Paul, St., on the, xxxix, 45

GOSPEL ACCORDING TO LUKE, xliv, 353, 419

GOSS-HAWK, THE GAY, xl, 69-73

Gosson, Stephen, and Sidney, xxvii, 4

Gothel, Dame, the enchantress, xvii, 68-9

Gothinians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 116

Gothones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 117

Goths, learning despised by, xxxv, 383; on poetry, xxvii, 36

Gouast, Capt., xxxviii, 45-6

Goulburn, Henry, xliii, 255, 264

Goujon, Jean, Hugo on, xxxix, 349

Gould, John, on cuckoos, xi, 261; on colour of birds, 139

Gournay, Mile, de, xlviii, 25 note; Montaigne and, xxxii, 105

Gournou, husbandry of, v, 199

Goveanus, Andreas, xxxii, 70

Government, Bacon on, iii, 14, 37-8; Bentham on criticism of, xxvii, 239-1, 244-5; better no, than cruel, xvii, 17; Burke on, xxiv, 197-8, 199, 393; Calvin on civil, xxxix, 50; checks to evil, v, 88-9; Confucius on, xliv, 7 (i), 8 (19), 42 (n), 67 (2); dangers of money-power in, xxv, 108; by discussion, xxviii, 464; duties of, x, 445-6; Emerson on, v, 240-4, 246-8, 249-50, 255; expenses of, x, 447-67; expenses of, unproductive, 270-1; Goldsmith on, and human happiness, xli, 529; Hamilton on efficiency of, xliii, 201-2; importance of, overrated, xxviii, 320; Jay on necessity of, xliii, 203; Jefferson on, 150; Lincoln on perpetuity of, 315; Lowell on forms of, xxviii, 464; Machiavelli on kinds of, xxxvi, 7; Marshall on powers of, xliii, 213, 214, 215, 216; Mill on form of, xxv, 107-8; Mill on science of, 100-2; Milton's plan of, xxviii, 189; not an end, i, 348 (311); "of, by, for the people," xliii, 415; Pascal on foundations of, xlviii, 107 (304), 109 (311); Penn on, i, 350-53; Pope on, xl, 429, 430; revenue of, x, 468-564; Rousseau on origin and forms of, xxxiv, 214-22; Ruskin on visible, xxviii, 128; self-defence first duty of, 434; superstition and, iii, 45; Swift on perfect form of, xxvii, 91; Vane on, xliii, 121 ; Washington on duty to, 239; Washington on, and liberty, 240

GOVERNMENT, ARBITRARY, by Winthrop, xliii, 85-105

Government Intervention, with capital, x, 335-6; with education, xxv, 302-5; with equality of employments, x, 121-46; with foreign commerce, 330-94; with freedom of contract, xxv, 299-301; with individual liberty, 202-9, 270-289; with industry, x, 445-6; with marriage, xxv, 305; with movements of precious metals, x, 313-19, 380-3; objections to, xxv, 306-12; with rates of interest, x, 97-8, 284-6; De Tocqueville on, xxv, 120; with trade, 290-9; with wages, x, 79-80, 144

Government Ownership, Mill on, xxv, 307-10; Smith on, x, 468-76

GOWDEN LOCKS OF ANNA, vi, 377

Gower, John, Dryden on, xxxix, 163; Johnson on, xxviii, 77; Sidney on, xxvii, 6

Gracchi, conciseness of the, ix, 205; Emerson on the, v, 183; Machiavelli on the, xxxvi, 35

Gracchus, Caius, with Tiberius, ix, 23; his tribuneship, 24

Gracchus, Tiberius, Blosius and, xxxii, 79; friends of, ix, 22-3; revolution of, 24

Grace, Bunyan on, xv, 36, 84-7, 216; Dante on reception of, xx, 408; Kempis on, vii, 250, 323-27, 264-5; Milton on, iv, 139-40, 141; misinterpretations of doctrine of, xxxix, 45; Pascal on, xlviii, 140, 146, 165 (508), 168 (517), 169 (520-2), 214-15 (643), 328, 367-8; Penn on, i, 365 (528)

GRACE, A CHILD'S, xl, 334

GRACE AFTER DINNER, vi, 428

GRACE AFTER MEAT, vi, 460

GRACE BEFORE AND AFTER MEAT, vi, 461

GRACE BEFORE DINNER, vi, 427

Grace, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 279, 283

GRACE, JAMES, EPIGRAM ON, vi, 513

Grace, Robert, i, 58, 61, 62, in Gracefulness, beauty without, v, 306; Burke on, xxiv, 98

Graceless, Christian first named, xv, 50

Graces, De Quincey on the, xxvii, 320

Gradation, necessity of, in change, v, 303

Graeme, Sir John, and Barbara Allan, xl, 68-9

Graeme, Sir Robert, xlii, 1156-7, 1168-9, 1173, H74-5, H77

Graffiacane, the demon, xx, 88, 90

Grafting, xi, 297; Cicero on, ix, 65; in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 242; Webster on, xlvii, 776

Graham, George, xxv, 54, 63, 78

Graham, Marquis of, Burns on, vi, 159

GRAHAM, Miss, INSCRIPTION TO, vi, 494

Graham, James, MY DEAR AND ONLY LOVE, xl, 358-9

Graham, Robert, of Gartmore, IF DOUGHTY DEEDS, xli, 531-2

GRAHAM, ROBERT, of Fintry, EPISTLE TO, vi, 311-13

GRAHAM, ROBERT, SECOND EPISTLE TO, vi, 423

GRAHAM, ROBERT, BURNS TO, vi, 354

GRAHAM, WILLIAM, LINES ON, vi, 487

GRAHAME, BEWICK AND, a ballad, xl, 121-8

Gram, the sword, xlix, 280, 287-8, 291, 306, 316-17, 327-8

Gramimond, horse of Valdabrun, xlix, 145

Grammar, Augustine, St., on rules of, vii, 20; of foreign languages, xxxvii, 137, 140, 143-6; Locke on study of, 143-6; Montaigne on study of, xxxii, 60-1; Penn on teaching, i, 322 (6, 8)

GRAMMARIAN'S FUNERAL, A, xlii, 1083-7

Granacci, Elisabetta, mother of Cellini, xxxi, 8-9

Granacci, Stefano, xxxi, 8

Grand, M. le, xxxviii, 12

Grand-Pre", village of, xlii, 1300, 1300-1; burning of, 1317, 1318

Grand Jury, in U. S., xliii, 194 (5)

Grandeur (see Sublime)

Grandgent, Prof., on Dante, xx, 4

Grandison, Sir Charles, xxvii, 275

Grandonie, xlix, 143, 146-7

Grani, Sigurd's horse, xlix, 284, 299, 315-16, 338, 397

Granite, Darwin on, xxix, 287-8

Granmar, King, xlix, 273

GRANT, DAVID, LINES ON, vi, 352-3

Grant, Prof., on origin of species, xi, n12

Grant, Sir Robert, Hymn by, xlv, 540

Grant, U. S., terms of surrender at Appomattox, xliii, 421-2

Granulations, Lister on, xxxviii, 260-1

Granville, Lord, Burns on, vi, 52; on America, i, 159-60

Granville, Cardinal, xxxix, 87

Grape, Cicero on the, ix, 64

Grapes, Locke on, xxxvii, 20

GRAPES, SOUR, fable of, xvii, 24

Grasse, Count de, xliii, 169, 173

GRASSHOPPER AND ANT, fable of, xvii, 25

GRASSHOPPER AND CRICKET, by Keats, xli, 895

Grasshoppers, Harrison on, xxxv, 349

Grassuccio, II, xxxi, 33

Gratian, the monk, xx, 327 note 17

Gratilla, wife of Rusticus, ix, 262 note

Gratitude, Burns on emotions of, vi, 285 note; benefits, for small, iii, 34; to God, Kempis on, vii, 250; greed, go not together, and, xvii, 13; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 371, 406-7; Milton on, iv, 156; no, in the wicked, xvii, 18; rich, the tribute of, vi, 494; sign of noble souls, xvii, 21 ; Wordsworth on, xli, 649

Grave, Bryant's choice of a, xlii, 1219-20

Grave-digger, riddle of the, xlvi, 191-2

Gravelines, battle of, xix, 255-6

Gravitation, Bacon on, xxxiv, 101; Cartesian idea of, 114; Faraday on, xxx, 11-24; Helmholtz on law of, 174; illustrations of, ii, 12-13; universality of, 14-16, 19-21; illustration of laws of, 22-4; Kelvin on, 281-2, 301-3; Leibnitz on theory of, xi, 498; Locke on, xxxvii, 164-5; Newton's discovery of universal, xxxiv, 115-21; Newton on, xxxvii, 345 note; Newton's Prindpia, expounded in, xxxix, 150 note (see also Gravity)

Gravity, centre of, xxx, 16-20; moving force, 178-81, 188; old view of, xxxiv, 313

Gravity, the quality, Cicero on, in age, ix, 69; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 366; Penn on, i, 334 (119)

Gray, Asa, on holly, xi, 101; Manual of Flora, 118; on plants of New and Old Worlds, 398-9; on sexes in trees, 106; on spores, 501

Gray, Farquhar, vi, 182 note 9

Gray, Thomas, Arnold on, xxviii, 83-4; Bagehot on, 192-3; THE BARD of, James Mill on, xxv, 16; Burns on, vi, 178; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; poems by, xxxix, 275; poems by, xl, 443-63; quoted, vi, 134; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 275, 294

Grease, and cow-pox, xxxviii, 145-7 an d note, 181-3; disease of horses, 145, 147 note 3; and smallpox, 153-5, 183, 197-8

Great Acts require great means, iv, 382

Great Britain, Burke on crown of, xxiv, 154-73; Freeman on, xxviii, 257-8; naval forces on Great Lakes, xliii, 2657; realm of, iv, 45; Treaty of 1783 with, xliii, 174-9; Treaty of 1814 with, 255-64; Treaty of 1842 with, 280-8; wages in, x, 75-9; cost of living in, 79-80

Great-grace, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 129, 132-3

Great Harry, Longfellow on the, xlii, 1281

Great-Heart, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 174; at Mnason's house, 278, 281-2, 286-90; fight with Monster, 283-4; kills Giant Despair, 286-90; encounter with Slay-good, 271-2; with Feeble-mind, 274-6; on Christian and Faithful, 277; experience with Mr. Fearing, 253-8; on Self-will, 259-61; with Gaius, 263-5; his riddle, 269; in Delectable Mountains, 289-90; meets Valiant, 295-302; in the Enchanted Ground, 301-5; on Madam Bubble, 308; parts with Christiana, 311; in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, conducts the women, 211-22; fights with Grim the giant, 222-3; leaves the pilgrims, 224; returns to pilgrims, 238; in valley of Humiliation, 240-4; in valley of Death, 245-9; with Mr. Honest, 251-2

Great Lakes, naval forces on, xliii, 265-7

Great Men, acquiescence of, v, 60; Aristotle on, 383; belief in, natural, 193; Confucius on, xliv, 10 (9); illustrate their places, v, 128; independence of, 64; love and, iii, 27; love of, xlviii, 420; make great things, v, 18; obligations of, i, 393-5; Pascal on vices of, xlviii, 45-6 (103); past and present, v, 81; smiles of, vi, 189; worship of, Carlyle on, xxv, 393-5; worship of, meaning of, v, 18

Great Place, Bacon on, iii, 28-31 (see also Ambition); Confucius on, xliv, 13 (14); Dyer on, xl, 207-8; Epictetus on, ii, 131 (43); Penn on ' i, 381; penalty of, v, 87-8

Great Riches, Luther on, xxxvi, 332

Great Sacrifice, Confucius on the, xliv, 10 (10, n)

GREAT SPIRITS Now ON EARTH SOJOURNING, xli, 897

Great works, from childless men, iii, 20, 21

Greatness, appeals to future, v, 67; Burns on, vi, 85; domesticity and, i, 7' essence of, v, 126; known by accident, xxv, 409; latent, 417; Mammon on, iv, 115; original, always, v, 193; pleasure of, xlviii, 108 (310); Pascal on, 66 (180), 119 (353), 125 (378), 130 (397), 274 (793), 378-83, 412; Pope on, xl, 436; Seneca on, iii, 16; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 175-6; transitoriness of, xvi, 300-4, 312, 317, 320-1; true, Kempis on, vii, 209 (6); unconsciousness of, xxv, 406; unpopularity of, 403-4; Webster's fable of, xlvii, 813; quest of, 850; worldly price of, xviii, 440-1

GREATNESS, TRUE, by Watts, xl, 398

GRECIAN URN, ODE ON A, xli, 878-9

Greco, Giovanni, xxxi, 97 note 5

Greece, Ancient, works dealing with, 1, 19-20, 25; Caxton on women of, xxxix, u; Collins on music in, xli, 479; colonies of, x, 395; decline of military spirit in, xxvii, 373-4; decline of morality in, 378; freedom of speech in ancient, iii, 191, 193-4; history of, Carlyle on, xxv, 365-6 (see also Plutarch's Lives of Themistocles, Pericles, Aristides, Alcibiades, and Demosthenes); languages, study of, in, xxxvii, 146, 162-3; letters and arts of, v, 149; literature of, later, xxvii, 342-3; literature of, Jesus on, iv, 403-4; patriotism in, strength of, xxvii, 396; Pliny on, ix, 332; religion, philosophy and art of, xxxix, 431; Roman dominion in, xxxvi, 17; Romans in, 11-12, 18-19, 73-4; Rousseau on cause of arts of, xxxiv, 177; Schiller on culture of, xxxii, 220, 224-5, 235; the Turkish dominion in, xxxvi, 10; Turkish power in, beginning of, 45 (see also Hellas)

GREECE, THE ISLES OF, xli, 812-15; remarks on, 1, 24, 28

Greed, Confucius on, xliv, 56 (7); FABLE OF, xvii, 33; "goes not with gratitude," 13 (see also Covetousness)

Greedy, Justice, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, Furnace on, 867; at Lady All worth's 871-2; Marrall and Overreach on, 876-7; at Overreach's, 895-6, 898-9, 901, 903-4, 905, 906, 907; with Tapwell, 921-2

Greek Church, Freeman on, xxviii, 232; Luther on, xxxvi, 302

Greek Classics, xxxii, 121-2

Greek Comedy, Hugo on, xxxix, 346-8

Greek Drama, debt of, to Homer, xiii, 7; Hugo on, xxxix, 341-2, 347, 359, 383; Voltaire on, 364

Greek Dramas, 1, 20, 29

GREEK HYMNS, xlv, 541-5

Greek Language, Carlyle on, xxv, 365; Emerson on, v, 256-7; Huxley on, xxviii, 213-20; Locke on, xxxvii, 68, 77, 127, 145, 162-3, 167-9; Mill on, xxv, 24; Montaigne on, xxxii, 65, 67; Milton on, iii, 237, 241-2; More on, xxxvi, 137; study of, Augustine, St., on, vii, 16

Greek Learning, study of, iii, 199-200

Greek Literature, Hugo on, xxxix, 340-2, 346-8

Greek Names, xii, 156-7

Greek Philosophers, Cudworth on, xxxvii, 166

Greek Philosophy, divisions of, xxxii, 299

Greek Science, Huxley on, xxviii, 219

Greek Tragic Dance, Coleridge on, xxvii, 258

Greek Tragedy, decay of, viii, 438 (see THE FROGS)

Greeks, and barbarians, xxxvii, 146, 162-3; calendar of the, xxxiii, 8-9; chronology of the, xxxiv, 127; in Egypt, xxxiii, 88; Freeman on the modern, xxviii, 263-4, 265-6, 271; Goethe on culture of the, xxxix, 251-2; poetry among the, xxvii, 9-10; Schiller on art of the, xxxii, 252; Taine on the, xxxix, 412, 424

GREEN GROW THE RASHES, vi, 47-8

GREEN LINNET, THE, xli, 642-3

Greene, Robert, CONTENT, xl, 282-3

Greenhead Ghyll, xli, 615, 627

Greenland, Christianity in, xliii, 13, 14; colonized by Eric the Red, 56; subsidence in, xxxviii, 406

Greenough, Horatio, Emerson on, v, 316-17

Greenvile, John, xxxiii, 337, 351, 356

Greenville, Sir Richard, xxxiii, 226

GREENWOOD TREE, UNDER, THE, xl, 263

Gregory I, St., the Great, on angels, xx, 406; and the Angles, v, 348; xxviii, 48; and England, xxxvi, 130; heathen antiquities destroyed by, iii, 137; on sin, xxxvi, 270

Gregory, St., Nazianzen, Basil, St., and, students at Athens, xxviii, 52-3, 54-61; Christ Suffering, iv, 412

Gregory VII, and Henry IV, xxxvi, 294 note 25

Gregory Bay, the climate at, xxix, 236

Gregson, Mr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 228

Grendel, in BEOWULF, ravages of, xlix, 8-10, 13, 17; and Beowulf, 16-17, 21, 23-8, 31, 40, 59-60, 62; hand of, 27-8, 31-2, 41; head of, 49, 50; mother of, 40-8, 63

Grenville, Lord, and Burke, xxiv, 382

Grenville, Sir Richard, xlii, 1007-10

Gresham, Mr., and More, xxxvi, 116

Gretchen, in FAUST (see Margaret)

GRETHEL, HANSEL AND, xvii, 76-83

Greville, Fulke (see Brooke, Lord)

Grey, half brother to Richard III, xxxix, 7576

Grey, Dr., on Shakespeare, xxxix, 240

Greyhounds, in hunting, Harrison on, xxxv, 350

Grief, alone and with mates, xlvi, 276; Augustine, St., on, vii, 28, 50; beauty's canker, xlvi, 413; Browning, E. B., on, xli, 937; Burke on, xxiv, 34-5; Coleridge on, xli, 729; desires to be alone, xlvii, 509; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340; instructs the wise, xviii, 407; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 280 (25), 281 (28), 283 (34); physical effects of, xxxviii, 124; Shakespeare on, and joy, xlvi, 153; Shakespeare on silent, 380; and tears, xxvii, 285; "what need a man forestall his," iv, 54

Griefs, reduced by sympathy, iii, 68

Griego, John, xxxiii, 209

Grieve, James, Epitaph on, vi, 50

Griffith, John, i, 183

Grifir, prophecy of, xlix, 288; in the Edda, 251

Griflet, Sir, xxxv, 108

Grifolino, of Arezzo, in Hell, xx, 122 and note

Grignapoco, the bravo, xxi, 122

Grignon, R. S., translator of Luther, xxxvi, 2

Grim, the giant, xv, 222-3

Grimes, Sir Thomas, and Dr. Donne, xv, 357

Grimhild, wife of Giuki, xlix, 310; and Sigurd, 312, 313-14; and

Brynhild, 314, 317, 320, 321; and Gudrun, 338, 339-40. 339. 400-1, 403; remarks on magic potion of, 251

Grimm, Baron, on Shakespeare, xxxix, 318

Grimm, Hermann, Emerson and, v, 4

Grimm, Jakob, xvii, 46

Grimm, Wilhelm, xvii, 46

Grimms' HOUSEHOLD TALES, xvii, 45-218; remarks on, 8

Gripe-man, the schoolmaster, xv, 104

Gripir (see Grifir)

Grisi, Julia, in England, v, 413

Griso, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 106-9, 121-4, 179-80, 183, 185; despatched to Monza, 186-8; finds Lucia, 291; with Rodrigo in the plague, 536-7, 539-41; his death, 541

Grisolan, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 759, 778, 779, 847-8, 851

Grocyn, Doctor, xxxvi, 90

Grolier, Jean, xxxi, 323 note i

Grose, Francis, Capt., epigram on, vi, 350-1; lines on, 349-51, 387-8

Grote, George, xxv, 77, 78; Mill on, 4950, 188; in Parliament, 122; and Westminster Review, 63, 64

Grotesque, Hugo on the, xxxix, 346-52, 356-7; origin of word, xxxi, 61

Ground-rent, how determined, x, 489; taxes on, 491-2

Groups, of organic beings, xi, 136-7; sudden appearance of specific, 340-3

Grout, Sir Jenken, epitaph of, v, 213

Grove's Battery, xxx, 76

Growth, compensation of, xi, 150-2; laws of, defined, 212; laws of, effects of, 215-17; law of nature, v, 101-2

Grub Street, Swift on necessity of a, xxvii, 117

Gryphon, symbol of Christ, xx, 265 note 10; Æschylus on the, viii, 195 and note 55

Grypus, name of, xii, 156 note

Guadagni, Felice, xxxi, 175-6, 188, 200

GUADALUPE HIDALGO, TREATY OF, xliii, 289-305

Gualdrada, Dante on, xx, 66 note i

Guam, cession of, xliii, 443 (2), 444 (5), 445-6 (8)

Guanaco, Darwin on the, xxix, 170-3

Guardian Angels (see Tutelary A.)

Guardians, Hobbes on power of, xxxiv, 415; Mohammed on duties of, xlv, 967-8

Guascar, xxxiii, 303, 317, 321, 330

Guascontis, the, and Cellini, xxxi, 28-31

Guasos, of Chili, xxix, 263

Guayatecas, Darwin on, xxix, 285-94

Guayna-capac, xxxiii, 307, 317, 318-19

GUDE ALE KEEPS THE HEART ABOON, vi, 515

GUDEWIFE, COUNT THE LAWIN, vi, 378

Gudrid, the Norsewoman, xliii, n, 13, 14, 15, 16, 20

Gudrun, at Alfscourt, xlix, 338, 399; Atli and, 340-1, 350-3, 402-6, 415-7, 425-6; Brynhild, quarrel with, 318-20, 322-3; daughter by Sigurd, 336; death of, 356, 419-23; dream of, 310-12; drink of, 339, 400-1; future foretold, 336-7383-5; Gunnar and, 349-50, 414; married to Jonaker, 353, 418; Morris on, 255; Renan on, xxxii, 142; runes to brethren, xlix, 342, 409-11; Sigurd, her marriage to, 314-15, 371-95; at Sigurd's death, 328-35, 376-7, 392, 393, 397-8; story of, remarks on, 251, 252; Swanhild avenged by, 355-6, 420, 424-6

GUDRUN, FIRST LAY OF, xlix, 329-35; remarks on, 251

GUDRUN, SECOND LAY OF, xlix, 396-406

GUDRUN, THE WHETTING OF, xlix, 418-23; remarks on, 252

Guelfs, and Ghibellines in Italy (see numerous notes to Dante); opposed to papacy, xx, 306 note 8, 308 note 21

Guenevere (see Guinevere)

GUENEVERE, THE DEFENCE OF, xlii, 1183-93

Guenevor (see Guinevere)

Guerra, Pablo de la, xxiii, 385, 393

Guest, Lady Charlotte, xxxii, 138-9, 148

Guevarra, Fernando de, xiv, 490

GUIANA, DISCOVERY OF, Raleigh's, xxxiii, 301-80

Guiana, advantages of, xxxiii, 377-8; drunkenness in, 322; extent of, 354; first knowledge of, 302; French attempts on, 326; gold of, 305-7, 358, 366-7; Milton on, iv, 329; productions and climate of, xxxiii, 375-6; Raleigh's exploration of, 335-73; religions and customs of, 374-5; riches of, 317, 321, 324, 326, 358; settled from Peru, 317, 319-20; slave and other trades to, 334-5; Spanish attempts to conquer, 319-25, 327-35; tribes of, 373; wealth of, 303, 374-5

Guicciardini, Francesco, Cellini and, xxxi, 407 note i; Montaigne on, xxxii, 100-1

Guid-guid, Darwin on the, xxix, 292

Guidi, Giacopo, xxxi, 406

Guidi, Guido, xxxi, 298, 319, 336, 348

Guido, Da Vinci and, xxxix, 426; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; portrait of Beatrice Cenci, xviii, 278

Guidoguerra, in Hell, xx, 66 and note i

Guildenstern, in HAMLET, xlvi, 124-6, 131-5, 140, 142-3, 149, 156-8, 159-60, 170, 171, 184, 2OO, 21O

Guilds, labor, x, 121-32

Guillotine, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 366-7

Guilt, Manzoni on, xxi, 324; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 177; what quick eyes has, xviii, 76

Guilt, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 128, 132-4

Guines, Earl of, Constable of France, at Caen, xxxv, 9, 13-16

Guinevere, and Launcelot, xiv, 92, 489; xx, 352 note 2; xxxv, 105-6, 115-16, 132-3 (see also GUENEVERE, DEFENCE OF); in HOLY GRAIL, xxxv, 109-10, 114, 115-16; Renan on, xxxii, 142

Guinicelli, Guido, xx, 189 note 5, 252-3

Guion, type of temperance, iii, 202

Guiscard, Robert, xx, 114 note; in Paradise, 362

Guise, Duke of, at Boulogne, xxxviii, 18; at Danvilliers, 20; at Metz, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27-8, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33; at Moncontour, 51; murder of, xxxix, 359

Guittone, Dante on, xx, 253

Guizot, M., in England, v, 376

Gulf Stream, Dana on the, xxiii, 345-6

Gulliver's Travels, Thackeray on, xxviii, 20-3

Gulike, country of, xxxvi, 137, 138

Gumila, the Jesuit, x, 403

Gummere, Francis B., translator of BEOWULF, xlix, 3-4

Gun-cotton, xxx, 58 note 20

Gunnar, son of Giuki, xlix, 310; Adi and, 341-3, 344, 407-10; Brynhild and, 315-16, 317, 319-20, 321-2, 324, 335-7, 378-86, 393-55 editor's remarks on story of, 251; Gudrun and, 338, 339, 383, 400; imprisoned, 348-9, 412, 413-14; Oddrun and, 336, 431, 433, 435-8; Sigurd and, 313, 314, 325-7, 328, 333-4. 373-5. 377-8, 391-2, 425; in the worm-close, 350, 414, 437-8

Gunning, Elizabeth and Maria, v, 305

Gunpowder, combustibility of, compared with iron, xxx, 74; force of, 189; invention of, Don Quixote on, xiv, 379; invention of, effect on civilization, x, 450

Gunpowder Plot, attributed to Machiavelli, xxvii, 363; discovery of, iii, 268-9 an d note 33

Gunshot Wounds, Lister on, xxxviii, 2656; Pare on, 11-12, 38-9, 52

Gunther, Dr., authority on fishes, xi, 231; on fish, 409-10

Gurney, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 75, 78-9, 82-4, 86

Gusman, Felix, father of St. Dominic, xx, 336 note 18

Gustavus Adolphus, hymn attributed to, xlv, 559

Guthlaf, xlix, 34 note 5, 37

Gutters, Franklin on, i, 121-2

Guttorm, son of Giuki, xlix, 310, 326-7, 337, 375-6, 391-2; on royalty of truth, v, 374

Guy of Warwick, xiv, 93

Guyard, the groom, xxxviii, 21

Guyon, Sir, xxxix, 63, 64

Guyot, quoted, xxviii, 406

Gwendolen, chess-board of, xxxii, 145-6

Gwrhyr Gwalstawd leithoedd, xxxii, 150-2

Gyara, ii, 132 (45) note

Gyas, the Latin, xiii, 332

Gyas, the Trojan, xiii, 81, 95, 182-7

Gyges, death of, xiii, 318

Gylippus, Plutarch on, xii, 59, 127; sons of, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 399

Gynzcea, goddess, xii, 271

H

Habbab, xlv, 912 note 8

Habeas Corpus, Johnson on writ of, xliii, 429-30; privilege of, 185 (2)

Haberdasher, Chaucer's, xl, 21

Habington, William, POEMS by, xl, 252-4

Habit(s), Bacon on, formation of, iii, 97; Burke on, xxiv, 84; changed, exhibited by insects, xi, 178; changed without change of structure, 180-1; diversification of, 116-18, 178-80; in eating, xxx vii, 17-19; endurance of cold and heat as a, 10-11; Epictetus on evil, ii, 144 (75); errors due to, xlviii, 38; Goethe on, xix, 77; hereditary, in plants, xi, 144-5; Hume on, xxxvii, 321-2, 330, 373; inherited, effect of, xi, 27, 255-8; instinct, compared with, 251-2; Kempis on, vii, 274 (5); Locke on importance of, xxxvii, 4, 14, 19, 43, 88, 92, 103-13; perfects qualities of mind, xlviii, 416; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 167-8; of sleeping, xxxvii, 21-2; teaching of, 44; ten times nature, v, 371; transitional, xi, 175-8; variation due to, 10

HAD I A CAVE, vi, 467-8

HAD I THE WYTE? SHE BADE ME, vi, 529-30

Hades, Æneas's visit to, xiii, 216-28; Rhampsinitos in, xxxiii, 62; Socrates's description of, ii, 108-9; Ulysses's visit to, xxii, 145-61 (see also Hell) 'Hadigah, wife of Mohammed, xlv, 876 Hadley's Quadrant, inventor of, i, 58 Hadrian, Emperor, enviousness of, iii, 24; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 257 (25), 259 (37)

Haeckel, Prof., on phylogeny, xi, 452 Haemmerlein, Thomas (see Kempis, Thomas a)

Haemon, in ÆNEID, xiii, 316, 326; in ANTIGONE, viii, 274, 276-80, 294, 295

Haethcyn, in BEOWULF, xlix, 71-2, 73, 85

Hafiz, quotation from, v, 290, 445

Hafsah, wife of Mohammed, xlv, 992 note i

Haggai, prophecies of, xlviii, 254-5

HAGGIS, ADDRESS TO A, vi, 253-5

Haidinger's, Brushes, xxx, 266-7

Haies, Edward, captain of "Golden

Hind," xxxiii, 262, 274, 291-7; VOYAGE TO NEWFOUNDLAND, 263-98

Hail-storms, Darwin on, xxix, 121

Hainault, John of, in Crecy campaign, xxxv, 12, 17, 22, 29, 30-1; in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 57-9, 60, 62

HAIR, To A LOCK OF, xii, 740

Hair, St. Paul on long, xlv, 505 (14-15); teeth and, relation of, xi, 28, 148-9

Hake, King, death of, v, 344

Hakewill, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 318 note

Hakluyt, Richard, Drayton on, xl, 228; on geography and chronology, xxx, 325

Haldeman, Prof., on species, xi, 12

Halden, Henry of the, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 398-9

Haldor, character of, v, 386

Haldudo, John, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 38

Hales, Chief Justice, on cost of living, x, 79

Hales, the irrefragable, xxviii, 47

Halesus, in ÆNEID, xiii, 264, 333, 335-6

Halifax, punishment of theft in, xxxv, 366-7

Halifax, Lord, and Addison, xxvii, 159-60; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 147

Halitherium, Darwin on, xi, 363

Halitherses, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 25, 229, 331

Halius, son of Alcinous, xxii, 102; dance of, 108

Halket, George, LOGIE o' BUCHAN, xli, 571-2

Hall, Bishop, Encomium of, hi, 190 and note; Walton on, xv, 353

Hall, David, partner of Franklin, i, 114

Hall, Jim, in Two YEARS BEFORE THE MAST, xxiii, 25-6, 397

Hall, Sir John, xlii, 1174

Hallam, Henry, Emerson on, v, 439

Halley, Edmund, on comets, xxxiv, 118; Newton on, xxxix, 152

HALLOWEEN, vi, 110-19

Halonesus, speech on, xii, 198 note 5

Ham, son of Noah, Burns on, vi, 164; Milton on, iv, 344

Haman, minister of Pharaoh, xvi, 320 note 9; Mohammed on, xiv, 932, 933

Hamburgh (Hamburg), taxation at, x, 499; trading enterprises of, 469, 471

Hamdir, in the VOLSUNG TALE, xlix, 353, 356, 357; in the Edda, 418, 419, 420

HAMDIR, THE LAY OF, xlix, 424-30; remarks on, 252

HAME, HAME, HAME, xli, 782-3

Hamilcar, and Agathocles, xxxvi, 29

Hamilton, Alexander, article in the Federalist, xliii, 199-203; and Washington's Farewell Address, 233 note

Hamilton, Andrew, i, 40, 41, 60, 63

Hamilton, Duchess of, beauty of, v, 305

Hamilton, Gavin, Burns on, vi, 70, 72, 105; EPITAPH for, 219; DEDICATION to, 211-14; farewell to, 224; STANZAS ON NÆTHING, epistle to, 222-3

HAMILTON, GAVIN, vi, 119-200

HAMILTON, MARY: a ballad, xl, 117-19

Hamilton, William, THE BRÆS OF YARROW, xli, 572-6

Hamilton, Sir William, Mill on philosophy of, xxv, 167-70

HAMISH, THE REVENGE OF, xlii, 1393-8

Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, Arnold on, xxviii, 73; Bagehot on, 192; in churchyard, xlvi, 192-8; Claudius and, 161-2, 172-3, 185-9, 203-4, 208; death of, 209; scene with Gertrude, 162-9; the ghost and, 112-18; Guildenstern's report on, 142; Horatio and, 111-12, 149-50, 183-4, 199-201; Laertes, duel with, 205-7; pretended madness, 123-4; Ophelia and, 107-8, no-n, 128, 1446; at Ophelia's funeral, 197-8; in the original story, 92; Osric and, 201-4; at the play, 150-2, 153-6; players and, 136-40, 147-8; Polonius and, 130-1, 135-6, 162-3; with Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, 131-5; Ruskin on, xxviii, 137; soliloquy of, xlvi, 144; soliloquy, Lamb on, xxvii, 301; soliloquy translated by Voltaire, xxxiv, 132-3

HAMLET, TRAGEDY OF, xlvi, 93-211; editorial remarks on, 92; Johnson on, xxxix, 215, 226; Lamb on stage representation of, xxvii, 303-4, 306-7, 316; Thoreau on, xxviii, 413; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 131

Hammon, Master, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 484, 485-6, 493-5, 505-9, 512, 522-4

Hammon, the god, iv, 13 (22)

Hamor, and Jacob, xv, 108

Hananiah, death of, xlviii, 286 (827)

Hancock, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 331, 332, 333, 334, 339, 345, 35O, 352, 358, 359, 361, 364, 367, 369, 370, 391, 406-7; Haskell on, 359, 403

Hancock, John, signer of Declaration, xliii, 153

HANDSOME NELL, vi, 19-20

Hanmer, Sir Thomas, xxxix, 237

Hannibal, Cervantes on, xiv, 488; Cicero on, ix, 20; Fabius and, 48-9; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 55-6; story of, before Rome, iii, 225

HANS IN LUCK, story of, xvii, 168-73

HANSEL AND GRETHEL, xvii, 76-83

Happiness, Augustine, St., on, vii, 176-8; Bacon on highest, iii, 8; Browne on, 331-2; Burns on, vi, 308; Dante's allegory of, xx, 221; Epictetus on, ii, 118 (3), 152 (94), 162 (122), 163 (129), 171 (147), 171 (151); Franklin on, i, 56, 86, 123; Goldsmith on, xli, 515, 521-2, 531 ; Kant on, xxxii, 305, 307, 310-11, 326, 328-9; Kempis on, vii, 278; Locke on, xxxvii, 9; Marcus AureJius on ii, 201 (8), 210 (12), 221 (51), 231 (34); Mill's theory of, xxv, 90-1; More on, xxxvi, 196-204; Pascal on, xlviii, 54, 55, 58, 63 (165), 64 (170), 136, 147 (437), 154, 412; Penn on, i, 343-4; Pliny, on greatest, ix, 334; Pope on, xl, 405, 430-40; Rousseau on search for, xxxiv, 279; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 131; Surrey on, xl, 194-5; Washington on, and virtue, xliii, 227; Wotton on, xl, 288-9

HAPPINESSE, THAT WE SHOULD Nor JUDGE OF OUR, UNTILL AFTER OUR DEATH, xxxii, 5-8

HAPPY INSENSIBILITY, xli, 875-6

HAPPY LIFE, CHARACTER OF A, xl, 288-9

HAPPY LIFE, MEANS TO ATTAIN, xl, 194-5

HAPPY WARRIOR, CHARACTER OF THE, xli, 656-8

Hardiness, Locke on, xxxvii, 94, 100-1

Haquin, king of Norway, xx, 369 note 16

Harapha, of Gath, with Samson, iv, 441-6

Harbors, expense of maintaining, x, 454

Harcourt, Godfrey of, in French invasion, xxxv, 7-10, 14-16, 17, 19, 20, 24, 30

Hardcastle, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, with Mrs. Hardcastle and

Tony, xviii, 205-8; with Kate, 208-9; trains his servants, 216-17; receives Mario w and Hastings, 219-24; discusses Marlow with Kate, 233-5, 243-4; catches Marlow with Kate, 243-4; w i tn Marlow and his servants, 247-8; with Sir Charles Marlow, 256-9; with Tony and wife in the garden, 262-3; sees Kate and Marlow, 265-6; reconciled to Marlow, 267; to Hastings, 268; gives Kate to Marlow, 268-9

Hardcastle, Kate, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, with father, hears of young Marlow, xviii, 208-10; with Miss Neville, 210; meets Marlow, 226-9; discusses him with her father, 233-5; pretends to be barmaid, 239-40; with Marlow as barmaid, 240-3; caught by her father, 243-4; undeceives Marlow and tries to detain him, 249-50; tells of Marlow's love for her, 259; besought by Marlow, 265-6; makes herself known, 266-7; united to Marlow, 268-9

Hardcastle, Mrs., in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, at home with Hardcastle and Tony, xviii, 205-8; with Hastings, 229-30; with Tony and Miss Neville, 230-2, 251-2; and Miss Neville's jewels, 236-9; Tony's letter and, 252-3; orders Constance to aunt's, 253, 255-6; fooled by Tony, 261-3; plans finally upset, 267-9

Hardness, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 210

Hardships, Channing on value of, xxviii, 314-15

Hardwicke, Dr., xxxviii, 166

Hare, Mr., system of personal representation, xxv, 159-60

HARE AND TORTOISE, fable of, xvii, 38

HARE WITH MANY FRIENDS, fable of, xvii, 39

HARE-MARK IN MOON, story of, xlv, 697-701

HARES AND FROGS, fable of, xvii, 17-18

Hargreaves, James, inventor of spinningjenny, v, 395

Harleian Miscellanies, Emerson on, v, 123

Harlequin, Thackeray on, xxviii, 7

Harley, Burns on, vi, 261

Harm, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 213 (7), 228 (22)

Harmonia, wife of Cadmus, viii, 433

Harmony, Confucius on, xliv, 59 (ii); Dryden on, xl, 389

HARP OF THE NORTH, FAREWELL, xli, 755-6

HARP THAT ONCE THROUGH TARA'S HALLS, xli, 819

Harpalus, Demosthenes and, xii, 211

Harpalyce, in ÆNEID, xiii, 84

Harpies, Æneas and the, xiii, 135-6; in Dante's HELL, xx, 53

Harpocras, physician, ix, 359, 360

Harras, Rudolph der, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 441-8, 469-73

Harriers, Harrison on, xxxv, 350

Harris, John, with Drake, xxxiii, 177

Harris, Tom, friend of Dana, xxiii, 180, 189-94, 261, 267, 396-7

Harrison, Benjamin, and Hawaii, xliii, 437 headnote

Harrison, William, collaborator of Holinshed, xxxv, 216;
DESCRIPTION OF ELIZABETHAN ENGLAND, 215-383

Harrowing, origin of word, ix, 63

Harry, David, i, 51, 64

Harsnett, Dr., and Dr. Donne, xv, 343-4

Hart, Christ, typified by a, xxxv, 193; defined, 343

HART AND HUNTER, fable of, xvii, 21-2

HART IN THE OX-STALL, fable of, xvii, 23 Hart, Sir Robert, at Otterburn, xxxv, 90, 99

Harte, Bret, THE REVEILLE, xlii, 1401-2

Hartley, David, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277; Mill on philosophy of, xxv, 46-7

Hartlib, Samuel, iii, 234; Cowley on, xxvii, 66; Milton on, iii, 235

Hartsocher, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 126

Harun, Er-Rashid, in ARABIAN NIGHTS, xvi, 60-5, 99-100, 112-14, 210, 215-25, 228-30, 288-91

Harut, the fallen angel, xvi, 56 note

HARVARD CLASSICS, Editor's Introduction, 1, 3-14; Reader's Guide to, 17-72

HARVARD COMMEMORATION ODE, xlii, 1379-90

Harvey, William, discoverer of circulation of blood, xxxiv, 126; Descartes on, 41 note; life and works of, xxxviii, 60; ON MOTION OF HEART AND BLOOD, 611-39

Hasdrubal, Chaucer on wife of, xl, 49

'Hasiy Ibn Wail, xlv, 912 note

Haskell, Frank A., ACCOUNT OF GETTYSBURG, xliii, 326-414; life of, 326 note

Haste, half-sister of delay, xlii, 1001; "from the Devil," xvi, 156; "make, slowly," xix, 369; Penn on excessive, i, 348 (300), 379 (76), 380 (77); "that mars all decency," xx, 153

Hastings, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, admirer of Miss Neville, xviii, 210, 217-19; at the ale-house, 213-15; arrival at Hardcastle's, 217-19; with Mr. Hardcastlc, 219-20; with Miss Neville, 224-5; carries on jest with Marlow, 225-6; presents Marlow to Kate, 226-7; with Mrs. Hardcastle, 229-30; with Tony, 231-3, 236; plans to elope with Constance, 244; learns loss of jewels, 245-6; his letter to Tony, 253-4; denounces Tony, 254-5; and Marlow, 255; hears Miss Neville gone, 256; recovers Constance through Tony, 260; with Miss Neville, 264; wins consent to marriage, 268-9

Hastings, Lord, Raleigh on, xxxix, 75, 76

Hastings, Warren, Burke on, xxiv, 6; on Oriental literature, v, 446; Sheridan and, xviii, 108

Hatch, mate on "Alert," xxiii, 402-3

Hate-good, Lord, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 96-101

Hate-light, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Haterius, Augustus on, xxvii, 55

Hatred, Buddha on, xlv, 669-71; Confucius on, xliv, 60 (24); Hume on, xxxvii, 324; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 286-7 (8); Pascal on, xlviii, 151 (451); Penn on, i, 346 (269)

Hats, Locke on, xxxvii, n, 14

HAUNTED PALACE, THE, xlii, 1225-6

Hauteclere, sword of Oliver, xlix, 137, 142, 151

Havre de Grace, siege of, xxxviii, 49

Hawaiian Islands, Annexation of, xliii, 437-9

Hawker, Robert Stephen, poem by, xlii, 1111-12

Hawkins, Sir John Drake and, xxxiii, 122, 129, 227; Melendez and, 256; at San Juan, 323-4

Hawkins, William, in Cape Verde Islands, xxxiii, 238

Hawks, carrion, xxix, 62-7; guided to prey by sight, xi, 92; sacred in Egypt, xxxiii, 36, 37

Hay, John, Convention with Panama, xliii, 451, 461, 462

Hay, Lord, ambassador of King James, xv, 335, 346

Hays, Gen. Alex., at Gettysburg, xliii, 336, 342, 384

Hazard, Capt., at Gettysburg, xliii, 372

Hazing, on board ship, xxiii, 53 note

Hazlitt, William, Carlyle on, xxv, 345-6; life and writings, xxvii, 266; PERSONS ONE WOULD WISH TO HAVE SEEN, 267-81; Stevenson on, xxviii, 289

Head, and limbs, related, xi, 27; Locke on coverings for the, xxxvii, 11-14

Head, Sir Francis, on America, xxviii, 406-7

Heady, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Healfdene, xlix, 6

HEALING QUESTION, A, xliii, 118-37

Health, Antonius's care of, ii, 197; Burke on pleasure in enjoyment of, xxiv, 356, 37; Carlyle on, xxv, 407-8, 418-19; Carlyle on care of, 385-6; Channing on, xxviii, 353-5; Descartes on, xxxiv, 50; Epictetus on, care of, ii, 160-1 (118); Hunt on, xxvii, 291-2; More on, xxxvi, 201-2, 203; Locke on importance of, xxx vii, 9-10; Pascal on use and misuse of, xlviii, 370; Pope on, xl, 432; rules of, xxxvii, 10-26; unconsciousness of, xxv, 319-34; Woolman on, care of, i, 235-6

HEALTH, by Pinkney, xxviii, 382-3

HEALTH, TO ANE I LOE DEAR, vi, 551

HEALTH, HERE'S His, IN WATER, vi, 183

HEALTH, HERE'S TO THY, vi, 27-8

HEALTH, REGIMEN OF, Bacon's, iii, 81-2

HEALTH TO THEM THAT'S AWA, vi, 449-50

Heardred, xlix, 65, 70 and note 3

Hearing, art of, ii, 146-8 (81); speaking and, 183 (6)

Heart, auricles of the, the seat of life, xxxviii, 84-6; Descartes on motion of the, xxxiv, 39-44; in the foetus, xxxviii, 127, 128, 131, 135-6; Harvey on motion and uses of the, 60-139; Harvey on structure of the, 130-7, 139; importance of the, 137; in lower animals, 129-131, 132-3; lungs and, 65, 69-73, 88, go, 91-4, 99-100, 131-2; nourishment through the, 102, 103

HEART'S COMPASS, xlii, 1180

HEART'S HOPE, xlii, 1178-9

Hearth-money, x, 494

Heat, Berkeley on raal existence of, xxxvii, 193-9; chemical action of, xxx, 207-8; dependent on expansion and compression, 212-13; Descartes on, xxxiv, 37; effect of, on cohesion, xxx, 39-43; evolved from chemical affinity, 79-80; Faraday on, 58-9; generated by friction and impact, 195-7; Locke on endurance of, xxxvii, 10-11, 14; mechanical equivalent of, xxx, 197-9; mechanical power produced by, 188-97; mechanical theory of, 199-200, 231-2; from moonlight, 260-1; as motion, theory of, 199-200; old theory of, 192-4; Pascal on, xlviii, 123 (368); produced by combustion of carbon, xxx, 200-1; produced by combustion of hydrogen, 202-5; produced by electrical currents, 206; production of, in New Atlantis, iii, 176; radiant, xxx, 259; transference and conduction of, 69-70

Heaven, Augustine, St., on, vii, 152; Bernard of Morlaix on, xlv, 548-9; Browne on, iii, 300-1; Browne on hope of, 298-9, 303-4; Browning on, xlii, 1073; Bunyan on, xv, 17-18, 161-2, 229; Burns on, vi, 138-9; compared to mustard seed, iii, 74; Darwin on, xxix, 288; Fitzgerald on, xli, 953; gate of, Milton on, iv, 147-8; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 345; Kempis on, vii, 312 (3, 4), 313-17; Luther on, xxxvi, 252 (16); Milton on, iv, 195, 196-7, 204; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 264-5; saints in, xii, 332-3

HEAVENLY BODIES, REVOLUTIONS OF THE, xxxix, 52-7

Heavens, Dante's ten, xx, 292 note 3

Hebe, and Heracles, xxii, 160; Keats on, xli, 873; references to, iv, 21, 31; xl, 244

Heber, Reginald, Hymns by, xlv, 563-5

Hebrew Literature, Milton on, iv, 403-4; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 306

Hebrew Prophets, piety and grossness of the, v, 169

HEBREW SACRED WRITINGS, xliv, 69-349

Hebrews, Raleigh on history of, xxxix, 112 (see also Israelites, Jews)

Hebron, seat of giants, iv, 418

Hecataios, the historian, xxxiii, 72

Hecate, in MACBETH, xlvi, 362-3; Virgil on, xiii, 216

Hectic Fever, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 12

Hector, and Ajax, v, 93; Burke on, xxiv, 127; Caxton on, xxxix, 20; Chaucer on, xl, 43; in Dante's HELL, xx, 19; Dares Phrygius on, xiii, 33; ghost of, appears to ALneas, 109-10; Shelley on Homer's, xxvii, 336

Hecuba, at death of Priam, xlvi, 138-9; madness of, xx, 123; in sack of Troy, xiii, 117-18

Hedge, F. H., translator of Luther's

Hymn, xlv, 557

Hedwig, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 428-32, 456-8, 482-4, 488

Heedless, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 248, 303-5

Hegel, on civil history, v, 437; on planetary motions, xxx, 281; Taine on, xxxix, 428

Hegesias, and Diogenes, xxxii, 59

Height, less grand than depth, xxiv, 61

Heimer of Hlymdale, xlix, 306-7, 315

Heimskringla, Emerson on the, v, 343

Heine, Taine on, xxxix, 411-12

Heineccius, on Roman Law, xxv, 44

Heinsius, on Horace, xiii, 12

HELEN, To, xlii, 1226

HELEN OF KIRCONNELL, xl, 324-5

Helen of Troy, Æschylus on, viii, 9, 22-3, 33-5, 36; Burke on Homer's description of, xxiv, 136; Dante on, xx, 22; Darley on, xli, 914; Dei'phobus and, xiii, 224-5; in FAUSTUS, xix, 243-4, 245-6; Herodotus on, xxxiii, 54-8; in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 49-53; 202-3, 2045 Proteus and, xxxiii, 54-6; Theseus and, xxvi, 136-7; in siege of Troy, xiii, 119-20; xxii, 51-3; vest of, xiii, 96; wife of Thone and, iv, 62

Helena, Jove-born, iv, 62 (see Helen of Troy)

Helenor, the Trojan, death of, xiii, 311

Helenus, in ÆNEID, xiii, 137, 139, 140-3; Dryden on, 20

Helgi Hunding's-Bane, in the VOLSUNG TALE, xlix, 272-4, 275-6; SECOND LAY OF, 361-7; remarks on LAY of, 250

Helgi, the Norseman, xliii, 17-19

Helias le Grose, xxxv, 151

Helice, reference to, xx, 416 note 5

Heliocentric Theory, xxxix, 52 note

Heliodorus, Dante on, xx, 229; and note 18; Sidney on, xxvii, 13

Heliogabalus, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 67

Heliometer, Newcomb on the, xxx, 315-16

Heliopolis, city of, xxxiii, 10, 34, 35

Helios, giver of light, xxii, 133; herds of, 147, 165, 170-2; wrath of, at the Greeks, 171-2; worshipped in Egypt, xxxiii, 34

Helizeus, More on, xxxvi, 156

Hell, Æneas's visit to, xiii, 216-28; Browne on, iii, 301-3; Browne on, fear of, 298-9, 303-4; Buddhist ideas of, xlv, 685-8; Bunyan on, xv, 229; Burke on paintings of, xxiv, 54; Burke on Virgil's picture of, 60-1; Burns on the fear of, vi, 204; Burns on, orthodox ideas of, 101; Dante's, xx, 5-144; Kempis on, vii, 233 (3, 4); Kempis on fear of, 234 (7); Luther on, xxxvi, 252 (16); Marlowe on, xix, 222; Mill on notion of, xxv, 30-1; Milton's description of, iv, 88-90, 94, 123-4, 125, 130-1, 225-6; Milton's, Burke on, xxiv, 138-9; Mohammed on, xlv, 880-1, 884, 886, 888, 892, 893, 896-7, 901, 912, 934, 946, 973-4; Omar Khayyam on, xli, 953, 956; Pascal on belief in, xlviii, 88 (239); Raleigh on thoughts of, xl, 204; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 264-6

HELL, HOW LOVE LOOKED FOR, xlii, 1398-1401

HELLAS, by Shelley, xli, 824-5

Hellenes, John de, xxxv, 49-50

Hellenion, in Egypt, xxxiii, 88

Hellenora, Spenser's, xxxix, 65

Hellespont, Dante on the, xx, 260

Hellusians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 120

Helm Gunnar, xlix, 300, 388

Helmholtz, ON CONSERVATION OF FORCE, xxx, 173-210; on the eye, xi, 203-4; ICE AND GLACIERS, xxx, 211-48; life and works, 172

Help, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 19

Help, must come from self, v, 22; to those who help themselves, xvii, 35

Helper, yonder aids the helper here, xix, 46

Helpidius, vii, 75

Helvetians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108

Helvetius, Mill's abstract of, xxv, 46

Helvia, mother of Cicero, xii, 218

Helvicus, tables of, xxxvii, 157

Helvidius, contemporaneity, ii, 320; death of, ix, 239; Life, by Senecio, 308; Pliny on, 338-9

Hely, Mrs., and Pepys, xxviii, 289

Helymus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 180, 188-9

Heman the Ezrahite, maschil of, xliv, 253-4

Hemi-organism, xxxviii, 306-8, 352-3

Heminge, John, PREFACE TO SHAKESPEARE, xxxix, 148-9

Hemionus, descent of the, xi, 163-6

Hemistichs, Dryden on, xiii, 63-4

Hemorrhages, Harvey on, xxxviii, 107

Hempe in prophecy indicating sovereigns of England, iii, 92

Hemphill, Franklin on, i, 94

Hen, and chickens, parable of the, xv, 204-5

Henchman, Humphrey, on George Herbert, xv, 398

HENDERSON, MATTHEW, ELEGY ON, vi, 383-7

Hengest, the Dane, xlix, 34 note 5, 35, 36-7; Vortizem weds daughter of, v, 276

Henley, William Ernest, Poems by, xlii, 1209-12

Hennings, in FAUST, xix, 187

HENPECKED COUNTRY SQUIRE, EPIGRAMS ON A, vi, 58

HENPECKED HUSBAND, THE, vi, 324-5

Henriquez, Don Martin, xxxiii, 129-30

Henry I, Raleigh on, xxxix, 72

Henry II, of England, and Becket, xxxix, 165 note 21 ; sons of, iii, 51

Henry II, of France, Cellini on, 283 note I, 300; death foretold, iii, 91; expedition against Hesdin, xxxviii, 21-2; expedition to Germany, 18-19; Montgomery and, xxxiii, 186; Pare a ', xxxviii, 22-3, 34, 43, 44; siege of Danvilliers, 19-20

Henry III, of England, Dante on, xx, 174 and note 15; and the Jews, v, 346-7; Oxford students and, xxxv, 373

Henry III, of France, Bacon on, iii, 37; Montaigne on regime of, xxxii, 116; Raleigh on, xxxix, 74, 83; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 87

Henry IV, Emperor, and Gregory VII, xxxvi, 294 note 25

Henry IV, of England, and Chaucer, xxxix, 163-4; Raleigh on, 73

Henry IV, of France, and Acevedo, xxi, 12; Bacon on, iii, 130; Burke on, xxiv, 186, 270; compared with Lincoln, xxviii, 437-9; on manly exer '-e, v, 350; murder of, xxxix, 359; plots against, xxxiv, 87

Henry V, at Agincourt, xl, 223-4, 225, 226; Falstaff and, vi, 210; Macaulay on, xxvii, 377-8; Raleigh on, xxxix, 73-4

Henry VI, of England, colleges at Cambridge founded by, xxxv, 380;

death of, xxxix, 74-5; Raleigh on, 74

Henry VII, of Cyprus, xx, 369 note 21

Henry VII, Emperor, Dante on, xx, 415 note 6; death of, xxxiv, 87; married to Constance, xx, 296 note 7

Henry VII, of England, and John Cabot, xliii, 45 and note, 46, 47-8; chapel of, xxxv, 374; councillors of, iii, 54; greatness of, foretold, 91; King's College founded by, xxxv, 380; law of farmers, iii, 75; liberator, 130; mastiffs and falcon killed at behest of, xxxv, 353; Sir Thomas More and, xxxvi, 91; nobility and, iii, 51; Perkin Warbeck and, xxxiv, 101-2; Raleigh on, xxxix, 76-7; suspiciousness of, iii, 82; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 90

Henry VIII, and the abbeys, xxiv, 251-2; Anne Bullen anJ, xxxvi, 102, in, 114; Bentham on times of, xxvii, 228; Burke on, xxiv, 401-4; Canterbury nun and, xxxvi, 114-15, Catherine, legality of marriage with, 102-4, 105; Christ's Church, Oxford, founded by, xxxv, 381; Latimer and, v, 376; Sir Thomas More and, xxxvi, 92-5, 97-8, 99, 106, 110-12, 113-14, 115, 117-20, 121-2, 123, 124, 125, 126-9, 132-3, 134; More on, 135; More on marriage of, 99, 102-3, 105, 110-11, 114; More on Supremacy Act of, 123, 129-30; Protestantism in England not founded by, iii, 256; Raleigh on, xxxix, 77-8; Sacraments, his book on the, xxxvi, 118; severity of, xxxv, 369; studdery of, 328; on subversion of colleges, 382-3; on supremacy of the Pope, xxxvi, 118; Trinity College, Cambridge, founded by, xxxv, 380; in triumvirate of kings, iii, 50; Wolsey and, xxxvi, 105-6

Henry of the Halden, xxvi, 398-9

Henry of Luxemburg, xx, 168 note n

Henry of Navarre, Dante on, xx, 173 note 8

Henry, son of Richard of Almaine, xx, 52 note 10

Henslowe, Philip, Dekker and, xlvii, 468; Massinger and, 858; Webster and, 468

Heorogar, xlix, 6, 18, 64

Heorot, the hall of Hrothgar, xlix, 7 note i

Hephsestion, and Proxresius, xxviii, 53? proctor of Oriental school, 59

Hephaestos, Prometheus and, viii, 167 note 2 and 4; in PROMETHEUS BOUND, 166-9; the snare of, xxii, 106-8; temple of, in Memphis, xxxiii, 49, 53, 589, 68, 70, 71, 77 (see also Vulcan)

Hephestion, and Alexander, xlvi, 28

HER FLOWING LOCKS, vi, no

HER GIFTS, xlii, 1181

Hera, guardian of marriage-bed, viii, 1301; the peacock sacred to, 187 note 37 (see also Juno)

Heracleon, the Megarian, xxxii, 49-50

Heracles (see Hercules)

Heracles, in THE FROGS, viii, 440-3

Heraclides Ponticus, philosopher, xxxii, 59; on motion of earth, xxxix, 55

Heraclitus, death of, ii, 206 (3); Democritus and, iii, 316; on generation, ii, 220 (46); on incredulity, xii, 183; to judges, ii, 135 (54); in Limbo, xx, 20; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 254 (3); on the sleepers, 240 (42)

HERACLITUS, by Cory, xlii, 1113

Heraldry, the boast of, xl, 444; remarks on, xxviii, 415

Herbert, George, birth and family of, xv, 373-4; charity of, 407-8; childhood and education, 375; church at Layton Ecclesia, 387-8; church services by, 399-404; clerk of Bemerton, 393-5, 396, 397, 398; academic career, 380-1; consumption of, 391-2, 408-9, 414, 415, 416; deacon, 387; death of, 415, 416, 417-18; Emerson on, v, 143; Farrer, Nicholas, letter to, xv, 413; friendships with Bacon, Andrews, Wotton, and Donne, 383; health, infirmity of, 384; on Holy Days, 403-4; LIFE OF, by Walton, 373-418; life, sanctity of his, 394-5; marriage, 392-3; mother, letter to his, 389-91; music, love of, 405-6; parson, rules as, 398-9; Poems by, 379-8o, 385, 398, 416; xl, 341-6; poor woman and, xv, 397; prayer, habits of, 404-5; Sacred Poems, 354, 396, 414-15; Salisbury walks, incidents of, 406-7; sermons, 399-400; sinecure given by James, 384; successor, lines to his, 398; as university orator, 380-1; wife of (see Danvers, Jane)

Herbert, Henry, xv, 374, 388, 391

Herbert, Magdalen, mother of George, xv, 373-4; 375-6; death of, 392; Donne, friendship with, 376-8; letter to, 389-91; son, relations with her, 384-5, 387-8

Herbert, Thomas, xv, 374

Herbert, Rev. W., on hybrids, xi, 288-90; on origin of species, n; on struggle among plants, 72

Herborg, Queen, xlix, 330-1

Herbs, Harrison on, xxxv, 239-40

Hercules, Alcestis and, xli, 664; amours of, xii, 349; Antaeus and, iv, 409; xiv, 19; xx, 130 note 6; birth of, xxii, 151; Cacus and, xiii, 274-7; Cerberus and, xx, 38 note; viii, 442, 453; character of, v, 184; compass, and the, 458; date of, xxxiii, 72-3; as Egyptian god, xxxiii, 26-8, 42; as king of Egypt, xxxviii, 387; envenomed robe of, iv, 122; Epictetus on, ii, 143 (71); faith of, 162 (124); genealogy of, viii, 194 note 50, 198; as a German god, xxxiii, 97; in Germany, 94; in Hades, xxii, 160; Hylas and, xlvi, n, 28; lole and, xx, 323; Iphitus and, xxii, 284-5; tne Maenad and, viii, 327; Nessus and, xx, 50 note; parentage of, xii, 5; the pigmies and, xxxix, 347; Pillars of, Tacitus on, xxxiii, 112; Prometheus and, iii, 16; viii, 193-4, 198 note 63; Rhea and, xiii, 262; Virgil on, 234, 277-8; Waller on death of, xxxiv, 146; Zeus and, xxxiii, 26-7

HERCULES AND THE WAGGONER, fable of, xvii, 35

Herder, quotation from, xxxii, 386

Herdsman's Song, from WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 380

Hereafter, Buddha on questions of the, xlv, 647-52, 660; Emerson on popular views of the, v, 85-6; Epictetus on the, ii, 158 (112), 181 (188); Epicurus on the, xxxvii, 400-1; Euripides on the, viii, 311; Goethe on the xix, 69; Hindu idea of, xlv, 822-4, 827-8, 854-5; hope of the, xl, 410; Kempis on the, vii, 232-3, 312; Mohammed on, xlv, 882, 883-4, 885-6, 915; Montaigne on the, xxxii, 25; Omar Khayyam on the, xli, 944, 948, 950-1, 952, 953. 954, 955-958; Pascal on question of, xlviii, 702, 75-6, 77 (200), 79 (213), 80 (217); the philosopher's, ii, 75-7; Pope on the, xl, 435; Raleigh on the, xxxix, 92-3; Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 264-6, 277-8; sailors' idea of, xxiii, 39-40; Shakespeare on the, xlvi, 144;

Shelley on, xviii, 353-4; Socrates on, ii, 29, 51, 58, 103-4, 108-10; Vaughan on the, xl, 346-7 (see also Heaven, Hell, Paradise, Purgatory, Hades)

Hereditary Princedoms, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 7-8; Pascal on, xlviii, in (320)

Heredity, Darwin on laws of, xi, 29; in habit and instinct, 255-8; in individual differences, 55; in mutilations, 141; in variations, 28-9

Heremod, xlix, 29-30, 52

Herennius, and Cicero, xii, 258-9

HERE'S A HEALTH TO KING CHARLES, xli, 754-5

HERE'S A HEALTH TO THEM THAT'S AWA, vi, 449-50

HERE'S His HEALTH IN WATER, vi, 183

HERE'S TO THY HEALTH, vi, 27-8

Heresies, Augustine, St., on, vii, 115; Bacon on, iii, 11-12; Browne on, 257-60; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 373; Mill on, xxv, 240-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 301, 302; speculative, iii, 138

Heretics, Burns on, vi, 213; in Dante's

HELL, xx, 39, 115-16; Hobbes on covenants with, xxxiv, 404; Luther on, xxxvi, 318-19; Pascal on, xlviii, 291 (841), 295 (845), 298, 301, 302

Hericault, Charles d', on classics, xxviii, 68-9

Herilus, and Evander, xiii, 286-7

Heriulf, the Norseman, xliii, 5, 6

Herman, in MANFRED, xviii, 436-7, 442, 443-5

HERMANN AND DOROTHEA, Goethe's, xix, 335-410; remarks on, 336; 1, 24

Hermaphrodites, Darwin on, xi, 103, 106-7

Hermes, guard of the dead, viii, 102, 106; herald of heaven, 26, 81; Herodotus on worship of, xxxiii, 31 ; in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 10, 69-72, 107-8, 1378, 320; in PROMETHEUS BOUND, viii, 201-5; rod of, ii, 156 (106); iv, 322; slayer of Argos, xxii, u; Ulysses and, iv, 61

Hermes Trismegistus (see Trismegistus)

Herminius, death of, xiii, 379

Hermione, Homer on, xxii, 46; Milton on, iv, 273

Herminones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 93

Hermippus, accuser of Aspasia, xii, 68

Hermits, Burns on life of, vi, 198-9; in Milton's Limbo, iv, 147-8

Hermodius, and Aristogiton, xxxii, 77

Hermogenes, precocity of, iii, 105-6; with Socrates, ii, 47

Hermon, murderer of Phrynichus, xii, 131

Hermondurians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 116

Hernandez, Gonzalo, xiv, 302-3, 488

Hernox, Earl, xxxv, 191-2

Herodes Atticus, teacher of M. Aurelius Antoninus, ii, 302

Hero-worship, Carlyle on, xxv, 394-5 Herod, the king, xliv, 448 (i), 449 (1923); believed to be Messiah, xlviii, 264 (753); gold raised, iv, 382; Pascal on, xlviii, 234 (700-1); persecution of, xliv, 448 (i); son of, xlviii, 66 (179); in war of Antony and Octavius, xii, 369, 377, 378-9

Herod, tetrarch of Galilee, xliv, 360 (i), 361-2 (19), 377 (7-9); Jesus and, 392 (31-2), 413 (7-11); Pilate and, 414 (12)

Herodes Atticus, xxviii, 59-60

Herodias, and John the Baptist, xliv, 361-2 (19)

Herodicus, and Hippocrates, xxxviii, 2

Herodotus, AN ACCOUNT OF EGYPT, xxxiii, 7-90; editorial remarks on ACCOUNT of, 1, 19; Hugo on, xxxix, 341; life and histories, xxxiii, 5-6; Shelley on, xxvii, 335; Sidney on, 7; Themistocles and, ix, 104

Heroes, Emerson on our love of, v, 18; Lowell on, xiii, 1372; of poems, Dryden on, xviii, 13; Pope on, xl, 436; Thoreau on, xxviii, 408; Yu-tzu on, xliv, 6 (13)

Heroic Poetry, Sidney on, xxvii, 28-9

HEROISM, ESSAY ON, v, 121-31

Heron, Mr., son-in-law of More, xxxvi, 107

HERON ELECTION BALLADS, vi, 520-6, 548-9

Herrick, Robert, Poems by, xl, 334-40

Herschel, Sir John, work of, v, 360-1

Herthum, German goddess, xxxiii, 115

HERVEY, WILLIAM, ON THE DEATH OF, xl, 367-9

HE'S OWER THE HILLS THAT I LO'E WEEL, xii, 560-1

Hesdin, siege of, xxxviii, 34-7; destruction of, 43

Hesiod, Cicero on, ix, 64; Clauserus on, xxvii, 50-1; on his estate, 67; Greek theogony due to, xxxiii, 32; Herodotus on time of, 32; quoted, ii, 293 (32); Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130; Sidney on, xxvii, 6; Socrates on, ii, 29; teachings of, viii, 471

Hesione, wife of Prometheus, viii, 178 note 20, 186-7

Hesperian Tree, Milton on the, iv, 55

Hesperus, gardens of, iv, 71, 150

Hesperus, the star, iv, 170, 261

HESPERUS, THE WRECK OF THE, xiii, 1269-71

HESTER, by Lamb, xii, 735-6

Heteronomy of the Will, xxxii, 343; spurious principles of morality due to, 342-3, 351-4

Hetwaras, xlix, 70 note 2, 84

Heuer, Sir Roger, xl, 99

Heusinger, on effects of color, xi, 27

HEY, CA' THRO', boat song, vi, 265

Heyne, Carlyle on, xxv, 376

Heywood, Thomas, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 276; PACK CLOUDS, AWAY, xl, 316-17

Hezekiah, Bunyan on, xv, 133; in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 371 note 5; Walton on, xv, 356

Hibernation, Darwin on, xxix, 104-5; Harvey on, xxxviii, 85, 130

Hie BREVE VIVITUR, xlv, 548-9

Hickey, Goldsmith on, xli, 505, 508

Hickson, Mr., Mill on, xxv, 137

Hide-curing, Dana on, xxiii, 148-9

Hides, price of, x, 193-9

Hiera, and Alcanor, xiii, 316

Hierius, Augustine, St., on, vii, 56

Hiero of Syracuse, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 22; the poets and, xxvii, 38; Themistocles and, xii, 26-7; troops of, xxxvi, 46

Hierocles, the pedant in, xxxix, 210

Hierome, St., and Paula, xv, 377

Hieronymus Fabricius, xxxviii, 65, 71

HIGHLAND BALOU, THE, vi, 490

HIGHLAND GIRL, To THE, xli, 652-4

HIGHLAND HARRY BACK AGAIN, vi, 357

HIGHLAND MARY, vi, 444-5

HIGHLAND WIDOW'S LAMENT, vi, 490-1

HIGHLANDS, IN THE, xlii, 1212

High-mind, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Highways (see Roads)

Hilarity, of heroism, v, 127

Hilarius, a Bithynian, xxviii, 58

Hilary, on the true church, xxxix, 41

Hildeburh, xlix, 34 note 5, 36, 37

Hildegard, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 437, 440

Hill, Gen. A. P., at Gettysburg, xliii, 343, 344. 347

Hilton, Walter, as author of IMITATION OF CHRIST, vii, 200

Himeraeus, death of, xii, 214

HIND HORN, a ballad, xl, 59-61

Hindoos, Freeman on name of, xxviii, 271; idea of world, 415; Taine on the, xxxix, 421

Hinduism, xlv, 784 (see also BhagavadGita)

Hinny, origin of the, xi, 315

Hipparchus, Huxley on, xxviii, 219; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 241 (47); on precession of equinoxes, xxxiv, 128-9

Hipparchus, freedman of Antony, xii, 374

Hipparete, wife of Alcibiades, xii, 112-3

Hipparion, Darwin on the, xi, 363

Hippias, the comedian, xii, 328

Hippias of Elis, ii, 7; wealth of, x, 137

Hippo, the dolphin of, ix, 351-2

Hippocoon, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 194-5

Hippocrates, Dante on, xx, 266 note 15; editor's remarks on writings of, 1, 39; first aphorism of, xxxviii, 2, 37; on the heart, 136; LAW of, 4-5; life and works, 2; in Limbo, xx, 20; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 206 (3); OATH of, xxxviii, 3; remarks on OATH, 2 Hippodamus, Cicero on, ix, 113, 117 Hippolytus, Virgil on, xiii, 265 HIPPOLYTUS, of Euripides, viii, 303-67 Hippolytus, in Tragedy of HIPPOLYTUS, Aphrodite's hatred of, viii, 303-5; Artemis and, 305-6; death of, 355-8, 361-7; huntsman and, 306-8; innocence told by Artemis, 359-61; Phaedra and, 328-32; Theseus and, 342-52; Voltaire on, xxxix, 364

Hippolytus, in PHÆDRA, Aricia and, xxvi, 135-7, 150-1, I 52-6, 185-7; death of, related by Theramenes, 191-4; denounced by CEnone, 173-4; Dryden on, xviii, 15; Phaedra and, xxvi, 134-5, 144-6, 156-61; Theramenes, scenes with, 133-8, 161-2, 172; Theseus and, 170-1, 174-8

Hipponicus, and Alcibiades, xii, 112

Hippopotamus, described in JOB, xliv, 137-8; Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 38-9

Hippotades, Æolus called, iv, 74

Hircania, dogs of, xxxv, 355

Hire, Confucius on, xliv, 45 (i)

Hirtius, and Cicero, xii, 254; death of, 256

Hisbo, death of, xiii, 334

Hispaniola, Columbus on, xliii, 22, 24, 25; Drake in, xxxiii, 239-43; sheep in, x, 194

Hispulla, letter to, ix, 258

Historians, Dryden on, xviii, 7; Montaigne on, xxxii, 97-9; as teachers of virtue, xxvii, 15, 16, 19-22

History, Bacon on study of, iii, 122; Burke on use and misuse of, xxiv, 289; Carlyle on reading of, xxv, 365; Cervantes on, xiv, 71; Channing on study of, xxviii, 329, 336, 359; Comte's ages of, xxv, 104; Descartes on study of, xxxiv, 7-8; Emerson on, v, 11, 68, 71, 73, 93; Franklin's observations on, i, 89, 125; Freeman on science of, xxviii, 244; Goethe on study of, xix, 31-2; Hume on, xxxvii, 354, 359, 419; judgment and fancy in, xxxiv, 350; lessons of, xvi, 5; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 138, 153, 156, 157, 170; Montaigne on study of, xxxii, 44-7, 97; natural and civil, xxxiv, 359; organic and critical periods of, xxv, 103-4; Pliny on, ix, 305, 316; poetry and, compared, xxviii, 74; xxxix, 279-80; politics and, xxi, 446; Raleigh on, xxxix, 69-71, 113-14; repetitions of, ii, 249 (49), 268 (14), 281 (27); iii, 257-8; right reading of, xxvii, 380; Rousseau on business of, xxxiv, 196; Ruskin on study of, xxviii, 148-9; Taine on study of, xxxix, 410-37

History of civilization, reading course in, 1, 19-28

HISTORY OF THE WORLD, PREFACE TO, Raleigh's, xxxix, 66-115

Hive-Bees, instincts of, xi, 268-76

Hixom, Ellis, with Drake, xxxiii, 123, 143, 163, 166, 181

Hjalli, the thrall, xlix, 349, 412

Hjalprek, King, xlix, 281, 282

Hjordis, wife of Sigmund, xlix, 278, 279, 280, 281-2; wife of Alf, 283; remarks on story of, 250

Hnaef the Scylding, xlix, 34 note 5, 36 note 9

Hnikar, xlix, 289-91

Hobart Town, Darwin on, xxix, 450

Hobbes, Thomas, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 233; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277; Iliad, translation of, by, xxxix, 158; Leviathan burned at Oxford, v, 417; life and works, xxxiv, 308; Logic of, Mill on, xxv, 17; OF MAN, xxxiv, 311-417; on natural viciousness of man, 187-8; style of, v, 433

Hodbrod, King, xlix, 273, 275

Hodge, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, at Ralph's departure, xlvii, 473; at Eyre's, 480-3, 487-91, 497-501; at Old Ford, 503; before shop, 509-11; at Hammon's wedding, 521-7; at Eyre's dinner, 528-9, 535

Hoel, Renan on, xxxii, 162

Hofe, Jorg im, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 418, 421

Hoffman, M., xxvii, 102

Hogarth, on beauty, xxiv, 94; Fielding on, xxxix, 179

Hogg, James, poems by, xli, 756-69

Hogni, King, xlix, 273, 275, 361 note 2

Hogni, son of Giuki, xlix, 310; Atli and, 342-6, 408-10; in battle, 346-7, 348, 349, 411; Brynhild and, 322, 323, 336, 380-1; death of, 349, 412-13; Sigurd and, 313, 326-7, 328, 374-5, 391-2, 397-8, 419, 425 Hogs, price of, x, 189

HOHENLINDEN, xli, 781

Hold-the-world, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 104-8

Holidays, Herbert on sacred, xv, 403-4; Luther on, xxxvi, 308; Mill on, xxv, 27; in Utopia, xxxvi, 232

Holinshed, Raphael, his Chronicles, xxxv, 216; selection from Chronicles, 217-383

Holland, Burke on French invasion of, xxiv, 419-20; Burke on nobility of, 419; Goldsmith on, xli, 527-8; interest in, x, 93; republican government, importance of, to, 547-8; taxation in, 500-1; trade, attitude toward, in, 98

Holland, Lord, anecdote of, v, 189

Holland, Sir John, xxxv, 72

Holland, Sir Thomas, xxxv, n, 14, 16, 19, 24

Holly-trees, and bees, xi, 100

Holmes, Oliver Wendell, life and works, xxxviii, 222; Poems by, xlii, 1365-70; ON PUERPERAL FEVER, xxxviii, 223-53; editor's remarks on PUERPERAL FEVER of, 1, 40; SUN-DAY HYMN, xlv, 570

Holmes, Robert, i, 28, 50

HOLY CROSS, ROYAL WAY OF THE, vii, 253-7

Holy Communion (see Communion)

HOLY FAIR, THE, vi, 95-102

Holy Ghost, Calvin on the, xxxix, 49-50; Charlemagne on, xlv, 547-8; Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 415

HOLY GRAIL, THE, by Malory, xxxv, 105-214; Caxton on, xxxix, 23

Holy Grail, Don Quixote on quest of, xiv, 489; legends of the, xxxii, 163-6

Holy-man, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 282, 283

Holy Roman Empire, Luther on, xxxvi, 327-30

HOLY THING, THAT, xlii, 1118

Holy Things, Tsai Wo on, xliv, 11-12 (21)

Holy Thursday, Walton on, xv, 404

HOLY THURSDAY, xli, 590-1

HOLY TULYIE, THE, vi, 63-6

HOLY WILLIE, EPITAPH ON, vi, 73

HOLY WILLIE'S PRAYER, vi, 70-3

Holyoake, George Jacob, xxv, 224 note 3

Holystones, described, xxiii, 177

Homage, Pascal on, xlviii, 381

Home, Locke on education at, xxxvii, 50-5; prized first at evening, xix, 50; Ruskin on, xxviii, 145-6

HOME THEY BROUGHT HER WARRIOR DEAD, xlii, 973-4

HOME-THOUGHTS, FROM ABROAD, xlii, 1068-9

HOME-THOUGHTS, FROM THE SEA, xlii, 1069

Homer, accused of drunkenness, xxvii, 357; on agriculture, ix, 64-5; Aristophanes on, viii, 471; Arnold on, xxviii, 71-2, 79; Augustine, St., on, vii, 16-17; Bacon on, iii, 101; Burke on, xxiv, 127; Burke on similes of, 18; Caxton on, xxxix, 9; claimed by seven cities, xxvii, 37; Clauserus on, 50-1; on country life, 67-8; Dante on, xxxix, 352-3; the dramatists and, xiii, 5-7; Dryden on, 15, 24, 26, 33, 43; xl, 396; Emerson on, v, 144, 180-1; Greek theogony due to, xxxiii, 31-2; Fielding on, xxxix, 176; the fisherman and, iii, 322; Greek tragedies and, xxxix, 342, 347; Herodotus on time of, xxxiii, 32; heroes of, xxxix, 343; Hugo on, 340, 352, 253, 386; Hume on ethics of, xxvii, 204; intelligibleness of, xxxix, 248; Johnson on, 209; Keats on Chapman's translation of, xli, 895-6; Lang on, xxii, 335; life of, 3; in Limbo, xx, 19; the Margites of, iii, 200; Milton on, iv, 401; THE ODYSSEY of, xxii, oldest ballad singer, vi, 130 note; on Paris, xxxiii, 55-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 208 (628); Pliny on, ix, 271, 347-8; SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 127, 130; Shelley on, xxvii, 336-7, 342; Sidney on, 6, n, 36; Spenser on, xxxix, 62; Socrates on, ii, 29; universal admiration of, xxvii, 208; Virgil and, xiii, 5-6, 38-40, 46; xxxix, 157-9

Homologies, serial, xi, 454-6

Homologous Parts, xi, 148

Honest, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 174, 251-63, 269, 276-9, 280-1, 287, 305-8, 312,315

Honest Man, Burns on the, vi, 105, 511; "the noblest work of God," 139, 254; xl, 436

Honesty, Bacon on, iii, 8; forced, i, 387; fortune and, iii, 100; Hamlet on, xlvi, 130, 132; instruction in, xxxvii, 92; Kant on pure, xxxii, 309-10; Mohammed on, xlv, 916; want and, i, 91

Honeycomb, Will, xxvii, 86-7

HONOR, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 129-30

Honor, Burns on, vi, 204; commerce and, xli, 522; Dante on love of, xx, 309 note 25; Dryden on, xl, 394; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 361-9; Kempis on temporal, vii, 305-6; Lessing on, xxvi, 357; Pascal on, xlviii, 59-60 (147); Pliny on loss of, ix, 334; venerableness of, v, 67

Honors, Confucius on, xliv, 13 (5), 22 (15), 26 (13); desire for, the strongest of motives, xxviii, 94-5; More on worldly, xxxvi, 199; Pope on, xl, 435, 437; Raleigh on, xxxix, 91, 93, 96

Hood, Thomas, BRIDGE OF SIGHS, xxviii, 386-9; Poe on FAIR INES of, 384-6; Poe on The Haunted House of, 386; Poems by, xli, 905-11

HOOD, WILLIAM, EPITAPH ON, vi, 50

Hooke, saying of, v, 307

Hooker, General, xliii, 327, 413

Hooker, Thomas, on change, xxxix, 1856; Jonson on, xxvii, 56; language of, xxxix, 196

Hooker, Sir William J., on Australian species, xi, 134; on correlation in flowers, 149; Darwin and, 20; on descent of species, 17; on Galapagos species, 421-2; xxix, 400-1; on glacial period, xi, 400, 402; on ovules, 213-4; n sexes in trees, 106

Hope, allegory of, xx, 265 note n; American lack of, v, 54; Burns on, vi, 428; Coleridge on, xxv, 89; Dante on, xx, 393; Dante's star of, 177 note 9; Dryden on, xxxiv, 134; fear and, iv, 55; eternal fort of, xli, 491; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340, 365; life on a single, ii, 184 d6); in music, xli, 477; "never comes that comes to all," iv, 89; Penn on, i, 343 (235); Pope on, xl, 410, 422, 424; Shelley's Beatrice on, xviii, 354; sweetness of, viii, 186; whitehanded, iv, 50

Hope, Thomas, xxv, 319 note i, 341; Carlyle on Essay on Man of, 347-51

Hopeful, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 101, 110, 112-25, 127-8, 129-33, 136, 138-46, 156-65

Horace, accused of cowardice, xxvii, 357; on affecting the passions, xxiv, 52; on art of poetry, xxvii, 108; an astrologer, xxxix, 159; Augustus and, 164; on changes, xlviii, 119 note; cold baths of, xxxvii, 13; Dryden on, xiii, 51; Dryden on, epistles of, 12; Dryden on translators of, xviii, 17-18; Greek examples followed by, 19; on happiness, xlviii, 33 note 7; on himself, xxvii, 183; on instruction in taste, xxiv, 22; Locke on, xxxvii, 157; love of country life, xxvii, 69; Montaigne on, xxxii, 90; Newman on, xxviii, 53; on poetry, xxxii, 62; Sainte-Beuve on, 131; as a soldier, in; on terror caused by wonders of nature, xxiv, 58-9; Voltaire on, xxxii, 133

Horace, Duke, at Metz, xxxviii, 25; at Hesdin, 34, 36

Horatii, Dante on the, xx, 306 note 9

Horatio, in HAMLET, xlvi, on watch at Elsinore, 94-9; tells Hamlet of ghost, 104-6; on watch with Hamlet, 111-14; sworn to secrecy, 118-20; with Hamlet, told to watch king, 149-50; with

Hamlet after play, 156; on Ophelia, 176; letter from Hamlet, 183-4; with

Hamlet in grave-yard, 192-5; at Ophelia's funeral, 197; with Hamlet, hears of king's plot, 199-201; with Osric, 202, 203; on the wager, 204; at the duel, 207, 208-9; with Fortinbras, 209-10; in the original story, 92

Horatius, called Codes, xiii, 289

Horn, Cape, Darwin on, xxix, 216

Horn, Count, xix, 252

Hornbills, instinct of, xi, 284

HORNBOOK, DOCTOR, DEATH AND, vi, 74-9

Horner, Francis, and Edinburgh Review, xxvii, 224

Hornets, Harrison on, xxxv, 346

Horoscopy, defined, xxxiv, 381-2

HORSE AND Ass, fable of, xvii, 42-3

HORSE, HUNTER, AND STAG, fable of, xvii, 24

Horse (s), descent of, xi, 163-5; described in Job, xliv, 136; of England, Harrison on, xxxv, 326-7; in Falkland Islands, xxix, 196; used by Germans in augury, xxxiii, 98; grease disease of, xxxviii, 145, 147 note 3; Pugliano on, xxvii, 5; races of, xi, 33; remains of, in S. America, xxix, 135-6; S. American, how broken, 156-9; among the Tencterians, xxxiii, in; swimming power of, xxix, 148; why not sublime, xxiv, 56

Horsemanship, Locke on, xxxvii, 171; Pugliano on, xxvii, 5; Webster on, xlvii, 759

HORSES AND COCK, fable of, xxvii, 133

Hortensius, and Caesar, xii, 291; and Caius Antonius, brother of Mark Antony, 337; Cicero on, ix, 94; iii, 106; at trial of Murena, xii, 247; Verres and, 223

Hosea, prophecy of, xlviii, 228

Hoskins, Jane, i, 183-4, J 94

Hospitality, Emerson on modern, v, 51; of heroism, 125; Homer on, xxii, 2012; obligations from, i, 201, 245; Penn on, 328 (54); Socrates on, ii, 179 (181)

Hospitals, antiseptic treatment in, xxxviii, 266-7; i fl Utopia, xxxvi, 185-6

Host, Chaucer's, xl, 31-2

HOST, EPIGRAM ON A KIND, vi, 281

Hottentots, food of, xxviii, 409; sight of, xxxiv, 174

Houghton, Lord, SONNET, xlii, 1057-8

Hounds, Harrison on, xxxv, 350-1

HOUSE OF ATREUS, Æschylus's, viii, 7165; only extant tragic trilogy, 5; remarks on, 5-6

House-rent, taxes on, x, 488-95

House, George, i, 56

House of Commons, Burke on, xxiv, 182, 183, 189-90

House of Lords, Burke on, xxiv, 189

House of Representatives, xliii, 180-1, 182-3, 196-7; election of president by, 187, 196

Houses, Buddha on defects of, xlv, 581 note u; taxes, on transfer of, x, 505, 509; in Utopia, xxxvi, 176-7, 182

How CRUEL ARE THE PARENTS, vi, 532-3

How LANG AND DREARY is THE NIGHT, vi, 501

How LONG AND DREARY is THE NIGHT, vi, 300

How LOVE LOOKED FOR HELL, xlii, 1398-1401

How THEY BROUGHT THE GOOD NEWS, xlii, 1066-7

Howard, Charles, dedication to, xxxiii, 301-4

Howard, Elizabeth, wife of Dryden, xviii,

Howard, Gen., at Fredericksburg, xliii, 403; at Gettysburg, 330, 333, 336, 357, 358, 397-8; Haskell on, 358, 359, 398, 413

Howard, Henrietta, Countess of Suffolk, xl, 406

Howard, Henry, poems by, xl, 193-5

Howard, Sir Robert, xiii, 29

Howard, Lord Thomas, xlii, 1007

Howe, William, Burns on, vi, 51-2

Hreidmar, xlix, 284-5, 286

Hrethel, the king, xlix, 72-3

Hrethric, son of Hrothgar, xlix, 38, 55

Hrimnir, the giant, xlix, 259

Hrodland (see Roland)

Hrothgar, xlix, 7-8; banquet of, 32-9; Beowulf and, 13, 15-19, 23, 30-1, 33, 51-6, 60; daughter of, 60 and note; Grendel and, 9-11; Grendel's mother and, 40-5

Hrothglod, xlix, 428-9

Hrothmund, son of Hrothgar, xlix, 38

Hrunting, the sword, xlix, 45-6, 47 note, 50-i, 54

Hsien, xliv, 47 (19)

Huan of Chi, xliv, 47 (16, 17, 18) note 4

Huan Tui, xliv, 23 note 6

Huber, Pierre, on ants, xi, 264; on bees, 272-3; on caterpillars, 252; on Oxford, xxviii, 48-9

Huckster-Witch, in FAUST, xix, 177-8

Hudibras, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 147-8

Hudson, Hendrik, Emerson on, v, 81

Hugh, St., patron of shoemakers, xlvii, 481 note

HUGH OF LINCOLN: a ballad, xl, 81-3

Hughes, Mr., and Addison's Cato, xxvii, 165-6

Hugo, Victor, PREFACE TO CROMWELL, xxxix, 337-87; Taine on, 411; work of, 337 note

Huguenots, in France, xxxix, 83-4; Pascal on the, xlviii, 270 (775), 305 (874)

Hugues, of St. Victor, xx, 338 note 32

Hui (see Yen Yuan)

Human Body, in art, xxxix, 255-6, 258; beauty of the, v, 304, 307-8; cause of beauty of, xxiv, 79-80; Whitman on the, xlii, 1402; Whitman on the, in art, xxxix, 402

HUMAN FOLLY, xl, 327

Human Nature, Austin on pliability of, xxv, 112; benevolence in, i, 170; iii, 28; best studied in the family, xxviii, 341; Burke on study of, xxiv, 9, 46-8; Channing on, xxviii, 365; Channing on study of, 331-2; corruption of, vii, 326-7; education and, xxxvii, 85; Epictetus on, ii, 149 (86); goodness in, iii, 32-4; Hume on science of, xxxvii, 289-90; in laws, v, 246; love of appreciation in, ii, 223 (6); love of mankind in, 207 (4); malignity in, iii, 34; more foolish than wise, 31; Pascal on, xlviii, 41 (92, 93, 94), 42 (97), 50 (125-7); Pope on science of, xl, 406; represented by Prometheus, iii, 16; Schiller on, xxxii, 238-49; is social, ix, 38; three ideas of, xxviii, 308; truth the sovereign good of, iii, 8; uniformity of, xxxvii, 353-61; most virtuous when uncultivated, v, 280 (see also Nature in Men)

HUMAN SEASONS, THE, xli, 896-7

HUMAN UNDERSTANDING, AN ENQUIRY CONCERNING, xxxvii, 287-420

Humanists, Huxley on the, xxviii, 217

Humanity, Locke on development of, xxxvii, 103

HUMBLE-BEE, THE, xlii, 1246-7

Humble-mind, the damsel, xv, 224

HUMBLE PETITION OF BRUAR WATER, vi, 278-81

Humboldt, Alexander von, Darwin on Narrative of, xxix, 506; on earthquakes and the weather, 355-6; on granitic regions, xi, 330-1; on marshes, xxix, 369-70; Thoreau on, xxviii, 406 Humboldt, Wilhelm von, on individuality, xxv, 252; on liberty, 158; on marriage, 300-1; on public degrees, 305

Hume, David, Carlyle on philosophy of, xxv, 353-4; Emerson on, v, 438; ENQUIRY CONCERNING THE UNDERSTANDING, xxxvii, 287-420; Franklin and, i, 136; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277; life and works, 202; xxxvii, 288; Locke and, 4; Mill on, xxv, 38; in Parliament, 65; on rate of interest, x, 282; ON STANDARD OF TASTE, xxvii, 203-21; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 321 note

Humiliation, Valley of, xv, 59, 240-4

Humility, Bunyan on, xv, 75; Franklin's rule of, i, 80, 87; Goethe on, xix, 135; Jesus on, xliv, 393 (ii), 401 (14); Kempis on, vii, 207 (4), 211 (7), 240 (2), 250-1 (4), 251-2, 261-3, 266-8, 274-5; Pascal on discourses of, xlviii, 125 (377); Penn on, i, 334 (119), 348 (307), 382 (116), 392 (247); song on, xv, 242; Woolman on, i, 199

Humming-birds, in Chili, xxix, 276

Humor, Bagehot on, xxviii, 176-9; has only fancy value, xxxii, 345

Humorists, Thackeray on, xxviii, 7

Humors, the four, xl, 37 note 38; iii, 93 note

Humpback, story of the, xvi, 115-20, 190-2

Hunding, King, xlix, 272-3; sons of, 291, 292

Hundred, the, of the Germans, xxxiii, 96

Hungarians, and Turks, xxviii, 227-9

Hungary, Freeman on, xxviii, 270

Hunger, Homer on, xxii, 235; rebellions caused by, iii, 38; thirst and, powerful persuaders, iv, 275

Hunn, Conrad, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 416, 417, 423-4

Hunt, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 379

Hunt, James Henry Leigh, DEATHS OF LITTLE CHILDREN, xxvii, 285-8; dedication to, xviii, 273; in Hazlitt's discussion, xxvii, 277, 279-80; life and writings, 284; POEMS by, xli, 870-1; REALITIES OF IMAGINATION, xxvii, 289-95

Hunt, William, Woolman on, i, 309

Hunter, Anne, poem by, xli, 581

Hunter, John, axiom of, xxxviii, 206 note 2

Hunter's Song, from WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 380-1

Hunting, Harrison on, xxxv, 343; Locke on, xxxvii, 175; More on, xxxvi, 200-1; Pascal on, xlviii, 54

HUNTING SONG, by Fielding, xli, 501-2

HUNTING SONG, by Scott, xli, 750

Hunting Song, from WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 428

Huntingdon, Earl of, in Crecy campaign, xxxv, 10, 13

Hurlame, King, xxxv, 183

HUSBAND, THE, AND THE PARROT, xvi, 33-5

Husband-honorer, story of, xlv, 693-6

Husbandry (see Agriculture)

Husbands and wives, Oberon's counsel to, xix, 184; Paul, St., on, xlv, 498; Ruskin on, xxviii, 144-6; Tennyson on, xlii, 980; understanding of, xxviii, 283-4

Huskisson, and free trade, xxv, 65

Huss, John, Browne on, iii, 278-9; Luther on, xxxvi, 317-18; rise of, iii, 196; Woolman on, i, 222-3; Wyclif and, iii, 223

Hussites, Luther on the, xxxvi, 320

Hutcheson, Francis, and Adam Smith, x, 3; on moral sense, xxxii, 352 note

Hutchinson, Mrs., Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279

Hutchison, W. G., translator of Renan, xxxii, 135

Huxley, Thomas Henry, life and works of, xxviii, 208; SCIENCE AND CULTURE, 209-23; on species, xi, 17

Huygens, and Hartsocher, xxxiv, 126

Hyacinth, and Apollo, iv, 18-19 (4); reference to, xli, 860

Hyacinth, flower, for constancy, vi, 407; Milton on the, iv, 74

Hyades, the rainy, xlii, 977; Virgil on the, xiii, 145

Hyarba, and Dido, xiii, 159-60

Hybernation (see Hibernation)

Hybreas, and Antony, xii, 339

Hybridism, xi, 285-318

Hyde Park Affair, Mill in, xxv, 178-9

Hydra, digestion of the, xi, 185; reference to, iv, 82

Hydrogen, its affinity for oxygen, xxx, 139-40; Faraday on, 47-9, 50-3; Helmholtz on, 202-4; production of, 120-4, J 34"5; water produced by combustion of, 126; weight of, 124-5, X 37

Hydrophobia, origin and spread of, Darwin on, xxix, 357-8

Hydrostatic Paradox, the, v, 268

Hydrostatics, Pascal on, xlviii, n

Hygd, Queen, xlix, 58, 59, 64, 70, 91 note

Hygelac in BEOWULF, xlix, 57, 59, 64, 65; death of, 65 note 3, 70, 84; historical basis of, 3-4; kinsman of Beowulf, 17, 47; Ongentheow and, 86; the ring of, 38-9

Hylas, and Hercules, xlvi, n, 28; reference to, xlvii, 742

HYLAS, NYMPH'S SONG TO, xlii, 1194-5

HYLAS AND PHILONOUS, DIALOGUES OF, xxxvii, 187-285; remarks on, 186

Hyllus, death of, xiii, 408

Hymen, references to, iv, 33, 334

Hymettus, reference to, iv, 401

HYMN, by Addison, xl, 400

HYMN BEFORE SUNRISE, xli, 707-9

HYMN OF CLEANTHES, ii, 186-7

HYMN TO DIANA, xl, 299

HYMN TO GOD THE FATHER, xl, 304

HYMN ON THE MORNING OF THE NATIVITY, iv, 7-15

Hymns, of Christian Church, xl, 533-72; Augustine, St., on, vii, 146-7; Herbert on, xv, 400-1

Hypanis, Virgil on, xiii, 111-12, 114

Hyperbolus, Aristophanes on, viii, 456; banishment of, xii, 85; ostracism of, 115-16

Hyperides, the orator, ix, 205 note 2; death of, xii, 214; Demosthenes and, 201

Hyperion, reference to, xx, 382

Hypermnasstra, and Lynceus, viii, 198 note

Hypocrisy, in Burn's HOLY FAIR, vi, 97; Fielding on, xxxix, 180; Jesus on, xliv, 385-6 (37-44), 386-7 (1-3); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 208 (7); Milton on, iv, 152; Mohammed on, xlv, 981; in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 43-6; in religion, vi, 95-6; Webster on, xlvii, 765

HYPOCRITE, THE, by Moliere, xxvi, 199-296

Hypocrites, in Dante's HELL, xx, 95-7; Moliere on, xxvi, 213-15, 280

Hypotheses, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 196-7

Hypsipyle, and Jason, xx, 75; in Limbo, 237 note 8; Lycurgus and, 252 note

Hythloday, Raphael, xxxvi, 88, 135, 137 et seq.; Peter Giles on, 241, 243

I

I Do CONFESS THOU ART SÆ FAIR, vi, 431

I DREAMED A LAY, vi, 21

I FEAR T KISSES, xii, 828

I GÆD A WÆFU' GATE YESTREEN, vi, 356-7

I HÆ A WIFE o' MY AIN, vi, 307

I HÆ BEEN AT CROOKIEDEN, vi, 421

I LO'ED NE'ER A LADDIE BUT ANE, xii, 576-7

I LOVE MY LOVE IN SECRET, vi, 343-4

I LOVED A LASS, xl, 331-2

I MURDER HATE, vi, 378

I PROMESSI SPOSI, Manzoni's, xxi

I REIGN IN JEANIE'S BOSOM, vi, 316

Iacchus, hymn to, viii, 451; song to, in THE FROGS, 448-9

Iadmon, master of JEsop and Rhodope, xxxiii, 67

Iago, Macaulay on, xxvii, 377-8

Iambic Poetry, Sidney on, xxvii, 26

Iapis, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 403-4

Iasion, and Demeter, xxii, 71

Iasius, born in Italy, xiii, 133

Ibis, sacred in Egypt, xxxiii, 37; described, 40

Iblis, name of Satan, xvi, 9 note; xlv, 918 Ibn-' Abbas, companion of Mohammed, xvi, 153 note

Ibn Hankal, on Sogd, v, 125-6

Ibn Roschd, xx, 20 note

Ibn-Sina (see Avicenna)

Ibrahim, the sheykh, xvi, 210-24

Icarius, father of Penelope, xxii, 17, 66

Ice, structure of compressed, xxx, 239-40, 246-8; expansive power of, 116-19; pliability of, 236-9, 246-7; regelation of, 233, 243-5; snow transformed to, 234-5; temperature of, affected by pressure, 231-2

ICE AND GLACIERS, by Helmholtz, xxx, 211-48

Icebergs, Dana's description of, xxiii, 297-8, 311-12; action of, on rocks, xxix, 256 note; use of, in disseminating seeds, xi, 392-3

Iceland, birds of, xxix, 253; Christianity in, xxxii, 171, 175

Iceland Spar, crystallization of, xxx, 31-2; effect of, on polarized light, 34-5

Ictinus, builder of Parthenon, xii, 50

Idaeus, in Hades, xiii, 223

Idealism, Berkeley's, xxxvii, 189-285; Emerson on, v, 44, 153, 435

Idealist, in FAUST, xix, 188

Ideals, Lowell on, xiii, 1380, 1382, 138-45; xxviii, 460

Ideas, abstract (see Abstract Ideas); association of, xxxvii, 304-5, 327-9, 330, 331; Berkeley on reality of, 189-285; Channing on, xxviii, 333-5; defined byHume, xxxvii, 299-300; defined by Locke, 303 note; Descartes on reality of, xxxiv, 29, 34; Goethe on exchange of, xxxix, 252-3; Hume on origin of, xxxvii, 301-3, 336-7, 349-50; Innate, Hume on, 303 note; Plato on, ii, 93-5; power of originating, xxxvii, 341-2, 344; Relations of, 306; Rousseau on general, xxxiv, 183-4, 250-1; test of, xxxvii, 302-3, 337

Ides, of March, xii, 315

Idiots, in Limbo, iv, 147-8; Mohammed on care of, xlv, 968 note 4

Idleness, Caxton on, xxxix, 5-6, 13-14; as a crime, xxv, 294; discontentment and, i, 141; More on, xxxvi, 180-1; Penn on, i, 328 (57); Smith on, x, 263-5

Idol, fable of the, xvii, 27

Idolatry, David on, xliv, 158 (4); Lessing on, xxxii, 186; Milton on, iv, 344-5; Mohammed on, xlv, 915, 916, 917, 918; Pascal on, xlviii, 325; Paul, St., on, xlv, 501 (4-5)

Idomeneus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 132, 141, 365

Idomeneus, historian, on Pericles, xii, 46

Idris, Mohammed on, xlv, 911

Idyllic Poetry, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 298-9

IF DOUGHTY DEEDS, xli, 531-2

Ignatius, and the lions, xv, 265; and Trajan, ii, 312 and note

Igneous Rocks, production of, xxxviii, 393-4, 395, 4*8

Ignis, Fatuus, in FAUST, xix, 168-9; Milton on, iv, 276

Ignorance, Augustine, St., on, vii, 28; is bliss, xl, 450; Epictetus on, ii, 138-9 (63); Hindu Krishna on, xlv, 853-4, 864, 869; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 373-4; karma depends on, xlv, 625, 661-2, 667-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 113 (327); Penn on, i, 321; Socrates's three kinds of, xxxix, ii

Ignorance, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 126-7, 146-51, 164-5

Iguana, Vespucci on the, xliii, 38 note

IL PENSEROSO, iv, 34-8; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 299

Ilia, mother of Romulus and Remus, xiii, 82

Iliad, Arnold on selections from the, xxviii, 71-2; Burke on heroes of the, xxiv, 126-7; Dryden on, xiii, 14-15; editorial remarks n, xxii, 3-4, 6; Mill on the, xxv, 12; Pascal on, xlviii, 208 (628); Poe on, xxviii, 372; Thoreau on, 413

Ilioneus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 77, 91-3, 94, 246-7, 312

I'LL AYE CA' IN BY YON TOWN, vi, 518

I'LL Go AND BE A SODGER, vi, 36

I'LL MEET THEE ON THE LEA RIG, vi, 443

Illumination, cause of, from flame, xxx, 106-11, 157

Illuminato, Dante on, xx, 338 note 31

Ill-will, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 291

Illyrians, the modern Albanians, xxviii, 264

Ilus, son of Mermerus, xxii, 16; in Hades, xiii, 229

I'M O'ER YOUNG TO MARRY YET, vi, 295-6

Imagery, Burke on, xxiv, 51

Images, Calvin on, xxxix, 36-7; Jamblichus on, v, 166-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 325-6; not allowed in Utopia, xxxvi, 233

Imagination, Bagehot on the, xxviii, 1778; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 256, 268; Burke on, xxiv, 8-9, 16-22; Descartes on train of, xxxiv, 318-22; Emerson on, v, 173, J 77, 308-9; fancy and, xxxix, 301; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 313-18; Hume on, xxxvii, 299, 300, 324-5, 417; Kant on, xxxii, 345; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 245 (17), 247 (29); Mill on, xxv, 96; Pascal on, xlviii, 35-9; reason and, xxvii, 351, 353; Renan on, xxxii, 143, 182; Schiller on, 290; Shelley on, xxvii, 329; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 301-9, 332

IMAGINATION, REALITIES OF, xxvii, 289-95

Imitation, Bacon on, iii, 29; Burke on passion of, xxiv, 43-4; Coleridge on, xxvii, 257; Emerson on, v, 38-9, 60, 79; fable of, xvii, 43; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 364; Jonson on, xxvii, 56; in nature, xi, 224-5, 445-6; pleasure and pain from, xxxix, 223; power of, among savages, xxix, 211

IMITATION OF CHRIST, vii, 201-364, remarks on, 200; 1, 30

Immanuel's Land, xv, 58-9, 122-3

Immaterialism, advantages of, xxxvii, 279-80; possible objections to, 281-2

Immodesty, Epictetus on, ii, 124 (23), 164 (130)

Immorality, commentaries on, xxxix, 173-4

Immortality, Arnold on unbelief in, xiii, 1138-9; Browne on, iii, 258 (7), 289-90, 291; Browning on, xiii, 1081; Buddha on question of, xlv, 647-52, 675-6; Burns on, vi, 316, 373; Carlyle on, v, 323; Cicero on, ix, 13, 72-4; Dante on certainty of, xx, 314; Descartes on, xxxiv, 47-8; Egyptian belief in, xxxiii, 62; Emerson on, v, 237, 293, 304; Franklin on, i, 77, 90; Hindu idea of, xlv, 791-2; Hume on, xxxvii, 399-400; Lessing on belief in, xxxii, 189-92, 195, 197-8, 200; Marcus Aurelius on possibility of, ii, 215 (21), 249 (50); More on, xxxvi, 196-7, 227; Omar Khayyam on, xli, 952, 955-6; Pascal on question of, xlviii, 70-1, 80 (218-20); Paul, St., on, xlv, 511 (1255); Penn on, i, 362 (487-502); Rousseau on, xxxiv, 262-5; Shelley on, xli, 861; Socrates on, ii, 29, 59-63, 68-73, 78-81, 84-103; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 1056; Xenophon on, ix, 73-4

IMMORTALITY, ODE ON INTIMATIONS OF, xli, 595-600

Impact, heat produced by, xxx, 196-7; mechanical effects of inelastic, 196-7

Impartiality, Penn on, i, 355-6

Impeachments, in United States, xliii, 181 (5), 182 (6, 7), 189 (4)

Imperatives, defined, xxxii, 324; hypothetical and categorical, 325; of skill, prudence, and morality, 325-49; possibility of categorical, 363-5, 371, 373 Imperfection, Pope on, xl, 409, 410, 412, 414

Impetuosity, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 82

Implacable, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Importation, of instruments and materials encouraged, x, 405-10; restraints on, 330, 332-52, 353-70, 424

Impossibilities, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 228 (17)

Impostors, in Dante's HELL, xx, 123-6

Imposts, under U. S. Constitution, xliii, 184 (i), 186 (2)

Impressions, of childhood, xlviii, 38; defined by Hume, xxxvii, 300; the basis of ideas, 301-2, 336-7, 349-50

Imprisonment, Pascal on, xlviii, 53-4

Improvement, Goethe on spirit of, xix, 354, 356, 367; Penn on, i, 343 (227-32); Rousseau on faculty of, xxxiv, 175-6; Woolman on, i, 214

Impudence, defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 342

Impulses, Mill on, xxv, 254

Imran's Family, chapter of, xlv, 949-66

In Cccna Domini, papal bull, xxxvi, 292 note 21

Ina, and Peter's Pence, xxxiv, 89

Inachus, river-god, viii, 76, 189 note

Incas Bridge, in the Andes, xxix, 338

Incarnation, Pascal on the, xlviii, 170

Incivility, Locke on, xxxvii, 119-23

Inclination (s), of children, xxxvii, 56-8, 83-5, 87-8, 90-1; Goethe on following, xxxix, 264-5; defined by Kant, xxxii, 325 note; distinguished from propensities, xxxii, 336 note

Income (see Revenue)

Incomprehensible Truths, Pascal on, xlviii, 140, 431-2

Inconsiderate, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 296

Inconsiderate, Mrs., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 187

Inconsistency, Emerson on, v, 61, 65-6; Lowell on, xxviii, 441 (see also Consistency)

Inconstancy, Pascal on, xlviii, 47 (no), 48 (112)

INCONSTANCY IN LOVE, vi, 502 Incontinence, in Dante's HELL, xx, 21-4; in PURGATORY, 249-50

Incorporatio, defined, xxxvi, 283-4

Increase, of organic beings, xi, 73-6; checks to, 76-9

Incredulity, Heraclitus on, xii, 183

Incrustations, Darwin on, xxix, 18-19

Incubators, in Utopia, xxxvi, 173

Incubus, invoked by Faust, xix, 56

Incurables, in Utopia, xxxvi, 209

Independence, Emerson on, v, 64, 65, 67, 68, 73-4; of heroism, 130; verses on, by Burns, vi, 307

INDEPENDENCE, INSCRIPTION FOR ALTAR OF, vi, 526

INDEPENDENCE AND RESOLUTION, xli, 658-62

Independence of Circumstances, Epictetus on, ii, 121 (14), 123 (19, 20), 126 (25), 127 (31), 130 (38), 133 (49), 168 (141), 169 (144), 170 (145), 171 (148), 172 (151), 180 (187), 180 (188); Kempis on, vii, 213-14, 240, 243-4, 295, 307-8, 322; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 201 (7, 9), 208 (6), 211 (16), 212 (3), 222 (2), 228 (18, 19, 20), 230 (29), 231 (35, 36), 234-5 (16), 245 (16), 247 (29), 250 (55), 252 (67, 68), 258 (32), 259 (35), 260 (41), 261 (45, 47), 262 (51), 268 (13, 15), 271 (31, 32), 279 (13), 282 (32, 33), 288 (ii), 294 (i, 2), 295 (3)

Index, of Roman Church, iii, 196

Indexing, Swift on, xxvii, no-n

India, British rule in, v, 469; cause of early civilization of, x, 25-6; rates of interest in, 96; under the mercantile company, 74-5; religion, philosophy, and art of, xxxix, 430-1; shells as money in, x, 28; wealth of, ancient, 295

INDIAN AIR, LINES TO AN, xli, 828-9

Indian Mutiny, incident of, xlii, 1183

Indian Summer, description of, v, 223

Indians, Bacon on barbarism of, iii, 136; Chilian, xxix, 280, 283, 302-4; civility of, xxxvii, 126-7; Columbus on, xliii, 22, 23-4, 25-6; under control of Congress, 163-4, *84 (3); drunkenness among, 144; Eliot on Christianity among, 138-46; fires, method of making, among, i, 141-2; houses of ancient, xxix, 360-1; medicines of, xxxv, 240; myths of, xvii, 7; Norsemen and (see Skrellings); Peruvian, xxix, 362, 371-2; poets of, xxvii, 8; religion of, iii, 43; v, 276; xl, 410; rum among, i, 115-16, 258; on servants, 394 (268); S. American, xxix, 71-2, 75-6, 79-80, 107-8, 174, 361, 374-5; Vespucci on, xliii, 3144; Woolman's visit to, i, 255-70 Indictments, in U. S., xliii, 194 (5) Indifference, Buddha on, xlv, 598-9, 658, 712, 728-9; Burke on, xxiv, 34; in Dante's HELL, xx, 14-15, 219; Epictetus on, ii, 119 (8), 133 (51); Hindu teaching of, xlv, 791, 796, 8ll, 855; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 202 (n, 12), 203 (14), 211 (i), 214 (8, 15), 219 (39), 220 (49), 228 (20), 229 (23), 238 (32), 239 (41), 242 (52), 243 (3), 245 (14), 247 (27, 31), 254 (4), 257 (20), 261 (46), 268 (17), 269 (28), 279 (I 5), 280 (22, 23), 283 (34), 289 (16); Pascal on, xlviii, 75-7, 77 (200), 80 (217); Penn on, i, 357; Tennyson on, xlii, 1020; Whitman on, xxxix, 394-5

Indignation, Drake on, xxxiii, 129; Eliphaz on, xliv, 77 (2) note i; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 340; language of, 344-5

Individual, Franklin on power of the, i, 91; state and, ii, 228 (22), 242 (54); v, 248

Individual Differences, Darwin on, xi, 55-8, 87-99

Individuality, Channing on, xxviii, 333; Cicero on, xlviii, 121 note 7; democracy and, xxviii, 466-7; Emerson on, v, 22-3, 114, ii/ 18, 128-9, 186-7; Epictetus on, ii, 119 (8), 120 (9); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 220 (49), 222 (3), 245 (15); Mazzini on, xxxii, 380; Mill on, xxv, 157-8, 203-9, 250-89; Schiller on need of, xxxii, 223 (see also Selfreliance)

Induction, Bacon on, xxxix, 133-4, 136; Mill on, xxv, 101

Indulgence, Locke on, xxxvii, 27-9, 31-2

Indulgences, sale of, xxxvi, 281 note; 287 note 16, 299 note; Dante on sale of, xx, 410 note 7; Luther on, xxxvi, 247, 251-9, 315-16

Industrial Problems, Smith on solution of, x, 3-4

Industrial Schools, proposed by Ticknor, xxviii, 367

Industries, domestic, capital naturally seeks, x, 332-5; infant, protection of, 336-7

Industry, climate and, xxxiv, 177-8; foodsupply in relation to, x, 84-5; Franklin on, i, 59, 75-6, 85, 91; Franklin's rule of, 79, 80; Huxley on, xxviii, 222; paper money in relation to, x, 234-5, 247, 250-2; Penn on, i, 328, 343; quantity of, on what dependent, x, 233, 262-3, 332-3; wages in relation to, 83

INEQUALITY, ON THE, AMONG MANKIND, xxxiv, 165-228

Inequality, Emerson on, v, 101; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 408-9; immortality and, xxxii, 191; More on, xxxvi, 167-8, 236-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 125-6 (380); Penn on, i, 393 (255-8); Pope on, xl, 431-2

Inertia, of matter, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 313; Hume on, xxxvii, 345-6 note; Kelvin on, xxx, 302

INES, FAIR, xli, 905-7

Inexperience, Hippocrates on, xxxviii, 5

Infallibility, Pascal on, xlviii, 305 (876), 306 (880)

Infancy, Augustine, St., on, vii, 9-11; Locke on impressions of, xxxvii, 9, 27, 32-3; nonconformity of, v, 61; Pope on, xl, 425; Wordsworth on, xli, 596-7

INFANT, ON AN, DYING AS SOON AS BORN, xli, 736-8

Infatuation, Buddha on, xlv, 669; freedom from, 670-1

INFERNO, Dante's, xx, 5-144

Infinite Divisibility, Hume on, xxxvii, 413-14 note

Infinities, in geometry, xxxiv, 125-6; Hume on, xxxvii, 413 note

Infinity, artificial, xxiv, 62-3; Burke on, 52-3, 65; Burke on sublimity of, 62-3, 111-14; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 321-2; Kelvin on, xxx, 258; Pascal on, xlviii, 27-8, 49-50 (121), 78 (206), 83 (231-3), 429-37

Infusoria, in air of St. Jago, xxix, 15; on surface of ocean, 24-7

Inga, emperor of Guiana, xxxiii, 321

Ingaevones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 93

Ingcel, the One-eyed, xlix, 205, 210-14, 215-16, 217-46

Ingeld, and Freawaru, xlix, 60 note, 61 note

Ingenhousz, Dr., xxxviii, 172

Ingenuity, Penn on, i, 343 (229)

Ingenuousness, Locke on, xxxvii, 114

Ingolf, the Norseman, xliii, 5

Ingratitude, Cervantes on, xiv, 184; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 407; Shakespeare on, xl, 268; Shakespeare on, of children, xlvi, 237-8, 268; Sheridan on, xviii, 169

Inheritance, Bacon on riches by, iii, 88, 90; Burke on principle of, xxiv, 172; Emerson on, v, 49, 241; freedom of, in BODY OF LIBERTIES, xliii, 68 (10); in Massachusetts, 77 (81), 78 (82); Mill on, xxv, 143-4; Mohammedan laws of, xlv, 968-70, 971, 984; Pascal on, xlviii, 378-9 (see also Heredity)

Inheritance Taxes, Smith on, x, 506, 508

Injuries, Browne on, iii, 319-20; Epictetus on repaying, ii, 153; Franklin on resenting, i, 79; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 372, 393; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 10; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 229 (25), 236 (20), 289 (18); Penn's maxim on, i, 348 (298); Socrates on, ii, 37-8

Injustice, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 393, 401-6, 409-10; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 264 (i); Pascal on, xlviii, 79 (214), 151 (454); Socrates on, ii, 38

Innate Ideas, Hume on, xxxvii, 303 note; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 104-5

Inner Life, admonitions concerning the, vii, 238-57

Inner Light, Kempis on the, vii, 258; Woolman on, i, 174, 175-6, 194, 214, 224, 248-9

INNER VISION, THE, xli, 672-3

Innis, anecdote of, i, 152-3

INNKEEPER, NICKNAMED "THE MARQUIS," vi, 499

Innocence, Goethe on, xix, 135; Marvell on, xl, 377; Sheridan on consciousness of, xviii, 165-6; virtue and, i, 358 (443-4)

INNOCENCE, AUGURIES OF, xli, 586-90 Innocent VI, and King John, xxxv, 34 Innocent, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 201

Innocent, Mount, xv, 291

Innovation, Bacon on, iii, 61-2; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 265; Burke on spirit of, xxiv, 171-2; Galius on, xxxv, 315 note; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 8, 20-1; Penn on, i, 343 (230-1); reform contrasted with, xxiv, 391; Smith on, xxvii, 239; Washington on, xliii, 240

Inns of the Court, xxxv, 379-80

Ino, in the BACCHÆ, viii, 399, 421; in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 76

Inoculation, Franklin on, i, 96; extended by Pasteur, xxxviii, 270; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 93-7; Woolman on, i, 237-8 (see also Vaccination)

Inquiry, Bacon on, xi, i; Bacon's method of, xxxix, 132-40; 143-6; Browne on, iii, 264-5; Burke on, xxiv, 7-9, 46-8; Buddha on useless subjects of, xlv, 647-52; Carlyle on, xxv, 320, 346; Channing on, xxviii, 325; Emerson on, v, 20-1 ; Hobbes on ends of, xxxiv, 346-7; 374-5; judgment and fancy in, 350-1; Hume on limits of, xxxvii, 418-20; Kempis on, vii, 262 (4), 363 (i, 2), 364 (5); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 209 (n), 232 (3), 243 (4), 247 (30), 255 (n), 284 (37), 300 (29); Penn on, i, 338, 386 (164); Plutarch on improper love of, xii, 35

Inquisition, censorship of press by the, iii, 193, 196, 198; Galileo and, xxxiv, in; in the Netherlands, xix, 257; Pascal on the, xlviii, 315

Inquisitiveness, of children, xxxvii, 104-7; Horace on, xxvii, 32 note 33

Insects, color of, xi, 139; flowers and, 99-100, 101-2, 104-5; Harrison on, xxxv, 346-7; hearts in, xxxviii, 85, 86, 130; imitation among, xi, 224-5, 446-8; luminous, 188, 190; neuter and sterile, 278-83; phosphorescent, xxix, 38-9; respiration in, xxxviii, 134-5; at sea, xxix, 164-5; wings of, developed from trachea:, xi, 187

Insensibility, Pascal on, xlviii, 77 (197-8)

INSENSIBILITY, HAPPY, xli, 875-6

Insight, Confucius on, xliv, 38 (6)

Insincerity, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 204 (16)

Inspiration, Emerson on, v, 28-9, 43, 59, 70; Epictetus on, ii, 134 (53); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 354; Pascal on, xlviii, 91 (245); Plutarch on, xii, 177-8; Quaker doctrine of, xxxiv, 70-1

Instaevones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 93

INSTAURATIO MAGNA, PREFACES TO, xxxix, 116-42; editorial remarks on, 3

Instigation, Mill on liberty of, xxv, 250, 295-7

Instinct, Burke on, xxiv, 406; Darwin on, xi, 251-84; Emerson on, v, 69-70; of giant crab, xxix, 466-7; Hume on, xxxvii, 374; Pascal on, xlviii, 117 (344), 129 (396), 441; Pope on, xl, 413, 424-5; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 268-9 note

INSTITUTES, DEDICATION OF CALVIN'S, xxxix, 27-51

Institutions, Burke on sudden changes in, xxiv, 290; Emerson on, v, 10, 68, 190

Institutions, Public, expense of, x, 452-67

Instruction, Emerson on, v, 237; Epictetus on need of, ii, 156 (105); expense of public, x, 463-4

Instructions, in Slough of Dispond, xv, 19-20

INSTRUMENT OF GOVERNMENT, THE, xliii, 106-17

Instruments, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 238-9; Smith on, x, 218, 405, 422

Insurance, Smith on, x, no

Insurance Corporations, x, 461-2

Insurrections, congressional control of, xliii, 185 (15)

INTEGER VitaE, xl, 286-7

Integrity, Franklin on, i, 87

Intellect, Archytas on, ix, 59; beauty and, xxxii, 266-7, 272 ; Carlyle on unconsciousness of high, xxv, 322; Channing on the, xxviii, 323, 324, 326; Emerson on the, v, 135, 190, 281, 282; good, marred and evil, xlv, 869; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 349-59; love and, xlviii, 415-16; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 213 (4); as measure of organization, xi, 129-30; Pascal on, xlviii, n, 12 (7), 125 (378), 275; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 245-7

Intellectual Growth, Emerson on, v, 137-8

Intelligence, three scales of, xxxvi, 75-76

Intemperance, taught to children, xxxvii, 30; fruits of, iv, 331; Luther on, xxxvi, 332-3; a tyranny, xlvi, 375; Woolman on, i, 196-7 (see also Drunkenness)

Intention (s), Kant on, xxxii, 305-13; Kempis on purity of, vii, 298 (2); Locke on, xxxvii, 103; James Mill on, xxv, 35-6

Interbreeding, Darwin on close, xi, 103, 134, 304

INTERCOURSE, TRUTH OF, by Stevenson, xxviii, 277-84

Intercrossing, compared with change of conditions, xi, 303-4; importance of, 53; necessity of, 103-7; reciprocal, 294-5; between species, 285-305; species kept true by, 109; varieties, how affected by, 98-9, 107-9

Interdicts, Luther on, xxxvi, 269 note 4

Interest (ethical), as source of errors, xlviii, 38-9; as basis of friendship, ix, 27; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 269, 374; Kant on, xxxii, 325 note, 359 note, 370 note

Interest (monetary), defined, x, 53; in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 299-300; unknown among ancient Germans, xxxiii, 107; legal regulation of, x, 2845; Luther on, xxxvi, 331-2; in early Massachusetts, xliii, 70 (23); Penn on, i, 337; price of land dependent on rate of, x, 286; rates of, historically considered, x, 91-2, 96; rate of, on what dependent, 280-2; rate of, affected by taxes on profits, 504-5; rate of, due to insecurity, 97-8; rate of, determines building rent, 488; rates of, as index of profits, 98; taxes on, 496-7 (see also Usury)

Intermediate Varieties, absence of, xi, 169-75; i n geological formations, 332-40

Intermitting, Burke on, xxiv, 70-1, u112

International Law, offences against, xliii, 184 (10)

International Relations, Washington on, xliii, 243-8

Interpreter, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 32-41, 202-12

Interruptions, Bacon on, iii, 63; Locke on, xxxvii, 125, 126 Interstate Commerce, xliii, 184 (3), 185 (6)

INTIMATIONS OF IMMORTALITY, xli, 595-600; Mill on, xxv, 95

Intolerance, Mill on, xxv, 37, 226-8; in politics, Hamilton on, xliii, 201

Introspection, Burke on value of xxiv, 9

Introversion, Emerson on, v, 20

Intuition, Emerson on, v, 59, 62, 69; Mill on doctrine of, xxv, 168-9; Mill on knowledge by, 141; Pascal on, xlviii, 41 (95) 99-iQO, 143 (434)

Intuitive Mind, Pascal on the, xlviii, 9-12

Invective(s), Browne on religious, iii, 256; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 350; Luther on, xxxvi, 337; Swift on, xxvii, 115

Inventions, monopolies of, in BODY OF LIBERTIES, xliii, 68 (9); Emerson on, v, 81; Franklin on patenting, i, 112; Penn on, 343 (230-2); profits of, x, 61-2; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 100-1; Woolman on, i, 214-5

Inventors, honors for, Channing on, xxviii, 357-8; in New Atlantis, iii, 180-1

INVENTORY, THE, vi, 186-8

INVERARY, THE BARD AT, vi, 272

INVEREY, in THE BARON OF BRACKLEY, xl, 119-21

Investigation (see Inquiry)

Investitures, Luther on, xxxvi, 294

Investments, Smith on imprudent, x, 269

INVICTUS, xlii, 1210

INVITATION, THE, by Shelley, xli, 843-4

INVITATION, APOLOGY FOR DECLINING AN, vi, 513

INVITATION, EXTEMPORE REPLY TO AN, vi, 460

INVITATION, VERSIFIED REPLY TO AN, vi, 201

INVOCATION, by Shelley, xli, 825-7

Inward Consolation, Kempis on, vii, 258-334

Io, in PROMETHEUS BOUND, viii, 187-98

Iodine, vapor of, xxx, 43

Iolas, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 379, 409

Iole, Dante on, xx, 323; on Hercules, v, 184

Ion, on Pericles, xii, 39

Ionian Sea, named from lo, viii, 197

Ionians, in Egypt, xxxiii, 77-8, 82

Iopas, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 99 Iophon, son of Sophocles, viii, 208, 303, 441

Iphicles, th kine of, xxii, 152

IPHIGENEIA, by Landor, xli, 903-4

Iphigenia, yEschylus on sacrifice of, viii, 15-16; Dante on, xx, 303; Landor on, xli, 903-4; Lucretius on, iii, 14; Ruskin on, xxviii, 142

Iphimedeia, in Hades, xxii, 152

Iphitus, son of Eurytus, xxii, 284-5; i n sack of Troy, xiii, in, 115

Iquique, town of, xxix, 365-7

Iras, Cleopatra and, xii, 368, 387; in ALL FOR LOVE, xv' '. 39-40, 72, 75, 89, 90, 102-4

Ireland, candle-eating in, xxxv, 354; Christianity in, xxxii, 170, 171, 172, 173-81; Emerson on, v, 341; epic literature of, xlix, 198; Freeman on, xxviii, 258, 266; Mill on, xxv, 146, 180-1; Newman on, xxviii, 50; poetry in, xxvii, 7-8, 117-21; Renan on, xxxii, 137, 140; woolen manufactures of, x, 195-6

IRELAND, THE FAIR HILLS OF, xli, 921-2

Irenaeus, St., on early converts, xxviii, 37-8; Milton on, iii, 203

IRESON'S RIDE, xlii, 1357-60

Iris, Juno and, xiii, 46, 177; Milton on, iv, 46, 71, 325; in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 445-7, 448

Irish, cold baths among the, xxxvii, 13; Thackeray on the, xxviii, 16 (see also Celtic Races)

Irish Channel, tides in, xxx, 288

IRISH EMIGRANT, LAMENT OF THE, xli, 919-20

Irish Rebel, story of the, iii, 98-9

Iron, beginnings of use of, xxxiv, 206; More on, xxxvi, 191; combustion of, in oxygen, xxx, 138; action of, on water, 120-2

Iron Brigade, at Gettysburg, xliii, 326 note, 330, 331

IRON HENRY, tale of, xvii, 47-50

IROQUOIS INDIANS, TREATY WITH, xliii, 229-32

Irresolution, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 366-72

Irrevocable Laws, fallacy of, xxvii, 229-35

Irus, the beggar, Ulysses and, xxii, 245-8

Irving, Edward, Carlyle and, xxv, 315

Isaac, son of Abraham, xliv, 436 (8); Augustine, St., on, vii, 187; Mohammed on, xlv, 910; Pascal on, xlviii, 201

Isabella, Queen, of Castile, on forms, iii, 125; Raleigh on, xxxix, 85, 86

Isabella, Queen of Edward II, her griefs, xlvi, 15, 21-2; sues for Gaveston's recall, 21-5; reconciled to king, 26-7; at Gaveston's return, 31-4, accused by king, 38; in Tynemouth, 40-2; sent to France, 49, 55, 56-9; return with Mortimer, 61-4; Edward on, 69, 71, 72; her triumph with Mortimer, 73; her part in king's death, 74-5; with Prince Edward, 76-82; at death of Kent, 82; accused of king's murder, 87; committed to Tower, 88-9

Isaeus, Demosthenes and, xii, 194; Pliny on, ix, 213-14

Isaiah, Augustine, St., on, vii, 145; Burns on, vi, 138; prophecy of Eucharist, xlviii, 349; murder of xlv, 914 note

Isauricus, Servilius, xii, 295

Iscantinaro, Cesare, xxxi, 206-7

Iselastic Games, ix, 415 note

Iseult, Renan on, xxxii, 142

Ishmael, xlii, 1310; Mohammed on, xlv, 911

Isidore, Archbishop of Seville, xx, 329 note 26

Isis, the Egyptian Demeter, xxxiii, 79; Herodotus on, 26, 34; temple of, at Memphis, 87; Milton on, iv, 14, 100; as Suevian goddess, xxxiii, 97-8

Islam, xlv, 951, 956 (see also Mohammedanism)

Islands, species of oceanic, xi, 413-25

Isle of France, Darwin on, xxix, 486-9

ISLES OF GREECE, xli, 812-15

Ismael the Sophy, beauty of, iii, 106

Ismarus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 326

Ismene, in ANTIGONE, viii, 256-8, 272-4; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 237; in CEoipus THE KING, viii, 253-4; in PHÆDRA, xxvi, 148-51

Ismenias, Plutarch on, xii, 36

Isocrates, Demosthenes and, xii, 194; Logos Arepagiticos of, iii, 184, 191; old age of, ix, 50; oration for son of Alcibiades, xii, 115; on oratory at feasts, xxxii, 55; school of, iii, 244; on teachers, x, 136

Isodorus, C., slaves of, ix, 374 note 2

Isolation, Cicero on, ix, 38; Emerson on, v, 73, 208; Kempis on need of, vii, 322-3; qualities of mind due to, xxviii, 171-2, 186-7, I 95 species in regard to, xi, 109-10

Israelites (see Jews)

Ister, Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 22

IT WAS A' FOR OUR RIGHTFU' KING, vi, 491-2

Italian Classics, xxxii, 122

ITALIAN ESSAYS, xxxii, 377-396

Italian Language, change in, xxxix, 202; Milton on study of, iii, 242; Sidney on, xxvii, 50

Italian Literature, Arnold on, xxviii, 75; Taine on, xxxix, 436

Italicus, Silius, Pliny on, ix, 236-7

Italy, Alfieri on, v, 331, 346; two civilizations of, xxxix, 424; Dante on distractions of, xx, 168-9; Goethe on art of, xxxix, 259-60, 265-6; Goldsmith on, xli, 522-4; Harrison on, xxxv, 223, 311; named Hesperia of old, xiii, 92, 133; language as factor in reuniting, xxviii, 256-7; Louis XII in, xxxvi, 1315, 24; Macaulay on mediaeval, xxvii, 366-76, 382; Machiavelli on princes of, xxxvi, 78-9; Machiavelli's plea for freedom of, 83-6; mercenaries in, 43-4; papal power in, 276-7; politics of, after Charles VIII, xxvii, 387-8; Renaissance in, 1, 23; Taine on mediaeval, xxxix, 424; Turner on travels in, xxxv, 378; Virgil on ancient, iii, 76

Ithaca, Homer on, xxii, 61, 115

Ithacus (see Ulysses)

Ithuriel, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 174-5

Itinerant Preachers, Franklin on, i, 103; Penn on, 359 (461)

Itylus, and Philomela, xx, 213 note; Homer on, xxii, 270

ITYLUS, by Swinburne, xlii, 1201-3

Iulus (see Ascanius)

Ivon, and Ivor, xlix, 158, 167, 174

IVY GREEN, THE, xlii, 1147-8

Ixion, Æschylus on, viii, 140, 151; Virgil on, xiii, 228

Iwarawaqueri, the, xxxiii, 354, 356, 358

J

Jackson, Lidian, second wife of Emerson, v, 3

Jackson, Stonewall, and Barbara Frietchie, xlii, 1363-4

Jacob, and the angel, xlii, 1304; Augustine, St., on, vii, 187; Bunyan on dissimulation of, xv, 260; Milton on, iv, 148, 324, 345; Mohammed on, xlv, 910-11, 922, 926-9; Pascal on, xlviii, 201, 203, 237; the Psalmist on, xliv, 275 (10), 276 (23); Stephen on, 436 (8, 12, 14-16)

Jacob's Ladder, Bunyan on, xv, 237

JACOBITE'S EPITAPH, A, xli, 917

JACOBITES, YE, BY NAME, vi, 420-1

Jacobs, Joseph, compiler of JEsop's Fables, xvii, 9

Jacobus de Benedictis, hymn by, xlv, 5535

Jael, Sisera and, iv, 439; xv, 58

Ja'far, vizier of Harun Er-Rashid, xvi, 60-1, 62, 63, 64, 65, 99-100, 215-18, 220, 221, 228, 229-3O

Jaguar, flesh of the, xxix, 122; habits of, 140-1

Jairus, the daughter of, xliv, 376 (41-2), 377 (49-56)

Jamaica, disturbance in, xxv, 181-4

James, St., the Great, xliv, 366 (10-11), 368 (14), 377 (51), 379 (28), 380 (54), 424 (13), 448 (2); disillusionment of, ii, 324; in Dante's

PARADISE, xx, 391-4; on faith, ii, 342

James, St., son of Alphaeus, xliv, 368 (15), 424 (13), 455-6 (13-21)

James II, of Aragon, xx, 369 note 14

James I, King of England, Bacon to, xxxix, 119-20; Bentham on, xxvii, 2289; Bohemia and, xv, 346-7; Dr. Donne and, 339-40, 342, 343, 347. 348; Harvey and, xxxviii, 60; George Herbert and, xv, 381, 382-3, 384, 386; marriage bed of, x, 275; Andrew Melvin and, xv, 381-2; Puritans and, xxvii, !35 J 36; Raleigh on, xxxix, 78-80; charter to Virginia, xliii, 49-58

James II, Bentham on abdication of, xxvii, 235; Burke on, xxiv, 162-3, 166 and note; Dissenters and, xxvii, 137; William Penn and, xxxiv, 77

James I, of Scotland, xlii, 1153-78; his imprisonment in England, xxxv, 272

James, king of Majorca, xx, 369 note 13

James, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 220, 224, 228, 245, 253, 259, 274, 287

James, Abel, letter of, to Franklin, i, 68

James Island, Darwin on, xxix, 380-1

JAMIE, COME TRY ME, vi, 343

Jan Yu, xliv, 10 (6) note 4, 15 (7) note 5, 19 (6, 10) notes 10 and 13, 22 (14)' 33 (2), 34 (12, 16) note ii, 35 (21, 23) notes 19 and 22, 36 (25) note 24, 43 (14) note 2, 54 (i) note 6

Jane, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 473, 475-6, 499, 505-9, 512, 522-5

Janizaries, Bacon on, iii, 52 and note

Jann, species of genii, xvi, 9 note

Jansenists, xlviii, 5; Pascal on the, 302 (865), 307 (887)

Jansenius, Cornelius, xlviii, 5, 288 (834)

Janus, Milton on, iv, 322; Virgil on, xiii, 83, 245, 260

Jarjaris, the 'Efrit, xvi, 74-8, 80-1, 84-7

Jason, son of JEson, in Dante's HELL, xx, 75

Jason, brother of Onias, xx, 79 note 5

Jason, the Christian, xliv, 460 (5-9)

Java, Drake at, xxxiii, 223-4

Jaws, and limbs, related, xi, 148

JAY AND PEACOCK, fable of, xvii, 19-20

Jay, John, article in the FEDERALIST, xliii, 203-7

Jealousy, Æschylus on, viii, 38; Bacon on, of husbands, iii, 22; Campion on, xl, 286; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; Dryden on, xviii, 71; Eliphaz on, xliv, 77 (2); music and, xli, 477; Pascal on, xlviii, 164 (502); Penn on, i, 341, 388; rage and, xxxiv, 353

JEAN, THY BONIE FACE, IT is NA, vi, 316

Jefferson, Thomas, author of DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, xliii, 150 note; the Mecklenburg Declaration and, 156 note

Jeffrey, Francis, Carlyle and, xxv, 316; Edinburgh Review and, xxvii, 224

Jehoshaphat, Last Judgment in, xx, 40 note i

Jehovah, name of God (see JOB, BOOK OF, and PSALMS)

Jellaladeen, parable of, xxviii, 460

Jemimah, daughter of Job, xliv, 141

Jenner, Edward, life and works, xxxviii, 142; ON VACCINATION, 143-220

Jenner, Henry, xxxviii, 154, 160-1, 202, 211, 216

Jenner, Rev. G. C., xxxviii, 213-14

JENNY KISS'D ME, xli, 870

Jephthah, Dante on, xx, 303; daughter of, xlvi, 136; Milton on, iv, 382, 421

Jeremiah, Burns's paraphrase of, vi, 24; Calvin on, xxxix, 42; worshipped in Egypt, 35; imprisonment of, xlv, 914 note; Pascal on, xlviii, 209; Woolman on, i, 194

Jeremy, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 247

Jeroboam, Bunyan on, xv, 309

Jerome, St., apparition of, iii, 199; on angels, xx, 408 note i; on idleness, xxxix, 13-4

Jerome of Prague, xxxvi, 317

Jerusalem, Dante on destruction of, xx, 232 note 5, 311 note 6; Jesus on, xliv, 392 (34-5) 404-5 (41-4); Jews on situation of, v, 334; lament over destruction of, xliv, 244-5; Pare' on destruction of, xxxviii, 31; Pascal on ruin of, xlviii, 217-8 (654); prayer for peace of, 307-8; prophecy of destruction of, xliv, 408 (20-4); temple of, washed with alum, xxxv, 319; Woolman on wickedness of, i, 206

JERUSALEM, THE GOLDEN, xlv, 549

JESSIE, THE FLOWER o' DUNBLANE, xli, 593-4

Jester's Song, from JOLLY BEGGARS, vi, 125-6

Jesting, Bacon on limits of, iii, 83; clumsy, no joke, xvii, 15; with malice, Sheridan on, xviii, 120

JESU, DULCEDO CORDIUM, xlv, 550-1

JESU, DULCIS MEMORIA, xlv, 550

Jesuits, Bacon on cunning of, iii, 57; miracles performed by, 279-80 (27); Pascal on, xlviii, 7, 298, 299 (854), 302 (865), 306 (882), 309 (891), 310-11 (902), 314 (919), 315

Jesus, apostles of, xliv, 368 (13-16); baptism of, 362 (21-2); birth of, 358 (7); birth of, hymns on, eclipse at death of, iii, 281 (29); Bunyan on, xv, 143; Calderon on death of, xxvi, 24; centurion and, xliv, 371 (2-10); Chaucer on language of, xl, 31; circumcision of, xliv, 358 (21); circumcision of, Milton on, iv, 40-1; coming of the Lord, xliv, 388-90 (35-59), 399 (22-37), 400 (8), 408 (8-11), 409 (25-36); Dante on darkness at death of, xx, 409-10; cures demoniacs, xliv, 379 (38-43), 384-5 (14-26); heals dropsy, 392 (1-6); Emerson on, v, 2930, 66, 68, 141, 144, 147. 153, 197; feasts in commemoration of, xv, 403-4; feeds five thousand, xliv, 378 (11-17); the fig-tree and, xxxv, 133; Francis, St., on love of, xlv, 556; Franklin on, i, 80; Gadarene miracle, xliv, 375-6 (27-39); genealogy of, 362 (23-38); Herod and, 377 (7-9); Hume on miracles of, xxxvii, 375; infirm woman cured by, xliv, 390-1 (11-17); Jairus's daughter raised by, 376 (41-2); Jerusalem, entry into, 404-5 (28-44); Jerusalem, foretells destruction of, 408 (20-4); John the Baptist and, 372; Kempis on cross of, vii, 251; Kempis on loving, 245-6; Lamb on, xxvii, 280; last supper, xliv, 410 (14-37); lepers healed by, 366 (12-15), 399 (II ' I 9); lullaby for infant, xl, 256-60; MacDonald on, xlii, 1118; Martha and Mary with, xliv, 383 (38-42); Mary Magdalene and, 373 (37-5 o); Mill on persecution of, xxv, 219-20; Mill on teachings of, 244; miraculous draught of fishes, xliv, 3656 (4-11); Mohammed on, xlv, 910, 953-4, 966, 983-4, 999, 1002, 1005-6; More on teachings of, xxxvi, 165-6; palsied man healed by, xliv, 366-7 (1826); parable of fig-tree, 390 (6-9); parable of Good Samaritan, 382-3 (25-37); parable of great supper, 393 (15-24); parable of the importunate widow, 400 (1-5); parable of Lazarus, 397-8 (19-31); parable of lost sheep, 394 (3-7); parable of marriage feast, 392-3 (8-11); parable of old and new garments and wines, 367 (36-9); parable of the Pharisee and publican, 400-1 (9-14); parable of piece of silver, 394-5 (8-10); parable of prodigal son, 395-6 (11-32); parable of rich man, 387 (16-21); parable of sower, 374 (4-15); parable of ten servants, 403 (11-26); parable of unjust steward, 396-7 (1-13); parable of vineyard, 405-6 (9-18); in PARADISE REGAINED, iv, 359 et seq.; Pascal on, xlviii, 80 (222-3), 175-8, 180 (554), 263 (744), 273-4 (786-92), 275; Pascal on miracles of, 280-1 (808-13), 285 (826), 286-7 (829), 288 (834), 289-90 (838, 839), 292-3, 294; passion and death, xliv, 411-16; passion of, Milton on, iv, 23-5; Paul, St., on resurrection of, xlv, 511 (3-11); Peter and, xliv, 412 (55-62); Peter on, 426-7 (22-36), 428, 430 (10-12); Pharisees and, 385-6 (3744), 397 (M-17); plato and xxvii, 346; teaches prayer, xliv, 383-4 (1-13); public ministry, 363-409; resurrection of, 416-17; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 301; on the Sabbath, xliv, 368 (1-11), 3901 (14-16), 392 (1-6); Sadducees and, 406-7 (27-40); casts sellers out of temple, 405 (45-6); sermon on the mount, 369-70 (20-49); sends out seventy disciples, 381-2 (1-24); Shelley on, xxvii, 345; Sidney on parables of, 18; storm stilled by, xliv, 375 (22-5); temptation of, 362-3 (1-13); transfiguration of, 379 (29-36); on tribute money, 406 (22-6); xxxvi, 370; Watts on, xlv, 537-8; Wesley on, 559-60; widow of Nain and, xliv, 371 (11-17); on the widow's mite, 407 (1-4); women and, 374 (2-3); xv, 266; Woolman on, i, 279-80; Zacchaeus and, xliv, 402-3 (1-10) (see also Christ)

Jethro, daughter of, xlii, 1097

Jetter, in EGMONT, xix, 253-9, 271-7, 296-301, 316-17

Jevons, on Herodotus, xxxiii, 6

JEWISH PHYSICIAN, story of the, xvi, 1429

Jews, Browne on the, iii, 277-8 (25); in England, v, 346; German, cold baths of, xxxvii, 13; Justine on the, in Egypt, iii, 281; Lessing on the, xxxii, 186-97; Lowell on the, xxviii, 458-9; Luther on the, xxxvi, 301, 311, 317, 331, 333; Milton on history of the, iv, 345-51; Mohammed on the, xlv, 9024, 913-14, 921, 942, 954, 957, 982-3, 995, 998-9, 1001-2; in New Atlantis, iii, 167; orange-tawny worn by, 101 note; permanence of the, v, 338; Pascal on the, xlviii, 187, 192 (592), 203 (618), 204-9, 210-11 (633), 211-13, 216 (645-6), 219-20 (662-4), 222-3 (670-1), 224-5, 234 (701), 235 (7024), 236-7, 238 (713), 243 (714), 256-7, 258-9 (735), 260, 262-3 (745-50), 266-7 (759-63), 269 (774), 280 (808), 284 (822), 286-7 (829), 349; in Roman Empire, ii, 312; Winthrop on commonwealth of the, xliii, 90

Jezebel, Raleigh on, xxxix, 70

JHANSI, IN THE ROUND TOWER AT, xlii, 1183

Jinni, defined, xvi, 9 note

Joab, Edomites and, xliv, 215; Winthrop on, xliii, 95

Joabin, merchant of New Atlantis, iii, 167

Joachim, Abbot of Flora, xx, 339 note 38

Joan of Arc, burning of, xxxix, 359; education of, xxviii, 153-4; Renan on, xxxii, 154-5

Joanna, wife of Chuzas, xliv, 374 (3), 416 (10)

Job, Browne on, iii, 295 (44), 317; Burke on, xxiv, 406; Milton on, iv, 362, 368, 385; Pascal on, xlviii, 65 (174)

JOB, THE BOOK OF, xliv, 71-141; compared with Æschylus, viii, 5;

Burke on passages from, xxiv, 54, 56-7; editorial remarks on, xliv, 70; 1, 18-19, 29; Hugo on, xxxix, 353; Lessing on, xxxii, 191; Pascal on, xlviii, 261 (741); Shelley on, xxvii, 332

Jocasta, in (Eoipus THE KING, viii, 228-32, 236-8, 240-1, 246-8; called Epicaste, xxii, 151

JOCK OF HAZELDEAN, xli, 741

JOCKEY'S TÆN THE PARTING Kiss, vi, 544

Joel, prophecy of, xliv, 425 (16-17), 426 (18-21)

Johannes Parricida (see John of Suabia)

John, St., disciple of Jesus, xliv, 366 (10n), 368 (14), 377 (50, 379 (28), 380 (49, 54), 410 (8-13), 424 (13), 428 (i), 429-30; apocalypse of, iv, 154; v, 176; vi, 138; on the Eucharist, xlviii, 349; Gospel of, translated by Faust, xix, 54; Milton on, iii, 231; in PARADISE of Dante, xx, 394-7, 422 note 7; in Samaria, xliv, 439 (14-16), 440 (17-25)

John, St., of Damascus, hymn by, xlv, 543

John, called Mark, xliv, 449 (12), 450 (25), 450 (5), 451 (13), 457 (37-9)

JOHN BAPTIST, SAINT, by Drummond, xl, 326

John the Baptist, birth prophesied, xliv, 353 (13), 354 (M-17); birth of, 356 (57-63); childhood in desert, 357 (80); Dante on, xx, 238, 365 note 12, 420; Herod and, xliv, 361 (19), 362 (20), 377 (9); Jesus and, 371 (18-19), 372 (20-8); Kempis on, vii, 362 (3); Milton on, iv, 359-60, 363-6; Mohammed on, xlv, 908, 909, 914 note 4; Pascal on, xlviii, 264 (752), 272 (784); Paul, St., on, xliv, 451 (24-5); preaching of, 360 (2-4), 361 (5-18)

John XXI, Pope, xx, 338 note 34

John XXII, Pope, xx, 400 note 8; annates established by, xxxvi, 278 note

John of Austria, xxxix, 87

John, King of Bohemia, in Crecy campaign, xxxv, 12, 17, 22, 28-9

John of Burgogne, xxxix, 85

John, King of England, Bertrand and, xx, 118 note; Cistertians and, xxxv, 255-6; fowling laws of, 334; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 89

John, King of France, Black Prince and, xxxv, 54, 55-6, 58; capture of, 51, 589; cardinal of Perigord and, 39-42; at Poitiers, 34-9, 47-8, 48-50; prisoner in England, 221

John of Gaunt, and Chaucer, xxxix, 163

John of Hainault, in EDWARD II, xlvi, 57-9, 62

John, King of Portugal, xxxix, 86

John, Duke of Suabia, xxvi, 424 and note; murders Emperor, 478; as monk in WILLIAM TELL, 482-8

John the Swede, in Two YEARS BEFORE THE MAST, xxiii, 33-4, 42, 100, 101-3, 107, 126, 397

JOHN ANDERSON, MY Jo, vi, 345

JOHN BARLEYCORN: A BALLAD, vi, 3940

JOHN GILPIN, THE DIVERTING HISTORY OF, xli, 546-54

JOHNIE ARMSTRONG, xl, 101-3

JOHNIE LAD, COCK UP YOUR BEAVER, vi, 414

Johnson, Andrew, PROCLAMATION OF 1866, xliii, 426-31

JOHNSON, ESTHER, ON DEATH OF, xxvii, 122-30

Johnson, Esther, and Swift, xxviii, 8, 9, 14, 23-6, 27-8; xxvii, 90; Thackeray on, xxviii, 23-4; on Vanessa, 27

Johnson, Samuel, LIFE OF ADDISON, xxvii, 155-99; Carlyle on, xxv, 409; LETTER TO CHESTERFIELD, xxxix, 206-7; PREFACE TO DICTIONARY, 182-206; editorial remarks on works of, 182 note; 1, 478; Emerson on, v, 355, 438-9; Goldsmith to, xviii, 201; on Gower, xxviii, 77; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 268, 272-3; ON ROBERT LEVET, xli, 503-4; life and works of, xxvii, 154; on Milton, xxviii, 206; xxxix, 319-21; on PARADISE LOST, xxviii, 203; paraphrase on Proverbs, xxxix, 294-5; parody by, xxxix, 288-9; on persecution, xxv, 221-2; on Percy's Reliques, xxxix, 325-6; on Pope, 322; on primogeniture, v, 414; A SATIRE, xli, 504; PREFACE TO SHAKESPEARE, xxxix, 208-50; style of, v, 21 ; as biographer of Swift, xxviii, 8-9; Thackeray on, 9; Wordsworth on Prefatory Lives of, xxxix, 330

Johnson, Sir William, treaty with Senecas, xliii, 230

Joint-stock Companies, x, 460-3

JOLLY BEGGARS, THE, vi, 122-34; Arnold on, xxviii, 88; editorial remarks on, vi, 17

JOLLY GOOD ALE AND OLD, xl, 190-2

Jonadab, son of Rechab, xliii, 96

Jonah, Ninevites and, xliv, 385 (30, 32)

Jonakr, King, xlix, 336, 353, 354, 384, 418

Jonas, ancestor of Launcelot, xxxv, 151

Jonathan, David, and, xli, 486; Saul and, xliii, 104

Jones, Owen, Renan on, xxxii, 138

Jones, Paul, and Franklin, i, 165

Jones, Sir William, poems by, xli, 579-80

Jonson, Ben, THE ALCHEMIST, xlvii, 541-664; ON BACON, xxvii, 56-7; BEAUMONT'S LETTER TO, xl, 319-21; on beauty, xxviii, 410; Devil is an Ass, by, xxvii, 387; Explorata of, 54; Fielding on, xxxix, 180; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 276-7; life and works, 54; xlvii, 540; poems by, xl, 290-303; ON SHAKESPEARE, xxvii, 55

Jordan, Thomas, LET Us DRINK, xl, 3645

Jorge, Alvaro, xxxiii, 315 note

Jormunrek, King, xlix, 336, 354, 355-6, 357-385. 418, 428, 429

Josaphat (see Jehoshaphat)

Joseph of Arimathaea, xliv, 416 (50-3); in Holy Grail legend, xxxv, 118-19, 137, 151, 205, 212

Joseph, husband of Mary, xliv, 354 (27), 357 (4), 362 (23); xl, 260

Joseph, Kaiser, as Count Lorraine, xxv, 427

Joseph, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 228-9, 245, 247, 282, 287

Joseph, son of Jacob, Chaucer on dreams of, xl, 43; the harlot and, v, 66; xv, 72, 85; Locke on story of, xxxvii, 133; Mohammed on, xlv, 922-30, 933; Pascal on, xlviii, 207 (623), 234 (698), 237, 268 (768); the Psalmist on, xliv, 276 (17-22); Stephen on, 436 (9-15)

JOSEPH ANDREWS, PREFACE TO, xxxix, 176-81

Josephus, silence of, on Christ, xlviii, 273 (787); on Jewish Law, 205-206, 209, 211 ; Pascal on, 208 (629); on spirits, xli, 686 note

Joshua, Gibeonites and, vii, 303 (2); Milton on, iv, 348, 349; one of nine worthies, xxxix, 20; in Paradise, xx, 362; Pascal on, xlviii, 207 (627)

Joule, James Prescott, law of conservation and, xxx, 175-6; on mechanical equivalent of heat, xxx, 198; on expansion of gases, 199

Jourbert, THE GERM THEORY, xxxviii, 269, 364-70

JOURNAL OF JOHN WOOLMAN, i, 169-312

Journalism, Franklin's ideas of, i, 92-3

JOURNEY ONWARDS, THE, xli, 820

JOURNEYS IN DIVERSE PLACES, xxxviii, 9-58; remarks on, 8

Jousts, Bacon on, iii, 96

Jove, in the JNEID, xiii, 82-3, 121, 160-1, 200-1, 321, 325, 342, 417-18; Alcmena and, xl, 242; Amalthea and, iv, 161; Augustine, St., on, vii, 17-18; bird of, iv, 323; Danae and, xlvi, 55; Leda and, xl, 230; Maia and, 242; Milton on, iv, 166, 273 (see also Jupiter)

Jowett, Benjamin, translator of Plato, ii

Joy, Augustine, St., on, vii, 122, 178; Blake on, and grief, xii, 588; Chaucer on, xl, 45; of Christians, Pascal on, xlviii, 354-5; Confucius on, xliv, 55 (5); contrasted with relief from pain, xxiv, 34

Joy, Goethe on, xix, 126; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 340-2; Jonson on unshared, xl, 293; in music, xii, 478-9; Shakespeare on, and grief, xlvi, 153; son of Cupid and Psyche, iv, 71

Joyeuse, sword.of Charlemagne, xlix, 177

Joyous Friars, the, xx, 96 note 4

Juan Fernandez, Dana on, xxiii, 43-9; earthquake at, xxix, 314

Juba, Plutarch on, xii, 306-8, 388

Juba, in Cato, xxvii, 187, 189, 193-55 son of, xii, 308

Jubal, Dryden on, xl, 389

Jubilees, Papal, xxxvi, 299 note

Judaea, Christian Church in, xliv, 443 (30

Judah, tribe of, xliv, 243 (68)

Judaism, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 383-4; Lessing on, xxxii, 186-96; Pascal on, xlviii, 195-6 (601-3), 197-200, 223 (673), 224 (675), 371; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 294-5

Judas, called Barsabbas, xliv, 456 (22, 27), 457 (32)

Judas, son of James, xliv, 368 (16), 424 (13)

Judas of Galilee, xliv, 434 (37)

Judas Iscariot, xliv, 368 (16), 409-10 (3-6), 412 (47-8), 424 (16-20); St. Brandan and, xxxii, 148; Bunyan on, xv, 109, 309; in Dante's HELL, xx, 142; death of, iii, 275; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 280; Pascal on, xlviii, 271 (780); tilting with Jesus, xx, 227 note 13

Judges, Bacon on, iii, 130-4; Burke on elective, xxiv, 338; Epictetus on, ii, 184 (8); Heraclitus on, 135 (54); marriage of, iii, 21; in Massachusetts, xliii, 69 (20); righteous, in Paradise, xx, 363-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 108 (307); pay of, x, 451-2; Pliny on, ix, 279; Shelley on false, xviii, 302; Socrates on, ii, 24; Tseng-tzu on, xliv, 65 (19); United States, xliii, 189; Winthrop on discretionary power of, 91-105

Judgment, Burke on standards of, xxiv, ii; Dante on hasty, xx, 342-3; intellect and, xlviii, 12; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 346, 349-50, 351-2; human and divine, vii, 296 (5), 311; Kempis on rash, 217-18; Massinger on, xlvii, 929; Penn's rule of, i, 385-6; necessary to poets, xxxix, 297; Pascal on, xlviii, 126 (381, 383); Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 245-7; sentiment compared with, xxvii, 205-6, 216; taste and, xxiv, 22-6; wit compared with, i, 339 (171-3); xxiv, 17

Judgment Day (see Last Judgment)

JUDICATURE, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 1304

Judicature, expenses of, x, 450-2, 465; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 410-11; in U. S., xliii, 194 (5), 194-5 (6), 195 (7, 8); in Utopia, xxxvi, 212-13

Judicial Penalties, Winthrop on, xliii, 90-IOO, 101, IO2, 103, 104-5

Judicial Power, of U. S., xliii, 189-90, 195 (n)

Judicial Proceedings, in Massachusetts, xliii, 69-74, 77 (76)

Judith, the Jewess, in Paradise, xx, 419

Judith, wife of Louis Debonnaire, xxxix, 82

Jugglery, Woolman on, i, 271-2

Julia, mother of Antony, xii, 322, 336

Julia, daughter of Caesar, xii, 275, 284; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20

Julia, wife of Marius, xii, 267

Julia, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, wife of Castruccio, her jests, xlvii, 758-9; with Cardinal, 783-5; with Delio, 785-6; with Pescara, 832; on Bosola, 837; with Bosola, 838-41; last scene with Cardinal, 841-3

Julian, St., patron saint of hospitality, xl, 20 note 178

Julian, Emperor, at Athens, xxviii, 60; laws against Christians, vii, 124; iii, 199

Julianus, death of, xxxvi, 64; Machiavelli on, 67

Julienne, name of Bramimonde, xlix, 195

Juliers, Duke of, xxxv, 101

Julius II, Pope, his aggrandizement of the papacy, xxxvi, 39-40; auxiliaries of, 45; Caesar Borgia and, 28; economy of, 52-3;

Ferrara and, 8; impetuosity of, 81-2; Luther and, 264, 336

Julius III, Pope, Cellini and, xxxi, 385; election of, 383 note i

Julius, Caius, the physician, xxxii, 14

Julius, the centurion, xliv, 481 (i, 3)

JULLANAR OF THE SEA, Story of, Xvi, 326-40

JUNE, Bryant's, xlii, 1219-20; Poe on, xxviii, 380-1

Junior, letter to, ix, 337

Junius, author of Letters, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 274

Junius, etymologist, Johnson on, xxxix, 187-8

Junius, Franciscus, xxvii, n

Junius, governor of Asia, xii, 265

Juno, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 75-6, 88-9, 121, 155-6, 198, 204, 249-50, 322-24, 343-4394-5, 417-9, Hercules and, iii, 198 and note; Iris attendant of, xiii, 46; goddess of marriage, 154; xl, 244; in the TEMPEST, xlvi, 447

Juno Ludovici, Schiller on the, xxxii, 252

JUNO, PEACOCK AND, fable of, xvii, 24

Junto, Franklin's, i, 57-9, 96-7

Ju Pei, Confucius and, xliv, 60 (20)

Jupiter, adulteries of, xxxiv, 367; attendants of, xiii, 46; Briareus and, iii, 40; Emerson on fable of, v, 92; infancy of, viii, 373; Juno and, iv, 167; Metis and, iii, 53 (see also Jove)

Jupiter, Dante's sixth Heaven, xx, 363-4

Jupiter Ammon, worship of, xxxiii, 26

Jurassic Period, in Europe, xxx, 250

Jurfalez, son of Marsil, xlix, no, 158

Juries, arbitrary damages of, xliii, 91; Pliny on, ix, 206

Jurisprudence, Burke on science of, xxiv, 231; Descartes on, xxxiv, 8; Goethe on, xix, 80; Marlowe on, 207, 209; Milton on study of, iii, 242; Pascal on, xlviii, 104

Jurors, in Massachusetts, xliii, 73 (49, 50); private offences of, 74 (61)

Jury Trial, in Massachusetts, xliii, 70 (29), 70-1 (30), 71 (31), 77 (76); right of, 148 (7); in U. S., 190, 194-5 (6), 195 (7)

Just, in MINNA VON BARNHELM, xxvi, 299-305. 307-12, 321-3, 327-30, 370, 374

Justice, Æschylus on, viii, 143, 151; Burke on, xxiv, 219, 289; among children, xxxvii, 91-2; Dante on divine, xx, 3667; Dante's star of, 146 note 5; Dennis on poetical, xxvii, 186; distributive and commutative, iii, 329; Emerson on, v, 156, 186-7; expense of administration of, x, 450-2, 465; Franklin's rule of, i, 79; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 401-7, 409; human and divine, xlviii, 83 (233); Manzoni on, xxi, 52; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 287 (10), 341-2; More on, xxxvi, 213; of nature, v, 26, 90; Pascal on, xlviii, 38, 103 (294), 105-6 (297-9), 108 (309), 109 (312), 124 (375) 35 (878); Penn on benefit of, i, 387-8; Penn on delays of, 354-5 (390-4); Penn's maxim of, 337; Plutarch on, xii, 83-4; Pope on origin of, xl, 429; Shakespeare on human, xlvi, 295; story of statue of, xlii, 1308-9; Winthrop on, xliii, 92-3, 97

Justification, Bunyan on, xv, 27, 213-14; Calvin on, xxxix, 49; Ignorance's idea of, xv, 149-50; Luther on, xxxvi, 346-78 Justin of Val Ferre"e, xlix, 137

Justina and St. Ambrose, vii, 146

Justinian, Dante on, xx, 168, 305-6; Marlowe on Institutes of, xix, 207

Justin Martyr, Apology of, ii, 309-10, 312, 313

Justus, Fabius, letter to, ix, 197

Justus, Titus, xliv, 462-3 (7)

Juturna, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 394-5, 397-9, 405, 406, 417, 420-1

Juvenal, authorship of Satires doubted, ii, 320 note 2; contemporaneity, ii, 320; on death, iii, 10; the grotesque in, xxxix, 350; George Long, on, ii, 320-1

Juvenale, Latino (see Manetti)

K

Kaabah, the, xlv, 876, 893 note, 1004

Kalm, Peter, on American colonies, x, 186-7

Kamaduk, xlv, 800, 832

Kanakas, the, xxiii, 139-40, 143-8, 242-4

Kangaroo, young of the, xi, 234

Kant, Immanuel, Emerson on, v, 143; life and works, xxxii, 298; METAPHYSIC OF MORALS, 299-373; Schiller on system of, 210

Kao Ch'ai, xliv, 34 note 12

Kao-tsung, xliv, 50 (43)

Kao-yao, xliv, 40

Kara, daughter of Halfdan, xlix, 367

Karen, in THE RED SHOES, xvii, 329-34

Karlsefni, Thorfinn, xliii, 14-17, 19-20

Karma, cessation of, xlv, 731; fruitful and barren, 669-74; good and bad, 675-6; kinds of, 666-8; meritorious and bodily, 666-8; on ignorance depends, 625, 661-2, 667-8; proximate, 654 note

Karmabandh, xlv, 828

Kasim, brother of 'All Baba, xvi, 424, 426-9, 430, 432, 437

Kassapa, xlv, 748, 749

Kastrill, in THE ALCHEMIST, xlvii, 603-7, 618-20, 625-9, 637-9, 648-9, 658-9, 662-3

Kastriota, John, xlvii, 489 note 9

Katharine (see Catherine)

Kauri Pines, Darwin on, xxix, 431

Kay, Sir, steward of Arthur, xxxv, 107-8

Keats, John, Arnold on, xxviii, 77, 78, 79; Browning on, xlii, 1099; buried in Rome, xxiii, 4; elegy on death of, xli, 856-70; poems by, xli, 871-98

Keble, John, hymn by, xlv, 565-6

KEEKIN-GLASS, THE, vi, 427

Keeling Islands, Darwin on, xxix, 456-69

Keightley, Thomas, remarks on his Life of Milton, xxviii, 168

Keimer, friend of Franklin, i, 26-8, 35-6, 50-4, 56; goes to Barbadoes, i, 64; paper of, 59-60

KEITH OF RAVELSTON, BALLAD OF, xlii, 1114-16

Keith, George, i, 22

Keith, Sir William, character of, i, 40-1, 55; Franklin and, 28-31, 34-5, 39-41, 49

KELLY BURN BRÆS, vi, 436

Kelp, Darwin on, xxix, 243-5; Smith on, x, 148

Kelvin (see Thomson, Sir William)

KEMBLE, MRS., ON SEEING, IN YARICO, vi, 498

Kempenfelt, Cowper on, xli, 533-4

Kempis, Thomas a, IMITATION OF CHRIST, vii, 201-364; life of, 200; Woolman on, i, 222-3

Kenelm, St., xl, 42

KENMURE'S ON AND AWA, WILLIE, vi, 422

KENNEDY, JOHN, LINES TO, vi, 221

KENNEDY, JOHN, DUMFRIES HOUSE, vi, 188-9

Kennet, Bishop, on Swift, xxviii, 16

Kent, Earl of, in EDWARD II, in quarrels of king and nobles, xlvi, 10-3, 17, 334, 36; quarrel with king, 37-8; joins nobles, 39-40; a captive, 54; banished to France, 56, 57-8; return with Mortimer, 61, 62; his relenting, 62-3; suspected by Mortimer, 75-6; attempts rescue of king, 76-7, 78-9; death, 81-2

Kent, in KING LEAR, with Gloucester and his son, xlvi, 215-16; banished by Lear, 219-21; with Lear in disguise, 230-1; with Oswald, 233; and Fool, 233-4; sent to Gloucester, 240; at Gloucester's, quarrel with Oswald, 246-9; in stocks, 249-51; set at liberty, 256; in the storm, 262-4; finds Lear, 265-6; at the hovel, 267-9, 271, 272; with Lear in his madness, 273-6; flight with Lear, 276; with gentleman in French camp, 286-8; with Cordelia, 300; at Lear's awakening, 301, 302; Edgar on, 313-14; final scene with Lear, 314, 315-16, 317; editor's remarks on character of, 214; Ruskin on character of, xxviii, 137-8

Kephalos, and Eos, viii, 323

Kepler, Johann, Emerson on, v, 177; heliocentric theory of, xxxix, 52 note; on tides, xxx, 280

Keppel, Lord, Burke on, xxiv, 416-20

Kerguelen Land, species of, xi, 422

Kerim, the fisherman, xvi, 219-20

Kethe, William, hymn by, xlv, 539

Kevin, St., and the birds, xxxii, 152-3

Keymis, Capt., xxxiii, 315, 337, 368, 371

Keyserling, Count, on origin of species, xi, 16

Keziah, daughter of Job, xliv, 141

Khema, disciple of Buddha, xlv, 586

Khoja Hoseyn, in ALI BABA, xvi, 437-40

KID AND WOLF, fable of, xvii, 18

Kidron, reference to, xli, 486

Kilhwch and Oltven, tale of, xxxii, 146, 149-52

Kilissa, in THE LIBATION-BEARERS, viii, 106-8

KILLED AT THE FORD, xlii, 1299-1300

KILLIECRANKIE, THE BRÆS O' vi, 359-60

KILLIGREW, MRS. ANNE, ODE TO, xl, 384-8

KILMENY, by Hogg, xli, 756-65 Kin, are less than kind, viii, 87; strange the power of, 167

Kindness, apt to be repeated, i, 98; Burns on, vi, 83, 252; Confucius on, xliv, 58 (6); defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; the power of, v, 57; reward of, ii J 33 (5); stronger than severity, xvii, 35

King, Archbishop, and Swift, xxviii, 23

King, Dr., Bishop of London, xv, 341; relations with Dr. Donne, 349-50, 357; Walton on, 353

King, Gregory, on laborers' income, x, 78

KING LEAR, TRAGEDY OF, xlvi, 213-317; Ruskin on, xxviii, 137-8; Shelley on, xviii, 276; stage representation of, xxvii, 310-11

KING THRUSHBEARD, story of, xvii, 142-6

Kingcraft, Confucius on, xliv, 38 (7), 39 (u, 14, 19), 43 (15, 16)

Kingdom of Ends, Kant's, xxxii, 343-7

note, 348-9

KINGDOMS, TRUE GREATNESS OF, iii, 73-80

Kingdoms, all have graves, xl, 253; Raleigh on ruin of, xxxix, 71 (see also Princedoms)

Kingfishers, in Cape Verd Islands, xxix, 12; S. American, 143

Kings, councillors of, iii, 52-5; Burke on, xxiv, 165-6, 168-70; Confucius on, xliv, 42 (n); ECCLESIASTES on, 340 (13-16); Emerson on, v, 68-9; friendships of, iii, 66-7; More on enrichment of, xxx vi, 160-3; Penn on government of, i, 350-3; Raleigh on, xl, 205; Ruskin on false and true, xxviii, 128-9; such divinity doth hedge, xlvi, 180 (see also Princes, Rulers)

KINGS' CHILDREN, THE Two, xvii, 196-203

KING'S COLLEGE CHAPEL, CAMBRIDGE, xli, 678

King's Evil, reference to, xlvi, 378

KING'S TRAGEDY, THE, xlii, 1153-78; remarks on, 1, 23, 26

Kingship, Calvin on true, xxxix, 30; Milton on, iv, 383; Pascal on, xlviii, 53. 57-8, 108 (307-8, 310), 114 (330); Pope on beginning of, xl, 428; Rousseau on origin of, xxxiv, 215-21; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 159-60

Kingsley, Charles, POEMS by, xlii, 1060-4

Kingston, Sir William, xxxvi, 131

KINMONT WILLIE, a ballad, xl, 108-14

Kinnersley, Mr., i, 146-7

KIRK AND STATE EXCISEMEN, vi, 460

KIRK OF SCOTLAND'S ALARM, THE, vi, 351-4

Kiss, THE PARTING, vi, 318

Kisses, E. B. Browning on, xli, 937-8; Burns on, vi, 438; of love, Goethe on, xix, 407

Kitchen God, xliv, n note 6

Klopstock, on Burger, xxxix, 326

Knavery, origin of, xxxiv, 209

Knight, Chaucer's, xl, 12-13, 34

Knight of the Redcrosse, Spenser's, xxxix, 63-4

Knight, Andrew, on bees, xi, 255; on hermaphrodites, 103; on cause of variability, 23

Knight-errantry, Cervantes on tales of, xiv, 473-6, 481, 487-95; Don Quixote on, 92-6; expenses of, 130-1; literature of, 3, 9-10, 48-54; Manzoni on, xxi, 545-6; Sancho Panza on, xiv, 118-19

Knighthood, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 219-22

Knolles, Francis, xxxiii, 229

Knolles, Sir Robert, xxxv, 70, 78, 79

KNOW, CELIA, xl, 352

Knowing Ones, in FAUST, xix, 189

Knowledge, action and, xxxii, 58-9; Augustine, St., on, vii, 65-6, 189-90; on authority, xxv, 229-39; xxxii, 36-9; xxxix, 124; Bacon on, 128-9, 141-2, 143; beauty and, xxxii, 266-7, 2725 Berkeley on reality of, xxxvii, 248-52, 267-8, 279-81; Browne on, iii, 313-14, 321-2; Browne on, of self, 263, 266; Bunyan on two kinds of, xv, 85-6; Carlyle on, xxv, 320; Channing on little, xxviii, 341; Comte's three ages of, xxv, 104; always conditional, xxxiv, 346; Confucius on, xliv, 20 (18), 58 (8); Dante on, xx, 302; desire of, inclines to peace, xxxiv, 371; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 336 (18), 342 (12); Epictetus on acquisition of, ii, 132 (46), 140 (65), 143 (72); of evil, Mrs. Herbert on, xv, 376; of evil, Milton on, iii, 202-3; i v 277'8; is not happiness, xviii, 433; Harvey on advance of, xxxviii, 76; Harvey on pursuit of, 63; Hindu doctrine of, xiv, 808, 849; Hippocrates on requisites of, xxxviii, 4-5; Hobbes on attainment of, xxxiv, 352; intuitive and rational, xlviii, 99-100; Kempis on worldly and spiritual, vii, 295-6 (2), 307-8; Locke on, xxxvii, 104-5; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 23-i (32); Mill on a priori view of, xxv, 140-1; Milton on, iv, 167-8, 4001; Pascal on impossibility of certain, xlviii, 30-2; Pascal on universality in, 20 (37); Paul, St., on, xiv, 500-1 (12); Penn on, i, 338, 348 (307); pleasure the basis of, xxxix, 280-1; Pope on human, xl, 409; power from, xxxiv, 360-1; xxxix, 142; pride in, ii, 178 (177); xlviii, 153 (460); progress of, due to passions and wants, xxxiv, 177; progress of, requires liberty, iii, 221-2, 229-30; quantity and quality of, xxviii, 330; as recollection, ii, 63-8; Ruskin on impossibility of, xxviii, in; of self, Shelley on, xviii, 276; of sense and understanding, xxxii, 361-2; Sidney on object of, xxvii, 13-14; Socrates on, ii, 8-9; is sorrow, xviii, 407; taste dependent on, xxiv, 19-20, 25; temperance in, iv, 230; timidity of, xix, 32; Tennyson on, and wisdom, xlii, 984; Thoreau on, xxviii, 419-20; true and false, xlv, 868; two kinds of, xxxiv, 359; vanity of human, vii, 205-6 (3), 206-7, 208-9; xix, 24, 48, 74-5; xlviii, 113; Washington on diffusion of, xliii, 243; of the world, Locke on, xxxvii, 52, 75-8, 80 (see also Learning)

Knowledge, the shepherd, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 123-6

Know-nothing, Mrs., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 187

Knox, John, Carlyle on, xxv, 367, 386, 411-12; life and works, xxxix, 58 note; PREFACE TO REFORMATION IN SCOTLAND, 58-60

Kolita, disciple of Buddha, xlv, 586

Kolreuter, on the barberry, xi, 104-5; n fertility of varieties, 312-13; on hermaphrodites, 103; on reciprocal crosses, 294; on sterility of species, 286-300

Konghelle, town of, v, 345

Korah, Psalms of sons of, xliv, 194-203, 249-51, 252-4

Koran, Bacon on the, Hi, 42 note; Browne on the, 276; editor's remarks on, 1, 21; Hume on morals of the, xxvii, 204-5; on duty of governors, xxv, 244; legend of Seven Sleepers in, xxxviii, 391-2; Pascal on the, xlviii, 194 (597)

KORAN, CHAPTERS FROM THE, xlv, 879-1007

Kostbera, wife of Hogni, xlix, 343-4, 345

Kotzebue, August, Carlyle on, xxv, 404; on Tahiti, xxix, 417-18

Krishna (see BHAGAVAD-GITA)

Kuan Chung, xliv, 12 note, 46 (10), 47 (17, 18) note

KUBLA KHAN, xli, 701-3

Kung-hsi Hua, xliv, 15 note 6, 18 note 3, 18 note 4, 35 (21), 36 (25), note 25

Kung-ming Chia, xliv, 46 (14)

Kung-shan Fu-jao, xliv, 58 (5)

Kung-shu Wen, xliv, 46 (14), 47 (19)

Kung-sun Ch'ao, xliv, 65 (22)

K'ung wen, xliv, 16 (14)

Kung-yeh Ch'ang, xliv, 14 (i)

Kunz of Gersau, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 449-50

Kuoni, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 381-6, 405-6

Kush, son of Sheddad, inscription of, xvi, 302-4

Kusinara, city of, xlv, 638, 639

Kuteyt, the jailer, xvi, 226-7

Kynesians, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 22

Kypris, reference to, viii, 198

Kyrene (see Gyrene)

L

LA BELLE DAME SANS MERCI, xli, 893-5

Labdacus, father of Laius, viii, 216

Laberius, quoted, xxxii, 6

Labienus, lieutenant of Caesar, xii, 279; death of, 346; in eastern campaign, 341, 344; goes over to Pompey, 293; story of, 250

Labor, Burke on necessity of, xxiv, 108; capital and, x, 6, 67-8, 212-13, 271, 289-303, 333; Channing on value of, xxviii, 314-17; children sweeten, iii, 19-20; competition of, restraints on, x, 121-32, 137-46; competition of, unnaturally increased, 132-7; demand for (see Wages); division of (see Division of Labor); division of, dwarfs the mind, xxviii, 316; ECCLESIASTES on vanity of, xliv, 335 (3), 336 (ii), 337 (18-23), 339 (4-5), 341 (15-16), 342 (7); Emerson on, v, 47-51, 95-6, 286; excessive, results of, i, 197, 2513; x, 84; xxviii, 315-16; exchange value of, x, 48; free and slave, cost of, 82; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 799-801, 805-6, 813; independent and wage, x, 85-6; Luther on, xxxvi, 314; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 207 (5), 222 (i), 238 (33), 268 (12); More on condition of, xxxvi, 180-3; original state of, x, 66; Penn on, i, 328; prices of, real and nominal, x, 37-8; productive and unproductive, 258-65; productive and unproductive in agricultural system, 428-33; productive power of, 9-26; products of, its natural recompense, 66-7; real ends of, v, 96; the real measure of value, x, 34-5, 37, 40-1, 50-1; real recompense of, 79; as recreation, xxxvii, 173-8; remuneration of (see Wages); respect due to, xxviii, 356-7; rest and, iv, 170; skilled and common, x, 1034; talents of, fixed capital, 219; Tennyson on, xlii, 994, 995;

Thoreau on value of, xxviii, 399; thought needed in, 327-8; in Utopia, xxxvi, 178-9, 181-3, 188-9; value of, how determined, x, 35; value of, to the scholar, v, 14-15; wages of (see Wages)

Labor, King, xxxv, 183

LABORING CLASSES, ELEVATION OF THE, Channing's, xxviii, 307-67; editorial remarks on, 1, 37

LABOURER AND NIGHTINGALE, fable of, xvii, 33-4

Labourers, combinations of, x, 68-9

La Bruyere, Burke on, xxiv, 365 note; Hume on, xxxvii, 291; on his Characters, xxvii, 162, 163; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130-1

Labyrinth, of Egypt, xxxiii, 74-5

Lacedaemonians, hospitality of the, ii, 293 (24)

Lacedxmonius, son of Cimon, xii, 65

Lacey, Father, Wood on, v, 349

Lachares, and Antony, xii, 374

Lachesis, reference to, xx, 230 note 4

LACK OF GOLD, xii, 532-3

Lactate of Lime, fermentation of, xxxviii, 324

Lactantius, Copernicus on, xxxix, 56; on doers, 108-9; on following authorities, 100; on Providence, 101

Lacy, Sir Hugh, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, with Mayor, xlvii, 469-72; with Rowland, 471-2; with Dodger, learns Rowland not in France, 491-3, 496; seeks nephew at Lord Mayor's, 515-16; hears flight of Rose, 516; with Firk, 517-18; plans to stop wedding, 519; mistakes Ralph for Rowland, 524-6; learns of wedding, 525-6; with the king, 532-4

Lacy, Rowland, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, in love with Rose Oateley, xlvii, 469-70; his travels, 470; appointed colonel, 470-1; with Sir Hugh, 471-2; delays departure for France, 472; Ralph and, 473-4; summoned by Dodger, 475; Sybil on, 477-8; as Dutch shoemaker, 479; takes service with Eyre, 481-3; the skipper and, 487, 490-1; plot discovered by uncle, 492-3, 496; with Margery, as Hans, 497, 498, 499; with Eyre as sheriff, 500-1; at Mayor's, as Hans, 503-4; at Hodge's, 509-10; goes to Rose with Sybil, 510-1; with Rose, as Hans, 513-5; flight with Rose, 516; with Rose at Eyre's, 520-1; marriage, 526; pardoned by king, 530-1; denounced by uncle, 532-3; marriage confirmed, 534; knighted, 534; on the shoemakers, 535

LAD THEY CA' JUMPIN JOHN, vi, 302

LADDIE'S DEAR SEL', vi, 347-8

LADIES OF BAGHDAD, stories of the, xvi, 55-66, 100-112

Ladike, wife of Amasis, xxxiii, 89

Ladislaus V, King, xxxvi, 317

Lady, Ruskin on title of, xxviii, 157-8

LADY, To A, WITH A GUITAR, xii, 848-50

LADY MARY ANN, vi, 435-6

LADY ONLIE, HONEST LUCKY, vi, 283

LADY OF SHALOTT, THE, xlii, 967-71

LADY'S POCKET ALMANAC, LINES IN A, vi, 459

Laelius, called the wise, ix, 10; in Cicero's FRIENDSHIP, 9-10; in Cicero's OLD AGE, 46; Scipio and, 10, 11-14, 20, 43; Sidney on, xxvii, 39

Laertes, in Hamlet, gets leave to go to France, xlvi, 101; farewell to Ophelia, 107-9, no; and Polonius, 109-10; Reynaldo sent to watch, 121-3; return of, 179-83; with king, plans vengeance on Hamlet, 184-9; learns Ophelia's death, 189-90; at Ophelia's funeral, 196; Osric on, 202-3; duel w i* n Hamlet, 205-7; confesses and dies, 208; not in original story, 92

Laertes, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 14, 149, 209, 218-9, 325-30, 333; Cowley on, xxvii, 67; Plutarch on, xii, 252 note

Laertius, Diogenes, iii, 242 note 39; Montaigne on, xxxii, 97

Laestrygons, and Ulysses, xxii, 132-3

Lafayette, Burke on, xxiv, 418, 420

La Fontaine, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 123, 129-30, 131

LAGGAN, LAIRD OF, EPIGRAM ON, vi, 467

Lagoon Islands, Darwin on, xxix, 463-4, 469-72; gradually formed from f ringing-reefs, 477-81

Lagus, death of, xiii, 334

La Harpe, Hugo on, xxxix, 363, 366

Laing, Malcolm, on Macpherson, xxxix, 328

LAIRD o' COCKPEN, xii, 563-4

LAIRD OF LAGGAN, EPIGRAM ON, vi, 467

Lais, daughter of Timandra, xii, 146

Laius, death of, viii, 212-3, 230-1; (Edipus accused of killing, 222-3; prophecy of death of, 230-1

Lajeunesse, Basil, in EVANGELINE, xlii, 1303; at Benedict's house, 1306-7, 1308, 1309; denounces the English, 1312; in exile, 1315-6, 1319; as herdsman, 1325-8; with Evangeline, 1329, 1330-2

Lajeunesse, Gabriel, lover of Evangeline, xlii, 1303-4; at feast of betrothal, 1311; on day of expulsion, 1315; his wanderings in exile, 1319, 1321, 1323, 1325-6, 1328-9, 1330, 1332, 1333; found by Evangeline in plague, 1336-7

Lake, Dr., Walton on, xv, 407

Lake-dwellers, domestic plants and animals of, xi, 32

L' ALLEGRO, iv, 30-4; Bagehot on, xxviii, 180; an idyllic poem, xxxix, 299

Lalli, Gianstefano, xxxi, 421 note 4

Lally, letter on October Sixth, xxiv, 210-11 note

Lamachus, general in Sicilian expedition, xii, 121, 124, 126

Lamachus, the Myrinaean, xii, 197

Lamarck, on adaptive resemblances, xi, 443; on blind animals, xxix, 59; on evolution, xi, 6; on innate tendency to perfection, 130; objection to his theory of inherited habit, 283; on origin of species, 10

Lamartine, Taine on, xxxix, 411

Lamb, Charles, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 267; in Hazlitt's discussion, 267-81; on imagination, xxxix, 306 note; life and writings, xxvii, 298; poems by, xii, 735-8; ON TRAGEDIES OF SHAKESPEARE, xxvii, 299-316

LAMB AND WOLF, fable of, xvii, n

Lambert, Hugo on, xxxix, 379

Lambertaccio, xx, 202 note 17

Lamberti, Mosca de' (see Uberti)

Lambvvell, Sir David, xl, 99

Lamech, Pascal on, xlviii, 201

LAMENT, A, by Shelley, xii, 842

LAMENT, THE, by Burns, vi, 195-7

LAMENT FOR JAMES, EARL OF GLENCAIRN, vi, 400-2

LAMENT OF MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS, vi, 396-7

LAMENT, BURLESQUE, FOR WILLIAM CREECH, vi, 267-9

Lamentone, II, xxxi, 150-1, 152-3

Lamias, in story of WILD SWANS, xvii, 277

Lampedo, queen of Amazons, xxxiii, 327

Lampetie, the nymph, xxii, 165, 171

Lampon, the diviner, xii, 40

Lampus, steed of the sun, xxii, 316

Lancaster, in EDWARD THE SECOND, his opposition to Gaveston, xlvi, 9-12, 1316; in exiling of Gaveston, 16-18; consents to his return, 22-6; on Gaveston's return, 31-4; quarrel with king, 35-8; in attack on Tynemouth, 40-2; at capture of Gaveston, 43-4; in battle, 53; capture and death, 54-5

Lancaster, Capt., explanation of story of, xxix, 106-7

Lancaster, Duke of, in Tyler's Rebellion, xxxv, 67

Lancelet, simplicity of the, xi, 131

Lancelot, Sir, the best knight next to Galahad, xxxv, in; Bors and, 213; at castle of the Grail, 199-203; at chapel of the dead man, 147-9; Chaucer on story of, xl, 45; departure on quest of Grail, xxxv, 114, 115-6; Ector's vision of, 157, 161; at the forest chapel, 129; Galahad's father, 109-10, 115, 152; Galahad and, 106, 128-9, 198-9; Gawaine on, 156; Guinevere and, xiv, 92; xx, 24 note 4, 352 note 2; xxxv, 132-3; xlii, 1185-8, 1191-3; at the hermitage, xxxv, 132-4; horse of, smitten, 155; loses horse and arms, 131; Lady of Shalott and, xlii, 969-70, 971; lineage of, xxxv, 117, 151; the marvelous sword and, 107; Mellyagraunce and, xlii, 1189-90; Nacien on, xxxv, 162; Renan on, xxxii, 163; returns home, xxxv, 204; robber knight and, 150-1; the Siege Perilous and, 107; sorrow of, 131-2; sword of, xxxix, 21; at the tourney, xxxv, 112; vision of, 150-2; white knights and, 153-5

Land, building of the, xxx, 239-46; elevation and subsidence of (see Elevation, Subsidence); final source of all capital, x, 221-2; has existed in all ages, xxxviii, 401; improvements in, constitute fixed capital, x, 219; Lowell on ownership of, xxviii, 469; made of river silt, xxxiii, 9, n, 12; materials of, xxx, 328-35; price of, dependent on rate of interest, x, 285-6; price of, and usury, iii, 102, 103-4; produce of, source of capital, x, 221; as property, effect on wages, 67; rent of (see Rent); returns of, greater than labor, x, 150; Rousseau on property in, xxxiv, 198; Ruskin on ownership of, xxviii, 132; taxes on, proportioned to produce, x. 486-8; proportioned to rent, 479-486; taxes on transfer of, 505-8

LAND o' THE LEAL, xli, 560

Landas, John of, at Poitiers, xxxv, 37, 39, 46, 47, 48

Landenberg, Berenger von, xxvi, 396 note 6; Henry of Halden and, 398; flight of, 476

Landi, Antonio, xxxi, 352-3, 361

Landi, Pierro di Giovanni, xxxi, 32, 84, 87, 171

Landino, on poets, xxvii, 51

Landlord, in MINNA VON BARNHELM, xxvi, 299-303, 315-21, 321-3, 324, 330-3, 365

Landlords, interest of, x, 208

Landor, Walter Savage, Emerson on, v, 317-8; poems by, xli, 898-05

Landresy, Francis I at, xxxviii, 17

Landscape Gardens, poetic sentiment in, xxviii, 377

Lane, Edw. William, translator of ARABIAN NIGHTS, xvi, 4

Lane-Poole, Stanley, reviser of ARABIAN NIGHTS, xvi, 4

Lane, Ralph, governor of Virginia, xxxiii, 257-8

Lang, A., translator of Homer, xxii; LINES ON THE ODYSSEY by, 7; SONNET ON HOMER, 335

Langland, Bishop of Lincoln, xxxvi, 102

Langley, Samuel Pierpont, on heat from the moon, xxx, 259-60; on radiant heat, 260

Langobards, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 115

Language, anomalies and absurdities of, xxxix, 183; Augustine, St., on acquisition of, vii, 11-12; command of, its importance, xxviii, 278-9; custom and, xxxix, 169 note; Emerson on, v, 171; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 322-30; Johnson on uses of, xxxix, 186; a means, not an end, iii, 234; natural, xxxix, 215-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 313 (912); Pascal's rules of, 16-17, 21-3; of the passions, xxxiv, 345; poets the authors of, xxvii, 331-2; race test, xxviii, 235-45, 252-72; Rousseau on origin of, xxxiv, 179-185, 201, 203; Shelley on use of familiar, xviii, 278; Stevenson on, xxviii, 278-80; superiority of, xxvii, 333; in various civilizations, xxxix, 419, 420-1 (see also Words)

LANGUAGE, AND RACE, xxviii, 227-73

Languages, classification of, xi, 440; continual change of, xxxix, 201-4; dead, study of, v, 256-7; Descartes on study of ancient, xxxiv, 7; Franklin on study of, i, 95-6; Hugo on change in, xxxix, 374-5; Huxley on study of, xxviii, 2201; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 136-53, 162-3, 167-9, 179-80; Milton on study of, iii, 236-7; Montaigne on study of, xxxii, 65-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 21 (45); Penn on teaching, i, 322-3; Taine on, xxxix, 411

Langue d'oc and d'oil, xxviii, 75

Languet, Hubert, and Philip Sidney, xxvii, 3

Lanier, Sidney, poems by, xlii, 1390-1401

Lankester, E. Ray, on homogeneity, xi, 456-7; on longevity, 210

Lannoy, reference to, xlvii, 804

Lano, Dante on, xx, 56 and note 3

Laocoon, death of, xiii, 107; statue of, xxxi, 318; the Trojan horse and, xiii, 101-2

Laodamas, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 94, 102, 103, 108

Laodamia, and Evadne, xiii, 222

LAODAMIA, xli, 662-7; Emerson on, v, 122

Laodiceans, Bacon on, iii, 12

Laomedon, the Orchomenian, xii, 195; Emerson on, v, 276

LAP-DOG, EPITAPH ON A, vi, 466

LAPDOG AND Ass, fable of, xvii, 15

Laplace, on tides, xxx, 284, 288

LAPRAIK, J., EPISTLES TO, vi, 79-86, 102-4

Lares, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 380

Largeness (see Vastness)

Largus, Julius, ix, 396

Laris, and Thymbrus, xiii, 335

Lark, Milton on the, iv, 31, 379

La Rochefoucauld, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130

Lartius, Titus, xii, 153

Las Vargas, counsellor of Philip II, xix, 290

LASCELLES, CAPTAIN, LINES ON, vi, 487

LASS o' BALLOCHMYLE, vi, 220-1

LASS OF CESSNOCK BANKS, vi, 28-30

LASS OF ECCLEFECHAN, VI, 516

LASS THAT MADE THE BED TO ME, vi, 527-9

LASS wi' A TOCHER, vi, 548

LASSIE wi' THE LINT-WHITE LOCKS, vi, 505-6

LAST CONQUEROR, THE, xl, 350

LAST DUCHESS, THE, xlii, 1074-5

LAST INVOCATION, THE, xlii, 1422

Last Judgment, a Celano on, xlv, 551-3; Browne on the, iii, 296-8; Bunyan on, xv, 39, 83-4; Dante on kings at, xx, 368-9; Emerson on doctrine of, v, 85-6; Kempis on the, vii, 232-3, 306-7; location of, belief concerning, xx, 40 note i; Milton on the, iv, 12, 143-4, 353; Mohammed on, xlv, 880, 881-2, 886-97, 900-1, 912

LAST LEAF, THE, xlii, 1366-8

LAST LINES, xlii, uio-ii

LAST RIDE TOGETHER, THE, xlii, 1070-3

LAST ROSE OF SUMMER, xli, 818

Last Supper, xliv, 410-11 (14-37); Pascal on, xlviii, 180 (554)

LAST TIME I CAME O'ER THE MOOR, vi, 461-2

LAST WISH, THE, xlii, 1119

LAST WORD, THE, xlii, 1139-40

Latagus, death of, xiii, 345

Lateran, the, given to Sylvester, xx, 80 note 10

Latimer, and Henry VIII, v, 376

Latin, Augustine, St., on study of, vii, 15-18; Carlyle on, xxv, 365; Emerson on study of, v, 257; Franklin on study of, i, 95-6; Huxley on study of, xxviii, 213-20; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 68, 77, 127, 136-53, 157, 162-3, 167-9; Mill on study of, xxv, 24; Milton on way to study, iii, 239-41; Montaigne on study of, xxxii, 65-6; Penn on study of, i, 323 (15), wrong way to study, iii, 236-7

Latin Classics, xxxii, 122

LATIN HYMNS, xlv, 546-56

Latin Literature, More on, xxxvi, 205; Taine on, xxxix, 436

Latin Philosophers, More on, xxxvi, 137

Latini, Brunette, Arnold on, xxviii, 75; in Dante's HELL, xx, 62-5

Latinus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 241-3, 245-8, 359, 366-8, 390-1, 395-7; in Dante's

Limbo, xx, 20; Dryden on, xiii, 20-1

Latinus, Titus, dream of, xii, 169

Latitudinarian, Penn's, i, 393

Latmian Shepherd, Endymion called, xl, 244

Latona, and the frogs, iv, 80; references to, xiii, 91; xx, 229

Laud, and George Herbert, xv, 394; and the Star Chamber, iii, 184

Laudatory Personalities, Bentham on, xxvii, 235-6

Lauderdale, Earl of, and Burke, xxiv, 380; translator of Virgil, xiii, 66-7

Laughter, ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 336 (2); Epictetus on, ii, 175 (165); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 342

Launcelot (see Lancelot)

Laurence, the martyr, vii, 248 (2); Dante on, xx, 299 and note 10

Laurentia, honors of, ix, 179

Laurentius, Andreas, xxxviii, 73; on the heart, 75

Lausus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 261, 336, 346, 349-50

Lautizio, xxxi, 47, 259

Laval, M. de, xxxviii, 13, 15; xlviii, 347 note 2

Laval, Pyrard de, on atolls, xxix, 469

Lavinia, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 241, 248, 391; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20

Law(s), Bentham on opposition to reform of, xxvii, 225-51; correction the purpose of, ii, 150 (88); denned in Hindoo Scriptures, v, 284; Goethe on human, xix, 80; highest, is welfare of people, iii, 133; Hume on foundation of, xxxvii, 365; inadequacy of, and revenge, iii, 15; the intention of lawgiver is the, xliii, 314; Jones, Sir William, on, xli, 579; language of the, how corrupted, x, 452; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 158; Luther on, xxxvi, 3234; Machiavelli on good, 40; Marlowe on study of, xix, 207, 209; Milton on study of, iii, 242; Montaigne on multiplicity of, xlviii, 390-1; More on, xxxvi, 212-13; More on antiquated, 160, 163; natural, superior to statutes, v, 242, 246; necessity of, to control officials, xxvii, 235; needless where not eluded, xxxiv, 222; numerous, effect of, xxxv, 315; Pascal on, xlviii, 104-5, H3 (325-6), 205-6; Pliny,n spirit and letter of, ix, 252, 272; Pope on origin of, xl, 429; Raleigh on, 206; Rousseau on origin of, xxxiv, 211-15; Ruskin on, xxviii, 133; Schiller on substitution of, for force, xxxii, 214-18; Smith on, and men, xxvii, 236-7; Socrates on obedience to, ii, 38-41; Winthrop on penal, xliii, 91-105 (see also Government Intervention)

Law, John Burke on, xxiv, 371

LAWES, MR. H., To, ON His AIRS, iv, 81

Lawgivers, great, iii, 130

Lawmakers, Winthrop on, xliii, 98

Lawrence, St., on the Church, xxxvi, 2556

LAWRENCE, To MR., iv, 84

Lawsuits, Confucius on, xliv, 39 (13); St. Paul on, xlv, 497 (1-7)

Lawyer, Chaucer's, xl, 19-20

Lawyers, excluded from Utopia, xxxvi, 212; Franklin on, i, 15; Jesus on, xliv, 386 (45-52); judges and, iii, 130-2; Milton on mercenary, 250; remuneration of (see Professions); Sidney on, xxvii, 16

Laxness, Confucius on, xliv, 18 (i)

Lay, nautical term, xxiii, 28 note

LAY THY LOOP IN MINE, LASS, vi, 550

Lazarus, xliv, 397 (20-5); Browne on, iii, 273; Dives and, xv, 35; the Jews and, vii, 298 (2); Pascal on, xlviii, 218-19 (658), 264-5 (754)

Laziness, Locke on, xxxvii, 107-10, 177-8

Lazo, Darwin on the, xxix, 52

Lazzaretto, in Milan plague, xxi, 578-81

Lead Pyrophorus, xxx, 56 note; combustion of, 161, 168-9; how made, 168 note

Lead-trees, xxx, 81 note

LEADER, THE LOST, xlii, 1067-8

Leaders, developed by disaster, xix, 374; of sedition, iii, 41

Leagues, More on, xxxvi, 214-15

Leah, type of active life, xx, 256 note 4

Leander, reference to, xx, 260

Leandra, in the goatherd's story, xiv, 500-4

LEAR, KING, TRAGEDY OF, xlvi, 215-317; editorial remarks on, 214; Ruskin on, xxviii, 137; Shelley on, xviii, 276, 358; stage representations of, xxvii, 310-11 Lear, in KING LEAR, divides kingdom between daughters, xlvi, 216-18; disowns Cordelia, 218-19; resigns power, 219; quarrel with Kent, 219-20; with France and Burgundy, 221-3; coldly treated by Goneril, 229-30, 232; with Kent in disguise, 230-1; with Oswald, 232-3; and the Fool, 233-5; scene with Goneril, 235-9; departure for Gloucester, 240-1; arrival at Gloucester's, 252-4; with Gloucester, 254-5; with Regan and Cornwall, 255-7; refused hospitality by both daughters, 258-61; goes out into storm, 262-3; in the storm, 264-6; at Edgar's hovel, 267-72; his madness, 274-6; warned to fly, 276; conveyed to Dover, 277; refuses to see Cordelia, 288; in fields near Dover, mad, 294-7; taken by Cordelia's messengers, 297; awakening from sleep, with Cordelia, 301-2; taken prisoner, 306-7; ordered to be killed by Edmund, 315; with body of Cordelia, 315-6; with Kent, 316; death, 316-7

Lear, Bagehot on character of, xxviii, 192; editorial remarks on character of, xlvi, 214

Learchus, Dante on, xx, 123

Learning, and actions, xxxii, 59-60; arms compared with, xiv, 374-9; Confucius on, xliv, 5 (i), 6 (14), 26 (13), 48 (25); end of, iii, 236; four ages of, 140; Hume on, xxxvii, 293-4; Locke on, 72, 77-8, 127-52; Montaigne on, xxxii, 34; Sidney on object of, xxvii, 13-14; Tzu-hsia on, xliv, 5 (7), 64 (5, 6); (see also Knowledge)

Leaves of Grass, PREFACE TO, xxxix, 388-409; remarks on, 3

Leblanc, Baptiste, xlii, 1319

Leblanc, Rene, the notary in EVANGELINE, xlii, 1307-9, 1334

Lechartier, M., xxxviii, 305-6 notes

Lechery, the sin, in FAUSTUS, xix, 228

Lechery, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 188

Leda, mother of Castor and Pollux, xx, 402 note 14; in Homer's Hades, xxii, 152; and Jove, xl, 230

Lee, E., translator of Sainte-Beuve, xxxii, 103

Lee, Fitzhugh, at Gettysburg, xliii, 343

Lee, Richard Henry, xliii, 150 note

Lee, Gen. Robert E., FAREWELL TO His ARMY, xliii, 423; at Gettysburg, 379, 400; terms of surrender at Appomattox, 421-2

LEEZIE LINDSAY, vi, 542

Le" fri flaith, xlix, 207, 231, 244, 247

Legacy-taxes, x, 506, 508-9

Legal Language, corruption of, x, 452

Legal Penalties, Winthrop on, xliii, 90-100, 101-2, 104-5

Legal Pleading, Pliny on, ix, 204-9, 226-7

Legal Tender, in England, x, 43; in United States, xliii, 186 (10)

Legal Technicalities, More on, xxxvi, 213

Legality, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 23, 27

Legislation, Burke on methods of, xxiv, 302-3; does not make the state, v, 239-40; by experience and fiat, xxxiv, 13;

Lowell on, xxviii, 441; in Utopia, xxxvi, 177-8

Legislative Commissions, Mill on, xxv, 163-4

Legislative Powers, in United States, xliii, 180-6

Legislators, Burke on qualities of, xxiv, 301-2; fame of, compared with poets, xxvii, 333

Legouve, M., xxxix, 371

Leibnitz, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 277; Hobbes and, xxxiv, 308; supposed inventor of fluxions, 126; on theory of gravitation, xi, 498

Leicester, in EDWARD II, xlvi, 66-7, 68-73

Leicester, Earl of, on Chaucer, xxxix, 168, 169

Leif the Lucky, his baptism, xliii, 5; his expedition of discovery, 8-n; Gudrid, and, 13-14; his house in Vinland, 14, 17; Freydis and, 19

Leiodes, and the bow of Ulysses, xxii, 288; death of, 304

Leisure, Milton on, iv, 35; Penn on, employment of, i, 328; Rufus on, ii, 118 (v)

Lela Zoraida, xiv, 373

Leland, on copper mines, xxxv, 323; on England, 231, 233

Lelius, and Blosius, xxxii, 79

Lemnos, crime of, viii, 103

Lemovians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 117

Lemur, Darwin on the flying, xi, 176-7

Lemures, mentioned, iv, 13 (21)

Lending, Penn on, i, 327 (47)

Length, less striking than depth, xxiv, 61

Lennox, in MACBETH, xlvi, in camp with Duncan, 323; at Macbeth's, 344-5, 346; at the banquet, 357-8, 361; conversation with lord, 363-5; with Macbeth, 369-70; in war against Macbeth, 383-4

LENORE, by Poe, xlii, 1224-5

Lent, Calvin on meat in, xxxix, 36; Herbert on, xv, 403

Lentulus Spinther, the consul, consulship of, xii, 246; letter to, ix, 118; property of, 150; recall of, 97, 99

Lentulus Sura, the consul, Antony and, xii, 322, 326; Caesar and, 289, 290; in Catiline conspiracy, 231-3, 269; Cicero on death of, ix, 159; executed, xii, 235, 243

Leo X, Pope, xxvii, 390; Cellini and, xxxi, 13; Luther to, xxxvi, 336-44; Machiavelli on, 40

Leo, Valerius, and Caesar, xii, 278

Leocritus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 27, 303

Leolin, imprisonment of, xxxii, 145

Leoline, Sir, (see CHRISTABEL)

Leon, St., on God, xlviii, 352

Leon of Sal amis, ii, 21; Socrates and, 251-2 (66)

Leonardo da Vinci (see Vinci)

Leonela, in story of CURIOUS-IMPERTINENT, xiv, 325-45, 351-3

Leoni, Leone, xxxi, 246 note 3

Leosthenes, xii, 213

Leotychides, son of Alcibiades, xii, 128

Lepanto, battle of, iii, 79; Cervantes at, xiv, 3; Cervantes on, 385-6

Lepidotos, Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 39

Lepidus, Catius, letter to, ix, 250-1

Lepidus, Marcus Æmilius, xii, 315, 318; Africa allotted to, 344; Antony and, 334-5; Brutus and, 331; Cicero on, ix, 67, 177, 179, 180; consul with Caesar, xii, 329; death of, xxxii, 13; left in Rome by Caesar, xii, 326; put out of government, 364-5; in the triumvirate, 257. 335-6

Lerna, Lake, viii, 191 note 40

Leroux, Paul, his article on God, v, 278

Lessing, Gotthold Ephraim, and Burke, xxiv, 28; EDUCATION OF THE HUMAN RACE, xxxii, 183-206; life and works, xxvi, 298; MINNA VON BARNHELM, 299-375; Taine on, xxxix, 414

LESSON, A, xii, 614-15

LET ME IN THIS Æ NIGHT, vi, 517

LET THERE BE LIGHT, xiv, 572

LET Us DRINK AND BE MERRY, xl, 364-5

Lethe, Dante on, xx, 61, 261; Milton on, iv, 123-4

Letiche, story of, xlii, 1307

Leto, in Egyptian mythology, xxxiii, 789; oracle of, xxxiii, 42, 78; Tityos and, xxii, 159; worshipped in Egypt, xxxiii, 34

Letters, Hobbes on invention of, xxxiv, 322; invented by Prometheus, viii, 183

Letters, men of, why so called, xxviii, 102

Letters, Bacon on business, iii, 117; Goethe on, xxxix, 253; Locke on writing of, xxxvii, 161; Pliny on unsatisfactoriness of, ix, 273; Stevenson on, xxviii, 280

LETTERS OF CICERO, ix, 81-181; remarks on, 7, 79-80

LETTERS OF PLINY, ix, 183-416; remarks on, 185-6

LETTERS ON ESTHETIC EDUCATION, Schiller, xxxii, 207-295

LETTERS ON THE ENGLISH, Voltaire's, xxxiv, 65-159

LETTY'S GLOBE, xli, 921

Leucaspis, in Hades, xiii, 218

Leucippus, school of, iii, 42

Leucothea, Milton on, iv, 68, 322; in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 76

Leuthold, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 437-40, 447, 449

Leuwenhoek, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 126

LEVANA AND OUR LADIES OF SORROW, xxvii, DeQuincey, 319-25

Level, Lyell on changes of, xxxviii, 4069, 411-12 (see also Elevation, Subsidence)

Leveridge, Mr., xliii, 139

Levers, velocity and power in, xxx, 183-4

LEVET, DR. ROBERT, ON THE DEATH OF, xli, 503-4

Levi, and Jesus, xliv, 367 (27-9)

Leviathan, in BOOK OF JOB, xliv, 138-40 (1-34); Job's description of, Burke on, xxiv, 57; old Irish idea of, xlix, 213; references to, iv, 93, 237; xv, 133, 134; xliv, 235 (14), 274 (26)

LEVIATHAN, FIRST PART OF, Hobbes's, xxxiv, 307-417

Levune, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 49, 55, 60

Lexicographers, Johnson on, xxxix, 182

Lexington, battle of, xliii, 156; Longfellow on battle of, xlii, 1298

LEWARS, JESSIE, COMPLIMENTARY VERSICLES TO, vi, 550

LEWARS, JESSY, INSCRIPTION TO, vi, 552

Lewes, G. H., on Egyptian races, xi, 210

LEY, LADY MARGARET, To THE, iv, 79

Li, son of Confucius, xliv, 33 (7) and note 5

Liandolo, Loderingo di, xx, 96 note 4

Lianour, Duke, xxxv, 126

Liar, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Liars, fable on, xvii, 28

LIBATION-BEARERS, Æschylus', viii, 76-121; Voltaire on, xxxix, 364

LIBELLER'S SELF-REPROOF, vi, 276

Libels, in Athens, iii, 193-4; in Rome, 195; Franklin on, i, 92-3

Liberality, in children, xxxvii, 91, 92; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 341, 371; Penn on, i, 327; of princes, xxxvi, 52-4; proverb on, xvi, 202

Liberators, great, iii, 130

LIBERTIES, THE BODY OF, xliii, 66-84

Liberty, art and, xxxii, 210-12; Burke on, xxiv, 148-9, 197-200, 375-6; Byron on, xli, 811; contentment and, 522; duty of respecting others, xxxii, 340; Emerson on, v, 245-6, 249; extreme ideas of, iii, 21 ; Goldsmith on ills of, xli, 529-30; government and, xliii, 201-2, 240; Hamilton on jealousy of, 201; history of doctrine of, xxv, 158; Hume on religious, xxxvii, 405; inequality not inconsistent with, iv, 200; intellectual growth and, xxviii, 360; Kempis on, vii, 227 (2), 286, 296 (i); of labor, Smith on, x, 124; licence and, iv, 80; love of, in children, xxxvii, 578, 85, no-n; Lovelace on, xl, 355-6; Milton on, iii, 189, 221-7; iv, 4, 115, 344; natural, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 391-2; natural, Smith's theory of, x, 3, 251-2; necessity and, Hume on, xxxvii, 351-70; Pascal on excessive, xlviii, 125 (379); philosophy and, xxxvii, 393, 405; "pious editor's" creed of, xlii, 1373-6; refinement and, xxxii, 236-7, 254; Rousseau on love of, xxxiv, 215-16; Rousseau on renunciation of, 217-18; Schiller on, xxxii, 264-5; Smith on, x, 445-6; social, xxxiv, 393-4, 408-9; of speech and press in U. S., xliii, 194 (i); standing armies and, x, 448-9; Tennyson on, xlii, 998; on trial in America, xliii, 227-8; Vane, Sir Henry, on, 120-1, 122-3; Ward, Nathaniel, on, 66; Washington on love of, 235-6; of the will (see Free Will); Whitman on, xxxix, 399-401; Woolman on, i, 203; works on, xxv, 5

LIBERTY, ESSAY ON, Mill's, xxv, 195-312; remarks on, 155-8

LIBERTY, CHRISTIAN, Luther on, xxxvi, 344-78

Liberty of the Press, Franklin on, i, 92-3; James Mill on, xxv, 69; John Stuart Mill on, 210-49; Milton on (see AREOPAGITICA); in U. S., xliii, 194 (i)

Libicocco, the demon, xx, 88, 91

Libo, and Antony, xii, 327

Libra, the constellation, referred to, xx, 149 note 2

Libraries, Hunt on, xxvii, 294; invention of, xxviii, 56; Ruskin on public, 131; subscription, proposed by Franklin, i, 67

Libya, Herodotus on, xxxiu, 13-15* 21-2

Licences, Smith on, x, 501-2

Lichas, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 332

Lichas, servant of Alcides, iv, 122

Licinianus, Valerius, Pliny on, ix, 253-5

Licinus, Largius, and professional applauders, ix, 220-1

Lidgate, Dan John, xxxix, 7

LIE, THE, xl, 204-6

Liebig, on fermentation, xxxviii, 345-57

Liemer, Harrison on the, xxxv, 350

Lies, cross, iii, 128; some, never penned, vi, 74; Stevenson on, xxviii, 277, 282 (see also Falsehood)

Life, advancement in, Ruskin on, xxviii, 94, 127-8; Arabian proverb on, xvi, 16; Bacon on monotony of, iii, 10; beginning of, on the earth, xi, 345-6; the best teacher, xxviii, 339; bridge of, in MIRZA, xxvii, 74-6; Browne on length of, iii, 293 (42), 294 (43); Buddha on, xlv, 578, 658, 694-5; Burke on pleasure in idea of, xxiv, 35, 36; Burns on, vi, 144-5, J 69-7o, 195, 308, 316, 475, 547; Carlyle on, xxv, 320-2; Cicero on, ix, 74-6; Cicero on various ages of, 56-8; Cory on, xlii, 1114; Dante on, xx, 5 note i; Darwin's tree of, xi, 137; Dryden's lines on, xxxiv, 134; ECCLESIASTES on vanity of, xliv, 335-8, 341 (15-17), 341 (3-6); Emerson on, v, 26, 29, 63, 71-2; Epictetus on, ii, 141 (68), 162 (125), 174 (159), 181 (189), 183 (i), 184 (9), 185 (20); Goethe on false study of, xix, 79; Gray on, xl, 453; Greek dramatists on, viii, 293, 311, 411; Harvey on cause of, xxxviii, 85, 86, 102; Herrick on, xl, 337, 338, 340; Hindu conception of, xlv, 791, 849, 851; Job on, xliv, 92; Jonson on worth of, xl, 291; Keats's seasons of, xli, 896-7; Kempis on, vii, 283 (3), 284 (4), 313-M; Kempis on the inward, 238-40; Longfellow on, xlii, 1278, 1288-9; Lowell on, 1381; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 204 (17), 209 (10), 212 (3), 221 (50), 229 (24), 231 (33), 234 (16), 241 (46), 248 (40), 251 (61), 257 (24), 270 (30), 271 (36), 272 (37), 300 (31); Mill on, xxv, 35; Milton on, iv, 81, 332-3; Montaigne on, xxxii, 23, 24, 26, 27; not the result of chance, xxxiv, 252-3; Omar Khayyam on, xli, 944, 945, 952, 953; Pascal on, xlviii, 61 (156), 71, 79 (213), 127 (386); Penn on, i, 381; Plato on, ii, 249 (48); Pliny on, ix, 237; Poe on, xlii, 1240-1; Pope on, xl, 407; preservation of, as a duty, xxxii, 309-10; Psalm on vanity of, xliv, 190-1; Pythagoras on, xxxii, 46; Rossetti, C. G., on, xlii, 1182; Scott on, xli, 748; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 144, 388; Shelley on, xli, 869; Socrates on value of, ii, 37; Spencer on principle of, xi, 304-5; struggle for (see Struggle for Existence); Thackeray on, xlii, 1059; universal interest in, xix, 15; Webster on, xlvii, 850; without air (see Anaerobian Life); without light, xxxviii, 363 (see also Organic Beings)

LIFE, by Bacon, xl, 348-9

LIFE, by Barbauld, xli, 555

LIFE, by Drummond, xl, 327

LIFE, A PSALM OF, xlii, 1264-5

LIFE, THE RIVER OF, xli, 775

LIFE, THE STREAM OF, xlii, 1120

LIFE, WHAT Is OUR, xl, 207

LIFE is A DREAM, Calderon's, xxvi, 7-74; remarks on, 6

Ligarius, Quintus, trial of, xii, 251

Ligatures, Harvey on, xxxviii, 110-15;

Lister on, 266-7

Ligea, reference to, iv, 68

Liger, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 312, 341-2

Light, in architecture, xxiv, 68-9; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 205-6; composition of white, xxx, 261-2; Descartes on, xxxiv, 36, 37; diffraction of, xxx, 268; effects of various waves of, 260-1; frequency of vibration, 270; from flame, its cause, 107-11, 157; heat from, 260; intermitting, effects of, xxiv, 71; invisible, xxx, 258; knowledge of, 260; Milton on, iv, 135-6; Newton's discoveries in, xxxiv, 121-4; Noel's definition of, xlviii, 426 note; Pascal on, 123 (368); photographer's or actinic, xxx, 260; polarization of, 264-6; produced by chemical affinity, 78; refraction of, Faraday on, 32-6; sublimity of, xxiv, 67-8; velocity of, xxx, 270; vibrations of, 256-8, 263; wave lengths of, 267-70

LIGHT, THE WAVE THEORY OF, xxx, 251-73

LIGHT BRIGADE, CHARGE OF THE, xlii, 1005-7

LIGHT OF OTHER DAYS, xli, 816-17

LIGHT OF STARS, THE, xlii, 1265-6

LIGHT SHINING OUT OF DARKNESS, xlv, 562

Lightborn, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 79-80, 83-6

Lighthouses, Franklin on, i, 157-8

Light-mind, Mrs., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 187-8

Lightning, Burke on grandeur of, xxiv, 67; Darwin on effects of, xxix, 69; Franklin on, i, 146-8; tubes formed by, xxix, 67-9

Lightning Legion (see Thundering)

Like, buys like, v, 239; cures like, iv, 412

LIKE AS THE CULVER, xl, 251-2

Likeness, of all things, v, 230; attracts likeness, ii, 267 (9); ix, 26-7; in un-likeness, xxxix, 286

Lilies, Jesus on the, xliv, 388 (27)

LILIES OF QUEENS' GARDENS, xxviii, 135-62

Lilinau, story of, xlii, 1331

Lilith, Adam's wife, xix, 178-9

Liliuokalani, Queen, xliii, 437 note

Lilla, Hafiz on, v, 216

Lilly, Johnson on, xxxix, 225

Lima, Darwin on, xxix, 371-2

Limbo, Dante's, xx, 16-20; Milton's, iv, 147-8; spirits in, xx, 10 note 3

Limbs, and jaws, related, xi, 148

Lime Light, Faraday on, xxx, 108

Limestone, composition of, xxx, 329

Lime-water, composition of, xxx, 151

Limitations, Emerson on, v, 152

Linacer, Johnson on, xxxix, 225

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM, by Lowell, xxviii, 429-50

Lincoln, Abraham, absence of demagogism, xxviii, 449; his Americanism, 439; AMNESTY PROCLAMATIONS, xliii, 416-19;

difficulties of, xxviii, 434-6; EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION, xliii, 323-5; FIRST INAUGURAL ADDRESS, 313-22; GETTYSBURG ADDRESS, 415; Henry IV compared with, xxviii, 437-8; LETTER TO MRS. BIXBY, xliii, 420; Lowell's lines on, xlii, 1383-4; not a ready-made ruler, xxviii, 439-40; power and fame at death, 450; SECOND INAUGURAL ADDRESS, xliii, 424-5; self-unconsciousness, xxviii, 449; slavery problem and, 4427 (see also EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION); statesmanlike qualities of, 433; tentative policy, 436-7, 440-1; trustfulness in the people, 448-9; Whitman on death of, xlii, 1412

LINCOLN, DEATH OF, by Bryant, xlii, 1223-

Lincoln, Earl of (see Lacy, Sir Hugh)

Lindsay, Lady Anne, AULD ROBIN GRAY, xli, 557-8

Lindsay, Sir James, and Bishop of Durham, xxxv, 95-6; and Matthew Redman, 94-5, 97; at Otterburn, 92

Lindsey, Earl of, Dryden on, xviii, u

Lineage, Don Quixote's two manners of, xiv, 173-4

Ling, Duke of Wei, xliv, 47 (20), 50 (i)

Lingende, on miracles, xlviii, 295 (846)

Linnaeus, on American plants, xxviii, 407; Emerson on, v, 18; on genus, xi, 433; on increase of plants, 14; mistake of, 443

LINNET, THE GREEN, xli, 642-3

Linos, song of, xxxiii, 41

Linus, in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; Sidney on, xxvii, 6

Lion, flesh of the, xxix, 122

LION AND FOUR OXEN, fable of, xvii, 31

LION AND Fox, fable of, xvii, 25

LION AND MOUSE, fable of, xvii, 15-16

LION AND STATUE, fable of, xvii, 25

LION, Fox, AND OTHER BEASTS, fable of, xvii, 40-1

LION IN LOVE, fable of, xvii, 40

LION, THE SICK, xvii, 14-15

LION'S SHARE, THE, fable of, xvii, 12

Lion-ant, of Australia, xxix, 445 note

Lionel, Sir, at the Abbey, xxxv, 106; at court, 107; in captivity, 167; believed to be dead, 169; his character, 173; attempts to slay Sir Bors, 175; combat with Sir Colgrevance, 175-6; combat with Bors prevented by miracle, 1778; his return home, 204

Lippi, Filippino, xxxi, 24 note 3

Lippi, Francesco, and Cellini, xxxi, 24, 28

Lipsius, on criticism, xxxix, 248; Montaigne on, xxxii, 32

Liquefaction, cold caused by, xxx, 39

Liquids, cohesion of, xxx, 40-1

Liquor Trade, Mill on regulation of, xxv, 297-8

Liquors, duties on, x, 364

Liris, death of, xiii, 380

Listening, the art of, ii, 147 (81)

Lister, Joseph, ON ANTISEPTIC PRINCIPLE, xxxviii, 257-67; life and work, 256; Pasteur on, 370

Lister, William, in Tyler's Rebellion, xxxv, 73-4

Listlessness, Locke on, xxxvii, 107-10, 177

LITERARY AND PHILOSOPHICAL ESSAYS, xxxii

Literature, Arnold on good, xxviii, 90; Carlyle on, xxv, 441, 447; Carlyle on modern, 338-40; classical and romantic, xxxix, 346; criticism of manners, morals, and religion in, xxvii, 219-21; effeminacy of our, v, 51; Emerson on, 154-5; Huxley on ancient, xxviii, 213-20; Ruskin on encouragement of, 130; Seneca on, xlviii, 121 note 6; for subsistence, remarks on, xxv, 55; Taine on study of, xxxix, 410-17, 435-6; Taine on, as transcript of its times, 410-17, 435-6; tested by time, 208-9; Thoreau on nature in, xxviii, 414; Whitman on simplicity in, xxxix, 396-7; why so called, xxviii, 102

Litigation, enemy of right and wrong, vi, 292

LITTLE BRIAR-ROSE, story of, xvii, 137-40

Little-Faith, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 128-35

LITTLE IDA'S FLOWERS, xvii, 334-41

Little John, in ROBYN HODE, in adventure with sorrowful knight, xl, 129, 130-2, 133-4, J 36, 138, 139; with sheriff of Nottingham, 147-53; in adventure with monks, 154-8, 160; at archery contest, 165-6; saved by Robyn Hode, 167; returns to green wood, 170, 179; with Robyn at court, 183

LITTLE RED CAP, xvii, 109-13

Little Round Top, at Gettysburg, xliii, 335

LITTLE SEA-MAID, THE, xvii, 238-59

LITTLE SNOW-WHITE, xvii, 146-54

Littleness, as cause of beauty, xxiv, 92-3, 125-7; infinite, is sublime, 62

Littlewit, John, xxxix, 161

Liu-hsia Hui, xliv, 52 note, 61 (2), 63 (8)

Live-loose, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Liver, Harvey on the, xxxviii, 96-7, 127

Livermore, Thomas L., xliii, 326 headnote

Livia, Augustus and, iii, 50; the sons of, xii, 388; Tacitus on, iii, 17; Tiberius and, 141

LIVING Too LONG, ON, xli, 905

Livingston, Robert R., in Louisiana Purchase, xliii, 250 note

Livre, French coin x, 31

Livy, citizen of Cadiz and, ix, 214-15; on fall of the great, xxxix, 71 note; Macaulay on, xxvii, 394-5; Mill's delight in, xxv, 13; on prophecy of Pharsalia, xii, 303; Shelley on, xxvii, 335, 344; the Spaniard and, xxviii, 57

Liwarc'h Hen, Celtic bard, xxxii, 166

Liz, by Buchanan, xlii, 1199

Lizards, of Galapagos Islands, xxix, 389-95; S. American, 104

Ljod, daughter of Hrimnir, xlix, 259-60

Llama, Darwin on the wild, xxix, 170-3; Francis Pretty on, xxxiii, 210

Lloyd, Captain, in Mauritius, xxix, 488

Loadstones, Faraday on, xxx, 65

Loans, bank, x, 243-6; in Scotland, 2367; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109; Smith on, x, 278-80; by states, 470-1

Lobineau, Dom, Saints of Brittany, xxxii, 173

Local Administration, abuses of, x, 456

Local Expenses, x, 465-7

LOCHINVAR, xli, 751-2

LOCK OF HAIR, To A, xli, 740

LOCK THE DOOR, LARISTON, xli, 767-9

Locke, John, on arguments, xxxvii, 332 note; Berkeley and, 186; on darkness, xxiv, 114-15; Emerson on, v, 143, 436, 438; on general words, xxiv, 131; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 267-8; On Human Understanding, i, 17; Hume on, xxxvii, 291, 303 note; on innate ideas, 303; life and works, 3-4; on matter, 345 note; Mill on, xxv, 47; Mill's abstract of, 46; on money, x, 312; on pleasure and pain, xxiv, 32 note; on power, xxxvii, 338 note; on property, xxxiv, 205; THOUGHTS CONCERNING EDUCATION, xxxvii, 5-183; Unitarianism and, xxxiv, 84; Voltaire on, 102-8; on wit and judgment, xxiv, 17

Lockhart, Life of Scott, Carlyle on, xxv,

396-403

LOCKSLEY HALL, xlii, 979-86

Locrians, legislation of the, xxv, 222

Locrine, son of Brutus, iv, 66

Locusts, Darwin on, xxix, 333; Harrison on, xxxv, 348-9; the plague of, iv, 96; swarms of, blown by winds, xi, 391

Loderingo, (see Liandolo)

Lodge, Thomas, Poems by, xl, 214-17

Lodging, materials of, Smith on, x, 166-8, 178-9

Loe, Thomas, and William Penn, xxxiv, 74 note

Lofraso, Anthony, Cervantes on, xiv, 53

Logan, James, anecdote of, i, 109

Logan, John, BRÆS OF YARROW, xli, 500-1

LOGAN, MAJOR, EPISTLE TO, vi, 245-8

LOGAN, Miss, To, vi, 255

Logan, Sir W., on Canadian strata, xi, 345

LOGAN BRÆS, vi, 462-3

Logic, Bacon on, xxxix, 125, 132-3, 1345, 144, 145; Bacon on study of, iii, 122; Carlyle on, xxv, 323-4; Descartes on, xxxiv, 16-17; Goethe on, xix, 78-9; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; Hume on, xxxvii, 297; Kant on, xxxii, 299; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 138, 158-60; Marlowe on, xix, 206 and note 10; Mill on study of, xxv, 17-18; Mill's work in, 100-1, 113-14, 129-30, 138-41; Milton on study of, iii, 237, 243; Montaigne on, xxxii, 63; Pascal on, xlviii, 409-10

Logicians, Pascal on, xlviii, 129 (393)

LOGIE o' BUCHAN, xli, 571-2

Logris, realm of, xxxv, 183

Lokabyuhas, xlv, 603

Loki, in STORY OF VOLSUNGS AND NIBLUNGS, xlix, 285, 286

Lombardi, commentator of Dante, xx, 145 note 2, et seq

Lombardo, Marco, xx, 209 note

Lombardo, Pietro, xx, 328 note 19

Lomna Druth, xlix, 217, 219, 220, 223, 226, 230, 231, 233, 238, 240, 241, 243

LONDON, MDCCCII, xli, 676

London, Carlyle on, v, 323; Emerson on, 361, 466; Franklin on streets of, i, 1203; Harrison on Lord Mayors of, xxxv, 278; Herschel on, v, 334; industries of, x, 264-5; rent and lodging in, 120-1

London Punch, Emerson on, v, 452

London Review, The, xxv, 4, 125-6, 129, 133-7

LONDON SQUARE, IN A, xlii, 1121

London Times, The, Emerson on, v, 448

London University, Harrison on, xxxv, 371-2, 379, 382

Long, George, LIFE OF M. AURELIUS ANTONINUS, ii, 302-19; PHILOSOPHY OF ANTONINUS, 320-45; translator of M. Aurelius Antoninus, 191

Long Parliament, free printing suppressed by, iii, 184, 185-7; Milton on the, 1902, 226-7, 231; xxviii, 187-8; theatres closed by, xviii, 5

LONG PARLIAMENT, NEW FORCERS OF CONSCIENCE UNDER THE, iv, 80-1

Longevity, Browne on, iii, 294 (43); Cicero on, ix, 69-70; Darwin on, xi, 209-10; its effect on traditions, xlvii, 207

Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth, poems by, xlii, 1264-1338; Poe on Waif of, xxviii, 378-80

LONGING, xli, 798-9

Longinus, Hugo on, xxxix, 345; quoted, xxiv, 45

Longstreet, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 343, 347

Lope Ruyz, tale of, xiv, 156

Lope de Vega, quoted, xxxix, 365

Lopez, Dr., xix, 240 note i

Lopez, Francisco, xxxiii, 317, 318-19

LORD GREGORY, vi, 454-5

LORD THOMAS AND FAIR ANNET, xl, 61-5

LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER, xli, 773-5

Lord's Prayer, The, xliv, 383 (2-4); Dante on, xx, 186-7; Herbert on the, xv, 402-3; Locke on the, xxxvii, 132

Lords of Articles (Scotland), xxiv, 254 note

Lords of Trade, and Albany Convention, i, 124

Lorenzo the Magnificent, age of, xxvii, 371-2

LORIMER, Miss, INSCRIPTION TO, vi, 541

Lorraine, Cardinal of, Cellini on, xxxi, 283 note, 284, 297, 298; in FAUSTUS, xix, 231

Lorraine, Francois de, at Boulogne, xxxviii, 18

Losses, and crosses, lessons from, vi, 68; Epictetus on, ii, 120 (n), 126 (27); Smith on fear of, x, no

LOST LEADER, THE, xlii, 1067-8

LOST MISTRESS, THE, xlii, 1069-70

LOST YOUTH, MY, xlii, 1290-3

Lot, Jesus on, xliv, 399-400 (28-9); Jesus on wife of, 400 (32); Mohammed on, xlv, 906-993; wife of, xv, 112-13

Lothair, son of Louis Debonnaire, xxxix, 82

Lothario, and Anselmo, xiv, 307-46, 351-

Lothario, gay, reference to, xix, 113

Lotos-Eaters, in Egypt, xxxiii, 45; Ulysses and the, xxii, 17

LOTOS-EATERS, THE, xlii, 993-8; editor's remarks on, 1, 20

Lotteries, Smith on, x, 109; Woolman on, i, 243-4

Lotto, Pier Maria di, xxxi, 80 note

Lotus-Eaters (see Lotos-Eaters)

Loudness, as source of the sublime, xxiv, 69-70

Loudoun, Lord, administration of, i, 1545; attack on Louisburg, 153; death of, vi, 299 note; indecision of, i, 152-4; in proprietary quarrels, 151

Louis, of Bavaria, son of Debonnaire; xxxix, 82

Louis le Begue, xxxix, 82

Louis the Debonnaire, Raleigh on, xxxix, 80-3

Louis, son of Charles the Simple, xxxix, 83

Louis, Saint, wife of, xx, 174 note 14

Louis XI, barber of, xxxix, 356; Henry VII and, 77; leaden god of, 95; mercenaries of, xxxvi, 47; postal service established by, ix, 368 note 4; secrecy of, iii, 68

Louis XII, Macaulay on, xxvii, 388; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 8-9, 12-15, 24

Louis XIII, Richelieu and, xxiv, 332

Louis XIV, Burke on reign of, xxiv, 246; Dryden on, xiii, 55; on duties of sovereign, xxxiv, 217-18; Emerson on, v, 390; English dislike of, xxxiv, 86; literature under, xxxix, 428; Mazarin and, xxiv, 332; Scarron and, xxxix, 351; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 151

Louis XVI, Burke on, xxiv, 202-3, 2812, 218-20, 266, 269, 281; king under the Constitution, 331-4; on October Sixth, 208-12; place of execution of, xxxix, 359-60

Louis, Don, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 431-5, 442-7

LOUISIANA, CESSION OF, xliii, 250-4

LOUSE, To A, vi, 190-1

Louvain, Lipsius on, xxviii, 46

Louviers, town of, xxxv, 16

Louvois, and Louis, xxiv, 332

Love, Alcibiades on, xii, 109 note 2; among angels, iv, 259; Beaumont on, xlvii, 692; beginnings of conjugal and paternal, xxxiv, 202; Blake on, xli, 591; Brome on, xl, 369-70; Browning, E. B., on, xli, 927-8, 928-9, 931-2, 934, 939, 940; Browning, Robert on, xlii, 1099-1100, 1109; Browning, Robert, on fraternal, xviii, 383-4; Burke on, xxiv, 36-8; Burns on, vi, 136-7, 181, 204, 475; business and, xl, 311; Byron on, xli, 800; Campbell on, 782; "can tame the wildest," xvii, 40; comfort in strength of, xli, 626; Confucius on, xliv, 9 (3), 12-13 (1-7), 16 (18), 20 (20, 21), 21 (28, 6), 23 (29), 29 (28), 37, 40 (22), 43 (19), 45 (2, 5, 7, 8), 47 (17), 48 (30), 51 (8, 9), 53 (34, 35), 58 (6, 8); Corneille on causes and effects of, xlviii, 62-3; a cureless sorrow, xl, 248; death and, iii, 9; xlii, 1036; Hobbes's definition of, xxxiv, 341; desire contrasted with, xxiv, 74; Donne on, xl, 312-13; echoes of, xli, 822; Emerson on blindness of, v, 301; Envy compared with, iii, 22, 26; Euripides on, viii, 313, 323, 327, 331, 359; excited by theatre, xlviii, 13 (n); fear and, xxxvi, 55-6; xlvi, 152-3; friendship and, ix, 42; xxxii, 75-6; Goethe on, xix, 67, 132-3, 139-40, 2912, 369; Greek epigram on, v, 306-7; Hume on, xxxvii, 324; inspired by virtue, ix, 19; is love forever, xlii, 981; jealousy and, xl, 286; Jonson on, 2957; Kant on practical, xxxii, 311; Kempis on, vii, 247 (4), 263-5; Longfellow on, xlii, 1283; Marcus Aurelius on the universal, ii, 280 (21); mathematically just, v, 97; Milton on, iv, 258, 266; Milton on misfortunes of, 313; Milton on wedded, 173-4; of misanthropes, ii, 185 (23); Moore on, xxviii, 384; More on, xxxvi, 212; music and, xli, 479; the panacea, v, 56-7; Pascal on decay of, xlviii, 50 (123); Pascal on passion of, 411-21; Paul, St., on, xlv, 508-9 (1-13), 514 (14); Penn on, i, 330 (82-3), 366-7

(545-56); physical cause of, xxiv, 119-20; physical effects of, xxxviii, 124; pity and, xl, 393-4; Poe on, xxviii, 391, 392; poets of, xxvii, 347-8; Raleigh on, xl, 205; refined by sense of beauty, xxxii, 292-3; remedy of all blunders, v, 282; Scott on, xli, 743-4, 751-2; Shakespeare on, xl, 262, 281, 282; xlvi, 124, 153-4, 223; Shelley on, xli, 826-7850-1; "short word that says much," xviii, 390; Sidney on, xxvii, 34; Sophocles on, viii, 281; in state of nature, xxxiv, 191-4; Stevenson on, xxviii, 283-4; Stoic definition of, xxxii, 77-8; Swinburne on, xlii, 1208; Tennyson on, 980, 1020, 1028; Tennyson on faith in, 976; Thomson on, 1149; time and, xlvi, 188; Tzu-hsia on, xliv, 64 (6); unlawful, punished in Hell, xx, 22-4; unrequited, impossibility of, v, 118-19; Walton on, xv, 326; Webster on, xlvii, 797; Wordsworth on, xli, 664-6; in young men, xiv, 204; Yu-tzu on roots of, xliv, 5 (2)

LOVE, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 26-8

LOVE, by Coleridge, xli, 704-7

LOVE, by Herbert, xl, 341-2

LOVE, ALL FOR, xli, 789-90

LOVE, DIRGE FOR, by Sidney, xl, 211-12

LOVE, DIRGE OF, by Shakespeare, xl, 2689

LOVE, THE FLIGHT OF, xli, 851-2

LOVE, GIVE ALL TO, xlii, 1244-5

LOVE, GIVE ME MORE, xl, 352-3

LOVE, SUMMONS TO, xl, 329-30

LOVE FOR LOVE, vi, 442

LOVE GREGOR: a ballad, xl, 65-8

LOVE IN HER EYES SITS PLAYING, xl, 402

LOVE IN THE GUISE OF FRIENDSHIP, vi, 294

LOVE IN THE VALLEY, xlii, 1140-5

LOVE LIES A-BLEEDING, xlvii, 667-751

LOVE LOOKED FOR HELL, How, xlii, 1398-1401

LOVE Nor ME, xl, 325-6

LOVE THOU THY LAND, xlii, 999-1001

LOVE WILL FIND OUT THE WAY, xl, 379-80

LOVE-BEGOTTEN DAUGHTER, To A, vi, 55-

Love-gain, town of, xv, 104

Love-lust, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Love-Potions, Webster on, xlvii, 791-2

Love-saint, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 282

LOVE-SWEETNESS, xlii, 1180

Love-the-flesh, Mrs., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 188

LOVE'S DEITY, xl, 309-10

LOVE'S FAREWELL, xl, 228

LOVE'S OMNIPRESENCE, xl, 314

LOVE'S PERJURIES, xl, 266-7

LOVE'S PHILOSOPHY, xli, 832

Lovejoy, Emerson on, v, 130

Lovelace, Richard, poems by, xl, 354-6

LOVELINESS OF LOVE, THE, xli, 913-14

Lovell, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 471

Lovell, Lord, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, master of Allworth, 8689; Overreach's plan to win, 878, 892, 899-900; with Allworth on way to Overreach's, 892; Overreach on, 898; arrival at Overreach's, 901-2; with Margaret, 902-3; 909; with Lady Allworth at Overreach's, 905, 906; departure, 909; discharges Allworth, 911; with Overreach at Allworth's, 912-15; with Lady Allworth, 916-19; reconciliation with Lady Allworth, 928-30; with Wellborn, 931; in final scene, 937, 939, 941, 942-3

LOVELY LASS OF INVERNESS, vi, 488-9

LOVELY POLLY STEWART, vi, 413-14

LOVELY YOUNG JESSIE, vi, 455-6

LOVER, THE CONSTANT, xl, 353

LOVER AND His LASS, xl, 263-4

LOVER'S APPEAL, xl, 192-3

LOVER'S INFINITENESS, xl, 308-9

LOVER'S LULLABY, A, xl, 195-6

LOVER'S MORNING SALUTE TO His MISTRESS, vi, 502-3

LOVER'S RESOLUTION, THE, xl, 332-3

LOVESIGHT, by Rossetti, xlii, 1178

Lovewit, in THE ALCHEMIST, xlvii, 642-51, 657-64

LOVING IN TRUTH, xl, 212-13

Low Archipelago, Darwin on, xxix, 406

Lowell, James Russell, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, xxviii, 429-50; DEMOCRACY, 451-70; life and works, 428; POEMS by, xlii, 1370-90

Loxias, Apollo called, viii, 100, 119, 123

Loyal, Mr., in TARTUFFE, xxvi, 285-90

Lubbock, Sir John, on linking species, xi, 337; on sexual characters, 158-9; on variability in Coccus, 56

Lucagnolo, xxxi, 34, 35-8, 42

Lucagus, death of, xiii, 341-2

Lucan, Browne on, iii, 294-5 (44); i Dante's HELL, xx, 19; Montaigne on, xxxii, 90; Nero and, xviii, 17; Shelley on, xxvii, 338, 349; xli, 867; Sidney on, xxvii, 12

Lucanus, Domitius, ix, 327-8

Lucas, Prosper, on inheritance, xi, 28; on resemblances, 315

LUCASTA, To, GOING BEYOND THE SEAS, xl, 356

LUCASTA, To, ON GOING TO THE WARS, xl, 354-5

Lucceius, Cicero on, ix, 88, 150; letter to, 101

Lucchesini, Girolamo, xxxi, 418 note

Lucetius, death of, xiii, 312

Luchdonn, the satirist, xlix, 212

Lucia, Dante on, xx, u note 6, 180, 422

Lucia, in THE BETROTHED (see Mondella, Lucia)

Lucia, Sainte, xxxi, 374 note

Lucian, Alexander the prophet and, xxxvii, 384-5; atheism of, iii, 43; dispute of S. and T. in, 314-15; on love of lies, 7

Lucianus, in HAMLET, xlvi, 155

Lucifer, in Dante's HELL, xx, 140, 141-2; in FAUSTUS, xix, 226-7, 228-9; Marlowe on fall of, 214-15; pictured in Purgatory, xx, 191; Satan called, iv, 301; called the worm, xx, 25 note i

Lucilius, and Brutus, xii, 375-6

Lucinda, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 201-6, 240-8, 264-5, 356-65

Lucius of Cyrene, xliv, 450 (i)

Luck, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 360; Gudrun on the trust in, xlix, 354; shallow men believe in, v, 283

LUCKNOW, THE PIPES AT, xlii, 1360-2

Lucre Hill, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 109, 285

Lucretia, in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; reference to, 306

Lucretius, Cicero on, ix, no; Claudian and, xxxix, 426; Montaigne on, xxxii, 90-1; on pleasure of truth, iii, 8; on religion, 14; xxiv, 136-7; xxv, 30; in Rome, iii, 195; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 132; Shelley on, xxvii, 344; Sidney on, 12; Swift on, 106; on terror caused by wonder of nature, xxiv, 59; Wordsworth on, v, 324

Lucullus, Cicero and, xii, 244; Clodius and, 241-2; faction of, iii, 123; Pompey and, 109

LUCY: by Wordsworth, xii, 669-72

LUCY ASHTON'S SONG, xii, 748

LUCY, COUNTESS OF BEDFORD, xl, 297

Ludlow, Hugo on, xxxix, 380

Luisens, Duke de, and Edw. Herbert, xv, 374

Luke, St., Dante on, xx, 266 and note 14; vocation and nationality of, xliv, 352

LUKE, GOSPEL ACCORDING TO, xliv, 351-419; Pascal on, xlviii, 190 (578)

Luke Dosa, iron crown of, xii, 531

LULLABY, by Shakespeare, xl, 265

LULLABY, A LOVER'S, xl, 195-6

LULLABY, A SWEET, xl, 197-8

LULLABY, OUR BLESSED LADY'S, xl, 256-60

Lully, Raymond, iii, 199 note; xlvii, 585 note

Lumpkin, Tony, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, son of Mrs. Hardcastle, xviii, 206; his pranks, 206-7; Miss Neville and, 210; goes to ale-house, 207; at the ale-house, 211-13; with Marlow and Hastings, 213-15; with Constance Neville, 229, 230-1; with his mother, 231; with Hastings, 232-3; steals Miss Neville's jewels for her, 235-6, 237-9; with Miss Neville in the plot, 250-2; and the letter from Hastings, 252-4; denounced by all, 254; takes leave, 256; as driver in elopement plot, 2603; finally releases Miss Neville, 268

Luned, in Arthurian legends, xxxii, 166 note

Lungs, developed from swimbladder, xi, 186; Fabricius on the, xxxviii, 65; Harvey on, 138, 139; heart and, relations of, 65, 69-72, 88, 90, 90-4, 100, 131; passage of blood through, 94-7, 99-100

Lupercalia, feast of, xii, 313

Luperci, Virgil on the, xiii, 290

Lupercus, letter to, ix, 346-50

Lupus, Nymphidius, Pliny on, ix, 371

Luscinius, Gaius, and Æmilius, ix, 23

Lust, Dante on, xx, 50; in Dante's HELL, 22-4; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; of the eyes, vii, 189; Hindu Krishna on, xlv, 862; love and, i, 330 (82-3); xl, 419; Milton on, iv, 56-7; Pascal on three kinds of, xlviii, 152-3 (458), 153-4 (460-1); Shakespeare on, xl, 281 (135); xlvi, 116; Webster on, xlvii, 783

Lutatius, Catulus, xii, 235; Ca?sar and, 268-9

LUTE, To His, William Drummond's, xl, 328

Luther, Martin, ADDRESS TO GERMAN NOBILITY, xxxvi, 263-335; Browne on, iii, 253-4 (2); Carlyle on, xxv, 324; CHRISTIAN LIBERTY, xxxvi, 344-78; Emerson on, v, 66; hymn by, xlv, 5578; letter to Archbishop Albert, xxxvi, 247; letter to Leo X, 336-44; letter to Nicholas Amsdorff, 260-1; life and works, 246; NINETY-FIVE THESES, 251-59; Taine on table-talk of, xxxix, 435; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 84; on wisemen, v, 232; Wyclif and, iii, 223

Luxuries, defined by Smith, x, 517-18; Emerson on, v, 51; Milton on, iv, 63, 65; taxes on, Penn on, i, 327-8, 391; taxes on, Smith on, x, 518-21, 533-39; taxes on, when best paid, 477-8 (3)

Luxury, Burns on, vi, 139, 250; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; of doing good, xli, 520; Epictetus on, ii, 176 (168); generation and, x, 80; Goldsmith on, xli, 516, 518; Jonson on, xl, 295-6; Penn on, i, 325, 330; Pliny on, ix, 216; Woolman on, i, 196-7, 290-1

Luynes, Duke de, xlviii, 346 note 2

Lycas, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 340

Lyceian King, Apollo called, viii, 215, 236

Lychnocaia, religious festival, xxxiii, 34-5

LYCIDAS, Milton's, iv, 72-77; Ruskin on, xxviii, 105-10

Lycis, reference to, viii, 439

Lycomedes, and Neoptolemus, ix, 34; at Salamis, xii, 19

Lycon, accuser of Socrates, ii, n

Lycopodium, xxx, 106 note

Lycurgus, Aristides and, xii, 79; Bacon on, iii, 130; learning of, 194; young law-breaker and, ii, 150 (88)

Lycurgus, and Hypsipile, xx, 252 note

Lycus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 81, 311-12

Lydgate, Dryden on, xxxix, 163

Lydia, the Christian, xliv, 458 (14-15)

Lyell, Sir Charles, on colonies of Barrande, xi, 350; Darwin to, xxix, 7; editor's remarks on papers of, 1, 40; on geology, xi, 102-3; geology, works on, 321-2; life and works of, xxx viii, 384; on means of dispersal, xi, 386; on origin of species and geological record, 347-8; PROGRESS OF GEOLOGY, xxxviii, 385-97; on struggle for life, xi, 72; on subsidence of Pacific, xxix, 472 note; on succession of species, xi, 349; UNIFORMITY OF CHANGE, xxxviii, 398-418

Lygians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 117

Lying, Locke on, xxxvii, 114, 115

Lying-in Hospitals, Lee on, xxxviii, 248

Lyly, John, CUPID AND CAMPASPE, xl, 209; SPRING'S WELCOME, 209; Jonson on, 301-3

Lyncaeus, eyes of, v, 170

Lynceus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 319

Lynceus, and Hypermnaestra, viii, 198 note

Lyngi, King, xlix, 278, 280, 291, 292

Lyon, Richard, and Wat Tyler, xxxv, 69

Lyric Poetry, Hugo on age of, xxxix, 339-40, 352-3, 354; Milton on, v, 175; Sidney on, xxvii, 28; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 298

Lysander, admiral of Sparta, xii, 142, 144; Alcibiades and, 145; Cyrus and, ix, 67; on Spartan respect for age, 67-8

Lysanias of Sphettus, ii, 22

Lysanias, tetrarch of Abilene, xliv, 360 (1)

Lysias, Claudius, xliv, 475 (26), 477 (22)

Lysias, the orator, ix, 205 note i

Lysicles, and Aspasia, xii, 60

Lysimachus, son of Aristides, xii, 105

Lysippus, and Alexander, ix, 104

Lyso, Cicero on, ix, 154

Lyte, Henry Francis, ABIDE WITH ME, xlv, 566-7

Lytton, Edward Earl, THE LAST WISH, xiii, 1119

M

Mab, fairy, Milton on, iv, 32

Mabinogion, The, xxxii, 139 note, 145-65

Mabon, son of Modron, xxxii, 150-2

M'ADAM, To MR., vi, 189-90

Macariens, law of the, xxxvi, 163

Macario, Father, miracle of, xxi, 49-50

Macarius, the monk, xx, 379 note 4

Macaroni, Pagolo, xxxi, 304, 308

Macaulay, G. C., Editor of Froissart, xxxv, i; translator of Herodotus, xxxiii, i

Macaulay, Thomas Babington, Emerson on, v, 440; life and works, xxvii, 362; ON MACHIAVELLI, 363-401; Mill on, xxv, 51-2, 81, 100, 101 ; poems by, xli, 915-17; in Union Debating Society, xxv, 51

Macaulay, Zachary, xxvii, 362

MACBETH, TRAGEDY OF, xlvi, 319-94; Hugo on witches in, xxxix, 348; Lamb on staging of, xxvii, 309-11, 312-6

Macbeth, general of Duncan, xlvi, 322-3; made Thane of Cawdor, 324; with the witches, 324-7; with king's messengers, 327-9; received by king, 330-1; hatred of Malcolm, Prince of Cumberland, 331; letter to wife, 331; Lady Macbeth on, 331-2; return home, 333; hesitates to kill Duncan, 335-6; urged on by Lady Macbeth, 336-7; with Banquo before murder, 338-9; vision of dagger, 339; goes to murder, 340; with Lady Macbeth after murder, 340-2; with Macduff and Lennox, 344-5; on discovery of murder, 345, 346-7; chosen king, 349; with Banquo, 350-1; plots to kill Banquo, 351-4; tells Lady Macbeth, 354-6; at the banquet, 357-62; Lennox on, 363-4; with witches, shown apparitions, 366-9; learns Macduff's flight, 370; Macduff on, 375; in Dunsinane Castle, 384-7, 388; hears death of wife, 388; learns forest moving, 389; fights with young Siward, 390; and Macduff, 391-2; death, 393

Macbeth, Lady, letter from husband, xlvi, 331; plans to kill king, 332-3; receives husband, 333; welcomes king to castle, 334; urges husband to murder, 336-8; Duncan's gift to, 338; during murder, 340; with husband after murder, 340-3; on discovery of murder, 345, 347; with Banquo, 350; with husband, concerning Banquo's murder, 354-6; at banquet, 357-8, 360-2; walks in sleep, 382-3; doctor on, 386; her death, 388, 394; Ruskin on, xxviii, 139

Maccabaeus, Judas, Dante on, xx, 362 note 3; Milton on, iv, 388; one of nine worthies, xxxix, 20

Maccabees, Pascal on the, xlviii, 208-9 (630)

MacCarthy, D. F., translator of STABAT MATER, xlv, 553-5

Maccecht, son of Snade, xlix, 206-7, 212, 213, 222-3, 225, 243, 244, 245-6, 247

M'Culloch, Mill on, xxv, 63, 65, 80-1

McCULLOGH vs. MARYLAND, xliii, 208-24

MacDonald, George, poems by, xlii, 1118-9

M'Dougal, Sir George, xxv, 413

Macduff, in MACBETH, xlvi, 334; with the porter, 343-44; discovers king's murder, 344-7; with Ross, 348-9; his flight to England, 364, 370; at English court, with Malcolm, 373-7; with Ross, learns death of family, 378-81; in war on Macbeth, 383, 387, 390; fight with Macbeth, 390-2; his victory, 393

Macduff, Lady, xlvi, 370-2

Macedo, Largius, and his slaves, ix, 24041

Macedonia, Raleigh on, xxxix, 71, 113

Macer, Baebius, letters to, ix, 231-309

Macer, Calpurnius, ix, 382, 392

Macer, Licinius, death of, xii, 225

M'Gill, Dr. William, vi, 337 note, 351

Machabeus (see Maccabaeus)

Macherone, Cesare, xxxi, no

Machiavel, in EGMONT, xix, 260-5, 288-

Machiavelli, Art of War, xxvii, 392-4; Bacon on, iii, 98; Belphegor, xxvii, 387; Caesar Borgia and, 388-9; on Christianity, iii, 33; Clizia of, xxvii, 386; on democracy, xxv, 368; deserts of, xxvii, 400-1; Discourses on Livy, 394-5; efforts to relieve Italy, 390-3; life and works of, xxxvi, 3-4; Mandragola of, xxvii, 382-6; obloquy following death, 400; odiousness of, 363-5; political correspondence of, 387-8; THE PRINCE, xxxvi, 5-86; THE PRINCE, Macaulay on, xxvii, 363-5, 394, 395; representative of Italian Renaissance, 1, 23; his times, xxvii, 366-82; works of, Macaulay on, 382-7, 397-400

MACHIAVELLI, ESSAY ON, xxvii, 363-401 Machinery, advantages of, x, 225; fixed capital, 219; division of labor and, 1415; Emerson on, v, 81, 399; power and velocity in, xxx, 181-4; in woollen manufactures, x, 206-7; work of, xxx, 176-7

MACKENZIE, DR., NOTE TO, vi, 215

M'Kenzie, Mr., of Applecross, vi, 205

Mackinlay, Rev. James, Burns on, vi, 163, 166, 242, 352

McKinley, William, Cuba and, xliii, 440 note; Hawaii and, 437 note

Mackintosh, Sir James, Emerson on, v, 143, 439

Maclean of Lochbuy, xlii, 1394-7

M'Lehose, Mrs., Burns and, vi, 293, 295

M'Leod, Isabella, verses on, vi, 299

M'LEOD, JOHN, ON THE DEATH OF, vi, 272-3

M'MATH, JOHN, EPISTLE TO, vi, 104-7

M'MURDO, JOHN, LINES ON, vi, 466

M'MURDO, JOHN, LINES TO, vi, 329

MacNeil, Hector, poems by, xli, 576-8

Mac. on, Antoine de, xxxi, 291 note 2

Macpherson, James, Goldsmith on, xli, 507; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 328-9

M'PHERSON'S FAREWELL, vi, 297-8

Macrauchenia Patachonica, xxix, 177

Macready, and Browning, xviii, 358

Macrinius, letters to, ix, 216-7, 299-301

Macrinus, Emperor, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 67

Macrinus, Minutius, letter to, ix, 326-7; Pliny on, 201

Macro, and Sejanus, iii, 94

Macrobius, on dreams, xl, 43; on Virgil, xiii, 14

Macrocosmus, sign of, xix, 25

Macronians, circumcision among, xxxiii, 51

Macureguarai, town of, xxxiii, 355, 363

MAD MAID'S SONG, xl, 334-5

Madasinia, Queen, xiv, 207, 210

Madeira, flora of, xi, in; species of, 415-6, 424

Madeline, and Porphyro, xli, 884-93

Madison, James, papers for FEDERALIST, xliii, 199 note

Madness, cause of, xxiv, 37; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 353-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 133 (414); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 127-8, 130-1

MADRIGAL, by Drummond, xl, 326

MADRIGAL, by Shakespeare, xl, 267

Maecenas, Antony and, xviii, 25; Dryden on, 17; Pliny and, xliii, 29; Plutarch on, xii, 348; Virgil and, xiii, 3; xxxix, 164

Maecianus, Lucius V., teacher of M. Aurelius Antoninus, ii, 303

Mae'l, and Lancelot, xxxii, 163

Maelius, Spurius, death of, ix, 65

Maenads, Bacchus and the, viii, 215; Pentheus and the, 123; son of Dry as and, 286

Maeon, death of, xiii, 332-3

Maeonides, Homer called, iv, 136

Maevius, Dryden on, xiii, 13; Shelley on, xxvii, 358

Magaeus, and Alcibiades, xii, 145-6

Magalotti, Gregorio, xxxi, 122 note

Magdalena, Drake at, xxxiii, 149

Magdalene, Mary, xliv, 373 (37-50), 374 (2), 416 (10); John Donne on, xv, 378; Kempis on, vii, 246 (i)

MAGDALENE, FOR THE, xl, 328

Magdolos, battle of, xxxiii, 80

Magellan, first to circumnavigate globe, xxxiii, 122; at Port St. Julian, 205

Magellan Clouds, described, xxiii, 30

Magellan, Straits of, Darwin on, xxix, 236; Pretty on, xxxiii, 207-8

Magic, Browne on, iii, 282 (31); Faust on, xix, 24; Faustus on, 208

Magicians, in Dante's HELL, xx, 84

Magistrates, expenses of, x, 465; marriage of, iii, 21 ; Vane on duties of, xliii, 122-3

Magna Charta, Burke on, xxiv, 170-1; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 90; Winthrop on, xliii, 96

MAGNA, INSTAURATIO (see INSTAURATIO MAGNA)

Magnane, M. de, xxxviii, 24

Magnanimity, friendship requires, v, 114; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 341, 365; Marcus Aurelius on term, ii, 277 (8); Ruskin on, xxviii, 127

Magnetism, Faraday on, xxx, 65-8; illustrated, 25; produced by electricity, 82-5, 206

Magneto-electrical Machines, xxx, 206

Magneto-electricity, discovered by Faraday, xxx, 5

Magnificence, a source of the sublime, xxiv, 66

Magnitude, in architecture, xxiv, 64-5; Pliny on, ix, 205; sublimity of, xxiv, 61-2, 109-11

Magnusson, Eirikr, xlix, 249

Magus, death of, xiii, 339

Magyars, Freeman on the, xxviii, 268-9; Turks and, 227-9

Maha Bharata, The, remarks on, xlv, 784

Maha-Brahma, xlv, 610, 613-14, 618

Maha-Maya, mother of Buddha, xlv, 606-10

Mahatmas, xlv, 823, 826

Mahew, Mr., among the Indians, xliii, 138, 140

Mahmud, Omar Khayyam on, xli, 952

Mahomet (see Mohammed)

Maia, daughter of Atlas, xiii, 272; Jove and, xl, 242; mother of Mercury, xx, 382 note 13

Maiander, River, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 11

MAID OF ATHENS, xli, 795-6

Maimonides, Moses, on prophets, xlviii, 214 (2)

Mairet, and Corneille, xxxix, 361

Maisar, game of, xlv, 994 note 3

Majority, Burke on tyranny of the, xxiv, 259-60; Lincoln on rule of the, xliii, 318-19; Lowell on government by, xxviii, 464; Mill on tyranny of the, xxv, 198; Pascal on rule of, xlviii, 106 (301), 305-6 (878)

Mai, son of Telband, xlix, 225-6

Malacoda, in Dante's HELL, xx, 87

Malaspina, Alagia, xx, 224 note

Malaspina, Archbishop of Genoa, xxxi, 45 note I

Malaspina, Conrad, in Purgatory, xx, 178

Malaspina, Marcello, and Dante, xx, 224 note

Malaspina, Morello, Dante and, xx, 102 note 5, 178 note 10

Malatesti, Count, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 791, 804-5, 835, 847-8, 851-4

Malavolti, Catalano cle, xx, 96 note 4

Malay Archipelago, Darwin on, xi, 338, 418-19

Malays, superstition of the, xxix, 462

Malaysia, Drake in, xxxiii, 218-24

Malchus, and St. Peter, xlviii, 262 (744)

Malcolm, in MACBETH, with Duncan in camp, xlvi, 322, 323; reports death of Cawdor, 329; made Prince of Cumberland, 330-1; after father's murder, 346, 347-8; suspected of murder, 349; at English court, 363-4; with MacdufF, 373-7; and Ross, 378-9; comforts MacdufT, 380-1; in war on Macbeth, 383, 387, 389-91; with Siward, 392-3; hailed as king, 393-4

Maldiva, Archipelago, Darwin on, xxix, 481-2

Maldonado, town, Darwin on, xxix, 48-9

Maldonado, Lopez, Cervantes on, xiv, 53-4

Malebolge, in Hell, xx, 73

Malebranche, Nicholas, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 234; on God, 345-6 note; xxxiv, 104; Hume on, xxxvii, 291; Montesquieu on, xxxii, 118; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 71

Malfi, Duchess of, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, Antonio on, xlvii, 761; in presencechamber scene, 761; Bosola hired to watch, 763-4; with brothers, advised against marriage, 765-6; scene with Antonio, 767-72; Bosola on condition of, 774, 778; with Bosola, 775-77; plans to hide her condition, 777; birth of son, 780, 782-3; her unchastity believed by brothers, 787-9; with Ferdinand after interval, 791; plan to force confession, 792; with Antonio in chamber, 793-5; with Ferdinand, 795-8; with Bosola, 799; covers flight of Antonio, 799-802; confesses marriage to Bosola, 802; plans for flight, 803-4; betrayed by Bosola, 804, 805-6; banished from Ancona, 807-8; with Antonio near Loretto, 808-9; letter from brother, 809-10; parting from Antonio, 810-11; arrested by Bosola, 812-13; in imprisonment, 813-18; with Cariola, 818-20; with madmen, 821-22; with Bosola as old man, 822-5; death, 826, 830

Malice, Burns on, vi, 106; Emerson on limits of, v, 131; Martial on, xlviii, 21 (41); More on, xxxvi, 128; Woolman on, i, 274

Malice, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

Malignity, Bacon on, iii, 34

Malin, Admiral, at Gravelines, xix, 256

Mallon, Col., at Gettysburg, xliii, 385, 387

MALLY'S MEEK, MALLY'S SWEET, vi, 543

Malory, Sir Thomas, THE HOLY GRAIL, xxxv, 105-214; life and book, 104; PROLOGUE TO KING ARTHUR of, xxxix, 20-4

Malprimis, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 123, 134

Malquiant, son of Malcus, xlix, 146

Malseron, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 137

Malt, Harrison on making of, xxxv, 282-3

Malta, Coleridge on government of, v, 320; heat of, xxxvii, 10-11; Knights of, Mill on, xxv, 10

Malthus, debt of Darwin to, xi, 6; Emerson on, v, 248, 393; Mill on, xxv, 68

Maluco Islands, Drake in, xxxiii, 218-21

Malunkyaputta, xlv, 647-52

Mambrino's Helmet, xiv, 75, 165-67, 448-51

Mammals, first appearance of, xi, 341; in oceanic islands, 417-18

Mammary Glands, development of the, xi, 233-4

Mammon, Burns on followers of, vi, 86, 325-6; Jesus on, xliv, 397 (13); in PARADISE LOST, iv, 105, 114-15

Mammon, Sir Epicure, in THE ALCHEMIST, Subtle on, xlvii, 563-4; visit to Subtle's 564-83; plot against, 584-5; his return, 610, 611-12; with Dol, 613-18, 629-31; with Subtle, 631-2; hears loss of Subtle's works, 632-4; returns with Surly, 647-8; with officers, 657-61

MAN, OF, by Hobbes, xxxiv, 307-417

Man, animals and, difference between, xxxiv, 175-7; antiquity of, xi, 32-3; xxxviii, 387-8, 404-5; Augustine, St., on, vii, 56-7, 82-3; Bacon on, and God, iii, 44; Bildad on, xliv, no (4-6); Browne on, iii, 286, 325-6; Burns on, vi, 34, 231, 249, 285, 308, 339, 507; Byron on, xviii, 416; Channing on study of, xxviii, 331-3; Confucius on, xliv, 20 (17); David on, 151 (4-8), 325 (3-4); defined by Plato, xlviii, 425; Descartes on creation of, xxxiv, 38-9; Emerson on, v, 26, 69-72, 135, 228, 264, 267, 274, 288, 298; Epictetus on, ii, 120 (9), 122 (16), 137 (60-1), 162 (124), 166 (136); "folly's microcosm," xix, 58; Franklin on, i, 72-3; God's ways to, iv, 431-2; Goethe on state of, xix, 19; Homer on littleness of, xxii, 248; Kant on, xxxii, 338-41; Kempis on, vii, 303-4; littleness of, xliv, 132-4 (3-41), 135-7 (1-30), 137 (1-14), 138-9 (i-u); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 243 (3), 255 (7), 258 (27), 259 (34), 275 (6), 288 (14), 301 (32); Minerva on, v, 218; Mohammed on creation of, xlv, 879, 885, 889, 891, 899-900, 935; natural state of, xxxiv, 166, 168-97, 204-5, 387-91; Pascal on state of, xlviii, 26-32, 48 (m), 50 (125-7), 52-4, 56-7 (140), 63 (165), 77 (199), 78-9 (205-8), 120 (358), 128 (389-90), 130 (397), 130-1 (398-404), 132 (409), 132-5 (411-23), 137 (427), 144-5, 146, M7-9, 160 (486), 166 (510-11), 191 (584), 219 (660), 396-7, 437; Pascal on study of, 58-9; Penn on, i, 323-5, 342 (220-2); Poe's tragedy of, xlii, 1241; proper study of himself, i, 77, 96; iii, 27, 264, 266; "proposeth, God disposeth," vii, 222; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 255-6; Rousseau on early, 168; Schiller on person and condition of, xxxii, 238-41; Schiller on what constitutes, 211-13; self-torture is the lot of, xix, 34; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 133-4, 175, 270; a social being, ii, 128 (34), 136 (56), 162 (123), 228 (16), 243 (5), 244 (13), 250 (55), 264 (59), 267 (9), 287 (8); ix, 38; xxiv, 39; xxv, 327-9; Socrates on mediocrity of, ii, 82; supreme in strangeness, viii, 265-6; the temple of God, xlv, 494 (16-17), 523 (16); Tennyson on, xlii, 1019-20; thought requisite to, xlviii, 117 (339), 118 (346-8); Timxus on, v, 176; transitoriness of, xliv, 258, 271 (15-16); twofold nature of, xxxvi, 345; universal and particular, v, 6; Zophar on, xliv, 87 (12)

MAN AND SATYR, fable of, xvii, 33

MAN AND SERPENT, fable of, xvii, 13

MAN AND Two WIVES, fable of, xvii, 29

MAN AND THE WOOD, fable of, xvii, 22

MAN AND WOODEN GOD, fable of, xvii, 27

MAN, BOY, AND DONKEY, fable of, xvii, 35-6

MAN, ESSAY ON, by Pope, xl, 406-40

MAN THE REFORMER, Emerson's, v, 4358

MAN WAS MADE TO MOURN, vi, 60-2

MAN'S A MAN FOR A' THAT, vi, 511-12; Arnold on, xxviii, 85-6

Manardi, Arrigo, xx, 202 note 16

Manasseh, Pascal on, xlviii, 237

Manchet, a kind of bread, xxxv, 280

Mandeville, Bernard, Addison and, xxvii, 179; on pity, xxxiv, 189

Mandeville, Sir John, on headless men, xxxiii, 359

Mandioca, Darwin on, xxix, 32

Mandrake, superstition of the, xlvii, 786 note 2

Maneros, song of, xxxiii, 41

Manetho, on Egypt, xxxviii, 387

Manetti, Latino Giovenale de, xxxi, 145 note, 178-9, 184

MANFRED: A DRAMATIC POEM, xviii, 407-50; remarks on, 406

Manfred, in MANFRED, with the spirits, xviii, 407-13; spell pronounced on, 413-15; on the mountain, 415-19; saved by chamois-hunter, 419; in hunter's cottage, 419-22; with Witch, relates his life, 423-27; determines to learn what death is, 427-8; in Hall of Arimanes, 432-3; calls up Astarte, 434-6; in castle, his calmness, 436-7; with Abbot of St. Maurice, 437-42; address to the sun, 442-3; Herman on, 443; Astarte and, 444; on beauties of night and the Coliseum, 445-6; summoned by spirits, 447-9; death, 450

Manfredi, Alberigo de', xx, 139 and note 4

Manfredi, King of Naples, Dante on, xx, 156-7 and note 3

Manfredi, Tribaldello de', xx, 134 note 14

Mangiadore, Pietro, xx, 338 note 33

Mangona, Alberto da, xx, 166 note 6

Manhood, Channing on true, xxviii, 331-2; Emerson on, v, 18-19, 82; Lowell on, xxviii, 439; xlii, 1387; Pascal on, xlviii, 19-20

Manichaeans, vii, 3; Augustine, St., on the, 35-42, 63-69, 74-5, 132-3; Mill on, xxv, 30; Nebridius's argument against, vii, 100

Manilius, case of, xii, 225

Mankind, uniformity of, xxxvii, 353-60; unity of, v, 18-19

Manlius, Capitolinus, Virgil on, xiii, 290

Manlius, Marcus, in Catiline's conspiracy, xii, 229, 230; defeat of, xxxiii, 113-14

Manlius, Titus, Corneille on, xxvi, 127

Manna, Browne on, iii, 272

Mannellini, Bernardino, xxxi, 349-50, 378

Manners, in authors, criticism of, xxvii, 219; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 369-75; Hume on, of different ages, xxxvii, 355; Locke on, 47-50, 72-4, 120-6

MANNERS, ESSAY ON, by Emerson, v, 199-218

MANNERS, TREATISE ON GOOD, by Swift, xxvii, 99-103

Mannus, god of the Germans, xxxiii, 93

Manoa, city of, xxxiii, 302-3, 317, 320, 321-2

Manoa, in SAMSON AGONISTES, iv, 422-3, 425-6, 429, 451-2, 453-5. 457-8

Mansfeld, Count, xxxviii, 50-1

Mansfield, Lord, Pope on, xxvii, 273; on the press, v, 447

Mantius, son of Melampus, xxii, 206

Manto, Dante on, xx, 82-3; in Limbo, 237 note 9

Mantrap, Mrs., in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 242, 267

Mantua, contest over Duchy of, xxi, 78, 434-6, 466-71; origin of, xx, 83; Virgil on, xiii, 328

Mantua, Marquis of, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 43, 75

Manual Labor, Emerson on, v, 47, 50; Locke on, xxxvii, 173-8

Manuel, in MANFRED, xviii, 443-5

Manufacturers, interests of, x, 210-11

Manufactures, agriculture and, x, 11-12, 220-2, 304-7; in agricultural system, 430-6, 439-42; capital used in, 290, 292-3; commerce compared with, 3078; division of labor in, 9-10; foreign competition keenest in, 338-9; favored by laws, 128-31; materials of, importation and exportation of, 405-22; military spirit and, iii, 77; xxvii, 373-4; monopolies in, x, 342; necessity of, 288, 444-5; prices of, 52, 202-7; protection of new, 337-8

Manzoni, Alessandro, I PROMESSI SPOSI, xxi; life and works, 3-5

Mara, the god, xiv, 618-22, 728-29

Maranon, river, xxxiii, 317 note n, 319

Marat, Burke on, xxiv, 420

Marathon, battle of, xii, 82-3; Byron on, xli, 812

Marble, composition of, xxx, 152 note; crystallization of, 239-40; experiments with, 14-16

Marbois, Francis Barbe, xliii, 250-1

Marcela, and Chrysostom, xiv, 85-90, 104-8

Marcellinus, Pliny to, ix, 273

Marcellus, brother-in-law of Octavius, xii, 254-5

Marcellus, Caius, first husband of Octavia, xii, 344, 388 Marcellus, Marcus Claudius (d. 208 B. C.), Virgil on, xiii, 236

Marcellus, Marcus Claudius (d. 46 B. C.), Antony and, xii, 325; Caesar and, ix, 164; xii, 289; Catiline and, 229; death of, ix, 72; Milo and, 97

Marcellus, Marcus Claudius (d. 23 B. C.), son of Octavia, xii, 388; Virgil on, xiii, 32, 237

Marcellus, in HAMLET, xlvi, 94-9, 104-7, in, 113-4, 118-9

March, month of Creation, xl, 44; twenty-fifth of, xv, 403

MARCH, WRITTEN IN, xli, 604-5

March, George, Earl of, his raid into England, xxxv, 81-2; at Otterburn, 88, 90; Ralph Percy and, 98

Marchant, Chaucer's, xl, 18-19

Marcia, wife of Cato, in Cato, xxvii, 1945; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20, 147

Marcii, house of the, xii, 147

Marcius, and Cicero, xii, 230, 250

Marcius, Caius (see Coriolanus)

Marco Polo on China, x, 73

Marco of the Serbs, xxxii, 157 note 12

Marcomanians, M. Aurelius Antoninus' war with, ii, 305, 307; Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 116

Marcone, the goldsmith, xxxi, 14, 15, 21, 22

Marcus Antoninus (see Aurelius)

Marcus Aurelius (see Aurelius)

Mardion, the eunuch, xii, 368

Mardonius, general of Xerxes, xii, 8, 87, 88, 91, 92-3, 94, 95; death of, 97; at Plataea, 20

MARE, SALUTATION To AN AULD, vi, 147-50

Margano, Pietro, xxxi, 98 note i

Margaret, in FAUST, first meeting with Faust, xix, 112; wonders who he is, 115-6; in chamber, finds casket, 118-9; grieves for loss of casket, 122; finds second casket, 122-3; meets Mephistopheles at Martha's, 124-31; with Faust in garden, 133-9; in summerhouse, 141-2; song of, 148-9; with Faust, on his religion, 149-51; dislike of Mephistopheles, 152; plans meeting with Faust, 153-4; with Bessy at the well, 155-7; prayer of, 157-8; Valentine on, 158-9; with Valentine, 162-5; in the cathedral, 165-7; vision of, seen by Faust, 181; imprisoned and doomed to death, 190-91; in the dungeon, with Faust, 193-202; remarks on story of, 7

MARGARET, THE AFFLICTION OF, xli, 644-6

Margaret d'Alencon, xxxi, 334 note 2

Margaret of Anjou, Raleigh on, xxxix, 74, 75

Margaret of Austria, xxxi, 157 note 6, 221 note

Margaret of Burgundy, xxxix, 5, 6-7, 8; Warbeck and, xxxiv, 102

Margaret of Parma, xix, 252; Raleigh on, xxxix, 87

Margaret of Parma, in EGMONT, regent of Netherlands, xix, 256-7; on the iconoclasts, 259-60; with Machiavel, on state of Netherlands, 260-2; suspects Egmont and Orange, 263-5; Egmont and Orange on, 283-4, 294'55 determines to abdicate, 288-91; her departure, 298

Margaris, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 125, 136, 141

MARGARITA SORORI, xlii, 1209-10

Marginal Notes, Cervantes on, xiv, 6-9

Margites, of Homer, iii, 200; xii, 209 note

MARGUERITE, To, xlii, 1128-9

Marguerite de Valois, xxxi, 283 note, 300

Maria, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, in love with Charles Surface, xviii, 117, 118, 127; at Lady Sneerwell's, 119-25, 1323; with Joseph Surface, 132, 137-8; Sir Peter and, 145; toasted by Charles, 151; reconciled to Charles, 192-4

Maria, the widow, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, xxi, 392, 479

Mariane, in TARTUFFE, and Mme. Pernelle, xxvi, 200; in love with Valere, 208, 229; marriage put off by father, 216-17; with her father, ordered to marry Tartuffe, 218-28; with Dorine, 228-33; with Valere, 233-43; protests against marriage with Tartuffe, 264-66; in final scene, 293, 296; promised to Valere, 296

Marids, a kind of genii, xvi, 9 note

Marie Antoinette, Burke on, xxiv, 212-13; on October Sixth, 208-9

Marine Currents, Lyell on, xxxviii, 401, 403

Marine Species, the simultaneous changes in, xi, 359

MARINERS OF ENGLAND, YE, Thomas Campbell's, xli, 777-8

Marini, Dryden on, xiii, 59

Mario, in England, v, 413

MARION'S MEN, SONG OF, xlii, 1217-19

Maritornes, the Asturian wench, xiv, 118, 119-23, 132-3; on knightly tales, 302; plot of, against Quixote, 435-9

Marius, Caius, Burke on confiscations of, xxiv, 250-1; Caesar and, xii, 264, 267, 268; death of, xxvii, 21; Dryden on, xiii, 15

Marius, M., letter to, ix, 107

Marjaneh, in story of ALI-BABA, xvi, 429-30, 432, 435-6, 439-41

Mark, John surnamed, xliv, 449 (12), 450 (25), 457 (37-9)

Mark, St., Pascal on 13th chapter of, xlviii, 357-8

MARK YONDER POMP OF COSTLY FASHION, vi, 533-4

Market, extent of, limits division of labor, X, 22

Market Price, defined, x, 57; as determined by demand and supply, 57-9; effect of fluctuations on rent, wages, and profits, 59-61; natural price compared with, 59-64

Markets, in Utopia, xxxvi, 184-5

Markland, Leif Ericsson's, xliii, 8-9

Marl, Harrison on, xxxv, 308

Marlborough, Duke of, Addison on, xxvii, 183; Bolingbroke on, xxxiv, 99

MARLBOROUGH ROAD, THE OLD, xxviii, 401-3

Marliniere, Riccant de la, xxvi, 344-9

Marloff, Madame, in MINNA VON BARNHELM, xxvi, 305-7

Marlow, Sir Charles, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 256-9, 265-9

Marlow, Young, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, selected as husband for Kate Hardcastle, xviii, 208-9; Miss Neville on, 210; at the alehouse, 213-15; arrival at Hardcastle's, 217-19; with Mr. Hardcastle, 219-24, 225-6; meets Miss Hardcastle, 226-9; discussed by Kate and her father, 233-5, 243-4; with Kate as the barmaid, 239-43; with Miss Neville's jewels, 244-6; with Hardcastle and his servants, 246-8; ordered to leave house, 247-8; learns inn is Mr. Hardcastle's, 249; parting with Kate, 250; denounces Tony and Hastings, 254-5; protests against loving Kate, 257-8; love scene with Kate, 265-6; learns who she is, 267; united to Kate, 268-9

Marlowe, Christopher, EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 5-89; DOCTOR FAUSTUS, xix, 205-50; influence on Goethe, 6; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 276; Jonson on, xl, 301; life and works, xix, 204; THE PASSIONATE SHEPHERD, xl, 254-5

Marmagne, Seigneur de, xxxi, 281 note

Marmontel, Mill on Memoirs of, xxv, 90

Maron, son of Euanthes, xxii, 120

Marque and Reprisal, Letters of, xliii, 161, 162, 184 (n), 186 (10)

Marquis, meaning of, xxxiv, 368

Marrall, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 871-2; scene with Overreach, 876-79; with Wellborn, 879-81; with Wellborn at Allworth's, 883-5; with Wellborn after dinner, 888-90; reports to Overreach, 890-2; at Overreach's, 896, 901, 905, 906, 907, 908; at Allworth's, 911-12; with Wellborn on way to Lady Allworth's, 920-21, 923-4; with Overreach, 931-2, 934, 935-7; in final scene, 940-1

Marriage, Augustine, St., on, vii, 23, 46; Browne on, iii, 323; Cervantes on, xiv, 318-19; dispensations, xxxvi, 309; of divorced persons, Jesus on, xliv, 397 (18); from economic standpoint, x, 72, 80-1; Epictetus on, ii, 159-60 (116); equality in, viii, 198-9, 198 note; Euripides on, 331; among Germans, xxxiii, 103; Goethe on, xix, 348; Locke on, xxxvii, 182; Luther on, xxxvi, 333; Massinger on, xlvii, 917-18; Mill on, contracts of, xxv, 300-1; Milton on, iv, 173, 313-14; xxviii, 183-4; Mohammed on, xlv, 968, 970-1, 980; Moliere on, without love, xxvi, 223; Montaigne on, xxxii, 76; among Moravians, i, 143; in New Atlantis, iii, 167-70; Pascal on, xlviii, 127 (385), 341-2; Paul, St., on, xlv, 498-9, 499-500 (27-8, 33-40); Penn on, i, 330-1, 332-3 (92-105); Pliny on, for wealth, ix, 201; of priests, Calvin on, xxxix, 38; of priests, Luther on, xxxvi, 301-5; prostitution and, iii, 168-9; Rousseau on effect of indissoluble, xxxiv, 193; Ruskin on, xxviii, 144-5; sanctity of, Æschylus on, viii, 131; sanctity of, Emerson on, v, 245; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 146; Shakespeare on second, 153; state control of, xxv, 305; Stevenson on, xxviii, 283-4; Swift on, xxvii, 91; in Utopia, xxxvi, 208-11; Walton on, xv, 326-7; Webster's Antonio on, xlvii, 768

MARRIAGE AND SINGLE LIFE, Bacon on, iii, 21-2

Marriott, John, hymn by, xlv, 572

Mars, as German god, xxxiii, 97 (see also Ares)

Mars, the planet, xlii, 1266; Dante's fifth heaven, xx, 346

Marsh, George, on the "Alert," xxiii, 199-202, 252; (in 1859), 386

Marshall, John, OPINION IN CASE OF McCULLOCH, xliii, 208-24

Marshall, Mr., of Leeds, xxv, 76

MARSHES OF GLYNN, xlii, 1390-1

Marsians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 94

Marsignians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 116

Marsil, King, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 95-8, 100-5, 108-15, 141-3, 148-50, 158, 183-4

Marsyas, Apollo and, xx, 285

Martel, Charles, king of Hungary, xx, 315-19

Martha, and Jesus, xliv, 383

Martha, in FAUST, with Margaret, xix, 123-4; learns husband's death, 125-30; with Mephistopheles in garden, 134, 137-8, 140; with Valentine, 162-4

Martha, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 282

Marthesia, Queen of the Amazons, xxxiii, 327

Martial, Elphinstone's translation of, vi, 264; Montaigne on, xxxii, 92; Pascal on epigrams of, xlviii, 21; Pliny on, ix, 247-8; on the ugly man, v, 306

Martigues, M. de, at Metz, xxxviii, 25; at Hesdin, 36, 37, 38-40

Martin IV, in Purgatory, xx, 242 and note 2

Martin V, Milton on, iii, 196

Martin, Sir, xx, 343 note 24

Martin, Theodore, translator of Schiller, xxvi, 377

Martineau, Harriet, Emerson and, v, 464

Martinez, Juan, xxxiii, 320-22

Martini, Luca, xxxi, 172 note; Capitolo addressed to, 251-7

Martius, and Sophocles, v, 121

Martyrs, Bacon on, iii, 138; Browne on, 278-9; Bunyan on Christian, xv, 264-5; Emerson on, v, 99; Goethe on, of truth, xix, 32; Lowell on, xlii, 1372; under M. Aurelius Antoninus, ii, 306-7, 311-15; Pascal on the, xlviii, 159 (481), 294-5 (844)

Marullus, the tribune, Caesar and, xii, 313-M

Marut, the fallen angel, xvi, 57 note

Marvel, Mount, xv, 291

Marvell, Andrew, poems by, xl, 370-9

Marvellous, human love of the, xxxvii, 380-3

Mary, mother of Jesus, xliv, 354-6, 357-8 (5-7), 358 (19), 360 (48-51), 375 (19-21), 416 (10), 424 (14); at the cross (see STABAT MATER); Dante on, xx, 184, 225; in Dante's PARADISE, 385-6, 418-9, 423; LULLABY for, xl, 256-60; Luther on, xxxvi, 369; Milton on, iv, 190, 362, 365, 373-4; Mohammed on, xlv, 909-10, 952 note, 953-983, 993, 1002, 1006; Pascal on virginity of, xlviii, 81 (222-3), 262 (742)

Mary, mother of John, xliv, 449 (12)

Mary, sister of Martha, xliv, 383

Mary of Brabant, and Brosse, xx, 166 note 7

Mary, Queen of Scots, Burns on, vi, 374

MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTS, LAMENT OF, vi, 396-7

Mary Tudor, Queen, Raleigh on, xxxix, 86

Mary, the Coptic girl, xlv, 992 note i

MARY, To, IN HEAVEN, vi, 365

MARY HAMILTON, a ballad, xl, 117-19

Mary Magdalene (see Magdalene)

MARY MORISON, vi, 31

MARY UNWIN, To, xli, 536-8

Maryland, Quakers in, i, 276-7

MARYLAND vs. McCuLLOcn, xliii, 208-24

Marzio, in THE CENCI, xviii, 319, 327-8, 328-9, 330, 333-4, 340-5

Masaccio, frescoes of, xxxi, 24 note I

Mascheroni, Sassol, xx, 133 note 5

Masinissa, old age of, ix, 57

Masistius, Plutarch on, xii, 92

MASK AND Fox, fable of, xvii, 19

Mason, Sir Josiah, xxviii, 209-10, 211-12

MASONIC SONG, vi, 242

Masons, Burns on, vi, 37

Masorah, Pascal on the, xlviii, 208-9 (630)

MASQUES AND TRIUMPHS, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 95-6

Mass (in physics), measured by inertia, xxx, 301-2

Mass (in Roman Church), Calvin on, xxxix, 37; Luther on, xxxvi, 314-15; Luther on, for the dead, 306-7; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 303

Massa, Boebius, impeachment of, ix, 315-16

Massachusetts, Folger on persecutions in, i, 9; Winthrop on government of, xliii, 85-105

MASSACHUSETTS BODY OF LIBERTIES, xliii, 66-84

MASSACHUSETTS TO VIRGINIA, xlii, 1344-7

Massena, Napoleon on, v, 40

Massicus, ally of Æneas, xiii, 327

Massinger, Philip, life and works, xlvii, 858; NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, 859-943

Massive Ones, in FAUST, xix, 190

Masson, David, Bagehot on Life of Milton by, xxviii, 165-8

Masters, Epictetus's advice to, ii, 178-9 (180); Penn's counsel to, i, 340-1; single men best, iii, 21

Master's Eye, fable of the, xvii, 23

Mastic, Columbus on, xliii, 26

Mastication, Locke on, xxxvii, 16

Mastiff, Harrison on the, xxxv, 352-4, 355; cross between bear and, 355

Masurius, Epictetus on, ii, 169 (144)

MATCH, A, xlii, 1205-7

Matches, story of the, xvii, 345-9

Materialism, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 250, 270, 276-81; Channing on, xxviii, 321-2; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 250-4, 2589; Schiller on, xxxii, 222-3; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 105-7

Materials, as circulating capital, x, 219-20; of manufacture, importation, and exportation of, 405-22; rent of land used to produce, 165-78; value of, compared with food, 178-80

Mathematical Mind, Pascal on the, xlviii, 8-11

Mathematicians, Franklin on, i, 58

Mathematics, ancient, xxviii, 219; Bacon on study of, iii, 122; Berkeley on the, xxxvii, 280; Burke on, xxiv, 21, 75; Descartes on study of, xxxiv, 8, 9, 1819; Hobbes on, 363; Hume on the, xxxvii, 306, 311; Mill on, compared with logic, xxv, 17-18; Mill on indisputableness of, 230; Milton on study of, iii, 240, 241; moral sciences compared with, xxxvii, 335-6; Newton on, xxxix, 150-1; Pascal on, xlviii, n

Mather, Cotton, church history of, i, 9; Essays to do Good, 14

Matilda, in Dante's PURGATORY, xx, 259 note; Ruskin on, xxviii, 161-2

Matius, Caius, xii, 305 note

Matrevis, in EDWARD II, xlvi, 74-5, 77-9, 82-4, 86

Matter, M. Aurelius Antoninus on, ii, 326; Berkeley on existence of, xxxvii, 190-1, 193-5, 214-26, 235-47, 250-1, 253-5258-61, 263-5, 268, 270, 273, 277-9, 281-3; cause and effect in, 352-3; defined by Faraday, xxx, 10; idea of eternity of, xxxix, 102-3; Hume on creadon of, xxxvii, 419 note; Hume on energy in, 338; Hume on inertia of, 345-6 note; Hume on reality of, 409-12; Locke on, 164-5; mind and, Channing on, xxviii, 321-2; not endowed with motion, xxxiv, 247-9, 250-1; qualities of, Bacon on, xxxix, 138-9; qualities of, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 193-214, 349 note; qualities of, Hume on, 411-12; as self-created, xxxix, 103; spirit and, Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 852, 853

MATTER, FORCES OF, Faraday's, xxx, 7-85

Matters of Fact, Hume on, xxxvii, 306-8, 320-4, 330, 331, 415, 419; Raleigh on, xxxix, 100

Matthew, the apostle, xliv, 368 (15), 424 (13); Mahomet on, xlviii, 194 (597) Matthew, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 229-30, 232-6, 250, 252-3, 250, 265, 266, 267, 268, 287

Matthews, Fuegian missionary, xxix, 212, 226, 228, 230

Matthias, the disciple, xliv, 424 (23-6)

Mattiacians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 109

MAUCHLINE, THE BELLES OF, vi, 58

MAUCHLINE LADY, THE, vi, 57

MAUD, Tennyson's, xlii, 1015-57

Maud, Queen, and the Pope, xxxv, 254

MAUD MULLER, xlii, 1351-55

Mauer, Hans auf der, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 416, 418, 420, 423-4

Maugridge, William, i, 58

Maul, the giant, xv, 248-9

Maunciple, Chaucer's, xl, 26-7

Maupertius, axiom of least action, xi, 500

Maurice, F. D., Carlyle and, xxv, 316; in London Club, 82; Mill and, 3, 97-8

Maurice of Saxony, Machiavelli and, xxvii, 363

Mauricus, Junius, ix, 190 note; letter to, 200-2; Pliny on, 191

Mauritius, Darwin on, xxix, 486-9

Maurizio, Ser, xxxi, 150 note 4

Maurus, Rabanus, xx, 339 note 37

Maxim, defined by Kant, xxxii, 312 note 2, 331 note 7

Maximilian, Emperor, Macaulay on, xxvii, 388; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 77

Maximilla, Antonia, ix, 359

Maximinus, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 66-7, 68

Maxims, Macaulay on general, xxvii, 395

Maximus, Fabius (see Fabius)

Maximus, freedman of Trajan, ix, 369, 374

Maximus, Nonius, letters to, ix, 219-20, 264-5, 283, 297, 310-11, 332-4, 345-6

Maximus, Q., and his son, ix, 168

Maximus, teacher of Aurelius, ii, 195-6 (15), 199

MAXWELL, DR., To, vi, 498

MAXWELL, JOHN, EPISTLE TO, vi, 422-3

Maxwell, Sir John, at Otterburn, xxxv, 89-90

Maxwell, Lord, xl, 100

MAY MOON, THE YOUNG, xli, 821

MAY MORNING, SONG ON, iv, 39

MAY, THE CHARMING MONTH OF, vi, 504-5

MAY, THY MORN, vi, 428

Maya, mother of Buddha, xlv, 586

Mayer, Julius Robert, on law of conservation, xxx, 175

Mayflower, Lowell on the, xlii, 1372

MAYFLOWER COMPACT, THE, xliii, 59

Mazarin, Louis XIV and, xxiv, 332; motto of, xxviii, 436; Pascal on, xlviii, 23 (56)

Mazzaroth, xliv, 134 note 15

Mazzini, Giuseppe, BYRON AND GOETHE, xxxii, 377-96; editorial remarks on paper of, 1, 49; life of, xxxii, 376

Mead, Harrison on, xxxv, 286

Meade, General, seizes Gettysburg, xliii, 329; in battle of Gettysburg, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 339, 345, 357, 358, 362, 364, 366-7, 370, 371, 381, 391-2, 396, 397, 3995 Haskell on, 328, 358, 359

Meals, Locke on, xxxvii, 17-18; of children, 18

Meanness, Confucius on, xliv, 24 (35), 26 (n); punishment of, v, 26

Means, and ends, Emerson on, v, 90; Penn on, i, 348 (310-19)

Measles, cowpox and, xxxviii, 215 note; Jenner on, 164-5; small-pox and, 202-3

Measure, Emerson on love of, v, 209-10

Measures, English and metric system of, xxx, 253

Meat, Augustine, St., on eating of, vii, 185; Darwin on eating of, xxix, 123; Locke on eating of, xxxvii, 16, 18; Mohammed on eating of, xlv, 994, 1004; price of, Smith on, x, 151-2, 154-5, J 83, 187-8, 189, 198

Mecca, the House of, xlv, 957 note 14

Mecca Suras, in Koran, xlv, 879-941

Mechanic Arts Schools, proposed by Ticknor, xxviii, 367

Mechanical Arts, Bacon on, xxxix, 122; poetry and, compared in usefulness, xxvii, 350-3

Mechanics, compensation in, v, 87; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; Newton on science of, xxxix, 150-1; Penn on, i, 323 (16)

Mechthild, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 437, 440

MECKLENBURG DECLARATION, xliii, 156-7

Meddling, Kempis on, vii, 227 (3), 243 (2), 288 (i); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 203 (13); Penn on, i, 357 (435)

Medea and ALson, xli, 664

Medes, Raleigh on history of, xxxix, 113

Mediaeval Architecture, Hugo on, xxxix, 350-1

Medici, Alessandro, de', xxxi, 84-5 note, 98, 101, 105; Cellini and, 149, 156-60, 172, 173; reputed son of Pope Clement, 174; murder of, 158 note 9, 177

Medici, Bernardo de', xxxi, 144 note 3

Medici, Caterina de', xxxi, 283 note; cupbearer to, 411 note; Count Mansfeld and, xxxviii, 51; King of Navarre and, 47-8

Medici, Cosimo de', xxxi, 15 note i, 178 note 4; Almeni and, 366 note; Cellini and, 341-4, 347-8, 350, 353'5, 357, 358-63, 364, 366-72, 373-6, 383, 387, 388-92, 392-3, 395-8, 400-2, 404-5, 405-7, 409-19, 421, 429-31, 433-5, 436; diamond of, 352-4, 361-2; Michaelangelo and, 384-7; mother of, 407 note; in Siennese war, 392-3, 406; Tasso and, 25 note 4

Medici Family, arms of, xxxi, 13 note 3; banishment and return of, 13; xxvii, 392

Medici, Francesco de', xxxi, 428

Medici, Giovanni de', xxxi, 68, 83 note 4

Medici, Giovannino de, xxxi, 15

Medici, Giuliano de', xxxi, 16 note, 84 note

Medici, Giulio de', xxxi, 16 note, 86 note 4 (see also Clement VII)

Medici, Ippolito de', xxxi, 84-5 note, 134 note; Cellini and, 137, 139-40, 144-5

Medici, Isabella de', xxxi, 201 note

Medici, Lorenzino de', xxxi, 85 note, 158 note 9, 160, 174-5, 177, 356 and note

Medici, Lorenzo de, Bacon on, iii, 50: Cellini and, xxxi, n; descendants of : 84 note; mercantile enterprises of, x 470

Medici, Lorenzo Di Piero de, Machiavelt to, xxxvi, 5-6, 83-6

Medici, Mary of, the wife of Concini and, v, 186

Medici, Ottaviano de, xxxi, 158 note i, 172, 174

Medici, Pallone de, xxxi, 70

Medici, Piero de, father-in-law of Strozzi, xxxi, 78 note i; monument of, 134 note 4

Medici, Pietro de, xxxi, n note i, 12

Medicina, Piero de, xx, 116-17

Medicine (s), for children, Locke on, xxxvii, 26; Descartes on science of, xxxiv, 50-1; Descartes on study of, 8; in ancient Egypt, xxxiii, 42; external, xxxviii, 126; the germ theory in, 364; Goethe on profession of, xix, 82; in Greece, xxxviii, 2, 3, 4; Harrison on, xxxv, 238-40; Hippocrates on practise and study of, xxxviii, 2, 3, 4-5; Marlowe on study of, xix, 206-7, 209; practise of, among Indians, xliii, 35; Milton on study of, iii, 241; More on study of, xxxvi, 206, 208; in New Atlantis, iii, 176; papers on, xxxviii, 3-5, 145-220, 223-54, 364-82; Prometheus inventor of, viii, 184; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 172-3

Medina, origin of name, xlv, 986 note 7; siege of, 985 note, 986 note 6

Medina Suras, in Koran, xlv, 942-1007

Mediocrity, abhorred by the sublime, xxiv, 68

Meditation, Carlyle on, xxv, 322; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 795-6, 799, 846; Kempis on, vii, 224 (i); Pascal on, xlviii, 63 (168); Plutarch on proper objects of, xii, 35-6; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 172

MEDITATIONS OF MARCUS AURELIUS, ii, 193-301; remarks on, 192

Mediterranean Sea, countries about, earliest in civilization, x, 24-5; Shelley on the, xli, 834; Taine on the, xxxix, 412

Medon, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 63-4, 221, 232, 305-331

Medoro, and Angelica, xiv, 213, 226

Medusa, Dante on, xx, 37; Milton on, iv, 123-4

Medusa, queen of amazons, xxxiii, 327

Medwin, story from, v, 346

Meekness, Confucius on, xliv, 44 (27); Goethe on, xix, 135; Woolman on, i, 174

MEETING OF THE WATERS, xli, 817-18

MEG o' THE MILL, vi, 456-7

Megametus, pupil of Æschylus, viii, 468

Megzra, Dante on, xx, 37; Milton on, iv, 305

Megapenthes, son of Menelaus, xxii, 46, 202, 203

Megara, in Homer's Hades, xxii, 151

Megara, city of, xii, 65-7

Megatheroid Animals, habits of, xxix, 90-1

Megra, in PHILASTER, xlvii, 668-9; on Pharamond, 674, 675; with Pharamond, 688-90; before Pharamond's house, 692-3; caught with Pharamond, 695-7; accuses Arethusa, 698; at the hunt, 714-15, 716, 721; denounces Arethusa, 745; arrested, 748; freed, 750

Meinrad, of Hohenzollern, xxvi, 397 note 7

Melampus, Dionysus and, xxxiii, 30; Iphicles and, xxii, 152 note; story of, 206

Melancholy, Christianity and, xxxix, 343; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 353;in music, xli, 478; pleasures of, iv, 34-8

MELANCHOLY, by Fletcher, xl, 322

MELANCHOLY, ODE TO, xli, 882-3

Melancthon, on poetry, xxvii, 40

Melanopus, Callistratus and, xii, 201

Melanthius, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 233-4, 237, 277-8, 288-9, 299-300, 301, 308

Melantho, daughter of Dolius, xxii, 253, 259

Melchthal, Arnold von, in WILLIAM TELL, at house of Fiirst, xxvi, 395-6; hears father's blinding, 399-401; enters league with Fiirst and Stauffacher, 4025; at the rendezvous, 412-27; with Tell at Altdorf, 440, 443, 444; at death of Attinghausen, 459; with Rudenz, 4624; reports progress of revolt, 475-6; hears death of Emperor, 477-81

Melcombe, Lord, SHORTEN SAIL, xl, 463-4

Meleager, son of Althea, viii, 102; Dante on, xx, 247 and note 2

Melendez, Pedro, governor of Florida, xxxiii, 256

Melesigenes, Homer called, iv, 401

Meletus, accuser of Socrates, ii, 7, 12-16, 22, 24, 27

Melias, Sir, knighting of, xxxv, 121; adventures of, 122-3; promises to follow Galahad, 124

Melibceus, Milton on, iv, 66; Sidney on, xxvii, 25

Melissus, of Samos, xii, 62, 63; Dante on, xx, 343 note 20; Themistocles and, xii, 6; on the world, xxxix, 104

Melito, and M. Aurelius Antoninus, ii, 313

Melitene (see Thundering)

Mellus, Henry, xxiii, 387, 398

Mellyagraunce, and Launcelot, xlii, 1189-90

Melmoth, William, translator of Pliny, ix, 183

Melo, John de, Don Quixote on, xiv, 490

Melvin, Andrew, xv, 381-2, 417

Memmius, C., Gabinius and, ix, 116

Memnon, reference to, xiii, 90

MEMORABILIA, xlii, 1082

MEMORIAL VERSES, by Arnold, xlii, 1135-7

Memories, Homer on, of griefs, xxii, 210;

Moore on, xli, 816; of pleasures, xvii, 43-44; Tennyson on, xlii, 981

Memorizing, Confucius on, xliv, 42 (5); Locke on, xxxvii, 150-2; of poetry, Eliot on, 1, 8

Memory, Augustine, St., on the, vii, 166-74; Calderon on, xxvi, 39; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 314; Hume on the, xxxvii, 299, 322-4; Locke on exercising the, 150-3; in old age, ix, 52-3; Pascal on, xlviii, 41 (95)j 123 (369); Raleigh on, xxxix, 96-7; reliance on the, v, 66; verse and, xxvii, 31-2

Memphis, statues of Amasis at, xxxiii, 87; embankments at, 48-9; temple of Isis at, 87; founded by Min, 48; camp of Tyrians in, 54

Men, Confucius on study of, xliv, 7 (16), 8 (10); constitute states, xli, 579; divine and undivine, xlv, 861-2; two kinds of, xlviii, 171 (534); women and, Ruskin on, xxviii, 145

Menage, Abbe, on Le Bailleul, v, 306

Menalippus, reference to, xx, 135

Menander, on his comedy, xxxii, 62-3, on friendship, 83-4

Menas, the pirate, xii, 345-6

Mendesians, sacred animals of, xxxiii, 25, 29

Mendicant, Ideal, of Buddhism, xlv, 748-50

MENDICANTS, THE ROYAL, xvi, 66, 99

Mendoza, city of, xxix, 334

Menelaus, Æschylus on, viii, 23, 30-3; Burke on grief of, xxiv, 34-5; in Egypt, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 57; in Egypt, Virgil on, xiii, 365; in ODYSSEY, xxii, 16, 36-7, 40-1, 46-62, 201-4; Pliny on, ix, 208 note 10; in Trojan horse, xiii, 108

Menenius, the senator, xxxix, 212

Menes (see Min)

Menexenus, with Socrates, ii, 47

Meng Chih-fan, xliv, 20 (13)

Meng Ching, xliv, 25 (4) note 3

Meng Chuang, xliv, 65 (18)

Meng Kung-Ch'o, xliv, 46 (12)

Meng Wu, Confucius and, xliv, 7 (6), 15(7)

Meng Yi, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 7 (5)

Menico, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 101, 123-4, 126, 129-30, 184

Menippus, Plutarch on, xii, 51

Menjot, M., Pascal on, xlviii, 342

Mennonists, on slavery, i, 215

Mencekeus, son of (see Creon)

Mencetes, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 183-4, 48

Menon, and Phidias, xii, 68

Mental Discourse, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 318-21; ends of, 346

Mental Powers, of animals, xi, 224-5

Mental Sciences, Helmholtz on, xxx, 173-4

Menteith, in MACBETH, xlvi, 383-4, 387

Mentes, form assumed by Pallas, xxii, 12, 14

Mentor, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 27, 229

Mephibosheth, and David, xli, 486; xliii, 104

Mephistopheles, in Goethe's FAUST, undertakes Faust's downfall, xix, 19-22; appears to Faust in shape of dog, 51; in Faust's study, appears as scholar, 52-64; as youth of high degree, 65; compact with Faust, 66-75; with the student, 76-83; starts with Faust, 83-4; at the wine-cellar, 88-98; in Witches' Kitchen, 100-12; promises Margaret to Faust, 113-15; in Margaret's chamber, 115-8; learns casket given to church, 121-2; visit to Martha's, 124-31; tells Faust of appointment, 131-3; with Martha in garden, 133-4, I 37'8, 140; with Faust in cavern, 142-7; urges return to Margaret, 145-7; disliked byMargaret, 152-7; taunts Faust, 154-5; before Margaret's door, 160-1; with Valentine, 161-2; on Walpurgis-Night, 167-83; with Faust in the Plain, 190-3; in Open Country, 193; in dungeon, takes Faust, 202; Hugo on, xxxix, 348, 357

Mephistophilis, in Marlowe's FAUSTUS, conjured by Faustus, xix, 213-6; compact with Faustus, 219-24; with Faustus, on Heaven, astrology, etc., 224-6; with Faustus in Rome, 230-2; with Robin and Ralph, 235; with horsecourser, 239-40; renews compact with Faustus, 245

Mer de Glace, of Chamouni, xxx, 216-20, 223; movement of, 223-6, 228

Mercantile System, effect of, on revenue of the state, x, 526; principle of the, 311-31; producers and consumers under, 424-5

Mercator, work of, in mathematics, xxxiv, 125

Mercenary Soldiers, Bacon on, iii, 75; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 45-6; More on, 219

Merchant, Chaucer's (see Marchant)

Merchant, the natural, v, 185

MERCHANT AND THE JINNI, story of, xvi, 15-17

MERCHANT AND HIS WIFE, story of, xvi, 12-13

Merchantman, duties on a, xxiii, 16-21

Merchants, in agricultural system, x, 4315, 439-42; Bacon on, iii, 51; Harrison on, xxxv, 224; interests of, x, 210-11; in war (agreement with Mexico), xliii, 33

Mercurius, the spirit in the battle, xvii, 183

Mercurius Aulicus, royalist paper, iii, 208 note

Mercury, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 33-4, 83, 161-2, 172; frauds of, xxxiv, 367; as German god, xxxiii, 97; son of Maia, xiii, 272

Mercury (the metal), supposed parent of metals, xlvii, 577

Mercury (the planet), Dante's second Heaven, xx, 305

Mercy, Blake on, xli, 591; Bunyan on name and practice of, xv, 231-2; Cowper on, xli, 536; Dryden on, xviii, 86-7; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 407; Jesus on, xliv, 369 (36); Luther on acts of, xxxvi, 254; Milton on, iv, 19-20 (8); in princes, xxxvi, 53; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 160-1; Solomon on, xliii, 95; Mercy, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 174; neighbor of Christiana, 186, 188-90; in Slough of Dispond, 190-1; admitted at the gate, 192-3; conversation with Christiana, 194; asks about the Dog, 195-6; her innocency, 200; at the Interpreter's House, 202-4; why she went on pilgrimage, 209-10; on Difficulty Hill, 218; in Beautiful Palace, 225; her dream, 226-7; ner suitor, Mr. Brisk, 230-1; in Valley of Humiliation, 242; in Valley of Death, 246-7; and Mr. Honest and, 253; on Mr. Fearing, 259; married to Matthew, 265-6, 268; in Vanity Fair, 282; at By-way to Hell, 292; the looking-glass and, 293-4

Meredith, George, LOVE IN THE VALLEY, xlii, 1140-5

Meredith, Hugh, i, 50-1, 58; Franklin in business with, 53-4, 56-7, 59, 60-2; goes south, 62

Merit, contrasted with worthiness, xxxiv, 369; Hobbes on, 396-7; not envied, iii, 24; Pascal on word, xlviii, 167

Merlin, on Arthur, xlii, 986-7; converted by St. Columba, xxxii, 170; Keats on, xli, 888; legend of, xxxii, 153; Renan on, 168; the Round Table and, xxxv, 135-6

MERMAID TAVERN, THE, xli, 874-5

Mermaid's, Chaucer on, xl, 46

MERMAN, THE FORSAKEN, xlii, 1123-6

Meroe, Herodotus on city of, xxxiii, 19

Merope, daughter of Pandareiis, in the ODYSSEY, xx, 274

Merriman, Dr., xxxviii, 246

MERRY ANDREW'S SONG, vi, 125-6

MERRY HÆ I BEEN TEETHIN' A HECKLE, vi, 134

Merryman, in FAUST, xix, 12-16

Merton, Walter, xxxv, 381

Mertoun, Earl, in A BLOT IN THE 'SCUTCHEON, suitor of Mildred Tresham, xviii, 259-60; described by retainers, 361; arrival at Tresham's 363; his love for Mildred, 364-6; secret visit to Mildred, 372-7; discovered, unknown, by Gerard, 377-80; under Mildred's window the last time, 392-3; killed by Tresham, 394-8

Mesaulius, Homer on, xxii, 197

Mescidius, Cicero on, ix, no

Mesrur, the executioner, xvi, 60

Messalla, and Cicero, ix, 116; Cicero on, 94, 176

Messapus, in the ÆNEID, JEneas and, xiii, 406; ally of Turnus, 263, 268, 294, 298, 310, 347, 372, 374, 409, 413; Aulestes and, 400

Messiah, Milton on prophecies of the, iv, 348, 350-1; Mohammed on the, xlv, 984, 996, 1002; Pascal on prophecies of the, xlviii, 186-9, 201, 202 (616-17), 203-4, 214, 219 (662), 236 (707)

Metabus, father of Camilla, xiii, 375-6

Metagenes, of Xypete, xii, 50

Metallurgy, beginnings of, xxxiv, 206

Metals, artificial, in New Atlantis, iii, 172; Harrison on source of, xxxv, 3201; as medium of exchange, x, 28-9; prices of, 171-6, 179, 200-1

Metamorphic Rocks, xxx, 334-5

Metaphors, Bunyan on, xv, 7-8; Burke on pleasure from, xxiv, 18; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 351; Lowell on, xxviii, 458; Pliny on, ix, 348-50; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 302-4

Metamorphoses, of insects, xi, 457-8

Metamorphosis, Browne on, iii, 289, 291-2

Metaphysic of Morals, necessity of a, xxxii, 299-303, 319-24

Metaphysical Reasoning, Franklin on, i, 55

Metaphysicians, Burke on, xxiv, 412

Metaphysics, Aryan and Semitic, xxxix, 420; Bacon's attitude toward, iii, 144; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 280; Carlyle on, xxv, 340-2; Carlyle on German, 353-4; Channing on study of, xxviii, 329; Cowley on, xxvii, 64-5; defined by Kant, xxxii, 299; Goethe on, xix, 7980; Hume on, xxxvii, 292-8, 336, 420; Locke on study of, 138; Milton on study of, iii, 237-8; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 250-1

Metelli, names of the, xii, 156

Metellus, the tribune, xii, 294

Metellus Quintus, Cicero on, ix, 125; free from resentment, xii, 189

Metempsychosis, Browne on, iii, 289 (37); Lessing on, xxxii, 205-6; of opinions, iii, 257; Socrates on, ii, 5962, 73-4 (see also Transmigration)

Meteorology, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; origin of term, xii, 68 note; in Utopia, xxxvi, 195

Metheglin, Welsh drink, xxxv, 286

Method, in business, i, 355 (403); Goethe on, xix, 78; Locke on, xxxvii, 169-70

Methon, observations of, xxxiv, 129

Methuen, treaty drawn by, x, 390

Methusalem, Browne on, iii, 275

Metius, the traitor, xiii, 289

Meton, the astrologer, xii, 121

Metoposcopy, xlvii, 592; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 382

Metras, restored by Cicero, ix, 136

Metre, Shelley on, xxvii, 342-3; Whitman on, xxxix, 394; Wordsworth on, 283-4, 285-6, 287, 293, 296

Metric System, Kelvin on the, xxx, 253

Metrical Novels, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 298

Metrodorus, xii, 338

Metropolis, every, a university, xxviii, 36, 37,38

Metz, Par6 on expedition against, xxxviii, 19; siege of, 23-33

Mexican War, cause of, xliii, 289 note

Mexico, ancient, iii, 157; Johnson on palaces of, xxxix, 225; Raleigh on conquest of, xxxiii, 330; seat of Montezume, iv, 329; TREATY WITH U. S., xliii, 289-305

Meyer, Heinrich, xxxix, 251 note

Meyer von Sarnen, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 412-25

Meymum, the son of Demdem, xvi, 79

Mezentius, ally of Turnus, xiii, 261, 268; in attack on Trojan town, 310; in the battle, 345-8; wounded by Æneas, 348-9; his death, 350-4; Dryden on, 20, 33

Miasma, source of, xxix, 369

Miaulina, xiv, 137

Mica, crystallization of, xxx, 30; effect on polarized light, 34

Micaiah, Calvin on, xxxix, 42; Milton on, iii, 228

Micceri, Pagolo, xxxi, 304-5, 306, 312-14, 318

Mice, bees and, xi, 82; country and town, ii, 292 (22); country arid town, fable of, xvii, 13-14; Darwin on, xxix, 363; in Galapagos Islands, 382; range of, xi, 146; use of ears of, 213

Michael, Archangel, in FAUST, xix, 1819; in PARADISE LOST, iv, 205, 210-12, 321-2, 325-6, 327-55, 357

Michael, the fiddler in EVANGELINE, xiii, 1311, 1326

MICHAEL: A PASTORAL POEM, xii, 615-27

Michal, references to, xii, 486, 488

Michaux, on American trees, xxviii, 406

Michelangelo, Andrea del Sarto and, xiii, 1091-2; on Baccio d'Agnolo's cupola, xxxi, 412 note 3; on beauty, v, 304; Bugiardini and, xxxi, 86 note; cartoon on taking of Pisa, 23 and note 2; Cellini and, 3-4, 24, 85-6, 384; Cellini on, 343, 359, 418; Cosimo de' Medici and, 384, 385-6; "David" of, 342 note 3; "David" of, Bandinello on, 401-2; "The Fair" of, xxxix, 200; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; Hugo on "Last Judgment" of, xxxix, 352; Luigi Pulci and, xxxi, 62; Rossetti on, xiii, 1179; model for a "Samson," xxxi, 416; Torrigiani and, 23-4; work in S. Lorenzo Sacristy, 368-9 note 2; his man Urbino, 386 note

Michelet, Taine on, xxxix, 414

Micheletto, the engraver, xxxi, 91-2

MICHIE, WILLIAM, EPITAPH FOR, vi, 265

Michol, reference to, xx, 184

Mickle, Samuel, i, 57

Micocolembo, xiv, 137

Micomicona, Princess, xiv, 280-3

Microbe, origin of term, xxxviii, 364

Microscopic Organisms, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 343

Midas, Dante on, xx, 228; ears of, iv, 81

Midias, and Demosthenes, xii, 200

Middle Ages, classics of, xxxii, 122; the grotesque in the, xxxix, 350-1; Hugo on architecture of, 350; philosophy of, xxviii, 215; poetry of the, xxvii, 346-8; Taine on, xxxix, 426, 433; works dealing with, 1, 22-3, 26

Middle Doctrine of Buddha, xlv, 661-5

Middleton, Newman on, xxviii, 47

Midian, reference to, xliv, 248 (9)

Midianites, Mohammed on the, xlv, 907 note

Midwifery, Holmes on, xxxviii, 252-3

Mien, the music-master, xliv, 54 (41)

Migara, the treasurer, xlv, 756, 760, 7645, 766-72

Might, and justice, xlviii, 106 (198-300), 305 (878); opinion and, 107 (303), 109 (311)

MIGHTY FORTRESS is OUR GOD, xlv, 557-8

Migratory Birds, Milton on, iv, 238

Milan, Cathedral of, the eighth wonder, xxi, 190; corn scarcity in (1628), 196-9; fall of, xxxvi, 79; famine in, xxi, 450-65; insurrection of, 199-226, 267-71; Lazzaretto of, 461-2; Louis XII at, xxxvi, 8-9; Machiavelli on princedom of, 7; plague of, xxi, 467-8, 500-35, 557-70, 612; power of, before French invasion, xxxvi, 38; Sforza at, 42

Milbanke, Miss, wife of Byron, xviii, 406

Milbourne, Luke, xxxix, 172 note 34, 172-3

Mildmay, Sir Walter, xxxv, 381

Milinda, the king, xlv, 653-6

Military Affairs, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 40-50, 68-9, 71-2

Military Service, in BODY OF LIBERTIES, xliii, 67

Military Spirit, in different states of society, xxvii, 372-4

Military Training, in Milton's Academy, iii, 244-6

Militia, Bacon on a, iii, 52; congressional control of, xliii, 185 (15, 16); provision for, under Confederation, 161; standing army and, x, 447-8; in United States, xliii, 194 (2)

Milk, Burke on composition of, xxiv, 123; Harrison on, xxxv, 330

MILKMAID AND PAIL, fable of, xvii, 42

Milky Way, ancient idea of, xlviii, 442; Bacon on the, iii, 100; Newcomb on the, xxx, 313, 318, 319-20; reference to the, iv, 241

Mill, James, xxv, 3; Analysis of Human Mind, 47, 188-9; death of, 127; early life of, 8; Elements of Political Economy, 23, 43; English law, abhorrence of, 44; ethics and psychology of, 69-70; examiner of Indian correspondence, 21-2; on feeling, 71-2;

friendships, 38-9, 49-50; History of India, 9, 21-2; influence of, 60; influence among Benthamites, 65-9; criticized by Macaulay, 100; on Mackintosh and Tocqueville, 126; moral convictions, 34-7; on poetry and poets, 15-16; political belief, 69-70; political philosophy mistaken, 101-2; religious belief of, 29-32; son's education, 7-28; later relations with son, 113; tenderness lacking, 37; unpublished dialogue on government, 44; Westminster Review, connection with, 60-3, 83-4; work, estimation of, 127-8; writings for London Review, 125-6

Mill, John Stuart, address at St. Andrews, xxv, 188; on American Civil War, 164-7; AUTOBIOGRAPHY of, 7-192; AUTOBIOGRAPHY, reasons for writing, 7-8; a Benthamite, 44-6, 66-73; birth of, 8; Carlyle and, no-n, 316; Comte and Positivism, 171; correspondence with Comte, 131-3; Council, offered seat in, 154-5; on Demosthenes and Plato, 18-19; dissatisfaction with present aims, 86-90, 93; Dissertations, 1612; early essays, 48; early ideas of the poets, 16; early wish to be a reformer, 85; edits Bentham's work on evidence, 74-5; edits father's Analysis, 188; edits London Review, 124-6, 129, 133-7; education, 9-14, 16-17; education in political economy, 22-4; his education, remarks on, 24-8; elocution studied by, 20; Examination of Hamilton's Philosophy, 167-70; the Examiner, writings in, 109; as examiner in India House, 154; on fatalism, 106-7; f a ~ ther's relations with, 37-8, 113; father's friends, relations with, 38-9; feelings cultivated, 91-2; first newspaper articles, 58-9; France, visit to, 39-42; on French Revolution, 43, 84; friendship with Grote and the Austins, 49-53, 111 ; friendship with Maurice and Sterling, 97-9; happiness, new theory of, 90-1; his History of Roman Government, 14; hopes of human improvement, 147-8; in Hyde Park affair, 178; improvement club, 77-9; India Company, with, 54-7; in Jamaica Committee, 181-3; law read by, 44; ON LIBERTY, 195-312; remarks on, 155-8; life and works, 3-5; logic studied by, 17-18; logic, his work on, 101-2, 113-14, 130-1, 138-41, 152 note 2; London club formed, 80-3; love of the heroic, 73; marginal notes made for father, 43; marriage to Mrs. Taylor, 149; music, pleasure in, 92-3; Owenites debated with, 79-80; in Parliament, 172-92; Parliamentary Reform, pamphlet on, 159; Parliamentary Review, writings in, 76-7; philosophical studies, 45-8; on poetry, 72-3; his Political Economy, 145-7, 151-3; political philosophy of, 99-106, 107-8, 120-1, 1435, 163-4; popular editions of works, 171-2; private reading, 13-14; religious and moral influences, 29-36; Representative Government, 163-4; Roebuck and, 95-7; his Spirit of the Age, 109-10; on his step-daughter, 163; Subjection of Women, 164; Taylor, Mrs., and, 116-19, 142-3, 149-54, 155-6; Utilitarianism, 164; Utilitarian Society formed by, 53-4; on verse writing, 15; Westminster Review, connection with, 61, 62 note, 63-4, 83-4; woman suffrage and, 68, 151 note i; Wordsworth, acquaintance with, 93-5; writing, his method of, 138-9; writings (1830-2), 113-15; writings (1833-4), 123-5; n his writings, 150-2

Millar's Historical View of English Government, XXV, II Miller, Chaucer's, xl, 26-7; Dryden on

Chaucer's, xxxix, 166 MILLER, HEY THE DUSTY, vi, 300-1 Miller, Rev. Alex., Burns on, vi, 100 Miller, Hugh, THE BABIE, xli, 918 Mills, wind and water, introduction of, x, 206

Milnes, Richard Monckton, SONNET, xlii, 1057-8

Milo, Titus Annius, Clodius and, xii, 246; defence of, by Cicero, ix, 6; trial of, 97; xii, 246-7

Milo of Croton, Cicero on, ix, 55; his feat at Olympia, 56

Miltiades, Aristides and, xii, 82; Byron on, xli, 814; in fetters, xxvii, 21; Themistocles and, xii, 7-8

Miltitz, Charles, xxxvi, 341-342

Milto, concubine of Cyrus, xii, 61

Milton, John, father of the poet, iv, 3

Milton, John, the poet, AREOPAGITICA, iii, 189-232; Arnold on, xxviii, 77, 80; Arnold on lines from, 73-4; Arnold on prose of, 81-2; austere goodness of, 172-4; Bagehot on COMUS, 205-6; Bagehot on PARADISE LOST, 194-205; Bagehot on SAMSON AGONISTES of, 1789; blindness of, iv, 3, 4-5, 84, 85, 86, 136-7; books of, burned at Oxford, v, 417; Browning on, xlii, 1068; Burke on, xxiv, 50-1, 53, 68, 100; Burke on his picture of Hell, 138-9; Carlyle on, xxv, 322, 444; on Charles II, xxvii, 171; daughters of, iv, 4, 5; on divorce, xxviii, 183-6; Dryden on, xiii, 13, 49, 57; xxxix, 154; xl, 396; early desires to write a great epic, iv, 21-2; Eliot on POEMS of, 1, 7; Emerson on, v, 128, 144, 180, 433, 438; Gray on, xl, 456; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 268; highest merit of, v, 59; Hugo on, xxxix, 354-5; Hugo on Paradise of, 349; humor and knowledge of ordinary life lacking in, xxviii, 176-80; Johnson on, 206; Keightley's Life of, remarks on, 168; liberty, his passion for, iv, 4; life and works, 36; marriage to Mary Powell, xxviii, 180-4, 186; Masson's Life of, review of, 165-8; mention of, in Cromwell, xxxix, 380; James Mill on, xxv, 16; outline of life, xxviii, 168-9; Pascal on, xlviii, 69 (192), 150 (448), 152 (455); personal beauty, xxviii, 174-5; POEMS of, iv; poetry of, remarks on, xxviii, 191-4; on poets, v, 175; political relations, xxviii, 190-1; political writings, 189-90; Ruskin on, 106-7, 111-12; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 128; sensibility of, xxviii, 180-1; Severity, 175-6; Shelley on, xxvii, 335, 341, 348-9; xli, 857; Shelley on PARADISE LOST of, xxvii, 354-5; strength of his nature, xxviii, 175; his studiousness, 176; Swift on, xxvii, 112; Thoreau on, xxviii, 413; TRACTATE ON EDUCATION, iii, 235-47; at twenty-three, iv, 29; ON His DECEASED WIFE, iv, 86; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 306, 319-21; xli, 675, 677; Wordsworth on sonnets of, xli, 681; Wright on, xxviii, 191-2

MILTON, ESSAY ON, Bagehot's, xxviii, 165-206

Mimas, death of, xiii, 346

MIMNERMUS IN CHURCH, xiii, 1114

Mimosa, Longfellow on the, xiii, 1321

Min, first king of Egypt, xxxiii, 9, 48-9

Min Tzu-ch'ien, xliv, 19 (7), 33 (2, 4), 34 (12, 13)

Mincius, smooth-sliding, iv, 74

Mincius, the Triton, xiii, 328

Mind, anticipation of the, xxxix, 146; Bacon on operations of the, 134-5, J 36, 144; Berkeley on the, xxxvii, 252, 2545, 271; body and, connection between, xxiv, 108; body and, Pascal on, xlviii, 32; Burke on study of the, xxiv, 46-7; Byron on the, xviii, 449; xxxii, 383; Channing on improvement of the, xxviii, 328-36; Channing on power of, 350; Descartes on reality of the, xxxiv, 29; diffusion of, ii, 264 (57, 60); diseases of the, 144 (75); as the first cause, 91; geometrical and imaginative, xlviii, 412-13; heart and, relations of, v, 282-3; its hell, xiii, 1399-1400; Helmholtz on sciences of, xxx, 173-4; Hume on perceptions of the, xxxvii, 299-300; Hume on study of the, 2958; Locke on a sound, 9; Locke on training the, 27 et seq., 70-1; Marvell on the, xl, 378; materialistic ideas of, xxxiv, 104-8; Marcus Aurelius on the, ii, 261 (48); mathematical and intuitive, compared, xlviii, 9-12; memory and, St. Augustine on, vii, 171; More on pleasures of, xxxvi, 201-3; native propensities of the, xxxvii, 84-5; Penn on pleasures of the, i, 332 (96-8); perturbations of the, vii, 171-2; Pope on study of the, xl, 406-7; religiousness of, xlv, 865; Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 258-9; Schiller on nature of the, xxxii, 261-3; Shakespeare on diseases of, xlvi, 386; Shelley on the, xli, 856; troubled, no medicine for, xlvii, 708; virtues and defects of, xxxiv, 349-59; Watts on the, xl, 398 (see also Understanding)

MIND, MY, TO ME A KINGDOM Is, xl, 207-9

Mindarus, xii, 133-5

Mineralogy, Locke on study of, xxxvii, 147; in New Atlantis, iii, 177

Minerva, Jove's keys and, v, 92; on mankind, 218; the shield of, iv, 56 (see also Athena)

Mines, discovery of, in Chili, xxix, 321-2; fertility of, x, 169; produce of, a source of capital, 221; rent of, 169, 171-7

Minicianus, Cornelius, letter to, ix, 253

Mining, in Chili, xxix, 264-5, 270-1, 342-5, 349-50; Smith on projects of, x, 402-3

Minister, in FAUST, xix, 177

Ministers, Burns on "whids" of, vi, 74; Chaucer on, xl, 24-5; Penn on, i, 359 (457-467); who change to better their income, xv, 106-7; Woolman on true, i, 176, 245-6; Woolman's counsel to, 310-12

Ministers (of state), Bacon on, hi, 95; Confucius on, xliv, n (19); Henry VII's policy toward, xxxix, 77; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 75-6; Penn on, i, 351-3

Ministry, Emerson on the, v, 33-40; Sidney on the, xxvii, 16; Walton on the, xv, 340-1

MINNA VON BARNHELM, Lessing's, xxvi, 299-375; remarks on, 298

Minnesingers, Poe on the, xxviii, 378

Minorities, Lincoln on duty of, xliii, 318-19

Minority Representation, Mill on, xxv, 160

Minos, in Crete, xxii, 261-2; Dante on, xx, 21 ; Homer on, xxii, 159; judge of the dead, xiii, 221; judge in Hades, xxvi, 183; Scylla and, viii, 102 Minotaur, Dante on the, xx, 49; reference to the, xxvi, 136

Minshull, Elizabeth, wife of Milton, iv, 5

MINSTREL, THE, AT LINCLUDEN, vi, 480-1

Minstrels, Homer on, xxii, 111-12

Minutius Æmilianus, ix, 200-2

Miocene, Upper, Lyell on the, xxxviii, 412

Mirabeau, Carlyle's estimate of, v, 183; Emerson on, 265; on the French aristocracy, 406; on October sixth, xxiv, 211 note; on political societies, x, 444; ugliness of, v, 306

Miracles, Bacon on, iii, 153-4; of Bible, Browne on, 259-61, 271-5, 279 (27); Calvin on, xxxix, 33-5; Dante on Christian, xx, 389; Emerson on, v, 30, 32, 293; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 385; Hume on, xxxvii, 375-92; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 193 (6); of Old Testament, Lessing on, xxxii, 189; only in ancient history, v, 29; Pascal on, xlviii, 279-99, 348, 358; Plutarch on, xii, 182-3; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 286-8; in Utopia, xxxvi, 229; Walton on, xv, 326-7; Whitman on, xxxix, 399

Miranda, in THE TEMPEST, with Prospero on island, xlvi, 399-405, 410; first meeting with Ferdinand, 413-6; with Ferdinand, at his task, 432-5; betrothed to Ferdinand, 443-9; discovered to Alonso, etc., 458-9; Hunt on, xxvii, 294; Shelley on, and Ariel, xli, 848-9

Miranda, Francesco, expedition of, xliii, 273

Mirandola, Galeotto della, xxxi, 339-40

Mirandola, Pico della, xlviii, 28 note

Mirandola, Picus, xv, 323

Mirrors, ancient, xxxv, 322

Mirth, ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 336 (2), 342 (4), 345 (15); in music, xli, 478; parentage of, iv, 30; pleasures of, 304; religion and, Herbert on, xv, 406

MIRZA, VISION OF, by Addison, xxvii, 73-7

Misael, Luther on, xxxvi, 329

Misanthropy, Bacon on, iii, 34; Socrates on, ii, 82

Misbelievers, Mohammed on, xlv, 883, 931-2, 946, 947-8, 949-50, 957, 959, 977-8, 981-2, 984, 998

Miscelin, a kind of bread, xxxv, 281, 312

Misenus, death and burial of, xiii, 213, 214; the Harpies and, 136

Miserliness, Blake on, xli, 588; contrasted with avarice, xxxvi, 51; More on, 200; in princes, 52-4

Misers, Burns on, vi, 221; fable of, xvii, 36; Penn on the, i, 327 (45), 331 (88-91)

Misery, "acquaints with strange bedfellows," xlvi, 428; contemplation of, vii, 228-9; death's harbinger, iv, 260; islands in sea of, xli, 835; Kempis on bearing of, vii, 279; miracles and, xlvi, 251; origin and cessation of, xlv, 6256, 661-2, 674; Pascal on human, xlviii, 130, 131 (405); truth and, iv, 371

Misfortune (s), Arabian verses on, xvi, 16; Burns on, vi, 68; children and, iii, 19-20; compensation for, v, 98, 101-2; envy bred by, iii, 23; indifTerency of, ii, 135-6 (56); Marcus Aurelius on bearing, 220 (49), 224 (8), 228 (18); of others, pleasure in, xxiv, 40-3; Penn on use of, i, 385 (150); profit from, ii, 156 (106); Woolman on, i, 256 (see also Adversity)

Misology, Kant on, xxxii, 307; Socrates on, ii, 82-3

Mississippi River, provision for navigation of, xliii, 179; sediment of, xxxviii, 402; Thoreau on the, xxviii, 408

MISTAKES OF A NIGHT (see SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER)

Mistletoe, origin of the, xi, 20

MISTRESS, His SUPPOSED, xl, 300

MISTRESS, LINES TO His, xxvii, 270-1

MISTRESS, THE LOST, xlii, 1069-70

MISTRESS MINE, xl, 262

MISTRESS, WISHES FOR THE SUPPOSED, xl, 359-63 m

Mistrust, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 467, 128; Christian on, 132-3; punishment of, 221

Misunderstanding, Emerson on, v, 66

Misuse, of good things, iv, 159-60; is loss, i, 329 (70); Sidney on, xxvii, 35

Mitchel, Dr., i, 147

MITCHELL, COLLECTOR, VERSES TO, vi, 544-5

Mites, Pascal on, xlviii, 27

Mitford, exposed by Grote, xxv, 63; Mill on history of, 13

Mithra, Utopian name of God, xxxvi, 225, 233

Mithridates, and Antony, xii, 358, 359

Mithridates, Chrysippus, ix, 361

Mithridates of Pontus, water-wheel of, xxx, 181

Mithropaustes, and Demaratus, xii, 31

Mitscherlich, on fermentation, xxxviii, 345, 349-50 and note

Mivart, St. George, objections to Natural Selection, xi, 218-50

Mlithe, the jester, xlix, 242

Mnason of Cyprus, xliv, 470 (16)

Mnason, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 278-9

Mnesicles, Athenian architect, xii, 50

Mnesiphilus and Themistocles, xii, 6

Mnesiptolema, daughter of Themistocles, xii, 32, 33

Mnesitheus, of Athens, xxxv, 274

Mnestheus, in the ÆNEID, in archery contest, xiii, 194-5; in battle, 409; at the combat, 394; in defence of town, 319, 326; in Trojan camp, 298, 303; in Trojan games, 182-6

Mobs, Emerson on, v, 99, 206; Manzoni on, xxi, 214-16; Ruskin on, xxviii, 114 Mocking-birds, in Brazil, xxix, 62; Longfellow on, xlii, 1324

Moderation, Confucius on, xliv, 21 (27); Descartes on, xxxiv, 22; Franklin on, i, 79; Hamilton on, xliii, 200; Hume on, xxxvii, 399; Kant on, xxxii, 306; Penn on, i, 346

MODERN ENGLISH DRAMA, xviii

Modern Europe, works dealing with, 1, 27-8

Modern Man, Whitman on the, xlii, 1402

Modestus, Metius, Pliny on, ix, 189, 252; Regulus and, 191

Modesty, Burke on amiability of, xxiv, 90; Confucius on, xliv, 58 (6); Dryden on excessive, xviii, u; Epictetus on, ii, 158 (in); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 409; impudence and, xviii, 218; resides with other virtues, 209; in speech, Franklin on, i, 18-9, 87; Steele on, xxvii, 176-7; violets for, vi, 407; virtue and, ix, 250

Modification (see Variation)

Modred, Gray on, xl, 457

Mogador, island of, xxxiii, 199

Moggallana, xlv, 701, 710, 711, 777

Mohammad, son of Suleyman Ez-Zeyni, xvi, 193, 223, 225, 229

Mohammed, the prophet, Abu Ghal and, xlv, 879 note 3; the believers and, 908 note; the blind man and, 885 note; the caravan and, 942-3 notes 2, 3; Dante on, xx, 278 note 12; in Dante's HELL, 115; the hill and, iii, 32; on himself, xlv, 989; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 382; Hume on ethics of, xxvii, 205; Jews and, xlv, 964 notes; on learning and folly, v, 294; liaison with Mary, xlv, 992 note i; life, 876; the Meccans and, 944 note 5; at Ohod, 959 note; Pascal on, xlviii, 194-6 (595-601); the Quraish and, xlv, 994 note i ; at siege of Medina, 986 note 6; on the spoils, 992 note 32; the sun and, xvi, 31 note; supposed prophecy of, in the Bible, xlv, 966 note 2;

Thoreau on, xxviii, 420; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 84; wives of, xlv, 985 note 2, 987 note 16, 989 note 20; on his wives, 987-8, 990, 991, 992-3

Mohammed Aben Alhamar, xxxix, 84

Mohammedan Literature, 1, 21-2, 26

Mohammedanism, xlv, 855; Bacon on rise of, iii, 138; Browne on, 278; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 294; Taine on, xxxix, 432 (see also Koran)

Mohun, at Crecy, xxxv, 24

Moine, Le, Dryden on, xiii, 13

Moiris, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 12, 49

Moiris, Lake, built by Moiris the king, xxxiii, 49-50; Herodotus on, 9, 75

Molecular Forces, Newton on, xxxix, 151-2

Moles, eyes of, xi, 142; xxix, 59

Molesworth, Sir William, xxv, 122, 123, 124-5, 129

Moliere, Jean Baptiste Poquelin, English dramatists and, xxxiv, 139; Goethe on, xxxii, 124; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279-80; Hugo on, xxxix, 357, 372, 373; life and works, xxvi, 198; as Orgon in TARTUFFE, 199; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 124, 129, 131; TARTUFFE, xxvi, 199-296; Voltaire on Misanthrope of, xxxiv, 136

Molinera, Lady, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 35

Moloch, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 98, 109, 213; reference to, 13-4 (23)

Molothrus, Darwin on the, xxix, 60; instincts of, xi, 262-3

Moluccas, Drake in the, xxxiii, 218-21

Momemphis, battle of, xxxiii, 84

Moment, the, alone is decisive, xix, 368

Monad, Augustine, St., on the, vii, 58

Monaeses, and Antony, xii, 349, 358

Monaldi, Sandrino, xxxi, 234 note, 237-8

Monarchy, Burke on, xxiv, 261-2; Emerson on, v, 243; Pope on, xl, 428-9; republics compared with, v, 245-6; Rousseau on origin of, xxxiv, 215-21 (see also Princedoms)

Monasteries, Harrison on, xxxv, 232; Luther on, xxxvi, 300-1, 305-6, 315, 326

Monatunkanet, xliii, 143, 146

Moncontour, battle of, xxxviii, 50

Mondella, Agnese, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, mother of Lucia, xxi, 37; advises Renzo, 40; with Father Galdino, 4852; advised by Father Cristoforo, 6870; plans marriage of Lucia, 89-92, 95-6; with Menico, 101-2; at Abbonclio's, 114, 116, 124-6; goes to convent, 129-33; to Monza, 133-44, 1767; reunion with Lucia, 393-5; with Cardinal Federigo, 397-8; at the tailor's, 409-11; receives gift from the Unnamed, 426-7; learns Lucia's vow, 427-31; tries to find Renzo, 431-2; corresponds with Renzo, 437-41; flight to castle of Unnamed, 474-80, 487-91; at the castle, 493-6; learns Lucia's safety from Renzo, 617-8; returns home, 620-1; with her grandchildren, 642

Mondella, Lucia, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, marriage of, forbidden, xxi, 14; with Renzo, 36-7; confesses Rodrigo's persecution, 38-40; sends for Father Cristoforo, 48-51; advised by Father Cristoforo, 68-71; plans for marriage with Renzo, 89-92, 95-6; consents to plan, 100-1; plot to carry off, 106-8; at Abbondio's with Renzo, 114, 116-7, IJ 89, 125-6; goes to convent, 130-3; flight to Monza, 133-8; at the convent, 139-44, 175-7; discovered by Rodrigo, 291; learns of Renzo's mishaps, 293-6; abduction of, 323-34; in castle of the Unnamed, 336-43; release planned, 367-70; taken to village, 380-92; reunion with mother, 394-5; visited by Cardinal, 397-400; life at the tailor's, 409-10; Donna Prassede and, 411-13; return home, 414-5; goes with Donna Prassede, 425-6; confesses vow to mother, 427-31; at Prassede's, unable to forget Renzo, 441-3; taken with plague, 571; found by Renzo, 597-603; absolved from vow, 606-10; returns home, 622, 626-7; married to Renzo, 636-7; her daughter, 642; lesson of her life, 643

Mondrames, xxxv, 119

Money, Bacon on need of spreading, iii, 40; Burns on, thirst for, vi, 82; in Chiloe, xxix, 278; as circulating capital, x, 219; congressional right of borrowing, xliii, 183 (2); Emerson on, strife for, v, 18; evils from use of, 255-6; of ancient Germans, xxxiii, 95; increase of, in relation to wages and profits, x, 283-4; justice and, Shakespeare on, xlvi, 296; makes money, x, 95; as measure of value, 36, 40-1, 46; Milton on power of, iv, 382; Mirabeau on, x, 444; More on wrongs due to, xxxvi, 238; need of continual supply of, x, 228; origin and use of, 27-33; paper (see Paper Money); Penn on love, i, 335 (127), 39; Plutarch on use of, xii, 156; prolific nature of, i, 104; its proportion to produce circulated by its means, x, 234-5; quantity of, dependent on consumable goods, 267-8; quantity of, in relation to industry, 234; regulation of, under Confederation, xliii, 163-4; regulation of, by Congress, 184 (5); revenue and, x, 227-9; as reward for services, xxiv, 305; Ruskin on love of, xxviii, 115-16; scarcity of, x, 319; Sophocles on power of, viii, 264; standards of, x, 42-3; states forbidden to coin, xliii, 186 (10); Tennyson on power of, xlii, 982; Tennyson on strife for, 1015-7; trade does not require, x, 319; variation in value of, 36-7, 45; as wealth, 227-8, 311-31; Woolman on, pursuit of, i, 297, 298, 304

Money-love, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 104-9

Money Prices, remark on, x, 46

Mongrels, compared with hybrids, xi, 312-15

Monicongo, epitaph by, on DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 513

Monied Interest, defined, x, 280; increase of, 280-1; remarks on the, xxiv, 245-6

Monimus, the Cynic, ii, 203 (15)

Monk, Chaucer's, xl, 15-16; Dryden on Chaucer's, xxxix, 164

Monkeys, first appearance of, xi, 341; tails of, 232-3

Monkeys, in FAUST, xix, 99-106

Monks, Calvin on, xxxix, 36; Dante on corruption of the, xx, 380-1; Harrison on the, xxxv, 234; irregular, xxxvi, 306 note; Luther on, 300-2, 313, 333; Luther on confession of, 306; in Milton's Limbo, iv, 147-8; Pascal on corruptions of, xlviii, 308 (889); proverb on, xxxvi, 260

Monnica, mother of St. Augustine, vii, 3; cares for son, 24-5, 70-1, 95, 136, 142; funeral of, 155; last sickness and death of, 147, 151-5; life and character of, 148-52; in Milan, 79-80; in the Milan troubles, 146; offerings to the churches, 80; piety of, 14-15; prayer for, 157-8; vision of, 42; Walton on visions of, xv, 336

MONODY, by Burns, vi, 484

Monogamy, among the Germans, xxxiii, 103; of Greeks and Egyptians, 45

Monolith of Amasis, xxxiii, 87-8

Monopoly, enemy of good management, x, 151; forbidden, in BODY OF LIBERTIES, xliii, 68 (9); in manufactures and agriculture, x, 341-2; as means to riches, iii, 89

Monopoly Prices, x, 63

Monotony, of life, Bacon on, iii, 10; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 241 (46)

Monroe, James, in Louisiana Purchase, xliii, 250 note

MONROE DOCTRINE, THE, xliii, 277-9; Russia and the, 432 note Monstrosities, beauty in, iii, 267-8; Darwin on, xi, 25, 247; definition of, 54; under nature and domestication, 54-5

Montagu, Earl of Huntingdon, xxxix, 73

Montague, and Addison, xxvii, 158

Montague, Bishop, xv, 339

Montague, Lady Wortley, xxxiv, 96

Montague, picture-dealer, v, 320-1

Montagues and Capulets, xx, 169 note 13

Montaigne, Michel Eyguem de, Art of Conversation, xlviii, 407-8; OF BOOKES, xxxii, 87-102; on Castalio, xxxvii, 71; on ceremony, xviii, 14-15; character of, xxxii, 107-8; on his character, 6970; in the civil wars, 115-17; commentators of, 106-7; devotees of, 105; Dryden on, xxxix, 160; on his education, xxxii, 65-9; on his essays, 4, 72, 87-8; OF FRIENDSHIP, 72-86; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279; Hugo on language of, xxxix, 374; INSTITUTION AND EDUCATION OF CHILDREN, xxxii, 29-71; ON JUDGMENT OF HAPPINESS, 5-8; on his learning, 29-30; on lies, iii, 8-9; his life, resume of, xxxii, 108-9; life and works, 3; literary style of, 117-20; as mayor of Bordeaux, 117-20; men of his time, in; Pascal on, xlviii, 15 (18), 24-5, 33, (74), 80 (220), 87, no (315), 112-13 (325), 2gl (813), 389-400; To PHILOSOPHIZE IS TO LEARN HOW TO DIE, xxxii, 9-28; on his reading, 89-102; recovered letters of, 106; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 272-3; SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 105-20, 129, 131; Steven de la Boetie, and, 72-3, 78, 83-6; on Tacitus, xxxiii, 92; times of, xxxii, 109-10; travels in Italy, v, 208; Voltaire on Essays of, xxxiv, 101

MONTAIGNE, ESSAY ON, Sainte-Beuve's, xxxii, 105-20

Montanarolo, in THE BETROTHED, xxi,

Montanus, Calvin on, xxxix, 38

Montaperto, battle of, xx, 133 note 8

Montefeltro, Buonconte da, xx, 164 and note 8

Montefeltro, Guido da, xx, in note 4; in Dante's HELL, 110-14

Montejan, M. de, xxxviii, 9, 12

Montelupo, Raffaello da, xxxi, 71 note 7, 206

Monterey, Dana on, xxiii, 71-2, 81-4, 227-8, 384

Montesquieu, on classification of citizens, xxiv, 317; inventor of national workshops, xxviii, 456; Le Temple de Gnide, xxxix, 384; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 123; Sainte-Beuve on Spirit of Laws, 126; Taine on, xxxix, 434

Montevideo, Darwin on, xxix, 147

Montevarchi, Francesco da, xxxi, 427

Montferrat, William, Marquis of, Dante on, xx, 174 and note 17

Montgomerie, James, Burns on, vi, 181 note

MONTGOMERY'S PEGGY, vi, 25

Montgomery, M., and Henry II, xxxiii, 186

Montgomery, Sir Hugh, in CHEVY CHASE, xl, 98-9; at Otterburn, xxxv, 91; xl, 91, 92, 93

Montgomery, Richard, Burns on, vi, 51

Montjoie, origin of cry of, xlix, 177

Montluc, Jean de, xxxi, 207 note i, 248-9

Montmorency, Marechal de, xxxviii, 51

Montone, Andrea de (see Braccio)

Montone, river, Dante on, xx, 68 and notes

Montorsoli, Giovanni Angelo, xxxi, 403 note

Montrose, Marquis of, MY DEAR AND ONLY LOVE, xl, 358-9

Moodie, Rev. Alexander, Burns on, vi, 98-9, 352 (see also TWA HERDS)

Moods, Pascal on, xlviii, 47 (107)

Moon, Addison on the, xlv, 535; xl, 400; Browning on the, xlii, 1098-9; Dante on the, xx, 290-5; as Egyptian goddess, xxxiii, 29; Faust's apostrophe to the, xix, 24; heat from the, xxx, 260-1; Milton on the, iv, 236, 247, 307; motions and distance of, xxx, 303-4; motion of, Copernicus on, xxxix, 54; motion of, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 116-17, 118; Pascal on superstitions concerning, xlviii, 15 (18); Raleigh on the, xxxix, 107-8; Shelley on the, xli, 853, 856; tides and, xxx, 280-2, 291-2, 303-5; tides and Descartes on, xxxiv, 37; tides and, Voltaire on, 108, 118; weather influenced by, xxx, 298-9

MOON, To THE, by Shelley, xli, 847-8

MOON, To THE, by Sidney, xl, 214

Moone, Thomas, with Drake, xxxiii, 146, 209, 212, 230, 250-1, 258

MOOR-HEN, THE BONIE, vi, 261-2

MOORE, SIR JOHN, BURIAL OF, xli, 822-3

Moore, Thomas, Poe on, xxviii, 378, 384; poems by, xli, 816-22

Mora, Giangiacomo, the barber, xxi, 5, 566

Moraines, lateral, central, and terminal, xxx, 215-16, 227-8

Moral, meaning of word, v, 281

Moral Causes, Taine on, xxxix, 417

Moral Education, Locke on, xxxvii, 2756, 60-7, 78-118, 134, 157; Mill on, xxv, 34; Milton on, iii, 240, 242

Moral Instruction, Kant on, xxxii, 322 note 2

Moral Life, Buddhist precepts of, xlv, 743

Moral Perfection, Franklin on, i, 78, 85

Moral Philosophy, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 412; Hume on, xxxvii, 289-90, 297, 335-6, 419-20 (see also Ethics)

Moral Progress, Emerson on, v, 137

Moral Sciences, Channing on study of, xxviii, 329; Helmholtz on, xxx, 173-4; Taine on, xxxix, 426-7

Moral Sense, Bentham on term, xxv, 44; Emerson on the, v, 26-8, 284; Kant on, xxxii, 352, 370; Poe on the, xxviii, 376

Moralists, Sidney on, xxvii, 15-18, 22

Morality, autonomy the supreme principle of, xxxii, 343, 349-5354'5; Bacon on, and atheism, iii, 45; Bagehot on positive, xxviii, 205; beauty and, v, 310; belief in Providence and, xxxvii, 399-400, 404-5; in books, criticism of, xxvii, 219-20; Burke on beauty as basis of, xxiv, 91-2; Burns on, vi, 212; censorship of, iii, 206-8; charge of danger to, xxxvii, 364; common rational notions of, xxxii, 305-17; criticism of defects in, xxvii, 244; culture and, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 162; Descartes's code of, 21-4; Descartes on study of, 8, 9; defined, xxxii, 349; empirical and metaphysical bases of, 318-24, 336-7; empirical and rational bases of, 351-4; equalizes all, v, 291; esthetics and, xxxii, 267-8, 271-4; first manifestations of, 278-9; Franklin's plan of, i, 78-86; free will and, xxxii, 357, 358-63, 364-5; Hume on standard of, xxvii, 204-5; immaterialism and, xxxvii, 280; immortality and, xlviii, 80 (219); imperatives of, xxxii, 328, 330-50, 363-5 (see also Categorical Imperative); interest attaching to ideas of, 359-60, 369-70; intrinsic worth of, 345-6, 349; Locke on popular, xxxvii, 127; love the secret of, xxvii, 337; Marcus Aurelius on the highest, ii, 253 (69); Mill on Christian, xxv, 2426; Mill on standards of, 200-1; natural to man, xxxiv, 269-74; necessity and liberty in regard to, xxxvii, 363-70; need of metaphysic of, xxxii, 299-303; refinement and, 236-7, 254; Pascal on standard of, xlviii, 126 (383); Pascal on true, n (4); Penn on true, i, 3734; philosophical basis of, need of, xxxii, 317; pleasure inseparable from, v, 91; poetry as teacher of, xxvii, 3378, 340-1; religion and, Mill on, xxv, 30-1; revelation and, Dryden on, xiii, 30; of rugged countries, xli, 526; among savages, xxxiv, 186-91; spurious principles of, due to Heteronomy of Will, xxxii, 343, 351; unconscious of itself, xxv, 324-7; of youth and age, iii, 105-6; Washington on, xliii, 242-3

MORALS, FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES OF, Kant's, xxxii, 299-373

Morangis, Abbe, Burke on, xxiv, 280

Moravians, attitude of, toward war, i, 140; marriage among, 143-4; practices of, 143-4

Moray, Earl John, his raid into England, xxxv, 81-2; at Otterburn, 89-90, 91

Morebeke, Sir Denis, xxxv, 51, 58

Mordecai, Dante on, xx, 213; honors of, xxxiv, 365

Mordrains, King, xxxv, 185; Galahad and, 205

Mordred, son of Arthur, xx, 132 note 3

More and Less, tragedy of, v, 101

More, Sir George, and Dr. Donne, xv, 326-8, 332, 347

MORE, HANNAH, ON A WORK OF, vi, 191

More, Sir Thomas, accused of taking bribes, xxxvi, 115-16; accused of treason, 117-21; affection for his father, 107-8; ambassador to Cambray, 104-5; ambassador for merchants, 92; Anne Boleyn and, 114; ascetic practices, 109-10; on Augustine, St., 90; barrister, 90; burgess in Parliament, 91; the Canterbury nun and, 115; chancellor of Lancaster, 97; Charles V on, 134; at Charterhouse, 90; conviction of, 130-1; counsel for Pope, 92-3; Cromwell advised by, 113-14; daughters of, 90, 100-1; education and youthful wit, 89-90; embassies to Flanders and France, 98; on his embassy to Flanders, 135; embassy to Spain offered to, 97; on English Church, 104; freedom from anger, 104; Furnival's Inn and, 90; gentleness toward opponents, 98; Peter Giles on, 241; Henry VII, troubles with, 91; Henry VIII and, 92, 93-4, 97, 98, 99, 102-3, 105, no-ii, 113-14, 117-19; heroism of, v, 127; imprisoned in tower, xxxvi, 121-5; indictment and trial, 126-31; Jonson on, xxvii, 56; Johnson on, xxxix, 225; justice of, xxxvi, 107; on king's marriage and supremacy, 114, 117; lands of, 123; last days and death, 132-4; lawyer, 91-2; learning and power of speaking, 98; LIFE by Roper, 89-134; Lord Chancellor, 105, 106-8, 111-13, 115-16; manner of dress, no; marriage, 90; patience with slanders of merchants, 98-9; piety of, 99-101, 109, in, 113, 120, 122; poverty, 113; reader at Furnival's Inn, 90; religious writings and present from clergy, 109-10; Lord Rich with, 126; Sidney on, xxvii, 18; speaker of Parliament, xxxvi, 93-6; three wishes of, 99; under-sheriff of London, 91; unselfishness of his aims, 99; UTOPIA, 135-243; remarks on UTOPIA of, 88; virtues and wisdom of, 89; Walton on, xv, 323; Wolsey and, xxxvi, 95-7

Morelli, Dr., Dryden on, xiii, 56

Morequito, King, of Aromaia, xxxiii, 3323, 355-6

Morgan, chariot of, xxxii, 146

Morgan, Col., at Gettysburg, xliii, 393

Morgan, Matthew, xxxiii, 229, 247, 254

Morgan, Miles, xxxiii, 268

Morgant, the giant, xiv, 19

Morley, his work on liberty, xxv, 5

Morluc (see Montluc)

Mormons, Mill on persecution of, xxv, 287-9

Morning, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 189; Gray on, xxxix, 275-6; Milton on, iv, 37, 170

Moro, Raffaello del, xxxi, 88, 96-8, 183

Morone, Macaulay on, xxvii, 390

Morpheus, reference to, iv, 171

Morphology, Darwin on, xi, 452-7

Morrell, Sir Charles, xl, 99

MORRIS, AULD ROB, vi, 445-6

Morris, Captain, i, 151

Morris, Gov., and Franklin, i, 126-7, 145, love of dispute, 126; quarrel with Assembly, 127-8, 138; retirement of, 127, 145-6

Morris, James, i, 108

Morris, William, POEMS by, xlii, 1183-98; PROLOGUE TO NIBLUNGS AND VOLSUNGS, xlix, 255-6; translator of songs from the EDDA, 360; translator of VOLSUNGA SAGA, 249

Morshead, E. D. A., translator of HOUSE OF ATREUS, viii, i Morsimus, reference to, viii, 443

Mortality (see Death)

Morte d' Arthur, favorite in old England, xxxix, 225; Holy Grail, story of, from Malory's, xxxv, 104-214; PROLOGUE to Malory's, xxxix, 20-4

MORTE D' ARTHUR, Tennyson's, xlii, 986-92

Mortification, Ruskin on, xxviii, 95

Mortimer the elder, in EDWARD II, xlvi, 9-11, 14-15, 16-19, 22-8, 35

Mortimer, the younger, in EDWARD THE SECOND, in opposition to Gaveston, xlvi, 9-11, 14-15, 16-19; consents to his return, 22-5; made Marshal, 26-7; on Gaveston, 28; at Gaveston's return, 31-4; quarrel with king, 34-7; Edward on, 37-8; in attack on Tynemouth, 39-40, 41; at capture of Gaveston, 435; in battle, 53; captured, 54-5; escapes to France, 56, 57-9; his return in arms, 61, 63-4; the Queen and, 63, 66, 69; his triumph, 73; plots king's death, 74-5; with Kent, 75-6; new plots against king, 79-80; made Protector, 80-1 ; puts Kent to death, 81-2; suspected of king's death, 86-7; condemned to death, 88; Edward Third on, 89

Morton, Bishop of Durham, relations with Dr. Donne, xv, 329-30; Walton on, 330

Morton, Cardinal, xxxvi, 89

Morton, John, More on, xxxvi, 142

Mosca degli Uberti, in Hell, xx, 27, 117-18

Mosca, II, xxxi, 420 note

Moschino, II, xxxi, 420 note

Moses, Browning on, xlii, 1099; Bunyan on, xv, 74, 134; on clean beasts, 83; in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 422; on his own death, iii, 281 (29); Defoe on, xxvii, 142; Jesus and, xliv, 379 (30); Jesus on, xlviii, 272 (782); learning of, iii, 199; Lessing on, xxxii, 190; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 20, 21, 83; meekness of, xv, 341; Milton on, iv, 88, 347-8, 349; on miracles, xlviii, 279 (803); Mohammed on, xlv, 888, 902-4, 911, 913, 921, 932, 966, 982, 983, 992 note 32, 996-7; More on law of, xxxvi, 150; Pascal on, xlviii, 189-90, 201, 203, 206 (622), 207 (624), 208 (629), 209 (631), 218 (657), 230 (690), 232, 238, 243 (714), 261 (741), 264 (752), 269 (774); Paul, St., on, xlv, 519 (13); prayers of, vii, 303 (2); his prophecy of Christ, xlviii, 285 (826); xliv, 429 (22-3); the Psalmist on, 267 (6-8), 276 (26), 278 (16), 279 (23, 32); Psalms attributed to, 144, 258-9; on resurrection, 407 (37-8); Stephen on, 436-7 (20-40); taken from Limbo, xx, 18; wish of, iii, 224

Moses, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 142-4, 149-50, 153-61, 163

MOSQUITOES AND FOX, fable of, xvii, 36-7

Mosquitoes, Drake on, xxxiii, 149-50

MOTHER, I CANNOT MIND MY WHEEL, xli, 901

MOTHER, To MY, by Poe, xlii, 1236

MOTHER HOLLE, story of, xvii, 104-7

MOTHER'S LAMENT, A, vi, 315

MOTHER'S PICTURE, ON His, by Cowper, xli, 543-6

Motherhood, Holmes on, xxxviii, 251-2

Mothers (see Parents)

Motherwell, SONG OF THE CAVALIER, xxviii, 392

Motion, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 209-10, 211-13, 237, 265; first law of nature, v, 229, 231; Pascal on, xlviii, 428-30; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 247-9, 251

Motives, and actions, xxxvii, 353-8, 362-3 note, 365-6; James Mill on, xxv, 36; Ruskin on human, xxviii, 94-6

Motte, Andrew, translator of Newton, xxxix, i

MOTTO TO BURNS'S FIRST BOOK, vi, 221

Moulds, bacteria and, xxxviii, 342; Pasteur on, 295, 297, 298 and note

Mounier, on October Sixth, xxiv, 211 note

Mountain-chains, formation of, xxix, 316; Geikie on, xxx, 338-9

MOUNTAIN DAISY, To A, vi, 193-4

Mountain of the Congregation, iv, 200

Mountain-torrents, Darwin on, xxix, 320-1

Mountains, as barriers of species, xxix, 330; difficulty of judging distances on, 329; Helmholtz on low temperature of, xxx, 212-13; resemblance of species of, xi, 394-6

MOUNTAINS IN LABOR, fable of, xvii, 17

Mountjoy, Lord, Harrison on, xxxv, 319 note

Mourning, in ancient Egypt, xxxiii, 42; Bacon on, iii, 9; Byron on, xli, 790; Confucius on, xliv, 12 (26), 60 (21), 65 (17); Dekker on, xlvii, 508; EcCLESIASTES on, xliv, 342 (2, 4); Ennius on, ix, 71; Hamlet on, xlvi, 101-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 338, 339; Rossetti, C. G., on, xlii, 1181, 1182; Shakespeare on, xl, 275; Tzu-yu on, xliv, 65 (14)

MOURNING, VALEDICTION FORBIDDING, xl, 304-5

MOUSE, To A, vi, 119-20; remarks on, 16

MOUSE AND LION, fable of, xvii, 14-15

MOUSE, THE TOWN, AND THE COUNTRY

MOUSE, xvii, 13-14

Movement, definitions of, xlviii, 427-8

Moving Pictures, in New Atlantis, iii, 178-9

Mowis, tale of the, xlii, 1331

Mozzi, Andrea de', xx, 64 and note 5

Mozzi, Rocco di, xx, 57 note

Mucalinda, xlv, 627-8

Much, the miller's son, in adventure with knight, xl, 129, 130, 136, 137, 138; with monks, 155, 156, 157; at archery contest, 165, 167

Much-afraid, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 175; daughter of Dispondency, 288-9, 290; parts with Christiana, 312; death of, 314-15

Mucianus, Tacitus on, iii, 128; on Vitellius, 17, 141

Mucii, Plutarch on the, xii, 219

Muck-rake, man with, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 202-3

Muggins, Dick, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 207, 212

Muhagerin, xlv, 949 note 14

MUIR, WILLIAM, EPITAPH ON, vi, 50

Muirkirk, John Shepherd, Burns on, vi, 353 and note

Mulciber, his fall from Heaven, iv, 106; architect of Pandemonium, 106 (see also Vulcan)

Mule, Darwin on the, xxix, 319

MULE, THE SHEYKH AND THE, xvi, 24

Muley, Hameda, xiv, 387

Mulius, Homer on, xxii, 256

Mueller, Fritz, on air-breathing crustaceans, xi, 191-2; on classification, 437; on crustaceans, 282; on dimorphism, 57; on larval stage, 466; on twining plants, 242

Mueller, John, Browne on, iii, 266 note

Mueller, Max, quoted, xxviii, 240

Multiple Organs, variable, xi, 152

Multitudes, effect of shouting of, xxiv, 69-70

Multrie, Rev. John, Burns on, vi, 165 and note ii

Mummius, at Corinth, xiii, 235-6

Mun, Mr., book of, x, 316; on foreign trade, 313

Munatius, and Cicero, xii, 238

Munday, Anthony, BEAUTY BATHING, xl, 201

Munificence, proverb on, xvi, 201

Munremar, son of Gerrchenn, xlix, 225-6

Muralt, M. de, xxxiv, 136

Murder, Chaucer on, xl, 41; in Massachusetts law, xliii, 80; Mohammed on, xlv, 916, 976-7; punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 364, 365; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 141; Webster on, xlvii, 827

Murderers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 46, 51

Murena Licinius, defence of, xii, 261; trial of, 247

Muret, Mark Antony, xxxii, 66

Murillo, Hugo on, xxxix, 352

Murmuring, Penn on, i, 326

Murranus, death of, xiii, 408, 412

MURRAY, BONNY EARL OF, xl, 107-8

MURRAY, Miss EUPHEMIA, LINES ON, vi, 286-7

Murray, Gilbert, translator of Euripides, viii, i

Musa, Arab general, xvi, 298 note 3 in story of CITY OF BRASS, 298-325

Muszus, Aristophanes on, viii, 471; Marlowe on, xix, 210; Milton on, iv, 36; Sidney on, xxvii, 6; Socrates on, ii, 29; in Virgil's Hades, xiii, 229-30

Musaget, in FAUST, xix, 187

Muses, Aristophanes on the, viii, 465; De Quincey on the, xxvii, 320; Milton on the, iv, 35, 72

Mushroom, Emerson on the, v, 57

Mushtari, reference to, xli, 954

Music, beauty in, xxiv, 100-1; Browne on, iii, 323; Browning on, xlii, 1072, 1101; Coleridge on, xxvii, 255, 262; Collins on, xli, 479; Confucius on, xliv, 12 (23), 25 (8), 41 (3); Dorian, Milton on, iv, 102; Dryden on power of, xl, 390; Herbert on, xv, 380; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; instrumental, power of, xxiv, 51; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 170-1; Mill on effects of, xxv, 92; Mill on limitations of, 93; Milton on, iv, 40, 43; as recreation, iii, 245; the passions and, xli, 476-9; Poe on, xxviii, 377 j 378; Ruskin on best, xxviii, 152; Schiller on, xxxii, 269-70

Music, FOR, by Byron, xli, 788-9

Music, THE POWER OF, xl, 391-6

Music, WHEN SOFT VOICES DIE, xli, 855

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT, A, xli, 922-3

Musical Notes, rates of vibration of, xxx, 252-4

Musicians, Browning on, xlii, 1102

Musing, a deadly happiness, viii, 321

Musonius Rufus, teacher of Epictetus, ii, 310, 320, 321

Mussato, Albertino, xx, 51 note 8

Mussels, no heart in, xxxviii, 129

Musset, De, Taine on, xxxix, 411

Mustapha, and Roxalana, iii, 50

Mustard-seed, parable of the, xliv, 391 (18-19)

Mutilations, inheritance of, xi, 141

Mutual Aid Societies, ancient, ix, 404 note 2

MY BONIE BELL, vi, 417

MY BONIE MARY, vi, 318

MY COLLIER LADDIE, vi, 433-4

MY DEAR AND ONLY LOVE, xl, 358-9

MY EPPIE ADAIR, vi, 348

MY EPPIE MACNAB, vi, 414

MY FAITH LOOKS UP TO THEE, xlv, 569-70

MY FATHER WAS A FARMER, vi, 38-9

MY GIRL SHE'S AIRY, vi, 58

MY HEART LEAPS UP, xli, 600

MY HEART'S IN THE HIGHLANDS, vi, 362

MY HIGHLAND LASSIE, O, vi, 202

MY HOGGIE, vi, 298

MY LAST DUCHESS, xlii, 1074-5

MY LORD A-HUNTING, vi, 262-3

MY LOVE IN HER ATTIRE, xl, 325

MY LOVE, SHE'S BUT A LASSIE YET, vi, 345

MY MOTHER BIDS ME BIND MY HAIR, xli, 581

MY NANIE O, vi, 46-7

MY NANIE'S AWA, vi, 509

MY NATIVE LAND SÆ FAR AWA, vi, 430-1

MY PEGGY'S CHARMS, vi, 289

MY SPOUSE NANCY, vi, 476-7

MY TOCHER'S THE JEWEL, vi, 415

MY WIFE'S A WINSOME WEE THING, vi, 444

Mycene, reference to, xxii, 24

Mykerinos, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 65-7

Mylodon, Darwin on the, xxix, 91

Myopotamus, Darwin on the, xxix, 291

Myris, in ALL FOR LOVE, xviii, 24-5

Myrmex, Aristophanes on, viii, 486

Myrmidons, return of, from Troy, xxii, 37

Myrrha, in Dante's HELL, xx, 124

Myrtle, David on the, xli, 494

Myrto, granddaughter of Aristides, xii, 105

Mysteries, Egyptian, xxxiii, 84-5; in religion, Browne on, lii, 259 (9), 260 (10)

Mystery, Carlyle on, xxv, 332-3; many shapes of, viii, 436

Mysticism, Emerson on, v, 178

Mystics, songs of, in THE FROGS, viii, 449-52

Mythology, Celtic, xxxii, 153-5; Descartes on study of, xxxiv, 7-8; Renan on Classical, xxxii, 160; Taine on, xxxix, 411; Thoreau on, xxviii, 414

Myths, law of compensation in, v, 91-2; remarks of, xvii, 7

N

Naaman, the Syrian, xliv, 364 (27)

Nabal, Winthrop on, xliii, 93

Nabis, Prince of Sparta, xxxvi, 35, 60

Nachoran, Abraham's son, iii, 167

Nacien, the hermit, xxxv, in, 114, 120, 151, 158, 159-61, 184-5

Nadab, Browning on, xlii, 1099

Naegling, the sword, xlix, 78

NAETHING, STANZAS ON, vi, 222-3

Naevius, Roman poet, iii, 195; quoted, ix, 52; old age of, 63

Naga, the Great, xlv, 732-3

Nagasena, and Milinda, xlv, 653-6, 677-80

Nageli, on plants, xi, 212

Naharvalians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 117

Naiads, Homer on the, xxii, 176; Milton on the, iv, 51

Nails, as money in Scotland, x, 28; making of, 13

Naimes, Duke, xlix, 102, 116, 119, 121, 154, 155, 174, 175, 180

Nain, widow of, xliv, 371 (12-15)

Nairne, Lady (see Oliphant, Carolina)

Name, good, a precious ointment, iii, 5

Names, among the Bornoos, v, 200; Epictetus on, ii, 172 (154); Goethe on, xix, 57; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 324-30; independence of, v, 128; Thoreau on, xxviii, 417

Namur, William of, xxxv, 12

Nan Jung, Confucius on, xliv, 14 (i), 33 (5)

Nan-kung Kuo, xliv, 45 (6)

Nantucket, Praying Indians of, xliii, 140; Woolman's description of, i, 247-8

Nan-tzu, xliv, 21 (26), 22 note 3

Naphtha, Browne on, iii, 272

Naples, betrayed by Ferdinand, xxxix, 85; conquest of, xxxvi, 14, 27; described by Marlowe, xix, 230; in 16th century, xxvii, 392; Machiavelli on kingdom of, xxxvi, 7; papal authority in, 296; power of, before French invasion, 38-9; reasons of fall of, 79

NAPLES, STANZAS WRITTEN NEAR, by Shelley, xli, 827-8

Napoleon, aristocracy courted by, v, 204; art of war of, 342-3; Bagehot on, xxviii, 199; Carlyle on, xxv, 324, 406; on charlatanism, xxviii, 66; compared with Milton's Satan, 199; Emerson on, 265; Empire of, 375; etiquette of, 208; on French Revolution, xxviii, 468; on the heaviest battalions, v, 358; Hugo on, xxxix, 377; Louisiana sold by, xliii, 250 headnote; Mazzini on, xxxii, 382, 389; method of, v, 81; at the pest house, 290; the royal armies and, 97; on sublime and ridiculous, xxxix, 357; Wellington on French and, v, 375; the wounded officer and, xxv, 336

Napoleon III, Mill on, xxv, 147-8

Nar, the Squinter, xlix, 242-3

Narahs, evil genii, xvi, 9 note 4

Naraka, xlv, 862

Narcissus, cunning of, iii, 58; Dante on, xx, 293 note 2; Milton on, iv, 51; Shelley on, xli, 860

Nardi, Jacopo, xxxi, 150-1 note 5

Nariscans, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 116

Narrative Poetry, forms of, xxxix, 298

Narrowness, of mind, Confucius on, xliv, 56(9)

Narses, Bacon on, iii, 23

Narvaez, Roderick, and the Moor, xiv, 44

Nasamonians, Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 21

Nashe, Thomas, POEMS by, xl, 260-1

Nashope, Indian town, xliii, 144

Nasidius, reference to, xx, 104

Naso, banished by Augustus, iii, 195; Dante on, xx, 19

Nassaro, Matteo del, xxxi, 305 note

Nathan, and David, xliv, 205; Luther on, xxxvi, 330; Sidney on, xxvii, 25

Natick, Eliot on, xliii, 142

National Antipathies, Browne on, iii, 315-16; Pascal on, xlviii, 103-4; Washington on, xliii, 244

National Armies, Machiavelli on need of, xxxvi, 47-8

National Banks, Marshall on, xliii, 209, 212-15, 223-4 (see also United States Bank)

National Debt, congressional right to contract a, xliii, 184 (2); Washington on, 243

National Debts, Smith on, x, 549-64

National Property, regulation of, xliii, 185 (17)

National Wealth, Bacon on sources and distribution of, iii, 39-40

Nationality, Freeman on sentiment of, xxviii, 231-2

Nations, amorousness of different, xlviii, 420; as determined by language, xxviii, 252-73; origin of, 245-9; Pascal on division of world into, xlviii, 103-4; Rousseau on division of mankind into, xxxiv, 213; Rousseau on origin of, 203; splendor of, how judged, v, 435; Taine on differences of, xxxix, 422-32; Washington on relations with foreign, xliii, 243-6; Woolman on prosperity of, i, 231 (see also Races)

NATIONS, WEALTH OF, Smith's, x

NATIVITY, HYMN ON THE, iv, 7-15

Naturae Encheiresis, xix, 79

Natural, and artificial, xxv, 330; definition of word, xi, i

Natural History, Bacon on, xxxix, 137-40; Darwin's theory, its effect on, xi, 502-5; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 359

Natural Laws, Descartes on, xxxiv, 36-8; suppose an intelligent agent, xi, i; Whewell on, i

Natural Liberty, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 391 (see also Natural State)

Natural Objects, Burke on effects of, xxiv, 129

Natural Philosophy, Bacon on study of, iii, 122; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 279-80; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 362; Hume on limits of, xxxvii, 311, 336, 419; Huxley on study of, xxviii, 221; Kant on, xxxii, 299; Locke on, xxxvii, 163-7; Milton on study of, iii, 240-1; Newton on, xxxix, 151-2; Socrates on, ii, 7, 90

Natural Price, defined, x, 56-7; market price tends to equal, 59; tends to minimum, 63

Natural Principles, Pascal on, xlviii, 41 (92, 94)

Natural Rectitude, Bentham on term, xxv, 44

Natural Religion (see Religion)

Natural Rights, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 391-2, 401-13

Natural Science, Bacon on, xxxix, 128-9; Helmholtz on, xxx, 173-5

Natural Selection, xi, 87-137; Aristotle's idea of, 9 note; difficulties of theory, 169-250, 276-83, 298-300, 319-20; meaning of, 72; progress of idea of, n22; recapitulation of theory, 478-506; theory of, briefly stated, 21

Natural State, advancement of man from, xxxii, 284, 292-3; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 387-91; Pope on the, xl, 426; Rousseau on man in, xxxiv, 166, 168-95, 204-5; Schiller on, xxxii, 275-6

Natural Style, Pascal on, xlviii, 17 (29)

Naturalization, Bacon on, iii, 76; Freeman on, xxviii, 247-8; of plants, xi, 118; under control of Congress, xliii, 184 (4); of words, Johnson on, xxxix, 189

Naturalness, Locke on, xxxvii, 45-7

Nature, adaptations in, xi, 71-2, 84-5; art and, xxvii, 10; art and, Confucius on, xliv, 20 (16), 38 (8); art and, Goethe on, xxxix, 255-8, 260-1; art and, Hugo, on, 366-7; art and, Whitman on, 402; M. Aurelius Antoninus on, ii, 326-7, 335-6; Bacon on interpretation of, 132-40, 143-6; Bacon on observation of, xxxix, 141-2; Berkeley on beauties of, xxxvii, 230-1; Berkeley on laws of, 252; Browne on, iii, 263 (12), 266-8 (15, 16); Browne on study of, 264-5, 266-8; Bryant on, xlii, 1213-15; Burke on study of, xxiv, 7-8; Burns on, vi, 67, 88-9, 320-1, 502, 504; Bishop Joseph Butler on, ii, 327; Channing on study of, xxviii, 328-9; Channing on unity of, 324-5; Cicero on accordance with, ix, 70; Cicero on rebellion against, 46; Coleridge on wisdom in, xxvii, 258-9; complexity of, xi, 79-86; contemners of, in Dante's HELL, xx, 46, 61-5; Darwin on, xi, 89, 203-4, 209; Descartes's method of studying, xxxiv, 51-3; economy of, xi, 151-2; education by, v, 59, 192; xxviii, 153-4; Emerson on, v, 25, 27-8, 54, 89, 101, 152, 167, 171, 173, 189, 192, 193, 240, 275, 301; xlii, 1250, 1253, 1257-8; Epictetus on, ii, 164 (130); God and, St. Augustine on, vii, 164; God and, Hume on, xxxvii, 396-404; God and, Pascal on, xlviii, 82 (229), 90-1, 137 (428), 190 (580), 325-6; God and, Raleigh on, xxxix, 104, 108-10; God and, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 2534; God and, Tennyson on, xlii, 1004-5; Goethe on study of, xxxix, 251; Goethe on unity of, xix, 24; Goldsmith on gifts of, xli, 522; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 851; Hume on knowledge of, xxxvii, 309-10, 311-12; Hunt on love of, xxvii, 293; institutions influenced by, v, 339; interdependence of, xxx, 168; lessons of, xlii, 1243; living according to, ii, 253 (74), 275 (2); xxxvi, 197-8; Locke on works of, xxxvii, 163, 165; Lyell on laws of, xxxviii, 386; Marcus Aurelius on study of, ii, 205 (2); Milton on gifts of, iv, 63-5; Milton on unity and degrees of, 192-3; "never betrayed the heart that loved her," xli, 638; Newton on phenomena of, xxxix, 151-2; "non facit sal turn," xi, 195-6, 207; offences against, vii, 39-40; opposition in, ii, 59-61; original meaning of, 326-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 26-8, 40 (91), 49-50 (119-21); Penn on life next to, i, 3423; Penn on study of, 321 (3), 322-3; pleasure the plan of, xli, 643-4; Pope on, xl, 414, 422-3, 425* 4335 proverb on, v, 91; Raleigh on, xxxix, 108-10; Ruskin on our carelessness of, xxviii, 120-1; Shelley on love of, xli, 826; Thoreau on attractions and benefits of, xxviii, 395-425; Whitman on life with, xlii, 1410; "will out," xvii, 42; Wordsworth on love of, xli, 600, 636-9, 678

NATURE, ESSAY ON, Emerson's, v, 223-37

NATURE, GOODNESS OF, essay on, iii, 32-4

NATURE, HYMN TO THE SPIRIT OF, xli, 841-2

NATURE IN MEN, Bacon's essay, iii, 96-8

NATURE, THE INFLUENCES OF, xli, 607-14

NATURE AND THE POET, xli, 605-7

NATURE'S LAW: A POEM, vi, 225-7

Naturlangsamkeit, v, no

Naucratis, city of, xxxiii, 88

Naudin, M., on origin of species, xi, 1516; on reversion, 314

Naunton, Sir Robert, xv, 380-1

Nausicaa, daughter of Alcinous, xxii, 819; farewell to Ulysses, in; Ruskin on, xxviii, 142

Nausithous, son of Poseidon, xxii, 91; reference to, 81

Nautes, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 201

Navagero, Bernardo, quoted, xxviii, 455

Navarre, King of, at Hesdin, xxxviii 21-2; at Rouen, 47-8

Navidad, city of, xliii, 25

Navigation, ancient, iii, 156-7, 159; Emerson on, v, 339; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; power of, necessary to civilization, x, 24-6

Navigation Act of Great Britain, x, 342-4

Navy, Harrison on need of a, xxxv, 360

Navy, United States commander-in-chief of, xliii, 188 (i); under the Confederation, 161, 164, 165; under Constitution, 184-5 (!3 M)

Naxos, famed for vintage, xiii, 132

Naylor, James, Woo.lman on, i, 292; worshipped as Christ, v, 233

Neaera, and Helios, xxii, 165; reference to, iv, 74

Nealces, Virgil on, xiii, 347-8

Neale, Dr., Dean of Westminster, xv, 375

Neale, J. M., translator of hymns, xlv, 542, 543, 544, 548

Nearchus, in POLYEUCTE, urges Polyeucte to be baptised, xxvi, 77-80; persuaded to go to temple with Polyeucte, 95-7; blamed by Pauline, 99-100; doomed by Felix, 102-3; his death, 106

Nearchus of Tarentum, ix, 59

NEARER, MY GOD, To THEE, xlv, 568-9

Nebaioth, in the Wilderness, iv, 379

Nebridius, friend of St. Augustine, vii, 48, 92, 100, 126; conversion of, 141; on divination, 104

Nebuchadnezzar, Bunyan on, xv, 99; Daniel and, xx, 297, note i; dream of, xlviii, 245-6; image of, iii, 13; the Jews and, xiviii, 212; reference to, xlv, 914 note

Nebulae, composition of, xxx, 314

Necessaries of life, defined, x, 517-18; Kempis on, vii, 290 (4); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 260; taxes on, x, 518, 520-3, 547 (see also Food-Supply)

Necessary, Marshall on word, xliii, 217

Necessary Connexion, Idea of, xxxvii, 335-50, 353

Necessity, Burns on, vi, 366; Chaucer on, xl, 46; Dante on, xx, 210; defined by Kant, xxxii, 356, 365; foreknowledge not, xx, 358, note 7; Goethe on, xix, 379; Hume on doctrine of, xxxvii, 351-70; makes vile things precious, xlvi, 266; Mill on doctrine of, xxv, 106-7; Pascal on belief in, xlviii, 40 (91), 83-4 (233); Sophocles on, viii, 291; the spur of knowledge, xxxiv, 178; the tyrant's plea, iv, 164

Necker, M., on assignats, xxiv, 370; Burke on, 336-7; on French finances, 253; on population of France, 262-3; on wealth of France, 264-5

Necos, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 79-80

Necromancy, Cellini on, xxxi, 127-30, 136; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 382

Neglect, excuses for, ii, 195 (12); a way of dishonoring, xxxiv, 364

NEGOTIATING, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 117-18

Negus, empire of, iv, 329

Nehemiah, and the Sabbath-breakers, xliii, 94, 95

NEIDPATH, THE MAID OF, by Campbell, xii, 777

NEIDPATH, THE MAID OF, by Scott, xii, 744-5

NEIDPATH CASTLE, LINES COMPOSED AT, xii, 679

Neighbors, Confucius on love of, xliv, 44 (24); Jesus on, 382-3 (29-37)

Neleus, birth of, xxii, 151; Chloris and, 152; Homer on, 43; Melampus and, 206

Nelson, in the Baltic, v, 358; xii, 779-80; courage of his sailors, v, 381-2; death of, 348; Emerson on, 366; expecting duty, 387; feat of doubling, 358; at Trafalgar, 414; want of fortune, 393

Nemesianus, on hounds, xxxv, 350-1

Nemesis, Emerson on doctrine of, v, 923; Herodotus's belief in, xxxiii, 5-6; in MANFRED, xviii, 430-2, 433-6; Pliny on, ix, 272 note

Nemetes, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108

Nemglan, and Conaire, xlix, 203

Nemours, Due de, at Metz, xxxviii, 23

Nennius, on Arthur, xxxii, 155-6

Neocles, father of Themistocles, xii, 5

Neo-Druidism, xxxii, 168

Neoptolemus, and Lycomedes, ix, 34

Neoptolemus, son of Achilles (see Pyrrhus)

Nepenthes, reference to, iv, 62

Nephelogetes, and Alaopolitanes, xxxvi, 216

Nepoios, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 349

Nepos, Licinius, Pliny on, ix, 259

Nepos, Metellus, Cicero on, xii, 239-40

Nepos, friend of Pliny, ix, 213, 242

Nepos, the praetor, decree of, ix, 277-8

Nepos, Proconsul of Spain, and Caesar, xii, 282

Neptune, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 77-9; 204-5; Milton on, iv, 21, 45, 67; in sack of Troy, xiii, 121

Neptune, the planet, discovery of, xxx, 23

Nereids, reference to the, xiii, 79

Nereus, references to, iv, 66-7; xiii, 114

Neri, beginning of party, xx, 132 note 4; faction in Florence, 26 note 3, 101-2 and notes

Neri, St. Philip, and the nun, v, 287-8

Nerius, Cn., informer, ix, 99

Nero, Drusus, ix, 232 note 2

Nero, Emperor, Apollonius on, iii, 48; Carlyle on death of, v, 322; Demetrius and, ii, 132 (45); descent of, xii, 389; harp of, iii, 49; Epaphroditus, patron of, ii, 321; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 211 (16); Pliny on reign of, ix, 320-2; as a poet, xviii, 17; Rome burned by, xl, 49; and Seneca, ii, 320 note; Spintrian recreations of, iii, 320

Nero, Francesco del, xxxi, 108 note 2

Nero, Tiberius, and Gabinius, ix, 115

Nerva, edict of, ix, 390; Pliny on, 212, 316; Trajan and, 356 note 2

Nervians, Tacitus on the origin of, xxxiii, 108

Nervii, Caesar's campaign against the, xii, 281

Nesle, Castle of, xxxi, 327 note 2

Nessus, Dante on, xx, 50 and note

Nestor, Achilles and, xxii, 321; birth of, 152; Cicero on, ix, 56; in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 34-45

Netherlands, Bacon on government of, iii, 35; Browne on success of the, 269; under Charles V, xix, 252; manufactures of the, iii, 40; under Margaret of Parma, xix, 256-8; periodic returns in, iii, 137; Philip II and the, xxxix, 86-9; revolt of the, Mill on, xxv, 10-11

Nethersole, Sir Francis, xv, 380-1

Neufville, Nicholas de, xxxi, 281 note

Neuri, Herodotus on the, xlix, 268 note

Neuter Insects, Darwin on, xi, 278-83; sterility of, how developed, 299-300

Neutrality, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 73-4; Pascal on, xlviii, 310 (899); Penn on, i, 357; Washington on policy of, xliii, 246, 248

NEVER THE TIME AND THE PLACE, xlii, 1108

Nevers, Duke of, and Mantua, xxi, 78, 434-5, 466

Nevil, Dr., and George Herbert, xv, 375, 380

Nevill, Sir Robert, xxxv, 24

Neville, Constance, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, with Kate Hardcastle, xviii, 209-10; with Hastings at Hardcastle's, 224-5; carries on joke with Mario w, 226; with Tony Lumpkin, 229, 231; Tony's description of, 232; tries to get her jewels, 236-8; plans to elope, 244; with Tony in elopement plot, 250-1; Tony's letter and, 252-3; denounces Tony, 254; ordered to aunt's by Mrs. Hardcastle, 253, 255-6; refuses to elope, 264; wins consent to marry Hastings, 268

New Academy, xii, 220 note

New Albion, Drake's, xxxiii, 213-17

NEW ATLANTIS, Bacon's, iii, 145-81; editorial remarks on, 144; 1, 42

New Atlantis, acoustics in, iii, 178; air and water machines, 178-9; ancient commerce of, 156-7, 159-60; ancient expeditions against, 157-8; arrival at, 145-8; Christianity in, 153-5; dress in, 147, 151, 165, 170-2; Feast of Family in, 163-6; food in, 149-50, 175-6; health, care of, in, 148, 173-4; instruments of warfare in, 178; Jews in, 167; jugglery in, 179; machines and engines in, 178-9; manufactures in, 176; marriage in, 168-70; medicine in, 176; mineralogy in, 177; optics in, 177; production of heat in, 176-7; production of odors and tastes, 178; scientific expeditions from, 162; self-sufficiency of, 159-60; Salomon's House in, 161 (see further Salomon's House); Stranger's House in, 149; treatment of visitors in, 151-2, 160-1; why unknown, 155-6 et seq.

NEW-BORN CHILD, ON PARENT KNEES A, xli, 580

New Caledonia, barrier-reef of, xxix, 477, 481

New England, historical documents of early, xliii, 59-105, 138-46

New England Courant, i, 3, 19, 21

NEW ENGLAND REFORMERS, v, 253-71

NEW FORCERS OF CONSCIENCE UNDER LONG PARLIAMENT, iv, 80-1

Newfoundland, American rights in fisheries of, xliii, 177; colonization of, xxxiii, 262; description of, 281-6; exploration of coast, 287-8; Hayes on banks of, 275

NEWFOUNDLAND, GILBERT'S VOYAGE TO, xxxiii, 263-98

New Jersey, settlement of, i, 276; slaves in, 178 note

New Light, party of, vi, 16; Burns on, 89-90

New South Wales, Darwin on, xxix, 436-49

NEW TESTAMENT, SELECTED BOOKS FROM, xliv, 351-486

New Testament, adversity the blessing of, iii, 16; corruption of, St. Augustine on, vii, 75; Goethe on, xix, 53-4; Lessing on the, xxxii, 199-200; Luther on, xxxvi, 350; Mill on, xxv, 243; Pascal on, xlviii, 214, 220-1 (666), 261 (740), 288-9 (835), 298-9 (852); Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 300-2 (see also Gospel)

NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 857-943; remarks on, 858

New Year's Day, why celebrated, xv, 403

NEW YEAR'S DAY: A SKETCH, vi, 372-3

New Zealand, Darwin on, xxix, 420-34; fauna and flora of, xi, 371; ferns in, xxix, 249; as an oceanic island, xi, 416; species of, 403, 414, 422

New Zealanders, health of the, v, 80

Newby, Samuel, i, 213

Newcomb, Simon, sketch of life and works, xxx, 310; EXTENT OF THE UNIVERSE, 311-21

Newlights, American society called, i, 207

Newman, Col., on humble-bees, xi, 82

Newman, John Henry, Call of David quoted, xxviii, 170; HYMN by, xlv, 567-8; IDEA OF A UNIVERSITY, xxviii, 31-61; sketch of life and works, 30

Newport, Magdalen, mother of George Herbert, xv, 373-4, 375-9, 384. 387-8; letter to, 389-1; death, 392

News, Arabian proverb on, xvi, 158; evil and good, iv, 453; suspense in, 454

NEWS, LASSIES, NEWS, vi, 542

Newspapers, American, i, 19; Bentham on power of, xxvii, 229; Carlyle on writing for, xxv, 446; Ruskin on, xxviii, 98; Wordsworth on taxation of, v, 324

Newton, Sir Isaac, Burke on, xxiv, 103; Cartesian vortices disproved by, xxxiv, 114-5; chronology of, 126-30; Emerson on, v, 66; gravitation, universal, discovered by, xxxiv, 115-21; on gravitation, v, 310; xxx, 301-4; xxxvii, 3456 note; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 267-8; the heliocentric theory and, xxxix, 52 note; honors paid him, xxxiv, 152; law of conservation and, xxx, 175; Leibnitz on, xi, 498; life and works, xxxix, 150 note; Locke on, xxxvii, 166; mathematical discoveries of, xxxiv, 125-7; optics, discoveries in, 121-4; Pepys and, xxviii, 304; on polarity in nature, v, 14; PREFACE TO Principia, xxxix, 150-2; remarks on, 1, 39; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 249; spectrum discovered by, xxx, 261-2; on tides, 280-1; Unitarianism and, xxxiv, 83, 84; Voltaire on, 98, 108-13; Warden of Mint, 152; Wordsworth on theory of, v, 326

Newton, Gen. John, at Gettysburg, xliii, 336, 358, 37; Haskell on, 359

Newton, Sir John, xxxv, 64, 66, 68

New York, Whitman on, xlii, 1411-2

Nia, the waiter, xlix, 237

Niata, Cattle, xxix, 150-1

Nibbio, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 323, 326-9, 333-5

Niblung, son of Hogni, xlix, 352

Niblungs, names of the, xlix, 253-4

NlBLUNGS AND VoLSUNGS, Story of, xlix, 249-358

Nicaea, Council of, xxxvi, 273, 290 Nicagoras, xii, 14

Nicandra, priestess of Dodona, xxxiii, 32-3

Nicanor, xliv, 434 (5)

Nicely, Miss, marriage of, xviii, 123

Nicephorius, steward of Q. Cicero, ix, 112

Niceta, on motion of the earth, xxxix, 55

Niceta of Remisiana, TE DEUM, xlv, 546

Nicety, is depraved modesty, xviii, 14

Nicholas, the gift of, xx, 225 note 3

Nicholas III, in Dante's HELL, xx, 79-80

Nicholas, in Two YEARS BEFORE THE MAST, xxiii, 141-2

Nicholas, the barber, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 45, 48-54. 229-36, 276, 300-1

Nicholas, Harry, xlvii, 662 note 10

Nichols, Joseph, i, 276

Nichols, Philip, editor of DRAKE REVIVED, xxxiii, 123

Nichomedes, the mastiff of, xxxv, 354

Nicias, Alcibiades and, xii, 85, 116-18; Cicero on, ix, 107; Hyperbolus and, xii, 116; peace of, 116; power of, 115; in Sicilian expedition, 121, 124, 126

Nicias, in Mandragola, xxvii, 384-5

Nicodemus, the Jew, on Jesus, xlviii, 280 (808), 286-7 (829)

Nicodemus, the Messenian, fickleness of, xii, 201

Nicogenes, and Themistocles, xii, 27-8

NICOL, WILLIAM, EPITAPH FOR, vi, 265

Nicol Prism, the, xxx, 265

Nicolaus of Antioch, xliv, 434 (5)

Nicomachus, Aristophanes on, viii, 486

Nicomedia, aqueduct of, ix, 378; fire at, 377; lake near, 382, 391-2; temple at, 384

Nicopolis, school of Epictetus at, ii, 116

Nicors, xlix, 17 note i, 44-5

Nicostratus, Plato on, ii, 22

Nidau, Earl at Poitiers, xxxv, 46

Niepce, discoverer of actinism, xxviii, 418

Nieuwentheit, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 253

Niger, name of, xii, 157

Niger, rival of Severus, xxxvi, 64-5

Night, Byron on beauties of, xviii, 445; Carlyle on, xxv, 332; Dryden's description of, xxxix, 323 note; Habington on, xl, 252-4; Milton on, iv, 131, 132-3, 170-1, 181, 311-312; Mohammed on the, xlv, 881; patroness of grief, iv, 24 (5); Shakespeare on, xl, 276; xlvi, 159; terrors, why greater at, xxiv, 50

NIGHT, by Blake, xii, 585-6

NIGHT, To THE, by Shelley, xli, 832-3

NIGHT, To, by White, xli, 913

NIGHT, AT THE MID HOUR OF, xli, 822

NIGHT, HYMN TO THE, xlii, 1267

Night-hag, Milton on the, iv, 125

Nightingale, Æschylus on the, viii, 51; Homer on the, xxii, 270; Milton on the, iv, 35, 50, 170, 238; Swinburne on the, xlii, 1202

NIGHTINGALE AND LABORER, fable of, xvii, 33-4

NIGHTINGALE, ODE TO A, by Keats, xli, 876-8

NIGHTINGALE, SONNET TO THE, Milton's, iv, 38-9

NIGHTINGALE, THE, by Barnfield, xl, 283

NIGHTINGALE, THE, story of, xvii, 301-10

Night-Watchers, Psalm of, xliv, 314-15

Nigidius, Publius, friend of Cicero, xii, 234

Nigrinus, counsel against Varenus, ix, 299

Nihilism, philosophy of, xix, 58; philosophical, Buddha on, xlv, 664-5

Nile, Æschylus on the, viii, 196; breezes, why without, xxxiii, 18; delta of the, 14; Egypt a gift of the, 9, 11-13; Egyptian civilization due to, x, 25; embankments of, made by Min, xxxiii, 48-9; fish of the, 46-7; Lang on the, xxii, 335; Milton on the, iv, 345-6; mouths of the, xxxiii, 14-15; overflows of the, 15-16, 48; rise of the, cause of, 16-18; sacred animals of the, 38-9; sources of the, 18-22

Nimeguen, Peace of, x, 347

Nimrod, Burns on, vi, 408; in Dante's HELL, xx, 129; the mighty hunter, iv, 342-3; pictured in Purgatory, xx, 191

Nine Worthies, the, xxxix, 20

NINETY-FIVE THESES, Luther's, xxxvi, 251-9; remarks on, 246

Ninevah, Milton on kingdom of, iv, 391

Ning Wu, xliv, 17 note 9

Nino di Gallura (see Gallura, Nino di)

Ninus, Raleigh on, xxxix, 112

Niobe, Dante on, xx, 191-2; daughter of Tantalus, viii, 282

Niphsus, death of, xiii, 341

Niphates, Satan alights first on, iv, 154

Nirvana, attainment of, xlv, 738-9; Buddha on, 720; Buddha's passage into, 646; Buddha's search for, 578-80; the craving for, 715; Hindu doctrine of, 814

Nisroch, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 215

Nisus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 188-90; Dante on, xx, 8; Euryalis and, xiii, 298-308; Euryalis and, Sidney on, xxvii, 17

Nisus of Dulichmin, xxii, 248

NITH, THE BANKS OF, vi, 342-3

NITHSDALE'S WELCOME HAME, vi, 419

Nitrate of silver, under voltaic current, xxx, 129 note

Nitrocris, queen of Egypt, xxxiii, 49

Nitrogen, in air, xxx, 143-4; binoxide of, 44 note; weight of, 144

Niuthones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 115

No CHURCHMAN AM I, vi, 37

No, MY OWN LOVE, xli, 901

Noah, Adam's vision of, iv, 336-41; Browne on story of, iii, 274; Jesus on days of, xliv, 399 (26-7); Kempis on, vii, 336 (4); Mohammed on, xlv, 905, 913; Pascal on, xlviii, 201, 215-16 (644); progeny of, iv, 341; taken from Limbo by Christ, xx, 18; wife of, xlv, 993

Noailles, Count of, Burke on, xxiv, 418

Noailles, family of, xxiv, 249-50

Nobili, Antonio de', xxxi, 408 note

Nobility, Bacon on the, iii, 34-6, 51; Browne on the true, 311; Burke on a, xxiv, 273; Burns on, vi, 511-12, 520-1; Goldsmith on, xli, 510; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 360; Keppel on a, xxiv, 417-18; Machiavelli on a, xxxvi, 16, 33-5; More on, 199; origin of hereditary, xxxiv, 221-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 379-380, 3813; titles of, forbidden in United States, xliii, 160, 186 (8, 10); of Vanity Fair, xv, 98

Noble, C., on rhododendrons, xi, 290

NOBLE EARL'S PICTURE, VERSES FOR A, vi, 260

NOBLE LORD, LETTER TO A, xxiv, 379-421

NOBLE NATURE, THE, xl, 291

Noddy, Darwin on the, xxix, 20

Nodier, on school of Alexandria, xxxix, 366

Noel, Father, on light, xlviii, 425 note

Noemon, son of Phronius, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 31, 62-3

No-good, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 100

No-heart, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 217

Noise, much, little outcome, xvii, 17

NOISY POLEMIC, EPITAPH ON A, vi, 58

Nollet, Abbe, theory of electricity, i, 147-8

Nornbre de Dios, account of expedition against, xxxiii, 122-3, 130-41; taking of, 226-7

Nominalism, Buddha on, xlv, 665

Nominations, in early Connecticut, xliii, 62

Nomphon, the sachem, xliii, 145

Non-combatants, agreement with Mexico concerning, xliii, 303-4

Non-conformists, called atheists, iii, 43

Non-conformity, of heroism, v, 129; of infancy, 61; Mill on, xxv, 143, 240-2, 261-2; Milton on, iii, 224-5; Montaigne on, xxxii, 41-2; necessary to manhood, v, 62-3; penalty of, 65; popular ideas of, 74-5; power of, 189; source of sanctity, 192; Whitman on, xxxix, 397; (see also Individuality)

Non-existence, Buddha on, xlv, 578, 661

Nonianus, and Claudius, ix, 199

Nonius, story of, xii, 250

Non-resistance, Emerson on, v, 460

Nonsuits, in Massachusetts, xliii, 70

NOON, SILENT, xlii, 1179-80

Norcia, Francesco da (see Fusconi)

Norfolk, 3d Duke of, imprisonment of, xxxix, 78; Thomas More and, xxxvi, in, 117, 120, 125

Norfolk, Dukedom of, v, 405

Noriego, Senor, xxiii, 235, 385

Norman Conquest, Vane on the, xliii, 121

Norman Islands, Freeman on, xxviii, 254-5

Normanby, Marquis of, dedication to, xiii, 5-71

Normandy, Duke of, at Poitiers, xxxv, 46

Normandy, Edward III's invasion of, xxxv, 8-11, 11-16; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 9

Normans, eating of the, xxxv, 287; Emerson on the, v, 345; Renan on the, xxxii, 160

Nornir, northern fates, xlix, 272 note, 294

Norris, Mr., speaker of Penn. Assembly, i, 115, 124

Norris of Bemerton, xxxix, 320

North, Goethe on the, xix, 74; Tennyson on the, xlii, 974-5

North, Lord, Burke and, xxiv, 5; Burke on, 387

North America, Asia formerly united to, xxix, 137; glacial period in, xi, 400; productions of, related to European, 398-9, 401-2; zoology of, 178-9; zoology of, changes in, xxix, 178-9; zoology of, compared with South America, 136

NORTH-EAST WIND, ODE TO THE, xlii, 1062-4

Northampton, Earl of, xxxv, 24, 27

Northburgh, Michael of, xxxv, n note, 13 note

Northern Hemisphere, climate of, xxix, 253-4

Northmen, Charlemagne and the, v, 342; government and people, 343-4

Northumberland, Earl of, xl, 93 (see Percy)

Norway, early depopulation of, v, 345; Freeman on, xxviii, 259

Nostradamus, reference to, xix, 25

Notes (see Annotations)

NOTHING, STANZAS ON (see NÆTHING, STANZAS ON)

Not-right, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 274

Nottingham, Samuel, i, 183

Nourishment, Pascal on, xlviii, 120 (356)

Nova Albion (see New Albion)

Novello, Alessandro, xx, 321 note 18

Novello, Frederic, xx, 166 note 4

Novello, Guido, xx, 43 note 12

Novels, Burns on, vi, 57; Fielding on, xxxix, 176-81; Ruskin on, xxviii, 150-1

Novelty, Bacon on, iii, 136; human thirst for, xxiv, 29-30; Pascal on, xlviii, 38; wonder and, 40 (90)

Novtim Organum, Bacon's, iii, 3

NOVUM ORGANUM, PREFACE TO, xxxix, 143-7

Now SLEEPS THE CRIMSON PETAL, xlii, 974

Now THANK WE ALL OUR GOD, xlv, 558

Nowell, Master, xxxv, 380

Nox NOCTI INDICAT SCIENTIAM, xl, 252-4

Numa, Bacon on, iii, 66; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 382; intercalary month of, xii, 312; on religious processions, 170;

Numa, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 340

Numantia, destruction of, xxxvi, 18

Numanus, death of, xiii, 313-14

Numbers, in battle, iii, 74; xliii, 341; effect of, in struggle for existence, xi, 78-9; Emerson on our respect for, v, 82; grandeur in, xxiv, 66; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 325-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 428-30; Prometheus as inventor of, viii, 183

Numitor, and Maeon, xiii, 332-3; Virgil on, xiii, 233

Nun, Chaucer's, xl, 14-15

NUN'S PRIEST'S TALE, xl, 34-51; remarks on, 10

NUR-ED-DIN, STORY OF, xvi, 193-230

NURSE AND WOLF, fable of, xvii, 29

NURSE'S SONG, xli, 590

NYMPH'S SONG TO HYLAS, xlii, 1194-5

NYMPH'S PASSION, A, xl, 293-4

Nymphs, references to, iv, 13 (20), 37

Nyseian Isle, iv, 161

O

Oak, Plutarch on the, xii, 149; species of, xi, 62

Oateley, Sir Roger, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, with Lincoln, xlvii, 469-71; with Rowland Lacy, 471; with Hammon and daughter, 486, 493, 494-5; with Eyre, 496; learns Rowland Lacy is in London, 496-7; with Eyre at Old Ford, 501-4; finds Hans with Rose, 514; visited by Lincoln, 515-16; learns flight of Rose, 516; with Firk, 516-18; plans to stop wedding, 516-19; mistakes wedding, 524-5; hears daughter married, 526; with the king, 533-4

Oateley, Rose, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, in love with Rowland Lacy, xlvii, 469-70; in the garden, her lament, 477; with Sybil, 477-8; the hunters and, 484-6; Hammon and, 493-5; with Eyre and wife, 503; discovers Rowland as Hans, 503-4; with Rowland, as Hans, 513-15; her flight, 516; with Rowland at Eyre's, 520-1; her marriage, 526; pardoned by king, 531; marriage confirmed, 533-4

Oaths, are but tools to deceive, xxvi, 120; Brynhild on, xlix, 305, 368; continuity of law by, xxvii, 232-5; Epictetus on, ii, 175 (166); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 4001; Luther on sanctity of, xxxvi, 316-17; Mohammed on, xlv, 1003; Quaker attitude toward, xxxiv, 68; shall not enforce the wrong, viii, 140

Oaths of Office, Marshall on, xliii, 219

Oball, son of Conaire, xlix, 224

Obedience, Confucius on, xliv, 7 (5); is honor, xxxiv, 361; Kempis on, vii, 212, 274; Locke on, in children, xxxvii, 32-4, 61-2; Milton on, of subjects, iv, 208; Penn on, to parents, i, 339; Taine on sentiments of, xxxix, 429-30

Oberon, in FAUST, xix, 183

Obizzo of Este, Dante on, xx, 52 and note 9, 74 note 2

Object, and sensation, xxxvii, 213-14

Objects, two kinds of, xxxvii, 222

Obligation, defined by Kant, xxxii, 324, 350; epigram on, xl, 398; Franklin on, from favors, i, 98; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 371;

Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 37; Pliny on, ix, 200; Woolman on, from gifts, i, 201

Oblin, son of Conaire, xlix, 224

Oblivion, Lowell on, xlii, 1386; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 217 (33), 246 (21)

Obscenity, Shelley on, xxvii, 341

Obscurity, brings safety, xvii, 26; Confucius on, xliv, 7 (16), 48 (32); Greene on, xl, 283; Hobbes on, why dishonorable, xxxiv, 366-7; Hume on, xxxvii, 294; more affecting than clearness, xxiv, 51-4; terror caused by, 50-1

Observation, Confucius on, xliv, 8 (18), 23 (27); Goethe on, xxxix, 252, 256; misuse of, xii, 35; necessary to poets, xxxix, 297; unhonored task of, v, 15

Obsolete Words, Johnson on, xxxix, 190, 203-4

Obstacles, Channing on value of, xxviii, 315; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 260 (41), 261 (47)

Obstinacy, constancy and, iii, 277; Epictetus on, in opinion, ii, 124 (23), 132 (47), 142 (69); Locke on, xxxvii, 61, 62, 63, 66, 68; Penn on, in opinion, i, 385 (155-8)

Obstinate, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 1517

Occam, Newman on, xxviii, 47

Occasion, Arabian verse on, iii, 56; Milton on awaiting, iv, 388-9

Occupation, Kempis on, vii, 223 (4); necessary to happiness, xlviii, 140-1

Occupations, Plutarch on mean, xii, 36

Ocean, currents of the, due to wind, xxx, 277-8; Darwin on the, xi, 347; xxix, 504-5; Geikie on floor of the, xxx, 330-2; organic discoloration of the, xxix, 24-7; Socrates's idea of, ii, 108; a sinking area, xxix, 484

Ocean Nymphs, Chorus of (see PROMETHEUS BOUND)

Oceanus, Herodotus on river, xxxiii, 17; Homer on, xxii, 145; Milton on, iv, 67 (see also Okeanos)

Ochre, Widow, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 133

Ockley, Simon, History of Saracens, v, 127

Ocnus, ally of Æneas, xiii, 328

Octavia, Antony's wife, xii, 344-5, 346, 348, 362, 363, 366; children of, 388; Virgil and, xiii, 32

Octavia, in ALL FOR LOVE, xviii, 13-14; scene with Antony, 61-5; with Cleopatra, 67-8; discovers Dolabella with Cleopatra, 76-7; tells Antony, 79; farewell to Antony, 82-3 Octavius, at Actium, xii, 372; xiii, 290; Actium, triumph after, 292; Antony and, xii, 254, 256, 333, 346, 348, 364-5; Antony, war with, 366-74, 379, 380-1, 382; Caesar's heir, 255; Caesarion killed by, 384; Cicero and, 254-6, 259; xlvi, 28; Cicero on, ix, 178; clemency to Alexandria, xii, 383; Cleopatra and, 378-9, 382, 384-6; xvii, 51; Dolabella and, 55; Dryden on, 42-3, 60; Empire of, xii, 344; prophecy of his greatness, 255; in Rome, 338; in second triumvirate, 335-6; in war with republicans, 336-7 (see also Augustus)

Octavius, the African, xii, 239

Octavius, Caius at Caesar's death, xii, 319

Octavius, Cnsus, ix, 133

Octavius, Marcus, at Actium, xii, 372

October Sixth, Burke on, xxiv, 208-17

Octopus, habits of the, xxix, 16-17

Oddrun, and Gunnar, xlix, 336, 383-4

ODDRUN, THE LAMENT OF, xlix, 431-8; remarks on LAMENT, 252

Ode, Hugo on the, xxxix, 340, 352, 353, 354

ODE, by O'Shaughnessy, xiii, 1198-9

ODE IN IMITATION OF ALGOUS, xii, 579

ODE ON INTIMATIONS OF IMMORTALITY, xii, 595-600; Emerson on, v, 466

ODE, WRITTEN IN MDCCXLVI, xii, 476

Oderigi, in Dante's PURGATORY, xx, 188 and note 2

Odeum, of Athens, xii, 50

O DEUS, EGO AMO TE, xlv, 556

Odin, in the EDDA, xlix, 361, 363, 429 note; Emerson on, v, 344; in the VOLSUNGA SAGA, xlix, 257; 258, 259, 261 note, 277 note, 279 note, 284, 285, 286, 300, 358 note i

Odiousness, contrasted with sublimity, xxiv, 72-3

Odors, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 199-200, 206, 207

Odysseus (Ulysses), Achilles and, xxii, 101; Æneas and, xxxix, 157; yEolus and, xxii, 130-2; Agamemnon's praise of, viii, 38; Aias and, xxii, 158-9; Alcinous and, 90-102, 108-11, 113-15; Amphinomus and, 248-9; Antinous and, 237-41; Athene and, 38-9, 179-85; as beggar, 228, 233-4, 236-8; the boar and, 268-9; bow of, 284-5, 290-5; on Calypso's isle, 9, 10, 60, 71-5, 173; Charybdis and, 167-8, 172-3; Charybdis and, Milton on, iv, 134; the Cicones and, xxii, 116; on Circe's island, 133-43; Circe's prophecy for, 162-6; Ctesippus and, 280-1; in the land of the Cyclopes, 117-29; Cyclops and, Virgil on, xiii, 148-9; Dante on, xx, 107-10 and note 7; Demodocus and, xxii, 111-12; dog of, 235-6; dog of, Pliny on, ix, 352-3 note 2; Don Quixote on, xiv, 212; Eumaeus, swineherd of, xxii, 186-99, 207-12, 277-9, 289-90; Eurycleia recognizes, 266-70; Eurymachus and, 254-5; faithful servants received by, 309; in the games, 102-5; in Germany, xxxiii, 94; on God, ii, 126 (28); Hades, his visit to, xxii, 142-61; on island of Helios, 168-72; Hermes and, iv, 61; Iphitus and, xxii, 284-5; I fus an d, 245-8; Ithaca, arrival in, 177, 178-81; Laertes and, 325-9; at Laestrygonia, 132-3; Lotus-eaters and, 117 (see Lotos-eaters); the mantle and, 197-9; Melantho and, 253; Milton on, iv, 22, 261; Minerva and, xiii, 105-6; named by Autolycus, xxii, 267; Nausicaa and, 83-9; Nestor on, 35-8; omens of his success, 275-6; Palamedes and, xiii, 102-3; Penelope and, xxii, 241-3, 258-66, 270-2, 310-19; Penelope and, Bacon on, iii, 22; in Phaeacia, xxii, 7980; Phaeacia, departure from, 174-6; Philomeleides and, 54; Pliny on, ix, 208 note 9; Poseidon and, xxii, n; return home decreed by Zeus, 69-71; righteousness of, 63; at Scylla and Charybdis, 167-8; Shelley on Homer's, xxvii, 336;

Sidney on, 17; the Sirens and, xxii, 166-7; tne Siren and, Dante on, xx, 221 note 4; Socrates on, ii, 29; Spenser on, xxxix, 62; in the storm, xxii, 75-8; Telemachus and, 215-23, 279-80; in Troy, 112; in Troy as a beggar, 52; in Trojan horse, xiii, 108; xxii, 53; Virgil on wanderings of, xiii, 365; the wooers and, xxii, 273-4, 296-307; wooers' friends and, 330-4; wrecked, 172-3 (see also Ulysses)

ODYSSEY, Homer's, xxii; ÆNEID compared with, xiii, 38-40; xxxix, 157; Burke on, xxiv, 34-5; editor's remarks on, 1, 1920; lines on, by Lang, xxii, 7, 335; reference to the, iv, 261

Œbalus, ally of Turnus, xiii, 264

ŒDIPUS THE KING, viii, 209-54; Æschylus's supposed criticism of, 476-7; Shelley on, xviii, 276

Œdipus, birth of, viii, 243-4; blinds himself, 247; Creon and, 211-13, 220-1, 224-30, 251-4; daughters of, 252-8, 270, 272-4; elected king of Corinth, 237; exile of, 254; exposed as infant by father, 230; father's death described to, 230-1; grief of, 236; Homer on, xxii, 151; Laius's murderer sought by, viii, 213, 216-17; life related by, 2323; marriage to wife of Laius, 217; called Œdipodes, xxii, 151; in plague of the city, viii, 209-13; Polybus and, 237-9; Prynne on tragedies on, xxxiv, 153; remorse of, viii, 248-51; Sidney on example of, xxvii, 17; the sphinx and, iv, 409; viii, 221, 224, 254; Teiresias denounces, 220-3; Voltaire on, xxxix, 364

Œnone, in PHJEDRA, with Phaedra, learns of her love, xxvi, 138-46; urges Phaedra to live, 139, 140, 141, 147-8; prevents Phaedra's death, 161; urges Phaedra to assume throne, 163; announces Theseus's return, 166; urges Phzdra to accuse Hippolytus, 168-9; accuses Hippolytus, 172-4; hears Hippolytus in love with Aricia, 180-2; denounced by Phaedra, 184; kills herself, 190

ŒNONE AND PARIS, xl, 217-18

Offa, reference to, xlix, 58

Offences, against nature and custom, vii, 39; Jesus on, xliv, 398 (1-2)

Offenders, patience toward, ii, 289 (18)

Office (see Public Office)

Office Work, for literary workers, xxv, 55

Officials, Bacon's advice to, iii, 29-30; Bentham on criticism of, xxvii, 239-41; corruption of, inevitable under property system, xxxvi, 168; expences of, x, 465; legal responsibility of, xxvii, 234-5; private offences of, xliii, 74 (61); Penn on public, i, 353-6 (see also Public Office)

Offspring, universal love of, xl, 425-6 Og, king of Bashan, xliv, 315 (n); Milton on, iv, 17

Ogier, the Dane, xlix, 118, 120, 191

Ogle, Mrs., in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 135

Ogygia, isle of Calypso, xxii, 96

O'Hagan, J., translator of DIES IR*, xlv, 551; translator of ROLAND, xlix, 93

O'Higgins, family of, in Chili, xxix, 353

Ohlenschlager, on Danish readers, v, 365

Ohod, battle of, xlv, 959 note, 963 note

Ohtere, son of Ongentheow, xlix, 85; sons of, 70-1

Okies, son of Antiphates, xxii, 206

Oil, as vehicle of taste, xxiv, 122

Okeanos, Æschylus on, viii, 171; in PROMETHEUS BOUND, 176-9

O'Kearney, Nicholas, xlix, 198

Oken, Emerson on, v, 177

Olaf, and Eyvind, v, 276

Olaf Tryggvason, and Leif Ericsson, xliii, 5

OLD AGE, ON, by Cicero, ix, 45-76; remarks on treatise, 7, 10

Old Age, yEschylus on, viii, 10; Aristophanes on, 428; beauty of, iii, 107; Browne on, 293-4; Browning on, xlii, 1103, 1106; Buddha on, xlv, 662; Burns on, vi, 169, 503; childishness of, xix, 16;

Coleridge on, xli, 703-4; Collins's wish for, 592-3; comeliness of, ii, 206 (2); envy of, iii, 23; Goldsmith on best, xli, 511; Kingsley on, xlii, 1062; messenger of death, xlv, 685; Mill on happiness in, xxv, 35; Milton on, iv, 332; Pliny on order in, ix, 230; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 221; Shakespeare on, xl, 267; talkativeness of, i, 6; Wordsworth on, xli, 615

OLD AGE AND YOUTH, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 104-6

OLD CLOAK, THE, xl, 188-9

OLD FAMILIAR FACES, xli, 735

OLD IRONSIDES, xlii, 1366; remarks on, xxxviii, 222

OLD MAN AND DEATH, fable of, xvii, 39

Old Man of the Sea, the, xvi, 275-7

OLD MARLBOROUGH ROAD, xxviii, 401-3

OLD STOIC, THE, xlii, mi

OLD SWEETHEART, LINES TO AN, vi, 221

OLD TESTAMENT, BOOKS FROM, xliv, 693-49

Old Testament, Calvin on the, xxxix, 49; Jesus on, xliv, 397 (16); Lessing on the, xxxii, 189-96; Luther on, xxxvi, 349; Mill on, xxv, 243; miracles of, xlviii, 286 (827), 288 (835), 299 (852); Mohammed on, xlv, 998; Pascal on, xlviii, 206, 207, 209 (631), 209-11, 214-19, 220 (666), 222 (670), 225, 226, 227-9, 230 (691), 231, 243 (714-16), 261 (740); Pascal on prophecies of, 186-8, 189 (576, 578); prosperity, the blessing of, iii, 16

OLD WOMAN AND WINE-JAR, fable of, xvii, 43

Oldfield, Mrs., the actress, xxxiv, 153

Oldmixon, on story of the exiled princes, xxvii, 171

Oley, Barnabas, xv, 399

Olimpio, in THE CENCI, xviii, 319, 327-0, 330, 333

Oliphant, Carolina, POEMS by, xli, 560-6

Oliphant, Rev. James, Burns on, vi, 163

Oliva, Count, in EGMONT, xix, 280-1

Olivares, Count D', xxi, 78

Oliver, friend of Roland, xlix, 94 (see also Olivier)

Oliver, Andrew, Franklin and, i, 4

Oliverotto of Fermo, xxxvi, 30-1

Olivier, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 98, 100, 103; Ganelon on, 112-13; wi tn Roland in return, 120, 126; at Roncesvalles, 127-30, 131-2, 133, 134, 136, 137, 139, 142, 144-5. 149-50. 151. 152-3157; his death, 159-62; blessed by Archbishop, 167; found by Charlemagne, 182-3; burial, 186-7

Oltven and Kilhwch, tale of, xxxii, 146, 149-52

Olympia, and Jove, iv, 273; xl, 391

Olympias, and St. Chrysostom, xv, 377

Olympic Games, Egyptians on the, xxxiii, 80-1

Olympiodorus, Plutarch on, xii, 92

Olympus, Mount, Homer on, xxii, 82

Olympus, physician of Cleopatra, xii, 385

Om, Hindu sacred syllable, xlv, 832

Omar, the Caliph, simplicity of, v, 55-6

OMAR KHAYYAM, RUBAIYAT OF, xli, 943-58; editorial remarks on, 1, 22

Omberto, Count, in Dante's PURGATORY, xx, 188

Omens, Browne on, iii, 283; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 382; reading of, taught by Prometheus, viii, 184 and note 35

Omnipresence, Emerson on doctrine of, v, 89

ONE DAY I WROTE HER NAME, xl, 251

ONE-EYE, TWO-EYES, AND THREE-EYES, xvii, 206-13

ONE-EYED DOE, fable of the, xvii, 37

ONE NIGHT AS I DID WANDER, vi, 91-2

ONE WORD is Too OFTEN PROFANED, xli, 850-1

ONE WORD MORE, xlii, 1094-1100

ONE'S-SELF I SING, xlii, 1402

Onela, xlix, 70 note 3, 71 note, 77, 85

Onesti, Pietro degli, xx, 377 note 14

Ongentheow, xlix, 73 and note i, 85-7; offspring of, 73 ; son of, 70 note 3

Onis, Luis de, xliii, 268

Ontario, Lake, naval forces on, xliii, 265

Onund, King, referred to, v, 344

Onythes, death of, xiii, 407

Opaqueness, cause of, xxxiv, 123

Open Air, Locke on the, xxxvii, 14

Open Sesame, xvi, 425

OPEN THE DOOR TO ME, OH, vi, 455

Opera, Wordsworth on the, xxxix, 298

Ophelia, in HAMLET, farewell to Laertes, xlvi, 107-10; advised by Polonius against Hamlet, no-n; relates Hamlet's madness, 123; letter from Hamlet, 128; in plot to test Hamlet, 143; meeting with Hamlet, 145-6; at the play, 151-2, 155; her madness, 176-9, 181-2; death, 189-90; funeral, 196-7; Lamb on acting of, xxvii, 306-7; in the original story, xlvi, 92; Ruskin on, xxviii, 139

OPHELIA'S SONG, xl, 266

Ophion, Milton on fable of, iv, 305

Ophir, Milton on, iv, 329

Ophiuchus, constellation, mentioned, iv, 126

Ophiusa, alluded to, iv, 304

Opinion, all is, ii, 203 (15), 298 (22), 299 (25); Bacon on change of, iii, 30; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 234-5; bondage to, of others, iii, 33; confirmation of, 257; current, generally false, xx, 342; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 347; Descartes on grounds of, 16; diversity of, reason for, 5; earnestness of, not intolerance, xxv, 36-7; fable of yielding to others', xvii, 35-6; Hume on differences of, xxvii, 203; knowledge and, xxxviii, 5; is knowledge in the making, iii, 223; liberty of, Mill on, xxv, 210-49, 250; life is, ii, 213 (3); Lowell on confidence of, xxviii, 451; Marcus Aurelius on change of, ii, 214 (12), 236 (21), 256 (16); Marcus Aurelius on freedom from, 242 (52), 243 (2), 260 (40), 262 (49), 289 (16); metempsychosis of, iii, 257; might and, xlviii. 107 (33) 109 (313); Milton on formation of, iv, 183; Milton on variety of, iii, 223-5; Montaigne on willingness to change, xxxii, 43; of others, may be best, vii, 212-13 (2, 3); prevailing, not necessarily true, xxxiv, 1516; "queen of world," xlviii, 38 note; spoken, reacts on speaker, v, 94; Ruskin on, xxviii, in; Seneca on slanderous, xxxix, 67 note 2; Socrates on, ii, 35-6; Tennyson on liberty of, xlii, 998 (see also Public Opinion) Opis, reference to, xiii, 375 Opium, Burke on taste for, xxiv, 15-16 Opium Trade, Ruskin on, xxviii, 115 Oppius, Atticus and, ix, 133; Csesar and, xii, 279; Cicero on, ix, 171; Publius and, 116

Opportunities, Bacon on, iii, 56; finding and making, 125; Penn on, i, 348 (303)

Opposites, in nature (see Polarity); Socrates on, ii, 60-1, 97-100

Opposition, attitude toward, ii, 287 (9); some men's strength is in, iii, 124

Oppression, daunts courage, iii, 38-9; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 339 (i), 340 (8); Hobbes on fear of, xxxiv, 372; impossible in state of nature, 195-6; Penn on, i, 352 (365)

Oppressors, Job on, xliv, 108-9 (I-12)

Ops, mother of the gods, ix, 385 note

Ops, son of Peisenor, xxii, 20

Optics, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; in New Atlantis, iii, 177; Newton's discoveries in, xxxiv, 121-4

Oracles, Browne on, iii, 281 (29); Herodotus on founding of, xxxiii, 32-3; Hobbes on pagan, xxxiv, 381; Milton on, iv, 12-13; Pascal on, xlviii, 195 (601); Satan as giver of, iv, 370

Oral Teaching, Newman on, xxviii, 32-8

Orange, Prince of, in sack of Rome, xxxi, 79

Orange, William of (see William of O.)

Orante, in TARTUFFE, xxvi, 204-5

Orators, Penn on qualities of, i, 339 (173)

Oratory, action in, iii, 31; Cicero's book on, ix, 130; judgment and fancy in, xxxiv, 350; old age and, ix, 55; Pliny on, 205-9, 226-7, 346-8; rhetoric contrasted with, xxv, 324

Orbec, Vicomte d', xxxi, 282 note, 285

Orchard-making, in Chiloe, xxix, 301-2

Orchids, fertilization of, xi, 194-5; origin of, 239-40

Oreo, Remiro d', xxxvi, 25-6

Ordas, Diego, xxxiii, 319-20

Order, as cloak for misgovernment, xxvii, 244-5; Franklin's rule of, i, 79, 80, 83-5; Heaven's first law, xl, 431; in nature, M. Aurelius Antoninus on, ii, 335-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 123 (373); Penn on, in homes, i, 328 (55-6); Pliny on, ix, 230

Order, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 866-8, 871, 872, 875, 876, 882, 884, 885-8, 923, 941

Ordination, Catholic doctrine of, xxxvi, 267 note; Luther on, 266; of Buddhist priests, xlv, 740-7

ORDINATION, THE, by Burns, vi, 163-6

Ordnance, antiquity of, iii, 139; Don Quixote on, xiv, 379-80

Oreb, references to, iv, 88; xliv, 249 (n)

O'Reilly, John Boyle, A WHITE ROSE, xlii, 1198

Orejones, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 354

Orellana, Raleigh on, xxxiii, 319-20, 322

Orenoqueponi, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 321 note, 354, 373, 393

Orestes, in THE FURIES, viii, 124-5, J 32 ' 41, 145-54; Homer on, xxii, 10, 16-17, 38, 40-1, 60

Orestes, in THE LIBATION-BEARERS, viii, 76-7, 85-101, 103-5, 113-20; Mnesitheus and, xxxv, 274; Pylades and, vii, 50; ix, 18; Pyrrhus and, xiii, 139; Virgil on, 169

Organ, antiquity of the, xx, 183 note; Dryden on the, xl, 389-90

Organic Beings, affinities of, xi, 431-77; animal or vegetable, xxxviii, 340-2; classification of, xi, 431-43; increase of, 73-6; increase of, checks on, 76-9; complex relations among, 79-86; geographical distribution of, 378-430; geographical distribution of, Browne on, iii, 275; geological succession of, xi, 349-77 (see also Species)

Organic Periods, of history, xxv, 103-4

Organization, advance of, xi, 129-32; degree of, of ancient and living beings, 368-72; low, highly variable, 152; not the result of chance, xxxiv, 252-3; repetition a sign of low, xi, 152; standard of, defined, 218, 368, 370

Organs, with distinct functions, xi, 185-6; of extreme perfection, how developed, 181-96; highly developed, are variable, 153-6; incipient stages of useful, 219-44; of little importance, 196-9; multiple, variable, 152; rudimentary, atrophied, and aborted, 469-75; rudimentary, are variable, 152; with simultaneous functions, 185-6; specific and generic, compared, 156-9; use or beauty of, 199-204

Orgon, in TARTUFFE, relations with Tartuffe, xxvi, 207; returns home, 208-11; with Cleante, on Tartuffe, 211-16; on daughter's marriage, 216-18; Mariane with, 218-28; with Tartuffe after latter denounced, 254-61; prepares for marriage of Tartuffe and Mariane, 265-6; refuses to believe Tartuffe false, 267-8; at meeting of Tartuffe and Elmire, 269, 276-7; orders Tartuffe away, 277; repents gifts to Tartuffe, 278; with Cleante, 278-80; with Madame Pernelle, 281-4; advised to pretend peace with

Tartuffe, 285; ordered to vacate house, 287-91; warned to fly, 291-2; stopped by Tartuffe, 292-3; his property restored, 295

Oria, Pagan de, death of, xiv, 388

Oriana, Lady, Amadis and, xiv, 116, 212-13, 227; to Dulcinea, 13

Orient, Tennyson on the, xiii, 984-5

Oriental Languages, Burke on, xxiv, 140

Oriental Literature, Hastings on, v, 446

Oriental States, Taine on, xxxix, 430

Origen, heresy of, iii, 258

ORIGIN OF SPECIES, Darwin's, xi

Original Sin, Bunyan's parable of, xv, 33-4; Burns on, vi, 70; Calvin on, xxxix, 48; Kempis on, vii, 326 (2); Lessing on doctrine of, xxxii, 201 (74); Milton on, iv, 143, 329; Pascal on, xlviii, 83 (230), 145, 148 (445-7), 264 (752)

Originality, Bacon on, iii, 129; Emerson on, v, 59, 60, 79; Hugo on, xxxix, 385; Johnson on, 232; Mill on, xxv, 259-61; Pascal on perception of, xlviii, 12 (7), 107 (302); in poetry, Hugo on, xxxix, 365-6; in poetry, Wordsworth on, 331-4; Whitman on, 397 (see also Individuality)

Orinda, reference to, xl, 387

Orinoco, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 328, 330, 339, 350, 361-2; tributaries of the, 371

Orion, Aurora and, xxii, 71; Homer on, 152, 159; mentioned in JOB, xliv, 83, 134; Milton on, iv, 95; Virgil on, xiii, 45-7145, 348

Orithea, and Boreas, xxvii, 270

Orlando, Dante on, xx, 127 and note; in Dante's PARADISE, 362; Don Quixote on, xiv, 213, 226, 490; to Don Quixote, 12; Sidney on, xxvii, 10 (see also Roland)

Orlando Furioso, composition of, xxvii, 355; Montaigne on, xxxii, 92; Shelley on, xxvii, 349

Orleans, Duke of, at Poitiers, xxxv, 37, 46

Orleans, Duke of (Egalite), Burke on, xxiv, 381, 418

Orme, Captain, on Braddock, i, 136

Ormond, Hugo on, xxxix, 379

Ornaments, Whitman on, xxxix, 402

Ornithology, Emerson on science of, v, 297

Ornithorhynchus Paradoxus, xxix, 445

Ornithus, death of, xiii, 380

Orodes, death of, xiii, 347

Oronte, Moliere on, xxvi, 215

Orontes, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 77, 93

Oropus, case of, xii, 194

Oros, as king of Egypt, xxxiii, 72

Orosius, Paulus, xx, 328 note 23; on Christian persecutions, ii, 315 note

Orphan House, Whitefield's, i, 101-2, 103

Orphans in Massachusetts, xliii, 78 (84); Mohammed on, xlv, 883, 884, 916, 967-8

Orpheus, yEschylus on, viii, 73; Aristophanes on, 471; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; Dryden on, xl, 390; Euripides on, viii, 393; on hoariness, v, 176; Milton on, iv, 33-4, 36, 73, 228; Sidney on, xxvii, 6, ii ; Socrates on, ii, 29; Virgil on, xiii, 211; in Virgil's Hades, 229

Orphic Mysteries, Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 42

Orses, death of, xiii, 347

Orsilochus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 378, 380; in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 45, 180, 204

Orsini, Alexander VI and the, xxxvi, 24; Burke on, xxiv, 269;

Colonnesi and, xxxvi, 39, 40; Duke Valentine and, 24-5, 27, 31, 46

Orsini, Franciotto, xxxi, 79 note 3

Orsino, Gierolimo, xxxi, 201 note 2

Orsino, in THE CENCI, with Beatrice, xviii, 286-7; plots against Beatrice, 287-8; returns petition, 295; with Giacomo, 301-3, 318-20; plans to win Beatrice, 303-4; learns Beatrice's wrong, 309-10; in plot to kill Cenci, 310-16; letter to Beatrice found, 334; with Giacomo after murder, 337-9; flight of, 339-40; accused by Marzio, 341

Orso, Count da Cerbaia, xx, 166 note 6

Orsono, volcano of, xxix, 279, 295

Orsua, Pedro de, xxxiii, 322, 361

Ortal, Jeronimo, xxxiii, 324

Orthodox, in FAUST, xix, 185

Orthodoxy, Burns on, vi, 212; Copernicus on, xxxix, 52; Penn on, i, 360 (472)

Orthography, Johnson on English, xxxix, 183-6

Ortolans, in France, x, 188

Ortygius, Virgil on, xiii, 312

Orus, the god, Milton on, iv, 14, 100

Osborne, Charles, friend of Franklin, i, 37-8

Osbrit Longhand, xlix, 234

O'Shaughnessy, Arthur, ODE by, xlii, 1198-9

Osians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108, 116

Osiris, Dionysus called, xxxiii, 26, 72-3; Milton on, iv, 14 (24), 100; story of, iii, 221

Oslaf, xlix, 34 note 5, 37

Osman, humanity of, v, 217-18

Osprey, Harrison on the, xxxv, 339-40

Osric, in HAMLET, xlvi, 201-3, 206, 207

Ossa, and Pelion, Homer on, xxii, 152

Ossa, Jacques d' (see John XXII)

Ossar, Conaire's dog, xlix, 228

Ossian, and St. Patrick, xxxii, 169-70; Wordsworth on Books of, xxxix, 327-9

Ostenta, defined, xxxiv, 382

Ostentation, Bacon on, iii, 25; Penn on, i, 358; of virtue, ii, 177 (176) (see also Vainglory)

Osteomyelitis, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 374-5

Ostracism, at Athens, xii, 25; directed against persons of reputation, 79, 84; manner of, 84-5; remarks on, 115-16

Ostrich, Darwin on the, xi, 140; described in JOB, xliv, 135-6; eggs of the, xi, 263; xxix, 119; parasitical habits of the, xxix, 61; the S. American, 96-100, 118

Oswald, in DA DERGA'S HOSTEL, xlix, 234

Oswald, in KING LEAR, xlvi, 229-30, 231, 232-3, 240, 246-9, 257, 277, 283-4, 289-90, 298

OSWALD, MRS., ODE TO, vi, 325-6

Othello, and Desdemona, Lamb on, xxvii, 302, 312; Macaulay on, 378; Ruskin on, xxviii, 138, 139; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 131 Otho, Count, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 120, 135, 167

Otho, Emperor, death of, xviii, 439; followers of, iii, 9-10

Otho IV, and Gualdrada, xx, 66 note i

Otho, Marcus, xii, 228

Otos (see Otus)

Otter, son of Hreidmar, xlix, 285

OTTERBURN, THE BATTLE OF, xxxv, 81-101

OTTERBURN: A BALLAD, xi, 88-93

Ottergild, gold called, xlix, 287

Otters, in Chonos Islands, xxix, 291; in the Nile, xxxiii, 39; sanctity of, xlix, 285 note

Ottocar, King of Bohemia, Dante on, xx, 173 and note 6

Ottoman, Bacon on, iii, 130

Ottomans (see Turks)

Otus, Homer on, xxii, 152

Otway, Sylvester, Burns on, vi, 340

Otway, Thomas, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; Venice Preserved of, xxxiv, 131

OUR BLESSED LADY'S LULLABY, xl, 256-60

OUR LADY'S CHILD, tale of, xvii, 50-4

OUT OVER THE FORTH, vi, 398

Outcry, much, little outcome, xvii, 17

Outdoor Life, and love of beauty, xxxix, 393-4; Locke on, xxxvii, 14

OUTLAW, THE, xii, 738-40

Oven-bird, Darwin on the, xxix, 101-2

Over-population, leads to wars, iii, 139

Overreach, Sir Giles, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, character of, xlvii, 858; uncle of Wellborn, 861; Wellborn on, 865; at Allworth's, 871-2; with Wellborn, 872; scene with Marrail, 876-9; Furnace on, 886; with Marrall after the dinner, 890-2; preparations for Lord Lovell, 895-6; with Margaret, 896-901; with Lovell, 901-2; at meeting of Lovell and Margaret, 902, 903-5, 909; receives Lady Allworth and Wellborn, 905-6; believes Lady Allworth in love with Wellborn, 908; conference with

Wellborn, 909-10; with Lovell at Allworth's, 911-16; his plot against Wellborn, 923, 928; with Allworth and Margaret, 925-8; at Allworth's in search of daughter, 932; with Wellborn, 932-7; learns daughter's marriage, 938-9; with Lovell, 939-40; crazed, 841-2

Overreach, Margaret, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, Allworth and, xlvii, 864; intended for Lord Lovell, 878-9, 891-2; Lovell and Allworth on, 892-5; scene with father, 896-901; with Lovell, 902-4; with Allworth, 905; parting with Lovell, 909; Lady Allworth on, 917; scene with Allworth, 924-8; announces marriage to Allworth, 9389; in final scene, 942

Overshot Wheels, xxx, 180-1

OVER-SOUL, ESSAY ON THE, v, 133-48

Over-soul, Aristotle's idea of an, xxxiv, 103; exhibited in laws of compensation, v, 85; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 803, 815-16, 818-41, 851-2, 858-9; Pythagorean doctrine of the, ix, 73; relations of man to the, v, 71; Virgil on the, xiii, 231-2

Overton, Colonel, character of, Hugo on, xxxix, 380

Over-trading, cause of scarcity of money, x, 319

Overwork, More on causes of, xxxvi, 180-1; Smith on results of, x, 84; Woolman on, i, 197, 251-2

Ovid, Chaucer compared with, xxxix, 154, 159-62; Dante on, xx, 104; Dryden on, xiii, 35, 36, 37, 52, 54-5; Dryden on Metamorphoses of, xxxix, 153; on himself in love, xxiv, 24; Montaigne on Metamorphoses of, xxxii, 68, 90

Ovieda, Gonzalo de, xxxiii, 322 note 18

Ovules, position of, xi, 213-14

Owannamug, the Indian, xliii, 144

Owen, Aneurin, xxxii, 138

Owen, Knight, in Purgatory, xxxii, 177; Renan on, 143

Owen, Prof. Richard, on cuttle-fish, xi, 461-2; on disadvantages of size, 354-5; on the dugong, 434; Emerson on, v, 443; on fossils, xi, 372; on generalized forms, 362-3; on highly developed parts, 153; on limbs, 453; on Megatheroid animals, xxix, 90-1; Mill on, xxv, 106; on non-flying birds, xi, 140; on origin of species, 13-14; the Solenhofen fossils and, xxviii, 119; on turkey-buzzards, xxix, 189

Owl, Darwin on the little, xxix, 130-1

OX AND FROG, fable of, xvii, 20

Oxen, English, Harrison on, xxxv, 326; German, Tacitus on, xxxiii, 95; More on, xxxvi, 173; sacred in Egypt, xxxiii, 24-6; why not grand, xxiv, 56

OXEN AND LION, fable of, xvii, 31

Oxenham, John, with Drake, xxxiii, 136, 139, 158, 171, 174, 183, 192

Oxford, Earl of, A RENUNCIATION, xl, 289

Oxford, Earldom of, v, 405

Oxford University, Emerson on, v, 416-7; Harrison on, xxxv, 371-9, 381; Huber on, xxviii, 48-9; Newman on, 47-50

Oxidrakes, cannon of, iii, 139

Oxiones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 120

Oxnam, John (see Oxenham)

Oxygen, absorbed by bacteria, xxxviii, 326; absorbed by fruits, 305; in air, xxx, 141-44; breathing requires, 163-4; combustion in, 137-39; combustion requires, 56-9; Faraday on, 48-9; Helmholtz on, 203; hydrogen and, 53, 139; produced from water, 135; production of, easy method, 136-7; tested by nitrous oxide, 148; weight of, 137, 144; yeast and, xxxviii, 275-302, 313-16

Oysters, no heart in, xxxviii, 129; Raleigh on, xxxiii, 312

Ozeyr, and the ass, xvi, 116 note

OZYMANDIAS OF EGYPT, xli, 85!

P

Paches, death of, xii, 104-5

Pacific Islanders, Pretty on, xxxiii, 217

Pacific Ocean, Darwin on, xxix, 406, 420; Drake and the, xxxiii, 122, 171

PACK, CLOUDS, AWAY, xl, 316-17

PACK OF RAGAMUFFINS, THE, xvii, 64-6

Pacorus, death of, xii, 347

Pacuvius, play of, 'ix, 18; works of, lost, xxvii, 344

Padarn, coat of, xxxii, 146

Padilla, story of, xxi, 5

Padumuttara, xlv, 780

Paeeon, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 52

Paetus, Csecinna, Arria and, ix, 242-4

Pastus, L. Papirius, letters to, ix, 155, 158, 159

Pagan, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 69

Pagan, Isobel, CA' THE YOWES, xli, 556

Pagan Learning, Milton on study of, iii, 199-200

Pagan Philosophy, Hugo on, xxxix, 342

Pagan Poets, Wordsworth on the, xxxix, 306

Pagani, Dante on the, xx, 202 note 27

Paganism, Bacon on, iii, n; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 379-83; Hugo on, xxxix, 343;

Pascal on, xlviii, 195 (601)

Pagano, Machinardo, xx, 112 note 8

Pagans, in Hell, Browne on, iii, 305; Dante on, xx, 17-20

Pagasus, death of, xiii, 380

Page, Curtis Hidden, translator of Moliere, xxvi, 197

Paget, Stephen, translator of Pare, xxxviii, 7, 9 note

Pagno, Maestro, Zanobi di, bell-founder, xxxi, 358

Pagolo, Pietro (see Galleotti)

Pain, Berkeley on idea of, xxxvii, 195, 198-9; Burke on standards of, xxiv, 11-12; cause of, 105-7; darkness as cause of, 116-19; of death, iii, 9; delight caused by, xxiv, 107-8; endurance of, xxxvii, 94-5, 99-101; Epictetus on, ii, 135 (55); fear of, xxxvii, 97, 99; Hunt on, xxvii, 287; of the imagination, xxiv, 16-21; from imitations, xxxix, 223; infinity as cause of, xxiv, 111-12; of the judgment, 21-4; Locke on, xxxvii, 86; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 229 (26), 247 (33), 251 (64), 258 (28), 260 (42), 261 (47), 264-5 (i); of others, pleasure in, xxiv, 3943; Pascal on yielding to, xlviii, 62 (160); passions excited by, xxiv, 35; philosophic attitude toward, ii, 75; pleasure in relation to, xxiv, 30-1, 36; removal of, not positive pleasure, 31-4, 35; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 261; of the senses, xxiv, 13-16; sensibility to, 23-5; Socrates on, and pleasure, ii, 48; sublimity always produced by, xxiv, 73; vastness as cause of, no-n; Webster on, xlvii, 853

Paine, Thomas, Burke on, xxiv, 420; Franklin and, i, 165

Painting, Burke on effects of, xxiv, 129; Coleridge on, xxvii, 261; color in, xxxix, 257; color in historical, xxiv, 69; defined as mute poesy, xxvii, 256-7; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 174; knowledge of minerals needed in, xxxix, 256; Pascal on, xlviii, 51 (134); plastic art strives toward, xxxix, 260; poetry compared with, xxiv, 53-4, 138; reason of power of, 40, 44

Palace, Bacon's idea of a, iii, 109-12

Palaeontological Collections, poorness of, xi, 326-32

Palamedes, Trojan War and, xiii, 102-3

Palamon and Arcite, story of, xxxix, 160, 161, 172

Palazzo, Currado da, xx, 211 note 8

Pales, Milton on, iv, 270

Palgrave, Francis T., Golden Treasury of, xl, 10

Palinurus, in ÆNEID, xiii, 134, 145, 146, 178, 205, 218, 220

Pallas Athene, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 121; in Trojan War, 74, 106 (see also Athene)

Pallas, son of Evander, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 271-2, 285, 287, 334-5, 336, 337, 339, 356-9, 360-2, 423

Pallavicini, Cellini on, xxxi, 209 note, 209-211

Pallium, the, xxxvi, 282 note

Palmer, E. H., translator of KORAN, xlv, 875

Palmer, Ray, hymn by, xlv, 569; translator of hymn, 550-1

Palmer, London printer, i, 42

Palmerin of England, xiv, 51

Palmerin de Oliva, xiv, 51

Palmerston, Lord, on English troops, v, 358

Palmus, death of, xiii, 345

Pampas, S. American, Darwin on, xxix, 82-139; changes of animals and plants in, 125-6; geology of, 134-5; view of the, from the Andes, 331; formation of the, 332

Pan, Browning on, xli, 922-3; date of, xxxiii, 72-3; as Egyptian god, 29; Emerson on, v, 227; Milton on, iv, 10 (8), 376; Syrinx and, xl, 378

PAN, HYMN OF, xli, 823-4

Panztius, on Aristides, xii, 78-9; Plutarch on, 17

PANAMA, CONVENTION OF U. S. WITH, xliii, 450-62

Panama Canal, xliii, 450 note

Panama, Isthmus of, Drake at, xxxiii, 172-173; formerly open, xi, 379-80

Panatuket, Eliot on, xliii, 145

Pandafilando of the Dusky Sight, the giant, xiv, 281

Pandar, Chaucer's, xxvii, 17

Pandareiis, daughters of, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 270, 274

Pandarus, in the,/ENEID, xiii, 316, 317-8

Pandemonium, palace of Satan, iv, 106; council in, 108-21

Pandora, Milton on, iv, 172

Panegyric, Pliny on, ix, 192-3; Swift on, xxvii, 115

Paniagando on Dulcinea del Toboso, xiv, 5M

Panic, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 341

Panope, Milton on, iv, 74; in PHÆDRA, xxvi, 146-7, 190

Panopea, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 186, 188-9

Pansa, Cicero and, xii, 254; death of, 256

Pantasilea, mistress of Cellini, xxxi, 55, 62-8

PANTHEISM, THE HIGHER, xiii, 1004

Pantheus, priest of Apollo, xiii, in; death of, 114-15

Panthers, said to be marked with constellations, xxvi, 15 and note

Paoli, of Corsica, Mill on, xxv, n

Paolo, Padre, iii, 196; Dr. Donne and, xv, 357

Paolo of Rimini, xx, 24 note 3

Papacy, Dante's allegory of, xx, 264-6, 275, 277-9, 281; Dante on temporal authority of the, 211, 399-401; Henry VIII on the, xxxvi, 118; Luther on corruption of the, 338-40, 341; Machiavelli on temporal power of the, 38-40; Milton on the, iv, 354-5; More on supremacy of the, xxxvi, 129; Pascal on the, xlviii, 304-5 (871-7), 306 (880) (see also Popes)

Papal Pardons (see Indulgences)

Papamene River, xxxiii, 319 note, 325

Paper Money, advantages of, x, 230-8; limits to circulation of, 238-9;

dangers of, 248-9; Franklin on, i, 62-3; effect on value of gold and silver, x, 256; effect on industry, 248; effect of increase on prices, 252

Paphlagonia, Pliny on, ix, 374 note i

Paphos, island of Venus, viii, 384; xiii, 87; Emerson on, v, 226

Papian Law, the, ix, 409 note

Papin, Pierres, xiv, 138

Papirius, Gaius, flatteries of, ix, 40

Pappus, historian, xii, 216

Papremis, worship at, xxxiii, 34, 35, 38-9

Papunehang, the Indian, i, 266, 267

Papyrus, eaten in Egypt, xxxiii, 46

Parables, Bunyan on, xv, 8-9

Paracelsus, on creation of man, iii, 288; Emerson on, v, 177

Paraclete, Holy Ghost called, xlv, 547

PARADISE, Dante's, xx, 285-426

Paradise, Marvell on, xl, 378-9; Mohammedan, xlv, 888, 892, 893, 895-6, 900-1, 911, 940, 950, 960-1

PARADISE, THE GARDEN OF, xvii, 280-93

Paradise of Fools, iv, 148

PARADISE LOST, Milton's, iv, 87-358; Arnold on selections from, xxviii, 73; Bagehot on, 194-6; composition of, iv, 5; Dryden on, xiii, 13; Hugo on, xxxix, 354; Poe on, xxxviii, 371-2; Shelley on, xxvii, 348-9; subject compared with other great epics, iv, 260-1; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 320-1

PARADISE REGAINED, Milton's, iv, 359-411; date of, 5

Paradoxes, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 190; Goethe on, xix, no

Paraeus, on Revelations, iv, 412

Parallax, of stars, xxx, 315-16

Paralus, Plato on, ii, 22

Parana River, Darwin on the, xxix, 131-2, 139, 144; sediment of, xxxviii, 402

Parasitic Insects, xi, 263

Parceval, romance of, xxxii, 164-6

Parcitati, Montagna de', xx, in note 6

Pardon, right of, in early Massachusetts, xliii, 76

Pardoner, Chaucer's, xl, 29-31

Pardoning Power, of President, xliii, 188 (i)

Pardons, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 407

Pardoning, the honorablest revenge, xlvii, 815; proverb on, xvi, 65

Pare", Ambroise, JOURNEYS IN DIVERSE PLACES, xxxviii, 9-58; remarks on JOURNEYS of, 1, 23, 39; life and works, xxxviii, 8

Paredes, Garcia de, xiv, 488

Parents, and children, intercourse between, xxviii, 283; and children, Locke on, xxxvii, 27-31, 32-45, 49-50, 50 note, 55-6, 60-7, 80-2, 83-91, 104-11; and children, Montaigne on, xxxii, 734; Confucius on duty to, xliv, 6 (n), 7 (5, 6, 7, 8), 14 (18-21), 43 (18); Mohammed on inheritances of, xlv, 968-9; Mohammed on kindness to, 915; Montaigne on education by, xxxii, 39; Penn on obedience to, i, 339; Tzu-hsia on duty to, xliv, 5 (7); Yu-tzu on duty to, xliv, 5 (2)

PARENTS AND CHILDREN, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 19-21

Parigi, Piera de Salvadore, wife of Cellini, xxxi, 4

Paris, son of Priam, in Dante's HELL, xx, 22; Dares and, xiii, 190; Helen and, viii, 22-3; Mimas and, xiii, 346; King Proteus and, xxxiii, 54-7; punishment of, viii, 27; Webster on judgment of, xlvii, 794

Paris (city), industries of, x, 264; preeminence of, in French Revolution, xxiv, 328-9

Paris, Parliament of, on National Assembly, xxiv, 177

Paris, University of, site of, xxviii, 45-6

PARIS, TREATY OF, xliii, 174-9

Paris, Abbe", miracles of, xxxvii, 387

Paris, Ferdinand John, i, 160-2

PARIS AND (ENONE, xl, 217-8

Park, Mungo, on desire for salt, xxix, 116

PARKER, HUGH, EPISTLE TO, vi, 305

Parker, Theodore, on democracy, xxviii, 460

Parliament, burgesses in, xxxv, 224; under the Commonwealth, xliii, 106-13; More's plea for freedom of, xxxvi, 946; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 85-8, 91 Parliament of Man, xlii, 983 Parma, Duchess of (see Margaret of Parma)

Parma, Prince of, xix, 209 note 26

Parmenas, the deacon, xliv, 434 (5)

Parmenides, Dante on, xx, 343; Sidney on, xxvii, 7

Parmenius, Stephen, xxxiii, 290 note

PARNASSUS HILL, O WERE I ON, vi, 314-15

Parnell, More and, xxxvi, 115-16

Paros, marbles of, xiii, 132

Parrot, South American, xxix, 143

PARROT AND THE HUSBAND, story of, xvi, 33-5

Parry, C. H., Jenner to, xxxviii, 143

Parsees, of Bombay, xxv, 281 note; Freeman on the, xxviii, 271

Parsifal, legend of, xxxii, 165

Parsimony, Bacon on, iii, 88; Burke on, xxiv, 397; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; why dishonorable, 365; economically considered, x, 265-6; motives of, 269, 270

Parson, Chaucer's, xl, 24-5; Dryden on Chaucer's, xxxix, 164

Parson, Goldsmith's, xli, 512-13

Parsons, William, i, 58

Parthenon, built by Ictinus and Callicrates, xii, 50; Emerson on the, xlii, 1248

Parthenope, Milton on, iv, 68

Parthia, Antony's war with, xii, 349-61; M. Aurelius Antoninus' war with, ii, 304; Cicero in, ix, 136-7, 147; Milton on, iv, 391

Parthians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 113-14

Partiality, Penn on, i, 355-6

Participles, Johnson on, xxxix, 190

Particles, Johnson on, xxxix, 192

Parties, political, Emerson on, v, 244-5; Franklin's observations on, i, 89; Washington on, xliii, 238, 239, 240-1

PARTING AT MORNING, xlii, 1069

PARTING Kiss, THE, vi, 318

Partisanship, of principle, i, 357 (432-8); of rulers, iii, 37

Partnerships, Franklin on, i, 104

Partridges, in Brazil, xxix, 53

Parvenu, in FAUST, xix, 177

Parvenus, envy of, iii, 23

Parvin, Benj., Woolman's companion to Indians, i, 257-69

Parwin, Omar Khayyam on, xli, 954

Pascal, Blaise, language of, xxxix, 374; LETTERS, xlviii, 321-61; life and works, 7-8; MINOR WORKS, 365-444; M. de Saci on, 387; THOUGHTS, 9-317; remarks on THOUGHTS, 8; 1, 31

Pascal, Jacqueline, sister of Blaise, xlviii, 321-30, 341; letters of, 323-30; letter to, 321-3; profession of, 341

Pascal, pere, epitaph on, xlviii, 365; letter on death of, 330-41

"Pascha, The," Drake's flagship, xxxiii, 130

Paschal, St., Luther on, xxxvi, 253 (29)

Pascucci, Girolamo, the Perugian, xxxi, 188-9, 200-1, 202-3, 21 3

Pasenadi, the Kosalan, xlv, 675, 755-7

Pasiphae, Dante on, xx, 49 note 3, 251; Massinger on, xlvii, 909; in the Mournful Fields, xiii, 222

Pasqualigo, Lorenzo, letter of, xliii, 45-6

Passion, Blake on, xli, 589; Bunyan's allegory of, xv, 34-5; Confucius on, xliv, 16 (10); in Dante's HELL, xx, 31-2, 47; Hindu Krishna on, xlv, 802-3, 853-4? 864, 868, 869; Kempis on, vii, 241 (i); nature seen in moments of, iii, 97; Penn on, i, 346-7; Poe on, xxviii, 391; reason and, iii, 271; in religion, i, 365 (533-40); simulation of, xlviii, 420 (see also Anger)

PASSION, THE, Milton, iv, 23-5

Passions, Burke on study of the, xxiv, 46-8; Burke on taste in the, 22; clearness not necessary to affect the, 51-2; David on the, xli, 491; Epictefus on correction of, ii, 184 (14); Harvey on physical effects of the, xxxviii, 124; Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 336-46; Hume on the, xxxvii, 353; infinity, its effect on the, xxiv, 62-3; intellectual differences caused by, xxxiv, 352-3; of love, xxiv, 36-7, 38-9; Pascal on the, xlviii, 133 (412-13), 411, 164 (502); physical causes of the, xxiv, 103-28; poetry, its effect on the, 51-4; Pope on the, xl, 418; power, its effect on the, xxiv, 5560; privation, its effect on the, 60-1; Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 177; Ruskin on the, xxviii, 112-15; reason and, xxiv, 40; of self-preservation, 35, 37-8; of society, 36-45; strong, most creditable to conquer, vii, 235-6 (4); sublimity, its effect on the, xxiv, 49-73; thoughts and, xxxvii, 299, 301; vastness, its effect on the, xxiv, 61-2; words, their power over the, 129-40; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 332-3

PASSIONS, THE, by Collins, xli, 476-9

PASSIONATE SHEPHERD, Marlowe's, xl, 254-5

Passivity, and activity, ii, 268 (16)

Passover, feast of the, xliv, 409 (i)

Past, America's attitude toward the, xxxix, 388; Bacon on the, iii, 15, 62; Bentham on veneration of the, xxvii, 226-32; Byron on, xxviii, 390-1; Carlyle on, xxv, 351-2; Confucius on, xliv, 11-12 (21); Descartes on rejection of the, xxxiv, 15; ECCLESIASTES on the, xliv, 342-3 (10); Emerson on the, v, 8, 70-1, 102; Goethe on study of, xix, 31; Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 320; Lowell on worship of the, xlii, 1372; Pascal on the, xlviii, 355; Raleigh on the, xxxix, 96-7, 100; reasoning from, to future, xxxvii, 316; Tennyson on the, xlii, 972-3 (see also Antiquity)

PAST, THE, by Bryant, xlii, 1221-2

PAST AND PRESENT, by Hood, xli, 910-11

Pasteur, Louis, on bacteria, xxxviii, 257; editorial remarks on papers of, 1, 40; to his father, xxxviii, 271; GERM THEORY, 364-82; life and works, 270; THEORY OF FERMENTATION, 273-363

Pastimes, dangerousness of, Locke on, xxxvii, 176

Pastoral Poetry, Sidney on, xxvii, 25-6

PASTORAL POETRY, by Burns, vi, 409-11

Pastoureaux, the, xxxv, 63 note

Pasture, rent of, x, 151-2, 154

Patagonia, Darwin on, xxix, 169-77, 184-93, 506

Patagonians, Darwin on the, xxix, 236-7

Patarbemis, and Amasis, xxxiii, 82

Patents, under control of Congress, xliii, 184 (8); Franklin on, i, 112

Paternus, Pliny to, ix, 209, 325-6

Pathos, Wordsworth on, in poetry, xxxix, 333-4

Patience, Bacon on lack of, iii, 134; better than pride, xliv, 342 (8); Buddha on, xlv, 596; Bunyan's allegory of, xv, 35; Byron's Manfred on, xviii, 420; Epictetus on, ii, 128 (34), 130 (39), 176 (170), 177 (174); Ferdinand's lesson in, xlvii, 835; Goethe on, xix, 367; Goethe's apothecary's lesson in, 400-1; instances of, given by Dante, xx, 206-7; Kempis on, vii, 219, 249 (6), 273, 280-1, 329-30; Manzoni on, xxi, 98; Marcus Aurelius, ii, 199 (i), 211 (3), 251 (63), 253 (70), 256 (14), 264 (59), 268 (n), 269 (27), 273 (42), 275 (3), 281 (30), 287 (9), 289 (18); Penn on, i, 334 (119), 339-4, 343 (234), 347 (294); in public office, 355; Rousseau on reason for, xxxiv, 277-8 (see also Bearing)

Patmore, Coventry, DEPARTURE, xlii, 1112-13; Ruskin on, xxviii, 144 note

Patriarchal Age, Hugo on, xxxix, 339-40; Pope on the, xl, 428

Patriarchs, Pascal on the, xlviii, 207; the twelve, xliv, 436 (8-9)

Patricians, Roman, ix, 292 note; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 195 (n)

Patricius, father of St. Augustine, vii, 3, 150-1; St. Augustine and, 24; conversion of, 151; death of, 34; an unbeliever, 14

Patrick, St., on Gaelic heroes, xxxii, 138; Ossian and, 169-70; Purgatory of, 177-8

PATRIOT, THE, by Browning, 1082-3

Patriotism, Burke on, xxiv, 329; extreme, not fortunate, iii, 100; superior to friendship, ix, 25; Locke on, xxxvii, 5; Lowell on mock, xlii, 1373; Socrates on, ii, 39-40; universality of, xli, 521-2

Patroclus, and Achilles, Æschylus on, xxxii, 77; Homer on, xxii, 36, 156, 322; Marlowe on, xlvi, 28

Patron, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 188

Patronage, Johnson on, xxxix, 207

Paul, St., before Agrippa, xliv, 478-81; at Athens, 461-2 (15-34); in Antioch, 448 (25-6, 30), 450 (25, i); at Antioch of Pisidia, 451 (14-52); Augustine, St., on, vii, 116, 124; Bacon on, iii, 13, 34; Barnabas and, xliv, 450-1, 457; at Bercea, 460-1 (10-14); conversion of, v, 141; vii, 124; xliv, 441 (3-19); at Corinth, 462; Dante on, xx, 266 note 14; editorial remarks on teachings of, xliv, 422; Emerson on, v, 239; at Ephesus, xliv, 464; EPISTLES TO CORINTHIANS, xlv, 489-532; Euripides quoted by, iv, 412; Felix and, xliv, 477 (24-27); before Festus, 477-81; on forgiveness, ii, 339; accused before Gallio, xliv, 463 (12-17); Greek poets quoted by, ii 33; on himself, xlv, 493 (1-5), 501 (1-27), 511 (9-10), 516 (8-9), 519-22, 523 (5), 527-31; in Inconium, xliv, 453 (1-5); at Jerusalem, 470-81; at council of Jerusalem, 455; Kempis on, vii, 301; learning of, iii, 199; visit to Limbo, xx, 9 note 2; Luke and, xliv, 352; at Lystra, 453-4; in Macedonia, 466 (1-5); in Melita, 484; at Miletus, 467-8 (17-36); Mill on, xxv, 220, 242; misinterpretations of, xxxix, 44-5; missionary journeys, xliv, 450-70; Pascal on, xlviii, 100 (283), 192 (588), 222 (670), 224 (673, 674), 227 (683), 297 (851), 299 (853), 351; in persecution of Christians, xliv, 439 (3), 441 (1-2); at Philippi, 458-60; in Rome, 485-6; Taine on epistles of, xxxix, 435; at Thessalonica, xliv, 460 (1-9); at Troas, 467 (6-12)

Paul III, Pope, Cellini and, xxxi, 145-7, 159, 163-4, 178-80, 183-5, 202-3, 207-9, 212, 213, 222-3, 225-6, 227-8, 232, 239, 243, 244-5, 248-50; Charles V and, 178-81; children of, 147 note 2, 185 note; Copernicus to, xxxix, 52, 56-7; election of, xxxi, 145 note 3; escape from early imprisonment, 223-4; Duke of Ferrara and, 268-9; in sack of Rome, 74 note

PAUL REVERE'S RIDE, xlii, 1295-9

Paula, St. Hierome and, xv, 377

Paulet, Sir Amyas, iii, 3

Pauline, in POLYEUCTE, her dream referred to, xx vi, 77; begs Polyeucte to stay, 80-1; with Stratonice, tells her old love for Severus, 81-3; her marriage to Polyeucte, 83; her dream, 83-4; learns Severus's approach, 84-7; with Severus, 90-3; with Polyeucte on his return, 94-5; her fears for Polyeucte, 97-9; learns Polyeucte a Christian, 99-102; pleads for Polyeucte with father, 102-6; with Polyeucte in prison, 111-15; asks Severus to save Polyeucte, 116-17; last appeal for Polyeucte, 1235; follows him to death, 126-7; announces herself a Christian, 128; SaintVictor on character of, 76

Paulino, Cellini's boy, xxxi, 39-40, 42

Paulinus, Valerius, letters to, ix, 255, 275, 334, 354

Paullus, Lucius, and his sons, ix, 168

Paulus, Lucius, Æmilius (d. 216 B. C.), death of, ix, 72

Paulus, Lucius, Æmilius (d. 160 B. C.), xxxii, 16

Paulus, Passienus, Priscus and, ix, 284

Paulus, Sergius, xliv, 450 (7, 12)

Paulus, the consul, and Cxsar, xii, 289

Pausanias, the Spartan monarch, Cleonice and, xviii, 428; haughtiness of, xii, 101-2; at Platasa, 89, 91, 93, 94, 95-6; treason of, 25

Pavia, Bishop of (see Rossi, Girolamo de')

Pavy, Salathiel, xl, 299-300

Paxton Affair, Franklin in, i, 4

Payen, Dr., on Montaigne, xxxii, 105-7

Pazzi, Camiccione de', xx, 133 and note 6

Pazzi, Carlino de, xx, 133 note 7

Pazzo, in Dante's HELL, xx, 52 and note 12

Peace, Blake on, xii, 591; Burns on, vi, 308; chamber of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 57; "hath her victories," iv, 83; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 371, 391, 392; Milton on descent of, iv, 8; oversecurity in times of, vii, 268 (4); Pope on, xl, 432; the sovereign good, xlviii, 106 (299); temporal and eternal, vii, 300 (2); Tennyson on, xlii, 1015-17, 1055-6; the true end of war, xiv, 375; Washington on, xliii, 243-4

Peaceableness, Kempis on, vii, 241

Peacock, Milton on the, iv, 238; sacred to Hera, viii, 187 note 37

PEACOCK AND JAY, fable of, xvii, 19-20

PEACOCK AND JUNO, fable of, xvii, 24

Pearcy (see Percy)

PEARL AND COCK, fable of, xvii, 11

Pears, Darwin on improvement of, xi, 47-8; Locke on eating of, xxxvii, Pearson, Dr. G., xxxviii, 171-2, 199

Peasantry, Goldsmith on the, xii, 510-11

Peasants, and lords, xlii, 1254

Peasants' Song, in FAUST, xix, 44-5

PEASANT'S WISE DAUGHTER, THE, xvii, 178-21

Peat, formation of, xxix, 291

Pebrine, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 270

Pecci, Pier Antonio, xxxi, 139 note

Peckham, Sir George, xxxiii, 269

Pectoralis Reservatio, xxxvi, 285-92

Peculators, in Dante's HELL, xx, 86, 8992

Pedantry, Confucius on, xliv, 20 (16); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 336; Locke on, xxxvii, 150; Swift on, xxvii, 94, 101

Pediculi, Harvey on, xxxviii, 130

Pedro of Castile, xxxix, 84

Peebles, Rev. William, Burns on, vi, 99-100, 352 note

Peel, Sir Robert, blue books and, v, 360; law reform and, xxv, 65; model Englishman, v, 395

Peele, George, PARIS AND OENONE, xl, 217-18

Peele Castle, Wordsworth on, xli, 605-7

Peerage, English, Carlyle on the, xxv, 371-3

Peewit, habits of the, xxix, 120

PEG-A-RAMSAY, BONIE, vi, 514

PEGASUS AT WAULOCKHEAD, vi, 326

PEGGY, by Ramsay, xl, 401

PEGGY ALISON, BONIE, vi, 30

Peiraeus, and Theoclymenus, xxii, 282-3

Peirson, Dr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 233

Peisander, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 252, 302, 303

Peisenor, the herald, xxii, 22

Peisistratus, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 34, 43, 50, 201, 203-5

Pelagianism, Pascal on, xlviii, 169 (521), 270 (777); Renan on, xxxii, 172

Pelagius, the monk, xxxv, 371

Pelasgians, gods of the, xxxiii, 31-2

Pelasgos, king of the Apian land, viii, 197 note 61

Peleus, father of Achilles, xxii, 157-8

Pelias, birth of, xxii, 151; in sack of Troy, xiii, 115

Pelican, habits of the, xlvi, 269 note 6; lesson of the, xv, 236; Shakespeare on the, xlvi, 181

Pelides (see Achilles)

Pelion, and Ossa, xxii, 152-3

Pella, studdery of, xxxv, 328

Pelican Conqueror, Alexander called, iv, 376

Pelles, King, Balin and, xxxv, in; Sir Ector and, 203; at feast of Grail, 2078; grandsire of Galahad, 109; Launcelot and, 203; the sword and, 185-6

Pellinore, father of Percivale, xxxv, 182

Pellisson, on French classical poetry, xxviii, 68

Pelopidas, and Epaminondas, xii, 78

Peloponnesian War, xii, 65-92

Pelops, Cicero's letter to, xii, 238

Pelorus, references to, iv, 94; xx, 200 note 5

Pembroke, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 16, 22-6, 33-4, 39, 45-6, 53

Pembroke, Countess of, epitaph on, xl, 333

Pembroke, Earl of, George Herbert and, xv, 381, 388

Penagwog Indians, xliii, 145

Penal Code, Marshall on, xliii, 219-20

Penalties, Winthrop on prescribed, xliii, 90-102, 104-5

Penance, Krishna on, xlv, 863, 866; Luther on, xxxvi, 251-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 234 (698)

Penarius, T., Cicero and, ix, 117

PENCIL, VERSES WRITTEN WITH A, vi, 276-7

Pendulum, Faraday on the, xxx, 13; Helmholtz on the, 186-7

Penelope, in the ODYSSEY, the minstrel and, xxii, 17-18; web of, 23-4, 261; learns plot against Telemachus, 63-5; her dream, 66-7; grief of, 149; told of Telemachus's return, 223; rebukes the suitors, 225-6; with Telemachus on his return, 229, 230-2; sends for Ulysses, 241-4; goes among the wooers, 249-50; draws gifts from wooers, 250-3; talks with Ulysses as a beggar, 258-66; relates her dream, 269-71; prepares contest for the suitors, 271-2; longs to die, 274-5; at f east f tne suitors, 283; brings forth bow of Ulysses, 284-6; wishes Ulysses to shoot, 292-3; told of Ulysses's return, 310-12; reunion with Ulysses, 312-19; fame of, 325; Bacon on, iii, 22; Ruskin on, xxviii, 142

P'eng, xliv, 21 note I

Penguin, habits of the, xxix, 204; Hayes on, xxxiii, 276; wings of, xi, 341

Penitence, David's prayer in, xliv, 188-90; Luther on, xxxvi, 251-2, 364-5; Pascal on, xlviii, 219 (661); Webster on, xlvii, 845

Penitent, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 282, 283

Penn, Thomas, i, 124, 160

Penn, Vice-Admiral, xxxiv, 74-5, 76

Penn, William, anecdote of, i, 109; FRUITS OF SOLITUDE, 317-97; editor's remarks on FRUITS OF SOLITUDE, 1, 31; Helmholtz descended from, xxx, 172; life of, i, 316; Pepys and, xxviii, 300; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 74-8

Penni, Gian Francesco, xxxi, 34 note 3, 38-9, 55.

Pennsylvania, in French and Indian War, i, 127-42; land conveyed to, by United States, xliii, 230; loans of, x, 471; paper money in colonial, 255; Penn and, i, 316; quarrels between Assembly and governors of, 126-8, 131, 138-9, 149-51, 160-2, 165; settlement of, 276-7; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 76

Pennsylvania Assembly, on Franklin's plan of union, i, 125; in French War, 127-9, 133, 138; Philadelphia Hospital and, 117-18; votes powder as "other grain," no

Pennsylvania Gazette, i, 60, 92, 104

Penology, correction the purpose of, ii, 150 (88); in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 305-6, 363-70; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 408; More on, xxxvi, 143-4, 149-54, 210-11

Pensions, Burke on, xxiv, 396; Ruskin on, xxviii, 123

Pentapolin, and Alifamfaron, xiv, 136

Pentateuch, Hume on miracles of the, xxxvii, 392

Pentheus, in the BACCIME, opposes Dionysus, viii, 370; hears of bacchanals, 377-8; orders arrest of Dionysus, 3812; with Dionysus, 385-91; house destroyed, 396-7; determines to go to bacchanals, 402-8; led by Dionysus, 411-15; death, 418-21; Cadmus on, 432; Maenads and, Æschylus on, 123; Virgil on distraction of, xiii, 169

Penthiselea, in ÆNEID, xiii, 90, 379

People, Confucius on the, xliv, 5 (5), 8 (19, 20), 25 (9); Lincoln on government by the, xliii, 415; Lincoln on justice of the, 321; Pascal on opinions of the, xlviii, 112 (324), 113 (327), 114

(328-30), 116 (335); Vane on sovereignty of the, xliii, 129-32 (see also Populace, Public Opinion)

Peor, Milton on, iv, 13 (22), 98

Pepin, son of Charlemagne, xxxix, 81, 82

Pepin, son of Louis Debonair, xxxix, 81-2

Pepin, of Aquitaine, xxxix, 82

Pepper-plant, Sindbad on the, xvi, 281

Pepys, Samuel, as a critic, xxviii, 299; Diary of, 286-92; editorial remarks on Diary of, 276; xxxi, 3; domestic troubles, xxviii, 303-4; Emerson on stories from, v, 411-12; musical compositions, xxviii, 298-9; old age of, 304-5; portrait by Hales, 292-3; on praise of God, v, 428; public services of, xxviii, 286-7, 32 ; respectability of, 299-302; his unique position, 285-6; versatility of his desires and pleasures, 292-7; as a writer, 297-9

PEPYS, SAMUEL, ESSAY ON, Stevenson's, xxviii, 285-305

Perception (s), Augustine, St., on inward, vii, 169-70; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 192-224, 228-30, 232, 234, 235, 245, 248-51, 255-6, 259-60, 264, 266-70, 273; Buddha on, xlv, 731; Hume on, xxxvii, 299-300, 410-12; involuntary, Emerson on, v, 70; belongs to judgment, xlviii, n; mediate and immediate, xxxvii, 192-3, 222-3, 224-5; reality of, 193-4

Perceval, Spencer, popularity of, v, 370

Percivale, Sir, in the HOLY GRAIL, the sword and, xxxv, 108; at the tourney, 112; meeting with Galahad, 128-9; at the hermitage, 129; with his aunt, 1346; follows Galahad, 136; at monastery at King Evelake, 137-8; encounter with men at arms, rescued by Galahad, 138-9; the robber knight and, 139-40; how he got a horse, 140; how he helped the lion, 141; his dream, 142-3; tempted by devil in woman's shape, 143-7; Gawaine on, 156; virginity of, 160; meeting with Sir Bors, 178; meeting with Galahad, 181; meeting with sister, 182; in ship of Faith, 181-2, 189; at castle Carteloise, 190-2; sees hart and lions, 192-3; at castle of strange custom, 194-5; meets Galahad and Bors, 206; comes to castle of Carbonek, 206-7; fed by Holy Grail, 208-9; commanded to go to Sarras, 209; goes to Sarras, 210-11; in prison, 211-12; farewell to Galahad, 212; becomes hermit, 213; death and burial, 213; Renan on, xxxii, 158; sister of, xxxv, 181-90, 194-6, 198, 210-11

Percy, Lord Henry, in Scots' raid, xxxv, 82; loses pennon to Douglas, 82-3; follows Douglas, 84-6; in battle of Otterburn, 87, 91 (see also ballads of OTTERBURN and CHEVY CHASE)

Percy, Sir Ralph, in Scots' raid, xxxv, 82, 84; at battle of Otterburn, 87, 89-90; Earl March and, 98

Percy's Reliques, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 325-7, 329

Perdiccas, Socrates and, ii, 293 (25)

Peredur, legend of, xxxii, 163-4, J 65; Renan on, 142, 147

Perez, Anthony, xxxix, 88

Perez, John, of Viedma, xiv, 426

Perez, Pero, the curate in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 45, 48-54, 229-33, 239. 271

Perez, Ruy, of Viedma, the Captive in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 382-423

Perfection, as cause of beauty, xxiv, 90; Descartes on attainment of, xxxiv, 1213; degree of, in nature, xi, 203-4, 209; Franklin on moral, i, 78, 84; doctrine of innate tendency to (see Progressive Development); Kant on conceptions of, xxxii, 353; Pascal on, xlviii, 326; Rousseau on attainment of, xxxiv, 214

Perfections, of Buddhism, xiv, 593-9, 619, 621

Periandre, Moliere on, xxvi, 215

Periboea, daughter of Eurymedon, xxii, 91; reference to, xxvi, 136

PERICLES, LIFE OF, Plutarch's, xii, 35-77

Pericles, Alcibiades and, xii, 106, 108, in; Anaxagoras and, 55; v, 437; Aspasia and, xii, 60-1; Athens beautified by, 47-52; birth of, 37; character of, 39-40, 76-7; charges against, 51; Cimon and, 44-6; convention of Greeks proposed by, 55-6; death, 75-6; domestic economy of, 54; domestic troubles, 73-4; education of, 38-40; Ephialtes and, 46; government of, 435, 46-7; his large head, 37-8; marriage of, 60; military conduct of, 56-60, 61-5; Mill on, xxv, 257; Newman on, xxviii, 41, 57; as an orator, ix, 207-8; in

Peloponnesian War, xii, 65-72; in public life, 41-2; removed from command, 72; sayings of, 43; his supremacy, 52-4

Pericles, the younger, xii, 75

Periclymenus, Homer on, xxii, 152

Pericoli, Niccolo de', xxxi, 149 note i

Perier, Madame, letters to, xlviii, 323, 326, 330, 341, 344, 346

Perier, M., country house of, xlviii, 329 note; letters to, 330, 341, 342-4

Perigord, Bertrand, Cardinal of, xxxv, 34-5. 39-42, 45, 58

PERIGOT AND WILLIE'S ROUNDELAY, xl, 247-9

Perillus, and the Sicilian bull, xx, no note i

Periodicals, Mill on, xxv, 61

Peripatetics, Locke on the, xxxvii, 165-6

Periphantes, tutor of Ascanius, xiii, 196

Periphas, in sack of Troy, xiii, 116

Peris, good jinn, xvi, 9 note

Perithoiis, in Tartarus, xiii, 227

Perjury, punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 365

Permanence, a word of degrees, v, 149-50

Pernambuco, Darwin on, xxix, 500-2

Pernelle, Madame, in TARTUFFE, leaves Orgon's house, xxvi, 199-206; refuses to credit Tartuffe's falseness, 282-4; convinced, 290, 295-6

Pero, Homer on, xxii, 152

Perpendiculars, grander than inclines, xxiv, 61

Perpetua, in THE BETROTHED, with Abbondio, xxi, 21-4; with Renzo, 30-1; on night of Renzo's intended marriage, 114-16, 124-5; her anger, 183; in German invasion, 473-80, 487-91; at castle of Unnamed, 493-5; returns home, 495-9 ; dies in plague, 549

Perpetual Motion, Helmholtz on, xxx, 209-10

Perpignan, camp of, xxxviii, 15-17

Perrault, discoverer of circulation of sap, xxxiv, 126

Perry, English drink, xxxv, 286

Perse, mother of Circe, xxii, 133

Persecutions, Bacon on, hi, 14; Browne on, 278; Emerson on folly of, v, 99; examples of religious, xxv, 219-21; Hume on, xxxvii, 393; Johnson on, xxv, 222; Mill on, 222-6; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 303 note; Voltaire on, 72-3

Persephone, Ceres's daughter, xli, 873; hymn to, viii, 450; maid-servant of, 454

Perseus, king of Macedon, xlviii, 132 (409, 410)

Perseus, son of Danae, worship of, in Chemmis, xxxiii, 44-5

"Perseus," Cellini's statue of, xxxi, 342 notes 3, 4; 354, 373-4, 375-8, 379-83, 397, 400-2

Perseverance, not genius, xxviii, 373; proverb on, xv, 207; Zoroaster on, v, 77

Persia, cities of, shown to Jesus, iv, 390-1; Raleigh on, xxxix, 71, 113

Persistency, Epictetus on, ii, 173 (156); of heroism, v, 129

Personal Cautions, Penn's, i, 347-8

Personal Force, Emerson on, v, 201-2

Personal Instruction, Newman on, xxviii, 32-8

Personal Representation, Hare's, xxv, 159-60

Personal Rights, equality of, v, 240

Personalities, defamatory, xxvii, 237-9; laudatory, 235-7

Personality, and condition, Schiller on, xxxii, 238-41; extinction of (see Nirvana); reality of (see Ego)

Personifications, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 274

Persons, natural and artificial, xxxiv, 413-17; as the object of government, v, 240-2

PERSONS ONE WOULD WISH TO HAVE SEEN, xxvii, 267-81

Persuasion, Æschylus on, viii, 162; Franklin on methods of, i, 18; Pascal on, xlviii, 13 (10), 400-11

Pertelote, in NUN'S PRIEST'S TALE, xl, 36-49

Pertinax, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 63, 68; slain by Pretorian Guards, 64

Pertness, Locke on, xxxvii, 106-7

Peru, ancient, iii, 157-8; conquest of, xxxiii, 330; Darwin in, xxix, 365-75; empire of, xxxiii, 317; Johnson on palaces of, xxxix, 225; Lopez on, xxxiii, 318-19; mines of, x, 173-4; religion of the Incas, xxxiii, 374; riches of, 303-4, 374

Pescara, Macaulay on, xxvii, 390

Pescara, Marquis, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 805-6, 831, 832-3, 834-7, 847-8, 852, 853-4.

Pescennius, Cicero and, ix, 90

Pestalozzi, on help, v, 22; Mill on work of, xxv, 158

Pestilence, as a judgment of God, i, 237

PESTILENCE, IN TIME OF, xl, 260-1

Petar, "hoist with own," xlvi, 169

Peter, St., Æneas healed by, xliv, 443 (32-5); with Ananias and Sapphira, 432; angel of, xv, 337; Bunyan on, 133, 134; chosen apostle, xliv, 368 (14); on circumcision, 455 (7-11); Cornelius and, 444 (1-33); his defence, 446 (1-18); his denial of Jesus, 411 (34), 412 (54-62); editorial remarks on teachings of, 422; imprisoned, 429 (1-12), 448 (3-6); with Jesus, 376 (45), 377 (51), 378 (20), 379 (28, 32-6), 389 (41), 401 (28), 410 (813), 411 (31-4); at Jesus's tomb, 416 (12); keys of, xx, 182 note 8; lame man cured by, xliv, 428 (1-16); Luther on keys of, xxxvi, 271; Malchus and, xlviii, 262 (744); miracles done by, xliv, 432 (15); in Paradise, xx, 386-90, 399-401, 422; Paul, St., and, xxxvi, 272; on day of Pentecost, xliv, 425-7; in Samaria, 439 (14), 440 (25); Tabitha and, 443 (36-43); Tansillo on, xiv, 315

Peter, Prince, of Arragon, Dante on, xx, 174 and note 12

Peter III, of Arragon, Dante on, xx, 173 and note 10

Peter the Great, standing army of, x, 448

Peter Lombard, Sentences of, xxxvi, 324 note

Peter of Provence, Don Quixote on, xiv, 490

Peterborough, Lord, Berkeley and, xxxvii, 186; Dryden and, xiii, 425

Petermann, the sacristan in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 417, 418, 425, 437, 439, 480

Peters, Rev. Hugh, Burke on, xxiv, 151, 203

Peters, Secretary, i, 124

Petition, right of, in United States, xliii, 194 (0

Petition of Right (English), Burke on, xxiv, 171

Petrarch, Chaucer and, xxxix, 159-60; Hume on, xxvii, 221; on spirit of Italy, xxxvi, 86; Macaulay on, xxvii, 370; Milton on, xxviii, 174; Shelley on, xxvii, 347; Sidney on, 6; Wordsworth on sonnets of, xli, 681

Petrella, Castle of, xviii, 279, 312

Petrels, Darwin on, xxix, 293-4; habits of, xi, 179-80

Petro, Granius, xii, 277

Petronius, arbiter of revels to Nero, iii, 203; on poetry, xxvii, 106, 109

Petrucci, Pandolfo, xxxvi, 70; minister of, 75

Pets, animal, Augustus on, xii, 35; Harrison on, xxxv, 351-2

Pettinagno, Piero, xx, 198 note 6

Peucinians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 119-20

PEYSTER, COLONEL DE, EPISTLE TO, vi, 546-7

Pezoro, Signior, xxxiii, 182-3, 184

Pfeiffer, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 386-7

Phæax, and Alcibiades, xii, 115, 116

Phaedimus, king of Sidon, xxii, 62

PHÆDO, Plato's, ii, 45-113

Phædondes, ii, 47

PHÆDRA, Racine's, xxvi, 133-96; Dryden on, xviii, 14-15; editorial remarks on, xxvi, 132

Phædra, in HIPPOLYTUS, daughter of Minos, her love for Hippolytus, viii, 304; song of her woes, 309-10; her illness, 310-20; tells her shame, 321-2; urged to love on, 324-6; hears Hippolytus tempted, 328-9; anger at nurse, 333; determines to die, 335; death of, 337; her innocence told by Artemis, 361

Phædra, in PHÆDRA, apparent hatred of Hippolytus, xxvi, 134-5, 144-6; her malady, 138-43; confesses love for Hippolytus, 144-6; hears of Theseus's death, 146; urged to live for son, 1478; interview with Hippolytus, 156-61; her son chosen king, 162; her grief, 162-4; sends to offer Hippolytus the crown, 165; her prayer to Venus, 1656; learns Theseus's return, 166-7; urged to accuse Hippolytus, 168-9; tells Theseus his wrong, 169; begs Theseus to spare Hippolytus, 179; learns love of Hippolytus for Aricia, 179-83; denounces CEnone, 184; Panope tells despair of, 190; confesses to Theseus, 195-6

Phædra, in Homer's Hades, xxii, 153; Virgil on, xiii, 223, 265

Phaedrus, translator of Æsop, xvii, 8

Phæthon, steed of the sun, xxii, 316

Phæthusa, the nymph, xxii, 165

Phaeton, references to, xx, 72, 357 note i; xlvi, 17

Phalaris, in ÆNEID, death of, xiii, 319

Phalaris, the tyrant, bull of, iii, 306; xx, no note i; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, an (16)

Phanias the Lesbian, xii, 18

Pharamond, in PHILASTER, suitor of Arethusa, xlvii, 667-8; with the King and Arethusa, 669-71; denounced by Philaster, 672-5; with Arethusa and Philaster, 683-4; with Galatea, 686-8; and Megra, 688-90; his fault reported to Arethusa, 691; before his lodging, 693; caught with Megra, 694-7; at trie hunt, 714-15, 720-1; finding of Arethusa, 724-5; finds Bellario wounded, 727-8; arrests Philaster, 728-30; taken prisoner by citizens, 736, 738, 739-41; rescued by Philaster, 742-3; sent home, 750

Pharaoh (of Exodus), Mohammed on, xlv, 881, 888, 891, 902-4, 921, 932-4

Pharaoh (time of Joseph), dreams of, xl, 43; Joseph and, xliv, 436 (10)

Pharaoh, wife of, Mohammed on, xlv, 993.

Pharisaism, leads to superstition, iii, 45-6

Pharisees, beliefs of the, xliv, 474 (8); Bunyan on, xv, 108; Jesus on the, xliv, 372-3 (30-5), 385-6 (37-44), 397 (1417), 400-1 (10-14); Pascal on the, xlviii, 287 (829), 290 (839), 292, 294

Pharnabazus, Alcibiades and, xii, 144, 145; Plutarch on, 133, 134, 135, 137

Pharnaces, and Caesar, xii, 305

Pharnapates, Plutarch on, xii, 346

Pharos, death of, xiii, 332

Pharsalia, battle of, xii, 299-303; Antony at, 327-8

Phebe, daughter of Gaius, xv, 274, 283

Phegeus, death of, xiii, 403

Phelps, Oliver, xliii, 230

Phemius, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 13, 17-18, 234, 304-6

Pheraeus, Alexander, xxvii, 27-8

Pheres, birth of, xxii, 151; death of, xiii, 335

Pheros, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 53-4

Phidias, accusation and death of, xii, 67-8; beautifies Athens, 50; Epictetus on, works of, ii, 138 (61); the "J ove " of, xiii, 1248; statue of Minerva, xii, 51

Philadelphia, city-watch of, i, 98-9; fire company formed by Franklin, 99-100; Library, founded by Franklin, 66-7, 74-5; Longfellow on, xiii, 1334; public hospital established, i, 116-18; situation of, v, 334; streets of, improved by Franklin, i, 119-20; University of (see University of Pennsylvania)

Philadelphia Catechism, xxiii, 21

Philadelphia Experiment, the, i, 148

Philadelphia, name of, xii, 156 note

Philagrus, tutor of Nepos, xii, 240

Philanthropy, Bacon on, iii, 32-4; Emerson on false, v, 63; Epictetus on true, ii, 185 (18); Marcus Aurelius on, 209-10 (n); moral worth of, xxxii, 310

Philarch, officer of Utopia, xxxvi, 177

PHILASTER, Beaumont and Fletcher's, xlvii, 667-751; remarks on, 666

Philaster, in PHILASTER, heir to Sicily, xlvii, 668; with king and Pharamond, 671-5; with the courtiers, 675-6; sent for by princess, 677; Arethusa on, 678; scene with Arethusa, 679-82; with

Pharamond, 683-4; Bellario and, 684-6; with courtiers, hears Arethusa faithless, 700-4; questions Bellario, 704-8; with Arethusa, concerning Bellario, 710-13; in the woods, 717; meeting with Bellario, 717-18; finds Bellario with Arethusa, 721-3; attempts to kill Arethusa, 722; his regrets, 726; wounds Bellario, 726; saves Bellario, 729-30; in arrest, 730; summoned to death, 731; in prison, 731-3; married to Arethusa, 734-5; condemned by king, 735-6; sent to quiet rebels, 738-9; rescues Pharamond, 742-3; in final scene, 744-6, 748-50

Philip, the apostle, xliv, 368 (14), 424 (13) Philip, the deacon, xliv, 434 (5), 439 (5-13), 440-1 (26-40), 469 (8)

Philip, tetrarch of Iturasa, xliv, 360 (i)

Philip II, King of Macedon, Alexander and, xii, 36; v, 317; Demetrius and, iii, 51; Demosthenes and, xii, 200-1, 203-7; death of, 208-9; dream of, iii, 91; forces of, xxxvi, 48; love of horse races, xxvii, 28; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 270 (29); the poor woman and, v, 263; Thebes and, xxxvi, 42

Philip II, King of Spain, Drake and, xxxiii, 129; Elizabeth and, 226; the Netherlands and, xix, 254-5, 261-2; Raleigh on, xxxix, 86-8; wealth of, xxxiii, 307-8, 319

Philip III, King of France, Dante on, xx, 173 and note 7

Philip IV, King of France, beauty of, iii, 106; Pope Clement and, xx, 79 note 6, 368 note 7, 173 and note 9, 226 notes 4 and 5, 228 notes 15 and 16, 279 note 15

Philip IV, King of Spain, Calderon and, xxvi, 5

Philip V, King of Madecon, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 79; the Romans and, 12

Philip VI, King of France, in Crecy campaign, xxxv, 12, 17, 19-31

Philip of Burgundy, xix, 252

Philippa, Queen, Froissart and, xxxv, 5

Philippi, battle of, xii, 321; Antony at, xviii, 38

Philippi, Dr. A., xxxviii, 405

Philippine Islands, cession of, xliii, 443-9

Philippus, stepfather of Octavius, xii, 254-5

Philips, Ambrose, To CHARLOTTE PULTENEY, Xl, 440-1

Philiscus, at Athens, xxviii, 58

Philistines, festival of, iv, 425; Samson and, 420-1

Philitis, the shepherd, xxxiii, 65

PHILLADA FLOUTS ME, xl, 380-3

PHILLIDA AND CORIDON, xl, 196-7

Phillips, Erasmus, in Hazlitt's discussion, xxvii, 274

Phillips, Wendell, Mill on, xxv, 165

Phillis, Milton on, iv, 32

PHILLIS, by Lodge, xl, 216-17

PHILLIS THE FAIR, by Burns, vi, 467

PHILLIS THE QUEEN OF THE FAIR, vi, 469-70

PHILLY AND WILLY, vi, 506-7

Philo, the Academic, xii, 219

Philo, the Jew, xlviii, 206

Philoctetes, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 37, 104

Philoetius, in ODYSSEY, xxii, 278-9, 289-90, 293-4, 299-309

Philolaus, on motion of earth, xxxix, 55; Plato on, ii, 49

Philologus, Cicero and, xii, 258; death of, 259

Philology, an historical science, xxviii, 236-7; important results of, 229-30 (see also Language)

Philomela, Milton on, iv, 35; story of, xx, 213 note i

Philomeleides, and Ulysses, xxii, 54

Philon, the shepherd, xl, 199-200

PHILONOUS AND HYLAS, DIALOGUES OF, xxxvii, 187-285

Philopcemon, Prince of Achaia, xxxvi, 4950

Philosophers, Augustine, St., on, vii, 64-6; Burns on, vi, 334-6; charges against, ii, ii; Cicero on, xlviii, 121 note 4; Comte's rule of, xxv, 132-3; Dante on unskilful, xx, 343; death and, ii, 53-7; Epictetus on, 142, 143, 152, 155-6, 158-62; French, Burke on, xxiv, 246-7; Harvey on true, xxxviii, 62-5; the hereafter desired by, ii, 76-7;

Marcus Aurelius on true, 217 (30); moral, Sidney on, xxvii, 14-19, 22-3; Pascal on, xlviii, 11, 138 (430), 139, 164 (503), 170; attitude toward pleasure and pain, ii, 75-6; poets compared with in usefulness, xxvii, 350-3; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 242-3; sacred and literary, v, 143; Sidney on, xxvii, 13-14; statesmen and, Plutarch on, xii, 54

PHILOSOPHERS, ENGLISH, xxxvii

PHILOSOPHERS, FRENCH AND ENGLISH, xxxiv

Philosopher's Candles, xxx, 123-5

Philosopher's Stone, Sir Epicure Mammon on the, xlvii, 566; Milton on, iv, 150

Philosophia Prima, xxxiv, 363

Philosophic Radicalism, Mill on, xxv, 6871

Philosophic Radicals, in Parliament, xxv, 122-24, 133-35

PHILOSOPHICAL ESSAYS, xxxii

PHILOSOPHISE, THAT TO, is TO LEARNE How TO DIE, xxxii, 9-28

Philosophy, Arnold on our, xxviii, 66; Athenian, Milton on, iv, 402-3, 8; M. AURELIUS ANTONINUS, LIFE OF, ii, 302-19; authority and, xxxix, 100, 122-123; Berkeley on innovations in, xxxvii, 265; Browne on righteousness of, iii, 264-5; Byron on, xviii, 436-437; Carlyle on, xxv, 340; Cicero on, ix, 45; Cowley on, xxvii, 61; Dante's allegory on, xx, 221; Descartes on study of, xxxiv, 8, 10; empirical and pure, xxxii, 299-300; as an employment, x, 15; Epictetus on, ii, 132 (56), 143 (72); need of, in ethics, xxxii, 316-17, 319-20; extreme limits of practical, 367-9, 372; Faustus on, xix, 206, 209; Hume on different species of, xxxvii, 289-98, 310-11, 312, 319-20; irreligion and, iii, 42; Kant on divisions of, xxxii, 299; knowledge of consequences, xxxiv, 362; liberty needed by, xxxvii, 400-1, 412-13; magic and, iii, 282; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 204 (17), 225 (9), 233 (12); Montaigne on study of, xxxii, 48-51, 53-4; "more things than dreamt of in," xlvi, 120; PHILOSOPHY OF M. AURELIUS ANTONINUS, ii, 320-45; Plato on true, xxxii, 38; practical, best, ix, 196; Raleigh on, xxxix, 109; reading course in, 1, 29-35; religion and, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 107-8; school and practical, xxxvi, 164-6; several branches of, xxxiv, 362-3; Socrates on, ii, 48, 72-3, 74-6; Taine on, xxxix, 429, 430, 431; Tasso on, xxxii, 34-5; transcendental, 302; of various races, xxxix, 419, 420

Philostratus, and Octavius, xii, 384

Philotas, on Antony, xii, 342-343

Philotimus, Cicero on, ix, 113, 149

Phineas, Burns on, vi, 164

Phinehas, xliv, 279 (30)

Phlebotomy. Harvey on, xxxviii, 115, 116, 117

Phlegethon, river, xiii, 225; source of the, xx, 61

Phlegyas, Dante on, xx, 32-3; in Tartarus, xiii, 228

Phocion, Carlyle on, xxv, 378; courage and honesty of, xii, 202; death of, xxvii, 21 ; on the event of the battle, v, 129; Landor on, 318; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 288 (13); as orator, xii, 199

Phocylides, Sidney on, xxvii, 7, 12

Phoebe, name of Diana, viii, 122; xxxix, 63

Phoebe, the deaconess, ix, 406 note

Phoebus, Milton on, iv, 24 (4), 46, 74; wain of, 49 (see also Apollo)

Phoenicians, circumcision among, xxxiii, 51

Phoenix, JEsop on the, xvii, 285; Dante on, xx, 100; Herodotus on, xxxiii, 39; Milton on, iv, 187, 457; Virgil on the Greek, xiii, 126, 187

Pholus, Dante on, xx, 50; death of, xiii, 402

Phorcys, Homer on, xxii, ii

Phorkides, the, viii, 195

Phormisius, pupil of Æschylus, viii, 468

Phosphorescence, of the sea, xxix, 167-8

Phosphorescent Insects, Darwin on, xxix, 38-40

Phosphorus, combustion of, in oxygen, xxx, 138; flame of, 109

Phosphorus (youth), statue of, v, 172

Photographic Light, xxx, 260

Phraates, king of Parthia, in war with Antony, xii, 349-50, 351-3, 356; in war with Media, 362

Phrontis, the pilot, xxii, 40

Phrygians, antiquity of the, xxxiii, 7-8

Phrynichus, accuser of Alcibiades, xii, 124, 130-1

Phyllis, Dante on, xx, 323 note 30

Phylogeny, defined, xi, 452

Physcon, name of, xii, 156 note

Physic (see Medicine)

Physical Science, Channing on study of, xxviii, 327-8; Descartes on, xxxiv, 50; Faraday on, xxx, 85; Huxley on, xxviii, 210-21; Pascal on, xlviii, 25 (67), 439-41

Physical Training, of children, xxxvii, 10-27; Milton on, iii, 244-6; Montaigne on, xxxii, 40, 55, 57; for women, xxviii, 146-8

Physicians, atheism of, iii, 253 note; Bacon on best, 82; early guilds of, xxxviii, 2, 3; Hippocrates on, 2, 3, 4-5; Pascal on costumes of, xlviii, 37

Physics (see Natural Philosophy)

Physiognomy, beauty of the, xxiv, 96-7; Browne on, iii, 312-3; of religious sects, v, 338; science of, 288; Webster on, xlvii, 762

Physiology, papers on, xxxviii, 75-139

Phytophagic Species, xi, 60-1

Pia, of Sienna, xx, 165 and note

Piazza, the anointer of Milan, xxi, 4-5

Picard, M., xxxiv, 116

Piccarda, in Paradise, xx, 294-7 an(J note

Piccolomini, Alfonso, xxxi, 266 note i

Pickering, Timothy, xliii, 229

Pickett's Charge at Gettysburg, xliii, 379-90, 402

Pickthank, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 98-9

Pico, Don Andres, xxiii, 393

Pico, Galeotto, xxxi, 292 note i

Pictet, Prof., on birds, xi, 341; on chalk formations, 367-8; palaeontology, work on, 341

Picture-books, Locke on, xxxvii, 132

PICTURE OF LITTLE T. C., xl, 371-2

Pictures, less affecting than words, xxiv, 51-4; moving, in New Atlantis, iii, 179

Picus Mirandola, xv, 323

Picus, son of Saturn, xiii, 241; Circe and, 245

Piedmont, Prince of, xxxviii, 36

PIEMONT, SONNET ON MASSACRE OF, iv, 83-4

Pienne, M. de, xxxviii, 25

Pierce, Mr., on wolves, xi, 97

Piercy (see Percy)

Pierino, and Cellini, xxxi, 17-20

Pierres, Mosen, xiv, 490

Pierus, daughters of, xx, 145 note I

Pietra, Nello della, xx, 165 note

Piety, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 51-3, 239-40

PIETY, EARLY, xlv, 563-4

Piety, of act, speech and mind, xlv, 8645; Carlyle on, xxv, 386; Dryden on, xiii, 24; Epictetus on true, ii, 175 (163); false, a double sin, xlviii, 316; Herbert on decay of, xv, 406-7; Hindu conception of, xlv, 795, 814; Pascal on, xlviii, 94 (255), 162 (496), 354-5; Penn on, i, 360 (470); Segrais on, xiii, 24

Piffero, Ercole del, xxxi, 17

Pigeons, analogous variations of, xi, 159-60; breeds of domestic, 34-6; circumstances favorable to breeding of, 51; correlation in, 28, 148; descent of, 36, 39-40, 49; in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 335; in history, xi, 40; instincts of tumblers, 257; reversion of, 161, 162

Pigray, the surgeon, xxxviii, 49, 50

Pigs, held abominable in Egypt, xxxiii, 29-30

Pi Hsi, xliv, 58 (7)

Pilate, Pontius, governor of Judxa, xliv, 360 (i); and the Galilaeans, 390 (i); and Jesus, 413 (1-7), 413-14 (11-25); Pascal on, xlviii, 262 (744), 273-4 (791)

PILGRIMAGE, Raleigh's, xl, 203-4

Pilgrimages, Luther on, xxxvi, 298-300, 310; Milton on, iv, 147

PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, Bunyan's, xv, 5319; authorship of, 319; Franklin on, i, 13, 22-3; remarks on, xv, 4; 1, 31; widespread influence of, xv, 171-2

Pilgrims, Lowell on the, xiii, 1372

PILGRIMS OF THE NIGHT, xlv, 571-2

PILLAR OF CLOUD, xlv, 567-8

Pilli, RafFaello, de', xxxi, 373, 427

Pillows, in old England, xxxv, 298

Piloto, Cellini on, xxxi, 63 note, 144

Pin, M. du, Burke on, xxiv, 341-2; on French army, 342-4

Pinabel of Sorrence, xlix, 106, 189, 190-3

Pincheira, Darwin on, xxix, 269

Pindar, Alexander and, iv, 78; Browning on, xii, 931; the English, xiii, 62; Hiero and, xxvii, 38; Horace on, 183; house of, spared, iv, 78; Hugo on, xxxix, 340; Sidney on, xxvii, 28

Pindaric Line, Dryden on the, xiii, 54

Pindarus, freedman of Cassius, xii, 337

Pindenissus, siege of, ix, 138

Pineda, Juan de, iii, 277 note

Pine-tree, Emerson on the, xlii, 1253-61

Pinkney, Edward C., HEALTH by, xxviii, 382-3

Pins, manufacture of, x, 10-11

Piombo, Sebastian del, xxxi, 97 note 6, 113 note 2

PIONEERS! O PIONEERS! xlii, 1404-7

Pious EDITOR'S CREED, xlii, 1373-6

PIPES AT LUCKNOW, xlii, 1360-2

PIPPA'S SONG, xlii, 1073

Piracy, punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 368; under control of Congress, xliii, 162, 184 (10)

Piraeus, companion of Telemachus, xxii, 213-14, 229-30

Piraeus, port of, established by Themistocles, xii, 22

Pirithous, Racine on, xxvi, 171

Pisa, and Florence, xxxvi, 18

Pisistratus, and his daughter's lover, xx, 206 note 4; Emerson on, v, 239; Macaulay on, xxvii, 399; Newman on, xxviii, 40; Solon and, ix, 71

Piso, Calpurnius, Pliny on, ix, 274-5

Piso, Julius, ix, 411

Piso, Caesonius, Lucius Calpurnius, Cicero on, iii, 64-5; Cicero and, xii, 243; Clodius and, 242; made consul, 275

Piso, son-in-law of Cicero, xii, 243-4

Pissuthnes, the Persian, xii, 61-2

PITCHER AND CROW, fable of, xvii, 32

Pitigliano, Count of, xxxvi, 43; Cellini on, xxxi, 292, note i

Pitt, William, Earl of Chatham, George II and, xxiv, 332

Pitt, William, and Burke, xxiv, 380; Burns on, vi, 52, 161, 209, 409; Mazzini on, xxxii, 382

Pittacos, maxim of marriage, viii, 198 note

Pittacus, on forgiveness, ii, 153 (96)

Pittheus, and Hippolytus, xxvi, 176

Pity, Bacon on, iii, 9-10, 34; Blake on, xii, 591; Burke on passion of, xxiv, 41; envy and, iii, 24; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 342-3; language of, 344-5; love and, xl, 393-4; a natural feeling, xxxiv, 188-90; Pascal on, xlviii, 151 (452); without power to relieve, xviii, 179

Pizarro, Francisco, xxxiii, 302-3, 319; Raleigh on, 317, 330

Place, independence of, v, 127-8; no sanctity in, iv, 340; showeth the man, iii, 30; virtue indifferent to, xii, 191

Plagiarism, Montaigne on, xxxii, 32

Plagues, of Egypt, Milton on, iv, 346

Plain Truth, Franklin's pamphlet, i, 105

Planarix, Darwin on, xxix, 35-6

Plancus, Munatius, xii, 335, 367

Planets, Bacon on motion of, iii, 37; Berkeley on the, xxxvii, 230-1; cause of movements of, xxxiv, 113-18, 119-21 ; Copernicus on motions of the, xxxix, 54-7; Dante on the, xx, 382; Dante on motions of, 325 and note 3; Locke on motion of, xxxvii, 155; Marlowe on movements of, xix, 225-6; Milton on motion of the, iv, 246, 3078; Raleigh on the, xxxix, 107-8; Rousseau on movement of the, xxxiv, 248-9

Plans, road long from, to acts, xxvi, 244

Planta, Pompeius, governor of Egypt, ix,

Plantain, Biggs on the, xxxiii, 236

PLANTATIONS, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 85-7

Plants, advantages of diversity of character, xi, 117; of all seasons, iii, 112-13; breeding of, xi, 43-5; checks on increase of, 76-9; complex relations with animals, 79-86; distribution of, 388-94; divided into groups, 136-7; domestic, descent of, 32, 41; experiments on, in New Atlantis, iii, 174; fertilization of, xi, 104-6; most fragrant, iii, 113; freshwater, distribution of, xi, 411-13; habits of, hereditary, 144-5; rate of increase of, 73-6; insects and, relations of, 99-100, 101-2, 104-5; li ve on carbonic acid, xxx, 168; sexes in, separation of, xi, 100-1; the young of the world, v, 229

Plastering, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 294

Plastic Arts, Goethe on, xxxix, 255-6, 257, 259-60, 262, 265

Plata River, Darwin on the, xxix, 147; Drake at, xxxiii, 204

Plataea, annual sacrifice at, xii, 99-100; battle of, 20; campaign of, 89-98

Plathane, in THE FROGS, viii, 455-6

Platinum, weight of, xxx, n note i, 52

Plato, Academy of (see Academy of Plato); APOLOGY OF, ii, 5-30; cause and effect, effect on doctrine of, ii, 329-30; on censorship of books, iii, 205-6; on children, xxxii, 53; on children of the gods, v, 194; Christianity and, xxvii, 346; Cicero on, xii, 237; CRITO of, ii, 31-43; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; DIALOGUES of, remarks on, 1, 29; Dionysius and, iii, 194, 205-6; xxvii, 38; on disease, xxxiv, 172-3; ideas of education, xxxii, 57; Emerson on, v, 239; on principle of equality, xxvii, 346; on faith and sincerity, xxxii, 38; four flatteries of, xii, 343 note; on freedom of the will, ii, 169 (142); on happiest state, xii, 262 and note; on indifference of places, ii, 280 (23); influence of, on English thought, v, 435; on kings and philosophers, xxxvi, 1578; on life and death, ii, 248 (35, 44, 45); life and works, 3-4; Lowell on, xxviii, 452; man defined by, xlviii, 425; Mill on, xxv, 19-20, 34; Montaigne on Commonwealth of, xxxii, 34; Montaigne on DIALOGUES of, 95; Montesquieu on, 118; More on Republic of, xxxvi, 165; Newman on, xxviii, 57; old age of, ix, 50; Pascal on, xlviii, 1516 (20), 80 (219), 114-15 (331), 268 (769); PHAEDO of, ii, 45-113; on pleasure, ix, 61; on the poets, xiii, 32, 38-41; preferences of, xxxix, 93; SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 131; school of, xxviii, 59; Shelley on, xxvii, 334; shows of, xii, 78; Sidney on, xxvii, 7, 24; on socialism, xxxvi, 167; at Socrates's trial, ii, 22, 26; on the soul, xxxiv, 103; on souls in the stars, xx, 298 note 3; on speculation, v, 436; Spenser on, xxxix, 62; spirits, belief in, iii, 284 (33); on training of body and mind, xxxii, 56; two horses of the soul, xii, 349 note; on the universe, v, 310; on viewing life, ii, 249 (48); wealth of, xxviii, 59; x, 137; on wise men and the public, xxxvi, 166; on words and deeds, xl, 31; on the world, xxxix, 104-5

Plato's Year, iii, 137 note, 258 note

Platonism, Emerson on, v, 436

Platonists, on Christ, vii, 107-9; Mill on title of, xxv, 19-20

Plautianus, and Severus, iii, 68

Plautus, the Casina, of, xxvii, 386; Dxyden on, xxxix, 174; Hugo on, 347; in Limbo, xx, 236; Mencechmi of, xxxix, 228; Montaigne on, xxxii, 91; Sidney on, xxvii, 44, 45

Play, of adults, xxxvii, 176; of children, 89, ui-12, 113; instinct of, Schiller on, xxxii, 248-52, 290-2; out-door, xxxvii, 14

PLAY, THE END OF THE, xlii, 1058-60

Playhouses, Swift on, xxvii, 119-20

Playthings, Locke on, xxxvii, 112-13, 129-30

Pleading, Pliny on conciseness in legal, ix, 204-5; Shelley on, xviii, 354-5

Pleasanton, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 358, 360, 370, 397-8; Haskell on, 359

Pleasing, Pascal on art of, xlviii, 403

Pleasure, analysis of, ii, 285 (2); Archytas on sensual, ix, 59; Berkeley on idea of, xxxvii, 195, 198-9; Burke on standards of, xxiv, 11-12; Cicero on, ix, 60; Confucius on, xliv, 5 (i); Cowper on, xii, 535; effects of cessation of, xxiv, 34-5; as the end of life, xliv, 336 (i), 338 (12-13), 339 (22), 341 (18), 345 (15), 346 (7-10); xlv, 861; Epictetus on indifference to, ii, 117 (2); Epictetus on use of, 149 (86); of farmers, ix, 63-5; Goldsmith on lowly, vi, no; highest, after danger or pain, vii, 1223; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 339-40; of the imagination, xxiv, 15-21; in imitations, xxxix, 223; inseparable from morality, v, 90; of the judgment, xxiv, 21-4; Keats on, xii, 871, 873; Kempis on worldly, vii, 273 (4); Krishna on, xlv, 870; of love, xxiv, 36, 37-9; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 202 (12), 204 (16), 229 (26), 238 (34), 255 (10); may be spared, iv, 215; of melancholy, 348; Mill on, xxv, 35; of mirth, iv, 30-4; Montaigne on, xxxii, 9-10; More on, xxxvi, 196, 197-204; not the end of man, ii, 256 (19); of old age, ix, 601; in one thing, ii, 232 (7); the order of nature, xii, 643; pain in relation to, xxiv, 30-1; pain and, Shelley on, xxvii, 352; pain and, Socrates on, ii, 48; Pascal on, xlviii, 66 (181), 372, 414; Pascal on principles of, 403; Pascal on yielding to, 62 (160); philosophic attitude toward, ii, 73-6; physical action of, xxiv, 120; physical causes of, 1208; Pope on, xl, 418; power and, xxiv, 55; rare, ii, 184 (n); removal of, not like positive pain, xxiv, 31-5, 36-7; of the senses, 13-16; sensibility to, 235; of society, 36-45; two kinds of, xxvii, 351; Utopian idea of, xxxvi, 188; Vaughan on innocent, i, 73; wants and, Goldsmith on, xii, 525-6; a weaker idea than pain, xxiv, 35; Wordsworth on principle of, xxxix, 280

PLEASURE ARISING FROM VICISSITUDE, xl, 460-2

Pleiad, Taine on the, xxxix, 428

Pleiades, called Atlantic Sisters, iv, 308; mentioned in Job, xliv, 83, 134; Milton on the, iv, 236; Tennyson on the, xlii, 979

Pliable, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 1521, 71-2

Pliant, Dame, in THE ALCHEMIST, xlvii, 618-20, 625-9, 635, 654, 659-60, 662-3

Pliny, the Elder, on animal breeding among savages, xi, 45; on bees, xxxv, 347; death of, ix, 185-6, 284-8; habits of, 232-4; on lead mines of Wales, xxxv, 322-3; Maecenas and, xliii, 29; on marl of Britain, xxxv, 308; on pears, xi, 47; on pigeons in Rome, 40; SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 116; on sugar, xxxv, 276; on torrid zone, xxxix, 106; on the viper, xxxv, 344 note, 345 note; works of, ix, 231-2

Pliny, the Younger, on his abstemiousness in sickness, ix, 297-8; attends recitations, 200; as augur, 251-2; as counsel for Bastica, 315-16; on boldness in writings, 346-50; on the Christians, 404-7; clemency of, 344-5; Corellius on, 257; his dealings with merchants, 317-18; description of inundation, 326; dream of, 203; equal hospitality of, 215-16; fame of, during his life, 345-6; on his friendships, 314; his belief in ghosts, 311-14; on giving library to his town, 192-5; as governor of Bithynia, 364 et seq.; grief for Corellius Rufus, 199; humanity of, 352 note; in the Hundred Court, 219-21, 255-6, 345-6; indulgence of others' levity, 343-4; on interpretation of a will, 252, 272; as lawyer and judge, 206-7, 227, 252, 256-7, 259, 277, 279, 283, 299-301, 345, 358; legacy from Curianus, 260; LETTERS OF, 187-416; LETTERS, editor's remarks on, 1, 20; life and works, ix, 185-6; life in Laurentum, 355; life in Tuscum villa, 353-4; occupations of, 196; on poetry, 302-3; made a privileged citizen, 356; prosecution of Certus, 341-3; on purchasing a new property, 246-7; on reason for reciting his works, 305-7; on reciting his writings, 331-2; Regulus, relations with, 189-91; seeks office of augur or septemvir, 363; on selling an estate, 303-4; as a senator, 319-25; slaves and servants, relations with, 209, 275-6, 316-17, 325; on the spring, 259; statue purchased by, 235; method of study, 191-2; a supper of, 202; Tacitus and, xxxiii, 92; ix, 345; the temple of, 362; with his tenants, 355; town under his patronage, 248-9; correspondence with Trajan, 356-416; ii, 311-12; speech on Trajan, ix, 244-6, 292-3; to Trajan, on princes, xxxiv, 215; made treasurer of Saturn, ix, 358, 362 note i; vanity of, iii, 128-9; verses by, ix, 302; verses on, 248; during eruption of Vesuvius, 288-91; villa of, 222-6; villa in Tuscany, 265-72; villas on Larian Lake, 336; wealth of, 362 note 2; wife of (see Calpurnia); wish to live in history, 315-16; on his works, 337; on his writings and lectures, 263; Zosimus, servant of, 276

Pliocene Strata, Lyell on, xxxviii, 404

Plistoanax, king of Sparta, xii, 58-9

Plodding, wins the race, xvii, 38

Plotinus, Emerson on, v, 125; on the soul, ii, 332-3; the "union" of, v,

141

PLOUGHMAN'S LIFE, THE, vi, 25

Plover, long-legged, xxix, 120

Plowman, Chaucer's, xl, 25-6

Plumptre, E. H., translator of Greek Dramas, viii, I

Plums, Locke on, xxxvii, 20

Pluralities, Harrison on, xxxv, 260-1; Luther on, xxxvi, 315; Milton on, iv, 80; iii, 210

Plutarch, on dissimulation, xxxix, 68-9; on Elysian Fields, xxxv, 307; Emerson on heroes of, v, 183; historian of Heroism, 123; Irish myths and, xxxii, 179; on his knowledge of Latin, xii, 192; life and works of, 3-4; Montaigne on, xxxii, 30, 44-5, 93-4; on motion of the earth, xxxix, 55; on poets, xxvii, 39; on Saturn, iii, 45; Shelley on, xxvii, 335; study of advised, iii, 239-40; on victors of the games, xxxiv, 263

PLUTARCH'S LIVES, xii; editor's remarks on, 1, 20, 42; Franklin on, i, 14; Mill on influence of, xxv, 73; Shakespeare and, xxxix, 226

Pluto, in THE FROGS, viii, 483-7; helmet of, iii, 56-7; Hugo on, xxxix, 348

Plutocracy, Mill on dangers of, xxv, 108

Plutus, Dante on, xx, 28-9; fable of, iii, 88; Webster on, xlvii, 801

Plymouth, settlement of (see also MAYFLOWER COMPACT)

Plymouth Rock, Lowell on, xlii, 1372

Plynteria, feast of, xii, 140

Po-niu, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 19 (8)

Po-yi, xliv, 17 note 10, 22 (14), 56 (12), 63 (8)

Po-yii, son of Confucius, xliv, 56 (13), 59 (10)

Podalirius, and Alsus, xiii, 400

Podesta, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, xxi, 74-81, 289, 405-6, 554

Podolia, honey of, xxxv, 347

Poe, Edgar Allan, life and works of, xxviii, 370; poems by, xlii, 1224-41; THE POETIC PRINCIPLE, xxviii, 369-92

Poems, Poe on length of, xxviii, 371-4

POESY OR ART, Coleridge on, xxvii, 255-63

POESY, DEFENSE OF, by Sidney, xxvii, 5-51

POESY, THE PROGRESS OF, xl, 453-6

POET, THE, by Emerson, v, 161-82

POET, ADVICE TO A YOUNG, xxvii, 104-21

Poetic Diction, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 283-4, 292-6

POETIC PRINCIPLE, THE, by Poe, xxviii, 369-92

Poetical Beauty, Pascal on, xlviii, 18 (33)

Poetical Justice, Dennis on, xxvii, 186-7

Poetry, advantages of, over prose, xxxix, 285-7; in America, Whitman on, 338-409; Aristotle on, xiii, 35; xxvii, 19; Arnold, STUDY OF, xxviii, 65-90; the aspiration for supernal beauty, 377-9; Bentham on, xxv, 72; Burke on cause of power of, xxiv, 129-40; Byron's definition of, xxxii, 394; characteristics of high, xxviii, 73-4; classes of readers of, xxxix, 311-16; Coleridge on, xxvii, 255-6; comic, 26-8; common life in, xxxix, 271-2; compared with history and biography, 279-80; compared with painting in effect on the passions, xxiv, 51-4; compared with reason in usefulness, xxvii, 350-3; Confucius on, xliv, 25 (8), 56 (13), 59 (9); contemptible subjects in, xxxix, 289; criticism of, 311-16; defined, xxvii, 329; Descartes on study of, xxxiv, 8, 9; didactic, xxviii, 375; Dryden on, epic and dramatic, xiii, 5-11, 13; Dryden on virtues of, xxxix, 158; earliest form of teaching, xxvii, 6-8; effects of, on society, 335-50; elegiac, 26; Eliot on reading of, 1, 7-8; Eliot on translations of, 4; Emerson on power of, v, 155; enervating, xxvii, 35-7; English (16th century), 40-50; English, retrospect of, xxxix, 316-30; English, review of, xxviii, 7590; estimate of, by comparison, 72-4; exhortation to honor, xxvii, 50-1; expression of high delights, 330; false criticism of, xxxix, 290-1; fancy and imagination in, 301-10; fancy and judgment in, xxxiv, 350; favored by eminent men, xxvii, 104; Franklin on usefulness of writing, i, 16; future of, xxviii, 65-6; Goldsmith on, xli, 519; habits of order produced by, xxvii, 357; heroic, 28-9; high standards necessary in, xxviii, 66-7; hints for encouragement of, xxvii, 116-21 ; historic and personal estimates of, xxviii, 67-72; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; honored by great men, xxvii, 39-40; Hugo on taste in, xxxix, 384-5; Hugo on originality in, 364-6; Hugo on rules in, 363-6, 387; Hume on rules of, xxvii, 206-7; iambic, 26; inspiration of, 3545; lack of appreciation of high, xxxix, 315-30; language of, 267-8, 269, 2712, 274-9, 282-4, 288-9, 292-6, 395-7; learning unnecessary to, xxvii, 108-9; Locke on, xxxvii, 149-50; of love, xxvii, 347-8; lyric, 28; Mazzini on, xxxii, 379-80; Mazzini on Goethe's conception of, 387-8; measure in, xxvii, 332-5; merit of, as measured by length, xxviii, 371-5; James Mill on, xxv, 15; Milton on study of, iii, 243; Montaigne on, xxxii, 30, 62-3; music and, xxxix, 300; national awakening influenced by, xxvii, 359; nature and, xxxix, 401-2; its need of giving immediate pleasure, 280; need of, in periods of wealth, xxvii, 353; not an imitative art, xxiv, 137-9; observation of order and relations in, xxvii, 331; originality in, xxxix, 331-4, 397; pastoral, xxvii, 25; Plato on, 38-9; Plato's banishment of, 37-38; Pliny on, as method of study, ix, 302-3; popularity as test of, xxxix, 333-36; reason of power of, xxiv, 40, 44; powers requisite for producing, xxxix, 297; primitive, ancient, and modern, 339-55; profitableness of, xxvii, 32-3; prose and, xxxix, 276 note; purpose in, 272; record of best moments, xxvii, 355-6; relation of feeling and action in, xxxix, 273-4; relation of substance and style in, xxviii, 74; religion and, xxvii, 105-8; xxxix, 313-14; requirements of, 393-5; restricted meaning of, xxvii, 332; rhyme in, in; rhythm in, xxviii, 378; Romans and, xxvii, 8-9; romantic and classical, xxxix, 345-6; rural life and, xxvii, 657; Sainte-Beuve on reason in, xxxii, 125; satiric, xxvii, 26; Schiller on, xxxii, 269-70; science compared with, xxxix, 280-1; science related to, 282; similes in, xxvii, 112; source of all knowledge and virtue, 354; sources of, xxviii, 391-2; stories compared with, xxvii, 335; STUDY OF, Arnold's, xxviii, 65-90; superiority of, to other arts, xxvii, 333; taste in, xxxix, 268; Thoreau on nature in, xxviii, 414; three classes of readers of, xiii, 58-60; three general kinds of, xxvii, 11-12; tragic, 27-8; truth and, xxxix, 402-3; truth and duty may be introduced incidentally, xxviii, 378, 391; truth its object, xxxix, 279, 281; turns all things to loveliness, xxvii, 356; universality of, 332-5; xxxix, 281-2; as untruth, xxvii, 33-4;

various kinds of, 25-9; xxxix, 298-9; of various races, 420-1; verse and rhyme in, xxvii, 31-2, 49; as teacher of virtue, 13-25; as promoting wantonness, 34-5; Whitman on future, xxxix, 388-409; word from the Greek, xxvii, 9-11; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 267-8, 269-91, 292-6, 297-310, 311-36; Wordsworth on materials of, 267; world created anew by, xxvii, 355-7

POETRY OF THE CELTIC RACES, xxxii, 135-82

POETRY, ENGLISH, xl, xli, xlii

POETRY, SHELLEY'S DEFENCE OF, xxvii, 327-59

POETRY, STUDY OF, ARNOLD'S, xxviii, 6590

Poets, Aristophanes on duty of, viii, 469-470, 472; authors of language, xxvii, 331-2; banished by Plato, 37-9; Browning on, xlii, 1072; Burke on narrowness of, xxiv, 48; Burns on, vi, 801, 85, 108, 312-13, 321, 424-5; called vates, xxvii, 8-9; defined in universal sense, 331; Dryden on, xviii, 7; Emerson on great, v, 144; fame of, xxvii, 333; happiest and best of men, 356-8; historians as, 335; Jonson on, xl, 3023; to be judged only by time, xxvii, 336; as legislators and prophets, xxvii, 332; Manzoni on advice of, xxi, 467; meaning a maker, xxvii, 9, 30; O'Shaughnessy on, xlii, 1198-9; Pascal on, xlviii, 19 (34), 20 (39); philosophers as, xxvii, 334-5; philosophers, compared with, 350-3; qualifications requisite to, xxxix, 297; shoemakers and, xxvii, 112; Socrates on wisdom of, ii, 10 ; Tasso on, xxvii, 356 note; unacknowledged legislators of the world, 359; Whitman on, xxxix, 391-409; Wordsworth on, 278-84, 300-1; xli, 659

POET'S DREAM, THE, xli, 855-6

POET'S PROGRESS, THE, vi, 320-3

POET'S WELCOME TO His LOVE-BEGOTTEN DAUGHTER, vi, 55-7

POETS, ODE ON THE, xli, 873-4

Poggini, Domenico, xxxi, 350, 360, 362

Poggini, Gianpagolo, xxxi, 350 note, 360, 362

Pogius of Florence, xxxix, 16

Pointers, instincts of, xi, 256, 257

Poisoning, Harvey on, xxxviii, 125; punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 3645

Poisons, regulation of sale of, xxv, 292, 293-4

POITIERS, THE BATTLE OF, xxxv, 34-59

Poix, Edward III at, xxxv, 18

Polarity, in affairs of government, v, 246; in nature, 14, 87-8

Polarization of Light, xxx, 264-7

Pole, Cardinal, and Machiavelli, xxvii, 366

POLEMIC, EPITAPH ON A NOISY, vi, 58

Polemo, the sophist, xxviii, 60

Polemon, King, capture of, xii, 351

Polenta, Guido da, xx, in note 3

Policy, and justice, xxiv, 289-90; Penn on, i, 337 (152-4)

Polite Letters, Hume on, xxxvii, 292-3

Politeness, Character and, xxxii, 236, 254; Locke on, xxxvii, 47-8, 124-5; origin of, xxxiv, 204; the ritual of society, v, 409; Swift on ceremonial, xxvii, 100-1 (see also Manners)

Polites, and Circe, xxii, 135-6; death of, xiii, 118

Politian, mentioned, xxvii, 372

Political Economy, Burke on beginnings of, xxiv, 394; effects of a mistaken, x, 437-8; human nature in, xxviii, 469; Mill on, xxv, 146-7; need of imagination in, xxvii, 351, 353; objects of, x, 310; systems of (see Commercial S., Agricultural S.)

Political Institutions, dependent on circumstances, xxiv, 148; Hamilton on, xliii, 199; Mill on choice of, xxv, 107-8

Political Parties, Washington on, xliii, 238, 239, 240-1

Politicians, Smith on, x, 348; Socrates on, ii, 9-10; Webster on, xlvii, 804

POLITICS, ESSAY ON, Emerson's, v, 239-51

POLITICS, ON, by Burns, vi, 452

Politics, Burke on science of, xxiv, 198-9; Channing on, xxviii, 318-20; corruption in, under property system, xxxvi, 168; friendship in, ix, 23-5, 30-1; Hamilton on intolerance in, xliii, 201; Hobbes on science of, xxxiv, 362; Hume on science of, xxxvii, 297, 359, 419; Lowell on science of, xxviii, 439; Mill on science of, xxv, 99-103; Milton on study of, iii, 242; reading course in, 1, 42-4; Thoreau on, xxviii, 400

Poll-taxes, Smith on, x, 503-4, 514-15

Pollio, Asinius, orator, ix, 205 note 3; in African War, xii, 307; Caesar, and, 292; on Caesar, xxxii, 99

Polonius, in HAMLET, the prototype of, xlvi, 92; Laertes, and, 100-1; farewell advice to Laertes, 109; counsels Ophelia against Hamlet, no-n; sends Reynaldo to Laertes, 120-3; hears Hamlet's madness, 123-4; reports to king, 126, 127-30; scene with Hamlet, 130-1; announces players, 136, 138-9; asks king to play, 142, 149; plan to test Hamlet's madness, 143, 147; at the play, 150-1, 155; summons Hamlet to queen, 158; in hiding at Hamlet's meeting with mother, 160, 162; death, 163; Hamlet on, 163, 169, 172-3

Polus, the actor, xii, 191 note, 214

Polyalces, Plutarch on, xii, 66

Polybus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 49, 302; death of, 303

Polycarp, M. Aurelius Antoninus, in reign of, ii, 310-11 and note 3; Bunyan on, xv, 265

Polycaste, daughter of Nestor, xxii, 45

Polycrates, tyrant of Samos, xii, 63; Anacreon and, xii, 814; death of, prophesied, iii, 91; Emerson on, v, 95

Polydamna, wife of Thon, xxii, 52; Helen and, xxxiii, 56

Polydeuces, and Castor, xxii, 152

Polydore, Moliere on, xxvi, 215; murder of, xiii, 129-30

POLYEUCTE, Corneille's, xxvi, 77-130; remarks on, 76

Polyeucte, in POLYEUCTE, goes to be baptized, xxvi, 77-81; Pauline on, 83; Severus on, 88-9; returns to Pauline, 93-4; determines to go to temple, 957; his deeds in temple, 101-2; his conduct at death of Nearchus, 105, 106; in prison, 108-11; with Pauline in prison, 111-15; with Felix, 121-3; last scene with Pauline, 123-4; refuses to yield and condemned, 125-7

Polygamy, Browne on, iii, 323; Mill on, xxv, 287-8

Polylerites, More on the, xxxvi, 151

Polymnestor, Dante on, xx, 229 note 19

Polymorphic Genera, xi, 56-7

Polynices, and Eteocles, xx, 107 note; references to, in ANTIGONE, viii, 255, 258-60, 263-4, 294-5

Polypheides, son of Mantius, xxii, 206

Polypheme, the Cyclops, xiii, 149-50; reference to, xii, 939

Polyphemus, Burke on, xxiv, 126; remarks on story of, xxii, 3; Ulysses and, ii, 119-29

Polytheism, Lessing on, xxxii, 186

Pomarre, Queen, of Tahiti, xxix, 419-20

Pomham, the Indian, xliii, 146

Pommiers, Aymenion of, xxxv, 36, 42, 47

Pomona, reference to, iv, 190; Vertumnus and, 270

Pomp, Milton on, iv, 189; Penn on, i, 388-9

Pompeia, wife of Caesar, xii, 267; Clodius and, 241-2, 270-2

Pompeius, Quintus, quarrel with Sulpicius, ix, 9

Pompeius Saturninus, letter to, ix, 192

Pompeius, Sextus, xii, 345-6 (see Pompey, Sextus)

Pompeo, xxxi, 91-2, 121, 125-6, 133, 135, 142-3, 145-6

Pompey, accusations against, ix, 98-9; Caesar and, iii, 123, 141; ix, 5-6; xii, 248-50, 252, 274, 275-6, 281, 282, 284, 285; Caesar and, Cicero on, ix, 162-3; Caesar, final contest with, xii, 288-302; Caesar killed beside statue of, 318; Caesar presented with head of, 303; Cicero and, ix, 88, 113, 115-16, 120, 122, 123-4, 162-3; xii, 224, 2423, 244, 246, 248-50; Cicero on, ix, 82, 94, 122-3; Cicero on death of, 159; Clodius and, xii, 243; Crassus and, 274; Dryden on, xiii, 16; in Egypt, xxxii, 5-6; as manager of corn supplies, ix, 96; marries Caesar's daughter, xii, 267, 275; at Mile's trial, ix, 97-8; xii, 246; Milton on, iv, 385; in Parthian war, ix, 147; Pascal on, xlviii, 235 (701); preparations of, ix, 99; provincial laws of, 398 note 2; sea-power of, iii, 79; sons of, xii, 309; temperate life of, 336; Sylla and, iii, 67; Webster on death of, xlvii, 853

Pompey, Sextus, Erichtho and, xx, 36 note 2; refuses to break word, xii, 3456; in Sicily, 345; war on, 348

Pomponia, and Q. Cicero, ix, 134; Philologus and, xii, 259

Ponkipog, Eliot on, xliii, 142

Pontanus, Sidney on, xxvii, 12

Pontitianus, and St. Augustine, vii, 126-8

Pontonous, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 94

Pontormo, Jacopo Carrucci da, xxxi, 401 note

Pooley, Thomas, persecution of, xxv, 223 note 2

Poor, Burns on life of the (see THE TWA DOGS); Luther on care of the, xxxvi, 313-14; Montaigne on the, xxxii, 117 Poor Laws, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 301-3; of England, x, 139-44; Ruskin on, xxviii, 123 and note 17

POOR MAILIE, DEATH OF, vi, 41-2

POOR MAILIE'S ELEGY, vi, 43-4; remarks on, 16

Poor Richard's Almanac, i, 3, 91-2, 163

POORTITH CAULD AND RESTLESS LOVE, vi, 451-2

Pope, Alexander, on Addison, xxvii, 172, 173, 177-178; Addison's Cato and, 166, 167; Arnold on, xxviii, 81-3; Burns on, vi, 338; Byron on, xxxii, 128; as editor of Shakespeare, xxxix, 235-6, 318;

Emerson on, v, 444; ESSAY ON MAN, xl, 406-40; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 273-4; ON A LADY AT COURT, xl, 406; lines by, on friends, xxvii, 273-4; Milton and, xxxix, 319; on Milton's God, xxvii, 200; on modesty in speech, i, 18-19; Ralph and, 38, 150; SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 127-8, 131; on Shakespeare, xxxix, 211-12, 218, 229; SOLITUDE by, xl, 405-6; Swift and, xxviii, 17, 28; Swift on, 16; on Swift, 15; on Thomson, xxxix, 325; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 148-50, 152; Wordsworth on xxxix, 322; Wordsworth on Iliad of, 323-4; Wordsworth on Windsor Forest of, 323

Pope, Sir Thomas, xxxvi, 132-3

Pope, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 69

Pope's Months, xxxvi, 280, 288

Popery, Milton on, iii, 229-30

Popes, benefices and the, xxxvi, 280-5; bishoprics and, 281-2, 288-9, 294; bulls of the, 312-13; Calvin on the, xxxix, 41-2; court of the, xxxvi, 278, 293; custom of kissing their feet, 296-7; Dante on covetousness of the, xx, 399-401; Dante on temporal authority of the, 211 ; Datarius of the, xxxvi, 284 note, 285-6; encroachments in Germany, 277-9, 288, 293-4; England and, xxxiv, 89; how regarded in Italy, xxvii, 367-8; jubilees of the, xxxvi, 299 note; legates of, 316; attitude toward liberty of press, iii, 195-8; Luther on pomp of the, xxxvi, 275-6, 281, 293, 297; Luther on powers of the, 251-2, 253, 256, 256-7, 309; Luther on right of punishing, 269-70, 272-3; Luther on vices and encroachments of the, 275-98, 316-17, 321, 323-4; monasticism encouraged by, 300; Pascal on the, xlviii, 304-5 (871-7), 306 (880, 882); their relation with temporal power, xxxvi, 265-70, 290-1, 294-6; relations with empire, 294-6, 327-30; their right to interpret Bible, 270-2; their rights over councils, 272-5; saints and, 311-12; as vicars of Christ, 343-4 (see also Papacy)

Popillius, and Cicero, xii, 258

POPLAR FIELD, THE, xli, 534-5

Poplicola, Plutarch on, xii, 178

Poppy-water, Locke on, xxxvii, 26

Populace, Bacon on movements of the, iii, 39-40; Browne on the, 311; disapproval of the, v, 65-6; kings and, iii, 51-2; nobility and, xxxvi, 32; praises of the, iii, 126; in princedoms, xxxvi, 33-6; Shakespeare on likes of the, xlvi, 172; superstition of, iii, 45-6

Popular Science, Freeman on, xxviii, 235

Popularity, Carlyle on, xxv, 403-4; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 360; Milton on, iv, 385; Penn on, i, 349; as test of poetry, xxxix, 333-6

Population, Bacon on need of limiting, iii, 39; laws of, in Utopia, xxxvi, 1834; limited only by food supply, x, 167; Mill on restriction of, xxv, 68; regulated by demand for labor, x, 81-2; relation of, to poverty, 80-1

Poquelin (see Moliere)

Porphyro, and Madeline, xli, 885-93

Porphyry, the vision of, v, 141

Porpoises, Darwin on, xxix, 47

Porsena, reference to, xiii, 289

Port Famine, Darwin on, xxix, 236, 238

Port Pheasant, xxxiii, 131-2

Port Plenty, Drake at, xxxiii, 143, 151

Port Royal, Pascal on nuns of, xlviii, 291 (841)

Portail, Antoine, xxxviii, 46

Portents, defined, xxxiv, 382; study of, in Egypt, xxxiii, 42

Porter, in MACBETH, xlvi, 343-4

PORTER, THE, AND THE LADIES OF BAGHDAD, xvi, 55-66

Porter, Edward, xxxiii, 337, 351, 371

Portia, death of, xlvii, 816 note

Portillo Pass, Darwin on, xxix, 317-18; origin of name, 329

Portinari, Folco, Father of Beatrice, xx, 3

Porto Praya, Darwin on, xxix, 11-12

Porto Rico, cession of, xliii, 443 (2), 445-8

PORTRAIT, A, Sheridan's, xviii, 109-12

Portraits, Coleridge on, xxvii, 259-60

Portugal, discoveries of, x, 398; reading and writing in, xxxvii, 128-9; taxes on precious metals in, x, 380-1; trade treaty with England, 390-4

PORTUGUESE, SONNETS FROM THE, xli, 923-41

PORTUGUESE CHAPEL HYMN, xlv, 555-6

Portunus, reference to, xiii, 186

Porzia, Madonna (see Chigi, Porzia)

Poseidon, among the Ethiopians, xxii, 9; origin of name of, xxxiii, 31; in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 9-10, u, 75-7, 108, 1778; Tyro and, 150-1

Posidonius, on tides, xxx, 279

POSIE, THE, vi, 406-7

Positiveness, Franklin on, i, 18-19

Possession, better than prospect, xvii, 32; use the only, xix, 34

Possibilities, Aurelius on, ii, 235 (19)

Post-office, expense of maintaining, x, 454; government ownership of, 469

Post-offices, under Confederation, xliii, 164; under Constitution, 184 (7)

Postal Service, Marshall on, xliii, 219; progress of, ix, 368 note

Posterity, Bacon on care of, iii, 20, 21-2; Penn on care of, i, 342; Raleigh on greatening, xxxix, 92-4; Woolman on care of, i, 233

POSTHUMOUS CHILD, ON A, vi, 394-5

Postponement, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 205 (i), 210 (14), 214 (17)

Postumus, name of, xii, 156-7

Potassium, tester of water, xxx, 114, 120 note; why it decomposes water, 140

Potatoes, cultivation of, x, 163-4; introduced into England by Drake, xxxiii, 122; nourishment in, x, 163-4; wild, in Chonos Islands, xxix, 289

Potentates, Raleigh on, xl, 205

Pothinus, the eunuch, xii, 304-5

Potiphar's wife, in Dante's HELL, xx, 125 note 6

Pots, fable of the, xvii, 31

Potts, Stephen, i, 51, 58

Poultry, price of, x, 188-9; in Utopia, xxxvi, 173

Pourceaugnac, Hugo on, xxxix, 356

Poverty, Arabian verses on, xvi, 128; Browne on, iii, 330; Burns on, vi, 511; Carlyle on, xxv, 336-7; Confucius on, xliv, 6 (15), 46 (n), 55; and crime, Confucius on, 25 (10); and crime, Shakespeare on, xlvi, 295; Goldsmith on, xli, 516; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 365; Jesus on, xliv, 369 (20); Kempis on, vii, 285-6 (4); Lear on hardships of, xlvi, 268; Lucan on, xx, 331 note 16; money and, xxxvi, 238; More on fear of, 185; old age and, ix, 48; Penn on, i, 328 (52); relation of, to marriage and generation, x, 80-1; due to property system, xxxvi, 167-8; a cause of sedition, iii, 38, 39; in subjects, xxxvi, 162; unmerited, makes proud, xix, 384

Powell, Anthony, with Drake, xxxiii, 229; in Drake's Armada, 226, 241, 247, 250, 256, 258

Powell, Mary, first wife of Milton, xxviii, 181-4, 185-6; iv, 4

Power, Burke on idea of, xxiv, 55-60; Confucius on, xliv, 9; the desire for, xxxiv, 370; different kinds of, xxx, 912; education confers the only true, xxviii, 135-6; Emerson on thirst for, v, 18; force is not, viii, 380; gives no true claim to obedience, xxviii, 198; Hobbes on sources of, xxxiv, 359-61; honor in relation to, 361, 365-69; Hume on idea of, xxxvii, 336-50; love of, in children, 85-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 108-9 (310); penalties of, v, 88-9; political, Washington on distribution of, xliii, 242-3; the pomp of, xl, 444; real and imaginary, xlviii, 108 (307, 308); resides in transition, v, 72; Ruskin on love of, xxviii, 157; Shelley on fear of, xviii, 337; thirst for, iii, 25-6, 33; velocity and, in machines, xxx, 182-5; worldly, price of, xviii, 441; worldly, transitoriness of, xvi, 301-4, 311-12, 316-17, 319-21

Pozzobonelli, Michele, xxi, 511, 526

Practicalness, More on, xxxvi, 164-6

Practice, Bacon on, iii, 96-7; early, makes the master, xxvi, 428; Locke on teaching by, xxxvii, 44, 47-8; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 296 (6)

Praed, Mill on, xxv, 81

Praetors, Roman, ix, 277 note 2

Pragmatic, defined by Kant, xxxii, 328 note

Pragmatick, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 296

PRAISE, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 126-7

Praise, Augustine, St., on, vii, 57, 67; Augustine, St., on desire of, 191-4; belongeth to God alone, 247 (4); children's love of, xxxvii, 39-42, 173; Cicero on, ix, 104, 153; danger from, v, 98; desire of, i, 349 (320-1); Emerson on the highest, v, 40; "foolish face of," 65; Goldsmith on love of, xli, 527; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 345-6; independence of, vii, 244 (2, 3); Jesus on, xliv, 369 (26); Jonson on, xl, 301-2; Kempis on danger of, vii, 310 (5); Kempis on love of, 304-5; Locke on, of children, xxxvii, 105; love of, the strongest motive, xxviii, 94-6; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 215 (19, 20), 234-5 (16), 251 (62), 257 (21), 263 (53), 271 (34); as means of training, xxv, 87-8; Milton on, iii, 190; Milton on popular, iv, 385; Pascal on, xlviii, 121 note 10; Penn on, i, 382; Pliny on, iii, 129; Pliny on, ix, 247; Raleigh on, xxxix, 91; results of competition for, xxxiv, 370; results of desire of, 371; Rufus on leisure for, ii, 118 (5); of self, Pliny on, ix, 195; superiority to, v, 192

Praising, the delight of, xli, 902

Prassede, Donna, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, xxi, 410-13, 425, 441-4, 623

Prato, Giovanni of, xxxi, 216, 245, 248

Prayer, in affliction, vii, 293; allegory of, xv, 191-2; Browne's, iii, 328-9; Calvin on, xxxix, 49; for cleansing the heart, vii, 291; Coleridge on the best, xli, 701; by Dante, xx, 186-7; David on, xli, 495, 496-7; xliv, 179 (6); for the dead, Browne on, iii, 258; for the dead, Dante on, xx, 166-7; Emerson on, v, 35, 76; for enlightenment, vii, 287-8; Epictetus on, ii, 136 (58); against evil thoughts, vii, 287; Franklin's, i, 82-3; to do God's will, vii, 277; gratitude the most perfect, xxvi, 323; Jesus on, xliv, 383-4 (1-13), 400 (17); Kempis on proper, vii, 276; Luther on, xxxvi, 307; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 224 (7), 272 (40); Milton on, iv, 319-20, 322-3; Mohammed on, xlv, 883, 919, 921, 972, 978, 995; Pascal on, xlviii, 167-8 (513-14), 340; Penn on formal, i, 361 (478); Raleigh on dying, xxxix, 94-5; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 279; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 161, 162; in sickness, by Pascal, xlviii, 366-74; for the spirit of devotion, vii, 261; Tennyson on, xlii, 992; Thomson's, i, 83; in times of doubt, vii, 303 (2); in Utopia, xxxvi, 233, 235; Woolman on, i, 175, 288

PRAYER, A, IN PROSPECT OF DEATH, vi, 34-5

PRAYER: O THOU DREAD POWER, vi, 238

PRAYER, A, UNDER PRESSURE OF VIOLENT ANGUISH, vi, 32

Preacher, Goldsmith's, xli, 512-14

Preaching, Emerson on, v, 34-6, 41; Luther on Christian, xxxvi, 357-8

Precedents, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 373-4; Lowell on, xxviii, 440

Precepts, the Buddhist, xlv, 743

Precious Metals, demand for, x, 175, 178; effect of increase and decrease of, 201-2; exportation and importation of, 268; in foreign trade, 298; movements of the, 267-8, 313-17; not indispensable to trade, 318; price of, 171-5, 200; steadiness of price of, 313-14; taxes on exportation of, 380, 382; in Utopia, xxxvi, 191-2; value of, compared with corn, x, 179; value of, reason for, 4023; variation in value of, 36-7, 45-6; effect of variation on rents, 38; as wealth, 319-30

Precious Stones, prices of, x, 176-7, 178, 179; reason for high prices of, iii, 88; in Utopia, xxxvi, 191-3, 199-200

Precious Things, David on, xli, 497; for those that prize them, xvii, n

Precision, excessive, v, 210

Precocity, Bacon on, iii, 105

Preconception, Seneca on, xlviii, 121 note 5

Predecessors, the memory of, iii, 31

Predestination, St. Augustine on, vii, 47; Browne on, iii, 262, 308-9; Calvin on, xxxix, 49-50; Dante on, xx, 373; Hume on doctrine of, xxxvii, 368-70; Jansenist doctrine of, xlviii, 7; Omar Khayyam on, xli, 954, 955

Predicaments, of Aristotle, St. Augustine on, vii, 59-60; sons of Ens, iv, 22

Predictions (see Prophecies)

Pre-existence, Augustine, St., on, vii, 9; Cicero on proofs of, ix, 73-4; Lessing on, xxxii, 205-6; Socrates on, ii, 63-8; Wordsworth on intimations of, xli, 595-600

Prefaces, Hugo on, xxxix, 337-8; remarks on, 3; to speeches, a waste of time, iii, 63

PREFACES TO FAMOUS BOOKS, xxxix

Prejudice, Burke on, xxiv, 223-4; fatal to a critic, xxvii, 213; Pascal on, xlviii, 42 (98); in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 291; Tennyson on, xlii, 999

Prelates, and kings, iii, 51

Premium, Mr., in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 143; Sir Oliver Surface as, 149, 153-60

Premiums, for encouragement of industry, x, 387-8

Premunire, defined, xlvii, 877 note

PREPARATIONS, a poem, xl, 198-9

Prepotency, in animals, xi, 314; instances of, 306

Presage, defined, xxxiv, 381-2

Presbyter, is but priest writ large, iv, 81

Presbyterianism, Franklin on, i, 76-7; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 81-2

Prescott, Mill on, xxv, 77, 78

Prescription, rights by, Burke on, xxiv, 285-6

Present, the, alone can be lost, ii, 203 (14); Emerson on the, v, 20; Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 320; Longfellow on the, xlii, 1265; Omar Khayyam on enjoyment of the, xli, 945, 946, 947, 954; Pascal on the, xlviii, 355; Pascal on neglect of the, 64 (172); a point in eternity, ii, 239 (36); Raleigh on the, xxxix, 89; represents all eternity, ii, 239 (37), 259 (36); Shakespeare on the, xl, 262, 264; Thoreau on the, xxviii, 423-4; use of the, ii, 205 (i), 210 (14), 214 (17), 216-17 (26)

PRESENT IN ABSENCE, xl, 313

PRESENT CRISIS, THE, xlii, 1370-3

Presents, defined by Stella, xxvii, 127-8 (see also Gifts)

Presidency, price of the, v, 88

Press, liberty and licentiousness of the, xxvii, 245-6; Franklin on liberty of, i, 92-3; Mill on liberty of the, xxv, 210-49; pious editor's idea of liberty of, xlii, 1374; liberty of, in U. S., xliii, 194 (i); Mill on writing for, xxv, 55

Pressure, effect of, on temperature, xxx, 233

Preston, Captain, xxxiii, 303, 311, 316, 324

Presumption, of mankind, Smith on, x, 109; Pascal on, xlviii, 79 (214)

Presumption, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 42, 216-17

Pretas, xlv, 863 note 2

Pretences, Cicero on, ix, 39-40; Raleigh on, xxxix, 70

Pretexts, Thackeray on, xxviii, ii

Pretino, II, xxxi, 157 note 5

Pretty, Francis, DRAKE'S VOYAGE, xxxiii, 199-224

PRETTY PEG, vi, 500

Prevention, better than cure, i, 348 (304)

Priam, Burke on, xxiv, 127; character of, xiii, 20; death of, 119; in sack of Troy, 117-18; Shakespeare on death of, xlvi, 137; visit to Arcadia, xiii, 273

Priam, grandson of King Priam, xiii, 196

President of United States, xliii, 186-9; duties and powers, 188-9; election, early method, 187 (2, 3); election, amended method of, 196-7; impeachment of, 182 (6), 189 (4); his part in legislation, 183-4; Lincoln on duty of, 321; oath, 188 (7); qualifications, 1878 (4); removal or death of, 188 (5); salary, 188 (6); term of, 186 (i); veto power of, 183-4

Price, Dr. Richard, Burke on, xxiv, 150-71, 191, 193-4, 202-4

Price, Thomas, xxxii, 138

Price, everything has its, v, 96

Prices, of agricultural products, x, 12; of bread and meat, 151-2, 154-5; bounties, their effect on, 378-9, 383; of cattle, 183-4; of clothing, 203-7; of coal and wood, 169-71; of commodities made by employments, 119-20; comparative, of food and materials, 178-80; component parts of, 48-55; of dairy produce, 190-1; as dependent on wages and profits, 99-100; in England (1772), i, 304; of fish, x, 199-200; of hogs, 189; of limited or uncertain products, 192-202; of manufactures, as affected by progress, 202-7; of meat, as dependent on price of hides, 198; of metals, 172-6, 200-2; of metal manufactures, 202-3; natural and market, 55-65; of necessaries in relation to wages, 75-6, 84-5, 87-8; paper currency, its effect on, 252; of poultry, 188-9; f precious stones, 1767; of produce determine progress of cultivation, 192; of produce, effect on rents, 207-8; of producible things, 183-92; progress of society, its effect on, 180-207; real and nominal, 34-47; regulated by corn, 379; regulation of, by law, 145-6; rent and, relations of, 149; scarcity, 181-2; taxes on consumption, in relation to, 520-1; variations in, 118-19; of venison, 187-8; of wool and hides, 193-8 (see also Values)

Pridam le Noire, xxxv, 164-5; bis fight with Sir Bors, 165-6

Pride, Augustine, St., on temptations of, vii, 191-2; Browne on, iii, 321-2; Burke on, v, 94; Confucius on, xliv, 26 (n); folly of, vii, 211; fosterer of inequality, xxxvi, 239; Franklin on, i, 88; Hunt on, xxvii, 291; instances of, given by Dante, xx, 191-2; Jesus on, xliv, 393 (n), 401 (14); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 278 (10), 299-300

(27); Mohammed on, xlv, 916; Pascal on human, xlviii, 131 (405-7); i, 3235; provokes envy, iii, 25; punishment of, in Purgatory, xx, 186-90; results of, xxxiv, 353; the sin, in FAUSTUS, xix, 227; Sophocles on, viii, 235; Tennyson on, xlii, 1023; virtue and, xl, 419-20; in one's virtues, ii, 177-8 (176); womanly, xl, 250-1; Woolman on, i, 274

Pride of Life, daughter of Adam, xv, 73

PRIDE OF YOUTH, xli, 746-7

Priestley, Huxley on, xxviii, 209; Lowell on, 458-9

Priestman, Thomas, i, 313

Priests, actors and, xix, 29-30; Buddhist, ordination of, xlv, 740-7; Caxton's tale of two, xxxix, 17-18; Chaucer on, xl, 25; Dryden on satires of, xxxix, 164-5; Emerson on, v, 33-40; false, Shelley on, xviii, 302; Kempis on qualities of, vii, 345-6, 355 (6, 7); Luther on, xxxvi, 266, 267, 269, 333-4, 354-5, 357-8; marriage of, Calvin on, xxxix, 38; marriage of, Luther on, xxxvi, 302-5; Pascal on, xlviii, 307 (885); punishments of, xxxvi, 307-8 note; Quaker attitude toward, xxxiv, 70; in Utopia, xxxvi, 231-2, 234-5; Whitman on, xxxix, 407

Primal Four, the, xix, 55

Primary Qualities, xxxvii, 206-7, 210-11

Primary Schools, origin of, xxviii, 366-7

Primaticcio, Francesco (II Bologna), xxxi, 301 note, 309-12, 314, 318, 324

Prime, the, in Low Countries, iii, 137

Primogeniture, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 410; Johnson on, v, 414; Pascal on, xlviii, 103 (291), in (320)

Primum Mobile, iii, 37 note

Prince, etymology of word, xxxv, 217

PRINCE, THE, Machiavelli's, xxxvi, 5-86; editorial remarks on, 3; Garnett on, 34; influence of, xxvii, 363-4; Macaulay on, 365, 394-5

PRINCE AND THE GHULEH, THE, xvi, 35-6

Prince Rupert's Drops, xxx, 29 note 9

Prince of Wales, title of heir of England, xxxv, 217

Princes, need of adaptability in, xxxvi, 81-2; clemency and cruelty, 54, 55-6; counsellors of, 77-8; Duke Chon on, xliv, 63 (10); expedients of, for security, xxxvi, 68-72; faith of, 57; flatterers of, 76-7; Goldsmith on, xli, 510; liberality and miserliness in, xxxvi, 52-4; duty of, in military affairs. 48-50, 68-9, 71-2; More on, 140-1: Pliny on praise of, ix, 244; means of acquiring reputation, xxxvi, 71-5; secretaries of, 75-6; should avoid contempt and hatred, 59-67; should not depend on fortune, 80-1; should thev excite love or fear, 54-6; Tzu-kung on, xliv, 65 (20, 21); virtues and vices of, xxxvi, 50-1, 57-9; Webster on, xlvii, 775 (see also Kings, Rulers)

Princedoms, absolute and limited by nobility, xxxvi, 15-16; acquired by crimes, 29-32; acquired by fortune, 228; advantages of new, 78-9; arms in new, 68-9; arms and factions in mixed, 69-70; best friends in new, 70; civil, 33-5, 70-1; ecclesiastical, 38-40; hereditary, 7-8; military affairs of, 40-50, 68-9, 71-2; mixed, 8-19; new, acquired by merit, 19-22; the several kinds of, 7; strength of, 36-7

Principal and Agent, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 413-14

Principia, Newton's, Locke on, xxxvii, 166-7

PRINCIPIA, PREFACE TO NEWTON'S, xxxix, 150-2

Principles, assertorial, problematical, and apodictic, xxxii, 326; Emerson on, v, 83; Epictetus on, ii, 127 (30); Marcus Aurelius on, 210 (13), 212, 216 (16), 286 (5); Pascal on intuitive, xlviii, 99-100

Printing, Hobbes on invention of, xxxiv, 322

Printing-houses, Franklin on, i, 45 note

Prior, Matthew, poems by, xl, 396-8; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 147, 156

Prioress, Chaucer's, xl, 14-15; Dryden on, xxxix, 166

Priscian, in Dante's HELL, xx, 64

Priscilla, wife of Aquila, xliv, 462 (2-4), 463 (18), 464 (26)

Priscus, Cornelius, letters to, ix, 218, 247, 281, 307

Priscus, Javolenus, anecdote of, ix, 284

Priscus, Vibius, xxxv, 348

PRISONER OF CHILLON, xli, 801-11

Prisoners of War, in agreement with Mexico, xliii, 304-5

Prisons, Cellini in praise of, xxxi, 251-4; Emerson on, v, 56

Pritchard, Mrs., Hazlitt on, xxvii, 275

Privacy, Penn on, i, 349-50, 353

Private Property (see Property)

Privation, Burke on terror in, xxiv, 61

Privernus, death of, xiii, 312-13

PRO PATRIA MORI, xli, 817

Proaeresius, leader of Attic school, xxviii, 59; Hephaestion and, 53

Proairesis, Milton on, iii, 242 note

Probability, Hume on, xxxvii, 332-3, 3767; Pascal on doctrine of, xlviii, 312 (908), 314 (917-18, 920), 316 (922)

Probity, Franklin on usefulness of, i, 87

PROBLEM, THE, by Drummond, xl, 327-8

PROBLEM, THE, by Emerson, xlii, 1247-9

Problematical Principles, xxxii, 326

Probus, the soldiers and, iii, 41

Prochorus, xliv, 434 (5)

Procula, Serrana, Pliny on, ix, 201

Proclus, on beauty, v, 308; on God and the world, xxxix, 106; on the universe, v, 167, 176

Procopius, xxxii, 179 note 30, 180

Procrastination, Bentham on, xxvii, 243; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 12

Procris, in Homer's Hades, xxii, 153; in the Mournful Fields, xiii, 222

Proctophantasmist, in FAUST, xix, 180-1

Proculeius, Cleopatra and, xii, 382-3

Proculus, meaning of name of, xii, 156

Proculus, Vettius, ix, 340

Procurators, Roman, ix, 295 note 5

Prodicus of Ceos, ii, 7

Prodigal Son, parable of the, xliv, 395 (n-32)

Prodigality, Augustine, St., on, vii, 28; economically considered, x, 266-9; liberality and, i, 327-8; motives of, x, 269; public, 270; punishment of, in Dante's HELL, xx, 29, 47

Prodigies, Plutarch on, xii, 40-1

Prodius, character of, iii, 65

Production, bounties on, x, 385-6; consumption the object of, 424; on what dependent, 5-6, 271-2; improvement in, causes of, 9-26; improvement in, dependent on capital, 213; improvements in, effect on prices, 178-207; improvements in, raise rents, 207-8; effects of increase in, on wages, profits, and interest, 284; less important than intellectual improvement, xxviii, 3501; a means, not an end, 222; Mill on laws of, xxv, 152-3; taxes on, x, 486-8

Productive Labor, in agricultural system, x, 429-30; defined, 258; employment of capital is, 289-92; maintenance of, 259-60; proportion of, on what dependent, 261-5

Professions, competition in, unnaturally increased, x, 133-142; liberal, remuneration of, 102, 104, 107-9

Profitableness, Aurelius on, ii, 241 (45), 249 (53)

Profit(s), in by-employments, x, 120-1; capital and, 90, 96, 97; of city and country, 115; clear and gross, 98; as fixed by competition, 281; defined, 53; dependent on prices, 118; by what determined, 56; tendency of, to equality, 101 ; extraordinary, 61; effect of increase of commodities on, 284; effect of increase of money on rate of, 183-4; inequalities, natural, 103, 104-5, 107, 112-13; inequalities due to government interference, 121-46; as indicated by rate of interest, 90-6, 98-9; as affected by market fluctuations, 60-1; maximum of, 98-9; minimum of, 98; an element in natural price, 56-7; in new trades, 117; effect of high, on prices, 99-100; as affected by progress, 262-3; proportion in different employments, 64-5; of speculators, 116; of stock, as element in prices of commodities, 49-52; taxes on, 496-501; wages and, 113-14; of wholesale and retail trade, 113-16

Profusion, a source of grandeur, xxiv, 66 Progne, changed to swallow, xx, 179 note 4

Prognostics, Browne on, iii, 283; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 379, 381-2

Progress, dependent on art, xxxii, 231 et seq.; Emerson on, v, 149-60; Goethe on, xix, 354, 366, 367-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 119 (354), 120 (355); effect of, on landlords, capitalists, and wageearners, x, 207-11; effect on prices, 178-207; liberty necessary to, iii, 221 et seq.; Tennyson on, xlii, 985; due to wants, xxxiv, 177-8; of wealth, x, 545, 304-9

Progressive Development, Darwin on, xi, 217, 218-19; objection to law of, 209-10

Progressive State, effect of, on profits, x, 90; effect of, on wages, 71-3, 83

Prohibition, Mill on, xxv, 284-5; in United States, xliii, 198 (18)

Projects, Franklin on new, i, 125; imprudent, economically considered, x, 268-9; Penn on, i, 343

PROLOGUE, A, by Burns, vi, 260-1

PROLOGUE SPOKEN AT DUMFRIES, vi, 371-2

PROLOGUES TO FAMOUS BOOKS, xxxix

Promeneia, the priestess, xxxiii, 33

Prometheus, crime and punishment of, viii, 166-9; fi fe stolen by, 167 note, 170 note; Heracles and, 194, 198 note 63; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 376-7; lo and, viii, 188-9; Jve and, v, 92; lament of, viii, 169-71; marriage with Hesione, 178, 186-7; Mazzini on, xxxii, 395; with ocean nymphs, viii, 171-6; with Okeanos, 176-80; his services to man, 175-6, 182-4; type of human nature, iii, 16; Zeus and, viii, 193-4, 199-206

PROMETHEUS BOUND, viii, 166-206; editorial remarks on, 5; Voltaire on, xxxix, 364

Promises, of captives, fable of, xvii, 33-4; Descartes on, xxxiv, 22; of enemies, fable on, xvii, 29; Goethe on written, xix, 71; Kant on, xxxii, 314-15, 330, 333, 340; in law, xxxiv, 395-401; Marcus Aurelius on breaking, ii, 208 (7); Penn on, i, 340; of princes, xxxvi, 57-8; of princes, Beaumont on, xlvii, 669; Yu-tzu on, xliv, 6 (13)

Promissory Notes, as money, x, 251-3

PROMESSI SPOSI, I (see BETROTHED, THE)

Proofs, Hume on, xxxvii, 332 note, 376; Pascal on, xlviii, 20 (40)

Propagation (see Population)

Propensity, and inclination, xxxii, 336 note

Property, Burke on representation of, xxiv, 189-90; under democracy, xxviii, 453-4; denunciations of, their origin, 455-6; elective franchise based on, v, 241-2; xxviii, 453-4; Emerson on cares and uses of, v, 48-9, 50; Emerson on the institution of, 46-7, 242; Emerson on reforms of, 258-9; Emerson on wrongs of, 95; by gift or inheritance, 241; in labor, x, 124; in land, effect on wages, 67; Locke on, xxxiv, 205; Locke on love of, xxxvii, 85, 91; Lowell on rights of, xxviii, 463, 470; Mill on private, xxv, 143-4; More on system of, xxxvi, 166-8, 236-9; Pascal on private, xlviii, 105 (295); Pascal on rights of, 378-9; reliance on, is want of selfreliance; v, 82; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 198; Rousseau on origin of, 201-2, 208; Rousseau on effects of system, 210; secures private, U. S. Constitution, xliii, 194-5; weight of, in government, v, 243

Prophecies, Bacon on, iii, 90-3; Browne on, 297; Hume on, xxxvii, 392; not miracles, xlviii, 280-1; among Pagans; xxxiv, 380-2; Pascal on, xlviii, 214-19, 225-6, 231-59, 282-3; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 291

Prophesying, St. Paul on, xlv, 508 (1-6), 509 (22-5), 510 (37-9)

Prophets, armed and unarmed, xxxvi, 21; God's compact with the, xlv, 956 note; Lessing on Hebrew, xxxii, 189; Milton on Hebrew, iv, 404; not acceptable in own country, xliv, 364 (24)

Proportion, as cause of beauty, xxiv, 7585; Emerson on love of, v, 209-10; in works of art, xxiv, 87-9

Proportional Representation, xxv, 159-60, 185-6

Proprietors, in agricultural system, x, 428

Propriety, Tzu-hsia on, xliv, 64 (u); works on, xxvii, 162-3

PROPYLÆN, INTRODUCTION TO THE, xxxix, 251-66

Prose, in the drama, xxxix, 373-4; poetry and, Wordsworth on, 276-7; qualities of fit, xxviii, 82

Proserpine, Dis and, iv, 161; the moon called, xx, 42 note 9 (see also Persephone)

PROSERPINE, THE GARDEN OF, xlii, 1203-5

Prosopitis, island of, xxxiii, 26

Prosper, on idleness, xxxix, 14

Prosperity, Arabian verses on, xvi, 203; Bacon on, iii, 16; its dependence on virtue, xliii, 227; dependent on God, Xliv, 31O-II; ECCLESIASTES OH, 343 (14); excessive, punished by Nemesis, ix, 272 note; happiness and, i, 343, 344; Kempis on, vii, 228 (2), 267 (3), 268 (4); love and, iii, 27-8; Machiavelli on blindness of, xxxvi, 80; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 259 (33); Pascal on, xlviii, 47 (107), 354; Raleigh on, xxxix, 67, 96; religion and, iii, 44

Prospero, in THE TEMPEST, with Miranda, tells his story, xlvi, 399-405; with Ariel, 406-10; with Caliban, 410-13; with Ferdinand, 413-14; in scene of Ferdinand and Miranda, 432, 434, 435; plot against, 436-7; invisible at banquet, 440, 441, 442-3; betroths Miranda to Ferdinand, 443-8; in the conspiracy of Caliban, 448-50, 452; in final scene, 452-63; epilogue spoken by, 462-3

PROSPICE, by Browning, xlii, 1065

Prostitution, Bacon on, iii, 168-9; Blake on, xli, 589; in ancient Germany, xxxiii, 103-4; Luther on houses of, xxxvi, 333; punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 365-6

Protagoras, banishment of, xxxvii, 393; books burned in Athens, iii, 193; wealth of, x, 137

Protasius, the martyr, vii, 147

Protean Genera, xi, 56-7

Protective Duties, Smith on, x, 332-48; removal of, 348-50

Protectorate, The English (see INSTRUMENT OF GOVERNMENT)

Proteic Matter, formation of, xxxviii, 362

Protesilaus and Laodamia, xli, 663-7

Protestant Church, music of, xxxix, 417

Protestantism, Catholicism and, iii, 254-5 (3), 255-6 (5); Shelley on, xviii, 277 (see also Reformation)

Proteus, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 54-6; called Carpathian Wizard, iv, 67; Menelaus and, xxii, 56-60; Milton on, iv, 150; iii, 228; representative of, nature, v, 228

PROTHALAMION, Spenser's, xl, 229-34

PROUD WORD You NEVER SPOKE, xli, 899 Proudhon, not the first against property, xxviii, 455

Proverbs, Don Quixote on, xiv, 165; Emerson on, v, 93-4; law of compensation in, 94; Manzoni on, xxi, 74-5; the ready money of experience, xxviii, 438

Proverbs, Boo% of, paraphrase from, xxxix, 294-5

Providence, academics on, xxxix, 108; Browne on, iii, 265, 268-70; Calvin on, xxxix, 48-9; epic poetry requires belief in, xiii, 47; Epictetus on, ii, 126 (28), 129 (36), 134-5 (53), 157 : 8 (no), 162 (124), 185 (24); Franklin on, i, 6, 56, 77, 90; Hume on, xxxvii, 342-5, 399; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 200 (3), 333; More on, xxxvi, 227; Pascal on, xlviii, 331; Raleigh on, xxxix, 70-89, 98-103;

Washington on, xliii, 226; Woolman on, i, 176 Provinces, Machiavelli on acquired, xxxvi, 8-11, 18-19; arms in acquired, 69; factions in, 69

Provisions (see Food-supply) Proxenus, office of, xii, 116 note Prudence, Burns on, in enjoyment, vi, 319; Dante's allegory of, xx, 266 note 13; Dante's star of, 146 note 5; Emerson on, v, 57-8, 125, 156; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 320-1, 335-6, 351-2, 360, 387; Kant on imperatives of, xxxii, 327, 328-30; Kempis on, vii, 209; Locke on, xxxvii, 77; of speech, Burke on, xxiv, 149; Whitman on, xxxix, 403-6; in youth, Sheridan on, xviii, 141

Prudence, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 534, 228-30, 235-6

Prudentius, Walton on, xv, 356

Prusa, baths at, ix, 394-5

Prynne, on the drama, xxxiv, 153-4

PSALM, FIRST, PARAPHRASED, vi, 33

PSALM, NINETEENTH, VERSIFIED, vi, 33-4

PSALM cxiv, PARAPHRASE OF, iv, 15

PSALM cxxxvi, PARAPHRASE OF, iv, 15-18

PSALM FOR THE CHAPEL OF KILMARNOCK, vi, 336-7

PSALM OF LIFE, xlii, 1264-5

Psalm-singing, origin of, vii, 146-7

PSALMS, THE BOOK OF, xliv, 145-332; Augustine, St., on, vii, 142-3; editorial remarks on, xliv, 144; 1, 29; Esdras and, xlviii, 210; idea of God in, xxiv, 59; Herbert on, xv, 400; HYMNS based on, xlv, 535-40; Pascal on, xlviii, 194 (596); Sidney on, xxvii, 9; Smart on, xli, 487-98

Psammetichos, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 7-8, 18, 20, 76-9

Psammis, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 801

Psellus, Michael, xli, 686

Pseudo-Martyr, of Dr. Donne, xv, 324-40

Psyche, Cupid and, Milton on, iv, 71

PSYCHE, ODE TO, xli, 880-2

Psychology, future of, xi, 505

Ptolemy, and Gabinius, xii, 323, 324

Ptolemy Ceraunus, xii, 84 note

Ptolemy Epiphanes, xlviii, 249

Ptolemy Euergetes, xlviii, 249

Ptolemy Philadelphus, xlviii, 248

Ptolemy Philopator, xlviii, 249

Ptolemy Soter, xlviii, 248-9

Ptolemy, son of Abubus, xx, 139 note 5

Ptolomea, round of, in Hell, xx, 139 note 5

Public Affairs, boldness in, iii, 31-2

Public Buildings, in war (agreement with Mexico), xliii, 303

Public, flattery of the, not equal to truth, ix, 40-1; ingratitude of, xix, 177; Mill on the, xxv, 215 (see also People, Populace)

Public Debts, Burke on, xxiv, 243, 248, 288; Smith on, x, 549-64

Public Duties, Christianity and, xxv, 244

Public Education, Mill on, xxv, 302-3

Public Hospitals, idea of Thomas Bond, i, 116

Public Institutions, expence of, x, 452-67

Public Interests, in relation to landlords, capitalists, and wage-earners, x, 209-11

Public Lands, as source of revenue, x, 472-6

Public Libraries, Carlyle on, xxv, 374; proposed by Franklin, i, 67

Public Life, character in, v, 184-5; Epictetus on, ii, 160 (117); Penn on, i, 353

Public Measures, Franklin on, i, 125

Public Men, complaints of, iii, 25; Franklin on, i, 89

Public Office, Bacon on, iii, 28-31; Channing on, xxviii, 319; Cicero on conduct of, ix, 129; Confucius on, xliv, 43-4 (20), 48 (27); often held in contempt, ix, 37; Emerson on corruption in, v, 278-9; Franklin on holding, i, 107; in New Atlantis, iii, 148, 149; qualifications for, i, 354-7; xxiv, 188-9; Tzu-lu on, xliv, 62-3 (see also Officials)

Public Opinion, Emerson on independence of, v, 64, 65; Epictetus on dread of, ii, 171 (150), 174 (158), 176 (172); government by, xxviii, 468; improper field for, xxv, 279-80; Kempis on independence of, vii, 244-5; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 206-7 (4), 268 (18), 269 (27), 271 (34), 295 (4); Socrates on, 292 (23); Mill on, xxv, 157, 261, 264, 268; Pliny on weight of, ix, 306; Plutarch on desire of, xii, 245 and note; proper field of, xxv, 271-3, 279; Raleigh on, xxxix, 67, 69; Socrates on, ii, 33-4, 35-7; tyranny or, xxv, 199-202, 226-7; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 336

Public Ownership, objections to, xxv, 307-10

Public Peculators, in Dante's HELL, xx, 86, 89-90

Public Revenges, Bacon on, iii, 15

Public Schools, Locke on, xxxvii, 50-4

Public Service, in BODY OF LIBERTIES, xliii, 67

Public Spiritedness, Mill on, xxv, 66-7

Public Works, expence of, x, 452-7

Public Worship, Franklin on, i, 77; Penn on, 360 (473)

Publicans, xliv, 362 note 2

Publicola, at Actium, xii, 372, 373

Publilia, wife of Cicero, ix, 6, 79-80; xii, 252-3

Publius, Paul and, xliv, 484 (7-8)

Pucci, Antonio, xxxi, 212 note

Pucci, Roberto, xxxi, 114 note 4, 222

Puck, in FAUST, xix, 184, 190

Pudens, Servilius, legate to Pliny, ix, 366

PUERPERAL FEVER, CONTAGIOUSNESS OF, xxxviii, 223-54

Puerperal Fever, relations with erysipelas, xxxviii, 227, 240 note, 242, 249, 253-4; with other fevers, 249; Pasteur on, 375-8i

Puffendorf, on liberty, xxxiv, 218; works of, xxxvii, 157-8

Pugliano, John Pietro, xxvii, 5

Pulci, Luigi, xxxi, 63-8; Dry den on, xiii, 13; reference to, xxvii, 372

PULLEY, THE, by Herbert, xl, 345-6

Pulleys, power and velocity in, xxx, 182-3

Pulmonary Artery, Harvey on the, xxxviii, 70, 71, 80, 88-9, 91, 92-3, 97, 137, 138-9

Pulmonary Veins, uses of, xxxviii, 71-2, 88, 91, 137, 139

Pulse, Galen on the, xxxviii, 65; Harvey on the, 65-9, 77, 79-81, 87-8, 122, 128, 138

PULTENEY, CHARLOTTE, LINES TO, xl, 440-1

Puma, habits of the, xxix, 273-4; meat of the, 122

Punch, Emerson on London, v, 452, 471-2

Punctuality, Swift on, xxvii, 103

Punishment, of children, xxxvii, 34-43, 45-6, 60-4, 65-9, 93-4, 103; Confucius on, xliv, 7 (3); judicial, in Massachusetts, xliii, 72, 73 (46); Marshall on power of, 219-20; as means of association, xxv, 87-8; Montaigne on corporal, xxxii, 56

Punishments, cruel, forbidden in United States, xliii, 195 (8); prescribed, Winthrop on, 90-100, 101-2, 104-5

Punna, the slave-girl, xlv, 614-15

Punnavaddhana, xlv, 756

Punta Alta, remains at, xxix, 88-9

Purana, Taine on the Indian, xxxix, 412-13.

Purdie, Tom, description of, xxv, 431-2

Purgatory, Dante's visit to, xx, 145-284; gate of, guarded by St. Peter's angel, 8 note n; Luther on, xxxvi, 252, 253; Pascal on, xlviii, 169 (518), 339; of St. Patrick, xxxii, 177-8; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 115; Socrates's idea of, ii, 108-9

Purification, Dante on, xx, 231

Purist, in FAUST, xix, 185

Puritans, Defoe on the, xxvii, 135-6; editorial remarks on the, iv, 6; Emerson on the, v, 37; on secular music, vi, 17

Purity, Kempis on, vii, 242

PURITY, THE WAY OF, xlv, 702-4

Purpose, Epictetus on, in life, ii, 117-18 (2); lack of, 201 (7), 204 (16), 2067 (4); Marcus Aurelius on, 210 (14), 211 (2); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 153

Pursuits, Mohammed on ill-chosen, xlv, 916

Pursy, Mrs., in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 134

Purusha, xlv, 851

Purushottama, xlv, 859

Pus, due to bacteria, xxxviii, 256; Pasteur on microbe of, 369 (see also Suppuration)

Pusey, Edward B., translator of St. Augustine, vii

Pusillanimity, defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; why dishonorable, 365; irresolution and, 372

Putijma, the cacique, xxxiii, 368, 371

Putrefaction, cause of, xxxviii, 257

Putyma, lord of Aromaia, xxxiii, 350

Pygmalion, king of Tyre, xiii, 85; Dante on, xx, 228

Pygmies, war of, with cranes, iv, 101-2

Pylades, in THE LIBATION-BEARERS, viii, 113; Orestes and, vii, 50; ix, 18; Sidney on, xxvii, 10

Pyramids, of Egypt, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 63-5, 67, 68-9; Emerson on, xiii, 1248; Milton on, iv, 105

Pyramus, and Thisbe, xx, 255

Pyrgo, the nurse, xiii, 199

Pyrilampes, and Pericles, xii, 51

Pyriphlegethon, Homer on the, xxii, 143; Plato on, ii, 108, 109

Pyrrha, and Deucalion, iv, 319

Pyrrhic Dance, Byron on the, xii, 814

Pyrrhonism, Carlyle on, xxv, 341; Hume on, xxxvii, 415-16; of Montaigne, xlviii, 389-90

Pyrrhus, king of Epirus, Appius's speech against, ix, 51; Cicero on, 20; in Dante's HELL, xx, 52; Decius on, ix, 60; called Epirot prince, xx, 306 note n; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 17; Pascal on, xlviii, 54; surnamed the Eagle, xii, 84 note

Pyrrhus, son of Achilles, Andromache and, xiii, 138-9; Chaucer on, xl, 49; Homer on (Neoptolemus), xxii, 157; Priam killed by, xiii, 118-19; Priam and, Shakespeare on, xlvi, 137-9; slain by Orestes, xiii, 139; in Trojan horse, 108; in sack of Troy, 116-17

Pythagoras, Dandini on, v, 268; Emerson on, 66, 177; Golden Verses of, i, 81; on guardian spirits, iii, 284 (33); Hugo on, xxxix, 343; on life, xxxii, 46; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 241 (47); proverb of, iii, 68; school of, 244; Sidney on, xxvii, 7; on the soul, ix, 73; on suicide, 71

Pythagoreans, custom of the, xxxix, 523; alleged debt to British philosophy, iii, 222; on the stars, ii, 293 (27)

Pytheas, the orator, Antipater and, xii, 213; on Demosthenes, 197

Pythian Lord, Apollo called the, viii, 26

Pythoclides, teacher of Pericles, xii, 38

Python, the Byzantine, xii, 197

Python, the serpent, Milton on, iv, 304

Q

Qarun, xlv, 932

QUA CURSUM VENTUS, xiii, 1121-2

Quadians, M. Aurel s Antoninus' war with, ii, 304, 307-8; Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 116

Quadratilla, Numidia, Pliny on, ix, 309-10

Quadratus, Numidius, Pliny on, ix, 283, 309-10

Quagga, descent of the, xi, 163-5

Quail, falling sickness of, xxxv, 334

Quakers, attitude of, toward lotteries, i, 108, 243-4; attitude of, toward war, 107-10, 190-2, 217-20; duty toward unwise laws, 282; in England, 305; epistle of (1759), 230-4; Folger on persecution of, 9; in French and Indian War, 220-1; history of, xxxiv, 71-8; Lamb on, xii, 736; principles of, i, 227; settlements of, in America, 2301 ; shifts to support their principles, 109-10; slavery and, 168, 206-7, 289, 212, 224-5, 229, 251, 273; Smith on decline of, 272; Voltaire on doctrines of, xxxiv, 65-71 (see also Woolman, Penn)

Qualities, of Hinduism, xlv, 853-6, 870-1; primary and secondary, xxxvii, 206-7, 210-11, 411-12

Quarles, Francis, AN ECSTASY, xl, 341

Quarrels, causes of, xxxiv, 389; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109

Quasir, god of poetry, xlix, 401 note

Quatrefages, M., on hybrids, xi, 291

Queens, Bacon on, iii, 50; Confucius on, xliv, 57

QUEEN'S RETURN FROM Low COUNTRIES, xl, 358

Queintanonina, Lady, Don Quixote on, xiv, 490

Quesnai, Mr., on agricultural system, x, 437-8, 443

Questions, Bacon on habit of asking, iii, 83-4; Buddha on useless, xlv, 647-52; of children, xxxvii, 104, 105-7; Stevenson on, xxviii, 282; sudden, iii, 59

Quiescence, Buddha on, xlv, 705

Quillota, Chili, Darwin on, xxix, 259

Quinault, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 145

Quintilian, on the body in speaking, ix, 226 note; Mill on, xxv, 19; teacher of Pliny, ix, 185

Quintius, Titus, conqueror of Macedon, xxxvi, 79; Milton on, iv, 383

Quirinius, governor of Syria, xliv, 357 (2)

Quinquina, earthquake at, xxix, 306-13

Quixada, Guttierre, xiv, 490

Quotations, Cervantes on, xiv, 6-9; Locke on, xxxvii, 150-1; Montaigne on, xxxii, 30-1

R

Rabaud, M., on National Assembly, xxiv, 300 note

RABBI BEN EZRA, xiii, 1103-8

Rabbinism, chronology of, xlviii, 211

Rabbits, descent of, xi, 33; in Falkland Islands, xxix, 197-8

Rabelais, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279; Hugo on, xxxix, 351; language of, 374; Montaigne on, xxxii, 89; Morris-Dance of Heretics, iii, 12; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 105, 129; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 148

Rabirius Posthumus, his desire for riches, iii, 88

Race, the, is not to the swift, xliv, 346 (11)

Race, blood relationship, as tested by, xxviii, 242-3, 245-51; counteracting forces to, v, 338-9; Emerson on influence of, 337-8; extension of ties of, xxviii, 272-3; language and, editor's remarks on, 1, 19; language not a proof of, xxviii, 235-40; language a practical test of, 252-73; language as a presumption of, 239-46; meaning of word, 226; not a fixed thing, v, 339; sentiment of, its growing importance, xxviii, 227-34;

Taine on, xxxix, 422-3 (see also Races)

RACE AND LANGUAGE, Freeman's, xxviii, 225-73

Race, Cape, Hayes on, xxxiii, 287

Races, Emerson on human, v, 336; origin of, xxviii, 245-9; political divisions and, 252-3; Taine on differences of, xxxix, 419-32

Rachel, in Dante's Limbo, xx, n, 18; in Dante's PARADISE, 420; Milton on, iv, 28; references to, xxvii, 321-2; xlii, 1277; type of contemplative life, xx, 256 note 4

Racine, Jean Baptiste, Hugo on, xxxix, 363, 370-2; Hugo on Athalie of, 354; Hume on Athalia of, xxvii, 221; life and works, xxvi, 132; PH.EDRA, 133-96; Sainte-Beuve on Athalie of, xxxii, 1256; Taine on, xxxix, 412

Radcliffe, Dr., on electric fish, xi, 189

Radicalism, Emerson on, v, 264

Raffael (see Raphael)

Rafinesque, on species, xi, 12

RAGAMUFFINS, THE PACK OF, xvii, 64-5

Rage, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 353

RAGING FORTUNE, a fragment, vi, 36

Rahab, in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 323; lies of, xv, 260

Raillery, in conversation, xviii, 120; Locke on, xxxvii, 122; Swift on, xxvii, 95

Raimbaud, Dante on, xx, 362 note 4

Rainbow, cause of the, xxxiv, 122; the first, iv, 340-1; lesson of the, xv, 235

RAINY DAY, THE, xlii, 1273-4

Rajas, xlv, 853, 863, 865, 868-70

Rakshasas, xlv, 863 note

Raleigh, Sir Walter, colony of, xxxiii, 226-7, 257; DISCOVERY OF GUIANA, 301-80; dream of Eldorado, x, 403; Emerson on, v, 183; Gilbert and, xxxiii, 262, 273-4; His PILGRIMAGE, xl, 203-4; Jonson on, xxvii, 56; language of, xxxix, 196; life and works, xxxiii, 300; xxxix, 66 note; THE LIE, xl, 204-6; PREFACE TO HISTORY OF WORLD, xxxix, 66-115; editor's remarks on PREFACE, 3; 1, 23, 30; REPLY TO MARLOWE'S PASSIONATE SHEPHERD, xl, 254-5; St. Joseph captured by, xxxiii, 315; Spenser's letter to, xxxix, 61-5; Trinidad explored by, xxxiii, 311-12; VERSES, xl, 207; WHAT is OUR LIFE, 207

Ralph, in FAUSTUS, xix, 233-6

Ralph, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, sent to the wars, xlvii, 473-6; his return, 498-9; at Lord Mayor's, 503-4; reported dead, 507-8; at Hodge's shop, 510-11; with wife's shoe, 511-13; stops Hammon's wedding, 521-2; reunited to Jane, 522-4; mistaken for Rowland, 525; at Lord Mayor's dinner, 529, 535

Ralph, James, i, 37-9, 39-40, 41-2, 43-4, 49, 150

Rama, teachings of, xlv, 719

Ramath-lechi, Samson at, iv, 418

Ramayana, The, remarks on, xiv, 784

Ramazan, reference to, xli, 955

Rambler, Johnson's, xxvii, 154

Ram-Dass, Carlyle on, xxv, 405-6

Ramiel, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 213

Rammaka, monastery of, xlv, 714

Ramsay, Sir Andrew Crombie, on the cuckoo, xi, 261; on degradation, 322; on faults, 323-4

Ramsay, Allan, PEGGY, xl, 401; Burns on, vi, 16, 81, 87, 410

Ramuzzini, on diseases of overwork, x, 83

Ran, the goddess, xlix, 286 note

Rand, and the adder, v, 276

RANDOLPH OF ROANOKE, xlii, 1341-4

Randver, son of Jormunrek, xlix, 354, 418, 427 note

Rank(s), Channing on, xxviii, 343-4; is but the guinea's stamp, vi, 511; not inconsistent with liberty, iv, 200; Pascal on, xlviii, 378-80, 382; without bounty, xliv, 12 (26)

RANKINE, JOHN, EPISTLE TO, vi, 53-5

RANKINE, JOHN, EPITAPH ON, vi, 59-60

RANKINE, JOHN, REPLY TO ANNOUNCEMENT OF, vi, 53

Ranse, James, xxxiii, 133-5, 143

RANTIN' DOG, THE, vi, 182-3

RANTIN', ROVIN* ROBIN, vi, 92-3

Ranulph, of Chester, xxxv, 231

Rapacity, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 54, 59

Raphael, the archangel, in FAUST, xix, 18; in PARADISE LOST, iv, 180-260

Raphael, the painter, accused of immorality, xxvii, 357; Agostino Chigi and, xxxi, 34 note 4; Andrea del Sarto and, xlii, 1090; Emerson on, v, 181; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; II Fattore and, xxxi, 34 note 3; Madonnas of, xlii, 1094-5; sonnets of, 1094-6

Rapture, David on, xli, 491; so deep, its ecstasy was pain, xix, 16

RAPUNZEL, story of, xvii, 66-9

Rare Things, Penn on, i, 329 (69)

Rarity, forerunner of extinction, xxix, 181

Rashness, belongs to youth, ix, 52; Emerson on, v, no; Penn on, i, 334 (119)

RASSELAS, Johnson's, xxvii, 154

Rastall, Judge, Walton on, xv, 323

Rastelli, Giacomo, xxxi, 96 note 3

Rat, Brander's song of the, xix, 87

Rational, term, ii, 277 (8)

Rational Soul, Marcus Aurelius on the, ii, 285 (i)

Rationalism, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 289-92

Rats, range of, xi, 146

Ratsey, Gamaliel, xlvii, 547 note 19

Rattlesnakes, Dana on, xxiii, 153-4; Darwin on, xi, 202-3

RATTLIN' ROARIN' WILLIE, vi, 256

Raulin, Jules, xxxviii, 359 note

RAVEN, THE, by Poe, xlii, 1227-30

Ravenna, battle of, Macaulay on, xxvii, 393; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 85

Ravens, Epictetus on, ii, 134-5 (53); Harrison on, xxxv, 339

RAVENS, THE THREE, xl, 73-4

RAVENS, THE SEVEN, xvii, 107-9

Ravillac, murderer of Henry IV, iii, 98

RAVING WINDS AROUND HER BLOWING, vi, 299

Ravishment, divine enchanting, iv, 51

Rawley, Dr., Bacon's literary executor, iii, 144

Reaction, in human affairs, v, 283-5 (see also Polarity)

Read, Rebecca, first marriage of, i, 50; Franklin and, 25, 28, 36, 39, 42, 66, 76

Readers, of poetry, three classes of, xiii, 58-9

Reading, Bacon on, iii, 122-3; Carlyle on, xxv, 364, 373; Channing on, xxviii, 337-8; for children, xxxvii, 131-3; choice of, xxviii, 99-100; Confucius on, xliv, 19 (ii), 21 (25), 39 (15); Emerson on our, v, 68-9; Emerson on right, n; Epictetus on, ii, 170 (145); folly of trying to limit, iii, 199-205; for girls, xxviii, 150-2; Kempis on, vii, 210; Locke on instruction in, xxxvii, 128-31; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 194 (7); Milton on, iv, 403; Newman on education by, xxviii, 31-2, 33-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 26 (69); Pliny on, ix, 303; power given by, xxviii, 135-6; preparation for, 99-100; proper method of, 101-13; true, impossible under modern conditions, 116 (see also Books)

Ready-to-halt, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 174, 276, 284, 288, 312, 313

Ready-writing, Carlyle on, xxv, 443-7; Dryden on, xxxix, 156

Real Existence, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 193-257, 264-8, 270-85; Buddhist denial of, xlv, 657-8, 661; Descartes on, xxxiv, 29; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 343 (24); Emerson on, v, 99-100; Hume on evidences of, xxxvii, 306-18, 324, 3301, 409, 414-15, 419; Montaigne on, xlviii, 389-92; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 244; Schiller on, xxxii, 239-40; Socrates on, ii, 90-6

Real Presence, Pascal on, xlviii, 301-2; Tillotson on, xxxvii, 375

Realist, in FAUST, xix, 188

REALITIES OF IMAGINATION, Hunt's, xxvii, 289-95

Reality, alone beautiful, v, 301-2; in art, Hugo on, xxxix, 366-7

REAPER, THE SOLITARY, xli, 654-5

Reason, in animals, Darwin on, xi, 251; in animals, Descartes on, xxxiv, 46-8; of animals, Hume on, xxxvii, 371-4; Bacon on the, iii, 8; Boileau on human, xxxiv, 142-3; Browne on the, iii, 257, 264-5, 36; Burke on standards of, xxiv, n; Calderon on the, xxvi, 56; Carlyle on, xxv, 323-4; Che"nier on, xxxii, 125; in criticism of art, xxvii, 215; Dante on, xx, 218; Descartes on conduct of the, xxxiv, 5-6, 17-20; Descartes on equal distribution of, 5-6; direct and indirect interests of, xxxii, 370 note; discursive and intuitive, iv, 193; Epictetus on, ii, 118 (6), 128 (33), 129 (37), 137 (59), 169 (144); experience and, xxxvii, 322 note; faith and, Browne on, iii, 261, 271-2; faith and, Kempis on, vii, 364 (4, 5); faith and, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 107; Franklin on, i, 35; Goethe on, xix, 76; habit and, xxxvii, 92; happiness in obedience to, ii, 201 (8), 207 (4), 208 (6, 7), 210 (12), 221 (51); Helmholtz on the, xxx, 175; Hobbes saying on, xxv, 100; Hume on objects of, xxxvii, 306; imagination and, xxvii, 350-3; xlviii, 35-7; instinct and, Pascal on, 117 (344); instinct and, Pope on, xl, 4256; Kant on faculty of, xxxii, 361-2; Kant on purposes of, 307-8; Kempis on natural, vii, 326 (2); limits of practical, xxxii, 368-9, 373; Locke on the, xxxvii, 107; love and, xlviii, 419; man's misuse of, xix, 19; Marcus Aurelius on the, ii, 210 (15), 211 (i), 214 (13, 16), 216 (22), 226 (10), 227 (14), 228 (16), 229 (27), 238 (35), 267 (10), 278 (12), 282 (33), 284 (38); Milton on, iv, 269; Montaigne on the, xlviii, 392-3; morality from, xxxii, 316-17, 319-21, 323; More on the, xxxvi, 197; "our affections' king," xl, 294; Pascal on, xlviii, 32-3, 35, 118 (345); the passions and, xxiv, 40; xxxiv, 177; xlviii, 133 (412-13); Penn on, i, 385-6; pity and, xxxiv, 190; in poetry, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 125; Pope on, xl, 417, 420; possibility of pure, practical, xxxii, 371-2; the province of, xlviii, 439-42; Raleigh on, xxxix, 99, in note; in religion, xxxii, J 93 (37) 201-3; in religion, Pascal on, xlviii, 81 (226), 84, 91 (245), 93 (252-3), 94 (259), 95 (260), 96 (263), 97 (267, 270, 272), 98 (273-82), 184 (561), 185 (563), 311 (903); in religion, Raleigh on, xxxix, no-n; in religion, Renan on, xxxii, 181; Rochester on, xxxiv, 143-4; Schiller on the, xxxii, 276-7; Shelley on, xxvii, 329, 351; sensation and, Schiller on, xxxii, 243-9; the senses and, Pascal on, xlviii, 39 (83); senses do not limit, xxxiv, 32; sentiment and, xxxvii, 293; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 175; in sleep, St. Augustine on the, vii, 182; speech and, xxxiv, 327; "what a wretched aid," xviii, 93; will and, xxxii, 324

Reasoning, from analogy, xxxvii, 371, 374 (7); Bacon on, in matters of fact, xxxix, 130, 133-4, 136, 144-5; Buddha on, xlv, 731; with children, xxxvii, 64, 83, 89-90; difference in powers of, 373 note; different kinds of, 332 note; ends of, xxxiv, 346-8; feeling and, xlviii, 11-12; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 330; Hume on accurate, xxxvii, 293-5, 412-15; Hume on demonstrative, 306, 314, 413, 418-19; Hume on, in matters of fact, 306-18, 320-2, 323-4, 331, 372-4, 376-8, 415, 419-20; Locke on, 159; Pascal on, xlviii, 404-7; Raleigh on, in matters of fact, xxxix, 100; Socrates on, ii, 83

Rebbye, Sir Ralph, xl, 99

Rebecca, in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 419

Rebellion, a capital crime in early Massachusetts, xliii, 81; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 403-4; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 9; Penn on, i, 339 (178); punishment of, in United States, xliii, 197

Rebellions, Bacon on, iii, 36-42

Rebels, the vanquished only are, xxvi, 69

Rebirth, Buddhist doctrine of, xlv, 677-84, 738; Hindu doctrine of, 817, 8234, 854, 862; old belief in, xlix, 367

Rebours, M., xlviii, 322

Recalcati, Ambrogio, xxxi, 145 note 5

Recklessness, Confucius on, xliv, 22 (10); Locke on, xxxvii, 95-6

Recollection, Augustine, St., on, vii, 166-74; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 319-20; knowledge as, ii, 63-8; of sorrow pleasant, ix, 103

RECOLLECTION, THE, by Shelley, xli, 845-7

Recombes, Louis de, xxxv, 43

Recommendations, Diogenes on, ii, 136 (57)

Recompense, Jesus on, xliv, 393 (12-14)

Reconstruction, Johnson's plan of, xliii, 428-31; Lincoln's plan of, 416 note

Recreation, labor as, xxxvii, 175-7 (see also Diversion)

Recreations, of children, xxxvii, 89-90, in, 171

Rectitude, beauty and power from, v, 281; a perpetual victory, 188; Pliny on doubtful, ix, 203

RECUYELL OF HISTORIES OF TROY, xxxix, 5-9

RED, RED ROSE, vi, 482-3

Red River, sediment of, xxxviii, 402-3

Red Rowan, in KINMONT WILLIE, xl, 113

Red Sea, origin of name, xxix, 24; passage of the, xliv, 278 (9), 317 (13-15); Milton on passage of the, iv, 16-17, 95-6, 346-7; Mohammed on passage of, xlv, 904; Pascal on passage of, xlviii, 214-15, 224

RED SHOES, THE, xvii, 329-34

Redemption, Dante on human, xx, 311-14; Pascal on types of, xlviii, 271 (781); typified by Red Sea, 214-15, 224

Reding, Itel, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 413-28

Redman, Sir Matthew, at Otterburn, xxxv, 92; Lindsay and, 94-5, 97

Redman, Mercy, i, 242, 246, 248

Redress, for every wrong, xviii, 311

REED AND TREE, fable of, xvii, 26

REEDS OF INNOCENCE, xli, 584-5

Reefs, coral, Darwin on, xxix, 469-83; as showing areas of subsidence, 483-4

Rees, William, xxxii, 138; on saints of Wales, 173

Reeve, Chaucer's, xl, 27-8; Dryden on Chaucer's, xxxix, 166

Refinement, Channing on, xxviii, 345-6 (see also Culture)

Reflection, Buddha on, xlv, 731; Epictetus on, ii, 159 (115); Goethe on, xxxix, 252; Locke on habit of, xxxvii, 152; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 251 (59); necessary to poets, xxxix, 297; Rousseau on faculty of, xxxiv, 245-7; Schiller on, xxxii, 280-1

Reform, Bacon's advice on, iii, 29; Bacon on popular, 46; Burke on methods of, xxiv, 301-3; Descartes on political, xxxiv, 14-15; destruction and, Burke on, xxiv, 290; false methods of opposing, xxvii, 225-51; innovation contrasted with, xxiv, 391; Lowell on, xxviii, 469-70; Lowell on opposition to, 458-9; More on, xxxvi, 142, 164-6; Tennyson on, xlii, 999-1001

Reform Bill, English, Emerson on, v, 364; Wordsworth on, 324

Reformation, Browne on the, iii, 253-4 (2), 255 (4); early attempts at, xxv, 222-3; in England, iii, 222-3; Hobbes on causes of the, xxxiv, 386-7; Lowell on the, xxviii, 456; LUTHER'S ARTICLES OF, xxxvi, 288-335; Luther's part in the, 246; James Mill on the, xxv, 32; Taine on the, xxxix, 432-3; Woolman on the, i, 277; works concerning the, 1, 23

REFORMATION IN SCOTLAND, PREFACE TO KNOX'S, xxxix, 58-60

REFORMER, MAN THE, v, 43-58

Reformers, Burke on, xxiv, 201; Emerson on, v, 258-9

REFORMERS, FALLACIES OF ANTI-, xxvii, 225-51

REFORMERS, NEW ENGLAND, v, 253-71

Regan, in KING LEAR, xlvi, 217; farewell to Cordelia, 223-4; plot against father, 224-5; at Gloucester's, 244-6, 247, 250; with father, 255-61; with Gloucester, 277-80; with Oswald, her love for Edmund, 289-90; with Edmund, before battle, 303-4; after battle, quarrel over Edmund, 308-9; her sickness, 309-10; poisoned by Goneril, 314-15; Ruskin on, xxviii, 139

Regelation of Ice, xxx, 233, 243-4

REGENCY BILL, ODE ON THE DEPARTED, vi, 332-4

REGIMENT OF HEALTH, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 81-2

Regin, the Lay of, xlix, 250; Sigurd and, 283-92; slaying of, 295-6

Regiomontanus, prophecy of, iii, 92 (see Mueller, John)

Registration Duties, x, 505-11

Regnault, on mechanical equivalent of heat, xxx, 199-200

Regnault's Apparatus, xxx, 189

Regnier, Mathurin, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 129

Regrets, Emerson on, v, 77

Regulus, Marcus, Aurelia and, ix, 229; Blaesus and, 229; Pliny on, 188-91, 207, 229, 249-51, 278-9; his son, 249-51; Verania and, 228

Regulus, Marcus Atilius, Bacon on, iii, 130; death of, ix, 72; Milton on, iv, 383

Rehoboam, Dante on, xx, 192

Reinauld, of Mount Alban, xiv, 19

Reincarnation, Lessing on, xxxii, 205-6

Relations, and friends, Cicero on, ix, 1516

Relations of Ideas, xxxvii, 306

Relaxation, Amasis on need of, xxxiii, 85-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 16 (24), 126 (380); sudden, effect of, xxiv, 118

Relevancy, in writing, Pliny on, ix, 271

Relics, Browne on, iii, 280 (28); Hume on, xxxvii, 329; Pascal on, xlviii, 290 (839), 335, 358

Reliefs, feudal, x, 506-7

RELIGIO MEDICI, Browne's, iii, 251-332; editorial remarks on, 1, 31 Religion, of ascetic natures, xxviii, 1713; on authority, Channing on, 342-3; on authority, Emerson on, v, 147-8; on authority, Lessing on, xxxii, 192-3; on authority, Mill on, xxv, 229-37; on authority, Milton on, iii, 218-20, 229; iv, 355; on authority, Pascal on, xlviii, 438-40; on authority, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 285-6; in authors, criticism of, xxvii, 220-1; Bacon on, iii, 42-6; Bentham on criticism of faults in, xxvii, 244; Browne on doubts in, iii, 257; Buddha on useless questions of, xlv, 647-52; Bunyan on, xv, 76-7, 83, 1069; Bunyan on backsliding in, 154-5; Burke on fear in, xxiv, 59; Burns on, vi, 138-9, 205; Carlyle on, xxv, 337-8, 366; changes in, iii, 137-8; xxxiv, 3847; Cowper on, xxxix, 295; decline of, v, 277-8, 280; determined by accident of birth, xxxiv, 284 note; duties of, 305; Emerson on, v, 27-8, 147-8, 197, 428-9; force in matters of, iii, 13-14; freedom of, in U. S., xliii, 194 (i); freedom of, Vane on, 121-2; of the future, Emerson on, v, 294-5; of the future, Lessing on, xxxii, 204-5; geography in, iii, 253 (2); Goethe on, xix, 150-1; Herbert on, music and, xv, 405-7; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 341, 376-87; Hume on revealed, xxxvii, 385; hypocrisy in, vi, 95-6; xxvi, 214-15; individualism and, v, 280; Mill on, xxv, 47-8, 148; Mill on dissenters in, 33-4; miracles in, xxxvii, 381-2, 385-6, 388-91; morality and, xiii, 30; xxv, 30-1; xxxvii, 399-400, 404-5; mysteries in, Browne on, iii, 259-60 (9, 10); Newman on teaching of, xxviii, 37-8; origin of, xxxiv, 375;

Pascal on, xlviii, 68, 91 (245), 93 (252), 95 (260), 97 (268), 98 (273-90), 156 (470), 181, 189 (574); Pascal on the true, 138 (430), 142 (433), 155 (468), 161 (487, 489, 491-4), 185 (565), 191 (585), 192, 196 (605), 197 (606), 282-3, 294 (844); Penn on, i, 359-67, 348; iii, 42; philosophy and, xxxiv, 107-8; poetry and, xxvii, 105; xxxix, 313-15; Raleigh on, 90, no-n; reason and, xxxii, 201-4; xxxvii, 395-9; xlviii, 81 (226), 84; Rousseau on natural, xxxiv, 280, 282-4, 289, 300-1; scepticism in, xlviii, 72-7, 82 (230); science and, iii, 271-3; xxx, 5; xxxix, 128; self-reliance in, v, 38-40; of sensuous natures, xxviii, 169-70; Shelley on, xxvii, 332; state, Burke on need of, xxiv, 228-35; Taine on, xxxix, 429, 430-1, 432-3; virtue the essence of, v, 26; wars of, xiii, 15; xxxiv, 85; Washington on, xliii, 242; Woolman on, i, 173-4; Woolman on unity in, 230

RELIGION, UNITY IN, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 11-14

Religion and Philosophy, reading course in, 1, 29-35

Religions, come from imaginative men, v, 177; the four, iii, 277 note 58; national, remarks on, v, 423; original, allegorical, xxvii, 332; of Utopia, xxxvi, 224-36; represent culture of votaries, v. 275-7

Religious Errors, origin of, v, 178

Religious Exercises, Kempis on, vii, 222-4

Religious Instruction, expense of, x, 464, 466; Locke on, xxxvii, 116, 132-3

Religious Liberty, Mill on, xxv, 202, 217-37, 242-6

Religious Life, Buddha on the, xlv, 651, 662-3, 671, 674; Kempis on a, vii, 220; Pascal on the, xlviii, 312 (906)

Religious Sympathy, Freeman on, xxviii, 230-1

Religious Teachers, compared with poets, xxvii, 333

Religious Tests, forbidden in U. S., xliii, 192 (3); Mill on, xxv, 223-5

Religious Writings, base tone of, v, 86

Religiousness, of act, speech and mind, xlv, 864-5

Rembrandt, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279

Remedies, fable on impossible, xvii, 38; Pascal on belief in, xlviii, 282

Remedy, things without, xlvi, 354

REMEMBER, by C. G. Rossetti, xiii, 1182

Remembrance, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 320; rosemary for, xlvi, 182

Remonstrances, Cicero on, ix, 39

Remorse, Byron on, xviii, 439; Shelley on, 337

REMORSE: A FRAGMENT, vi, 49-50

REMORSEFUL APOLOGY, vi, 479

Remulus, and Caedicus, xiii, 305; death of, 378

Remus, the Latian, killed by Nisus, xiii, 304

Remus, twin of Romulus, Virgil on, xiii, 82-3, 289

Renaissance, Huxley on the, xxviii, 217, 219; in Italy, xxvii, 369-72; Taine on the, xxxix, 427; works of and concerning the, 1, 23-4, 26-7

Renan, Ernest, life and works, xxxii, 136; POETRY OF CELTIC RACES, 137-82

Rendu, Pere, on glaciers, xxx, 231

Renfusa, city of New Atlantis, iii, 153

Rengger, on cattle in Paraguay, xi, 81

Reni, Guido, Raphael's sonnets and, xiii, 1094-5 (see a l so Guido)

Renous, the German collector, xxix, 272

Rent(s), in agricultural system, x, 428, 429; building and ground, 488-9; Burke on, xxiv, 293; of coal mines, x, 169, 171; considered as produce of nature, 290-1; corn, 39-40; corn, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 249; defined, x, 53; by what determined, 56; extraordinary, 62; of forests, 169-70; gross and neat, 223-4; of houses, taxes on, 488-95; in kind, Pliny on, ix, 355; of land, by what determined in general, x, 147-9; of land cultivated for food, 149-65, 177; of land used to produce materials, 165-8, 177; of land, taxes on, 479-86; market prices, their effect on, 60; of metallic mines, 171-5; money, affected by variation of value of gold, 38; of precious stone mines, 176-7; prices and, relations between, 149; prices of commodities, as determined by, 50; profits and wages, confounded with, 54; progress of society in relation to, 208, 262; taxes on, 479-86, 488-95; taxes on, when best paid, 477 (3)

RENTON, MR., NOTE TO, vi, 269

Renty, Sir Oudart of, at Poitiers, xxxv, 48-9

Renunciation, Buddha on, xlv, 594; Emerson on, v, 27; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 799, 809, 813, 847, 866; Kempis on, vii, 296 (i); Pascal on, xlviii, 89 (240)

RENUNCIATION, A, by De Vere, xl, 289

Renzo Tramaglino (see Tramaglino)

Reparation, Penn on, i, 334-5

Repentance, Calvin on, xxxix, 49-50; Cenci on, xviii, 321; Jesus on, xliv, 394 (7), 395 (10), 398 (3-4); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 255 (10); Raleigh on, xxxix, 81; time for, xv, 262

Repetition, Burke on effects of, xxiv, 623, 70; Darwin on effects of, xxix, 321; Pascal on, xlviii, 22 (48); sublimity of, its cause, xxiv, 111-14

Rephan, xliv, 438 (43)

Replevin, in Massachusetts, xliii, 71 (32)

Repose, our foster-nurse of nature, xlvi, 289

Representation, Jefferson on right of, xliii, 151; of minorities, Mill on, xxv, 159-60; personal, Mill on, 159-60; principles of, adopted by French Revolution, xxiv, 305-22; of property, Burke on, 189-90

Representative Government, Mill on, xxv, 69

Representatives, Congressional, xliii, 1801, 182 (i), 183 (6, 7), 192 (3), 197-8; qualities needed by, v, 184-5 (see also Agents)

Reproach, independence of, vii, 244 (2, 3); worse than violence, iv, 205

Reproduction, period of, change in, xi, 187-8

Reproductive System, affected by conditions of life, xi, 302; sensitiveness of, 256

Reproofs, in anger, i, 347 (289-92); Cicero on, ix, 38-9; usefulness of, xliii, 94; vain, i, 358 (446-7)

Reproval, our fear of, vii, 310-11

Republican Government, on trial in America, xliii, 227

Republics, Dryden on, xviii, 8-9; limitation of authority in, xxv, 196-8; Machiavelli on difficulty of conquering, xxxvi, 19; military affairs of, 42; monarchies compared with, v, 245

REPUTATION, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 129-30

Reputation, daughter of fortune, iii, 100; the desire for, ii, 253 (73); Locke on, xxxvii, 42, 78, 115; a matter of imagination, xlviii, 36; Pascal on desire of, 59 (147); Plutarch on desire of, xii, 245; as power, xxxiv, 360; Rousseau on love of, 223-4; Webster on, xlvii, 797 (see also Fame)

Reputations, of great men, beyond their acts, v, 183

REQUIEM, by Stevenson, xlii, 1213

REQUIESCAT, by Arnold, xlii, 1129

Requisition, right of, under Confederation, xliii, 159; under Constitution, 190-1

Rerir, son of Sigi, xlix, 258-9

Resemblance of ideas, Hume on, xxxvii, 304-5, 327-8

Resemblances, analogical, xi, 443-8; Browne on, iii, 313; deformity and, 46; embryonic, xi, 459-60; family, iii, 20; in nature, xi, 452-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 51 (133); pleasure in finding, xxiv, 17-20

Resentment, Pascal on, xlviii, 112 (324); Penn on, i, 339-40 (182-5); 346 (2701)

Reservation, in speech, Penn on, i, 383 (120)

Reservations, Papal, xxxvi, 285, 288, 291-2

Reserved Cases (Catholic Church), xxxvi, 292-3

Residences, Bacon on, iii, 108-12

RESIGNATION, by Longfellow, xlii, 1277-9

Resignation, Burns on, vi, 32; Penn on, i, 325-6 (see also Acquiescence)

Resolution, Buddha on, xlv, 597; from despair, iv, 92; Franklin's maxim on, i, 79, 80; why honorable, xxxiv, 366; Kempis on, vii, 222 (2)

RESOLUTION AND INDEPENDENCE, xli, 658,62

Resolutions, hasty, Penn on, i, 340

RESOLVE, THE, by Brome, xl, 369-70

Respect, ceremonious and natural, xlviii, 380-2; Dryden on, xviii, 41; friendship and, ix, 36-7; an inferior degree of astonishment, xxiv, 49; Kant on, xxxii, 313 note 3; Locke on want of, xxxvii, 120-3; love and, xlviii, 418, 419

Respectability, Penn on, i, 345; religion of, xxviii, 301; Stevenson on, 299-300; virtue and, 301-2

RESPECTS, CEREMONIES AND, ESSAY ON, iii, 124-6

Respiration, compared with combustion of a candle, xxx, 162-70; Descartes on use of, xxxiv, 43-4; Galen on, xxxviii, 65; in high altitudes, xxix, 325-6; pulse and, xxxviii, 65, 69

Rest, Burke on state of, xxiv, 107-8; complete, is death, xlviii, 51 (129); Cowper on, xli, 542; after good works, iii, 29; Herbert on, xl, 345-6; labor and, vii, 281 (4); xxviii, 314-16; needed by man, iv, 170; Pascal on complete, xlviii, 51 (129), 51 (131); second law of nature, v, 229, 236; temporal and eternal, vii, 300 (2); Tennyson on, xlii, 994-6

Restitutus, letter to, ix, 297-8

Restlessness, Herbert on, xl, 345-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 51 (130), 52-5

Restoration, English, drama of the, xviii, 5; Milton on, iv, 5

Results, Arabian proverb on, xvi, 33; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 59;

Webster on weighing, xlvii, 786; Whitman on certainty of, xxxix, 404-6

Resurrection, Browne on the, iii, 299-300; Bunyan on, xv, 230; celebration of the, 403; Dante on certainty of, xx, 314; Jesus on, xliv, 406-7 (27-40); Milton on the, iv, 352; Mohammed on the, xlv, 890-1, 912; Pascal on, xlviii, 80-1 (222-3); Paul, St., on, xlv, 511 (1255); Sadducees on, xliv, 406-7 (2736); songs of the, xix, 36-8

RESURRECTION, THE DAY OF, xlv, 543-4

Retail Trade, profits in, why greater than in wholesale, x, 114-15

Retailing, capital used in, x, 289-90, 291; necessity of, 288-9

RETALIATION, by Goldsmith, xli, 505-9

Retaliation, Mohammed on law of, xlv, 999; Shelley on, xviii, 276-7; Socrates on, ii, 38-9

Retaliatory Duties, x, 346-8

Retirement, Goldsmith on, xli, 511; Kempis on, vii, 225 (5)

RETREAT, THE, xl, 347-8

Retribution, Æschylus on, viii, 21-2, 24-5, 35. 7. 78, 89-90, 92, 93, 94, 98, 103, 116, 133-4, 144, 160; Asaph on, xliv, 233 (17-20); Bildad on, 98 (521); Buddhist doctrine of, xlv, 669-70, 671-4, 675-6, 678-80; Christ, the teacher of, xxxii, 198 (61); David on, xliv, 150 (12-16), 155 (5-6), 182 (16, 21), 186 (i, 2, 9-38), 213 (6-1 i); doctrine of, among the Jews, xxxii, 189-92; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 344 (ll13); Elihu on, 126 (21-30); Eliphaz on, 75 (8), 94 (20-35); Emerson on, v, 90, 99-100; Franklin on, i, 77, 90; future needlessness of doctrine, xxxii, 203 (85); Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 861-2; Jesus on, xliv, 369 (21-6), 370 (38), 397 (25); Hobbes on legal, xxxiv, 408; Job on, xliv, 104-5 (J 7" 33), 109-10 (18-25), 112-13 (13-23), 119 (3); Kempis on, vii, 232-4; More on doctrine of, xxxvi, 196, 227; Omar Khayyam on, xli, 955, 956; ORESTEIA deals with subject of, viii, 5-6; popular ideas of, v, 85-6; Whitman on, xxxix, 404-5; Zophar on, xliv, 101 (5-29)

Retz, Cardinal de, miracle related by, xxxvii, 386-7; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 87

Reuben, Winthrop on, xliii, 94

REVEILLE, THE, xlii, 1401-2

Revelation, Bunyan on, xv, 99, 151; Emerson on, v, 32-3, 140-2; Franklin on, i, 55, 56; Lessing on, xxxii, 185-202; Pascal on, xlviii, 283 (818); Rousseau on, xxxiv, 282-302; superior to morality, xiii, 30; yearning for, xix,

Revelation, Book of, Paraeus on, iv, 412

REVENGE, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 15-16

Revenge, Burns on, vi, 106; contempt the best, iii, 320; Epictetus on, ii, 169 (143); forgiveness and, 153 (96); Hobbes on desire of, xxxiv, 353, 408; Marcus Aurelius on best, ii, 232 (6); masters fear of death, iii, 9; music and, xii, 477; Schiller on, xxvi, 479; Shelley on, xviii, 276-7; what will not, descend to, iv, 264

REVENGE, THE, xiii, 1007-10

Revengefulness, defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; language of, 344-5

Revenue, capital and, as determining industry, x, 263-5; composed of wages, profits, and rent, 223; duties for, 352, 372; gross and neat, 224-9; as measured by money, 227-9; public, Burke on, xxiv, 357; sources of, x, 53; sources of public, 468-564

Revenue Bills, under Constitution, xliii, 183

REVERE, PAUL, RIDE OF, xiii, 1295-9

Reverence, Burke on, xxiv, 49; Goethe on, xxv, 381; Locke on, xxxvii, 84; Tennyson on, xiii, 999

REVERIE OF POOR SUSAN, xii, 655

Reversion, Darwin on, xi, 161-2; instance of, among pigeons, 38; of mongrels and hybrids, 314-15; remarks on, 39; tendency to, 28-9; tendency to, does not prevail against selection, 107-8

Reviewers, Carlyle on, xxv, 339-40

Reviews, Smith on, xxvii, 225

Reviling, ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 347 (20)

Revilius, Caninius, xii, 310

Revision, of writings, Pliny on, ix, 307-8

Revolution, ages of, Emerson on, v, 20; Burke on, xxiv, 170, 289-90; Franklin on, i, 89; Jefferson on right of, xliii, 150-1; Pascal on, xlviii, 105; reform contrasted with, xxiv, 390-1

Revolution Society, Burke on the, xxiv, 144-5, 245 answer to doctrines of, 155-72, 193-6

Revolutionists, Burke on, xxiv, 200-1, 297-8

REVOLUTIONS OF HEAVENLY BODIES, DEDICATION OF, xxxix, 52-7

Rewards, as means of association, xxv, 87; for children, xxxvii, 37-9, 40, 42, 56, 88; Emerson on, v, 269-70, 289; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 273 (42)

Reynaldo, in HAMLET, xlvi, 120-1

Reynard the Fox, Locke on, xxxvii, 132

Reynolds, Sir Joshua, Goldsmith on, xii, 505, 58; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279; Sheridan on, xviii, 106; on taste, xxxix, 268, 289-90

Reynolds, General, at Gettysburg, xliii, 329, 331, 332; Haskell on, 332-3

Reynolds, Mr., More and, xxxvi, 124

Reynolds, Mrs., in Hazlitt's discussion, xxvii, 272, 274

Rhadamanthus, Homer on, xxii, 60, 98; Socrates on, ii, 29; Virgil on, xiii, 226

Rhamnes, death of, xiii, 304

Rhamnus, and Antony, xii, 360

Rhampsinitos, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 5863

Rhapsodies, Montaigne on, xxxii, 32

Rhea, mother of the gods, ix, 385 note; Bacchus and, viii, 370; Hercules and, xiii, 262; Jove and, xx, 60

Rhesus, reference to, xiii, 89

Rhetoric, Burke on, xxiv, 137; Carlyle on, xxv, 376-9; Descartes on study of, xxxiv, 9; Goethe on, xix, 30; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 158-9, 160-1; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 207 (5); Montaigne on study of, xxxii, 59-60; oratory contrasted with, xxv, 324; Penn on, i, 336 (137-41), 383 (126); Plutarch on, xii, 53; simplicity in, v, 304

Rhetoricians, Pliny on, ix, 214

Rhexenor, son of Nausithous, xxii, 91

Rhine, Byron on the, xii, 798-9; Caesar's bridge over, xii, 283; Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 93; Thoreau on the, xxviii, 408

Rhinoceros, old Arabian idea of the, xvi, 249

Rhode, the maid, xliv, 449 (13-15); St. Peter and, xv, 337

Rhodius, Apollonius, xxvii, 349

Rhodon, tutor of Caesarion, xii, 384

Rhodopis, Herodotus on, xxxiii, 67-8

Rhcetus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 304, 335

Rhone, sediment of the, xxxviii, 401

Rhorty's Battery, at Gettysburg, xliii, 337, 351, 382

Rhyme, Dryden on, xiii, 55-6; Hugo on, xxxix, 373; Milton on, iv, 87; Montaigne on, xxxii, 62; Pope on advantages of, xl, 407; Sidney on, xxvii, 28; Swift on, 112; Whitman on, xxxix, 394 Rhymer, on Shakespeare, xxxix, 212, 215 Rhythm, Poe on, xxviii, 378; Shelley on, xxvii, 334; Sidney on, 49; universal inclination to, iii, 323-4

Ribeira Grande, Darwin on, xxix, 12

Ribemont, Eustace, at Poitiers, xxxv, 37-8, 48

Ricardo, David, Emerson on, v, 248; as member of Parliament, xxv, 65; Mill and, 22, 38, 65

Ricardo, Duke, in Cardenio's story, xiv, 202-3

Riccaut, in MINNA VON BARNHELM, xxvi, 344-9

Ricci, Federigo de', xxxi, 429, 431-2

Riccio, Pier Francesco, xxxi, 345, 346-7, 355, 382, 386-7

Rice, cultivation of, x, 163-4

Rice ap Howell, in EDWARD II, xlvi, 63-8

Rice, Hugh ap, xxxv, 381

Rich, Lord, and More, xxxvi, 126

Richard I, accusations of God, v, 276

Richard II, Chaucer and, xxxix, 163; Raleigh on, 73; in Tyler's Rebellion, xxxv, 63, 66, 68, 70-3, 75-80

Richard III, Raleigh on, xxxix, 75-6; reference to, xl, 458

Richard the Third, stage presentation of, xxvii, 309

Richard, Archbishop of Canterbury, xxxv, 258

Richard of St. Victor, xx, 329 note 28

Richard of the Lea, the knight in ROBYN HODE, xl, 131-46, 162-4, 168, 170-3, 174, 180, 183

RICHARDSON, GABRIEL, EPITAPH FOR, vi, 513

Richardson, Samuel, Franklin on style of, i, 23; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 275

Richelet, Hugo on, xxxix, 365

Richelieu, Burke on, xxiv, 186; Joseph the Capuchin and, xxxix, 356; Louis XIII and, xxiv, 332-3; in Mantua contest, xxi, 78, 435, 466

RICHES, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 87-90

Riches, advantage of, remains to maker, v, 48; Burns on, vi, 48, 85, 204, 326; Cicero on, ix, 37; compensation of, v, 88; Confucius on, xliv, 6 (15); Curius, Manlius, on, ix, 65; death and, xvi, 303-4, 312, 321; Dekker on, xl, 318-19; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 340 (10-14), 341 (i, 2), 346 (n); Emerson on true, v, 217-18; Epictetus on true, ii, 179 (182); friendship and, ix, 27; good and evil, xlvii, 801; grow in Hell, iv, 105; happiness and, i, 343, 344; xix, 364; heirs to, v, 49; Herbert on, xv, 390; why honorable, xxxiv, 365; independence of, v, 54; Jesus on, xliv, 369 (24), 387 (16-21), 401 (24-5); Job on, xliv, 120 (24-5, 28); Kempis on, vii, 273 (4); loss of, no misfortune, ii, 126 (25); Massinger on, xlvii, 917; Milton on, iv, 382-3; Morris on, xlii, 1196; Nashe on, xl, 260; Pascal on property of, xlviii, 109 (310); Penn on pursuit of, i, 390; poetical idea of, v, 226; Pope on, xl, 435, 437-8; as power, xxxiv, 360; Psalm on folly of trust in, xliv, 201-3; Raleigh on, xxxix, 90-1, 96; Raleigh on pursuit of, 90, 92-4; results of competition of, xxxiv, 370; Stoic dictum of, ix, 133; Thoreau's idea of, xxviii, 394; Utopian opinion of, xxxvi, 194, 200; virtue and, i, 342 (219); Walton on, xv, 329; Webster on, xlvii, 764; Woodnot on, xv, 388; Woolman on, i, 196 note, 211, 233 (see also Wealth)

Richmond, Duke of, and George Herbert, xv, 386

RIDDELL, CAPTAIN, LINES TO, vi, 328-9

RIDDELL, CAPTAIN, RHYMING REPLY TO, vi, 329

RIDDELL, MARIA, EPIGRAM ON, vi, 478

RIDDELL, MRS., ON BIRTHDAY OF, vi, 475-6

RIDDELL, ROBERT, LINES TO MEMORY OF, vi, 514

RIDDELL, ROBERT, SONNET ON, vi, 488

RIDDELL, WALTER, EPITAPH FOR, vi, 485

RIDDELL, MRS. WALTER, ON THE CARRIAGE OF, vi, 485

Ridiculous, Fielding on the, xxxix, 179

Riding, Locke on, xxxvii, 171, 172

Ridolfi, Niccolo, xxxi, 45-6 note 2

Riemer, on Goethe, v, 191

Rigby, Dr., xxxviii, 223, 245, 248

Right, Augustine, St., on wrong and, vii, 38-9; Confucius on seeing and doing, xliv, 9 (24); disputes on wrong and, xxxiv, 374; "doth its own likeness breed," viii, 35; Emerson on, v, 62, 283;

Franklin's early view of, i, 55; "gives way to delight," viii, 321; Kant on tests of, xxxii, 332-5; law and, xxxiv, 391-2; "makes room where weapons want," xlvi, 58; Manzoni on, xxi, 19-20; James Mill on, xxv, 35-6; Pope on, xl, 408-15; for right's sake, xlv, 795;Rousseau on, xxxiv, 268; success as the measure of, ix, 278; of the sword, Pascal on, xlviii, 305-6 (878)

Right Reason, Bentham on phrase, xxv, 44

Right-Timing, Penn on, i, 338

Righteousness, Æschylus on, viii, 36; Augustine, St., on, vii, 37-9; Burns on rigid, vi, 183; Confucius on, xliv, 52 (17), 55 (2); David on, 182 (15-22), 187-88, 213 (lO-Il); ECCLESIASTES on, 343 (15-16), (20), 344 (12, 14), 345 (2); Elihu on, 127-8 (2-8), 129 (6-7); Eliphaz on, 105 (3); of God, Elihu on, 128-9 (2 ~7); Justice compared with, xxxiv, 404-5; Pascal on hunger after, xlviii, 96 (264); "the path of," xl, 77; the Psalmist on, xliv, 288 (4-9); reward of, 261 (12-15); reward of desire for, xlv, 817; wickedness, contrasted with, xliv, 145, 232-4, 237 (I0); Woolman on, i, 189 Rights, Burke on, of man, xxiv, 196-200; Hobbes on, natural, xxxiv, 391-2; Jefferson on, xliii, 150; of persons and of property, v, 240-3; renunciation and transference of, xxxiv, 392-3; social, 392-3, 408-9

RIGHTS OF WOMAN, THE, vi, 446-7

Rigogli, Giovanni, xxxi, 53-4

Rigor, pushed too far, xxvi, 445

RIGS O' BARLEY, vi, 44-5

Rimini, Francesca da, xx, 24; Hugo on, xxxix, 349

Rimini, Malatestino da, xx, in note 5; Cassero and, 116 note 9

Rimmon, the god, iv, 99

Rimsky-Korsakoff, influence of ARABIAN NIGHTS on, xvi, 4

Rinaldo, Dante on, xx, 362 note 4; Spenser on, xxxix, 62

Rinaldo d'Este, Dryden on, xiii, 33

RING AND THE BOOK, DEDICATION OF, xlii, 1109-10

Ringrave, Captain, xxxviii, 18

Ringrave, Count, death of, xxxviii, 51

Rinkart, Martin, hymn by, xlv, 558

Rio Grande River, xliii, 292, 294

Rio Negro, Darwin on, xxix, 70-1

Rio Sauce, Darwin on the, xxix, 112-3

Riolan, John, on the heart, xxxviii, 82

Riolanus, on arteries, xxxviii, 69

Riou, reference to, xli, 780

Ripamonti, on plague of Milan, xxi, 500

Ripheus, in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 372-3; death of, xiii, 114; in sack of Troy, 111-3

Ripley, George, xlvii, 585 note 3

Riquet, and the Languedoc canal, x, 455

Risks, human contempt of, x, no; Penn on, i, 345

Rites, Bacon on religious, iii, 45-6; Luther on religious, xxxvi, 372-3; Penn on religious, i, 363 (507), 387 (175)

Ritter, Heinrich, commentator on Antoninus and Epictetus, ii, 323

Ritter, Karl, Geikie on, xxx, 325

Rituals, without reverence, xliv, 12 (26)

Rivalry, friendship and, ix, 21-22; fruits of, xxvi, 98; Pliny on, happy, ix, 237

RIVER OF LIFE, by Campbell, xli, 775-6

Rivers, second Earl of, xxxix, 9-10, 13; death of, 75-6

Rivers, John, xxxiii, 230

Rivers, Pascal on, xlviii, 15 (17)

Riviere, Mercier de la, x, 444

RIZPAH, by Tennyson, xlii, 1011-14

Rizzio, murder of, xxxix, 359

Roads, expence of maintaining, x, 453-6; Smith on good, 150-1

ROADS, ROUGH, EPIGRAM ON, vi, 237

Roannez, Charlotte Gouffier de, xlviii, 346 note 2; letters to, 346-7

Roannez, M. de, on reason, xlviii, 98 (276)

Roanoak, colony of, xxxiii, 226-7, 257

ROB MORRIS, AULD, vi, 445

Robb, D. C., translator of Pasteur, xxxviii, 269

Robbers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 46, 52-3, 100-1; rich and poor, xlv, 673

Robert, of Normandy, Henry I and, xxxix, 72

Robert, king of Sicily, Dante on, xx, 317 note n, 319 note 2; poets and, xxvii, 40

ROBERT OF LINCOLN, xlii, 1215-17

Roberton, Mr., on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 230-1, 244-5

Roberts, inventor of the mule, v, 395

Robertson, F. W., translator of Lessing, xxxii, 183

Robertson, Rev. John, Burns on, vi, 165, 242

Robertson, Joseph, of London Review, xxv, 129; Wordsworth on, v, 464

Robin, parable of the, xv, 206

Robin, M. Ch., xxxviii, 340-4

ROBIN GRAY, AULD, xli, 557-8

Robin Hood, Emerson on character of, v, 349; Maid Marian and, xli, 875 (see also Robyn Hode)

Robin the Ostler, in FAUSTUS, xix, 233-6

ROBIN-REDBREAST, CALL FOR THE, xl, 322-3

ROBIN SHURE IN HAIRST, vi, 324

Robinson, Mr. Alfred, marriage of, xxiii, 235-40; (in 1859), 385

Robinson, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 329-30

Robinson, Henry Crabbe, and story of THE FISHERMAN, xvii, 83 note

Robinson, Ralph, translator of UTOPIA, xxxvi, 2

Robyn Hode, in ROBYN HODE, his friends and customs, xl, 129-32; the knight and, 132-9, 146, 162-4, 168-9; welcomes Little John, 151; with the Sheriff, 153-4; and the monk, 155, 157-61; at archery contest, 164-7; in knight's castle, 167-8; returns to greenwood, 170; rescues knight, 170-2; the king and, 173-83; at court, 183-4; returns to greenwood, 184-5; death, 185-6

ROBYN HODE, A GEST OF, xl, 128-86

Rochambeau, Count de, xliii, 169

Roche-sur-Yon, at Metz, xxxviii, 23, 24, 25; Navarre and, 47-8

Rochefoucauld, Duke de, Burke on, xxiv, 250, 418-19; Voltaire on Maxims of, xxxiv, 101

Rochester, Earl of, ON CHARLES II, xl, 383; Hugo on, xxxix, 380; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 142-4

Rockingham, Lord, Burns on, vi, 52; Burke and, xxiv, 5

Rocks, Geikie on, xxx, 328-9, 337-8; Lyell on volcanic, xxxviii, 396-7; metamorphic, xxx, 334-5; sedimentary, 331, 339-4; stratified and crystalline, xxxviii, 395

Rocks Wandering, the, xxii, 163

Roc's Egg, Aladdin and the, xvi, 421-2; story of the, 244-5, 274-5

RODDICK, WILLIAM, EPITAPH ON, vi, 487

Roderigo, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 758, 778-9, 847-8, 851, 852, 853

Roderigo, counsellor of Philip, xix, 290

Rodney, Emerson on character of, v, 349

RODNEY'S VICTORY, LINES ON, vi, 459-60

Rodolph, Emperor, Dante on, xx, 168 and note 12, 172-3

Rodrigo, Don, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, bravoes of, xxi, 15; relations with Abbondio, 20-1; Lucia and, 38; palace and friends of, 71-82; conference with Cristoforo, 83-7; plans of vengeance, 103-4; rallied by Attilio, 105-6; plans to carry off Lucia, 106-8; learns failure of plans, 178-80; advises with Attilio, 181-3; plans to have Renzo banished, 188-9; learns Lucia's whereabouts, 291-2; determines to seek aid of the Unnamed, 292-3, 313-17; conference with Unnamed, 318-21; goes to Milan, 405-6; takes the plague, 536-8; taken to the Lazzaretto, 540-2; in the Lazzaretto, 590; death of, 629-30

Roebuck, John Arthur, Mill on, xxv, 54, 78, 79, 82, 95-7; in Parliament, 122; in Westminster Review, 63

Roger, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 216-17 Roger, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY (see Hodge)

Roger of Doncaster, xl, 186

Rogers, B. B., translator of Aristophanes, viii, i

Rogers, Mr., first husband of Miss Read, i, 50, 66

Rogers, Samuel, POEMS by, xli, 582-3

Rohan, M. de, xxxviii, 13, 15, 18-19

Roland, in SONG OF ROLAND, with Charlemagne at Cordres, xlix, 98, 100; advises against Marsil, 101; offers to go to Marsil, 103; quarrel with Ganelon, 103-4, I05; Ganelon on, 107, 112; plot against, 108, 112-15; in return to France, 117; given rear guard, 118-21; prodigies preceding death of, 140; before battle of Roncesvalles, 126, 127, 128-30, 131; in the battle, 132, 135, 136-7. 138, 139, M2, 143-6, 147, 148, 149-50, 151; the horn of, 152-5, 170, 186; renews fight, 156-8, 159; with Olivier, 160-2; with Walter, 162-3; last fight, 163-6; with Archbishop Turpin, 166-9; his death, 169-73; body of, found by Charlemagne, 179-83; his tomb, 186; Renan on, xxxii, 158 (see also Orlando)

ROLAND, SONG OF, xlix, 95-195; remarks on, 94; 1, 22

Roland de Vaux of Tryermaine, xli, 721, 723-4

Roman Catholic Church, Augustine, St., on the, vii, 83, 84; Bacon on, iii, 130; Browne on, 254 (3), 256 (5); Calvin on, xxxix, 32-3, 35-8, 41-3; cardinals of, xxxvi, 276-7; Dante on, xx, 211, 377-8; in England, xxxv, 252-6, 266, 267; Hobbes on revolt from, xxxiv, 386-7; Hume on ceremonies of, xxxvii, 328; Knox on the, xxxix, 58; liberty of the press under, iii, 195-7; Luther on, xxxvi, 276-70; Machiavelli on temporal power of, 38-40; Mill on, xxv, 232-3; Pascal on, xlviii, 296 (849, 850), 300 (857-62), 303 (867), 304 (869-70), 306 (878, 881), 307 (885), 309 (890, 896), 311 (905), 315, 347, 348; services in, xxxv, 265; Shelley on, in Italy, xviii, 277 (see also Papacy) Roman Classics, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 122

Roman Empire, Bacon on fall of, iii, 139; decline of, xxxviii, 391-2; Hugo on fall of, xxxix, 344-5; liberty of press in, iii, 195-6; life in early (see Pliny, LETTERS); literary works of, 1, 20, 25; Luther on, xxxvi, 327-8; Machiavelli on cause of overthrow of, 47; power of the soldiery in, 62-3

Roman Names, Plutarch on, xii, 155-6

Roman Provinces, ix, 396 note I

Roman Time, ix, 233 note 4

ROMANCE AND CHRONICLE, xxxv

Romance-poetry, Arnold on the, xxviii, 75-7

Romances, Cervantes on, xiv, 474-7, 481, 487-8; defended by Don Quixote, 488-95; Fielding on, xxxix, 176-81; Whitman on, 402

Romanianus, friend of Augustine, vii, 95-6

Romano, Giulio, xxxi, 34 note 3, 55, 58, 60, 82

Romano, Ezzolino di, xx, 51 note 8

Romans, Caxton on the, xxxix, 15; eating customs of the, xxxv, 288; xxxvii, 1718; education among the, 50 note; Emerson on the, v, 52; houses and public buildings of early, 52; poetry among the, xxvii, 8-9; swimming among, xxxvii, 13; Taine on the, xxxix, 421, Romantic Literature, Hugo on, xxxix, 346

Romantic Movement, Hugo in, xxxix, 337 note; Wordsworth in, 268 note

Romanus, the martyr, xv, 265

Romanus, Voconius, Pliny on, ix, 218-19. 357-8; Pliny's letters to, 188, 211, 284, 318, 336

Rome, agrarian law of, x, 395-6; allies of, iii, 78; America and, ix, 7; assimilation of other nations by, xxviii, 248-9; Bacon on, v, 362; Bacon on triumphs of, iii, 80; bribery in, xii, 159-60; burning of, Chaucer on, xl, 49; custom of candidates in early, xii, 158-9; Carthage and, Virgil on, xiii, 174; Cicero on success of, iii, 44-5; civil war in, 38; xii, 292-4, 308-9; colonies of, x, 397; corn importations in, 153-4; England compared with, xxxiv, 85-6; of Evander's time, xiii, 279-80; foreign policy of, xxxvi, 19; freedom of, due to her arms, 41-2; freedom of press in, iii, 193-4; galleys of, xxxv, 357 note; the Germans and, xxxiii, 113-14; Goethe and Byron on, xxxii, 390 note; greatness of, prophesied, iii, 90; conquest of Greece, xxxvi, 11-12, 18; Grecian art in, xxxii, 237; history of, Carlyle on, xxv, 365-6; history of, Dante on, xx, 306-8; history of, Virgil on, xiii, 289-92; interest in, x, 96; kings of, Virgil on, xiii, 234-5; Luther on, xxxvi, 298; Marlowe on, xix, 230; medicine in, xxxv, 240; Milton on, iv, 396-9; money in, x, 29, 30, 31, 43; More on standing armies of, xxxvi, 145; naturalization policy of, iii, 76-7; penology in, xxxvi, 151; pigeons in ancient, xi, 40; poetry of, Shelley on, xxvii, 344; Prztorian emperors of, xxxvi, 22; present level of, xxx, 350; provincial policy of, xxxvi, 11-12, 17, 73-4; Raleigh on, xxxix, 71; religion and philosophy of, 431-2; religious matters in early, xii, 170; religious toleration in, xxxiv, 383; xxxvii, 393; republic of, Machiavelli on, xxv, 368-9; Republican, works dealing with, 1, 20, 25; sack of, by Imperialists, xxxi, 68-80; seditions in early, xii, 150-2, 157-8; See of (see Papacy); selection known in, xi, 45; Shelley on, xii, 868; value of silver in, x, 182; slavery in early, xii, 169-70; study of language in, xxxvii, 146, 162; Taine on, xxxix, 424; turdi cultivated in, x, 188; of Virgil's time, Dryden on, xiii, 15-17; Volscian Wars of, xii, 152-4, 171-82

Romeo, steward of Raymond Berenger, xx, 309 note 26

Romeo and Juliet, Lamb on, xxvii, 302; Ruskin on, xxviii, 138

Romilly, Sir Samuel, apprentice bill of, v, 393; on buying seat in Parliament, 364 note; on chancery, 364; on English laws, 347; his love for his wife, 370; Mill and, xxv, 67; on public speaking, v, 360

Romilly, Edward, xxv, 122

Romilly, John, xxv, 122

Romoaldo, S., xx, 379 note 5

Romoli, Vincenzio, xxxi, 127, 128, 129, 161, 163, 169

Romulus, the asylum of, xiii, 279; Dryden on, 17; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 20, 21 ; ordered Romans to live in arms, iii, 77-8; parentage of, xx, 318 note 16; prophecy of, xiii, 82; suckled by Wolf, 289; Virgil on, 233; Waller on, xxxiv, 146

RONALDS OF THE BENNALS, THE, vi, 25-7

Roncesvalles, battle of, xlix, 94, 127-73

Roncesvaux (see Roncesvalles)

Ronsard on the ÆNEID, xiii, 43, 44; Montaigne on, xxxii, 62; Taine on, xxxix, 428-9

Roosevelt, Theodore, CONVENTION WITH PANAMA, xliii, 450-62

Roper, William, son-in-law of More, xxxvi, 88; LIFE OF MORE, 89-134

Ropes, Henry, at Gettysburg, xliii, 367

Rosa, Vincent de la, in the goatherd's story, xiv, 500-2

ROSABELLE, xli, 748-50

ROSALIND'S MADRIGAL, xl, 214-15

ROSALINE, by Lodge, xl, 215-16

Rosas, General, xxix, 74, 78, 80-1, 109-10, 146

Rosaura, in LIFE Is A DREAM, arrival in Poland, xxvi, 7-13; with Segismund, 14-17; with Clotaldo, 18-21; at palace, with

Segismund, 41; reason of coming to Poland, 66-7; returns to tower, with Segismund, 67-8; reunited with Astolfo, 73

Roscius, case of, xii, 219-20

Roscommon, Lord, Silenus of, xiii, 57; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 147; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 330

Rose, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY (see Oateley)

ROSE, A WHITE, xiii, 1198

ROSE, THE RED, RED, vi, 482-3

Rose, Aquila, i, 22; elegy on, 27; son of, 64

ROSE AYLMER, xli, 898

ROSE-BUD, A, BY MY EARLY WALK, vi, 287

ROSE-RED AND SNOW-WHITE, xvii, 213-18

Rosegli, Mariano, xxxi, 424

Rosemary, flower of remembrance, xli, 481; xlvi, 182

Rosencrantz, in HAMLET, xlvi, 124-5, 131-5, 140, 142-3, 149, 150, 156-7, 159-60, 169, 170, 172-3, 175, 184, 200, 210

Roses, Harrison on, xxxv, 242-3; Massinger on, xlvii, 864

ROSES IN THE BOSOM OF CASTARA, xl, 252

Roses, Wars of the, Raleigh on, xxxix, 79

ROSLIN INN, EPIGRAM AT, vi, 263

Ross, in MACBETH, reports victory to Duncan, xlvi, 323-4; messenger to Macbeth, 327; and the old man, 348; with Macduff, 348-9; at the banquet, 357, 359, 361; with Lady Macduff, 370-1; at English Court, 378-80; with Siward, 393

Ross, Alexander, WOOED AND MARRIED, xli, 567-8

Ross, Captain, at Keeling Island, xxix, 456, 461

Rosselmann, the priest in WILLIAM TELL, at Rooth league, xxvi, 417-28; before Gessler's cap, 437; with Tell at Altdorf, 439-48; reports murder of emperor, 477-8

Rossetti, Christina Georgina, poems by, xiii, 1181-3

Rossetti, Dante Gabriel, poems by, xiii, 1149-83

Rossi, Girolamo de', xxxi, 247 note i, 298-9, 335-6

Rosso, II, xxxi, 46 note i, 54, 195-6, 301 and note, 324

Rotund, the, in building, xxiv, 63 and note

Rouen, capture of, xxxviii, 47; Smith on, x, 263-4

ROUGH ROADS, EPIGRAM ON, vi, 237

Roughness, of manners, xxxvii, 121; more sublime than smoothness, xxiv, 61; why not beautiful, 120-1

Roumania, Freeman on, xxviii, 264-6

Round Table, The, xxxv, 135-6; why founded, 168; knights of the, xiv, 92; Renan on the, xxxii, 157-8; Tennyson on the, xiii, 992; seen at Winchester, xxxix, 21

Round Top, at Gettysburg, xliii, 333, 335

ROUND TOWER AT JHANSI, xiii, 1183

Rous, Sir Francis, xxv, 369-70

Rousseau, Jean Jacques, his principles of composition, xxiv, 303-4; remarks on Confessions of, xxxi, 3; editor's remarks on DISCOURSE of, 1, 32; Emerson on, v, 265; Hume and, xxvii, 202; Hazlitt on, 279-80; Hobbes and, xxxiv, 308; ON INEQUALITY, 164-228; life and works, 162-3; Mill on work of, xxv, 241; SAVOYARD VICAR, xxxiv, 229-305; Sainte-Beuve on SAVOYARD VICAR of, xxxii, 123; Stevenson on, xxviii, 289

Roux, Maitre, xxxi, 46 note i, 54

ROVER, THE, by Scott, xli, 743-4

Rovere, Francesco Maria della, xxxi, 73 note i

ROWAN TREE, THE, xli, 564

Rowe, Nicholas, editor of Shakespeare, xxxix, 234-5, 2445 Johnson on, 232; on Shakespeare, 229

Rowlands, Richard, OUR BLESSED LADY'S LULLABY, xl, 256-60

Rowley, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, with Sir Peter, xviii, 126-8; with Sir Oliver, 139; plans to try Charles and Joseph Surface, 141-2; with Charles Surface, 162; with Sir Oliver, 163; in visit to Joseph Surface, 177; announces arrival of Sir Oliver, 180; with Sir Peter after scandal, 185-7; at Joseph Surface's, 190-5

Roxalana, Solyman's wife, iii, 50

Roxanes, and Themistocles, xii, 30

Roy, M. le, i, 148

ROYAL GEORGE, Loss OF THE, xli, 533-4

Royal Society of England, Franklin and, i, 146, 148-9

Royalty, Calvin on true, xxxix, 29-30

Roye, Lord, xxxv, 56-7

Royer-Collard, Remusat on, xxxii, 125

Rozinante, horse of Don Quixote, dialogue with Babieca, xiv, 13-14; Don Quixote on, 216; the mares and, 110n; named, 20-1, 70-1; sonnet on, 514-15

Ruaeus, commentator of Virgil, xiii, 43, 44, 50, 56-7

RUBAIYAT OF OMAR KHAYYAM, xli, 943-58

Rubens, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279; Hugo on, xxxix, 348, 352

Rubicant, the demon, xx, 88, 90

Rubicon, passage of the, xii, 291-2

Rucellai, Cosimo, xxvii, 392-3

Rucellai, Luigi, xxxi, 144

RUDELY THOU WRONGEST MY HEART'S DESIRE, xl, 250-1

Rudeness, grandeur and, xxiv, 66

Rudenz, Ulrich of, in WILLIAM TELL, with Attinghausen, xxvi, 405-10; in love with Bertha, 411; with Bertha in the forest, 432-6; with Gessler in Altdorf, 441; defies Gessler, 445-6; joins the League, 461-4; takes Sarnen keep, 475; recovers Bertha, 475-6; in final scene, 488-9

Rudeyneh, xvi, 326 note

Rudimentary Organs, xi, 469-77; in classification, 434-5; highly variable, 152

Ruffo, John, Cervantes on, xiv, 54

Rufinus, letter to, ix, 327-9

Rufus, C. Musonius, ii, 116, 118 (5) and note

Rufus, Calvisius, letter to, ix, 246-7

Rufus, Caninius, letter to, ix, 236-7

Rufus, Corellius, Pliny on, ix, 197-9

Rufus, Curtius, story of ghost and, ix, 311-12

Rufus, Satrius, in Certus's case, ix, 341

Rufus, Verginius, Pliny on, ix, 211-13, 282-3

RUGBY CHAPEL, xlii, 1130-5

Ruggieri, Archbishop, xx, 135-6 note I

Rugians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 117-18

RUIN, To, by Burns, vi, 194-5

RUINED FARMER, IN THE CHARACTER OF A, vi, 22-3

RUISSEAUX, ROBERT, ELEGY ON THE DEATH OF, vi, 93-4

Rukh's Egg, story of the, xvi, 244-5, 274-5; Aladdin and, 421-2

RULE, BRITANNIA, xl, 442-3

Rulers, Bacon on, iii, 48-52; Confucius's advice to, xliv, 5 (5), 7 (i, 3), 8 (19, 20), 9 (21), 38 (9), 39 (17, 19), 41 (i, 2, 3), 42 (6, 13), 43 (15, 17), 50 (44), 51 (4, 10), 67 (2); Epictetus to, ii, 128 (34);

Franklin on, i, 125; partisanship of, iii, 37; reverence for, 37-8 (see also Princes)

Rules, for children, xxxvii, 43-4; laying down, for others, ii, 293 (29)

Rum, Indians and, i, 116; Woolman on selling, 258-9

Ruminants, and pachyderms, xi, 362

Rumor, /Eschylus on, viii, 18; Bacon on, iii, 140-2; false, a sign of sedition, 36; in Milton's Chaos, iv, 132-3; Raleigh on, xxxix, 67; Virgil on, xiii, 158-9

RUMPELSTILTSKIN, story of, xvii, 154-6

Ruodi, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 381-6, 474, 476, 477

Rupilius, Publius, made consul by Scipio, ix, 34

Rush, Richard, correspondence with Bagot, xliii, 265-7

Ruskin, John, Greenough and, v, 316-17; life and works of, xxviii, 92; SESAME AND LILIES, 93-162

Russel, the fox, xl, 48

Russell, first Baron, xxiv, 401-4

Russell, Lord John, pluck of, v, 366-7

Russell, Rev., John, Burns on, vi, 94-5, 101, 163, 166, 351

Russell, Jonathan, xliii, 255

Russell, Mr., in Two YEARS BEFORE THE MAST, xxiii, 94, 99, 141, 245-6

Russell, W. Clark, on Dana's work, xxiii, 4

Russia, the bureaucracy of, xxv, 308-9; monks in, hi, 99; TREATY WITH UNITED STATES, xliii, 432-6

Rusticity, Burns on, vi, 248; Locke on, xxxvii, 72

Rusticucci, Giacopo, xx, 66 and note 3; in Hell, 27

Rusticus, Q. Junius, teacher of Marcus Aurelius, ii, 193-4 (7), 199, 303, 321

Rusticus Arulenus, his death, ix, 188 note, 190 note; wife of, 261 note

Rustum, reference to, xli, 944

Ruth, Bunyan on, xv, 210; in Dante's PARADISE, xx, 419 note 2; Keats on, xli, 878; Milton on, iv, 78

RUTH: OR THE INFLUENCES OF NATURE, xli, 607-14

Rutherford, Milton on, iv, 80

Ruetimeyer, on cattle, xi, 33

Ruysum, in EGMONT, xix, 254-9

Rymer, Dryden on, xxxix, 155

S

Saadi, on the ugly schoolmaster, v, 306

Saavedra, the captive, xiv, 394 (see Cervantes)

Sabacos, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 69-70, 77

Sabxans, Mohammed on, xlv, 1001

Sabbath, Emerson on the, v, 34, 41; Jesus on the, xliv, 368 (i-n), 391 (14-16), 392 (1-6); Pascal on the, xlviii, 198

Sabbath, Laws, Mill on, xxv, 286-7

Sabellius, Dante on, xx, 343 note 21

Sabinian, and heathen antiquities, iii, 137

Sabinianus, letters to, ix, 344, 346

Sabines, rape of the, alluded to, xiii, 289

Sabinus, Statius, letter to, ix, 252

Sable, Marchioness de, letter to, xlviii, 342

Sabrina, in COMUS, iv, 66-9

Sachems, Indian, xliii, 142

Sacheverell, Henry, xxvii, 157

Saci, M. de, conversation with Pascal, xlviii, 387-400

Sackville, Lord, Burns on, vi, 52

Sacrament, of the Altar, Kempis on, vii, 335-64

Sacraments, Quakers on the, xxxiv, 67

Sacred Poetry, Sidney on, xxvii, 11-12

SACRED WRITINGS, xliv, xlv

Sacrifices, Confucius on, xliv, 10 (12), ii (17); Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 800, 806, 864; Pascal on, xlviii, 333

Sacrilege, Dr. Donne on, xv, 350

Sadducees, xliv, 406-7 (27-40), 433 (17), 474 (7-8); Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 357

Sadness, connection of, with beauty, xxviii, 382

SAGA AND EPIC, xlix

Sagacity, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 178, 191

Sagas, Emerson on the, v, 343-4

Sages, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 412

Saibah, xlv, 1004 note

Sailing, Franklin on, i, 157

Sailors, Dana on life of, xxiii, 356-7; duties of, 18-21; how to improve their condition, 357-74; Woolman on hardships and depravity of, i, 292-5, 301

Sailor Songs, Dana on, xxiii, 259

ST. AGNES, THE EVE OF, xli, 883-93

St. Andre, Louis of, xxxviii, 21

St. Andrea, Giacomo da, xx, 56 note 4

St. Aubin, Capt., xxxviii, 46

St. Augustine (see Augustine)

St. Augustine, Drake at, xxxiii, 256, 259

St. Bartholomew, massacre of, Bacon on, iii, 14; Capt. Tetu on, xxxiii, 186

Sainte-Beuve, Charles Augustin, on charlatanism, xxviii, 66; as a critic, 1, 48-9; life and writings, xxxii, 104; ON MONTAIGNE, 105-20; Port Royal of, xxxix, 415-16; Taine on, 417; WHAT is A CLASSIC, xxxii, 121-33

ST. CECILIA'S DAY, SONG FOR, xl, 389-90

St. Clair, Sir John, i, 132

Saint-Cyran, letter of, xlviii, 323-4

St. Denis, battle of, xxxviii, 50

St. Domingo, Drake at, xxxiii, 227, 2404, 258-9; productions of, x, 399-401; village of, xxix, 13

St. Elmo's Light, xxix, 47

St. Etienne, Raband de, on National Assembly, xxiv, 300 note

St. Helena, island of, xxix, 489-94; species of, xi, 414

Saint-Hilaire, Geoffroy, on compensation of growth, xi, 150-1; on homologous parts, 453; on origin of species, 10, 15-16

St. John, H. (see Bolingbroke)

St. John, Newfoundland, settlement of, xxxiii, 262, 279-80

St. John's River, navigation of, xliii, 284

St. Jago, Darwin on, xxix, 11-16; health conditions at, 369-70

St. Lawrence River, navigation of, xliii, 286

Saint-Lo, Edward III at, xxxv, 13; importance of, 12 note

Saint-Martin, Capt., xxxii, 14

St. Omer, the iconoclasts at, xix, 260

St. Paul's Rocks, Darwin on, xxix, 1819

St. Peter's, the building of, xxxvi, 247, 255, 258

St. Quentin, the wounded of, xxxviii, 44-5

Saint-Simon, Mill on, xxv, 42; Mill on school of, 103-6

St. Winifred's Well, xxxvii, 13

SAINT, FOLLOW YOUR, xl, 284

Saintre, John of, xxxv, 46, 47, 50-1

Saints, Bunyan on the, xv, 57; canonization of, xxv, 215-16; disputes on the merits of, vii, 331-3; Hume on relics of, xxxvii, 330-2; Kempis on the, vii, 220-2; Luther on glorification of, xxxvi, 310-13; Pascal on, xlviii, 275, 303 (868), 358-9; patience of the, vii, 300 (3)

Saint's Days, Luther on, xxxvi, 308-9

Sa'is, city of, xxxiii, 34-5, 82, 84, 88

Sakelde, in KINMONT WILLIE, xl, 108, 110-11

Saki, reference to the, xli, 949

Sakka, the god, xlv, 611, 613-14, 618, 699-700

Saladin, Emerson on, v, 202; in Limbo, xx, 20 and note 7

Salamanca, Bishop of (see Bobadilla)

Salamander, Cellini and the, xxxi, 10-11; invoked by Faust, xix, 55

Salamis, Æschylus at, viii, 5; Aristides at, xii, 86; battle of, 16-17; Byron on, xli, 813; drama on, viii, 5

Salaries, of public officials, 1, 354 (385-6); taxes on, x, 513-14

SALATHIEL PAVY, ON, xl, 299-300

Sale, Sir Robert, in Tyler's Rebellion, xxxv, 73-4

Salem, reference to, iv, 25 (6)

Salih, brother of Jullanar, xvi, 330-7

Salimbene, Francesco, xxxi, 24, 28

Salimbeni, Niccoli, xx, 122 and note

Salinator, and Fabius, ix, 49

Salinator, Fuscus, Pliny on, ix, 283, 292

Salius, death of, xiii, 347; in the footrace, 188-9

Salisbury Cathedral, Emerson on, v, 459-60

Salisbury, Earl of, in Tyler's Rebellion, xxxv, 68, 70, 79

Salisbury, university of, xxxv, 371

Sallust, on the viper, xxxv, 345 note

Sallust, on war, xxxvi, 145

Sallustius, Cicero on, ix, no

Sallutio, Scipio, xii, 306-7

SALLY IN OUR ALLEY, xl, 403-5

Salmanassar, reference to, iv, 391

Salmasius, defender of Charles the First, iv, 4

Salmon and Dog-fish, tale of, xlvii, 813

Salmoneus, in Tartarus, xiii, 226-7

Salmydessos, viii, 192-3 and note 46

Salomon's House (see Solomon's House)

Salt, crystallization of common, xxx, 31 note 12; the desire of vegetarians for, xxix, 116; incrustations of, in Patagonia, 84-5; Locke on use of, xxxvii, 17; used to melt ice, xxx, 39

Salt-lakes, in South America, xxix, 72-4

Salterello, Lapo, xx, 351 note 12

Salutations, Mohammed on, xlv, 976

Salvani, Provenzano, xx, 190 and note

Salvation, Browne on, iii, 305-9; Bunyan on means of, xv, 228; Calvin on, xxxix, 32-3, 48-51; Dante on requisites of, xx, 311-13, 367-8, 421; Jesus on, xliv, 382, 401-2 (18-30); Lessing on, xxxii, 201; Luther on, xxxvi, 247-8, 255, 258, 347, 348, 351, 352, 362-3; meaning of, xv, 228; of non-Christians, xx, 367, 372-3; Peter on, xliv, 430 (12); Ruskin on false ideas of, xxviii, 109; the Wall of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 41

Salviati, Alamanno, xxxi, 408 note

Salviati, Cardinal, xxxi, 114-15, 119, 273 note

Salviati, Giovanni, xxxi, 45 note 2

Salviati, Jacopo, xxxi, 14 note 4, 68-9, 74, 75

Salviati, Piero, xxxi, 413

Salzburg, Archbishop of, xix, 336

Sam, in Two YEARS BEFORE THE MAST, xxiii, 99-101, 107, 126, 397

Sama-Ved, xlv, 832

Samarchand, Temir's throne, iv, 328

Samaria, founding of church in, xliv, 439 (5-8); the woman of, xx, 230

Samaritan, the good, xliv, 382-3 (33-5)

Samaritans, belief confined to Pentateuch, iii, 277 (25)

Samos, war with Athens, xii, 61-4

Sampson, John, xxxiii, 229, 231-2, 234-5, 237, 247, 250, 254

Samson, Browne on, iii, 273; Delilah and, iv, 287; slays with the jawbone of an ass, xv, 296

Samson, in SAMSON AGONISTES, lament of, iv, 414-17; his deeds sung by chorus, 417-19; his marriages, 420; his victory over Philistines, 421; Manoa's lament over, 423-4; reveals secret to Dalila, 424-5; hears of feast, 425; relates how shorn by Dalila, 428; his despair, 428-31; rejects reconcilement with Dalila, 432-9; with Harapha, 441-6; summoned to show feats of strength, 447; goes to temple, 450; his feat there, 455-9

Samson, Duke, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 98, 120, 134-5, 145, 167

SAMSON AGONISTES, iv, 414-59; Bagehot on, xxviii, 178-9; date of, iv, 5; introduction to, 412-13

Samuel, Luther on, xxxvi, 330; the Psalmist on, xliv, 267 (6-8); Saul and, xv, 336-7

Samuel, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 229, 247, 253, 282, 287

San Carlo, plague of, xxi, 502

San Diego (1834), xxiii, 96; in (1859), 388-90; Dana on, 120

San Francisco (1834), Dana on, xxiii, 220, 226-7; (in 1835), 375-6; (in 1859), 376-82; Drake in Bay of, xxxiii, 213; history of, xxiii, 392-3

San Gallo, Antonio da, xxxi, 196 note i

San Gallo, Francesco da, xxxi, 392 and note

San Juan, Dana on, xxiii, 136-7

San Lorenzo, island of, xxix, 373

San Pedro (in 1859), xxiii, 386

San Pedro Island, Darwin on, xxix, 284-5

San Severino, Roberto of, xxxvi, 43

San Salvador, Columbus on, xliii, 21

Sanacharib, expedition against Egypt, xxxiii, 71

Sancho, Panza, Cervantes on, xiv, 10; Gandaline to, 13; becomes squire to Don Quixote, 58-9; promises not to aid master against knights, 63; beaten by the lackeys, 65; asks for promised island, 73; reason of name, 71; conversation with Don Quixote, 73-7; prefers to eat without ceremony, 78-9; the carriers and, no-n; his doubts, m16; relates the adventure, 118; his idea of knight-errantry, 118-19; adventure with Maritornes, 122-7; takes Don

Quixote's balsam, 128-9; refuses to pay innkeeper and is tossed in blanket, 131-3; discouraged, 134-5; in adventure of hearse, 145-7; tries to dissuade Don Quixote from perilous adventure, 153-4; his tale, 155-7; his distress, 158-60; rebuked for his merriment, 162-4; plans for his future earldom, 174-5; loses his ass, 189; finds wallet, 189-90; rebels, 209-11; despatched with letter to Dulcinea, 222-5, 288-93; his embassy, 229-32; returns with curate and barber, 235-6; does not wish to become a churchman, 271; nor a ruler of Moors, 274; becomes vassal of Micomicona, 283; quarrel with Quixote over Dulcinea, 300-3; recovers his ass, 284-6; in wine-bags adventure, 347-51; the barber and, 447-9; 451-4; enchanted, 462; promised his wages, 465; the curate and, 473; proves his master not enchanted, 483-5; plans for his earldom, 495-6; lament over Don Quixote, 509; his return home, 511-12; sonnet to, 515; epitaph on, 515; Lowell on, xxviii, 438; story of wine, xxvii, 209-10

Sanctuary, right of, among Romans, ix, 369 note i

Sand Dunes, Darwin on, xxix, 82

Sandauce, children of, xii, 17, 87

Sanderson, Robert, Walton's life of, xv, 322

SANDS OF DEE, xlii, 1061

Sandwich Islanders, belief of, v, 98; Dana on, xxiii, 141-7, 242

Sandwich Islands, Dana on, xxiii, 242

Sandwich Land, snow in, xxix, 253

Sandys, Sir Edwin, xxvii, 56

Sandys, George, Dryden on, xxxix, 154

Sanga, Battista, xxxi, 98 note 7

Sangreal (see Holy Grail)

Sanhedrin, Pascal on the, xlviii, 237

Sanjaya, xlv, 785, 790, 791, 835-6, 840, 844, 874

Sanjiva, xlv, 733

Sankara, xlv, 832

Sankhya, xlv, 794, 799, 820-1

Sanna, in story of FUNDEVOGEL, xvii, 140-2

Sannayas, xlv, 866

Sansovino, Giacopo del, xxxi, 149 note 2, 153-4, 356

Sant Angel, Luis de, xliii, 21

Santa Barbara, xxiii, 57-9; (in 1859), 384-6; fandango at, 236-40; funeral at, 129-30

Santa Croce, Paolo, referred to, xviii, 352

Santa Cruz River, Darwin on, xxix, 182-5

Santacroce, Antonio, xxxi, 71, 72, 79

Santi, the goldsmith, xxxi, 33

Santiago, Cape Verde Islands, Drake at, xxxiii, 226, 258

Santiago, Chili, Darwin on, xxix, 266-7; Drake at, xxxiii, 209

Santiago, Island of, xxxiii, 202

Santiago de Tolou, xxxiii, 132; Drake at, 155-6

Santini, Giovan Batdsta, xxxi, 425

Sapia, of Sienna, xx, 197 and note 3

Sapor, and Valerian, xxxix, 98

Sapphira, wife of Ananias, xliv, 432 (1-10); Bunyan on, xv, 125; Dante on, xx, 228

Sappho, Byron on, xli, 812

SAPPHO REDIVIVUS, vi, 327-8

Saragossa, Charlemagne at, xlix, 95, 184-5

Sarah, and Abraham, xxxvi, 272; lies of, xv, 260; in Paradise, xx, 419

Sarandib, island of, xvi, 288

Sardanapalus, xx, 350 note 6; Calvin on, xxxix, 43-4; city-building of, xxxv, 359; stealing of treasures of, xxxiii, 76

Sarepta (see Zarephath)

Sariputta, xlv, 701, 733; the Demons and, 710-11

Sark, battle of, vi, 175 note 5

Sarlabous, Captain, xxxviii, 49

Sarmatia, ix, 368 note 3

Sarmatians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 119-20

Sarmentus, Octavius's page, xii, 368

Sarmiento, Don Juan, xxxiii, 323, 331

Sarmiento, Mount, xxix, 246

Sarmen, Meyer von, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 412-25

Sarpedon, death of, xiii, 337; reference to, 76

Sarrebruck, Earl of, xxxv, 12, 36, 38, 46

SARTO, ANDREA DEL, xlii, 1087-94

Satan, in BOOK OF JOB, xliv, 71-2

Satan, in PARADISE LOST, seducer of mankind, iv, 88; his fall and awakening in Hell, 89-90; speech with Beelzebub, 90-2; rises and wakens the fallen angels, 93-6; raising of his standard, 101; speech to the angels, 103-4; proposes man's seduction, 104, 117; in council of fallen angels, 108-9; undertakes to find out man and his world, 118-20; issues from council, 121; wings to gates of Hell, 124; meets Sin and Death, 125-8; voyage through chaos to the world, 132-5; seen by God flying to earth, 137; on outer sphere of world, 146; beholds interior of world, 149; in the sun, 150-1; inquires way to earth, 152; first view of earth, 153-154; alights on Niphates, 154; his remorse, 155-7; decides against submission, 157; his perturbation betrays him, 157-8; arrives at Eden, 158-9; sees Adam and Eve, 162; resolves to work fail of man, 164-5, J 68; found at Eve's ear, 175; before Gabriel, 177-80;

stirs rebellion in Heaven, 197-8, 199-200; rebuked by Abdiel, 201; asserts self-existence of angels, 202; in the rebel forces, 206; combat with Abdiel, 207-9; encounter with Michael, 210-12; encourages his forces, 214-5; proposes infernal engines, 216; in second day's battle, 218, 219; returns to Eden, 262; assumes form of serpent, 262, 265; his spite, 262-5; tempts Eve, 271-80; returns to Hell, 299-303; announces his success, 302-3; changed to a serpent, 303-4; how overcome by Christ, 351-3

Satan, in PARADISE REGAINED, undertakes to ensnare Christ, iv, 360-2; tempts him in guise of old man, 367-71; appeals to fellows for aid, 374-5; undertakes to tempt Christ again, 377; tempts Jesus to eat, 379-82; tempts with riches, 382-4; tempts by glory, 384-7; tempts Jesus to assume his throne, 387-395; shows him kingdoms of earth, 390-2; shows Rome, 396-7; demands that Christ worship him, 399; tempts by offer of wisdom, 400-4; warns him of sorrows in store, 404-5; tempts by fear, 405-10; carries Jesus above Jerusalem, 408-9; his fall, 409; overcome by Christ, 410-11

Satan, Bagehot on Milton's, xxviii, 191-2, 198-202; Burke on Milton's portrait of, xxiv, 53; Calvin on, xxxix, 43; Goethe on name of, xix, 107; the grotesque in ideas of, xxxix, 347-8; Mohammedan (see Iblis); meaning of name of, iv, 300; Shelley on Milton's, xxvii, 348-9

Satiety, and fear of death, iii, 10

SATIRE, A, by Johnson, xli, 504-5

Satires, Sidney on, xxvii, 26-7; Swift on, 115-16; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 299

Satirists, Dryden on, xviii, 16-18

Satisfaction, Bacon on, xxxix, 121; Johnson on, 198-9; never attained, v, 232-3, 235

Sattwan, xlv, 853, 863-69

Saturn, Dante on reign of, xx, 375 note 5; in Italy, xiii, 278; Jove and, iv, 66; Milton on, 101; Plutarch on, iii, 45; Vesta and, iv, 34

Saturn, the planet, Dante's seventh Heaven, xx, 374

Saturnalia, feast of, ix, 226 note 3

Saturnia, Virgil on, xiii, 319

Saturninus, bequest of, ix, 272

SATYR AND MAN, fable of, xvii, 33

Satyric Drama, xii, 40 note

Satyrs, reference to the, iv, 73

Satyrus, the actor, and Demosthenes, xii, 196

Satyrus, A. Caninius, relations with Cicero, ix, 82

Saufeius, Cicero on, ix, 146

Saul, king of Israel, xliv, 451 (21); Dante on, xx, 192; David and, xli, 488; xliv, 213; Jonathan and, xliii, 98, 104; Psalms on David's deliverance from, xliv, 160-4, 211-12; his vision of Samuel, xv, 337; the witch of Endor and, iii, 90

SAUL, SONG OF, BEFORE His LAST BATTLE, xli, 812

Saul, the apostle (see Paul)

Saunderson, Mr., Burke on, xxiv, 134

Sauntering, origin of word, xxviii, 395

Saurophagus, Darwin on the, xxix, 61-2

Saussure, in the Alps, xxx, 224

Saut-perdu, horse of Malquiant, xlix, 146

Savage, James, Channing on, xxviii, 366

Savage State, progress of man from, xxxii, 284, 292; Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 168-95, 204

Savages, Darwin on, xxix, 506-7; poverty of, x, 5-6; power of imitation among, xxix, 211

Save-all, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 104-9 Savella, in THE CENCI, comes to summon Cenci, xviii, 331; finds him dead, 3323; finds Orsino's letter, 334; with Beatrice and Lucretia, 334-7

Savelli, Giovan Battista, xxxi, 134 note 3

Saveself, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 154

Savile, Sir Henry, xxvii, 56

Saving, economically considered, x, 2667; motives of, 269, 270; not happiness, xix, 364

Savonarola, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 21; the party of, xxxi, 30 note i, 32 note i

Savoyard, story of the, xxxii, 45

SAVOYARD VICAR, FAITH OF A, xxxiv, 229-305; editorial remarks on, 162-3;

Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 123

SAW YE BONIE LESLEY, vi, 442-3

SAW YE MY DEAR, MY PHILLY, vi, 501

Saxo Grammaticus, xlvi, 92

Saxon Race, Emerson on the, v, 472

Saxons, Celts and, v, 338; in England, 352-3 Saxony, breeding in, xi, 43

Say, M., Mill on, xxv, 42

SAY NOT THE STRUGGLE NAUGHT AVAILETH, xiii, 1119

Say-well, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 81

Sayce, Mr., quoted, xxviii, 240, 242

Saying, and Doing, Bunyan on, xv, 83

Sbietta, Lo, xxxi, 421-7, 428-30, 431-3

Sczva, Cassius, xii, 277

Scaevola Pontifex, Cicero on, ix, 9

Scaevola, Quintus Mucius, his part in Cicero's essay on Friendship, ix, 9-11; the publicani and, 132

Scala, Alberto della, xx, 219 note 9

Scala, Can Grande della, Dante on, xx, 359 note 14; leader of Ghibellines, 281 note 6; patron of Dante, 3; reference to, 7 note 6

Scales (constellation), Milton on, iv, 180

Scali, Giorgio, xxxvi, 35

Scaliger, and M. Aurelius Antoninus, ii, 308; on his emendations, xxxix, 248-9; on poets, xxvii, 38-40; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 125; on Virgil, xiii, 37-8; xxvii, 50

Scandal, Garrick on, xviii, 113-14; punishment of, in Dante's HELL, xx, 115-18; Sheridan's Maria on, xviii, 120

Scander Beg, xlvii, 489 note 9

Scaptius, M., ix, 143-4

Scaramouch, xlviii, 13 note I

Scarborough, John, i, 194

SCARING SOME WATER-FOWL, ON, vi, 285-6

Scarlatina, and cowpox, xxxviii, 215-16

Scarlet Fever, Jenner on the, xxxviii, 164

Scarlok, in ROBYN HODE, in adventure with knight, xl, 129, 131, 136, 137-8; with monk, 155; at archery contest, 165; at shoot in forest, 179; with Robyn at court, 183

Scarmiglione, Dante on, xx, 87

Scarron, Goldsmith on feasts of, xli, 505; Hugo on, xxxix, 351

Scatheloke (see Scarlok)

Scelidotherium, Darwin on the, xxix, 889, 90

Sceptic, in FAUST, xix, 189

Sceptical Philosophy, Hume on, xxxvii, 319-20, 407-20

Scepticism, Bacon on, xxxix, 141, 143; Bacon on contemporary, iii, 7; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 190-2, 231-2, 267-8, 270-1; Carlyle on, xxv, 353; defence of, xxxvii, 319-20; Descartes on, xxxiv, 28; Emerson on, v, 274, 283-4; Hume on, xxxvii, 306-20, 407-20; of Montaigne, xlviii, 389-93. 395-6; Pascal on, 71-7, 78 (202), 82-3 (230), 123-5, 128 (387), 128-9 (390-2), 129 (395), M2 (432), I 43 (434); Rousseau on, xxxiv, 241; Socrates on, ii, 82-3

Sceptics, Browne on the, iii, 306; Mill on, xxv, 33; Pascal on, xlviii, 99 (282)

Sceva, sons of, xliv, 465 (14-16)

Schedo (see Schio)

Scheggia, Raffaellone, xxxi, 431-2

Schelling, philosophy of, v, 437

Schicchi, Gianni, xx, 124 note i

Schiller, Carlyle on, xxv, 444; Emerson on, v, 183; Goethe and, xix, 5; Goethe on, xxv, 99; LETTERS ON ESTHETIC EDUCATION, xxxii, 207-95; life and works, xxvi, 378; on truth, xxv, 351; WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 379-489; work of, xxxii, 208

Schio, Girolamo, xxxi, 108 note

Schismatics, in Dante's HELL, xx, 115-18

Schisms, Bacon on, iii, 11-12; breed atheism, 44; Milton on, 222, 224-5, 229-31; Pascal on, xlviii, 295 (846), 297; Paul, St., on, xlv, 491 (10) (see also Heresies)

Schlegel, Friedrich, Carlyle on, xxv, 345; Carlyle on Lectures of, 348-9

Schoine, Egyptian measure, xxxiii, 9-10

SCHOLAR, THE, by Southey, xli, 734-5

SCHOLAR, THE AMERICAN, v, 5-23

Scholars, Browne on power of, iii, 315; Confucius on, xliv, 13 (9), 40 (20), 45 (3); Goethe on closet, xix, 29-30; manual labor and, v, 50-1; soldiers and, Don Quixote on, xiv, 373-9; Tseng-tzu on, xliv, 25 (7); Tzu-chang on, 63 (i); Tzu-hsia on, 64-5 (13); unteachable, ii, 146 (80)

Scholarships, Smith on, x, 133-6

Scholasticism, attacks on, xxxvii, 4

Scholiasts, Johnson on, xxxix, 241

Schomberg, Nicolas, xxxi, 89 note 2; xxxix, 53

School, Locke on going away to, xxxvii, 50-4

SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, Sheridan's, xviii, 115-97; remarks on, 108

Schoolmaster, Goldsmith's, xli, 514

Schoolmen, Bacon on the, iii, 123; Carlyle on the, xxv, 323; debt of, to St. Augustine, vii, 4; Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 358; Hume on the, xxxvii, 303 note; Mill on, xxv, 238-9; Reformation as caused by the, xxxiv, 386; subtlety of, iii, 45-6; Voltaire on the, xxxiv, 105; on war, iii, 50

Schultz, J. M., M. Aurelius Antoninus, essay on, referred to, ii, 323, 326, 333; editor of Antoninus, 317

Schuetzenberger, M., xxxviii, 290-2

Schurz, Carl, at Gettysburg, xliii, 330

Sciancato, in Dante's HELL, xx, 106

Science, another kind of ignorance, xviii, 433; Augustine, St., on irreligious, vii, 64-5; on authority, xxxix, 122-5; Bacon on popular, 123-4; Carlyle on, xxv, 320; Channing on study of, xxviii, 327-9; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 359; Emerson on our, v, 297-9; nee d of experiment in, xxxix, 125-7; foi tn and, Browne on, iii, 271-5; Faraday on study of, xxx, 85; the finding of analogy, xi, 7; Helmholtz on study of, xxx, 173; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 335-6; Hume on, xxxvii, 292, 293; Huxley on applied, xxviii, 229-30; literary study compared with, 211-20; logical method in, xxxix, 125-6, 134-5; Montaigne on study of, xxxii, 47-8; natural and mental, compared, xxx, 173-5; Pascal on false, xlviii, 196 (604); Pasteur on, xxxviii, 275, 355; poetry and, xxviii, 65-6; xxxix, 398; Pope on, xl, 415-16; public attitude toward, xxviii, 118-19; reading course in, 1, 39-41; reason and authority in, xlviii, 439-42; religion and, Bacon on, xxxix, 128-9; religion and, Faraday on, xxx, 5; sensuality of our, v, 167; several branches of, xxxiv, 362-3; teaching of, Emerson on, v, 256-7; as source of power, xxxiv, 361; value of, xxviii, 210-13

SCIENCE AND CULTURE, Huxley's, xxviii, 209-23; editorial remarks on, 1, 37

Sciences, Bacon on divisions of, xxxix, 131-2; deductive and experimental, xxv, 101-2; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 139; Montaigne on the, xlviii, 392-3; Pascal on the, 439; Pascal on infinity of the, 27-8; Sidney on object of, xxvii, 14

Scientific Congresses, Newman on, xxviii, 35-6

SCIENTIFIC PAPERS, xxx, xxxviii

Scientists, Emerson on our, v, 299

Sciography, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 363

Sciorina, Giacopa della, xxxi, 86-8

Scipio Africanus, Antiochus and, xlviii, 249-50; charged with peculation, v, 127; Cicero on, ix, 52; Cyrus and, xxxvi, 50; Ennius and, xxvii, 37; "the highth of Rome," iv, 273; the Iberian maid and, 376; leniency of, xxxvi, 56; Livy on, iii, 106; Milton on, iv, 385, 386; statue of, ix, 148-9

Scipio Asiaticus, results of conquests of, ix, 343 note i

Scipio, father-in-law of Pompey, xxxii, 7; xii, 290, 298, 299, 301; speech of, on tribune law, ix, 40-1; war against Caesar, xii, 306-7

Scipio, Publius, argument for justice, ix, 18; in Cicero's essay on OLD AGE, 46; on friendship, 21-2, 29-30; his friendships, 34; the Greek philosophers and, iii, 194-5; his belief in immortality, ix, 14-15; Laelius and, 10, 14, 20; Laelius on, 12-13; made Pontifex Maximus, 63; Q. Pompeius and, 35

Scipios, Caxton on the, xxxix, 15; Virgil on the, xiii, 236

Sciro, reference to, xxvi, 136

Scissor-beak, Darwin's description of the, xxix, 141-3

Scissor-tail, Darwin on the, xxix, 143

Scoffers, Goethe on, xix, 21-2; Sidney on, xxvii, 30-1

Scoffing, habit of, in discourse, iii, 84-5; at religion, 43-4

Scolds, punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 366-7

Scoresby, on color of water, xxix, 27

Scornigiani, Farinata de', xx, 166 note 5

Scorpion, Harrison on the, xxxv, 346

Scorzone, Jeanne, xxxi, 318-19

Scotch, Burns on the, vi, 162; Carlyle on character of the, xxv, 410-12; Harrison on diet of the, xxxv, 271-3, 288

SCOTCH BARD, ON A, vi, 216-18

SCOTCH DRINK, vi, 144-7

Scotland, agriculture of, xxxv, 310; apprenticeships in, x, 124; banking operations in, 235-8, 241-2, 244-6, 253; Burns on, vi, 161-2; Burns on learning of, 260-1; Burns' vision of, 174-6; Emerson on, v, 341; Harrison on eating in, xxxv, 271-2; Knox on Reformation in, xxxix, 58-60; quarries and mines in, xxxv, 309; Raleigh on union with England, xxxix, 79; rate of interest in, x, 92; soil of, xxxv, 308; union with England, economic effect of, x, 186, 199; wages in, 78; wolves and foxes in, xxxv, 341; Wordsworth on critics of, xxxix, 321 note (see also Caledonia)

SCOTLAND, PREFACE TO HISTORY OF THE REFORMATION IN, xxxix, 58-60

SCOTS PROLOGUE FOR SUTHERLAND, vi, 374-5

Scott, Master, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 493, 494, 495

Scott, Michael, Dante on, xx, 84 and note 6

SCOTT, Miss JEAN, EPIGRAM TO, vi, 272

SCOTT, MRS., EPISTLE TO, vi, 258-9

SCOTT, ESSAY ON, Carlyle's, xxv, 393-451; remarks on, 317

Scott, Sir Walter, ambition of, xxv, 438; babyhood, incidents of, 412-13; Ballantyne and, 429-30; biographer of Swift, xxviii, 8; Byron and, xxxii, 378-9; Carlyle on Lockhart's Life of, xxv, 396-403; death of wife, 449-51; dinner with the Regent, 428-9; Emerson on, v, 214, 444; fame, indifference to, xxv, 419-20;

financial ruin and last writings, 447-8; a genuine, healthy man, 406-7; Goethe's influence on, 424-5; lameness, 410; last days, 451; letters of, 427; Liddesdale Raids, 413-14; life at Abbotsford, 431-7; life up to thirty, 410; life, middle period of, 418-19; Life of Napoleon, Mill on, 84; love of animals for, 435-6 and note; Mill on, 94; Minstrelsy of Scottish Border, 417-18; national influences, 410-11; not a great man, 402-7; POEMS by, xli, 738-56; poems criticized, xxv, 422-4; popularity of, 395-6; in printing business, 420-1; productive faculty of, 445; Ruskin on heroes and heroines of, xxviii, 139-40; success in literature, xxv, 417-18; Taine on, xxxix, 414; unconsciousness of, xxv, 421-2; Waverley Novels, 426, 439-43; Wordsworth on, xli, 633

Scotus, Duns, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; the subtle doctor, xxviii, 47

Scowling, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 246 (24)

Scribes, Jesus on the, xliv, 407 (45-7)

Scribonia, and Augustus, xiii, 37

Scribonianus, and his wife, ix, 243

Scriptures (see Bible)

Scrofa, Cicero on, ix, 146

Scrofula, and inoculation, xxxviii, 169, 193, 219

SCROGGAM, MY DEARIE, vi, 433

Scroop, Lord, xl, 108-9, 113

Scrope, P., on earthquakes, xxix, 356

Scrovigni, arms of the, xx, 71 note 5

Scuda, value of the, xxxi, 37 note i

Scudamour, Sir, xxxix, 64-5

Scuderi, Corneille and, xxxix, 361-2

Scudery, Mile, de, on Chaucer, xxxix, 170; Dryden on, xiii, 13; Pascal on Artamene of, xlviii, 14 note 2

Scull, Nicholas, i, 58

Sculpture, Browning on, xiii, 1072; Coleridge on, xxvii, 261-2; Emerson on, v, 193; Goethe on, xxxix, 255-6, 257, 259-60, 262, 265; Schiller on, xxxii, 269-70; training for, xxxix, 265

Scurvy, Dana on, xxiii, 341-2

Scyld the Scefing, xlix, 5-6

Scylla, iEschylus on, viii, 55; Bacon on fable of, xxxix, 122; Homer on, xxii, 164-5; Milton on, iv, 51, 125; slaying of her father, viii, 102; Ulysses at, xxii, 167-8; Virgil on, xiii, 141-2

Scythian, and the Athenian, xxxvii, 10

Sea, discoloration of the, xxix, 20-7; Emerson on the, v, 329; geological changes under the, xxxviii, 394, 396; Longfellow on the, xiii, 1284; phosphorescent, xxix, 167-9; sunrise at, xxiii, 13 (see also Ocean)

SEA, BY THE, xli, 673

SEA DIRGE, xl, 270

Sea Stories, Dana on, xxiii, 5

Sea-captains, Dana on, xxiii, 358-60, 364; religious, 371-2

Sea-fire, Emerson on, v, 328

SEA-MAID, THE LITTLE, xvii, 238-59

Sea-pen, Darwin on the, xxix, 105-6

Sea-power, Bacon on, iii, 79-80; Emerson on, v, 342-3

Sea-sawdust, Darwin on, xxix, 24

Sea-slugs, Darwin on, xxix, 16

Sea-urchins, forceps of, xi, 235-6

Sea-weed, Darwin on, xxix, 243-5

Seals, Darwin on, xxix, 288; Francis Pretty on, xxxiii, 204

Seamen (see Sailors)

Search Warrants, in U. S., xliii, 194 (4)

SEAS, ON THE, AND FAR AWAY, vi, 494-6

Seasons, Burns on the, vi, 385-6; Campbell on, xli, 771-2

Seasons, Thomson's, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 322-25

SEASONS, THE HUMAN, xli, 896-7

Sebastian, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, in shipwreck, 398-9; on island after wreck, 417-22; in plot with Antonio, 423-6, 440; at the banquet, 440, 441; denounced by Ariel, 441-3; imprisoned by Ariel, 453; before Prospero, 454-5, 456, 457-8; in final scene, 461, 462

Sebastian del Piombo, xxxi, 97 note 6, 113 note 2

Sebright, Sir J., on crossing, xi, 34

Secession, Johnson, on right of, xliii, 429; Lincoln on, 316, 318-19, 320, 321; Lowell on doctrine of, xxviii, 444-5

Second Sight, of Bards, vi, 232

Second Thought, the wiser, viii, 323

Secondary Qualities, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 206-7, 210-11; Hume on, 411

Secrecy, Bacon on habit of, iii, 18; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 208 (7); Penn on, i, 337

Secret, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 182-3

Secrets, Manzoni on spread of, xxi, 186; never kept, vii, 309-10 (4); Milton on, iv, 427; proverb on, xvi, 57-8; Webster on, xlvii, 841-2

Sects, Bacon on religious, iii, 11-12; Browne on new, 259; Franklin on positiveness of, i, in; Milton on, iii, 222, 223-4, 229-30; physiognomy of, v, 338; rise of new, iii, 137-8; Ruskin on, xxviii, 109-10

Secundus, Gaius Plinius Caecilius (see Pliny the Younger)

Secundus, Pomponius, ix, 232 note i; on public opinion, 305-6

Security, Jonson on, xl, 298; Kempis on over-, vii, 268 (4); suburb of hell, xlvii, 845

Sedgwick, Gen., at Antietam, xliii, 403; at Gettysburg, 338, 358, 397; Haskell on, 358

Sedgwick, Prof., xxxviii, 412; Mill on, xxv, 125-6

Sedillot, M., xxxviii, 364, 370

Sedimentary Deposits, Lyell on, xxxviii, 400-2, 409, 411-2

Sedimentary Formations, rate of, xi, 3245; manner of, 329-30

Sedimentary Rocks, Geikie on, xxx, 330-1, 339-40

Sedition, Calvin on charges of, xxxix, 44-5; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 372

SEDITIONS AND TROUBLES, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 36-42

Sedley, Sir Charles, POEMS by, xl, 383-4

Seducers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 46, 73-5

Seeds, Darwin on destruction of, xi, 77; dissemination of, 193, 388-94, 412-13; fable of, xvii, 16; plants without, Dante on, xx, 261 and note; plumed, xi, 84; transportation of, xxix, 458-9; use of nutriment in, xi, 85; winged, Darwin on, 150

Seeley, Thomas, xxxiii, 230

SEEMING WISE, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 64-5

Segismund, in LIFE Is A DREAM, as prisoner in chains, xxvi, 13-15; with Rosaura, 14-17; birth of, related by Basilio, 24-5; reason of imprisonment, 25-6; plan to try, 26-7; his awakening in palace, 30-4; with chamberlain, 347; with Clotaldo, 36-7; second sight of Rosaura, 41; with Astolfo, 41-3; with Estrella, 43-4; quarrels with Astolfo, 44-5; with the king, 46-52; in the tower again, 52-5; rescued by soldiers, 58-68; sends Clotaldo back, 68; in the battle, 70; on his father, 71-2; made king, 74

Segrais, on the ÆNEID, xiii, 22-31, 34, 35, 38, 43-6, 55; on readers of poetry, 58-9; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 145

Seiches of Forel, xxx, 283

Seius, nightingale of, x, 182

Sejanus, Tiberius and, iii, 67-8, 94

Selden, Burke on, xxiv, 171; Milton on work of, iii, 200-1

Seldius, Charles V and, xxxix, 91

Selection, by man, Darwin on, xi, 42-5, 50-3; by man, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 241-2; by man and nature, compared, xi, 89-91; by man, in New Atlantis, iii, 174-5; Natural, xi, 87-137; Sexual, 94-6; unconscious, 45-50

Seleucus I, prophecy of, xlviii, 248

Seleucus Callinicus, xlviii, 249

Seleucus, Ceraunus, xlviii, 249

Seleucus Philopator, xlviii, 250

Self, Emerson on meaning of, v, 69-70; fear of, xlviii, 122 note 12; Pascal on, 152 (455); Shelley on principle of, xxvii, 353

Self-analyzing, Shelley on, xviii, 303

Self-assertion, Sterling on, xxv, 257 note

Self-conceit, fable on, xvii, 20

Self-condemnation, Byron on, xviii, 439

Self-confidence, Locke on, xxxvii, 120-1

Self-contempt, Kempis on, vii, 274 (i)

Self-control, Confucius on, xliv, 14 (23), 37 (i), 42 (13); Epictetus on, ii, 154 (100), 184 (15); Hindu teaching of, xlv, 796-8, 811, 813, 815, 816; Kant on, xxxii, 306-7; Kempis on, vii, 208 (3), 302-3 (i), 323; Locke on, xxxvii, 35, 58, 88, 172-3; Milton on, iv, 383; Pascal on, xlviii, 62 (160)

Self-defence, a natural right, xxxiv, 392; a social right, 394, 399

Self-denial, Epictetus on, ii, 154 (100, 101), 174 (159); Frankan on, i, 92; Kempis on, vii, 272 (4), 296-7, 304 U) 323 (3), 328 (i); Locke on, xxxvii, 27, 31, 35; training in, 31-2, 35, 87-8

Self-dependence, Confucius on, xliv, 52 (14); Pascal on, xlviii, 120 (359)

Self-education, Franklin's example of, i, 69-70

Self-esteem, Kempis on, vii, 243; Milton on, iv, 258

Self-examination, Bacon on, iii, 69-70; Burke on value of, xxiv, 9; Carlyle on, xxv, 325; Epictetus on, ii, 145 (76), 151-2 (93), 153 (98), 170 (146), 183 (7); Franklin's plan of, i, 81-4; Kempis on, vii, 223 (4); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 226 (n), 230 (31), 284 (37)

Self-fertilization, preventives of, xi, 104-5

Self-help, Emerson on, v, 53

Self-importance, Emerson on, v, 233

Self-interest, Carlyle on doctrine of, xxv, 354; Franklin on, i, 89; God's providence, x, 3; as the mover of society, 20; Pascal on, xlviii, 38; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 269-70, 273

Self-knowledge, Pascal on, xlviii, 25 (66); Shelley on, xviii, 276

Self-love, Kempis on, vii, 291 (i); Pascal on, xlviii, 43-5, 157 (474-7), 160, 162 (492), 336, 415; Pope on, xl, 416-17, 422, 429, 430, 439; Raleigh on, xxxix, 112; reason of, ix, 36; Sidney on, xxvii, 5

Self-mastery (see Self-control)

Self-possession, Goethe on, xix, 84

Self-praise, Pliny on, ix, 194

Self-preservation, Kant on duty of, xxxii, 309-10, 332-3, 340; passions of, xxiv, 35; passions of, contrasted with those of sex, 37

Self-regarding Conduct, Mill on, xxv, 268-71

SELF-RELIANCE, ESSAY ON, Emerson's, v, 59-83

Self-reliance, in children, xxxvii, 52; Epictetus on, ii, 118 (4), 120 (9), 1378 (61), 153 (98), 155 (103), 159 (115), 166 (137); of heroism, v, 1289; Kempis on, vii, 212 (2), 309 (3); Luther on, xxxvi, 263-4; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 201 (6, 8), 207 (5), 212 (3), 201 (18), 217 (29), 244 (12), 247 (28); necessity of religious, v, 29, 37-40

Self-respect, Channing on, xxviii, 333; Locke on, xxxvii, 121; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 208 (7)

Self-restraint, Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 813

Self-reverence, the bridle of vice, iii, 169

Self-sacrifice, Bacon on, iii, 34

Self-satisfaction, Pascal on, xlviii, 163 (499); Pope on, xl, 421

Self-sufficingness, Emerson on, v, 188

Self-trumpeters, fallacy of, xxvii, 235

Self-trust, the essence of heroism, v, 125; of the scholar, 15-16

Self-truth, Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109

Self-will, Pascal on, xlviii, 156 (472), 157 (475-6), 159 (482); Plato on, xii, 160

Self-will, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 259-62

Selfishness, Bacon on, iii, 60-1; Kant on, xxxii, 334, 341; Mill on limiting, xxv, 257-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 152 (456-7), 157 (477) 159 (483); Rousseau on, xxxiv, 270, 273

Selina, Helen, LAMENT by, xli, 919-20

SELKIRK, ALEXANDER, SOLITUDE OF, xli, 535-6

Selkirk, Alexander, supposed lines by, xxxix, 295

Selwyn Correspondence, Emerson on the, v, 412

Selymus I, Bajazet and, iii, 51

Selymus II, Bacon on, iii, 50

Semele, mother of Bacchus, viii, 292, 327, 368-9

Seminary Ridge, at Gettysburg, xliii, 330

Semiramis, Burns on, vi, 408; Dante on, xx, 22

Semitic Races, Taine on the, xxxix, 420

Semnones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 114-15

Sempronius, in Cato, xxvii, 188, 189, 190-1, 192-3

Senate, Burke on necessity of a, xxiv, 330; origin of name, ix, 51

Senate, United States, xliii, 181-3; equal suffrage in, 191 (5); powers with the President, 188 (2); election of VicePresident by, 187, 197

Senators, oath and qualifications of, xliii, 192 (3), 198

Sencha, son of Ailill, xlix, 237-8, 245

Seneca, on adversity, iii, 16-17; cold baths of, xxxvii, 12; Dante on, xx, 20; on death, iii, 9, 10; xlviii, 332; diet of, xxxvii, 17; on education, 78-9; on evil opinions, xxxix, 67 note; on fame, 67; method of avoiding vice, iii, 298; Milton on tragedies of, iv, 412; Montaigne on, xxxii, 30, 93-4; quotations from, xlviii, 121 note 2, 3, 6, 122 note 16; as a Stoic, ii, 320 note; on suicide, 344; Tacitus on, iii, 90; vanity of, 128

Seneca Indians, xliii, 230

Senecio, Herennius, as counsel for Baetica, ix, 315; death of, life of Helvidius by, 308; on Licinianus, 255; on orators, 251; Regulus on, 188

Senecio, Sempronius, accused of forgery, ix, 295

Senecio, Socius, letter to, ix, 199

Senjer, the chamberlain, xvi, 208

Sennacherib, Dante on, xx, 192; Mohammed on, xlv, 914 note 4 (see also Sanacharib)

SENNACHERIB, DESTRUCTION OF, xli, 785

Sennet, defined, xix, 231 note

Sensation(s), Berkeley on, xxxvii, 192-224, 228-30, 232-3, 235, 245, 248-51, 256, 259-60, 265-71, 282-3; Buddha on, xlv, 731; as the Ego, 658-60; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 311-12; Hume on, xxxvii, 299, 301-3, 322-4, 343-4; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 244-7; Ruskin on, xxviii, 112-15; same in all men, xxiv, 13-16

Sense(s), Bacon on, xxxix, 128, 134-5, 144; as source of the beautiful, xxiv, 92-102; Calderon on, xxvi, 56; Descartes on uncertainty of, xxxiv, 28, 34; Goethe on, xix, 54; the Hell of, xlii, 1398-9; Hindu teachings on world of, xlv, 796; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 311-12; Hume on evidence of, xxxvii, 408-12; Kant on knowledge through, xxxii, 360-1; More on pleasures of, xxxvi, 203-4; Petrarch on, xxxix, 98 note; pleasures of, xxxiv, 339; Pope on scale of, xl, 412; reason and, xxxiv, 32; xlviii, 39 (83); satisfactions of the, i, 332 (96); Socrates on the, ii, 53-5; as source of the sublime, xxiv, 67-73

Sensibility, Bagehot on, xxviii, 170-1; requisite to poets, xxxix, 297, 298 note; Schiller on education of, xxxii, 229-30; taste and, xxiv, 22, 23-4

SENSIBILITY, FRAGMENT ON, vi, 248

SENSIBILITY, POEM ON, vi, 426-7

Sensible Qualities, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 192-213, 219, 237, 248-9, 251; Hume on, 411

Sensible Things, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 192-26, 228-30, 233, 244-5, 25!-2, 255, 282

Sensitiveness, Cicero on, ix, 86; Ruskin on, xxviii, 113

Sensual Pleasure, Archytas on, ix, 59; Buddha on, xlv, 727-9

Sensuous Goodness, Bagehot on, xxviii, 169-71

Sensuous Instinct, Schiller on the, xxxii, 241-9

Sensuousness, Schiller on, xxxii, 275-7

Sentiment, Hume on standard of, xxvii, 205-9, 216-17; Lowell on dangers of misplaced, xxviii, 435; James Mill on, xxv, 71; reason and, xxxvii, 292; thought and, 299, 301-2

Sentimentality, Carlyle on, xxv, 326-7

Sentry, Captain, xxvii, 85-6

Senzeille, Thierry of, xxxv, 29

Seppi, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 381, 386

Septemvirs, Roman, ix, 363 note i

Septicemia, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 364-70

Septimus Severus (see Severus)

Septitius, letters to, ix, 187, 314, 316

Seraphim, Milton on the, iv, 40

Serapion, in ALL FOR LOVE, xviii, 23-7, 90-2, 104-5

Serbonian Marsh, xii, 323; Milton on the, iv, 123

SERENADE, by Scott, xli, 743

SERENADE, by Shelley, xxviii, 373-4

SERENADE, FROM THE SPANISH STUDENT, xlii, 1273

Serestus (Seresthus), xiii, 95, 298, 319

Sergeant of the Law, Chaucer's, xl, 1920

Sergestus (Sergesthus), in ÆNEID, xiii, 91, 182, 184-5, 187

Sergius, and Antony, xii, 328

Sermon on the Mount, xliv, 369 (2049)

Sermons, Pascal on, xlviii, 12 (8)

Serpa, Pedro Hernandez de, xxxiii, 324, 351

SERPENT AND FILE, fable of, xvii, 22

SERPENT AND MAN, fable of, xvii, 13

SERPENT AND WOODMAN, fable of, xvii, 18

Serpents, winged, in Egypt, xxxiii, 39-40

Serranus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 304

Serristori, Averardo, xxxi, 385 note, 429

Servants, children and, xxxvii, 40-1, 4950, 69-70, 88, 103, 117; Confucius on, xliv, 61 (25); Epictetus on, ii, 178-9 (179, 180); Indians on, i, 394 (268); Job on, xliv, 119 (13-15); liberties of, in Massachusetts, xliii, 78; Penn on, i, 389; Penn's counsel to, 341; single men best, iii, 21; taxes on, x, 504; troubles with, v, 56; unproductive laborers, x, 248

Servianus, letter to, ix, 292

Servibilis, in FAUST, xix, 183

Service, Confucius on true, xliv, 48 (23), 53 (37); Emerson on honest, v, 99; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 223 (6), 274

Services, Cicero on mentioning, ix, 33; Emerson on, v, 221

Servility, Penn on, i, 334 (119)

Servilius, Publius, ix, 117

Serving-men, More on, xxxvi, 144, 145

Servitude, impossible in state of nature, xxxiv, 195; involuntary, prohibited in United States, xliii, 197; Milton on, iv, 208

Servius Tullius, first coiner of money in Rome, x, 30

SESAME AND LILIES, Ruskin's, xxviii, 93-162; remarks on, 92

Sesostris, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 50-3

Sestius, Bestia and, ix, 99-100; charged with bribery, 99; Pompey and, 121

Setebos, xlvi, 412

Sethos, king of Egypt, xxxiii, 70-1

Settala, Lodovico, xxi, 502, 508-9, 512

Settlement, Act of, Burke on the, xxiv, 163-4

Settlement Laws, of England, x, 139-44

SEVEN RAVENS, THE, xvii, 107-9

Seven Sages, the, ix, n

Seven Sleepers, legend of, xxxviii, 391-3

SEVEN SWABIANS, THE, xvii, 203

Seven Years' War, America in, i, 127-43

Severinus, St., xxxvi, 253 (29)

Severity, with children, xxxvii, 34, 37, 63-4, 80; kindness stronger than, xvii,

Severus, Alexander, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 63, 64, 68

Severus, Annius, letters to, ix, 235, 260

Severus, brother of Marcus Aurelius, ii, 195 (14), 198

Severus, Catilius, letters to, ix, 209, 240, 244, 292

Severus, Septimus, Bacon on, iii, 104; death of, 10; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 64-5, 68; Plautianus and, iii, 68; Sidney on, xxvii, 21

Severus, in POLYEUCTE, Pauline on, xxvi, 82-3; reported to be coming to Armenia, 84-5; his love for Pauline, 87-8; learns Pauline's marriage, 88-9; with Pauline, 90-3; with Pauline in Polyeucte's prison, 116; determines to save Polyeucte, 117-19; denounces Felix, 128-9; won by Christians, 130

Sewa, Arnold von, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 412-13, 423

Sewell, George, DYING MAN IN His GARDEN, xli, 481

Seward, William H., Alaska Purchase and, xliii, 432

Sexes, Hume on difference of the, xxxvii, 355-6; James Mill on relations between, xxv, 70; in plants, separation of, xi, 100-1

Sextius, Publius, Cicero and, xii, 239

Sextus, Bishop, xx, 400 note 5

Sextus, teacher of Marcus Aurelius, ii, 194 (9), 303

Sexual Characters, secondary, defined, xi, 153; their variability, 153, 157-9

Sexual Passion, Burke on the, xxiv, 37, 38-9; in state of nature, xxxiv, 191-4; Wordsworth on origin of, xxxix, 286

Sexual Selection, xi, 94-6; beauty and, 202

Seyton, in MACBETH, xlvi, 385-6, 388

Sforza, Ascanio, xxxi, 225 note

Sforza, Francesco, citadel of, xxxvi, 71; Macaulay on, xxvii, 377; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 23, 44, 48; the Milanese and, 42

Sforza, Ludovico, Bacon on, iii, 50; at Milan, xxxvi, 8-9; Montaigne on, xxxii, 6

Sforza, Sforza, xxxi, 185 note

Sguazzella, the painter, xxxi, 196 note 2

SHADOW, THE, story of, xvii, 318-29

Shadow of Death, valley of, xv, 245-9; xliv, 169 (4)

Shadows, Celtic Isle of, xxxii, 179

Shadrach, the slave, Dana and, xxiii, 3

Shad well, Dryden and, xviii, 5; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 136; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 317

Shaftesbury, Earl of, on burlesque, xxxix, 178; on English poetry, 321; Locke and, xxxvii, 3; Montesquieu on, xxxii. 118; satire on, xviii, 5

Shahrazad, xvi, 10-13

Shah-Zeman, king of Samarkand, xvi, 5-10; Jullanar and, 326-40

Shahriyar, King, xvi, 5-13

Shakalik, story of, xvi, 184-90

Shakers, Emerson on the, v, 274, 292

Shakespeare, Arnold on, xxviii, 77, 79, 80; Arnold on selections from, 73; Bagehot on, 178; carelessness of future fame, xxxix, 233; Carlyle on, xxv, 322, 409, 421-2, 440, 444; the Celtic element in, xxxii, 160; Coleridge on, xxvii, 254; inclination to comedy, xxxix, 216; defects of, 217-20, 233: Dryden on, xviii, 19; early editions of, xxxix, 321; Emerson on, v, 15, 144, 181, 214, 433, 434, 435, 438; English drama, indebted to, 10; Gray on, xl. 455; HAMLET, xlvi, 91-211; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 268; his debt to Holinshed's Chronicles, xxxv, 216; Hugo on, xxxix, 352, 354. 355, 357, 374, 382, 386; KING LEAR, xlvi, 213-317; KING LEAR, Shelley on, xxvii, 339; lack of learning, xxxix, 227-9; Landor on, xli, 902; language of, xxxix, 196, 216-17; Macaulay on comedies of, xxvii, 384, 385; MACBETH, xlvi, 319-94; James Mill on, xxv, 16; Milton on, iv, 33; miscellaneous poems of, xxxix, 319; originality of his genius, 229-32; as a player, xxvii, 308; action in his plots, xxxix, 226-7; the poet of nature, 210-12; publications of his works, 233-50; Ruskin on creed of, xxviii, 112; Ruskin on heroes and heroines of, 137-9; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 127, 130; Shelley on, xxvii, 335; SHORT POEMS by, xl, 262-82; the sonnet and, xli, 681; Swift on, xxvii, 109; THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 395-463; THE TEMPEST, Hunt on, xxvii, 294; Thackeray on, xxviii, 9-19; Thoreau on, 413; his times and sources, xxxix, 225-6; tragedy and comedy mixed, 213-14; unities neglected by, 220-4; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 130-2; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 285, 306, 317-19, 330; Wordsworth on Sonnets, 318-19 note

SHAKESPEARE, Arnold's sonnet on, xlii, 1129-30

SHAKESPEARE, ON, by Jonson, xxvii, 55

SHAKESPEARE, ON, by Milton, iv, 25-6

SHAKESPEARE, ON THE TRAGEDIES OF, by Lamb, xxvii, 299-316

SHAKESPEARE, PREFACE TO, by Johnson, xxxix, 182 note, 208-50

SHAKESPEARE, PREFACE TO FIRST FOLIO OF, xxxix, 148-9

SHAKESPEARE, To THE MEMORY OF, by Jonson, xl, 301-3

Shakiriyeh, the, xvi, 239

Shallowness, Confucius on, xliv, 26 (16)

SHALOTT, THE LADY OF, xlii, 967-71

Shame, Burke on, xxiv, 251; Confucius on, xliv, 45 (i); Dante on, xx, 71; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 342; Milton on, iv, 162, 288; sense of, in children, xxxvii, 39-42, 60-1, 67, 173; a slow poison, viii, 321; the only grief without redress, xxvi, 86; Pope on, xl, 435; virtue and, 420; Webster on, xlvii, 796

Shame, character in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 75-8

Sbamelessness, Epictetus on, ii, 124 (23)

Shamgar, the goad of, xv, 58

Shandy, Walter, xxv, 323

Shang, and Shih, xliv, 34 (15)

Shao, Confucius on, xliv, 22; music of, 12 (25)

Shao Hu, xliv, 47 (17) note

Shao-lien, xliv, 63

Shaving, Franklin on, at home, i, 123

She, Duke of, xliv, 43 (16, 18)

SHE IS NOT FAIR, xli, 912

SHE SAYS SHE LOES ME BEST OF A', vi, 497

SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, Goldsmith's, xviii, 199-269

SHE WAS A PHANTOM OF DELIGHT, xli, 651-2

SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY, xli, 789

SHE'S FAIR AND PAUSE, vi, 328

Sheba, Queen of, reference to, xix, 223

Shechem, Bunyan on, xv, 108

Sheep, appeal of a, vi, 41-2; destruction of, for wool, x, 194; parable of the, xv, 205; sacred in Thebes, xxxiii, 27

Sheffield, the mercer, xxxix, 25

Shelburne, Burns on, vi, 52

Shelley, Percy Bysshe, Arnold on, xxviii, 89; Browning's debt to, xviii, 358; buried in Rome, xxiii, 4; Byron and, xxxii, 378; Carlyle on, xxv, 345; THE CENCI, xviii, 271-356; death of, xxvii, 284; DEFENCE OF POETRY, 327-59; remarks on DEFENCE of, 1, 48; life and works, xviii, 272; Mazzini on, xxxii, 386; on Milton's Satan, xxviii, 198; poems by, xli, 823-70; SERENADE by, xxviii, 373-4; on his own works, xviii, 273

Shell-fish, the heart in, xxxviii, 130

Shells, color of, xi, 139; fresh-water, distribution of, 410-11; Lyell on, xxxviii, 404, 405; Tennyson on, xlii, 1046; transportation of land, xi, 420

Shelton, Thos., translator of Cervantes, xiv, 3; dedication by, 5

Shem, Pascal on, xlviii, 207 (625)

Shemei, Winthrop on, xliii, 94

Shen Ch'ang, xliv, 16 (10)

Shenstone, Burns on, vi, 179; Wordsworth on Schoolmistress of, xxxix, 326 note

Sheol, references to, xliv, 81 (9), 87 (8), 92 (13), 98 (13), 104 (13), no (19), in (6), 149 (5), 158 (10), 176 (3), 178 (17), 202 (14), 253 (3), 257 (48), 291 (3), 323 (7), 346 (10)

Shepherd, in (Eoipus, viii, 242-4

SHEPHERD, THE PASSIONATE, xl, 254-5

SHEPHERD OF TENDER YOUTH, xlv, 541-2

SHEPHERD'S BOY, fable of the, xvii, 28

Shepherd's Calendar, Sidney on, xxvii, 42

Shepherd-dogs, S. American, xxix, 154-6

SHEPHERDESS, THE UNFAITHFUL, xl, 199-200

Sherbrooke, Lord, quoted, xxviii, 468-9

Sheridan, Richard B., DRINKING SONG, xli, 554; on easy writing, xxv, 445; Goldsmith on, xli, 505, 506; life and works, xviii, 108; Macaulay on, xxvii, 383-4; A PORTRAIT, xviii, 109-12; SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, 115-97; Swift and, xxviii, 28

Sheridan, Thomas, xviii, 108

Sheriff of Nottingham, in ROBYN HODE, xl, 130; with Little John, 147-8; brought before Robyn Hode, 151-4; holds archery contest, 164-5, 166; attempts to capture Robyn Hode, 168-70; captures knight, 170; killed by Robyn Hode, 172-3

Sherman, Roger, xliii, 150 note

Sherman, Wm. T., march of, to the sea, xlii, 1407

SHERRAMUIR, THE BATTLE OF, vi, 358

Sherwell, Thomas, xxxiii, 192

SHEYKH AND THE GAZELLE, story of the, xvi, 17-21

SHEYKH AND THE HOUNDS, story of the, xvi, 21-4

SHEYKH AND THE MULE, story of the, xvi, 24

Sheytans, species of genii, xvi, 9 note

Shiftiness, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 352, 366; lines on, viii, 455

Shifts, Penn on, i, 337

Shih, and Shang, xliv, 34 (15)

Shimei, reference to, xli, 485

SHIP, THE BUILDING OF THE, xlii, 1280-90

Ship-masters, Dana on, xxiii, 357-9, 3636; religious, 371-2

Ship Money, case of, v, 347

Shipley, Jonathan, i, 5

Shipman, Chaucer's, xl, 22

Shippen, quoted, xxxiv, 85

Ships, Franklin on speed of, i, 156-7; invented by Prometheus, viii, 183

Shirley, Braddock's secretary, i, 135

Shirley, Gen., Franklin on, i, 137, 154-5

Shirley, James, poems by, xl, 349-50

Sho'haib, xlv, 907

SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, THE, xlvii, 469-537; remarks on, 468

Shoes, Locke on, xxxvii, n

SHOES, THE RED, xvii, 329-34

Sholts, Harrison on, xxxv, 354

Shongi, Zealand chief, xxix, 423-4, 433

Shooting Star, in FAUST, xix, 190

SHORTEN SAIL, xl, 463-4

Short-hand, Franklin's, i, 8; Locke on, xxxvii, 135

Shortreed, Mr., and Scott, xxv, 414-6

Short-wind, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 217

Shovel, Sir Cloudesly, monument of, xxvii, 79 Show, a poor substitute for worth, xvii, 19

Shrewdness (see Cunning)

Shrewsbury, Duke of, Dryden on, xiii, 426-7

Shrimps, Harvey on, xxxviii, 86; the heart in, 130

SHROUD, THE, a story, xvii, 195-6

SHRUBBERY, THE, xli, 542-3

Shu-ch'i, xliv, 17 note 10, 22 (14), 56 (12), 63 (8)

Shu-sun Wu-shu, xliv, 65 (23), 66 (24)

Shuckburgh, E. S., translator of Cicero, ix

Shun, Emperor, xliv, 21 (28), 26 (18, 20, 21), 40 (22), 50 (45), 51 (4), 66 (i) note

Shusy Pye, xl, 84

Shuter, Mr., the actor, xviii, 203

Siberia, remains in, xxix, 254-5

Sibyl, Virgil on the, xiii, 142-3 (see De'iphobe)

Sibylline Books, Bacon on the, iii, 56; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 381; Pascal on, xlviii, 208 (628)

Sic A WIFE AS WILLIE HAD, vi, 434-5

Sichzus, and Dido, xiii, 85, 153; in Virgil's Hades, 223

Sicilian Bull, the, xx, no note i

Sicilian Vespers, reference to, xx, 316 note 10

Sicily, changes of species in, xxxviii, 405; Coleridge on government of, v, 320; geology of, xxxviii, 405; popes in, xxxvi, 296; Raleigh on history of, xxxix, 113

Sicinnus, Plutarch on, xii, 16-7

SICK LION, THE, fable of, xvii, 14-5

Sickles, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 334, 337, 345-8, 400, 413; Haskell on, 329, .345

Sickness, Epicurus on, ii, 272-3 (41); lessens fear of death, xxxii, 20-1; Pascal on use of, xlviii, 366-74; Pliny on virtue in, ix, 310; Rousseau on causes of, xxxiv, 172-3; Woolman on, i, 198, 235-6

Siddhartha Gnutama, xlv, 574

Sidney, Sir Philip, Arcadia of, xlvi, 214; Arcadia of, Johnson on, xxxix, 218; Arcadia, written at Wilton House, v, 411; DEFENSE OF POESY, xxvii, 5-51; Elizabeth and, xv, 384; Emerson on, v, 183; Johnson on language of, xxxix, 196; Jonson on, xxvii, 56; life and works, 3-4; poems by, xl, 210-14; Pope on, 433; Pugliano and, xxvii, 5; Shelley on, xli, 867; ugliness of, v, 307; Wotton on, 372

Siebel, in FAUST, xix, 85-99

Siege Perilous, the, xxxv, 107-8, 109-10; made by Merlin, 136

Siegfried, mortality of, v, 92

Sienna, the Brigata Godereccia of, xx, 122 note 7

Siennese, Dante on the, xx, 122 note 6, 198 note 8

Sierra Leone, Pretty on, xxxiii, 224

Sieve, superstition of the, xix, 103

Sieyes, Burke on, xxiv, 413

Sigebert, the monk, xx, 329 note 29

SIGEDRIFA, THE LAY OF, xlix, 368-70; remarks on, 251

Sigemund, saga of, xlix, 29-30

Siggeir, king of Gothland, xlix, 260-4; sons of, 265; with Sigmund and Sinfjotli, 269-70; his death, 271-2

Sighs, De Quincey's Lady of, xxvii, 322-4

Sight, Berkeley on realities of, xxxvii, 221-2; Burke on means of, xxiv, 109-10; Burke on pleasures of the, 14-15; Milton on sense of, iv, 416; Whitman on the, xxxix, 393

Sigi, son of Odin, xlix, 257-8

Sigismund, Emperor, and Huss, xxxvi, 317

Sigismund, father of Manfred, xviii, 443

Siglorel, the wizard, xlix, 138

Sigmund, in VOLSUNGA SAGA, xlix, 260; the sword of, 261; King Siggeir and, 261; the wolf and, 264-5; Signy's children and, 265-6; his son Sinfjotli, 2679; his revenge on Siggeir, 269-71; marriage to Borghild, 272; at death of Sinfjotli, 277; last battle, 278-9; the avenging of, 289-92; remarks on story of, 250

SIGN-POSTS, VERSICLES ON, vi, 325

Signora, the, in I PROMESSI SPOSI (see Gertrude)

Signy, daughter of Volsung, xlix, 260, 262-7, 269, 270, 271

Sigrun, Queen, xlix, 273, 274, 275-6, 361-3, 364-7

Sigurd Fafnir's-Bane, birth and growth of, xlix, 282-4; his sword, 287-8; Grifir's prophecy, 288; avenges his father, 289-92; slays Fafnir, 292-5; Regin and, 295-7; hears of Brynhild, 297-8; takes gold of Fafnir, 298; meeting with Brynhild, 299-305; his semblance and array, 305-6; at Hlymdale, 306-7; renews troth to Brynhild, 307-9; Brynhild on, 311-12; his marriage to Gudrun, 312-15, 371, 396; his wooing of Brynhild for Gunnar, 316-17, 371-2, 389-90, 395; with Gudrun, 318; his visit to Brynhild in grief, 323-25; slaying of, 326-9, 373-7, 391-2, 395, 396-7; lament for, 329-35; his daughter, 336; burned beside Brynhild, 337, 385-6, 387; fame of, 337; Morris on, 256; remarks on story of, 251, 252

Sigurd, King, and Eystein, v, 344

SIGURD, SHORT LAY OF, xlix, 371-86; remarks on, 251

Sihon, king of Amorites, xliv, 315 (n)

Silanus, Julius, in Catiline conspiracy, xii, 232, 234; Cicero on, ix, 81

Silas, the disciple, xliv, 456 (22, 27), 457 (32); with Paul, 457 (40), 458-61, 462 (5)

Silence, Bacon on habits of, iii, 18; Carlyle on, xxv, 332-3, 377; Confucius on, xliv, 8 (18), 51 (7), 59 (19); Emerson on, v, 154; Franklin's maxim of, i, 79, 80; Kempis on, vii, 224; in love, xlviii, 418; may be a lie, xxviii, 282; Montaigne on, xxxii, 41; Pascal on, xlviii, 21 (44); Penn on, i, 335 (129), 383 (118-20); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109; sole cure of wrong, viii, 28; speech and, Carlyle on, xxv, 397; terror in, xxiv, 60

Silenus, Don Quixote on, xiv, 115; Hugo on, xxxix, 347

Silicified Trees, Darwin on, xxix, 335-6, 356

Siloa, reference to, iv, 88

Siloam, tower in, xliv, 390 (4)

Silurian Period, in Europe, xxx, 343

Silva, Pedro de, xxxiii, 324

Silva, in EGMONT, xix, 301-4, 306, 325-6

Silvanus, xlv, 517 (19)

Silver, demand for, x, 175; as measure of value, 41; More on, xxxvi, 191-2; price of, x, 175; reason of value of, 403; seldom found pure, 175; value of, compared with corn, 178; variation in value of, 36, 40, 45; variation, effect of, on rents, 38 (see also Precious Metals)

Silvia, daughter of Tyrrheus, xiii, 256

SILVIA, by Shakespeare, xl, 264

Silvio, in DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 758, 759, 761-2, 805, 806

Silvius Æneas, Virgil on, xiii, 233

Silvius, Jacobus, on veins, xxxviii, 118

Simeon, xliv, 359 (25-35); finds Jesus in the temple, iv, 365; Herbert on song of, xv, 401; prophecy of, iv, 374

Similes, Bunyan on, xv, 172-3; Burke on pleasure from, xxiv, 17-18; Dryden on use of, xiii, 41-2; Johnson on, xxvii, 183-4; Sidney on, 48; Swift on, 112

Similitudes, Bacon on, xxvii, 331

Simmias, with Socrates in prison (see PHJEDO, Plato's)

Simoisius, Burke on, xxiv, 127

Simon, Archbishop of Canterbury, xxxv, 71

Simon of Gyrene, xliv, 414 (26)

Simon, the Indian, xliii, 146

SIMON LEE, THE OLD HUNTSMAN, xli, 647-9

Simon Peter, chosen aposde, xliv, 368 (14); Jesus and, 365 (3-11), 373 (40); mother-in-law of, 365 (38-9); in PARADISE REGAINED, iv, 372 Simon, son of Onias, panegyric on, xxiv, 67

Simon, the sorcerer, xliv, 439 (9-13), 440 (18-24); Bunyan on, xv, 109; Dante on, xx, 77

Simon, the tanner, xliv, 443 (43)

Simon of Tours, xx, 242 note 2

Simon, the Zealot, xliv, 368 (15), 424 (13)

Simonides, of Ceos, xii, 191 note; Hiero and, xxvii, 38; Themistocles and, xii, 9

Simony, defined, xxxvi, 284; punishment of, in Dante's HELL, xx, 46, 77-80

Simple, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 42; hanged, 216-18

SIMPLEX MUNDITIIS, by Ben Jonson, xl, 290

Simplicianus, St. Augustine on, vii, 118, 124

Simplicity, Confucius on, xliv, 44 (27); Goethe on, xix, 135; Jonson on, xl, 290; Kempis on, vii, 242; necessary to friendship, ix, 31; reward of, vi, 232; Whitman on, xxxix, 396

Simplicius, Commentary on the Enchiridion of Epictetus, ii, 318, 321, 337

Sims, and Dana, xxiii, 3

SIMSON, WILLIAM, EPISTLE TO, vi, 86-91

Simulation, Bacon on, iii, 17-19; of love, xlviii, 420 (see also Hypocrisy)

Sin, Augustine, St., on, vii, 26-30, 73, 101-3; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 258; Bunyan on living in, xv, 207; denouncing and abhorring, 85; future punishment of, vii, 232-4; in gold and in rags, xlvi, 296; knowledge of, necessary to virtue, iii, 202; man not compelled to, xxxiv, 278; Omar Khayyam on, xli, 955; Pascal on, xlviii, 221, 326; Pascal on source of, 336, 340, 352; problem of (see Evil); retribution of (see Retribution)

Sin, in PARADISE LOST, at the gates of Hell, iv, 124-5; announces herself to Satan, 127-8; opens gates, 130; paves road to world, 134; journeys to earth, 296-301; arrives in Paradise, 305-7

Sinai, Mount, cause of sounds on, xxix, 365; references to, iv, 12 (17), 347; xv, 24

Sincere, the shepherd, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 123-6, 293-4

Sincerity, Franklin on, i, 56, 79; in friendship, v, 111-12

Sinclair, Sir John, at Otterburn, xxxv, 90-1

Sindibad (see Es-Sindibad)

Sinfjotli, son of Sigmund, xlix, 267-72, 274-5, 276-7

Singers, high reward of, x, 109

Single Life, St. Paul on, xlv, 500 (32, 34)

SINGLE LIFE AND MARRIAGE, ESSAY ON, iii, 21-2

Single Men, greatest, iii, 20

Sinking Funds, misapplication of, x, 557

Sinnis, reference to, xxvi, 136

Sinon, betrays Troy, xiii, 102-8; Chaucer on, xl, 45; in Dante's HELL, xx, 125-6

Sinope, water supply of, ix, 402-3

Sins, the Seven Deadly, in FAUSTUS, xix, 227-8

Sion (see Zion)

Siracides, on beggary, xxxix, 93; on God, 103-4; quoted, 67

Sirens, the, xxii, 163; Dante on the, xx, 221; Milton on the, iv, 68; Ulysses and the, xxii, 166-7

Siret, the surgeon, xxxviii, 50

Sirius, distance of, xxx, 316; references to, xiii, 133, 330; worshipped by Arabs, xlv, 899 note 4

Sisera, and Jael, iv, 439; reference to, xliv, 248 (9)

Sismondi, and Manzoni, xxi, 3

Sisters, and brothers, Browning on, xviii, 383-4

SISTERS, THE TWA, xl, 54-6

Sisyphus, Homer on, xxii, 159-60; Jonson on, xlvii, 579; Socrates on, ii, 29

Sitones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 119

Siward, in MACBETH, in war against Macbeth, xlvi, 379, 383, 387, 390, 391; on his son, 393

Siward, the younger, in MACBETH, xlvi, 390, 393

Six NATIONS, TREATY WITH THE, xliii, 229-32

Six SWANS, THE, xvii, 132-7

Sixtus, Laurence and, vii, 248 (2)

Sixtus the Fifth, erects statue of St. Paul, ii, 307

Skadi, xlix, 257

Skanda, xlv, 832

Skanderbeg, xlvii, 489 note 9

Skeletons, at Egyptian banquets, xxxii, 16, 19

Skelton, John, xxxix, 26; Milton on, iii, 203 and note 44

Skene, and his wife, xlii, 1183

Skepticism (see Scepticism)

SKETCH IN VERSE, vi, 338-9

Sketches, unfinished, why pleasing, xxiv, 65

Skill, Kant on imperatives of, xxxii, 326, 327-8

Skill, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 232-5

Skin-changers, xlix, 268 note i

SKINNER, CYRIACK, SONNETS TO, iv, 85

Skinner, John, Johnson on, xxxix, 187-8; TULLOCHGORUM, xli, 568-70

SKIPPER IRESON'S RIDE, xlii, 1357-60

Skrellings, the, xliii, 13, 15-17

Skunks, Darwin on, xxix, 87

Sky, Kelvin on color of the, xxx, 270-2; Omar Khayyam on the, xli, 954

SKYLARK, THE, by Hogg, xli, 767

SKYLARK, To A, by Shelley, xli, 829-32

SKYLARK, To THE, by Wordsworth, xli, 644

Slander, Penn on, i, 337 (145); proper attitude toward, ii, 176 (169); Shakespeare on, xlvi, 170-1; superiority to, ii, 119 (7) (see also Detraction)

Slanderers, Sheridan on male, xviii, 120

Slang, Jack, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 207, 212

Slave Labor, compared with free, x, 82; Woolman on, products of, i, 286 Slave-making Ants, xi, 264-8 Slave Trade, in Treaty of Ghent, xliii, 263; in Webster-Ashburton Treaty, 280-1, 287; Woolman on, i, 241, 2423, 296

Slavery, abolition of, in America, xxviii, 442-7; abolition of, in rebellious states, xliii, 323-25; attempted justification of, i, 203-5; congressional control of, xliii, 185 (i), 191 (5); Darwin on, xxix, 502-3; Darwin on instances of, 33-4; Emerson on, xlii, 1263-4; Epictetus on, ii, 131 (41); among the Germans, xxxiii, 106-7; in Greece and Rome, iii, 77; Homer on, xxii, 236; impossible in state of nature, xxxiv, 195; Lincoln on, xliii, 424-5; Lincoln's attitude toward, 313, 319; Lowell on, xlii, 1371; in Massachusetts, xliii, 79; in New Jersey, i, 178 note; origin of, xxxiv, 210; Pascal on, xlviii, 79 (209); the peace of, iv, 116-17; production and, i, 203; prohibited in U. S., xliii, 196-7; Quakers and, i, 168, 206-9, 212, 225, 228-9, 251, 272-3; in southern colonies, 206-7; in the territories, xliii, 318; Whittier on, xlii, 1345-7

Slavery Contracts, illegal, xxv, 299-300

SLAVE'S LAMENT, THE, vi, 437-8

Slavonic Race, Freeman on the, xxviii, 267

Slay-good, the giant, xv, 271-2

Sleep, Browne on, iii, 327-8; Burke on, xxiv, 118; of children, Locke on, xxxvii, 21-3; Coleridge on, xli, 691; Goethe's Egmont on, xix, 332; of impostors, Shelley on, xviii, 326; Milton on, iv, 37, 59; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 341, 362, 422-3; Shelley on, xli, 833

SLEEP, THE, by E. B. Browning, xli, 941-

SLEEP, To, by Daniel, xl, 222

SLEEP, To, by Keats, xli, 896

SLEEP, To, by Sidney, xl, 213

SLEEP, To, by Wordsworth, xli, 680

SLEEPING BEAUTY, by Rogers, xli, 582-3

Sleeping Beauty, story of, in LITTLE BRIAR-ROSE, xvii, 137-40

Sleepy-head, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 217

Sleigh-bells, Poe on, xlii, 1233

Sloane, Sir Hans, i, 43

Sloane, Sir John, Museum of, v, 333

Slocum, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 334, 336, 358, 3975 Haskell on, 358

Sloth, the sin, in FAUSTUS, xix, 228

Sloth, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 42; hanged, 216-18

Slothfulness, ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 347 (18)

Slough of Despond, xv, 18-20, 190-1

Slow-pace, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 217

Slow-worm, Harrison on the, xxxv, 345-6

Sluggishness, in children, xxxvii, 107-10; lines on, xxxix, 294-5

Smallness, as source of beauty, xxiv, 92-3, 125-7

Small-pox, chicken-pox and, xxxviii, 173; cow-pox and, 147-54, 160-1, 172, 174, 178, 186 note, 187, 193, 196-9, 200-1, 202-3, 204, 206 note, 209, 210, 212-15, 216, 219-20; heel-disease of horses and, 154-5, 183-4, 197-8; inoculated, 169, 192-3; mortality from, 226; propagated by contagion, 226; cases of return of, 193-5, 218-19; scrofula and, 219; source of, 145, 163-4; spurious, 175-8; treatment of, 190, 214; varieties of, 164, 189

SMALLPOX, VACCINATION AGAINST, xxxviii, 145-220

Smart, Christopher, SONG TO DAVID, xli, 484-98

SMELLIE, WILLIAM: A SKETCH, vi, 255

Smells, beauty in, xxiv, 101; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 199-200, 206; as sources of the sublime, xxiv, 71-3

Smiles, of villainy, xlvi, 117

Smith, Adam, life and works, x, 3-4; Mazzini on, xxxii, 380; Mill on, xxv, 23; WEALTH OF NATIONS, x; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 321 note

Smith, Alexander, BARBARA, xlii, 1146-7

Smith, Dr., Andrew on African animals, xxix, 92-3

Smith, F., on ants, xi, 264, 281

Smith, Rev. George, Burns on, vi, 99

Smith, Goldwin, on Jamaica Committee, xxv, 183 note

SMITH, JAMES, EPITAPH ON, vi, 120-1; EPISTLE TO, 167-71

Smith, John, with Drake, xxxiii, 190

Smith, John, the Quaker, i, 272

Smith, Captain John, his books, ii, 318-19

Smith, Sydney, FALLACIES OF ANTI-REFORMERS, xxvii, 225-51; life and works, 224; quoted, v, 415

Smith, Sir Thomas, on the English, xxxv, 363

Smooth-man, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102

Smoothness, as cause of beauty, xxiv, 93, 99, 120-4

Smugglers, Smith on, x, 538-9

Smyrdis, prophecy of, xlviii, 248

Snails, Harvey on, xxxviii, 86; the heart in, 130

Snake, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, with Lady Sneerwell, xviii, 115-17; suspected of treason, 119; detected in forgery, 142; employed by Lady Sneerwell in plot, 188; confesses, 193-4

Snakes, Buddhist ideas of, xlv, 708-9; Darwin on, xi, 202-3; South American, xxix, 103

Sneerwell, Lady, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, conversation with Snake, xviii, 115-17; with Joseph Surface, 118-19; on slander, 120; plots against Maria, 126; in gossip with friends, 132-6; at Lady Teazle's after the scandal, 181-3; with Joseph Surface, 188-9; accuses Charles, 192-3

Sneezing, Pascal on, xlviii, 62 (160)

Snorri, son of Karlsefni, xliii, 15, 20

Snow, Darwin on red, xxix, 326-7; effect of, on rocks, 322-3; height of perpetual, 249; structure of frozen, 328 note; transformation of, to ice, xxx, 234-5, 240

Snowdon, Ruskin on, xxviii, 155

Snow-line, Helmholtz on the, xxx, 213-14

SNOW-WHITE AND ROSE-RED, xvii, 213-18

SNOW-WHITE, LITTLE, xvii, 146-54

So OFT AS I HER BEAUTY DO BEHOLD, xl, 250

Soap-bubbles, experiments with, xxx, 41, 51-2

Soaring, of birds, Darwin on, xxix, 190-1

Sociability, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 407

Social Acts, natural, ii, 223-4 (6), 286 (4), 292 (21), 298 (20)

Social Contract, Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 219-20

Social Improvement, dependent on art, xxxii, 230 et seq.

Social Phenomena, Huxley on, xxviii, 223

Social Pleasures, Burns on, vi, 83; Epictetus on, ii, 118 (3)

Social Reform, Emerson on, v, 259-61; possibility of, 55; to come through love, 56-7

Social Relations, penalty of false, v, 94

Social Science, Comte's stages of, xxv, 104

Social Virtues, and self-love, xl, 429, 431, 439

Socialism, Austin on, xxv, 112; of early Christians, xliv, 427 (44-5), 431 (326); Emerson on, v, 259-60; Lowell on, xxviii, 469-70; Mill on, xxv, 143-5; f Moravians, i, 143-4; More on, xxxvi, 167, 168-9, J 84-5, 186, 189-90, 236, 238, 239, 240; Morris on, xlii, 1195-7; St. Simonian, xxv, 105; Woolman on, i, 158

Society, aimlessness of, v, 234; Bacon on aversion to, iii, 65-6; Burke on civil, xxiv, 197-8; Carlyle on, xxv, 327-30; Carlyle on modern, 334-46; as a contract, Burke on, xxiv, 232-3; desires that dispose to, xxxiv, 370-1; Emerson on the state of, v, 6, 75; the end of man, ii, 227-8 (16), 230 (30), 234 (14); founded on mutual deceit, xlviii, 45; frivolousness of, v, 189; good, defined, 200-1; the individual and, xxv, 203-9, 270-89, 290-1; individuality and, v, 62; interests of, in relation to landlords, wage-earners, and capitalists, x, 208-11; man in relation to, xl, 422-30; Mill on so-called, xxv, 141-2; Mill on tyranny of, 198-202; natural and ideal, xxxii, 213-17; necessary to man, ix, 38; never advances, v, 80; Pascal on, xlviii, 79 (211); Pascal on ties of, 107 (304); passions which belong to, xxiv, 36-46; passions that incline to, xxxiv, 391; a perpetual disappointment, v, 109; rights and duties of man in, xxxiv, 392-4, 401-13; Rousseau on origin of, 166, 185-6, 198-220; Rousseau on spirit of, 226-8; Rousseau on state of, 257; state of, effect on profits, x, 90, 96-7; state of, effect on wages, 71-2, 82-3; state of, in relation to its poetry, xxxix, 339-53; worst, is some relief, xix, 68

SOCIETY, A PROSPECT OF, xli, 520-31

Sociology, Huxley on study of, xxviii, 223

Socinians, Voltaire on the, xxxiv, 83-4

SOCRATES, APOLOGY OF, ii, 5-30

Socrates, on absolutes, ii, 96-7; Alcibiades and, xii, 106, 108-9, 110, 111-12; xlvi, 28; Aristophanes on, viii, 486; ii, 7; Aspasia and, xii, 60; Browne on, iii, 279; calmness of, ii, 139-40 (64), 149 (85); on causes, 90-6; charges against, 3, 6, 7, 12; Cicero on, ix, n, 12, 1314; the cook and, xxxix, 356; as corrupter of youth, ii, 22; Dandini on, v, 268; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; on death, ii, 17-18, 25, 27, 29, 50-9, 62; on death and the Thirty, xxxii, 22; death of, why delayed, ii, 45-6; deformity of, iii, 108; demands reward for his services, ii, 25; on discontents, 294 (39); divinities revealed through works, 331; dress of, 293 (28); on duty, 165 (132); idea of earth, 104-9; eloquence of, 5; Emerson on, v, 66, 127, 141, 203; Epictetus on, ii, 124 (21), 127 (32), 134 (52), 150 (91), 154 (99), 177 (175), 180 (185); on essential opposites, 97-100; Euripides and, viii, 302; on doing evil, ii, 37-8; on God, 126 (28); on forgiveness, 339; hatred against, its origin, 3, 6, 9, 12; on the hereafter, 103-4, 108-10; on hospitality, 179 (181); Hugo on, xxxix, 343; Hume on death of, xxxvii, 393; as example of humility, i, 80; on immortality, ii, 58-62, 67-73, 84-103; on incantations, v, 176; inward voice of, ii, 20; on knowledge as recollection, 62-7; last hours of, 46-113; life and philosophy, 3-4; the lyre of, ix, 54; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 198, 206 (3), 208 (6), 251-2 (66), 254 (3), 343; Meletus and, 11-16; Mill on, xxv, 34; Mill on condemnation of, 218-19; Milton on, iv, 386, 402; on misology, ii, 82-3; mission of, 157 (108); on his mission, 20-1, 24-5; Myrto and, xii, 105; early studies in natural science, ii, 90; on obedience to laws, 39-41; ostentation of, iii, 128; Pascal on, xlviii, 268 (769), 332; Penn on, i, 343 (227); Perdiccas and, ii, 293 (25); on pleasure and pain, 48; on his pleasure, 172 (153); as a poet, 48-9; xxvii, 39; Pope on, xl, 436; in prison, ii, 180 (185); prophesy on accusers, 27-8; as public officer, 20-1; on public opinion, 35-7, 292 (23); on his readiness for trial, 133 (48); refuses to beg mercy, 22-4, 26-8; refuses to escape, 37-43; refuses to be silent, 26-7; religion of, 14-16, 24; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 301-2; against Sicilian expedition, xii, 121; sons of, ii, 23, 30, 33-4, 43, in; on the soul, xxxiv, 103; on suicide, ii, 49-50; method of teaching, xxxii, 36; teachings of, ii, 3, 17-18; xxviii, 86; virtue's chief favorite, xxxii, 52; vision of, ii, 32; wealth of, xii, 79; wisdom of, ii, 8-10, 17; on women, xxxix, 10-12; world-citizenship of, ii, 121-2 (15); xxxii, 45

Socrates, the historian, iii, 199

Socratic Method, Franklin and the, i, 17J 8j 35-6; Mill on the, xxv, 19, 238-9

Soderini, Francesco, xxxi, 174, 177

Soderini, Piero, xxxi, 12 note i; Vespucci's letter to, xliii, 28

Sodom, Browne on, iii, 272; Bunyan on, xv, 113; Milton on wickedness of, iv, 100; Mohammed on, xlv, 891 note, 899 note 5

SODGER, I'LL GO AND BE A, vi, 36

Soest, in EGMONT, xix, 253-9, 271-7, 297-300, 316

Sofala, Milton on, iv, 329

Softness, beauty in, xxiv, 99

Sogd, hospitality of, v, 125-6

Sogdiana, mentioned, iv, 391

Soger, term applied to sailors, xxiii, 123 note

Sogliani, Giovanbattista, xxxi, 28

Soire'es, Carlyle on, xxv, 393-4

Solace, God the true, vii, 277-8

Solamona, king of Atlantis, iii, 160,

Solar Spectrum, xxx, 261

Solar System, motion of the, xxx, 312

Soldanieri, Gianni, xx, 134 note 12

Soldiers, ambition of, iii, 93-4; love of, 28; Machiavelli on different kinds of, xxxvi, 40-8; marriage of, iii, 21; Massinger on qualities of, xlvii, 869-70; pay of, why low, x, 111 ; quartering of, in United States, xliii, 194 (3); students compared with, by Don Quixote, xiv, 374-9

SOLDIER'S DREAM, xli, 770-1

SOLDIER'S FORTUNE, THE, xxvi, 299-375

SOLDIER'S RETURN, THE, vi, 457-9

Soldiers' Song, in FAUST, xix, 42-3

Soldiers' Song, from JOLLY BEGGARS, vi, 123

SOLEMN LEAGUE AND COVENANT, vi, 512

SOLEMN Music, AT A, iv, 40

Solicitation, liberty of, xxv, 294-7

Solidification, heat evolved in, xxx, 39-40

Solidity, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 210

Solinus, Milton on, iii, 241 note 35

Solis Dan, to Don Quixote, xiv, 12-13

SOLITARY REAPER, THE, xli, 654-5

SOLITUDE, by Pope, xl, 405-6

Solitude, Bacon on real, iii, 65-6; Burke on, xxiv, 39; contrary to human nature, ix, 38; delight in, iii, 65-6; impossible, 324; Kempis on, vii, 224-6; Marvell on, xl, 377, 379; Milton on, iv, 35-6, 37, 252, 266; Pascal on, xlviii, 53; Penn on, i, 319; Selkirk on, xli, 535-6; terror in idea of, xxiv, 60-1

Solomon, Arabian idea of power of, xvi, 296-8; in the Arthurian Legends, xxxv, 187-90; Browne on salvation of, iii, 308; Bunyan on, xv, 106; Burns on loves of, vi, 48; Burns on Proverbs of, 144; in story of CITY OF BRASS, xvi, 306-10; Cowley on, xxvii, 61; Dante on, xx, 328 and notes 20, 21; Dante on salvation of, 343 note 23; Dante on wisdom of, 342 and notes; as author of ECCLESIASTES, xliv, 334; on fools, xxxvi, 156; the genii and, xvi, 26 note; the harlots and, xliii, 93-4; idolatry of, iv, 99, 376; Kempis on, vii, 336 (4); his largeness of heart, xxxix, 80; lost book of, iii, 276 (24); magic palace of, xlii, noo; on mercy, xliii, 95; Milton on, iv, 271, 350; mines of, xxxv, 321; Pascal on, xlviii, 65 (174), 217 (651), 268 (769); Psalms attributed to, xliv, 144, 231-2, 310-11; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130; Sidney on Songs of, xxvii, ii ; temple of, iv, 98; xliv, 438 (47); versified, vi, 183-4; on violence, xxxix, 94; on wisdom and riches, 90; wives of, iv, 376-7; xv, 260; works of, in New Atlantis, iii, 161

Solomon's House, in New Atlantis, iii, 153, 161-2, 171-81; comment on, 144; a father of, 170-1

Solon, Croesus and, iii, 74; on custom, xxxvii, 27; epitaph of, ix, 71; on happiness, xxxii, 5, 6; old age of, ix, 54; Pisistratus and, 71; on reward and punishment, 177; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130; Sidney on, xxvii, 7

Solosmeo, Antonio, xxxi, 134 note 4, 135, 138

SOMEBODY, FOR THE SAKE OF, vi, 510

Somerby, George, xxiii, 402

Somers, Lord, xxiv, 158; Addison and, xxvii, 158; on PARADISE LOST, xxxix, 321 note

Somerset, Duke of, on colleges, xxxv, 383

Somerset, Earl of, and Dr. Donne, xv, 340

Son of the Vine, in New Atlantis, iii, 164, 165

Soncino, Raimondo di, despatches of, xliii, 46-8

SONG, by Blake, xli, 591-2

SONG, by Donne, xl, 307

SONG, by C. G. Rossetti, xlii, 1181

SONG, by Sidney, xl, 210-11

SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 93-195

Songs, Milton on, iv, 33, 35, 40, 122

SONNET, THE, by Wordsworth, xli, 681

Sonnets, Pascal on false, xlviii, 18; Taine on study of, xxxix, 411-12; Wordsworth on, 299

SONNETS FROM THE PORTUGUESE, xli, 92341

Sons, Yu-tzu on duties of, xliv, 5 (2); Confucius on duty of, 6 (u), 7 (5, 6, 7, 8), 14 (20), 43 (18)

Soothfastness, xlv, 853-4, 863, 864, 869

Sopater of Beroea, xliv, 467 (4)

Sophia, Princess, title of, xxiv, 163

Sophists, the, xii, 6

Sophocles, the JEgxan and, xlii, 1138; Æschylus and, viii, 462; ANTIGONE, 255-99; Aristophanes on, 441, 486; Carlyle on tragedies of, xxv, 366; Hugo on, xxxix, 347; life and works, viii, 208; Milton on, iv, 413; (Eoipus THE KING, viii, 209-54; old age of, ix, 53; Pericles and, xii, 43; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 131

Sophocles, duke of Athens, v, 121

Sophronius, and Basil, xxviii, 60

Sorcery, Pascal on, xlviii, 282-3

Sordello, in Dante's PURGATORY, xx, 168 and note 9

Sorli, son of Gudrun, xlix, 353, 357, 418, 426, 428, 429-30

SORROW, LEVANA AND OUR LADIES OF, xxvii, 321-5

Sorrow (s), Augustine, St., vii, 50; better than laughter, xliv, 342 (3); come in battalions, xlvi, 178; folly of, ii, 123 (19); godly and worldly, xlv, 524 (10); joy and, xix, 126; knowledge is, xviii, 407; Pascal on, xlviii, 371-2; past and future, xlvii, 804; pleasure of, xxvii, 352; Pliny on feeling and bearing, ix, 325-6; Raleigh on two sorts of, xxxix, 97; tears and, xxvii, 285

Sorrows of Werther, Goethe's, xix, 5; Carlyle on, xxv, 339

Sosicles, the Pedian, xii, 18

Sosthenes, xliv, 463 (17); xlv, 491

Sot, fable of the, v, 68

Sotthiya, the grass-cutter, xlv, 616

Soul, ancient ideas of the, xxxiv, 102-4; Arabian belief of the, iii, 258 (7); Augustine, St., on the, vii, 58; M. Aurelius Antoninus on, ii, 331-2; Berkeley on the, xxxvii, 252-5; body and, Buddha on, xlv, 647-52, 662-3; body and, Epictetus on, ii, 178 (178), 120 (10); body and, Hume on, xxxvii, 339, 343-4; body and, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 199 (2), 206 (3), 211 (16), 211 (3), 237 (29); Cicero on the, ix, 72; creation and transmission of the, iii, 287-90; Dante on the, xx, 248; Descartes on creation of the, xxxiv, 47-8; Descartes on existence of the, 29, 32, 38; Emerson on the, v, 9, 135; Emerson on laws of the, 26; Epictetus on care of the, ii, 139 (64); as a harmony of the body, 78-9, 85-9; immortality of the (see Immortality); Hindu doctrine of the, xlv, 792, 849, 853; Locke on the, xxxiv, 104-5; Lowell on the, xlii, 1387; Montaigne on the, xlviii, 391-2; nature and, v, 8; Omar Khayyam on the, xli, 953; Pascal on the, xlviii, 82 (230), 83 (233); Pascal on immateriality of the, 118 (349); Plato's two horses of the, xii, 349 note; pre-existence of the (see Pre-existence); Prior on the, xl, 398 (269); progressiveness of the, v, 72; Raleigh on the, xxxix, 101; reality of the, v, 99-100; relations of the, to the divine spirit, 71; Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 257-9, 263-4; Shakespeare on the, xl, 281 (136); spherical form of the, ii, 288 (12); strength of, Diogenes on, 138 (62); transmigration of (see Transmigration); Voltaire on the, xxxiv, 105-7; Whitman on the, xxxix, 396

Soul-sides, the two, xlii, 1099

Soul of the World (see Over-soul)

Sound, More on pleasures of, xxxvi, 2034; as source of the sublime, xxiv, 6971; velocity of, xxx, 253-4; vibrations of, compared with light, 256-8, 262-3; wave theory of, 251-5

Sounds, beauty in, xxiv, 100-1; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 200-2, 206-7, 265; Burke on intermitting, xxiv, 70-1; repetition of, cause of sublimity in, 112 South, Tennyson on the, xlii, 974-5 South America, Darwin on, xxix, 21-375; Drake in, xxxiii, 203-12; geology of west coast, xi, 328-9; species of, 399, 401-2; zoology of, compared with North, xxix, 136-7; zoology, changes in, 178-80

South American Republics, Monroe on, xliii, 278-9

South Shetland Islands, vegetation of, xxix, 253

South Wind, Kingsley on the, xlii, 1063

Southampton, tides at, xxx, 275

Southern Cross, Dana on the, xxiii, 30; Darwin on the, xxix, 507

Southern Hemisphere, climate and productions of, xxix, 253-6; leaving in, 437

Southern, Henry, xxv, 62, 83

Southey, Robert, POEMS by, xli, 732-5; on romance-poetry, xxviii, 75-6

Southwell, Sir Richard, xxxvi, 126, 129

Southwell, Robert, THE BURNING BABE, xl, 218-19

Sovereignty, Hobbes on rights of, xxxiv, 397; Vane on popular, xliii, 129-31

Sower, parable of the, xliv, 374 (4-15)

Space, abolished by the soul, v, 136; Aristotle on, 175; Hume on idea of, xxxvii, 412-13; Pascal on, xlviii, 78 (206), 428-30; Pascal on infinite divisibility of, 430-7

Spain, Bacon on empire of, iii, 77; Freeman on, xxviii, 258-9; Goethe on, xix, 91; Monroe on affairs of, xliii, 277, 279; in New World, x, 401-4; Raleigh on kings of, xxxix, 84-9; Raleigh on wealth of, xxxiii, 307-9, 318-20; under Roman dominion, xxxvi, 17; Taine on history of, xxxix, 425; taxes on precious metals in, x, 380-2; TREATY OF U. S. WITH (1819), xliii, 268-79; TREATY OF U. S. with (1898), 442-9

Spangenberg, Bishop, i, 139

Spaniards, Pare on cruelty of, xxxviii, 32, 37; slowness of, iii, 63; wisdom of, 64

Spaniels, Harrison on, xxxv, 350, 351-2

Spanish Armada, Drake and the, xxxiii, 122; Macaulay on the, xli, 915-16; prophesied, iii, 92; Providence in defeat of, 269

Spanish Infantry, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 85

Spanish Language, Sidney on, xxvii, 50

Spanish Literature, Taine on, xxxix, 436

Spanish Student, Serenade from the, xlii, 1273

Spanish War, Treaty ending, xliii, 442-9

Sparhawk, Harrison on the, xxxv, 338-9

Sparks, Jared, ordination of, xxviii, 308

Sparrow, Francis, xxxiii, 366, 367

Sparta, age honored at, ix, 68; boys in, iii, 98; Dante on, xx, 169-70; Descartes on pre-eminence of, xxxiv, 13; education in, iii, 244; elders of, ix, 52; reason of freedom of, xxxvi, 41-2; iron money of, x, 29; a military state, iii, 78; military spirit of, xxvii, 374; Milton on, iii, 194; policy of, toward Athens and Thebes, xxxvi, 18; precious metals in, x, 318; Rousseau on laws of, xxxiv, 222; warriors most honored in, xxxiii, 83

Spartans, Bacon on the, iii, 76-7; Emerson on the, v, 50; lyrics among the, xxvii, 28; respect for seniority, xxxiii, 41; Taine on the, xxxix, 421 (see also Lacedemonians)

Spay, defined, xxxv, 343

Speaking, Locke on good, xxxvii, 160-1; Manzoni on thinking before, xxi, 517; Pascal on, xlviii, 22 (47)

Species, aberrant, xi, 448-9; allied, struggle with each other, 84; ancient and modern compared in organization, 368-72; resemblance of ancient and modern, 372-4; centres of creation of, 3836; connected by extinct links, 362-6; why distinct, 319-20; doubtful, 5864; duration of, 332-3; geographical distribution of, 378-430; groups of, appearance and disappearance, 352-3; intercrossing between, 105-6, 109; of large genera, vary most frequently, 668; of large genera, resemble each other, 68-9; lost, ao not reappear, 350, 351-2; Lyell on changes of, xxxviii, 403-5, 409, 412-13; Lyell on extinction of, 403, 405, 409; meaning of, xi, 54; new, appear gradually, 349, 350; favorable conditions for production of new, 107-13; production of new, in New Atlantis, iii, 174; number of, limits to, xi, 133-5; origin of, progress of opinion on, 9-22; past, present, and future, 128; evidence of their being permanent varieties, 67, 68-9, 156, 315; Rousseau on immutability of, xxxiv, 253; simultaneous changes of, xi, 357-62; special creation of, objections to doctrine, 67, 102-3, 136, 143, 144, 154, 157, 160, 166, 180, 192, 196, 247-50, 315, 399, 414, 417, 418, 419, 427, 453-4, 455, 472-3. 489, 491, 492, 494, 495, 496-7, 499-500; sterility between, 39, 285-305; sterility does not determine, 287, 307-8; succession of, in geological record, 349-77; sudden appearance of, in geological record, 340-3; varieties compared with, 308-9, 311, 334-5; how varieties become, 115-24; why well defined without intermediate forms, 170-5; wide-ranging, vary most, 65-6; in wide-ranging genera, 425-6

SPECIES, ORIGIN OF, DARWIN'S, xi

Specific Characters, more variable than generic, xi, 156-9

Speciousness, beauty contrasted with, xxiv, 98

Spectator, The, xxvii, 162, 163-5, 170; Addison and Steele's parts in, 82; Franklin's use of the, i, 16; selections from the, xxvii, 73-80, 83-7

SPECTATOR CLUB, Steele's, xxvii, 83-7

Spectrum, the diffraction, xxx, 267-8; Faraday on the, 33; the prismatic, 261; solar, 261; Voltaire on the, xxxiv, 122

Speculation (financial), in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 245-8; profits of, x, 115-16

Speculation (philosophical), Bacon on, iii, 89-90; Browne on, 264; Buddha on useless, xlv, 647-52; Carlyle on, xxv, 340-2, 353; Hume on, xxxvii, 417-18; Kempis on, vii, 207 (i), 262 (4); Lessing on religious, xxxii, 202; Milton on, iv, 245; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 242, 243, 254; Scepticism and, xxxvii, 319; Adam Smith on, x, 15; Sydney Smith on, xxvii, 247-8

Speculative Men, Goethe on, xix, 75

Spedding, J., editor of Bacon, xxxix, i

Speech, Bacon on, iii, 106; Burke on, xxiv, 51-4, 150; Carlyle on, xxv, 376-9, 397; Coleridge on, xxvii, 257; Confucius on, xliv, 45 (4), 47 (21), 51 (7), 54 (40), 56 (6); Epictetus on, ii, 146-7 (81), 175 (164), 183 (5, 6); Franklin on, i, 18-19, 79; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 322-30; liberty of, Mill on, xxv, 206, 210-49, 25; liberty of in U. S., xliii, 194 (i); Marcus Aurelius's rule of, ii, 258 (30), 297 (17); Montaigne on, xxxii, 63-5; Pascal on freedom of, xlviii, 314-15; Penn's rules of, i, 3356, 383; Quaker idea of, 184, 227; religiousness of, xlv, 864; rules of, vii, 213; Sidney on, xxvii, 31; Themistocles on, iii, 69

Speght, editor of Chaucer, xxxix, 163 note 16

Spelling, learned by play, xxxvii, 130

Spence, Dr., i, 146; apparatus purchased by Franklin, 114

Spence, William, on Blacklock, xxiv, 1334; on England, v, 391

SPENCE, SIR PATRICK: a ballad, xl, 746; Coleridge on, xli, 728

Spencer, Earl of Kent, xxxix, 73

Spencer, Herbert, on beginning of organization, xi, 132; idea of evolution and, 6; on origin of species, 15; on principle of life, 304-5; inventor of term "Survival of Fittest," 72

Spencer, the elder, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 48, 52-3, 63-4

Spencer, the younger, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 29-31; presented to king, 39; advice to king, 47-8; on Gaveston's death, 50; adopted by king, 51, 52; in the battle, 53; sends Levune to France, 55; with Edward after battle, 59-60; in Edward's flight, 62, 64; in the abbey, 65; captured, 67-8

Spenser, Edmund, Arnold on, xxviii, 77; Burke on Belphebe of, xxiv, 136; creed of, v, 437; A DITTY, xl, 245; Dryden on, xiii, 13, 26, 54, 55, 57, 62, 63; Emerson on, v, 144, 433; EPITHALAMION, xl, 234-45; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 272; heroes and heroines of, xxviii, 142; Johnson on, xxxix, 232; language of, 196; life and works, 61 note; James Mill on, xxv, 16; Milton on, iii, 202; PERIGOT, xl, 247; PREFATORY LETTER ON FÆRIE QUEENE, xxxix, 61-5; Prince Arthur of, xiii, 19; PROTHALAMION, xl, 229-34; Shelley on, xxvii, 338; SONNETS, xl, 249-52; Thoreau on, xxviii, 413; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 306, 317; Wordsworth on sonnets of, xli, 681 Spensippus, death of, xxxii, 14; schoolhouse of, 56

Spermatozoa, nature of, xxxviii, 342

Sphinx, OEdipus and the, iv, 409

Spices, Locke on use of, xxxvii, 16

Spider, parable of the, xv, 203-4

Spiders, aeronautic, xxix, 164-6; Browne on, iii, 266 (15); in Brazil, xxix, 446; flies and, Harrison on, xxxv, 348; Pope on instinct of, xl, 425

SPINNERS, THE THREE, xvii, 74-6

Spinola, Ambrogio, xxi, 468, 504, 518

Spinoza, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 233; Emerson on, v, 143; Hobbes and, xxxiv, 308

Spinther, Lentulus, death of, xii, 319

Spiridion, Calvin on, xxxix, 36 note 24

Spirit, superior to intellect, v, 190

Spirit of the Times, Goethe on, xix, 31

SPIRIT, THE, IN THE BOTTLE, xvii, 182-5

Spirits, Browne on, iii, 281-5; Hobbes on possession by, xxxiv, 355-8; of the impure, ii, 73-4; Locke on, xxxvii, 116-i 8, 163-4; Milton on, iv, 98-9, 171-2, 192-3, 212-13; terror of, 50

Spiritual, true meaning of, v, 281

Spiritual Delights, Kempis on, vii, 250 (1)

Spiritual Enlightenment, prayer for, vii, 287-8

Spiritual Estate, Luther on the, xxxvi, 265-70

Spiritual Gifts, St. Paul on, xlv, 506 (131)

Spiritual Knowledge, Channing on, xxviii, 329-30

Spiritual Life, admonitions profitable for the, vii, 205-37

Spiritual Progress, Kempis on, vii, 213-15

Spiritualism, in Utopia, xxxvi, 229

Spite, repaid by spite, iv, 265

Spleen, Harvey on the, xxxviii, 128-9

Splendor, Goldsmith on, happiness and, 515-17

Sponges, no heart in, xxxviii, 129

Spontaneity, Emerson on, v, 10, 69

Spontaneous Generation, Fre"my on, xxxviii, 353; Lamarck on, xi, 10, 130; Pasteur on, xxxviii, 337, 364

Spontaneous Impressions, Emerson on, v, 10

Spontaneous Variation, Darwin on, xi, 213; instances of, 211-13

Sportfulness, of heroism, v, 127

Sporting Plants, xi, 26

Spotswood, Col., i, 98

Sprengel, on flowers, xi, 149; on hermaphrodites, 103; on fertilization, 104-

Spring, Burke on pleasantness of, xxiv, 65; Campbell on, xli, 771-2; Collins on evenings in, 480; Goethe on, xix, 43-4; Milton on, iv, 71; Shelley on the, xli, 834; Shakespeare on, xl, 263; Tennyson on the, xlii, 979; Swinburne on, 1199-1201

SPRING, by Nashe, xl, 261

SPRING, by Shakespeare, xl, 264-5

SPRING, EARLY, by Wordsworth, xli, 6434

SPRING, ODE ON, by Gray, xl, 452-3

SPRING, SONG COMPOSED IN, by Burns, vi, 192-3

SPRING, To, by Blake, xli, 584

SPRING'S WELCOME, xl, 209

Springs, as motive force, xxx, 188

Spruceness, Pascal on, xlviii, no (316)

Spur-kites, xxxiii, 155

Spurinna, Cottius, Pliny on, ix, 217

Spurinna, Vestricius, Pliny on, ix, 216-17, 229-30; letters to, 238, 274

Squinternotto, bravo in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 320

Squire, Chaucer's, xl, 13-14

Squirrels, flying, origin of, xi, 176

Srubdaire, the giant, xlix, 239

Ssu-ma Niu, xliv, 37 (3, 4, 5)

STABAT MATER, xlv, 553-5

Stael, Mme. de, on English poets, xxxix, 328

Stafford, Edward, 3rd Duke of Buckingham, (of earlier creation), (1478-1521), xxxv, 381

Stafford, Humphrey, ist Duke of Buckingham, (earlier creation), (1402-1460), xxxix, 74, 75-6

Stafford, Lord, at Crecy, xxxv, 24, 33

Stag, defined, xxxv, 343; fable of the, v, 98

Stagirite, reference to the, xx, 154

Staig, Jessie, lines on, vi, 498

Stamford, university of, xxxv, 371

Stamp Act, xliii, 147 headnote, 148; Franklin on the, i, 4, 165

Stamp-duties, x, 505-11; legal, 452

Stand-fast, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 305-9, 311, 316-18

Standing Armies, advantages of, iii, 79; danger of, 52; Johnson on, xliii, 429; Macaulay on, xxvii, 375; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 40-8; More on, 145; need and dangers of, x, 448-9; Vane on a, xliii, 125-7; Washington on, 237

Standish, John, and Wat Tyler, xxxv, 77; made a knight, 78

Standley, William, i, 206, 214

Stanhope, Earl, on French Revolution, xxiv, 151

Stanley, Mr., in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 141; Sir Oliver Surface as, 176-9

Stanley, Lord, Mill on, xxv, 284-5

Stanton, Daniel, i, 226-7

Stanton, Richard, xxxiii, 229

STANZAS, by Shelley, xli, 854-5

STANZAS ON NÆTHING, vi, 222-3

Star-Chamber, on unlicensed printing, iii, 184

Star-fish, eyes of, xi, 182; forceps of, 235-7

Star-form, in nature, xlii, 1250

Stars, Addison on the, xl, 400; Berkeley on the, xxxvii, 231 ; Burke on grandeur of the, xxiv, 66; composition of, xxx, 313; dark, 320-1; distance of, 314-16, 318-20; distribution of, in space, 316, 317-18; Emerson on beauty of the, v, 25; the forget-me-nots of angels, xlii, 1309; Habington on the, xl, 252-4; influence of, Cellini on, xxxi, 230; influence of, Milton on, iv, 307-8; Marcus Aurelius on lesson of the, ii, 293 (27); Milton on the, iv, 47, 49-50, 171, 185, 244-7; Newcomb on contemplation of the, xxx, 311-12; number of, 320-1; proper motions of, 314, 317, 319; Raleigh on the, xxxix, 107; Shelley on the, xli, 856; Wotton on the, xl, 287-8

STARS, THE LIGHT OF, xlii, 1265-6

State, Burke on the, xxiv, 232-3; church and, xliii, 74 (58-60); duties and expenses of the, x, 426-67; education by the, xxv, 302-5; Emerson on the, v, 239-40, 250; Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 309; the individual and the, ii, 39-41, 228-9 (22), 242 (54), 283 (33); v, 248; natural and ideal, xxxii, 212-17; no, that hangs on one man's will, viii, 279; the perfect lines on, v, 239; revenue of the, x, 468-564; Ruskin on meaning of, xxviii, 136; Taine on the, xxxix, 429-30; what constitutes a, xli, 579 (see also Society)

State Church, Burke on a, xxiv, 228-58

State Enterprises, Smith on, x, 468-72

State Rights, Lowell on doctrine of, xxviii, 444-5

Stateliness, preferable to fellowship, v, 208; Penn on, i, 388-9

Staten Land, Dana on, xxiii, 319-20

States, Confucius on strength of, xliv, 38 (7); founders of, iii, 129-30; Goldsmith on barren, xli, 524-6; Goldsmith on strength of, 519; Machiavelli on foundations of, xxxvi, 40; Raleigh on ruins of, xxxix, 71; rise and fall of, iii, 269 (17); temporality of, xlviii, 202 (614); three ages of, iii, 140; tributary, xxxvi, 8-12, 18-19, 69; Woolman on prosperity of, i, 231

STATES, TRUE GREATNESS OF, iii, 73-80

States, of U. S., admission of new, xliii, 191; commerce between, 184 (3); committee of, 164, 165-6 (10); disputes between, 162-3, 189, 190; Federal government and, 208-9, 210-13, 214-15, 224; Hamilton on union of, 202, 203; Jay on union of, 203-7; Johnson on rights of, 429; Lincoln on rights of, 314, 320-1; powers of, 195 (10); relations of, under the Confederation, 158-9; relations of, under the Constitution, 190-1; republican government secured to, 191 (4); rights and powers of, under the Confederation, 158-62, 163, 164, 165-6; rights and powers of, under the Constitution, 185 (16), 1856 (6), 186 do), 195 (10), 196 (14), 197 (4, 15), 198 (17, 18, 19); suits against, 195 (n)

States-General, French, Burke on composition of, xxiv, 178-82

Statesmanship, ideal and practical, xxviii, 440; xxxvi, 164-6; Lowell on, xxviii, 433-437. 439, 44, 441-2, 447J Newman on, 34-5

Statesmen, Bacon on, iii, 73; Burke's standard of, xxiv, 290; Confucius on, xliv, 35 (23); Plutarch on, xii, 54-5; policy of, Goethe on, xix, 262; Raleigh on, xl, 205; Smith on, x, 348

Statianus, Plutarch on, xii, 351

Stationary State, effect of, on profits, x, 96-7; Smith on, 83; effect of, on wages, 72-4, 75, 83

Statius, Dryden on, xiii, 5-6; in Purgatory, xx, 230-57, 275-83; Shelley on, xxvii, 349

STATUE, LION AND, fable of, xvii, 25 Statues, Mohammed on, xlv, 1003; public, Pliny on, ix, 217; speaking, Plutarch on, xii, 182-3

Statute Laws, Winthrop on, xliii, 104-5 Stauffacher, Gertrude, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 387-91

Stauffacher, Werner, in WILLIAM TELL, with Pfeiffer, xxvi, 386-7; with Gertrude, stirred to action, 387-91; at building of keep, 392-3; conversation with Tell, 392-3, 394-5; at Fiirst's, 397-405; at the rendezvous, 413-28; with Tell near Altdorf, 440-9; at death of Attinghausen, 456-61; with Rudenz, 461-4; reports murder of Emperor, 477-81; in final scene, 488

STAY, MY CHARMER, vi, 298

STAY, O SWEET, xl, 310-11

Steadfastness, Confucius on, xliv, 23 (25), 44 (22); Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 869

Steam, volume of, xxx, 115-19

Steam-engines, Helmholtz on, xxx, 190-4

Steele, Sir Richard, Addison and, xxvii, 156, 160, 165, 166, 169, 170, 171, 173-5, 178, 179; on Addison, 165-6, 176-7, 178, 180; the Guardian of, 1689; life of, 82; on Peerage Bill, 174; religion of, xxviii, 17-18; the Spectator and, xxvii, 161-2, 164, 165, 170; THE SPECTATOR CLUB, 83-7; the Tatler of, 161; Thackeray on, xxviii, n, 19

STEER HER UP AN' HAUD HER GAUN, vi, 516

Steevens, George, editor of Shakespeare, xxxix, 319

Steeving, described, xxiii, 258-9

Stefano, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 128

Stella, Swift on death of, xxvii, 122-30; Thackeray on, xxviii, 24 (see also Johnson, Esther)

STELLA, ELEGY ON, vi, 269-72

Stenches, Burke on, xxiv, 72

Stendhal, Taine on, xxxix, 434-5

Stephanas, household of, xlv, 492 (16), 514 (15)

Stephano, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 428-32. 435-9, 450-2, 461-2

Stephen, St., the Martyr, appointed deacon, xliv, 434 (5); editorial remarks on teachings of, 422; martyrdom of, 438 (54-60); martyrdom of, Dante on, xx, 206-7; Pascal on death of, xlviii, 277 (800); trial of, xliv, 435 (9-15)

Stephen, St., the Sabaite, HYMN by, xlv, 544-5

Stephen, King, and the Bishop of London, xxxv, 254-5; tne tailor and, xl, 189

Stephen, Leslie, on Berkeley's Dialogues, xxxvii, 186; on Hume, xxvii, 202

Stepney, Wordsworth on, xxxix, 330

Stereo-chemistry, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 270

Sterility, cause of, xi, 295-298; in dimorphic plants, 305-8; of first crosses and hybrids, 285-92; laws of, 292-5; origin of, 298-305;

in species, eliminated by domestication, 39, 291-2; among varieties, 311-12

Sterling, John, Carlyle and, xxv, 316; in London Club, 82; London Review and, 129; Mill and, 3; Mill on, 97-9

Sterne, on readers, xxv, 339

Stesilaus, of Ceos, xii, 7, 80

Stesimbrotus, on Pericles, xii, 51

Steven, Rev. James, Burns' poem to, vi, 225

Stevenson, Robert Louis, life and works, xxviii, 276; poems by, xlii, 1212-13; TRUTH OF INTERCOURSE, xxviii, 277-84;

SAMUEL PEPYS, 285-305; remarks on PEPYS of, 1, 49

Steward, Chaucer's, xl, 27

Stewart, Jack, Dana on, xxiii, 390

Stewarts (see Stuarts)

Stheneboeas, references to, viii, 471, 472

Sthenelus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 108, 402

Stillingfleet, Bishop, Locke and, xxxiv, 105

Stimson, Ben, Dana on, xxiii, 398

Stinging, power of, in marine animals, xxix, 468

Stingo, the Landlord in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 212-13, 214-15

Stirline, Earl of, To AURORA, xl, 314-15

Stobi, John of, ii, 185 note

Stock, divisions of, x, 215-22; investment of, 221-2; lent at interest, 278-90; taxes on, 505-11 (see also Capital)

Stock, custom of pulling the, vi, in note 5

Stock-dove, Wordsworth on the, xxxix, 303

Stockings, invention of, x, 206

Stoeckl, Edward de, xliii, 432

STOIC, THE OLD, xlii, mi

Stoicism, Epictetus on true, ii, 145 (78); Milton's Comus on, iv, 63; Montaigne on, xlviii, 396; Socrates on, ii, 74-5

Stoics, Browne on the, iii, 305-6; on crimes, ix, 317 note; on death, iii, 10; divisions of, ii, 321-2; good and evil, idea of, 342; on happiness, 344-5; Hume on the, xxxvii, 319; Hume on doctrine of the, 368-9; on matter, ii, 326; Milton on philosophy of, iv, 4023; on necessity, iii, 272; Pascal on the, xlviii, 118-19, 120 (360), 155 (465); on riches, ix, 133; in Rome, ii, 320-2; on suicide, iii, 294-5 (44) (see also Aurelius, Marcus, and Epictetus)

Stokes, Whitney, translator of DA DERGA'S HOSTEL, xlix, 197

Stoksely, Bishop of London, xxxvi, 105-6

Stone Age, as pictured by Æschylus, viii, 182-3 note 29

Stonehenge, Burke on, xxiv, 65; Emerson on, v, 455-8

Stones, knowledge of, necessary to art, xxxix, 256; transportation of, by ice, xxx, 230; transported by trees across water, xxix, 465-6

Storer, John, i, 242, 245

Stories, compared with poems, xxvii, 335; practise of telling, xvii, 7

STORK AND Fox, fable of, xvii, 19

Storks, Pope on, xl, 425

STORKS, THE, story of, xvii, 310-14

Storms, on land and at sea, xxix, 505

Storrs, Robert, on puerperal fever, xxxviii, 253

Stoves, in Elizabethan England, xxxv, 294-5; open, invented by Franklin, i, 111-12

Strabo, on English tin, xxxv, 321; on hounds, 350; on prodigies preceding Caesar's death, xii, 315; on studdery of Pella, xxxv, 27-8; on tides, xxx, 280; on torrid zone, xxxix, 106

Strafford, Bagehot on trial of, xxviii, 177; Charles I on, v, 385

Stranger's House, in New Atlantis, iii, 149

Strangers, Emerson on, v, 105-6; liberties of, in Massachusetts, xliii, 79

STRATHALLAN'S LAMENT, vi, 281-2

Stratified Rocks, Lyell on, xxxviii, 395

Stratius, Homer on, xxii, 43

Stratonice, in POLYEUCTE, xxvi, 80-4, 93, 99-102

Strauchius, Chronology of, xxxvii, 156-7

Straw, Jack, xxxv, 62, 64, 69, 71, 73, 75; Chaucer on, xl, 50; death of, xxxv, 80

Strawberry, cultivation of the, xi, 51

Stream, Confucius on the, xliv, 28 (16)

STREAM OF LIFE, THE, xlii, 1120

Street-lamps, improved by Franklin, i, 120

Streets, expense of maintaining, x, 456; Franklin on cleanliness of, i, 119, 121-22

Strength, Cicero on, ix, 56-7; Confucius on, xliv, ii (16), 19 (10), 44 (27), 49 (35) 58 (8); David on, xli, 496; from misfortunes, v, 98; Naehe on, xl, 260; as a cause of the sublime, xxiv, 55-7; what is, without wisdom, iv, 415-16

Strength, in PROMETHEUS BOUND, viii, 166-9

Strenuousness, Mohammed on, xlv, 977

Stricca, Dante on, xx, 122

Strong, the battle is not to the, xliv, 346 (11)

Strophades, abode of the Harpies, xiii, 135

Strophius of Phocis, Clytemnestra and, viii, 40; Orestes and, 103-6

Stroza, on hounds, xxxv, 350-1

Strozzi, Fra Alessio, xxxi, 32

Strozzi, Bernardo degli, xxxi, 99 note 2

Strozzi, Filippo, xxxi, 78 note i, 113 note 3, 191 note 2

Strozzi, Leone, xxxi, 314 note

Strozzi, Piero, xxxi, 291 note i, 334, 392 note i

Strozzi, Prior degli, xxxi, 357

Struggle for Existence, xi, 71-86; Tennyson on, xlii, 1019

Struggle, alone pleases, xlviii, 52 (135)

Strutt, Mill on, xxv, 52, 76; in Parliament, 122

Struve, theory of, xxx, 320

Strymonius, Virgil on, xiii, 335

Stuart, Lady Arabella, xv, 382

Stuart, Charles Edward, Burns on birthday of, vi, 290-1; supposed lament of, 305 (see also HE'S OWER THE HILLS, WHA'LL BE KING BUT CHARLIE, CHARLIE Is MY DARLING)

Stuart, Lady Jane, xxv, 8

Stuart, Sir John, and James Mill, xxv, 8

Stuart, Robert, xlii, 1161, 1166, 1173

Stuarts, Burns on the, vi, 266, 276

Stubbornness, man's worst ill, viii, 296; Locke on, xxxvii, 61-2, 84; Sophocles on, viii, 270, 278

Stucco, Lady, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 135

Student, Chaucer's, xl, 19

Students, Carlyle's advice to, xxv, 361-2; in FAUST, xix, 40-1; soldiers and, Don Quixote on, xiv, 373-9; in Utopia, xxxvi, 181, 183, 194-5

STUDIES, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 122-3 Studiousness, Bagehot on, xxviii, 176 Study, Burke on methods of, xxiv, 7-8; Burke on object of, 47; of children, xxxvii, 78-9, 128-30, 139-42; Confucius on, xliv, 26 (12, 17); ECCLESIASTES on, 349 (12); Epictetus on, ii, 170 (145); hours for, iii, 97-8; Locke on listlessness in, xxxvii, 107-12; Milton's course of, iii, 239-4; Montaigne on, xxxii, 9; Montaigne on aim of, 38-9; Montaigne on excessive, 53-5; pleasures of, iv, 36, 38; Pliny's method of, ix, 191-2, 301-3; thought and, Confucius on, xliv, 8 (15), 53 (30); Tzuhsia on, 64 (7)

Stufa, Pandolfo della, xxxi, 411 note 2

Stufa, Prinzivalle della, xxxi, 30 and note 3

Stukeley, on Stonehenge, v, 457-8

Stupidity, town of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 251, 252

Stussi, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 467-9, 472-3

Stygian Lake, Dante on the, xx, 31-2

Style, Pascal's rules of, xlviii, 14-19, 21-3

Styx, Aristophanes on the, viii, 453; Dante on the, xx, 60; Milton on the, iv, 123; oaths by the, xiii, 296, 418; xxii, 72; xxvi, 178; Socrates on the, ii, 108; Virgil on tie, xiii, 222, 296

Subhadda, xlv, 640-4

Subject States, arms in, xxxvi, 68-9; Bacon on, iii, 76-7; factions in, xxxvi, 6970; Machiavelli on, 8-12, 18-19; More on, 159-60

Subjection, Kempis on, vii, 212-13

Subjects, single men not best, iii, 21

SUBLIME AND BEAUTIFUL, Burke's, xxiv, 29-140; remarks on, 28

Sublimity, in building, xxiv, 63-5; Burke on source of, 35-73; Burke on tests of, 72; color as source of, 69; compared with the beautiful, 101-2; defined, 45; difficulty as a source of, 65; feeling as source of, 73; heightened by the grotesque, xxxix, 349; infinity a source of, xxiv, 62-3; light and darkness as sources of, 67-9, 114-19; littleness as cause of, 61-2; magnificence a source of, 66-7; passion caused by, 52; physical causes of, 103-18; pleasure in contemplating, 45; power a cause of, 5560; privation a source of, 60-1; smells and tastes as sources of, 71-3; sound as source of, 69-71, 111-14; succession and uniformity causes of, 63-4, 111-14; terror the first principle of, 49-50; ugliness and, 97; vastness a cause of, 61-2, uo-n; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 334

Submarine Changes, Lyell on, xxxviii, 393-4, 395, 396

Submarines, in New Atlantis, iii, 179

Submission, Kempis on, vii, 240-1; Pascal on, xlviii, 97 (268-70)

Subscriptions, Franklin's advice on getting, i, 118-19

Subsidence, areas of, as shown by coral reefs, xxix, 483-4; Lyell on, xxxviii, 402, 407, 409, 412; rate of, xxix, 485

Subsidies (see Bounties)

Subsistence, relation of, to population, x, 81 (see Food-Supply)

Substance, son of Ens, iv, 22-3

Subterranean Changes, Lyell on, xxxviii, 394-7

Subterranean Movements, Lyell on, xxxviii, 406-9

Subtle, in the ALCHEMIST, with Face, xlvii, 543-50; with Dapper, 550, 551-8, 601-2; with Dapper as Priest of Fairy, 608-11, 650, 651-3; with Drugger, 558-62, 588-92; with Mammon, 563-4, 571-80; in plot against Mammon, 584; finds Mammon with Dol, 631-4; with Kastrill and Dame Pliant, 618-21; quarrel with Face over Pliant, 621-2; dealings with Puritans, 585-8, 592-3, 593-9) 599-600, 601-2, 638-41; plot against Surly as the Don, 621-9; on Surly and Pliant, 634; denounced by Surly, 635-6; promises coming of Count, 637; renews claims to Pliant, 640; hears Lovewit's return, 641-2; his plot with Dol, 654-5; betrayed by Face, 655-7

Subtlety, Raleigh on, xxxix, 74-5

Success, in business, price of, v, 45, 46-7; requires toil, ii, 173-4 (X 57); a source of power, xxxiv, 360

Succession, effect of, on the imagination, xxiv, 63; physical cause of sublimity of, 111-14

Succession Act, Burke on the, xxiv, 163-4

Succession-taxes, x, 506

SUCH A PARCEL OF ROGUES IN A NATION, vi, 420

Suckling, Sir John, POEMS by, xl, 353-4

Sucro, death of, xiii, 407

Sudassana the Great, xlv, 638

Suddenness, disagreeable, xxiv, 99; as source of sublime, 70

Suddhodana, father of Buddha, xlv, 586, 606

Sudra, caste of, xlv, 870

Suevian Sea, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 118

Suevians, origin of the, xxxiii, 93-4; Tacitus on the, 114-19; worship of Isis by, 97-8

Suffering, alone and with others, xlvi, 276; Longfellow on, xlii, 1266; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 149; strength equal to, iv, 113

Suffolk, Duke of, xxxix, 74

Suffrage, Lowell on universal, xxviii, 453-4, 465-6; Mill on democratic, xxv, 69-70; woman (see Woman S.)

Sugar, in ancient times, xxxv, 276; cause of pleasantness of, xxiv, 122-3; composition of, xxx, 166; potash and, 54 note; profits of cultivation of, x, 160-1

Suicide, Browne on, iii, 294-5 (44); Bunyan on, xv, 118-19; Epictetus on, ii, 122-3 (J 7j *8); xlviii, 389; Goethe's Faust on, xix, 35; Hamlet on, xlvi, 103, 144; Kant on, xxxii, 332-3, 340; Milton on, iv, 316-17; Mohammed on, xlv, 971; punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 366; Shelley on, xviii, 309; Socrates on, ii, 49-50; in Utopia, xxxvi, 208

SUICIDE, ON A, vi, 499

Suicides, in Dante's HELL, xx, 53-7

Suiones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 117-18

SUITORS, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 120-1

Sujata, story of, xlv, 613-15

Suleyman (see Solomon)

Sulivan, Capt., on Falkland Islands, xxix, 193 note, 195, 196, 197

Sully, Burke on, xxiv, 186

Sulphindigotic Acid, xxx, 80 note

Sulpicius, Caius, in Catiline conspiracy, xii, 233

Sulpicius, Publius, quarrel with Pompeius, ix, 9

Sulpicius, Servius, letter to Cicero, ix, 165; letter from Cicero, 168

Sultan, Pascal on the, xlviii, 37-8, 48 (113)

SULTAN'S STEWARD, STORY OF THE, xvi, 133-42

Sultans, death of, concealed, iii, 141

SUMEDHA, THE STORY OF, xlv, 577-602

Summer, beauties of, v, 25; Campbell on, xli, 772; evening in, 480; one swallow makes not a, xiv, 95

Summer, of All-Saints, xlii, 1304

Summers, William, xxxviii, 158-9, 161

Summoner, Chaucer's, xl, 28-9

Summons, judicial, in Massachusetts, xliii, 69 (21), 70 (25)

Summum Bonum, Buddhist, xlv, 713-30; Pascal on, xlviii, 121 (361); various ideas of, 32-3

Sumptuary Laws, Penn on, i, 391; Smith on, x, 274

Sun, Addison on the, xl, 400; xlv, 535; Bunyan's lesson from the, xv, 235; Burke on grandeur of the, xxiv, 67-8; Copernicus on motion of, xxxix, 54; Dante's fourth Heaven, xx, 325; David on the, xliv, 163 (4-6); Goethe on the, xix, 18; Herodotus on the, xxxiii, 1718, 71-2; human mind compared with, ii, 263 (57); Manfred on the, xviii, 442-3; Milton on the, iv, 16, 149-51, 155, 191, 246, 307-8; Pascal on the, xlviii, 26-7; Raleigh on the, xxxix, 107-8; Raleigh on changes in, 107; source of all forces, xxx, 210; started in Aries, xx, 6 note 5; Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 118; tides affected by, xxx, 276-9, 291

Sun-dial, invented in Babylon, xxxiii, 53

Sun-spots, Pascal on, xlviii, 40 (91)

SUN AND WIND, fable of, xvii, 34-5

SUN, FOLLOW THY, xl, 285

SUN OF MY SOUL, THOU SAVIOUR DEAR S xlv, 565-6

SUN-DAY HYMN, xlv, 570

SUN-FLOWER, AH, xli, 584

Sunday Laws, Mill on, xxv, 286-7

Sunderland, Earl of, Peerage Bill of, xxvii, 173-4

Sunrise, lines on, iv, 31; on land and sea, xxiii, 13

Sunset, Thoreau on, xxviii, 424-5; Thoreau's allegory of, 421-2

Superfluities, attitude of Quakers toward. i, 305; Kempis on, vii, 290 (4); Penn on taxing, i, 328 (53), 390-1; Woolman on, 252-3, 290

Superfluity, of words, vii, 213

Supernatural Agencies, belief in, xxxviii, 386, 389-91

Supernaturalist, in FAUST, xix, 189

SUPERSTITION, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 45-6

Superstition, Burke on, xxiv, 292; in Burns's HOLY FAIR, vi, 97; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; fable on, xvii, 27; in literature, xxvii, 220-1; origin of, xxxiv, 375; piety and, xlviii 94 (255); Pope on, xl, 428-9

Superstition, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 97-8

Suplee, Capt., at Gettysburg, xliii, 387

Suppiya, xlv, 774-5

SUPPLICATION, A, by Cowley, xl, 365-6

SUPPLICATION, A, by Wyatt, xl, 192

Supply, annual, on what dependent, x, 5-6

SUPPOSED MISTRESS, His, by Jonson, xl, 300

SUPPOSED MISTRESS, WISHES FOR THE, xl, 359-63

Suppuration, causes and prevention of, xxxviii, 257-67

Supremacy Act, More on, xxxvi, 129-30 Supreme Court, of United States, xliii, 189-90; appointment of judges, 188 (2); Lincoln on decisions of, 319; Marshall on duties of, 208-9, 224 Sura, Attius, Pliny on, ix, 366 Sura, Licinius, letters to, ix, 259, 311 Sureties, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 417 Surface, Charles, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, in love with Maria, xviii, 117, 118; his bankruptcy, 120, 122, 124-5; Rowley on, 127; Sir Peter on, 127; Sir Oliver on, 140-1; Sir Oliver plans to try, 141-4; Maria on, 145; at home, 150-2; with Sir Oliver as Premium, 153-7; i n tne picture room, 158-62; with Rowley, 162; suspected with Lady Teazle, 139, 142, 145, 168, 171-2, 187, 193; at Josephs, 171-5; mistakes Sir Oliver for Premium, 189-90; reconciled with Sir Oliver, 191-2; reconciled to Maria, 192-5

Surface, Joseph, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, relations with Lady Sneerwell, xviii, 117; calls on Lady Sneerwell, 118-26; Sir Peter on, 127; on Backbite's epigram, 131-2; with Maria at Sneerwell's, 132, 137; with Lady Teazle, 137-8; Sir Oliver on, 140; Sir Oliver plans to try, 141; Maria and, 145; with Lady Teazle, 164-6; with Sir Peter, 167-71; with Charles, 171-3; denounced by Lady Teazle, 175-6; visited by Sir Oliver as Stanley, 177-9; Lady Sneerwell and, 188-9; expels Sir Oliver as Stanley, 190; denounced by Sir Oliver, Peter, and Lady Teazle, 190-1; accuses Charles with Lady Sneerwell, 192-3; follows Sneerwell, 193

Surface, Sir Oliver, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, reported to be coming home, xviii, 124; his return, 128; with Rowley, 139; with Sir Peter, 140-1; plans to try his nephews, 141-4; at Charles's house, 149-50, 153-7; in picture room, 158-62; after the sale, 163; visits Joseph as Stanley, 176-9; mistaken for physician, 184; with Sir

Peter after scandal, 1867; returns to Joseph's as himself, 189-91; denounces Joseph, 190-1; reconciled to Charles, 191-2

Surgery, antiseptic principle in, xxxviii, 257-67; the germ theory in, 364, 369-70; papers on, 9-58, 223-54, 257-67, 364-82; in 16th century, 8

Surly, Pertinax, in THE ALCHEMIST, with Mammon at Subtle's, xlvii, 564-7, 571-83; plot against, 584; fails to meet Face, 599; as Spanish don, 599-600; with Face and Subtle, 622-5; presented to Dame Pliant, 627-9; exposes fraud to her, 635; denounces Subtle and Face, 635-6; with Kastrill, 637-8; and Drugger, 638; quarrel with Kastrill, 639; returns with Mammon, 647-8; with officers, 658-61

Surprise, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 256 (15), 297 (13)

Surrey, Earl of, death of, xxxix, 78; Jonson on, xxvii, 56; poems by, xl, 193-5; Sidney on, xxvii, 45

Surt, the giant, xlix, 295 note

Surtees, Robert, BARTHRAM'S DIRGE, xli, 769-70

Survival of the Fittest, term invented by Spencer, xi, 72 (see also Natural Selection)

Susagus, ix, 369 note 2

SUSAN, THE REVERIE OF POOR, xli, 655

Susanna, friend of Jesus, xliv, 374 (3)

SUSPICION, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 82-3

Suspicion, simplicity and, iv, 153; Webster on, xlvii, 762-3

Suspiciousness, Confucius on, xliv, 49 (33)

SUTHERLAND, MR., PROLOGUE FOR, vi, 374-5

Sutlej, sediment of the, xxxviii, 402-3

Suttee, practise of, iii, 98

SWABIANS, THE SEVEN, xvii, 203-6

Swaflod, the maid, xlix, 322

SWALLOW AND OTHER BIRDS, fable of, xvii, 16

SWALLOW, SWALLOW, O, xlii, 974-5

Swallow, Swinburne on the, xlii, 1201-3

Swamps, Thoreau on, xxviii, 410-11

Swan, Milton on the, iv, 238; Socrates on death-song of the, ii, 77

SWANS, THE Six, xvii, 132-7

SWANS, THE WILD, xvii, 265-80

Swanhild, daughter of Sigurd, xlix, 353, 418; wedding and slaying of, 354-5, 418, 421-2, 424; her future foretold, 336, 383. 385

Swanwick, Anna, translator of EGMONT, xix, 251

Swarga, xlv, 827, 862

Swearing, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 400-1

SWEARING COXCOMB, ON A, vi, 499

Sweden, Freeman on, xxviii, 259; geological elevation of, xxxviii, 406-7

Swedenborg, Emanuel, Emerson on, v, 21-2, 177, 178; on the English, 388; the illumination of, 141; on time and space, ii, 328 note; on truth, 139-40

SWEET AFTON, vi, 417-18

SWEET DISORDER, xl, 336

SWEET AND Low, xlii, 972

Sweet-meats, Locke on, xxxvii, 21

SWEET TIBBIE DUNBAR, vi, 344

SWEET WILLIAM'S GHOST, xl, 78-80

SWEETEST LOVE, I Do NOT Go, xl, 307-8 Sweetness, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 198-9; nature of, xxiv, 121-3; relaxing, 123-4

Swift, nest of the, xi, 277

SWIFT, JONATHAN, ESSAY ON, xxviii, 7-28

Swift, Jonathan, academy planned by, xxxiv, 156; Addison and, xxvii, 176, 179-80; ambition of, xxviii, 10-11; attitude toward inferiors and superiors, 910; benefactions of, 16; Berkeley and, xxxvii, 186; biographers of, xxviii, 8-9; his bitterness, ii; as a churchman, 1719; ON CONVERSATION, xxvii, 91-8; at court, xxviii, 15-16; ON DEATH OF STELLA, xxvii, 122-30; Directions to Servants, xxxvi, 3-4; Drapier's Letters, xxviii, 19; Emerson on, v, 433; An Englishman by all but birth, xxviii, n12; Goldsmith on, xli, 505, 506; ON GOOD MANNERS, xxvii, 99-103; Gulliver's Travels, xxviii, 21-3; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; life and writings of, 90; xxviii, 7-8; literary style, 12; loneliness and greatness, 27-8; loneliness and suffering, 18-19; on marriage and children, 19-20; Modest Proposal, 19; morality of his times, 10-11; on new and obsolete words, xxxix, 203-4; religion of, xxviii, 17-19; Stella and, 23-7, 28; Temple and, 12-15; his unhappiness, 22-3; Vanessa and, 27; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 148, 152; To A YOUNG POET, xxvii, 104-21; remarks on YOUNG POET, l, 47

Swim bladder, Darwin on the, xi, 186

Swimming, Locke on, xxxvii, 13-14

Swinburne, Algernon C., POEMS by, xlii, 1199-1209

Swine, abominated in Egypt, xxxiii, 2930

SWINEHERD, THE, story of, xvii, 230-4

Swine-pox, xxxviii, 197

Swiss, in France, xxxvi, 47; Goldsmith on the, xli, 524; in Italy, xxxvi, 45; Machiavelli on the, 42; Pascal on the, xlviii, 108 (305)

Swiss Cantons, ancient league of, xxvi, 402 note

Swiss Confederation, Freeman on, xxviii, 261-2

Swiss Republic, Bacon on, iii, 35

Swiss Soldiers, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 85

Switzerland, connection with the German Empire, xxvi, 420-1; first settlement of, 419-20; Goldsmith on, xli, 524-6; taxes in, x, 499-500

SWITZERLAND AND ENGLAND, xli, 675-6

Sybaris, death of, xiii, 402

Sybil, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 477-9, 484-6, 504, 51O-H, 5M, 516, 518

Sycophants, bites of, proverb of, xxxix, 56

Sycorax, the witch, xlvi, 408-9

Sydenham, Locke and, xxxvii, 4

Sydney, Australia, Darwin on, xxix, 435-6

Sykes, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 337, 358, 360, 397; Haskell on, 359

Sykes, John, i, 185, 188, 189-90, 227

Sylla, Faustus, Cicero on, xii, 240-1

Sylla, Lucius, Cornelius, Burke on confiscations of, xxiv, 251; Caesar and, xii, 264, 267; Caesar on, iii, 41; called Felix, 101; Dryden on, xiii, 15; ignorance of, xxvii, 21 ; name of, xii, 157; Pompey and, iii, 67; the tower of Archelaus and, xxxv, 319

Syllogism, Bacon on the, xxxix, 133; Hobbes on meaning of, xxxiv, 327; Mill's theory of the, xxv, 114; Montaigne on the, xxxii, 63

SYLVANDER TO CLARINDA, vi, 293-4

Sylvester, follower of St. Francis, xx, 332 note 19

Sylvester, Joshua, LOVE'S OMNIPRESENCE, xl, 314

Sylvester, Pope, and the Lateran, xx, 80 note 10

Symbols, Epictetus on, ii, 172-3 (154); expression by, v, 166; mistaken use of, 178; universal use of, 168, 175

SYME, JOHN, COMPLIMENTS OF, vi, 513

Symeon Niger, xliv, 450 (i), 456 (14)

Symmachus, prefect of Rome, vii, 76

Symmetry, Pascal on, xlviii, 17 (28)

Symonds, J. Addington, translator of Cellini, xxxi

Symonds, Thomas, xliii, 169

Sympathy, Bacon on, iii, 68; Browne on, 317-18; Burke on, xxiv, 40-3; Emerson on false, v, 77; excessive, Emerson on, 209; natural to man, xxxiv, 271; pleasure in, xxxix, 280, 281

Synagogue, Pascal on the, xlviii, 297 (851), 298 (852)

Syncope, Pare on, xxxviii, 54

Syndercomb, Hugo on, xxxix, 380

Synods (see Councils)

Syphax, in Cato, xxvii, 187, 188, 189, 190-1

Syphogrants, officers in Utopia, xxxvi, 177, 179, 181, 185, 187

Syracuse, expedition against, xii, 120-23, 126, 127

Syria, Raleigh on, xxxix, 71; Sesostris in, xxxiii, 50

Syrians, circumcision among ancient, xxxiii, 51

Syrinx, and Pan, xl, 378; references to, iv, 44, 376; Webster on, xlvii, 794

Systematic Affinity, defined, xi, 293

Systems, Voltaire on, xxxix, 376

Systole and Diastole, of arteries, xxxviii, 65-6, 67-8, 80-1; of the heart, 75, 78-9, 80-1

T

Tabernacle, references to the, iv, 348; xliv, 438

Tabitha, xliv, 443 (36-42)

Table, Mohammed's chapter on the, xlv, 994-1000

Tabor, the, xx, 89 note

Tabus, xlix, 198

Tacca, Giovan Francesco della, xxxi, 226

Tacca, Giovan Piero della, xxxi, 39

Tacco, Ghino di, xx, 166 note 2

Tachompso, island of, xxxiii, 19

Tacitus, Cornelius, on benefits, xlviii, 30 note; celebrity of, ix, 345; his silence on Christ, xlviii, 273 (787); funeral orator of Verginius, ix, 212; GERMANY, xxxiii, 93-120; remarks on GERMANY of, 1, 21 ; life and works, xxxiii, 92; on miracles of Vespasian, xxxvii, 385-6; Pliny's letters to, ix, 191, 204, 284, 288, 315

Tact, Ruskin on, xxviii, 113

Taddeo, Dante on, xx, 336 note 21

Tadino, Alessandro, xxi, 458, 467; in plague of San Carlo, 502-3, 508, 532-3

Tagarasikkhi, xlv, 675

Taghut, xlv, 973 note 16

Tagua-tagua, Lake, xxix, 270

Tagus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 307, 407

Tahattawans, the sachem, xliii, 144

Tahiti, Darwin on, xxix, 407-20

Tahitians, Darwin on the, xxviii, 410

Tai-po, xliv, 24 (i) note

Taillefer, at Hastings, xxviii, 70-1

TAILOR, REPLY TO A, vi, 228-30

TAILOR, STORY TOLD BY THE, xvi, 149-62

TAILOR, THE VALIANT LITTLE, xvii, 90-8

Tails, use and development of, xi, 196-7

Taine, Hippolyte Adolphe, life and works, xxxix, 410 note; INTRODUCTION TO ENGLISH LITERATURE, 410-37; remarks on INTRODUCTION of, 1, 49

Take-heed, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 248

TAKE, O TAKE, xl, 267

Tale-bearers, Mrs., Candour on, xviii, 121

Talent, character contrasted with, v, 159; differences of, due to division of labor, x, 20-1 ; duty of developing, xxxii, 333'434 ' 1 ; genius contrasted with, v, 144, 165; not good in itself, xxxii, 305; reason brilliantly expressed, 125

Tales, remarks on, xvii, 7-8

Talib, son of Sahl, xvi, 296-7, 298-325

Taliessin, Celtic bard, xxxii, 166; reference to, xl, 460

TALK OF HIM THAT'S FAR AWAY, vi, 302

Talkative, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 7887

Talkativeness, excessive, ii, 183 (5); vii, 213; Shakespeare's advice against, xlvi, 109

Talkers, Bacon on, iii, 18; Confucius on, xliv, 45 (5)

Talleyrand, on necessity, v, 461

Talmud, the, iii, 42 note; Pascal on the, xlviii, 211

TAM THE CHAPMAN, LINES ON, vi, 59

TAM GLEN, vi, 346

TAM o' SHANTER, vi, 388-94

TAM SAMSON'S ELEGY, vi, 242-5

Tamar, Pascal on story of, xlviii, 262 (743)

Tamas, xlv, 853, 863, 865, 868, 869, 870

Tamerlane, Bacon on, iii, 23; Bajazet and, xxxix, 98

Tanabuso, bravo in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 319-20

Tana'fs, death of, xiii, 407

Tanagra, Landor on, xli, 899-900

Tancarville, Earl of, at Caen, xxxv, 9, 13-16; at Poitiers, 37, 50, 56

Tang, xliv, 40 note 8, 66 (i) note

Tannahill, Robert, POEMS by, xli, 593-4

Tansillo, Luigi, quoted, xiv, 315

Tan-tai Mieh-ming, xliv, 19 (12)

Tantalus, Cervantes on, xiv, 104; Homer on, xxii, 159; Milton on, iv, 124; Webster on, xlvii, 757

Tanusius, xii, 283 note

Tapacolo, Darwin on the, xxix, 275

Tapalguen, Sierra, xxix, 122

Taprobane, Greek name of Ceylon, xxxv, 227 note

Tapwell, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 859-63, 919-21

Tarantula, Harrison on the, xxxv, 346

Taratan, herald in New Atlantis, iii, 165

TARBOLTON LASSES, vi, 23-4

Tarchon, Tuscan chief, xiii, 284, 288; ally of JEneas, 326-7; in battle, 382-3

Tarentum, Fabius at, ix, 48-9

Targhetta, Miliano, xxxi, 182

Tariff (see Duties)

Tarlatti Ciacco de', xx, 166 note 3

Tarn, Mount, Darwin on, xxix, 239-40

Tarquin, on his friends, ix, 28; reference to, xlvi, 340

Tarquinius Superbus, attempts to return to Rome, xii, 148-9

Tarquins, Virgil on the, xiii, 235

Tarquitus, death of, xiii, 340

Tartars, raids of, iv, 301-2

Tartarus, Milton on, iv, 205; Socrates's description of, ii, 107-8, 109; Virgil on, xiii, 225, 226-8

Tartrate of Lime, fermentation of, xxxviii, 316-23

TARTUFFE, Moliere's, xxvi, 199-296; editorial remarks on, 198; Goethe on, xxxii, 124; Hugo on, xxxix, 350, 356, 357

Tartuffe, in TARTUFFE, discussed by Mme. Pernelle and others, xxvi, 201-3, 205; relations with Orgon, 207, 209-10; discussed by Orgon and Cleante, 211-15; chosen by Orgon for Mariane's husband, 219-28; sent for, by Elmire, 244; with Dorine, 245-6; with Elmire, 247-52; denounced by Damis, 254; with Orgon, 255-61; with Cleante, 262-4; led on by Elmire, 270-5; caught by Orgon, 277; refuses to leave house, 277; sends Mr. Loyal to claim property, 285-90; the box of Argas and, 279, 291; comes to arrest Orgon, 292; himself arrested, 295

Tar-water, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 186

Tasks, Locke on, xxxvii, 56-7

Tasmania, Darwin on, xxix, 450

Tasso, Battista del, xxxi, 24-5, 27, 345 note 5

Tasso, Torquato, Dryden on, xiii, 23, 24, 26, 33, 435 a madman, xxvii, 357; on philosophy, xxxii, 34; on poets, xxvii, 356-7; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 132; Scuderi on, xxxix, 361; Shelley on, xxvii, 338; the sonnet and, xli, 681; Spenser on, xxxix, 62

TASTE, ESSAY ON, Burke's, xxiv, 11-26

TASTE, THE STANDARD OF, Hume's, xxvii, 203-21

Taste, Burke on standards of, xxiv, 11-12; Burke on study of, 9; constituents of, 22-3; definition of, 12-13; delicacy of, xxvii, 209-11; differences of, due to organs, 209; differences of, due to particular humors, 217-18; differences due to age or country, 218-21; differences of, judged by degree of pleasure, xxiv, 20-1; reason of so-called differences of, 18-21 ; Emerson on good, v, 209; habits affect sense of, xxiv, 15-16; of the imagination, 16-18; improved by practice, xxvii, 211-13; not a separate faculty, xxiv, 25-6; Poe on, xxviii, 376; in poetry, Hugo on, xxxix, 384-5; possibility of determining a standard of, xxvii, 216-18; prejudice and, 213-14; as matter of reason, 214-16; Reynolds on, xxxix, 268, 289; Schiller on cultivation of, xxxii, 234-8, 254-5, 266-7, 271-4, 294-5; sense of, Burke on, xxiv, 121-2; sense of, same in all men, 1415; of the senses, 13-16; for sensible objects and in the passions, 21-2; as matter of the understanding, 22-6; variety of, xxvii, 203-4; want of, its cause, xxiv, 22-3; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 321, 331-4

Tastes, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 198-9, 206; as sources of the sublime, xxiv, 71-3

Taste-that-which-is-good, the cook, xv, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, 264

Tathagata, a name of Buddha, xlv, 633 note

Tatti, Giocopo, xxxi, 149 note 2

Taulchinne, the juggler, xlix, 233

Taureas, and Alcibiades, xii, 120

Taurus, commander for Octavius, xii, 372

Taurus, the sign, reference to, iv, 107

Taxation, equality of, x, 477; general rules of, 477-80; heavy, unfits for empire, iii, 75; popular attitude toward, v, 247; without representation, xliii, 147 (3)

Taxes, on capital, x, 505-10; capitation, 514-7; on commerce, iii, 51; on consumption, x, 517-48; direct apportionment of, xliii, 180-1 (3), 185 (4); duties and, x, 345; farming of, 543; on house rent, 488-95; on interest of money, 496-9; on luxuries, 518-21, 535-9; n luxuries, payment of, 477 (3); on luxuries, Penn on, i, 328 (53), 390-1; national, under the Confederation, xliii, 162; national, under Constitution, 184 (8), 185 (5); on necessaries, x, 518, 520-3, 547-8; on necessaries, as requiring duties on foreign goods, 345-6; on newspapers, Wordsworth on, v, 324; on produce of land, x, 486-7; on profits, 496; on rent of land, 479-86; on rent, payment of, 477 (3); source of, 53; on stimulants, Mill on, xxv, 297; on transfers of property, x, 505-11; on wages, 511; for war, Quakers on, i, 217-20

Taylor, Dr., of Norwich, vi, 94

Taylor, Father, Dana on, xxiii, in Taylor, Jeremy, Emerson on, xlii, 1249; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 308-9

Taylor, Thomas, Emerson on, v, 465

Taylor, Mrs., and J. S. Mill, xxv, 4; Mill on, 116-9, 142, 149-54; death of, 155 Taylor, P. A., Mill on, xxv, 183 note Taylor, W., on fancy and imagination, xxxix, 301

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, xlv, 546-7

Tea, Burke on taste for, xxiv, 15-16

Teachers, Channing on importance of, xxviii, 358-60; Confucius on, xliv, 8 (u); Locke on, xxxvii, 69-80, 128, 139-42, 153-4, 167-8; Montaigne on, xxxii, 35-6; need of personal, xxviii, 32-7; paid, Socrates on, ii, 7-8; pay and consideration of, x, 135-7; qualities needed by, ii, 157 (108), 161-2 (121); sacred and literary, v, 143

Teaching, Burke on method of, xxiv, 12; Confucius on, xliv, 21 (7, 8); Pope on methods of, i, 18-19 (see also Education)

TEAR-DROP, THE, vi, 510

Tears, Byron on, xli, 790; De Quincey's Lady of, xxvii, 321-2; false, true pity move, xiii, 105; Hunt on, xxvii, 285; Laertes on, xlvi, 190

TEARS, IDLE TEARS, xlii, 972-3

Teazle, Lady, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, marriage with Sir Peter, xviii, 126; scene with Sir Peter, 128-31; at Lady Sneerwell's, 132-7; Joseph Surface and, 137-8, 164-7, I 7 I 5 suspected with Charles Surface, 139, 142, 145, 168, 171-2, 187, 193; reconcilement and new quarrel with Sir Peter, 146-8; caught behind screen, 175-6; at Joseph Surface's after reconcilement to husband, 190-4; epilogue spoken by, 196

Teazle, Sir Peter, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, guardian of Surface brothers, xviii, 116; on Lady Teazle, 126-7; with Rowley, 126-8; scene with Lady Teazle, 128-31; at Sneerwell's, 134-6; with Sir Oliver, 140-1; his plan to make trial of Charles Surface, 134-45; with Maria, 145; reconcilement and new quarrel with Lady Teazle, 146-8; at Joseph Surface's house, 167-71, 174-6; at home after the scandal, 184-7; at Joseph Surface's, 190-4

Tedaldi, Lionardo, xxxi, 335, 338

Tedmur, inscription of, xvi, 320-1

Teeth, and hair, related, xi, 28, 148-9

Tegan, mantle of, xxxii, 146

Tegetmeier, on bees, xi, 275

Tegghiaio, in Dante's HELL, xx, 27

Teiresias, in ANTIGONE, viii, 287-01; in the BACCHÆ, 374-6, 379-82; Homer on, xxii, 142, 147-8; in OEdipus THE KING, viii, 218-23

Telauges, and Socrates, ii, 251-2 (66)

Teleclides, on Pericles, xii, 38, 53

Telegraph, Helmholtz on the, xxx, 206-7

Telemachus, in the ODYSSEY, roused to action by Pallas, xxii, 12-17; rebukes Penelope, 18; with the suitors, 18-19; complains of suitors in assembly, 22-5; asks for ship to go to Pylos, 26-7; counselled by Pallas, 28; prepares for sailing, 29-31; sails, 32; with Nestor at Pylos, 33-45; with Menelaus at Sparta, 46-62; plotted against by the suitors, 62-3, 66, 67; warned by Athene to return home, 200-1; departs with gifts, 201-5; takes ship at Pylos, 205-7; his landing in Ithaca, 212-14; at Eumzus's hut, 215-19; recognizes Ulysses, 219-20; in plan to destroy the suitors, 221-3; hears return of his enemies, 227; returns to mother, 228-9; relates what he had heard, 230-1; receives Eumaeus and Ulysses, 236-7; rebukes Antinous, 238; the sneeze of, 242; warned by Eumaeus, 243; protects Ulysses in fight with Irus, 246-7; rebuked by Penelope, 250-1; advises suitors to retire, 255; removes arms from hall, 257-8; goes to assemblyplace, 276-7; protects Ulysses from the wooers, 279-81; replies to Agelaus, 282; advised to expel Ulysses, 283; with the bow of Ulysses, 286-7; orders Penelope away, 293; gives Ulysses the bow, 293-4; with Ulysses against the suitors, 297-306; hangs faithless servants, 308; in meeting of father and mother, 312-3; in final fight, 333; Tennyson on, xlii, 978

Telemus, the soothsayer, xxii, 128

Teleology, Kant on, xxxii, 347 note

Telescopes, Newton on, xxxiv, 124 Tell, Walter, in WILLIAM TELL, at home, goes to Altdorf with father, xxvi, 428, 432; at Altdorf, 438-49; reunion with mother, 456; at home again, 482-3

Tell, William, in WILLIAM TELL, residence of, xxvi, 384 note; son-in-law of Fiirst, 398; takes Baumgarten across the lake, 384-5; arrival at Stauffacher's, 391; at home, starts for Altdorf, 428-32; at Altdorf with Walter, 438-9; neglects to bow to Gessler's cap, 439-40; at building of the Keep, 392; conversation with Stauffacher, 394; ordered to shoot apple from son's head, 441-7; arrested by Gessler, 447-9; embarked at Fliielen, 449; escape of, 4535; in wait for Gessler, 464-7; with Stussi, 467-8; kills Gessler, 471-2; returns home, 483-4; with Duke John, 483-8; in final scene, 488-9

Tellheim, Major von, in MINNA VON BARNHELM, changing of his room referred to, xxvi, 300-2; announces intention to leave inn, 303; with Just, 303-4; with Madame Marloff, 305-7; destroys note, 307; with Just, agrees to keep him, 307-9; pardon asked by Minna, 309; prepares to leave inn, 309-10; Minna on, 314-15; discovered by his ring, 319-20; with Minna, takes leave of her, 324-7; with Werner, 335-40; with Franziska, 340-2; scene with Minna, 351-8; hears her misfortunes, 358-9; borrows money of Werner, 459-60; determines to marry Minna, 360; returns to Minna, with Franziska, 361; seeks reconciliation, 362-4; letter from king, 365-6; offers himself to Minna, 366-9; accuses Minna of faithlessness, 370; refuses Werner's money, 370-1; final reconciliation, 372-3; with Minna's uncle, 373; reconciliation with Werner, 374

Tell-true, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 297

Tellus, reference to, xx, 265

Temminck, on classification, xi, 437-8

Temper, Penn on, i, 336

Temperance, Channing on, xxviii, 3512; Cicero on, ix, 57; common notion of, ii, 57-8; Dante's star of, xx, 146 note 5; definitions of, i, 79; Epictetus on show of, ii, 177 (176); Franklin on, i, 17, 44, 85; Franklin's rule of, 79-80; Greek idea of, xxv, 35; of heroism, v, 126; instances of, xx, 2378; Manzoni on habits of, xxi, 237-8; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 197-8, 260 (39), 297 (15); Milton on, iii, 201-2; iv, 63-4, 65, 332; necessity of, in pleasure, v, 87-8; Penn on, i, 328-9; philosopher's reason of, ii, 74-6; the virtue of prosperity, iii, 16

Temperance Ships, Dana on, xxiii, 300-1

Temperature, production of high, xxx, 108 note; why low, on mountains, 212-13

TEMPEST, THE, xlvi, 395-463; Hunt on, xxvii, 294; stage representation of the, 313-15

Temple, Sir William, Swift and, xxvii, 90; xxviii, 8, 12-15

Temples, pagan, Burke on grandeur of, xxiv, 63-4

Temporal Estate, Luther on the, xxxvi, 265-70

Temporal Happiness, Penn on, i, 343-4

Temporary, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 153-4

Temptation, Burns on, vi, 547; Kempis on, vii, 215-16, 249, 281-2, 299-300; More on, xxxvi, 100; necessary to virtue, iii, 202, 207-8; Pascal on, xlviii, 284 (821); Paul, St., on, xlv, 503 (13); Rousseau on reasons of, xxxiv, 277-8; seek not, iv, 269; supposes fallibility, 268; Winthrop on, xliii, 97; yielding to, Epictetus on, ii, 144 (75); yielding to, Kempis on, vii, 210 (2)

Temptation, In, xlv, 559-60

Temptations, of the flesh, vii, 183-8; of curiosity, 189-91; of pride, 191-4

Temsice, George, xxxvi, 135

Ten Thousand, Emerson on the, v, 189; retreat of the, xii, 357-8

Tencterians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, in Tenderness, in friendship, v, 112

Tenedos, island of, xiii, 101

Tenements, Channing on, xxviii, 354-5

Teneriffe, identified as mountain of Atlas, viii, 178 note 21

TENNANT, JAMES, EPISTLE TO, vi, 334-6

Tennent, Gilbert, Franklin on, i, 118

Tennyson, Alfred Lord, ARABIAN NIGHTS' influence on, xvi, 4; Emerson on, v, 445; Poe on, xxviii, 390; poems by, xlii, 967-1057; Wordsworth on, v, 464

Terah, father of Abraham, iv, 15

Terence, Augustine, St., on, vii, 18; on compliance, ix, 39, 40; in Dante's Limbo, xx, 236; Montaigne on, xxxii, 90-1; quotations from, xlviii, 121 note n; Scipio and, xiii, 67

Terentia, wife of Cicero, ix, 6; in Catiline conspiracy, xii, 233-4; Clodius and, 241-2; divorce of, ix, 79; xii, 252-3; letter to, ix, 89

TERESA, ST., ON THE BOOK AND PICTURE OF, xl, 363-4

Tereus, and Progne, xx, 179 note 4

Termagant, xlvi, 148 note 3

Tern, the snow-white, xxix, 461

Ternate, Drake at, xxxiii, 218-21

Terray, Abbe, interest under, x, 92

Terrier, Sir Tivy, xviii, 148

Terriers, Harrison on, xxxv, 350

Territories, under control of Congress, xliii, 191

Terror, as a means of authority, ix, 333; Burke on, xxiv, 41, 49-50; cause of, 105-6; darkness, as cause of, 68, 114-17; delight caused by, 109; in idea of infinity, 62-3; intermitting sounds, as cause of, 70-1; loudness, as cause of, 69-70; obscurity, as cause of, 50-1; idea of power, as cause of, 55-60; in privation, 60; suddenness, as cause of, 70; in idea of vastness, 61-2, 109-10 (see also Sublimity)

Terry, Job, Dana on, xxiii, 36-7

Tertian Fever, Harvey on, xxxviii, 125-6

Tertiary Deposits, Lyell on, xxxviii, 404-5

Tertullian, on Christians, xlviii, 354; on the church, 309 (890); on Esdras, 210

Tertullus, Cornutus, colleague of Pliny, ix, 362 note i; on Certus, 341

Tertullus, the orator, xliv, 476 (1-8)

Teru-tero, Darwin on the, xxix, 120-1

Testa, C. Trebatius, letters to, ix, 132, 173

Testimony, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 399; Hume on, xxxvii, 377-8; Mohammed on, xlv, 1005-6

Tethys, references to, iv, 67; viii, 171

Tetu, French captain, xxxiii, 186-7, J 88, 189, 192, 194

Tetzel, xxxvi, 281 note 9

Teucer, accuser of Alcibiades, xii, 123-4

Teucer, and Belus, xiii, 95

Teucrus, Virgil on, xiii, 132

Teuthrania, Herodotus on plains of, xxxiii, ii

Teutonic Literature, Renan on early, xxxii, 147-8

Teutonic Races, Christianity and, xxxii, 171

Teutons, compared with Slavs in, situation, xxviii, 266-7

Texas, history of, xliii, 289 note

Thackeray, William Makepeace, Emerson on, v, 439; END OF THE PLAY, xlii, 1058-60; ESSAY ON SWIFT, 7-28; life and works, xxviii, 5-6; remarks on Essay, 1, 50

Thais, Alexander and, xl, 391, 394, 395; in Dante's HELL, xx, 76

Thalberg, and the Queen, v, 372

Thales, in Dante's Limbo, xx, 20; on death, xxxii, 27; Lycurgus and, iii, 194; Sidney on, xxvii, 7

Thames, importance of the, v, 335

Thammuz, Milton on, iv, 99

Thamud, xlv, 891, 906, 918

Thamyris, blind, iv, 136; death of, xiii, 402

THANATOPSIS, xlii, 1213-15

Thankfulness, human, ii, 131 (42); for virtue, 170 (146)

THANKSGIVING, A PSALM OF, xliv, 152-3

THANKSGIVING FOR A NATIONAL VICTORY, vi, 459

Thanksgivings, Roman, Cato on, ix, 152

Thaqif, tribe of, xlv, 919 note

Thargelia, the courtesan, xii, 60

THAT'S THE LASSIE o' MY HEART, vi, 540

Theagenes, Chariclea and, xxvii, 13; Sidney on, 10

Theano, the priestess, xii, 126

Theatre, Hugo on the Greek, xxxix, 341; Hugo on the modern, 381-2; Montaigne on the, xxxii, 70-1; morality and the, xxvii, 339-40; Pascal on the, xlviii, 13 (n); Swift on the, xxvii, 119-20; Voltaire on the, xxxiv, 152-3

Theatrical Representations, Lamb on, xxvii, 301-16

Thebes (Egypt), distance from sea, xxxiii, 10-11; extent of, 14; sacred animals of, 26-7

Thebes (Grecian), building of, xx, 131; founders of, xxii, 151; Philip of Macedon and, xxxvi, 42; Spartan policy toward, 18; the war against, viii, 258-60

Thebez, the prophet of, iv, 379

Theft, Augustine, St., on, vii, 26-7; Confucius on, xliv, 39 (18); Mohammed on, xlv, 997; More on causes and punishment of, xxxvi, 143-54; penalty of, by the Law, xliii, 94-8; punished in second circle of Hell, xx, 46; punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 366-7, 369

THEIR GROVES o' SWEET MYRTLE, vi, 5345

Themes, Locke on, xxxvii, 54-6, 161-2

Themis, Æschylus on, viii, 174 note, 198; goddess of assemblies, xxii, 23; mother of Prometheus, viii, 167 note; second prophet at Delphi, 122

Themistocles, accused of treason, xii, 256; Aristides and, 79-81, 84-5, 86-7, 102, 104; rebuilds Athens, 21-2; is banished, 24-5; birth and boyhood of, 5-7; character of, 7-8, 9-10, 20-1; children of, 33-4; ix, 180; Cicero on, 25, 103; death of, xii, 33; Emerson on, v, 265; escapes death by dream, xii, 31-2; Herodotus and, ix, 104; honors conferred on, xii, 20-1 ; honors to family, 34; loses favor with confederates, 23; at Marathon, 83; memory of, ix, 52; Montaigne on, xxxii, 33-4; in Persian war, xii, 10-19; proposes destruction of Greek fleet, 22-3; proposes ships, 8; prosperity, 31; public treasury and, 81-2; at Salamis, 85-7; the Seriphian and, ix, 48; the soldier and, iii, 328; incurs displeasure of Sparta, xii, 23-4; the statue and, 32; tomb of, 34; his wanderings, 26-8; Xerxes and, 28-31; iii, 141-2

THEMISTOCLES, LIFE OF, Plutarch's, xii, 5-34

THENIEL MENZIES' BONIE MARY, vi, 283-4

Theobald, Johnson on, xxxix, 238-9

Theoclymenus, in the ODYSSEY, xxii, 207, 213, 231-2, 282

Theocratic Society, Hugo on, xxxix, 340

Theocritus, on husbandry, xxvii, 68; an idyllic poet, xxxix, 299; reference to, xii, 923

Theodoric, Bacon on, iii, 130

Theodorus, death of, xii, 384; high priest of Athens, 139

Theodotus, with Pompey's head, xii, 3034

Theogenes, the statue of, v, 93

Theogiton, the Megarian, xii, 98

Theognis, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130-1

Theology, Bagehot on modern, xxviii, 204-5; Carlyle on, xxv, 363-4; Channing on, xxviii, 330; Descartes on, xxxiv, 8, 9-10; Emerson on our, v, 38; false, cure for, 280-1; Goethe on, xix, 80-1; Hume on, xxxvii, 420; Luther on study of, xxxvi, 324-7; Marlowe on, xix, 208, 210; of Middle Ages, xxviii, 215-16; Milton on study of, iii, 242; Milton on true, 222; Pascal on, xlviii, 48 (115), 398, 438; popular, Emerson on, v, 86; women and, xxviii, 149-50

Theomancy, defined, xxxiv, 382

Theophanes, the Lesbian, xii, 249-50

Theophilus, Antony's steward, xii, 373

Theophrastus, on anger and desire, ii, 201 (10); Cicero on, xii, 237; on Deraades, 198; Huxley on, xxviii, 219; Milton on study of, iii, 241 note 29; on morals and sickness, xii, 75; Newman on, xxviii, 58; Plutarch on, xii, 113-14; Zaleucus and, ix, 149

Theopompus, Caesar and, xii, 303; on Demosthenes, xii, 202; Ephorus and, ix, 146

Theoris, the priestess, Theopompus on, xii, 202

Theory, Burke on, xxiv, 8-9, 47-8; Goethe on, xix, 82; practical man's distrust of, v, 55; practise and, Mill on, xxv, 25; Smith on, xxvii, 247-8; test of truth of, xi, 497

Theramenes, in PHÆDRA, xxvi, 133-7, 155, 161-2, 191-4

Theramenes, pupil of Euripides, viii, 468; Aristophanes on, 455

THERE WAS A BONIE LASS, vi, 514

THERE'LL NEVER BE PEACE TILL JAMIE COMES HAME, vi, 398

Theresa, St., Pascal on, xlviii, 163 (499), 303 (868), 314 (917)

Thermo-electric Batteries, xxx, 208

Thermodon, Plutarch on, xii, 206

Thermometers, freezing-point of, xxx, 231-2

Thermopylae, Byron on, xii, 813

Thermus, Cicero on, ix, 82, 146

Theron, death of, xiii, 332

Thersites, Epictetus on, ii, 158 (no); Pliny on, ix, 209 note 8

Theseus, acts and loves of, xxvi, 136-7, 159; the Amazons and, viii, 150; Ariadne and, xxii, 153; the centaurs and, xx, 245 note 7; in Epirus, xxvi, 171; in Hades, xiii, 220; Hercules compared with, v, 184; Hippolyta and, xiii, 379; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 20, 21, 83; the Minotaur and, xiii, 208; xx, 49 note 4; ship of, ii, 45-6; in Tartarus, xiii, 228

Theseus, in HIPPOLYTUS, plotted against by Aphrodite, viii, 304; returns to find wife dead, 337-42; dooms Hippolytus, 342-3; scene with Hippolytus, 343-51; hears accident of Hippolytus, 355-8; hears of innocence of Hippolytus, 360; at death of Hippolytus, 364-7

Theseus, in PHÆDRA, his absence referred to, xxvi, 133-4; reported dead, 146, 148-9; rumored still alive, 162; his return, 166, 169-72; hears dishonor of Hippolytus, 172-4; banishes Hippolytus, 174-8; tells Phaedra, 179-80; with Aricia, 188-9; becomes suspicious of wrong, 189-90; learns death of Hippolytus, 191-4; learns his innocence, 1946

Thesmophoria, the, xxxiii, 85

Thespis, reference to, xxxix, 351

Thessalus, accuser of Alcibiades, xii, 1223

Thestylis, reference to, iv, 32

Thetford, university of, xxxv, 371

Thetis, Achilles and, v, 92; her flight from Chiron, xx, 180; in Dante's Limbo, 237 note 10; Milton on, iv, 68; Virgil on, xiii, 240; Zeus and, viii, 194 note 49

Theudas, xliv, 434 (36)

Thevet, Andrew, xxxiii, 312, 319, 326

Thibault, king of Navarre, xx, 90 note 3

THIEF AND His MOTHER, fable of the, xvii, 28-9

Thief, Epictetus on punishment of the, ii, 120 (12)

Thierry, Augustin, History of the Conquest, xxxii, 172 note; Taine on, xxxix, 414

Thierry, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 189, 190-4

THINE AM I, MY FAITHFUL FAIR, vi, 475

Thiodrek, the king, xlix, 396

Thirl wall, Mill on, xxv, 80, 81

THIS is No MY AIN LASSIE, vi, 537-8

Thisbe, and Pyramus, xx, 255

Thistles, South American, xxix, 129

THO' CRUEL FATE SHOULD BID Us PART, vi, 92

Thoas, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 335-6

Thoas, and Hypsipyle, xx, 75 note 4

Thomas, the apostle, xliv, 368 (15), 424 (13)

Thomas, Gov., Franklin on, i, 105, no, 112

THOMAS RYMER AND THE QUEEN OF ELFLAND, xl, 76-8

Thompson, Capt., at San Diego, xxiii, 396-7

Thompson, William, Mill on, xxv, 80

Thomson, C. P., Mill on, xxv, 81

THOMSON, CATHERINE, SONNET ON, iv, 81-2

Thomson, James (1700-48), Burns on, vi, 179; To FORTUNE, xl, 443; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278; prayer written by, i, 83; quotation from, vi, 224; RULE BRITANNIA, xl, 442-3; Wordsworth on his Castle of Indolence, xxxix, 325; Wordsworth on Seasons of, 322-5

THOMSON, ADDRESS TO SHADE OF, vi, 418-19

THOMSON, ON SOME COMMEMORATIONS OF, vi, 447-8

Thomson, James (1834-82), GIFTS, xlii, 1149

Thomson, Dr. James, on chemistry, xxv, 17; on freezing-point, xxx, 232-3; on regelation of ice, 243; on plasticity of ice, 245-6; on tides, 293 Thomson, N. H., translator of THE PRINCE, xxxvi, i

Thomson, Sir William, on age of earth, xi, 344, 345; on freezing-point, xxx, 232, 233; life and work, 250; THE TIDES, 274-307; WAVE THEORY OF LIGHT, 251-73

Thone, and Helena, iv, 62

Thonis, the Egyptian, xxxiii, 55

Thoosa, daughter of Phorcys, xxii, n

Thor, at Utgard, v, 360

Thora, daughter of Hakon, xlix, 338, 399

Thordharson, Jon, xliii, 5

Thoreau, Henry David, sketch of life and works, xxviii, 394; on the truth, 282; ON WALKING, 395-425

Thorfinn Karlsefni, xliii, 14-16, 17, 19-20

Thorgeir, son of Snorri, xliii, 20

Thori, the Norseman, xliii, u

Thorndike, Herbert, xv, 384

Thorold, Earl Tresham (see Tresham)

Thorough, is no word of peace, viii, 313

Thorstein, son of Eric the Red, xliii, 6, 13-14

Thorstein the Swarthy, xliii, 14

Thorvald, son of Eric the Red, xliii, 6; voyage to Vinland, 11-13

Thorvard the Norseman of Gardar marries Freydis, daughter of Eric the Red, xliii, 6; with Freydis makes voyage to Vinland, 17-20

Thorycion, Aristophanes on, viii, 449-50

THOU FAIR ELIZA, vi, 416-17

THOU HAST LEFT ME EVER, JAMIE, vi, 473-4

Thought, aberrations of, four principal, ii, 291 (19); "act in fancy," xlv, 799; action and, Carlyle on, xxv, 340; Channing on, xxviii, 323-36, 340-2; Descartes on reality of, xxxiv, 29; duty of man, xlviii, 59 (146); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 313-8, 321-2, 346-8; Hume on limits of, xxxvii, 300-5, 327-8; not wisdom, viii, 380; liberty of, Mill on, xxv, 210-49, 250; liberty of, Milton on, iii, 220-7; makes place, vii, 314 (5); man born for, xlviii, 411; Pascal on, ii? (339), 120 (346-8), 122 (365), 123 (370); preventing power of, 94-5 (259); as product of matter, xxxiv, 104-8; Rousseau on, 244-7; Schiller on courage of, xxxii, 230; sensation and, xxxvii, 299-300; Socrates on pure, ii, 53; study and, Confucius on, xliv, 8 (J 5) 53 (3); swifter than time, xviii, 326; Walton on sympathy of, xv, 336-7

Thoughtlessness, Buddhist idea of, xlv, 687

Thoughts, Bacon on good, iii, 29, Browning on, 401; Bunyan on good, xv, 148-9; chance in, xxxix, 119; character determined by, ii, 227 (16); connection of, xxxix, 155; defined, xxxvii, 300-1; Emerson on, v, 143, 168-9, 4 X 95 Emerson on our rejected, 59-60; evil, a prayer against, vii, 287; feelings and, xxxix, 272; Goethe on exchange of, 252-3; Marcus Aurelius on purity of, ii, 216 (4), 209 (8); Penn on government of, i, 378-80; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 109; source of, outside of human will, v, 133-4; two at same time impossible, xlviii, 59 (M5); wandering of, Byron on, xviii, 446; wandering, Dante on, xx, 162; worldly and heavenly, vii, 314-15 (5,6)

THOUGHTS IN A GARDEN, xl, 377-9

THOUSAND AND ONE NIGHTS, xvi

Thrace, the modern Roumania, xxviii, 264-5; Sesostris in, xxxiii, 50

Thrasea, Paetus, contemporaneity, ii, 320; Stoic philosopher, ix, 188 note; Pliny on, 307, 308

Thrasiline, in PHILASTER, xlvii, 667-77, 692-3, 699-703, 714-16, 731, 733, 737 Thraso, Sidney on, xxvii, 27; Thais and, xx, 76 note 6

Thrasybulus, of Stiria, xii, 132; accuses Alcibiades, 142

Thrasymedes, son of Nestor, xxii, 34, 43-4

THREE FEATHERS, story of the, xvii, 156-9

THREE LITTLE MEN IN THE WOOD, xvii, 69-74

THREE RAVENS, THE, xl, 73-4

THREE SPINNERS, THE, xvii, 74-6

THREE WARNINGS, THE, xlv, 689-92

Thrift, Confucius on, xliv, 24 (35)

Thrush, nests of the, xi, 284; Whitman on the, xlii, 1413

THRUSHBEARD KING, story of, xvii, 142-6

Thucydides, of Alopece, rival of Pericles, xii, 46-7, 52; on Pericles, 43, 53

Thule, King of, song of, xix, 119

THUMBLING, story of, xvii, 124-8

THUMBLING AS JOURNEYMAN, xvii, 128-32

Thumomancy, defined, xxxiv, 381-2

Thunder, Beaumont on, xlvii, 682; Longfellow on, xlii, 1314

Thundering Legion, and M. Aurelius Antoninus, ii, 308-9

Thunderstorms, Darwin on, xxix, 69

Thurloe, Hugo on, xxxix, 379-80

Thyestes, feast of, viii, 71-2

Thymbraean God, Apollo called, xx, 191 note

Thymbrus, and Laris, xiii, 334-5

Thymoetes, Virgil on, xiii, 101, 326

Thyn, Captain, xxxiii, 337, 345, 351, 356, 369

Thyrsis, and Corydon, iv, 32

Thyrsus, freedman of Octavius, xii, 379

Thyrsus, sacred wand of Bacchus, viii, 370

THYRZA, ELEGY ON, xli, 785-7

TIBBIE, I HÆ SEEN THE DAY, vi, 20-1

Tibboos, Emerson on rock, v, 199

Tiber, river, origin of name, xiii, 279

Tiberius, aided by mother, iii, 141; caution of, 17; Dante on victories of, xx, 30 note 19; death of, iii, 10; in Germany, xxxiii, 114; mentioned in Luke, xliv, 360 (i); Marco and, iii, 94; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 299-300 (27); memoirs of, xxxvi, 3; Milton on, iv, 397; the pictures and, xlvii, 569; Sejanus and, iii, 67-8

Ticino, Freeman on, xxviii, 256

Tickell, on Addison, xxvii, 176

Ticknor, Elisha, xxviii, 367

Tidal Harmonic Analyser, xxx, 293-6

Tidal Waves, Kelvin on, xxx, 275-6

Tide Gauge, the, xxx, 289

Tide Predictors, xxx, 295-6

Tides, ancient knowledge of, xxx, 279-80; declinational, 291-2; defined, 27-47; Descartes on, xxxiv, 37; due to attraction of sun and moon, xxx, 276, 281-2, 291-2, 303-5; dynamic action of, 287-8; elastic, 299, 305; equilibrium theory of, 286-7; harmonic analysis of, 290-5; meteorological, 277-9; moon as cause of, 280-2, 291-2, 303-4; observation of, 288-90; prediction of, 295-7; spring and neap, 284-6; true solar and lunar, how known, 278-9; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 108, 118; weather, influenced by, xxx, 298-9

TIDES, ESSAY ON, Kelvin's, xxx, 274-307

Tierny, Dr., xxxviii, 198, 211-12

Tierra del Fuego, boulders in, xxix, 252; climate and productions of, 247-8; Darwin on, 56, 209-35, 24'7; glaciers of, 229, 250; peat in, 290; snow-line in, 249; trees in, 290

Tigellinus, and Burrhus, iii, 59

TIGER, THE, a poem, xli, 583-4

Tigillinus, death of, xxxii, 14

Tignoso, Federigo, xx, 202 note 21

Tigranes, and the Romans, iii, 74

Tigris, river, in Eden, iv, 262

Tillotson, Dr., on the real presence, xxxvii, 375

Timaea, Alcibiades and, xii, 128

Timaeus, on plants and man, v, 176; Plutarch on, xii, 125; on the Pyrrhian War, ix, 102; Timoleon and, 104

Timandra, and Alcibiades, xii, 145, 146

Timarete, the priestess, xxxiii, 33

Time, abolished by the soul, v, 136; Bacon on, xxxix, 123; brings evil and good, xxxvi, 12; cleanses all, viii, 134; consists of two days, xvi, 16; definitions of, xlviii, 426-7; duration of past, xi, 321-4, 344; duration of past, Lyell on, xxxviii, 386-93; element of, in formation of species, xi, no; eternity and, iii, 262; Hume on idea of, xxxvii, 412-13; the greatest innovator, iii, 61-2; lifter of the veil, viii, 349; like a river, ii, 219 (43); makes manifest the righteous, viii, 227; the measure of business, iii, 63; measures all things, iv, 195; method and, xix, 78; Milton on, iv, 39; numbers motion, 26-7; Pascal on, xlviii, 50 (122); Penn on use of, i, 319-20; Raleigh on, xl, 205, 207; among the Romans, ix, 233 note 4; Shakespeare on, xl, 274; slower than thought, xviii, 326; subtle thief of youth, iv, 29; teaches many a lesson, viii, 202; as the test of books, xxxix, 208-9; unhasting stride of, viii, 410

Time-server, Lord, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102

Timeliness, Bacon on, iii, 63-4; Penn on, i, 338

Timesileus, Plutarch on, xii, 57

Timidity, Hippocrates on, xxxviii, 5; of modern society, v, 75

Timocreon, on Themistocles, xii, 23-4

Timoleon, fortune of, iii, 101; Landor on, v, 318; Timzus and, ix, 104

Timon, of Athens, xii, 376-7; Alcibiades and, 120-1; misanthropy of, ix, 38; tree of, iii, 34

Timon, the deacon, xliv, 434 (5)

Timon of Phlius, on Zeno, xii, 38-9

Timon, teacher of Arthur, xxxix, 62

Timorous, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 467, 221

Timorous, Mrs., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 184-8

Timorousness, Locke on cure of, xxxvii, 97-101

Timotheus, Athenian general, Apollodorus and, xii, 203; Bacon on, iii, 101

Timotheus, musician at Alexander's feast, xl, 391-2

Timothy, at Beroea, xliv, 461 (14); circumcision of, 457 (1-3); xxxvi, 369; at Corinth, xliv, 462 (5); the Corinthians and, xlv, 496 (17), 516 (i), 517 (19); sent to Macedonia, xliv, 465 (22), 467 (4); St. Paul on, xlv, 514 (10-11); Penn on, i, 386 (163)

Timoxena, wife of Plutarch, xii, 3

TIN SOLDIER, THE CONSTANT, xvii, 293-7

TINDER-BOX, THE, story of, xvii, 349-55

Ting, Duke, xliv, 43 (15)

Tinker's Song, from JOLLY BEGGARS, vi, 129

Tinochorus, Darwin on the, xxix, 100-1

TIPPLING BALLAD, A, vi, 450-1

Tiquitoc, on Dulcinea, xiv, 515

Tiradritto, bravo in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 319

Tirante the White, xiv, 52, 93

Tiresias, in Dante's HELL, xx, 82; Milton on, iv, 136

Tiro, freedman of Cicero, ix, 80, 114; Cicero's letter to, 154; letter of Cicero the Younger to, 173; letter of Q. Cicero to, 175

Tiro, Calestrius, letter to, ix, 197

Tiro, Julius, codicils of, ix, 295

Tirsan, father of family in New Atlantis, iii, 163

Tirynthian Groom, Hercules called the, xl, 242

Tisaphernes, and Alcibiades, xii, 129-31, 133

Tisiphon, wreath of, xlvi, 69

Tisiphone, Dante on, xx, 37; in Virgil's Hades, xiii, 226

Tisso, Prince, anecdote of, v, 299

Titania, in FAUST, xix, 184

Titans, Milton on the, iv, 93, 101; sons of Okeanus and Earth, viii, 174 note 14; in Tartarus, xiii, 226; war of, referred to, viii, 174

Tithes, David on, xii, 491; Harrison on, xxxv, 261-2; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 800

Tithonus, Aurora and, v, 92; xxii, 68; xl, 236; reference to, xx, 179

Titian, Cellini and, xxxi, 356; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 278-9; portraits by, 272

Titius, the quaestor, xii, 355, 367

Titles, Austin on, xii, 532-3; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 368-9; Pope on, xl, 435

Titmouse, habits of the, xi, 178, 277

Titus, Paul, St., and, xxxvi, 369, 374; Paul, St., on, xlv, 518 (13), 523 (67), 524 (13-15. 6), 525-6 (16-24), 531 (18)

Titus, the Emperor, beauty of, iii, 106; Jerusalem destroyed by, xx, 232 note 5, 308; xxxv, 319; xxxviii, 31; Pope on, xl, 434

Tityrus, Sidney on, xxvii, 26

Tityus, Homer on, xxii, 159; in Tartarus, xiii, 227

Tivitivans, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 340, 373

Tmolus, Euripides on, viii, 386; reference to, xii, 823

TOADEATER, THE, vi, 427

Toads, adders and, xxxv, 345; South American, xxix, 103-4

Tobacco, Burke on taste for, xxiv, 15; Harrison on use of, xxxv, 239; introduced into England by Drake, xxxiii, 122; profits of cultivation of, x, 161-2

Tobbia, the goldsmith, xxxi, 119-20, 122, 124-5, 126

Tobias, Augustine, St., on, vii, 187; Milton on, iv, 186

TOCCATA OF GALUPPI'S, A, xiii, 1080-1

Tocqueville, M. de, Mill on his Democracy, xxv, 120

Toledo, Eleonora di, grand duchess of Tuscany, xxxi, 342 note i; Cellini and, 362, 363, 366, 383, 388-92, 396-8, 407-8, 412, 415-16, 417-18, 420, 4267, 433-5

Toledo, Pietro Alvarez de, xxxi, 136 note

Toleration, in ancient Athens, iii, 193-4; in ancient nations, xxxvii, 393-4; Lord Brook on, iii, 227; Burke on, without any belief, xxiv, 284; Hume on, xxxvii, 405; Mill on, xxv, 36-7; Mill on popular ideas of, 202; Milton on, iii, 2289; Pascal on, xlviii, 342-4; in Utopia, xxxvi, 226-7

Tolleme la Feintes, xxxv, 118-19

Tollendal, de Lally, letter on October Sixth, xxiv, 210-11 note

Tolls, Smith on, x, 454-6

Tolmides, Athenian general, xii, 56, 57

Tolosa, Lady, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 34

Tolumnius, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 371, 399, 406

TOM BOWLING, xli, 502

TOMB, THE BISHOP ORDERS His, xlii, 1075-8

TOMBS IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY, ON THE, xl, 319

TO-MORROW, by Collins, xli, 592-3

To-morrow, Omar Khayyam on, xli, 946; sees undone, what happens not to-day, xix, 16; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 388

Tomyris, Cyrus and, xx, 192

Tonio, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 93-5, 109-11, 114, 116-18, 125, 183-4, 547

Tonson, on Addison, xxvii, 173

Too-bold, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 303-4

Tooke, Home, xxvii, 277

Tooke, William Eyton, xxv, 54; free trade petition, 65; in Utilitarian movement, 67; and Westminster Review, 63

TOOTHACHE, ADDRESS TO THE, vi, 239-40

Toparimaca, Raleigh on, xxxiii, 348-9

Tophet, Hinnom named, iv, 98

Topiawari, king of Aromaia, xxxiii, 333, 353-5, 362-7

Torello, Lelio, xxxi, 412 note i

Torquatus, A., Cicero on, ix, 134; Dante on, xx, 307; Virgil on, xiii, 235

Torralva, Lope Ruyz and, xiv, 156-7

Torrens, Col., Mill on, xxv, 58

Torrigiani, Piero, xxxi, 22-4

TORTOISE AND BIRDS, fable of, xvii, 29-30

TORTOISE, HARE AND, fable of, xvii, 38

Tortoises, on Chatham Island, xxix, 379; Darwin on meat of, 381; of Galapagos Islands, 398, 399; habits of, 386-9

Torture, judicial, Harrison on, xxxv, 363; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 399-400; in Massachusetts, xliii, 73 (45)

Tosa, Cianghella, xx, 351 note 12

Totems, in Ireland, xlix, 202 note

Touch, beauty in sense of, xxiv, 98-9

Touraine, Earl of, at Poitiers, xxxv, 46

Tourneys, Bacon on, iii, 96

Tournon, Francois de, xxxi, 261-2 and note 2

TOUSSAINT L'OUVERTURE, To, xli, 655-6

Town, and country, relations of, x, 127-31, 304-7 TOWN MOUSE AND COUNTRY MOUSE, fable of, xvii, 13-14

Town Meetings, disturbers of, xliii, 74 (56)

Towns, Goethe on life in, xix, 368; in Massachusetts, xliii, 75-6; origin of, x, 306

Townshend, Goldsmith on, xli, 506, 507

Toxodon, Darwin on the, xxix, 89

Trade, advantages of, x, 21; Balance of (see Balance of T.); division of labor limited by facilities of, 22-3; Emerson on the ways of, v, 45-6; genius in, 185; Goldsmith on evils of, xli, 510-11, 519; government interference with, xxv, 291-8; home and foreign, x, 333-4; human propensity to, 18-19; Locke on learning a, xxxvii, 1738; necessity of, x, 27; Penn on ways of, i, 387 (185), 388 (186); tyranny of, v, 400; "the vena porta of wealth," iii, 102; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 92-3; wholesale, three kinds of, x, 295; Woolman on, i, 180, 195-6 and note, 197 (see also Commerce)

Trades, equality of, the requisites to, x, 116-21 ; exclusive, profits and wages in, 62-4; government interferences with equality of, 121-46; incorporated, 121-33; inequalities, natural, of various, 102-21; inequalities, political, 121-46; Tzu-hsia on, xliv, 64 (4)

Trade-winds, effect of Andes Mountains on, xxix, 327

Trading Companies, x, 458-63

TRADITIONAL BALLADS, xl, 51-186

Traditions, over-reverence of, iii, 46

Tragedy, before Æschylus, viii, 5; Athenian, iv, 401-2; Augustine, St., on, vii, 31-2; better read than seen, xxxix, 223; Cervantes on, xiv, 478; Dennis on unity of place in, xxvii, 192; Dryden on, compared with epic poetry, xiii, 6n, 13-14; English, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 130-6; French classical, xxvi, 76; Greek, Hugo on, xxxix, 341-2; 346-7; Johnson on origin of, 214; Lamb on stage representation of, xxvii, 301-16; Macaulay on eloquence in, xxvii, 383; Marcus Aurelius on lessons of, ii, 286 (6); Milton on, iv, 412-13; in periods of decay, xxvii, 341; pleasure in, Burke on, xxiv, 40-2; pleasures of, Milton on, iv, 36; pleasure in, the reason of, xxvii, 351-2; xxxix, 223; popular notions of, 214; requires a comic element, xxviii, 176-7; Schiller on, xxxii, 270; Shelley on, xxvii, 341; Voltaire on translations of, xxxiv, 139-40 (see also Drama)

TRAGIC FRAGMENT, vi, 23

Traitors, Æschylus on, viii, 205; punishment of, in Dante's HELL, xx, 47, 131-42

Trajan, the Christians and, ix, 407 and note; Dante on, xx, 185 and note; in Dante's PARADISE, 371, 372-3; expedition against Decebalus, ix, 370 note 4; the forum of, 365 note i; the government of, 357 note i; justice of, 294-6; Pliny and, 185; Pliny on, 244, 292-3; Pliny's correspondence with, 356-416; ii, 311-12; success of empire of, ix, 366 note i; times of, ii, 217 (32)

Trajano, the chamberlain, xxxi, 120-1, 144, 147

Tramaglino, Renzo, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, marriage of, forbidden, xxi, 14, 20-1; put off by Abbondio, 26-30; learns of Don Rodrigo, 30-2; plans of vengeance, 34-5; with Lucia, 36-7; hears of Rodrigo's persecution, 38-40; with Azzecca-Garbugli, 41-8; returns, 52; promises not to attack Rodrigo, 69-70; plans for marriage with Lucia, 89-96; threatens to kill Rodrigo, 99-100; wins Lucia's consent, 100-1; at the inn, 109-12; at Abbondio's, 113-14, 116-17, 118-20, 125-6; goes to convent, 129-33; to Monza, 133-8; in Milan, 190-5; in the insurrection, 204-5, 205-8; in attack on corn superintendents, 211, 213, 219, 220; proposes appeal to Ferrer, 226-8; at the inn, 229-43; arrested, 248-55; rescued, 256; flight to Bergamo, 257-88; disappearance of, 431-2; actual truth of disappearance, 432-3; demanded by Don Gonzalo, 432-3; corresponds with Agnese, 437-41; returns to Bergamo, 542-3; taken with plague, 543; determines to seek Lucia, 543-6; returns to native village, 547-55; goes to Milan, 555-70; learns Lucia's sickness, 571; suspected of being a prisoner, 572-6; at the Lazzaretto, 577-81; meets Cristoforo, 582-91; search for Lucia, 592-8; finds Lucia, 598-603; leads Cristoforo to her, 6056; reunited to Lucia, 608-11; returns to tell Agnese, 612-19; preparations for marriage, 620-1, 626; asks Abbondio to perform ceremony, 627-8; outlawry removed, 635-6; married to Lucia, 636-7; at Bergamo, 638-40; in business with Bortolo, 640-1; daughter born to, 642; lessons he had learned, 643

Trance of Cessation, xlv, 731-7

Tranibores, in Utopia, xxxvi, 177, 181

Tranquillity, Epictetus on, ii, 142 (71), 149 (85), 152 (94), 181 (188); Franklin on, i, 80; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 212 (3), 222 (2), 238 (31), 248 (37, 43)

Tranquillus, Suetonius, letters to, ix, 202, 403-4

Transcendentalists, belief of the, xxviii, 308

Transfers, taxes on, x, 505-11

Transfiguration, the, xliv, 379 (29-36)

Transformations, Browne on, iii, 282

Transition, beauty lies in, v, 303; Darwin on modes of, xi, 185-8

Transitional Habits, xi, 175-8

Transitional Structures, xi, 175-8

Transitional Varieties, absence of, xi, 170-5; in geological formations, 332-40

Transitoriness, of things, v, 149, 153

Translating, as a means of study, ix, 301

Translations, Dryden on, xiii, 64-5; Eliot on, 1, 3-4; Johnson on, xxxix, 204; Shelley on vanity of, xxvii, 333-4; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 132-4, 139-40

Transmigration, Egyptian belief in, xxxiii, 62-3; Lessing on, xxxii, 206; rebirth not, xlv, 677, 681-4; Socrates on, ii, 59-62, 74-5; Virgil on, xiii, 231-2

Transparency, cause of, xxxiv, 123-4

Transsilvania, Freeman on, xxviii, 269

Transubstantiation (see Real Presence)

Trapemernes, in Utopia, xxxvi, 232

Traube, Moritz, xxxviii, 315-16 note i, 344

Travel, Bacon on, iii, 46-8; Confucius on, xliv, 14 (19); Darwin on, xxix, 503-9; Descartes on, xxxiv, 8; education by, iii, 246-7; xxxii, 39, 45; Emerson on, v, 79; Epictetus on thirst for, ii, 121 (14), 142 (70); Locke on, xxxvii, 179-82; Pliny on motives of, ix, 329

TRAVELLER, ADMONITION TO A, xli, 680

TRAVELLER, THE, by Goldsmith, xli, 520-31

TRAVELS AND VOYAGES, xxxiii

Traversaro, Pier, xx, 202 note 16

Treachery, punished in Hell, xx, 131-42

Treason, most horrid where trust is, xviii, 87; punishment of, in Dante's HELL, xx, 47, 131-42; punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 363-4; against United States, xliii, 190

Treasure-trove, Smith on, x, 222

Treaties (United States), under the Confederation, xliii, 162, 165; under Constitution, 186 (10), 188 (2); interpretation of, 189

Treaties of Commerce, Smith on, x, 389-94

Trebatius, Cicero on, ix, 113; Cicero and, xii, 249

Trebellius, Plutarch on, xii, 328

Trebonius, on Antony, xii, 331; Cicero on, ix, 114

Trebuat, son of Hua-Lonsce, xlix, 220

Tree, parable of the rotten, xv, 207-8

TREE AND REED, fable of, xvii, 26

Tree of Knowledge, Milton on, iv, 160, 182-3, 240-1, 251-2, 276-80

Tree of Life, highest in Eden, iv, 159, 160

Trees, as abodes, Buddha on, xlv, 582 note 12; conditions favorable to, xxix, 54-5; experiments on, in New Atlantis, iii, 174-5; fallen, Darwin on, xxix, 304, 305; imperfect men, v, 229; Locke on study of, xxxvii, 147; separated sexes in, xi, 106; silicified, xxix, 356; silicified, in the Andes, 335-6; Thoreau on climbing, xxviii, 422-3

TRELAWNY, DIE, AND SHALL, xlii, im12

Tremellius, Emanuel, xxvii, n

Trent, city of, Freeman on, xxviii, 256

Trent, Council of, on liberty of press, iii, 196, 198; schoolmen at, 45

Tresham, Austin, in A BLOT IN THE 'SCUTCHEON, betrothed to Guendolen, xviii, 363; on Mertoun's suit, 364, 366; in scene between Earl Tresham and Mildred, 386, 388-9; with brother after duel, 397-8; with Thorold at death, 403-4

Tresham, Earl, in A BLOT IN THE 'SCUTCHEON, described by retainers, xviii, 361-2; welcomes Mertoun and his suit, 363-8; Guendolen on, 369-70; hears Mildred's fault from Gerard, 377-80; with Guendolen, sends for Mildred, 381-2; with Mildred, 382-8; under Mildred's window, 392-3; meeting with Mertoun, 393-7; with Guendolen after duel, 397-9; with Mildred after Mertoun's death, 400-3; death of, 403-4

Tresham, Guendolen, in A BLOT IN THE 'SCUTCHEON, betrothed to Austin, xviii, 363; on Mertoun's suit, 364, 365, 3668; with Mildred, 369-71; with Earl Tresham, 381-2; in scene between Tresham and Mildred, 386, 388-92; with Earl Tresham after duel, 397-8; with Thorold at death, 403-4

Tresham, Mildred, in A BLOT IN THE 'SCUTCHEON, sought by Mertoun, xviii, 360, 364-6; age of, 367; with Guendolen, 369-71; with Mertoun, 371-7; relations with Mertoun, 374-6; discovered by Gerard, 378-80; with Earl Tresham, 382-8; with Guendolen, confesses Mertoun her lover, 389-91; in chamber, waiting for Mertoun, 399-400; with Thorold after Mertoun's death, 400-3; dies, 403

Trespasses, in Massachusetts, xliii, 70 (24)

Tresvaux, Abbe", Renan on, xxxii, 173

Treverians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108

Treves, Marlowe on, xix, 229

Trials, jury, xliii, 190; right of prompt, 72 (41); in United States, 190, 194 (5), 195 (6, 7); Winthrop on right of, 91

Triassic Period, in Europe, xxx, 345-6

Tribocians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108

Tribulation, Kempis on, vii, 253-7, 2801, 292-5, 312-13, 316-17; More on, xxxvi, 100-1; Pascal on, xlviii, 353-4

Tribunes, of Rome, xii, 152; power of Roman, ix, 342 note 9

Tributary States, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 8-12, 18-19, 69; More on, 159-60

Trickery, Penn on, i, 346

Trieste, Freeman on, xxviii, 256

Trifles, Confucius on, xliv, 53 (26, 33); Franklin on, i, 80; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 217-18 (32); Pascal on, xlviii, 52 (136), 77 (198); Penn on, i, 348 (314); profiting in, iii, 48

Trifling, Locke on, xxxvii, 107

Trimorphism, Darwin on, xi, 57; reciprocal, 305-8

Trina, in WISE FOLKS, xvii, 192-5

Trinculo, in THE TEMPEST, xlvi, 427-31, 435-9. 450-2, 461

Trinidad, Raleigh on, xxxiii, 312

Trinity, Browne on the, iii, 262-3 (12); Coleridge on doctrine of the, v, 319-20; Dante on the, xx, 341 note 15, 390, 425-6; first taught by Moses, xlviii, 264 (752); Lessing on doctrine of the, xxxii, 200-1; Mohammed on the, xlv, 1002; Newman on doctrine of the, xxviii, 38; universal idea of a, v, 163

TRINITY, THE HOLY, xlv, 564-5

Trip, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 149-50, 163

Triptolemus, Socrates on, ii, 29

Trismegistus, Hermes, iii, 261 note 12; Milton on, iv, 36; Pascal on, xlviii, 208 (628)

Trist, Nicholas P., xliii, 289

Tristan (Tristram), in Dante's HELL, xx, 22; in Malory's Morte d' Arthur, xxxix, 23; Renan on, xxxii, 163; Ysoude and, xiv, 489

Triton, references to, xiii, 78; xli, 678

TRIUMPH, THE, xl, 290-1

TRIUMPHS, MASQUES AND, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 95-6

Triumphs, Cato on, ix, 152; Roman, Bacon on, iii, 80

Trivia, name of Diana, xx, 383 note 2; Hippolytus and, xiii, 265-6

Trochilus, and crocodile, xxxiii, 38

Troilus, and Achilles, xiii, 90

Trophimus the Ephesian, xliv, 471 (29)

Tropics, Darwin on scenery of the, xxix, 498-9, 505-6; More on the, xxxvi, 138; not always habitable, xxxix, 106-7

Trotti, Alfonso de', xxxi, 271-3

Troubadours, Arnold on the, xxviii, 75-6

Trouble, man born into, xliv, 77 (7); none free from, vii, 228 (i)

Trotter, W. F., translator of Pascal, xlviii

Troubles, Manzoni on, xxi, 643

Trouveres, Renan on the, xxxii, 161

Troy, Æschylus on siege of, viii, 28-9; Augustus planned to rebuild, xiii, 21; downfall caused by Helen, viii, 33-5; Herodotus on plains about, xxxiii, n; Herodotus on story of, 56-8; the horse of, Homer on, xxii, 112; the horse of, Virgil on, xiii, 100-9; RECUYELL OF HISTORIES OF, xxxix, 5-9; remarks on siege of, xxii, 3; taking of, related by Æneas, xiii, 100-21; taking of, announced, viii, 8, 18-19

Troyes, ancient fair of, x, 31

TRUE LOYAL NATIVES, THE, vi, 459

Truelove, Edward, xxv, 224 note 3

Trumball, Sir William, and Dryden, xiii, 425

TRUMPETER TAKEN PRISONER, fable of, xvii, 43

Trumpets, Dryden on, xl, 389

TRUNK, THE FLYING, xvii, 344-9

Trussel, in EDWARD II, xlvi, 71

Truth, in art, v, 304; St. Augustine on, love of, vii, 179; on authority, Mill on, xxv, 229-39; Bacon on search for, xxxix, 128-9, 132-40, 143-5; beauty and, Keats on, xli, 879; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 228; Buddha on, xlv, 596-7; Bunyan on, xv, 8-9; Channing on, love of, xxviii, 326-7; with children, xxxvii, 105, 106; commotions due to spread of, xxxix, 43-4; Confucius on, xliv, 9 (22), 13 (8, 9), 29 (24), 51 (5), 53 (28, 31); courtesy and, v, 207; Descartes on, xxxiv, 5, 16-20, 26; diversity of, iii, 228; eloquence and, i, 336; Emerson on, v, 27, 63, 74, 139-40, 186, 187, 288; exact difficulty of, xxviii, 277, 281; of fact and of sentiment, 277-8, 282; Franklin on, i, 56; friendship and, v, in; historical, Montaigne on, xxxii, 99; Hindu Krishna on, xlv, 807-8, 853-4; Hume on, xxxvii, 319-20, 408; Kempis on, vii, 207-8, 261-2; liberty necessary to progress of, iii, 220-2, 229-30; Locke on inquiry of, xxxvii, 159-60; Lowell on, xiii, 1371, 1372, 1380, 1382-3; Milton on, iii, 217, 227-8; Montaigne on, xlviii, 392-3; men natural lovers of, v, 264-5, 267; in nature, 283, 374; opinions and, xxxiv, 13, 16; Pascal on, xlviii, 16 (21), 29, 38-9, 79 (211), 99 (282), 126-7, 191 (582), 300 (857), 421-2, 431; Penn on, i, 336, 338, 386 (164); persecution and, xxv, 222-3; P 06 on inculcation of, xxviii, 375-6; poetry and, 376, 378, 391; xxxix, 279, 281; Quakers on, i, 191-2; Rousseau's method of seeking, xxxiv, 244-7; Schiller on, xxxii, 231; xxv, 351; search for, ii, 171 (149); Socrates's test of, 93; speaking and hearing, xxviii, 282-3; an attribute of speech, xxxiv, 326; told with bad intent, xli, 588; said to lie in a well, xxviii, 464-5; Whittier on, xlii, 1350

TRUTH, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 7-9

TRUTH OF INTERCOURSE, Stevenson's, xxviii, 277-84

Truthfulness, Locke on, xxxvii, 118-19; Whitman on, xxxix, 402-3

Truttes, Bernard of, xxxv, 58

Try on, vegetarian, i, 17, 35

Tsai Wo, disciple of Confucius, xliv, n (21), 15 note, 20 (24), 33 (2), 60 (21)

Tsai-Yii, xliv, 15 (9)

Tsang Wen, xliv, 16 (17), 52 (13)

Tsang Wu-chung, xliv, 46 (13, 15)

Tseng-Hsi, xliv, 36 (25)

Tseng-tzu, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 13 note, 5 (4), 6 (9), 25 (3, 4-7), 34 (17) note 13, 41 (24), 48 (28), 65 (16-19)

Tso Ch'in-ming, xliv, 17 (24)

Tubero, Quintus, T. Gracchus and, ix, 22

Tucker, Ellen, wife of Emerson, v, 3

Tucker, Lieut., with Drake, xxxiii, 237, 258

Tucutuco, Darwin on the, xxix, 58-9

Tudwal, grindstone of, xxxii, 146

Tufton, Sir Louis, xxxv, 24-5

Tuidle of Ulaid, xlix, 221-2

Tuisto, god of the Germans, xxxiii, 93

Tulchinne, the juggler, xlix, 232-3

Tullia, daughter of Cicero, ix, 80, 146; death of, 165-9; Plutarch on, xii, 2523 (see also Tulliola)

Tulliola, letter to, ix, 89; Cicero on, 91

Tullius, M., Cicero on, ix, 99

TULLOCHGORUM, xli, 568-70

Tullus, Domitius, will of, ix, 327-8

Tullus, friend of Cicero, xii, 241

Tullus, the king, xiii, 235

Tultie, Salomon de, xlviii, 15 note 3

Tumefaction, Harvey on, xxxviii, 114-15

Tumors, Harvey on treatment of, xxxviii, no

Tungrians, the original Germans, xxxiii, 94

Tunstall, Bishop of Durham, xxxvi, 103, 104, 109, 114, 135

Tuppukkoowillin, xliii, 143, 146

Turco, Darwin on the, xxix, 274-5

Turdi, in ancient Rome, x, 187-8

Turenne, Pope on, xl, 433; SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 126

Turgis, Count of Tortosa, xlix, 124, 135

Turgot, Mill on, xxv, 73

Turin, Pare" on expedition against, xxxviii, 9-11

Turkey, Burke on, xxiv, 261; poets in, xxvii, 7; Smith on, 240-1

Turkey-buzzard, Darwin on the, xxix, 66, 189-90, 288

Turkey-cock, hair of the, xi, 96

Turkish Empire, Freeman on races in, xxviii, 263-70; Machiavelli on the, xxxvi, 15-17; power of soldiery in, 67

Turks, kindness of, to animals, iii, 33; Magyars and, xxviii, 227-9; royalty of the, iii, 50

Turn-about, Lord, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102

TURN ALL THY THOUGHTS TO EYES, xl, 286

Turnaway, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 128

Turn-back, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 154

TURNER, ANDREW, ON, vi, 500

Turner, Charles Tennyson, LETTY'S GLOBE, xli, 921

Turnspits, Harrison on, xxxv, 354

Turnus, in the ÆNEID, Lavinia and, xiii, 241; descent of, 252; stirred by Alecto against Æneas, 254-5; beginning of war, 259-61; his allies, 261-7; shield of, 266; attacks Trojan fleet and town, 293-8, 309-20; renews battle, 330-1; kills Pallas, 336-8; drawn from battle by Juno, 344-5; challenged by ÆEneas, 359; denounced by Drances, 363, 3689; his reply, 369-70; agrees to fight ÆEneas, 372; in cavalry fight, 373-5, 387; determines to fight Æneas in single combat, 389-93; in Rutulian fight, 401-3, 405-9; final combat with Æneas, 412-23; remarks on duel with Æneas, 48-50; Dante on, xx, 8; Milton on, iv, 260; Sidney on, xxvii, 24

Turpin, Archbishop, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 100, 103; with Roland in return to France, 120; at Roncesvalles, 130-1, 134, 135, 137-138, 139, 141, 143-4. 146, 149, 153, 157, 162, 163, 164, 165-6; last benediction, 166-9; found by Charlemagne, 182-3; his tomb, 186

Turpio, Ambivius, Cicero on, ix, 62

Turtles, catching of, in Keeling Island, xxix, 463

Tuscany, Pliny's description of, ix, 265-6

Tuscus, Minutius, husband of Corellia, ix, 303-4; letter to, 301

Tutelary Angels, Browne on, iii, 275-6, 284-5; Elihu on, xliv, 124 (23); Walton on, xv, 337

Tutors, Locke on, xxxvii, 69-80, 83, 128, 140-2, 153, 167

TWA CORBIES, THE, xl, 74

TWA DOGS, THE, vi, 151-7; editorial remarks on, 16; an idyllic poem, xxxix, 299

TWA HERDS, THE, vi, 63-6

TWA SISTERS, THE, xl, 54-6

'TWAS NA HER BONIE BLUE E'E, vi, 534

Tweeddale, Marquis of, xxv, 8

Twelfth Day, celebration of, xv, 403

Twelve Peers, Charlemagne's, xlix, 174

Twelve Tables, Law of, xlviii, 205, 206

TWENTY YEARS HENCE, xli, 898-9

TWENTY-FOUR YEARS AFTER, Dana's, xxiii, 375-405

TWENTY-THREE, ON BEING ARRIVED AT THE AGE OF, iv, 29

Twist, Tom, in SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, xviii, 207

Two APRIL MORNINGS, xli, 600-2

Two BLACK HOUNDS, story of the, xvi, 21-4

Two KINGS' CHILDREN, story of the, xvii, 196-203

Two-tongues, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 102

Two YEARS BEFORE THE MAST, xxiii; editorial remarks on, 1, 45

Twrch Trwyth, Arthur and, xxxii, 146

Tyaga, xlv, 866

Tybris, reference to, xiii, 279

Tydeus, Athenian general, xii, 143; and Menalippus, xx, 135; Virgil's mention of, in Hades, xiii, 223

Tydides, bravest of the Grecian train, xiii, 76

Tyler, Wat, leader of the rebellion, xxxv, 62, 64, 69, 71, 73, 75, 76; Richard Lyon and, 69; death, 77-8

Tyndall, John, on Faraday, xxx, 6; on glaciers, 225, 227, 229, 231, 236, 240, 247

Tyndareus, Lede and, xxii, 152

Types, law of succession of, xi, 372-4

Typhceus, Dante on, xx, 316 note 8; Virgil on, xiii, 317

Typhon, the giant, viii, 179 and note 22; deposed by Apollo, xxxiii, 72; Milton on, iv, 93

Typology, Pascal on, xlviii, 214-32

Typotherium, Darwin on the, xi, 363

Tyrannicide, Mill on, xxv, 210 note

Tyranny, adage on, xvi, 33; death a gentler lord than, viii, 61; lawlessness and, 143; of majorities, xxv, 196-9; Milton on, iv, 344; of opinion, xxv, 199-202; origin of, xxxiv, 215-19, 2256; Pascal on, xlviii, 115 (332); Pope on, xl, 428, 429; of rulers, xxv, 195-6

Tyrant Flycatchers, Darwin on, xxix, 61-2

Tyrants, Cicero on, ix, 27-8; in Dante's HELL, xx, 51

Tyre, antiquity of, xxxiii, 27-8

Tyrian Cynosure, referred to, iv, 53

Tyrker, the German, xliii, 8, 10-11

Tyrnog, pot of, xxxii, 146

Tyro, Homer on, xxii, 24, 150-1

Tyrrhene Trump, Æschylus on the, viii, 144

Tyrrhenus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 378

Tyrrheus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 256-8

Tyrtzus, Sidney on, xxvii, 7, 12

Tysander, in Trojan horse, xiii, 108

Tythes, Smith on, x, 486-8

TYTLER, WILLIAM, ADDRESS TO, vi, 266-7

Tzetzes, xxxii, 179 note 31

Tzu-Ch'an, xliv, 16 (15), 46 (9, 10)

Tzu-chang, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 8 (18), 9 (23), 16 (18), 34 (17) note 14, 35 (19), 38 (6, 10), 39 (14), 40 (20), 50 (43), 51 (5), 54 (40, 58 (6), 63 (i, 2, 3), 65 (15, 16), 67 (2)

Tzu-ch'in, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 6 (10), 56 (13) note 8, 66 (25)

Tzu-chien, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 14 (2), 33 (2)

Tzu-hsia, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 5 (7), 7 (8), 10 (8), 19 (n), 33 (2), 38 (5), 40 (22), 43 (17), 46 (10), 63 (3-13)

Tzu-kao, xliv, 34 note 7, 35 (24)

Tzu-kung, xliv, 6 (10, 15), 8 (13), n (17), 14 (3), 15 (8), 16 (n, 12, 14), 19 (6) note 9, 21 (28), 22 (14), 27 (6), 28 (12), 33 (2), 34 (12, 15), 35 (18), 38 (7, 8), 41 (23), 43 (20), 44 (24), 47 (18), 48 (30, 30, 49 (37), 51 (2, 9), 52 (23), 59 (19), 60 (24), 65 (20-5)

Tzu-lu, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 8(17) note 5, 15 (6, 7), 16 (13), 17 (25), 19 (6) note 8, 21 (26), 22 (10, 18), 24 (34), 28 (n), 29 (26), 34 (ii, 12, 14) note 7, 34 (17) note 15, 35 (21, 23, 24), 36 (25), 39 (12), 41 (i, 3), 45 (28), 46 (13), 47 (17), 48 (23), 49 (38, 40, 50 (45, 0, 52 (3), 54 (i) note 2, 58 (5, 7, 8), 60 (23), 62 (6, 7)

Tzu-sang Po-tzu, xliv, 18 (i)

Tzu-yu, disciple of Confucius, xliv, 7 (7), 14 (26), 19 (12), 33 (2), 46 (9), 57 (4), 64 (12), 65 (14, 15)

U

Ubaldini, Ottaviano, xx, 44 note 15

Ubaldini, Ruggieri degli, xx, 135 note i

Ubaldini, Ugolina, xx, 203 note 28

Ubaldini, Ubaldino degli, xx, 242 note 3

Ubaldo, Guido, fortresses of, xxxvi, 71

Ubbriachi, arms of the, xx, 71 note 4

Uberti, family of, xx, 96 note 5

Uberti, Farinata degli, xx, 41-4

Uberti, Mosca degli, in Hell, xx, 27, 117-18

Ubertini, Antonio, xxxi, 56 note 2, 354 note 5

Ubertini, Francesco, xxxi, 56 note 2

Ubians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108

Uchali, king of Algiers, xiv, 385-6, 392

Uddaka, the disciple, xlv, 717-19, 723-4

Udders, developed by use, xi, 27

Ufens, ally to Turnus, xiii, 264-5, 266, 268; death of, 406, 412

Ugliness, Browne on, iii, 267-8; Burke on, xxiv, 97; Emerson on, v, 169, 307

UGLY DUCKLING, THE, xvii, 221-30

Ugo, Marchese, xx, 356 note 25

Ugolina, of Azza, xx, 202 note 20

Ugolini, Antonio, xxxi, 245, 248, 250

Ugolino, Count, xx, 135 note i, 203 note 28; Arnold on speech of, xxviii, 72; Hugo on, xxxix, 349

Uladislaus, Dante on, xx, 369 note 17

ULALUME, xlii, 1230-2

Ulfin, Sir, xxxv, 180

Uliades, the Samian, xii, 101

ULLIN'S DAUGHTER, xli, 773-5

Ulubrx, xxvii, 26 note 29

Ulrich of Rudenz (see Rudenz)

Ulrich, the smith in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 418

Ulysses (see Odysseus)

ULYSSES, by Tennyson, xlii, 977-9; editor's remarks on, 1, 20

Umbro, the priest, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 265, 340

Umm Salma, xlv, 965 note 26

Unbelievers, Mill on, xxv, 33-4, 224-5; moral teachings of, 245-6; Pascal on, xlviii, 69 (189); salvation of, xx, 3678, 372-3

Uncertain, town of, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 272

Uncertainty, Burke on terribleness of, xxiv, 70

Uncle Remus, remarks on stories of, xvii, 7

UNCO GUID, ADDRESS TO THE, vi, 183-5

Unconsciousness, as sign of health, xxv, 319-34

Unction, among the ancients, ix, 298 note; Luther on, xxxvi, 266

Undershot Wheels, xxx, 185-6

UNDERSTANDING, ENQUIRY CONCERNING HUMAN, xxxvii, 289-420

Understanding, Bacon on the, xxxix, 135, 136-7, 144-5; body and, xxiv, 108; Confucius on, xliv, 8 (17), 53 (32); feeling and, xlriii, 12 (6); friendship aids, iii, 69; Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 317-18; Job on, xliv, 114 (12-28); Kant on world of, xxxii, 372; knowledge through the, 360, 361; Marcus Aurelius on destruction of the, ii, 265 (2); Pascal on beliefs of the, xlviii, 400-1; petrifaction of, ii, 124-5 (23); reason compared with, xxxii, 361-2; taste and, xxiv, 22-6

Undine, invoked by Faust, xix, 55

Undulation, principle of, in nature, v, 14

UNFAITHFUL SHEPHERDESS, THE, xl, 199-200

Unferth, son of Ecglaf, xlix, 19, 20, 21, 31, 37, 45-6, 54

Unicorn, Job on the, xxiv, 56-7

Uniformity, of human nature, xxxvii, 353-60; effect of, on the imagination, xxiv, 63; cause of sublimity of, 113

UNIFORMITY OF CHANGE, Lyell's, xxxviii, 398-418

Uniformity of Character, how maintained, xi, 109

Unio, defined, xxxvi, 283-4

Union, and division, fable on, xvii, 31; ECCLESIASTES on value of, xliv, 339-40 (9-12); strength in, xvii, 40

Union, American, Hamilton on, xliii, 203; Jay on, 204-7; Lincoln on, 315-16, 322; Longfellow on, xlii, 1290; Washington on, xliii, 235-9

Union Fire Company, formed by Franklin, i, 99-100

Unitarianism, Coleridge on, v, 319-20; formulation of, xxviii, 308; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 83-4

United States, ARTICLES OF CONFEDERATION, xliii, 158; boundaries of, 256-62, 269-70, 280-3, 286, 292-4; Carlyle on, v, 322; xxviii, 463; CONVENTION WITH PANAMA, xliii, 450-62; Cuba and, 4401, 443 (i), 448 (16); DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, 150-5; democracy in, xxviii, 453-6, 461-3; Emerson on political institutions in, v, 243-6; foreign population, assimilation of, 462; greatness of nature in, 461-2; annexation of Hawaii, xliii, 437-9; chances for heroism in, v, 130; remarks on history of, xliii, 3; Jay on, 203-5; Longfellow on, xlii, 1290-1; Lowell on, 1390; Marshall on government of, xliii, 210-12; names of places in, v, 405; natural superiority of, 454; naval forces on Great Lakes, xliii, 265-7; original documents in history of, 150-462; its attitude toward the past, xxxix, 388; opportunities for a poet in, v, 179-80; policy of, toward Europe and in America, xliii, 278-9; acquisition of Porto Rico, Guam and Philippines, 443-9; Rome and, comparable, ix, 7; Russia and, xliii, 277; science in, xxx, 310; Taine on sects in, xxxix, 433; Thoreau on, xxviii, 405-6; TREATY WITH FRANCE (1803), xliii, 250-4; TREATY WITH GREAT BRITAIN (1783), 174-9; TREATY OF 1814 WITH GREAT BRITAIN, 255-64; TREATY OF 1842 WITH GREAT BRITAIN, 280-8; TREATY WITH MEXICO, 289-305; TREATY WITH RUSSIA, 432-6; TREATY WITH SIX NATIONS, 229-32; TREATY WITH SPAIN (1819), 268-76; TREATY OF 1898 WITH SPAIN, 442-9; Whitman on poetry in, xxxix, 388-409; Wordsworth on, v, 323-4

United States Bank, Marshall on the, xliii, 208-10, 212-15, 223'4

UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION, xliii, 180-98

Unity, David on excellence of, xliv, 314; enforced, ends progress, iii, 221-5, 2295 why excluded from numbers, xlviii, 434; Mohammed's chapter of, xlv, 883; of nature, Emerson on, v, 229-30; of nature, Epictetus on, ii, 129 (36); of nature, Marcus Aurelius on, 219-20 (40, 45), 239 (37, 38), 244 (9), 300 (30); of nature, Pope on, xl, 422-3, 425; in religion, Pascal on, xlviii, 304 (871); in religion, St. Paul on, xlv, 491 (10)

UNITY IN RELIGION, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 11-14

Unity of Type, defined, xi, 452; law of, 207

Universal-Monarch-Uproar, xlv, 604

Universe, Addison on wonders of, xlv, 535; arrangements of the, prove God, xxxiv, 248-9, 251-4; Berkeley on wonders of the, xxxvii, 230-2; Buddha on question of extent of, xlv, 647-52; Channing on the, xxviii, 324-5; Descartes on growth of the, xxxiv, 36-7; Emerson on, v, 89-90, 167, 175-6, 223; Goethe on the, xix, 26; Hindu idea of, xlv, 853; Hume on man in regard to, xxxvii, 368-9; man with respect to the, xl, 407-15; Aurelius on, cooperation of the, ii, 219 (40), 219-20 (45), 233 (9), 239 (38), 240 (43), 244 (9), 262 (50), 325-6; Milton's ideas of, iv, 2456; nature of, ii, 217 (27), 233 (10), 236 (25), 275-6 (6); Pascal on greatness of the, xlviii, 26-7; Pope on the, xl, 422-3; unity and symmetry of the, xxx, 312-14

Universities, defined, xxviii, 31; courses at, originally apprenticeships, x, 122-3; Emerson on, v, 415-23; Luther on, xxxvi, 321-7; necessity of, to highest education, xxviii, 32-9; origin of, xxv, 362-3; sites of, xxviii, 40-50; trade corporations formerly called, x, 122

UNIVERSITY, IDEA OF A, by Newman, xxviii, 31-61

UNIVERSITY CARRIER, ON THE, iv, 26-7

UNIVERSITY LIFE AT ATHENS, xxviii, 5161

University of Paris, site of, xxviii, 45

University of Pennsylvania, founded by Franklin, i, 105, 112-14, '64

Unnamed, the, in I PROMESSI SPOSI, xxi, 313-16; castle of, 318-19; solicited by Rodrigo, 320-3; regrets undertaking against Lucia, 329-32; with Nibbio, 334-5; with Lucia, 336-9; further doubts and regrets, 343-7; visits Cardinal Federigo, 348-50, 361-72; returns to free Lucia, 377-9; takes her to village, 381-8; announces his reformation, 401-4; sends gift to Agnese, 426; his humility, 481-5; during German invasion, 485-6, 490-3

Unproductive Labor, in agricultural system, x, 429-3, 439-42; defined, 258-9; maintenance of, 260-1 ; More on, xxxvi, 180-1; proportion of, on what dependent, x, 261-5

Unsocial Acts, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 217 (29), 269 (23)

Unteraar Glacier, xxx, 216; movement of, 224-5

UNWIN, MARY, To, xli, 536-8

UP IN THE MORNING EARLY, vi, 299-30

UP-HILL, xlii, 1182

Upaka, the ascetic, xlv, 724

Upatissa, disciple of Buddha, xlv, 586

Upavana, xlv, 634-5

Upholsterer, Chaucer's, xl, 21 note 192

Uppalavanna, disciple of Buddha, xlv, 586

Uprightness, Confucius on, xliv, 20 (17); without courtesy, 25 (2); with learning, 58 (8)

Uproars, of Buddhism, xlv, 603-4

Upton, critic of Shakespeare, xxxix, 240

Urania, Dante on, xx, 263; Milton on, iv, 227-8

Urban VIII, in Mantuan contest, xxi, 435

Urbiciani, Buonaggiunta, xx, 242 and note i

Urbino, Duke of, xxxi, 73 note i

Urbino, Gian di, xxxi, 77 note 4

URBS SION AUREA, xlv, 549

Urganda, in DON QUIXOTE, xiv, 46-7

Urgel, Nicholas, Cardinal of, xxxv, 34

Uriah, reference to, xliii, 93

Uriel, in PARADISE LOST, iv, 151-2, 153-4, 158, 168-9, 21 3

Urien, a Breton saint, xxxii, 161

Urim, reference to, iv, 384

Uruguay River, Darwin on the, xxix, 152; sediment of, xxxviii, 402-3

Use, Burke on effects of, xxiv, 84; Darwin on, and disuse, xi, 27, 140-4; Keats on, xli, 873; necessary to true possession, xix, 34; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 168 (see also Habit)

Usefulness, as source of beauty, xxix, 407-8; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 208 (6), 240-1 (44)

Usipians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, in Uspallata Mountains, Darwin on the, xxix, 335

Usurers, in Dante's HELL, xx, 70-1; Sheridan on, xviii, 143-4

Usurpation, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 31-2; Pascal on beginning of, xlviii, 105 (295); Washington on, xliii, 242

Usury, Dante on, xx, 47-8; in India and ancient Rome, x, 96; worst method of gain, iii, 89 (see also Interest)

USURY, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 101-4

Uther Pendragon, xxxix, 23

Utilitarian Doctrine, of structures, xi, 199-204; objections to, 211-13, 218-43

Utilitarian Society, The, xxv, 53-4

Utilitarianism, Carlyle on, xxv, 354; Mill on school of, 66-73; Mill's work in, 4-5; James Mill's, 35-6; origin of name, 53

Utility, beauty and, xxiv, 85-7; in ethics, xxv, 205; Locke on, xxxvii, 170-1; Schiller on, xxxii, 211; as end of science, xxxix, 137-8; Shelley on, xxvii, 350-2; in works of art, xxiv, 87-9

UTOPIA, More's, xxxvi, 135-243; editorial remarks on, 88; 1, 42; Peter Giles on, xxxvi, 241-3; Sidney on, xxvii, 18

Utopia, agriculture and live stock in, xxxvi, 172-4, 178-9, 204-5; antiquity of, 169; bondmen in, 207-8, 210-11; its cities, 172-3, 174-5, 177, 183-4; dining-halls, 185, 186-8; distribution in, 184-5, 189-190; dress in, 178-9; drinks of, 174; education and learning in, 195-6, 205-7, 231; families and distribution of population, 183-4; fools and deformed persons, 211-12; foreign trade, 189-90, 207; government and magistrates, 177-8, 212-3; health and prosperity of people, 204; hospitals in, 185-6; the island of, 171-2; language of, 205; laws and justice, 212-3; marriage institutions, 208-10; iii, 169 and note 57, 170; occupations and amusements, xxxvi, 178-83, 188-9; philosophy, 196-204; use of precious metals and stones, 191-4; punishments in, 207-11; readiness of people to learn from others, 169, 205, 206-7; relations with other states, 213-14; religions of, 224-37; sciences, crafts and occupations, 178-83, 189; care of the sick, 208; situation of, 242-3; socialism in, 167-9, 176, 184-5, J 86, 189-90, 236, 238-40; statues of good men, 212; strangers in, 186; travelling in, 188-9; wars of, 184, 190, 215-24

Utopus, king of Utopia, xxxvi, 172, 176, 226

Uwaine, Sir, death of, xxxv, 159; Galahad and, 118; Gawaine and, 127, 1589; Seven Knights and, 127; at the White Abbey, 116

Uzziel, on guard at Eden, iv, 174

V

VACATION EXERCISE, AT A, iv, 20-3

Vaccination, Franklin on, i, 96; history of, xxxviii, 142, 203-4; Woolman on, i, 237-8

VACCINATION AGAINST SMALLPOX, Jenner's, xxxviii, 145-220

Vacuity, Burke on idea of, xxiv, 60-1

Vacuum, Pascal on the, xlviii, 443-4

Vadimon, Lake, Pliny on, ix, 330-1

Vagabonds, More on, xxxvi, 154

Vagon, xxxv, 116

Vaila, battle of, xxxvi, 43

Vain-confidence, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 115

VAIN-GLORY, ESSAY ON, Bacon's, iii, 1279

Vain-glory, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 342, 372; language of, 344-5

Vain-hope, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 165

Vaisya, task of a, xlv, 870

Vajira, the priestess, xlv, 656

Val-holl, xlix, 274 note

Valdabrun, xlix, 114, 145

Valdes, in DR. FAUSTUS, xix, 209-11

Valdesso, John, Herbert and, xv, 412-13

Valdimagra, Marquis of, xx, 102 note 5

Valdivia, Darwin on, xxix, 301, 302; earthquake at, 305-6

Valdovinos, history of, xiv, 43

Vale, Earl de, xxxv, 148

VALEDICTION, by Donne, xv, 338-9

VALEDICTION, FORBIDDING MOURNING, xl, 304-5

Valentine, in FAUST, xix, 158-65

Valentino, Duke, Caesar Borgia called, xxxvi, 15

Valere, in TARTUFFE, in love with Mariane, xxvi, 208; marriage put off by Orgon, 216-17; Orgon on, 223; with Mariane, on marriage with Tartuffe, 233-43; advises flight of Orgon, 291-2; promised Mariane, 296

Valeria, and Coriolanus, xii, 178-9

Valerian, and Sapor, xxxix, 98

Valerius, character in SOPHOCLES, v, 121-2

Valiant-for-the-truth, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 175, 295-302, 311, 315-16

VALIANT LITTLE TAILOR, THE, xvii, 90-8

Valkyria, xlix, 274 note

Vallejo, Don Guadalupe, xxiii, 394

VALLEY OF CAUTERETZ, IN THE, xlii, 976

Valley of the Shadow of Death, xv, 65-9

Valmiki, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130

Valor, Browne on true, iii, 278; defined by Hobbes, xxxiv, 341; Emerson on, v, 153; Segrais on, xiii, 24

Valori, Bartolommeo, xxxi, 113 note 3

Valors, our, the best gods, v, 77

Valparaiso, Darwin on, xxix, 257

Value(s), comparative, of food and materials, x, 178-80; exchange, 34-5, 367, 40-1, 48, 50-1; in exchange and use, 32-3; labor as determining, 48, 50-1; of limited or uncertain products, 192-202;

measured by corn, 38-41; measured by money, 36-7, 41-2, 46-7; profits as element in, 49-50; rent as element in, 50; scarcity, 181-2; standards of, 42-5; of unlimited productions, 183-92 (see also Prices)

Vampire-bats, in Chile, xxix, 31

Vanbrugh, Sir John, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 138, 139

Vandals, learning despised by, xxxv, 383; origin of the, xxxiii, 94

Van Diemen's Land, climate of, xxix, 249; Darwin on, 449-52

Vandyke, Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279

Vane, Sir Henry, A HEALING QUESTION, xliii, 118-37; SONNET to, iv, 83

Vanessa (see Vanhomrigh)

Vangiones, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 108

Vanholt, Duke of, in FAUSTUS, xix, 241-2

Vanhomrigh, Esther, Swift and, xxviii, 8, 26-7, 28

Vanini, Berkeley on, xxxvii, 233

Vanities, worldly, vii, 206 (4)

Vanity, all is, xliv, 335-8, 349; Fielding on, xxxix, 180-1; folly of, vii, 211; Franklin on, i, 6; of life, xlviii, 62 (161-2), 63 (164); Pascal on human, 60 (150); Penn on, i, 391-2; in speech, 383 (119); the strongest human motive, xxviii, 94-6; Woolman on, i, 274

Vanity, Limbo of, iv, 146-8

Vanity Fair, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 91-3; altered after Faithful's death, 280

Vansen, in EGMONT, xix, 272-5, 298-301

Vapor, differs from gas in permanency, xxx, 102

Varchi, Benedetto da Monte, xxxi, 33 note 4; sonnet on Cellini, 166, 168

Varenus, and the Bithynians, ix, 299-301

Vargas, Diego Peres of, xiv, 61

Vargas, Garcia Perez de, xiv, 488

Variability, causes of, xi, 23-6, 53; due to changed conditions, 138-40; due to use and disuse, 140-4; hereditary, 122; of highly developed parts, 153-6; in important organs, 56; of mongrels and hybrids, 312-13; of multiple, rudimentary or low structures, 152; of secondary sexual characters, 157-9; f specific and generic organs, 156-9

Variation (s), analogous, xi, 159-62; Burke on beauty in, xxiv, 94-5, 124-5; climate not the cause of, xi, 378-9; correlated, 27-8, 147-50; Darwin on abrupt, 246-50; first appearance of, 462-3; inheritance of, 28-9; of instincts, 254-5; laws of, 138-68; St. Hilaire on cause of, 10; Spencer on cause of, 15; spontaneous (see Spontaneous Variation); technical meaning of, 54; under domestication, 23-53; under nature, 54-70; Vestiges of Creation in, 12-13

Varieties, classification of, xi, 440-1; compared with species, 58-64; evidence of their being incipient species, 67-70, 157, 315; extinct intermediate, 320-1, 332-40; fertility of, 308-12; how they become species, 115-24; intercrossing between, 105; intermediate, why absent or rare, 170-5; meaning of, 54; not clearly distinct from species, 335-6; of same species, struggle with each other, 84

Variety, of opinion, Milton on, iii, 224-5, 228-9; Pascal on, xlviii, 48 (114); source of pleasure in, xxvii, 262

Varro, M. Terentius, on country life, xxvii, 61; Pompey's lieutenant, xii, 294; works of, lost, xxvii, 344

Varus, and the Germans, xxxiii, 114

Vasari, Giorgio, Cellini and, xxxi, 172, 173, 421 note 3

Vasava, xiv, 832

Vassellario (see Vasari)

Vastness, in architecture, xxiv, 64-5; a cause of the sublime, 61-2; not lovable, 126-7; physical cause of sublimity of, 109-11

Vatable, Professor of Hebrew, xlviii, 283 note 3

Vatinius, Cicero and, ix, 120, 127; xii, 225; Cicero on, 239

Vaudeville, M. de, xxxviii, 41-3

Vaughan, Benj., letter of, to Franklin, i, 69-73

Vaughan, Henry, POEMS by, xl, 346-8

Vauvenargues, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 131

Vedius, P., Cicero on, ix, 151

Vega, Lope de, xxvi, 5; Carlyle on, xxv, 403-4

Vegetable Kingdom, beauty in the, xxiv, 77; distinguished from animal, xxxviii, 340-2

Vegetarianism, Franklin's, i, 17, 35

VEIL, BEYOND THE, xl, 346-7

Veillantif, horse of Roland, xlix, 120, 131

Veins, arteries anciently called, xxxviii, 81; arteries and, 102-3, 109-10, 116, 137-8, 139; communication of, 113; Harvey on the, 117-21, 137

Vejento, in Certus case, ix, 342

Veleda, worshipped as divinity, xxxiii, 97

Velitrae, colony of, xii, 157-8

Vellutus, condemns Coriolanus, xii, 163, 164; protests against colony of Velitrae, 158; first of the tribunes, 152

Velocity, as a motive force, xxx, 185-7; measurement of working power of, 186-8; power and, in machines, 182-5

Vena arteriosa, xxxviii, 87

Vena cava, xxxviii, 91-2, 103

Venafro, Antonio of, xxxvi, 75-6

Vendosme, M. de, xxxviii, 21-2

Venedians, Tacitus on the, xxxiii, 119

Veneration, never dies out, v, 28

Venery, Franklin's rule of, i, 80

VENETIAN REPUBLIC, ON THE EXTINCTION OF THE, xii, 676

Veneziano, Bastiano, xxxi, in, 113

Venezuela, cities of, xxxiii, 303

Vengeance, Drake on, xxxiii, 129; Raleigh on divine, xxxix, 69-89 (see also Retribution)

VENI CREATOR SPIRITUS, xiv, 547-8

Venice, Browning on, xlii, 1080-1; growth and decline of, xxxvi, 43; landtax of, x, 482; King Louis and, xxxvi, 13-14, 24, 74; mercenaries of, 43; overthrown by Pope Julius, 39; policy toward subject cities, 69-70; Pope on, xl, 438; power of, before French invasion, xxxvi, 38-9; Shelley on, xii, 838-9; situation of, v, 334; in 16th century, xxvii, 392; trade of, x, 397-8; Wordsworth on, xli, 676

Venison, price of, x, 187-8

Venner, Thomas, xxxiii, 229, 245

Venta Cruz, Drake at, xxxiii, 178-9

Ventana, Sierra de la, xxix, 113-16

Ventidius, xii, 346, 347; in Parthia, xxxiii, 113

Ventidius, in ALL FOR LOVE, returns from East, xviii, 26-9; scene with Antony, 30-8; conversation with Antony on Octavius, 42-3; on Alexas, 43-4; on Cleopatra's gifts, 44-6; in meeting of Antony and Cleopatra, 47-53; advises Antony to seek terms, 54-7; on Antony's love, 59-60; brings Octavia to Antony, 61-5; in meeting of Dolabella and Cleopatra, 71, 73-4, 76; tells Antony of Dolabella's treachery, 77-83; with Antony after last defeat, 93-8; death, 99; Dryden on character of, 26

Ventilation, need of, xxx, 164-5

Ventricles, of the heart, xxxviii, 79-86, 88, 99-100, 130-5; right and left, 6970, 72-3

Venulus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 268, 364-6, 382

Venus, Adonis and, alluded to, iv, 71; born of the sea, xl, 364; Emerson on, fable of, v, 302; Mars's minion, xlvi, 447 note 15; mother of mirth, iv, 30; statue of, in Vatican, xxxi, 318; zone of, referred to, iv, 377 (see also Aphrodite)

Venus, in ÆNEID, seeks Jove in Trojans' behalf, xiii, 81-2; meeting with yEneas, 84-7; persuades Cupid to enter form of Ascanius, 96-7; warns JEneas to fly, 120-1; plans marriage of Æneas and Dido, 155-6; seeks Neptune in Æneas's behalf, 203-4; seeks aid of Vulcan for Æneas, 280-1; brings JEneas arms, 288; complains to Jove, 321-3; cures Æneas of his wound, 404

"Venus de Medici's," Burke on the, xxiv, 98

Venus, the planet, Dante on, xx, 145 note 3, 256; Dante's third Heaven, 314-15

Veracity, in art, v, 304

Veragua, town of, xxxiii, 182

Verania, wife of Piso, Regulus and, ix, 228

Verbal Nouns, Johnson on, xxxix, 189-90

Verbosity, Montaigne on, xxxii, 45

Vercingetorix, xii, 286 and note, 287-8

Verdi, Francesco and Antonio, xxxi, 56 note 2

Verdicts, special, in Massachusetts, xliii, 71 (31)

Vere, Baron, character of, v, 385

Verecundus, grammarian of Milan, vii, 126; kindness and conversion of, 140

Vergentorix, xii, 286 and note, 287-8

Vergezio, Giovanni, xxxi, 97 note 5

Vergilia, wife of Coriolanus, xii, 179, 180

Vergilius, Caius, Cicero and, xii, 244

Verginius, Rufus, Pliny on, ix, 211-13

Vermilion, Miss, in SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL, xviii, 132-3

Verneuil, M. de, on changes of species, xi, 359

Vernon, Franklin and, i, 31, 33, 34, 52, 61

Veronese, Hugo on, xxxix, 352

Verres, Cicero and, ix, 5; prosecution of, xii, 223-4

Verrocchio, Andrea del, xxxi, 401-2

Verse, in the drama, Hugo on, xxxix, 369, 371-4; Pope on advantages of, xl, 407; Sidney on, xxvii, 12-13, 3 I-2 Voice and, sisters, iv, 40

Verses, Locke on making of, xxxvii, 149-50, 161; James Mill on making of, xxv, 15

Versification, Montaigne on, xxxii, 62-3; Shelley on, xxvii, 334

Versifying, Sidney on, xxvii, 49-50

Vertumnus, and Pomona, iv, 270

Verulam (see Bacon, Francis)

Verus, Lucius, and M. Aurelius Antoninus, ii, 304, 309

Vesalius, on the heart, xxxviii, 78-9

Vespasian, death of, iii, 10; empire foretold to, 91; Jerusalem and, xxxviii, 31; miracles of, xxxvii, 385-6; night business of, ix, 233; Pascal on miracles of, xlviii, 281 (816); Tacitus on, iii, 30; times of, ii, 217 (32)

Vesper, Keats on, xli, 880

Vespucci, Amerigo, ACCOUNT OF His FIRST VOYAGE, xliii, 28-44; Emerson on, v, 392; life of, xliii, 28 note

Vespucci, Giorgio Antonio, xliii, 29

Vesta, reference to, iv, 34

Vestal Virgins, office of, ix, 254 note

Vestiges of Creation, xi, 12-13

Vesuvius, Pliny on the eruption of, ix, 285-7, 288-91

Veto, presidential, xliii, 183-4

Vetus, and Caesar, xii, 267

Vexation, Eliphaz on, xliv, 77 (2); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 204 (16), 237 (27), 248 (38)

Vibius, and Cicero, xii, 244

Vibration, frequency of, defined, xxx, 252

Vibrios, xxxviii, 328-42, 365-7; butyric, 327-8; Pasteur on, 322-3

Vibullius, Cicero on, ix, 116

Vice, Augustine, St., on, vii, 57-8; beginnings of, xxxiv, 204; Burns on wretchedness of, vi, 320; degrees of, xxvi, 176; Emerson on, v, 66-7, 100; Epictetus on, ii, 183 (3), 184 (10); false arguments of, iv, 64-5; Franklin on, i, 86, 92; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 412; Jonson on knowledge of, xl, 294; knowledge of, Mrs. Herbert on, xv, 376; knowledge of, necessary to virtue, iii, 201-2; Lessing on worldly retribution of, xxxii, 191-2; Locke on knowledge of, xxxvii, 76-7; not natural to man, xxxiv, 1878, 269-73, 278-9; nature opposed to, v, 27, 97; necessary to virtue, iii, 316; Pascal on, xlviii, 45 (102); Pope on, xl, 420-1; Pope on supposed prosperity of, 432-9; prosperity and, Bacon on, iii, 16; its own punishment, xvii, 32; public opinion and, xxvii, 379; Rousseau on punishment of, xxxiv, 265-6; Scriptural warrant for, xv, 260-2; taught to children, xxxvii, 29-31; Taine on, xxxix, 417-18; Whitman on punishment of, 403-5

Vice-President (United States), amended method of election, xliii, 196-7; former manner of election, 187 (2, 3); impeachment, 189 (4); president of Senate, 182 (4); succession to presidency, 188 (5), 196 (12); qualifications of electors, 197; term of office, 186 (i)

Vices and Virtues, game of, xxxvi, 180

Vich Ian Vohr, v, 206

Vicissitude, Arabian inscriptions on, xvi, 300-4, 312, 317, 320-1; Browne on, of states, iii, 269-70; Carlyle on, xxv, 3502; Casaubon on, xxxix, 73-4; Emerson on, v, 149-50; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 218 (33, 36), 229 (23), 232 (4), 234 (15); Montaigne on, xxxii, 5-6; Raleigh on, xxxix, 70-1, 95-7, 98

VICISSITUDE, ODE ON PLEASURES OF, xl, 460-2

VICISSITUDE OF THINGS, ESSAY ON THE, iii, 136-40

Vicorati, Francesco, da, xxxi, 7

Victorinus, Augustine, St., on, vii, 120-2

Vicuna, Darwin on the, xxix, 363

Vides, governor of Cumana, xxxiii, 332, 333

VIGIL STRANGE I KEPT, xlii, 1403-4

Vigne, Pierro delle, in Dante's HELL, xx, 54-5 and note

Vigo, Drake at, xxxiii, 232

Vigo, John de, xxxviii, n

Viguiere, Pauline de, v, 305

Vijayuttara, the conch, xlv, 618

VILLAGE BLACKSMITH, THE, xlii, 1271-3

Villagers, Thoreau on, xxviii, 400-1

Villars, Marquis de, xxxviii, 34, 37

Villemarque, M. de la, xxxii, 139, 167

Villiers, Charles, Mill on, xxv, 52, 80, 81, 82

Villiers, George, Mill on, xxv, 81, 82

Villiers, George, ist Duke of Buckingham, iii, 5; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 147; Wotton on, v, 405

Villiers, George, 2nd Duke, Clarendon on, v, 349; his house at Cliefden, xxxix, 153 note i; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 147

Villon, Arnold on, xxviii, 79-80

Vilmund, lover of Borgny, xlix, 431, 432

Vinci, Leonardo da, xxvii, 278; his cartoon of capture of Piso, xxxi, 23 and note 2; Cellini on, 359; Guido and, xxxix, 426

Vincula, San Pietro ad, xxxvi, 28

Vindicianus, St. Augustine and, vii, 47-8, 104

Vindictiveness, Penn on, i, 340 (185) (see Revenge)

Vine, Cicero on culture of the, ix, 64

Vineyards, profits of, x, 159-60; value of, 157-8

Vingi, the messenger, xlix, 342, 343, 345-6

VINLAND, THE VOYAGES TO, xlih, 5-20; remarks on, 1, 22

Vintner, in FAUSTUS, xix, 234-5

Violence, punishment of, in HELL, xx, 46, 50-71

Violets, for modesty, vi, 407; Wotton on, xl, 288

Violins, Dryden on, xl, 390

Viper, Harrison on the, xxxv, 344-5

Virbius, son of Hippolytus, xiii, 265-6

Virgil, ÆNEID of, xiii, 73-423; an astrologer, xxxix, 159; Augustine, St., on study of, vii, 15-16; Augustus and, xiii, 17-18; xxxix, 163-4; on generation of bees, xxxv, 346; birthplace of, xx, 218 note 4; body of, removed to Naples, 153 note; Burke on, xxiv, 72; Burke on his figure of Fame, 54; Burke on his picture of Hell, 60-1; Burke on his picture of Vulcan's forge, 135-6; Caxton on, xxxix, 24-5; Cowley on, xxvii, 61; Dante's guide to HELL and PURGATORY, xx, 7-12; in Dante's Limbo, 170; Dryden on, xiii, 14-71; xl, 396; the Ge orgies of, xxxix, 299; Homer and, xiii, 5-6; xxxix, 157-8; Hugo on, 363; Italicus and, ix, 236-7; life and works, xiii, 3-4; Locke on, xxxvii, 157; machinery of, xiii, 46-50; reputed a magician in Middle Ages, xix, 230 note; Montaigne on, xxxii, 90; morals of his poem, xiii, 19-37; Raleigh on, xxxix, 113; a republican at heart, xiii, 17; on rustic life, xxvii, 68;

SainteBeuve on, xxxii, 131; Scaliger on, xxvii, 50; Shelley on, 344; Sidney on Ge orgies of, 12; similes of, xiii, 41-2; Spenser on, xxxix, 62; times of, xiii, 15-17; Wordsworth on figures of, xxxix, 302, 304

VIRGIL, To, by Tennyson, xiii, 1014; editor's remarks on, 1, 20-1

Virgilianae, Sortes, xxvii, 8

Virgilius, Bishop, Browne on, iii, 279 and note 60

Virginia, Drayton on, xl, 226-7; Quakers in, i, 276; Winthrop on patent of, xliii, 88

VIRGINIA, FIRST CHARTER OF, xliii, 49-58

VIRGINIA, MASSACHUSETTS TO, xiii, 1344-7

VIRGINIAN VOYAGE, To THE, xl, 226-8

Virginity, Paul, St., on, xlv, 499 (25-6), 500 (34, 37); Milton on, iv, 56, 65

Virginius, Fiavius, story of, ix, 227 note

VIRGINS, To THE, xl, 335

Virgoe, Thomas, xxxviii, 157

Virgularia Patagonica, Darwin on, xxix, 105-7

Virnes, Christopher de, Cervantes on, xiv, 54

Virtue, adversities help unto, vii, 300 (2); in ambition and in authority, iii, 31; Augustine, St., on, vii, 58; Bacon on, iii, 16-17, 99, 100; beauty and, 106-7; Browne on, 306, 325; Burke on beauty in, xxiv, 91-2; Burns on, vi, 320; cannot change at once, xxvi, 176; Channing on, xxviii, 323; Cicero on, ix, 256, 37, 41, 44, 48; the company of, ii, 183 (2); Confucius on highest, xliv, 21 (27) 35 (X 9); consists in comparison, xxxiv, 349; the chief aim in education, xxxvii, 54-5, 77, 78, 153, 173; Emerson on, v, 26-8, 66-7, 72, 73; an object of envy, ix, 193; Epictetus on, ii, 140 (66), 161 (119); Epicurus on, xxxvii, 399-400; examples of, ii, 293 (26); excessive, xlviii, 119 (353), 120 (357); fortune and, xxxi, 11-12; Franklin on, i, 79-80, 86 note, 87; Franklin's Art of, 86; Franklin's party of, 89-91; alone is free, ii, 184 (10); iv, 71-2; friendship and, ix, 16, 19, 23, 26-7, 37, 42; happiness and, Pope on, xl, 432-9; the hereafter, belief in, and, iii, 298-9, 303-4; Hindu ideas of, xlv, 847, 860, 870, 871; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 412; Hume on standards of, xxvii, 204-5; Hume on teaching of, xxxvii, 289; immortality, belief in, and, xxxvi, 228-9; intellectual, xxxiv, 349; intrinsic worth of, xxxii, 364-5; Jonson on, xl, 294; Kant on pure, xxxii, 337 note; knowledge of world and, xxxvii, 51-2; in Latin equivalent to courage, xii, 148; learning and, xxxvii, 128; Locke on, 42, 115, 118; love of, natural to man, xxxiv, 269-74; loveableness of, xxiv, 90-1; Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 51; Machiavelli on appearance of, 57-8; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 235 (17), 341; measurement of, xlviii, 119 (352); Milnes on pleasures of, xiii, 1057-8; Milton on, iv, 54, 60, 120, 176, 371; Milton on study of, iii, 239, 242; modesty and, ix, 250; Montaigne on, xxxii, 9-10, 512; More on, xxxvi, 196-8, 202, 204; nature leagued with, v, 97; no penalty to, 100; not mere absence of vice, xxvii, 263; not virtue if she tumble, xviii, 203; ostentation of, ii, 177 (176); Pascal on maxims of, xlviii, 15-16 (20); passion and, xl, 419-20; Penn on complete, i, 358; pleasure in seeing, ii, 241 (48); Plutarch on, xii, 83-4; Plutarch on contemplation of, 36-7; Pope on vice and, xl, 420-1; popular idea of, v, 63; pure, tests of, xxxii, 309-15; quotations on, i, 82-3; "reason in practice," xxxii, 125; refinement and, 2367, 254; reward of, xxxiv, 265; reward of, Emerson on, v, 27, 86; reward of, Jonson on, xl, 298; reward of, Lessing on, xxxii, 191; reward of, Pliny on, ix, 194; reward of, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 263; its own reward, ii, 163 (126), 253 (73); iii, 298; xxxix, 405-6; xlv, 794-5; riches and, iii, 87-8; Rousseau on grounds of, xxxiv, 276-8; Rousseau on natural, 186-90; sensuous and ascetic, xxviii, 169-73; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 116; Sidney on teachers of, xxvii, 14-25; Socrates on, ii, 18-19, 58, 109; Stoics' idea of, ii, 344-5; Taine on, xxxix, 417; Tennyson on wages of, xlii, 1005; through love and fear, xl, 296; trial necessary to, ii, 156 (106); iii, 202, 207-8; unconsciousness of true, xxv, 325-6; vice necessary to, iii, 316; Wordsworth on, xxxix, 316 (see also Morality)

VIRTUE, by Herbert, xl, 342

Virtues, the seven, xx, 171 notes 2 and 3

VIRTUOUS YOUNG LADY, To A, iv, 78-9

Vis Inertia?, Hume on, xxxvii, 345 note

Vis Viva, defined, xxx, 186; measure of, 188 note; transformed to weight, 187-8

Visakha, story of, xlv, 754-81

Visconti, Galeazzo de', xx, 177 notes 5 and 7

Vishnu, xlv, 831-2; in the BHAGAVADGITA, 784

Vishnu Sarma, quoted, v, 291

Vision, Burke on method of, xxiv, 109-10

VISION, A, by Burns, vi, 481-2

VISION, THE, by Burns, vi, 172-82

VISION OF MIRZA, Addison's, xxvii, 73-7

Visions, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 316-17; Walton on, xv, 336-7

Vitelli, Burke on the, xxiv, 269; Caesar Borgia and, xxxvi, 27, 31, 46

Vitelli, Niccolo, at Citta di Castello, xxxvi, 71

Vitelli, Paolo, xxxvi, 25, 30, 42

Vitellius, Mucianus and, iii, 141

Vitellozzo, Machiavelli on, xxxvi, 30, 31

Vitet, M., on Chanson de Roland, xxviii, 70-1

Vitruvius, on architecture, v, 176; xxxi, 8

Vittore, Father, in THE BETROTHED, xxi, 583-4

Vivian, Christian king, xlix, 195

Vivien, and Merlin, xxxii, 153

VIVIEN'S SONG, xlii, 976-7

Vivisection, Harvey on, xxxviii, 75; in New Atlantis, iii, 174-5

Vocation, Bacon on choosing, for children, iii, 2.0-1; content in one's, ii, 217 (31); Epictetus on choice of, 155 (104); Pascal on choice of, xlviii, 42 (97), 49 (116, 117)

Voconius, Cicero on, xii, 240

VOGLER, ABT, Browning's, xlii, 1100-2

Voice, power of human, i, 103; verse and, sisters, iv, 40

Voiture, Voltaire on, xxxiv, 145

Voland, the Devil called, xix, 175

Volcanic Bombs, xxix, 496

Volcanoes, as dependent on changes of surface, xxix, 484-5; earthquakes and, relations of, 314-15; Geikie on, xxx, 333-4; simultaneous eruption of, xxix, 295-6

Volition, Rousseau on, xxxiv, 249-50 (see also Will)

Volscians, Coriolanus with the, xii, 167-9; final defeat, 185; war of Rome against the, 152-4; second war with Rome, 171-82

Volsung, son of Rerir, xlix, 260-1, 262-4

VOLSUNGA SAGA, xlix, 257-358; PROLOGUE IN VERSE, 255-6; remarks on the, 250-2

Volsungs, names of, xlix, 253; SONGS ABOUT THE, 359-438

VOLSUNGS AND NIBLUNGS, story of the, xlix, 249-358; editor's remarks on, 1, 21

Voltaic Batteries, xxx, 76, 203-5; examples of action of, 128-30; power of, 126

Voltaire, Carlyle on, xxv, 421; on circumstances, xxviii, 441; Corneille and, xxxix, 426; on Greek drama, 364; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 279; on Horace, xxxii, 133; Lessing and, xxvi, 298; LETTERS ON THE ENGLISH, xxxiv, 65-159; remarks on LETTERS of, 1, 24, 32; life and works, xxxiv, 64; Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 123, 131; on Shakespeare, xxxix, 212, 224, 227; on systems, 375-6; on taste, 384; Lc Temple du Gout, 384

Vol terra, Daniello da, xxxi, 435 note

Volterra, Niccolaio da, xxxi, 19

Voltimand, in HAMLET, xlvi, 100, 126-7

Volumnia, mother of Coriolanus, xii, 150; begs him to desist from war, 179-81

Volusus, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 372

Von Baer, on bees, xi, 370; on embryos, 459; on organization, 129

Vopiscus, name of, xii, 157

Vortigern, Hengist and, v, 276

Voss, on Milton, xxxix, 319

Voters, qualifications of, v, 241

Voting, right of, in United States, xliii, 198 (see also Elective Franchise)

Vows, Dante on, xx, 301-4; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 340 (4-5); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 397-8; Shakespeare on, xlvi, no-n

VOYAGE OF THE BEAGLE, Darwin's, xxix; editor's remarks on, 1, 40, 45

Voyages, Darwin on sea, xxix, 503-5

VOYAGES AND TRAVELS, xxxiii

Voyages and Travels, books dealing with, 1, 45-6

Vulcan, in the ÆNEID, xiii, 281-3; forge of, 282; forge of, Burke on, xxiv, 135; lameness of, v, 301; sons of, iv, 62

Vulgarity, Confucius on, xliv, 8 (14), 13 (n), 14 (16), 24 (36), 39 (16), 44 (23, 25, 26), 45 (7), 48 (24), 50-1 (i), 52 (20), 53 (33), 56 (8); Ruskin on, xxviii, 113

Vulpius, Christiane, wife of Goethe, xix, 5

Vultures, Harrison on, xxxv, 339

Vyasa, Sainte-Beuve on, xxxii, 130

W

Wacarima, Mount, xxxiii, 369

Wace, Robert, xxxii, 161

Wads worth, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 329

Wage-earners, interest of, connected with general interests, x, 209

Wager, Pascal on necessity of the, xlviii, 84-7

Wages, affected by market fluctuations, x, 60-1; in by-employments, 119; relation to cost of living, 75-9, 84-5, 87-9; defined, 53; dependent on state of society, 70-4, 83; determination of, 56; determined by competition, 66-9, 281; determined by time, hardship and skill, 48; in England (1772), i, 304; tendency of, to equality, x, 101; in exclusive trades, 64; increase of money, effect of, on, 283; industry, relation of, to, 83-6; inequalities of, due to government interference, 121-44; natural inequalities of, 102-13; in novel trades, 116-18; population determined by, 802; price of commodities, an element in, 48; prices affected by high, 99-100; profits and, confounded, 53-5, 113-14; proportion of, between different employments, 64-5; real, 79-80; regulation of, by law, 144-5; relation of, to rates of interest, 91-3; scarcity, 117-18; taxes on, 511-14; effect of taxes on consumption and, 518-19

WAGES, by Tennyson, xlii, 1005

Waggoner, fable of the, xvii, 35

Wagner, in FAUST, xix, 29-32, 43-52

Wagner, in DR. FAUSTUS, xix, 208, 211-12, 216-18, 241, 243

Wagner, Moritz, on isolation of species, xi, 109

WAIF, PROEM TO LONGFELLOW'S, xxviii, 378-80

Wain, constellation of the, xx, 428; Homer on the, xxii, 75

Wainfleet, William, xxxv, 381

Wakan, xliii, 142

Wakes, Luther on, church, xxxvi, 309

Waking, Locke on method of, xxxvii, 223

Waldseemuller, Vespucci and, xliii, 28 note

Wales, agriculture of, xxxv, 310; bards of, xxvii, 8; Christianity in, xxxii, 173; education in (1848), xxviii, 155; lead mines of, xxxv, 322-3; literature of, xxxii, 138-9, 144-62; realm of, Milton on, iv, 45; Renan on, xxxii, 137; soil of, xxxv, 308, 310-11

Walid Ibn Mughairah, xlv, 880 note 2, 898 note

WALKING, ESSAY ON, Thoreau's, xxviii, 393-425

Wallace, A. R., Darwin and, xi, 5-6, 19; on origin of species, 385

Wallace, William, Burns on, vi, 88, 139-40, 175, 493-4

Walleechu, Indian god, xxix, 75

Wallenstein, quoted, xxi, 469

Waller, Edmund, Dryden on, xxxix, 154, 163; POEMS by, xl, 357-8; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 144-7

Walls, why less grand than colonnades, xxiv, 113-14

Walpurgis-Night, in FAUST, xix, 167-83; Dream, 183-90; remarks on, 7

Walsh, William, Dryden on, xiii, 426

Walter, Count, in SONG OF ROLAND, xlix, 120, 139, 162-4

Walter, Mr., of the Times, v, 449

Waltham, Thomas, at Otterburn, xxxv, 92

Walton, Izaak, LIFE OF DR. DONNE, xv, 323-69; LIFE OF HERBERT, 373-418; life and works, 322; LIVES, editorial remarks on, 1, 31

Walworth, Nicholas, xxxv, 65, 70, 77, 78

WALY, WALY, O, xl, 323-4

Wamesut, town of, xliii, 145

WANDERING WILLIE, vi, 454

Wang-sun Chia, xliv, n note 6

Want-wit, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 292

Wanton, Madame, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 72, 188

Wants, and pleasures, xli, 525

Wanuretona, xxxiii, 356

War(s), ancient and modern, iii, 80, 140; Arjuna on, xlv, 787-9; benefit of, iii, 79; Blake on, xli, 588; causes of, iii, 78-9; expenses, x, 447-50; fall of empires always accompanied by, iii, 139; improvements in art of, v, 81; Goethe's Jetter on, xix, 258; Hindu teachings on, xlv, 793-4; Hobbes on causes and state of, xxxiv, 389; Hobbes on desires that lead to, 370-1; a horrid ruthless fiend, xxvi, 390; judgment of God, i, 237; justification of, iii, 49-50; Machiavelli on preparation for, xxxvi, 48-50; maintenance of, x, 322-6; Massinger on school of, xlvii, 869-70; Milton on, iv, 335-6, 393-4; More on, xxxvi, 215-16; More on preparation for, 144-5; overpopulation a cause of, iii, 139; pleasure in distant, 8; provisions for, under the Confederation, xliii, 160-2, 164-5; provisions for, under Constitution, 184-5 (11-16), 186 (3); Quaker attitude toward, i, 107-10, 190-2, 213, 217-20; xxxiv, 68-9; readiness for, of different states of society, xxvii, 372-3; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 213-14; rules of, in treaty with Mexico, xliii, 303-5; Socrates on cause of, ii, 55; Tennyson on, xlii, 1016-17, 1027, 1055-7; true strength in, iii, 74-5; unjust, support of, xxviii, 130-1; Voltaire on religious, xxxiv, 85; Washington on preparation for, xliii, 243; Woolman on, i, 253

War of 1812, Treaty of Peace, xliii, 255-64

Warbeck, Perkin, Bacon on, xxxiv, 101-2

Warburton, William, Lessing on, xxxii, 190; Johnson on, xxxix, 239-40; on Shakespeare's plays, 234, 235

Ward, Nathaniel, xliii, 66 note

Wardlaw, Henry, on the Scotch, xxxv, 271-2

Ware, Rev. Henry, colleague of Emerson, v, 3

Warfare, in Utopia, xxxvi, 215-24

Wargny, Robert of, xxxv, 13

Warner, Master, in SHOEMAKER'S HOLIDAY, xlvii, 484, 485-6

Warrants, in Massachusetts, xliii, 69 (21); in U. S., 194 (4)

Warren, Henry Clarke, translator of Buddhist Writings, xlv, 573

Warrenites, Mill on the, xxv, 158

WARRIOR, THE HAPPY, xli, 656-8

Warton, on Thomson, xxxix, 325

Warwick, Earl of, in Crecy campaign, xxxv, 9-10, n, 19-20, 24, 30; at Poitiers, 42, 47, 52, 54

Warwick, Earl of, in Edward IV's reign, v, 404

Warwick, Richard Beauchamp, Earl of, v, 403

Warwick, in EDWARD THE SECOND, in quarrel with Gaveston, xlvi, n, 14-15, 16-19; consents to his return, 22-5, 26, 27; on Gaveston's return, 33-5; in attack on Tynemouth, 40; capture of Gaveston, 43-7; in battle, 53; death, 54-5

Washington, George, Commander-inChief, xliii, 169; Emerson on, v, 128, 183, 213; FAREWELL ADDRESS, xliii, 233-49; FIRST INAUGURAL ADDRESS, 225-8; not a great reader, xxviii, 338; president of Constitutional Convention, xliii, 180 note; sweet in his grave, v, 131

WASHINGTON, ODE ON BIRTHDAY OF, vi, 492-4

Wasps, in Brazil, xxix, 44

Wastefulness, Confucius on, xliv, 24 (35); Locke on, xxxvii, 101-2; Mohammed on, xlv, 915

WAT TYLER'S REBELLION, xxxv, 60-80; Chaucer in, xxxix, 163

WAT YE WHA'S IN YON TOWN, vi, 518-20

Watchall, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, 866-7, 872-3, 883

Watches, fall in price of, x, 203

Watches, ship's, xxiii, 17-18

Watchful, the porter, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 49-50, 224, 239

Watchful, the shepherd, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 123-6, 293

Water, action of iron on, xxx, 120-2; decomposition of, 44-8, 126-7 note, 1315; different states of, 114-19; Faraday on properties of, 10-12; freezing-point of, 231-3; Helmholtz on decomposition of, 202-4; presence of, tested by potassium, 114, 119-20, 140; produced by combustion, 113-15, 126; weight of, 52

Water of Paradise, in New Atlantis, iii, 173

Water-carriage, Adam Smith on, x, 23-4

Water Companies, Smith on, x, 461, 4623

WATER-FOWL, ON SCARING SOME, vi, 2856

WATERFOWL, To A, xlii, 1222-3

Water-hogs, Darwin on, xxix, 57-8

Water-power, Helmholtz on, xxx, 180-1, 185

Watson, Joseph, i, 37-8

Watts, Isaac, hymns by, xlv, 537-9; TRUE GREATNESS, xl, 398

WAUKRIFE MINNIE, vi, 361

Waverley Novels, Carlyle on, xxv, 439-43

Waves, Kelvin on, xxx, 275-6

Wayland, Germanic Vulcan, xlix, 17 note 5

Wazilah, xlv, 1005 note

WE ARE SEVEN, xli, 667-9

WE MUST BE FREE OR DIE, xli, 675

Weak, to be, is miserable, iv, 92

Weakness, as cause of beauty, xxiv, 95; no excuse, iv, 435

Wealhtheow, Queen, xlix, 22, 37, 39, 64

Wealth, aristocracy and, v, 202-3; Burns on, vi, 39; Channing on distinctions of, xxviii, 343-4; Confucius on, xliv, 13, (5), 22 (15), 26 (13), 42 (9), 46 (n); contentment and, xli, 522; death and, xvi, 303-4, 312, 320-1; Emerson on hunger for, v, 234; Goldsmith on accumulation of, xli, 510, 515-16; growth of, not necessarily beneficial, xxviii, 362-3; ignorance of, the best riches, xli, 510; land as source of (see Agricultural System); Lowell on, xxviii, 463, 470; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 259 (33); a means, not an end, xxviii, 222; measurable by labor it can buy, x, 345; Mill on production and distribution of, xxv, 152-3; Milton on, iv, 382-3; money as, x, 228-9, 311-31; Morris on real, xlii, 1196; national, on what dependent, x, 5-6; natural progress of, 304-9; obligations of, i, 393-5; old age and, ix, 48; Pascal on private, xlviii, 378-9; Pascal on pursuit of, 147 (436), 312 (906); Pascal on respect for, 112 (324), 116; on pride in, 153 (460); poverty and, Carlyle on, xxv, 336; Penn on private, i, 390 (221); production and distribution of (see Production, Distribution); progress of, dependent on distribution, x, 54-5; proportioned to neat, not gross, revenue, 224; public and private, connected, 335-6; unused, fable of, xvii, 36; Walton on, xv, 329; Woolman on, i, 180 (see also Capital, Riches)

WEALTH OF NATIONS, Adam Smith's, x; remarks on, 3-4; 1, 42-3

Weapons, change and return of, iii, 139-40

Weariness, Pascal on, xlviii, 51 (131)

WEARY PUND o' Tow, vi, 431-2

Weather, influence of moon on, xxx, 298-9

Weathercock, in FAUST, xix, 186

Weaver, Chaucer's, xl, 21 note 191

WEAVERS, To THE, GIN YE Go, vi, 296-7

Webb, Gen., at Gettysburg, xliii, 383, 384, 387

Webb, George, Franklin on, i, 51-2, 58, 59-60

Weber, Mill on Oberon of, xxv, 92

Webster, John, CALL FOR THE ROBINREDBREAST, xl, 322-3; DUCHESS OF MALFI, xlvii, 755-855; Hazlitt on, xxvii, 276; life and works, xlvii, 754

WEBSTER-ASHBURTON TREATY, xliii, 280-88

Wedded Love, Milton on, iv, 173-4

Wedding Bells, Poe on, xlii, 1233

Weddings, Webster on secret, xlvii, 765

"WEE JOHNIE," EPITAPH ON, vi, 219

WEE WILLIE GRAY, vi, 514-15

Weeping, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 342; Hunt on, xxvii, 285

Weevil, Harrison on the, xxxv, 282

Wehaloosing, Indian town, i, 268

Wei, King of, xliv, 22 note 3, 41 (3)

Wei-sheng Kao, xliv, 17 (23)

Wei-sheng Mou, xliv, 49 (34)

Weight, measured by inertia, xxx, 301-2; as a motive force, 177-82; transformed to vis viva, 187; used to produce electricity, 208

Weights, English and metric system of, xxx, 253; regulation of, xliii, 164, 184 (5)

Weiler, Jost von, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 413, 423, 425

WELL I REMEMBER, xli, 901

Wellborn, in NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS, xlvii, at Tapwell's, 859-62; with Allworth, 863-6; at Lady Allworth's, 872-6; Overreach's plot to ruin, 878; at Overreach's, with Marrail, 879-81; with Marrall at Lady Allworth's, 882-5, 887; with Marrall after dinner, 888-90; thought to be engaged to Lady Allworth, 890-1; at Overreach's with Lady Allworth, 905, 906, 908, 909; conference with Overreach, 909-10; Tapwell and Froth on, 919-20; creditors and, 920-3; advised by Marrall, 923-4; Lady Allworth on, 928-9; with Lovell and Lady Allworth, 931; quarrel with Overreach, 932-7; in final scene, 938, 939-43 Welfare, Michael, i, no Wellington, Duke of, on Briscoll, v, 427; Cintra affair and, 377; Emerson on, 375; fear of public creditors, 370; on the life-guards, 381; weighed his soldiers, 358

Wellington, Mount, Darwin on, xxix, 452

Wells, Darwin on ebbing, xxix, 462

Wells, Dr. W. C., and idea of natural selection, xi, n

Welsh, Jane Baillie, wife of Carlyle, xxv, 315-16, 317

Welsh (see Celtic Races)

Wen, Duke, xliv, 47 (16)

Wen, King, xliv, 24 note, 26-7 and note 8

Wenceslaus, king of Bohemia, Dante on, xx, 173 and note 6, 368 note 10

Weohstan, xlix, 76

Wer-wolves, xlix, 268 note

WERE MY LOVE YON LILAC FAIR, vi, 464

Weregild, xlix, 276 note

WERENA MY HEART LIGHT, xl, 398-400

Werner, of Attinghausen, in WILLIAM TELL (see Attinghausen)

Werner, Paul, in MINNA VON BARNHELM, lends money to Tellheim, xxvi, 304; with Just at the inn, 310-12; the landlord and, 332-3; with Franziska, 3335; plots to give Tellheim money, 335; with Tellheim, 335-40; at meeting of Franziska and Tellheim, 340, 341-2, 343; with Franziska alone, 342-3; announces Tellheim's coming, 350; lends money to Tellheim, 359-60; returns with money, 370-1; reconciliation with Tellheim, 374; with Franziska, 374-5

Werni, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 381-6

WERT THOU IN THE CAULD BLAST, vi, 552

Wesley, Charles, HYMNS by, xlv, 559-62

Wessels, Capt., at Gettysburg, xliii, 373, 379

West, Thoreau on the, xxviii, 404-9

West Indies, absence of atolls in, xxix, 484; Columbus on discovery of, xliii, 21-7; origin of name of, x, 399; Raleigh on disadvantages of, xxxiii, 377-9; zoology of the, xxix, 137

WEST WIND, ODE TO THE, xli, 833-5

Westbrook, Harriet, wife of Shelley, xviii, 272

WESTMINSTER ABBEY, Addison's, xxvii, 78-80

WESTMINSTER ABBEY, ON THE TOMBS IN, xl, 319

WESTMINSTER BRIDGE, UPON, xli, 673-4

Westminster Review, The, xxv, 60-6, 834; combined with London Review, 125

Westwood, on insects, xi, 68

WET SHEET, A, AND A FLOWING SEA, xli, 783-4 WHA is THAT AT MY BOWER-DOOR, vi, 48-9

Whales, Darwin on Greenland, xi, 2259; jumping out of water, xxix, 228 note

WHA'LL BE KING BUT CHARLIE, xli, 564-5

Whappet, Harrison on the, xxxv, 354

Wharton, Marquis of, Addison and, xxvii, 160-1

WHAT CAN A YOUNG LASSIE Do, vi, 406

WHAT GUILE Is THIS, xl, 249

Whately, Mill on, xxv, 139

Wheat, parable of the, xv, 205-6

Wheatley, Mr., editor of Pepys, xxviii, 285

Wheels, toothed, considered as levers, xxx, 184

Whelks, the heart in, xxxviii, 130

WHEN THE ASSAULT WAS INTENDED TO THE CITY, iv, 78

WHEN I HAVE BORNE, xli, 677

WHEN THE KYE COMES HAME, xli, 765-7

WHEN LILACS LAST IN THE DOOR-YARD, xlii, 1412-20

WHEN LOVELY WOMAN STOOPS, xli, 505

WHEN SHE CAM' BEN SHE BOBBED, vi, 432-3

WHEN WE Two PARTED, xli, 787-8

WHENAS IN SILKS, xl, 336

WHERE ARE THE JOYS I HAVE MET, vi, 474

WHERE THE BEE SUCKS, xl, 266

WHERE LIES THE LAND, xlii, 1122

Whewell, William, controversy with Mill, xxv, 140; on general laws, xi, i; Mill on, xxv, 130

Whiddon, Jacob, xxxiii, 303, 313, 316, 335, 336, 337, 357, 358

Whig Party, English, James Mill on, xxv, 62

WHIGS, AWA', vi, 360-1

Whipping, in early Massachusetts, xliii, 72 (43); Locke on, of children, xxxvii, 36-7, 39-40, 41, 56, 60-2, 65-6, 68-9, 93-4

Whisky, Burns on, vi, 147, 162-3

WHISTLE, THE, vi, 362-5

WHISTLE AND I'LL COME TO You, MY LAD, vi, 469

WHISTLE O'ER THE LAVE O'T, vi, 348

Whiston, on comets, xxxiv, 118-19

White, Henry, xxxiii, 230, 245

White, Joseph, Woolman on, i, 226, 235, 291

White, Joseph Blanco, To NIGHT, xli, 913

WHITE ROSE, A, xlii, 1198

Whitefield, Rev. George, i, 101-4; building erected for, 100-1, 113

WHITEFOORD, SIR JOHN, LINES TO, vi, 403

Whitman, Walt, life of, xxxix, 388 note; poems by, xlii, 1402-22; PREFACE TO LEAVES OF GRASS, xxxix, 388-409; PREFACE of, editorial remarks on, 3; 1, 48

Whitsunday, xv, 404

Whitsunday Island, xxix, 469-70

Whittier, John Greenleaf, POEMS by, xlii, 1338-64

Wholesale Trade, why smaller profits in, x, 114-15

Wholesaling, capital used in, x, 290, 2912, 295-6

Wholesome, Tribulation, in the ALCHEMIST, his dealings with the Alchemist, xlvii, 587; scene with Ananias, 592-3; with Subtle, 593-9; returns with Ananias, 649, 658-9, 661-2

WHY so PALE AND WAN, xl, 353-4

WHY, WHY TELL THE LOVER, vi, 536

Wickedness, Asaph on, xliv, 232-4 (3-12, 17-20); M. Aurelius Antoninus on, ii, 334-5; Bildad on, 98-9 (5-21); Buddha on expiation of, xlv, 671-4; David on, xliv, 144, 182 (16, 21), 186 (i, 2), 186-8 (9-38), 212-13 (i-n); ECCLESIASTES on, 343 (17), 344-5 (11-14), 345 (2); Eliphaz on, 94-5 (20-35); future punishment of, vii, 238-40; xxxiv, 264, 265-6; harms only the doer, ii, 263 (55); Job on, xliv, 84 (24), 88 (6), 103-5 (7-33), 108-9 (2-12), 112-13 (12-23), 119 (3); Kempis on, vii, 244 (i); not free, ii, 166 (136); "the path of," xl, 77; prayer for overthrow of, xliv, 153-4; Raleigh on punishment of, xxxix, 70-89; righteousness contrasted with, xliv, 145, 232-4, 237 (10); is weakness, iv, 435; Zophar on, xliv, 101-3 (5-29) WIDOW BIRD, A, xli, 848 Widow's Mite, xliv, 407 (1-4) Wife of Bath, in Canterbury Tales, xl, 23-4; Dryden on the, xxxix, 166; prologue of, 171

WIFE, THE DEVOTED, xlv, 693-6

WIFE OF USHER'S WELL, xl, 80-1

Wight, O. W., translator of Pascal, xlviii

Wiglaf, xlix, 76-83, 84, 89-90

Wikiri, Raleigh on the, xxxiii, 367, 373

Wilberforce, Samuel, xxv, 81

Wild Ass, in JOB, xliv, 135

Wild-head, in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 296

WILD SWANS, THE, xvii, 265-80

Wildness, Thoreau on, xxviii, 409-16

Wilfrid, Bishop, and the slaves, v, 424

Wilfulness, Shakespeare on, xlvi, 261

Wilhelm Meister, Carlyle on, xxv, 380-2;

Wordsworth on, v, 324

WILLIAM TELL, Schiller's, xxvi, 379-489; remarks on, 378

Wilkinson, editor of Swedenborg, Emerson on, v, 441

Will, absolute and conditional, xx, 300; autonomy of the (see Autonomy of the Will); belief and, xlviii, 42-3 (99); beliefs of the, 400-1; Coleridge on the, v, 319-20; defined, xxxii, 356; freedom of the (see Free Will); Hobbes on the, xxxiv, 344; Hume on power of the, xxxvii, 338-42, 344, 346; inferior to the soul, v, 139; Kant on absolute value of the, xxxii, 305-15, 347, 349-50; Marcus Aurelius on the, ii, 232 (8); obligations of the, xxxii, 324-42; power of the, v, 290; reason and, xxxii, 324; Rousseau on the, xxxiv, 249-50; Woolman on human, i, 298, 299

Will-o'-the Wisps, in FAUST, xix, 189

WILL YE Go TO THE INDIES, MY MARY, vi, 201

Wills, as evidences of character, ix, 327; Mohammed on, xlv, 1005; Montaigne on men's dislike of, xxxii, 12

Willdo, Parson, xlvii, 927, 937-8, 941, 942

William the Conqueror, census under, xxxv, 231; introduced money payments of taxes, x, 30; love of deer, v, 351; Vane on, xliii, 121; Voltaire on, xxxiv, 88

William III, king of England, Burke on election of, xxiv, 156-9; Dissenters and, xxvii, 137; Johnson on, 158

William and Mary, Burke on tides of, xxiv, 156-9

William I, of Orange (d. c. 808), xx, 362 note 4

William of Orange (the Silent), anecdote of, v, 290

William of Orange (the Silent), in EGMONT, love of Netherlanders for, xix, 258; suspected by Margaret, 262-3; sent for by Margaret, 265; visit to Egmont, 283-8; gone from Brussels, 298; summoned by Alva, 303; plan to arrest, 305-6; declines to come, 306-7

William II, of Sicily, in Paradise, xx, 371 note 9

William of North Berwick, xxxv, 90

William of Wykeham, Carlyle on, v, 462

WILLIE BREW'D A PECK o' MAUT, vi, 355

WILLIE NICOL'S MARE, ELEOY ON, vi, 376-7

Willis, Nathaniel P., Poe on lines by, xxviii, 374-5

Willoughby, Lord, xxxv, 25, 42, 55

WILLOW-WREN, THE, AND THE BEAR, xvii, 190-2

WILLY DROWNED IN YARROW, xli, 498-9

Wilson, Capt., (in 1859), xxiii, 384-5; in San Diego, 108

Wilson, J., BOAT SONG, xlii, 1064-5

WILT THOU BE MY DEARIE, vi, 479

Wilton Hall, Emerson on, v, 459

Winchester, Bishop of, in EDWARD THE SECOND, xlvi, 69, 71, 74

Winchester Cathedral, Emerson on, v, 461-2

WINCHESTER, MARCHIONESS OF, EPITAPH ON, iv, 27-9

Winckelmann, on the study of beauty, v, 299

Wind, Coleridge on the, xli, 731

WIND AND SUN, fable of, xvii, 34-5

Windmills, Helmholtz on, xxx, 185-6

Winds, Herodotus on cause of, xxxiii, 18; in GARDEN OF PARADISE, xvii, 280-5; names of the, iv, 308

WINDOW, WRITTEN ON A, vi, 276

Window-taxes, x, 494-5

Windows, ancient, ix, 226 note; in old England, xxxv, 295, 296; in Utopia, xxxvi, 177

Wine(s), Burns on, vi, 146; desire of, which warriors overturn, iv, 428; of Egypt, xxxiii, 40; Eliot on, v, 126; Homer on effects of, xxii, 197, 291-2; invented by Bacchus, viii, 379; manufacture of, Pasteur on, xxxviii, 276, 303 note; misused, sweet poison of, iv, 46; Mohammed on, xlv, 1003; Omar Khayyam on, xli, 943-4, 951, 956, 957; Pascal on, xlviii, 26 (71); price of, in regard to drunkenness, x, 364

Wineland (see Vinland)

Winfield, Sir Richard, xxxvi, 97

Wings, of insects, developed from tracheae, xi, 187; peculiar uses of, 1767; used for other purposes than flight, xxix, 205; various kinds of, xi, 192-3

Winkelried, Arnold von, at Sempach, xxvi, 460 note

Winkelried, Struth von, in WILLIAM TELL, xxvi, 412-26

Winter, Burns on, vi, 475-6; Collins on, xli, 481; Goethe on departure of, xix, 43; Shelley on, xli, 835

WINTER, Shakespeare's, xl, 262

WINTER: A DIRGE, by Burns, vi, 31-2

WINTER, ODE TO, Campbell's, xli, 771-3

WINTER, ODE ON, Cotton's, xxxix, 309-10

WINTER, THE, IT is PAST, vi, 303

WINTER NIGHT, A, vi, 248-51

WINTER OF LIFE, vi, 503

WINTER'S, GLOOMY, Now AWA', xli, 594

Winter, Master, with Drake, xxxiii, 201, 208, 229, 247

Winter, William, with Gilbert, xxxiii, 273, 274

Winterhie, Robert, xxxiia, 205

Winthrop, John, ON ARBITRARY GOVERNMENT, xliii, 85-105

Wisdom, Buddha on, xlv, 595, 702-4, 739; Carlyle on, xxv, 374; Confucius on, xliv, 20 (20, 21), 29 (28), 40 (22), 48 (30), 56 (9); cunning and, i, 337 (151); iii, 57; defined, ii, 71; acquisition of, by discussion, xxv, 215; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 336 (17-18), 337 (12-16), 343 (11-12, 16-19), 344 (i), 346 (2), 347 (13-18), 347 (10); Elihu on, 122 (9); Emerson on, v, n14, 100, 237; fear of God, the beginning of, xliv, 288 (10); necessary to friendship, ix, 23; highest, M. Aurelius Antoninus on, ii, 335; highest, Kempis on, vii, 206 (3), 207 (4); highest, Penn on, i, 392 (244-8); Hindu conception of, xlv, 849-50; Job on, xliv, 114-15 (12-28); learning and, xxxvii, 128, 173; needs leisure, xxiv, 188 note i; Locke on, xxxvii, 119; love and, iii, 27; Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 225 (9); Massinger on, xlvii, 877; Milnes on delights of, xlii, 1057-8; Montaigne on aim of, xxxii, 9; ostentatious, ii, 177 (175); Pascal on pride in, xlviii, 153 (460); Paul, St., on, xlv, 494-5 (18-20); Pope on, xl, 437; profitless with God, vii, 275 (2); pleasures of, iii, 8; Raleigh on, xl, 206; Ruskin on, xxviii, 130; Schiller on love of, xxxii, 230; slow growth of, ii, *73 (J 55); Socrates on human, 10-11; Solomon on, xxxix, 90-1; spiritual, Kempis on, vii, 295 (2), 297 (4); Tennyson on, xlii, 984; true, attained by death, ii, 54-7; true, Epictetus on, 178 (177); true, Kempis on, vii, 2989; true, Montaigne on, xxxii, 50; virtue and, Cicero on, ix, 15; way to, vii, 209 (4); ii, 140 (66); Webster on opinion of, xlvii, 774; what else is (song), viii, 409-10; worldly, i, 374-7; only true measure of worth, ii, 58 (see also Knowledge)

Wisdom, Robert, Beaumont on, xl, 320

Wisdom of Ages, Bentham on, xxvii, 226-9

WISDOM FOR A MAN'S SELF, ESSAY ON, iii, 60-1

WISE, SEEMING, ESSAY ON, iii, 64-5

WISE FOLKS, a story, xvii, 192-5

Wise Man, Penn's, i, 377-8, 338 (167)

WISH, A, by Rogers, xli, 582

WISH, THE LAST, xlii, 1119

Wishes, fable on, xvii, 39; oft hide the object we wish for, xix, 369

WISHES FOR SUPPOSED MISTRESS, xl, 359-63

Wit, acquired, xxxiv, 352; Beaumont on, xl, 320-1; cause of differences of, xxxiv, 352; death and, xl, 261; discretion and fancy in, xxxiv, 351; good nature and, Sheridan on, xviii, 136; has only fancy value, xxxii, 345; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 349; judgment compared with, xxiv, 17-18; malice and, Sheridan on, xviii, 120; natural, xxxiv, 349; Penn on, i, 338-9; piety and, Goldsmith on, xviii, 201; puny, can work but puny sin. viii, 331; Raleigh on, xl, 205; without good breeding, xxxvii, 72

Witch, in MANFRED, xviii, 423-7

Witch, in FAUST, xix, 106-11

Witch, young, in FAUST, xix, 186

Witchcraft, Browne on, iii, 281-3; first English law against, xlvii, 547 note 22; Hobbes on, xxxiv, 382; punishment of, in Dante's HELL, xx, 46, 814; punishment of, in old England, xxxv, 366

Witches, Hobbes on, xxxiv, 317; in early Massachusetts, xliii, 80 (2)

Witches, in MACBETH, xlvi, 321-2, 3246, 365-9

Witford, Mr., Roper on, xxxvi, 91

Wither, George, poems by, xl, 331-3

Witherington, the squire, xl, 96, 99

Withington, Lothrop, xxxv, 216

Witnesses, Hume on evidence of, xxxvii, 377-8; right of summoning, in U. S., xliii, 194-5 (6)

Witticisms, Pascal on, xlviii, 21 (46)

Wives, husbands and, Goethe on, xix, 402-3; husbands and, St. Paul on, xlv, 498, 500 (39); husbands and, Ruskin on, xxviii, 144-6; impediments to great works, iii, 21; Massinger on choice of, xlvii, 918; Milton on, iv, 440-1; Milton on false, 433-4; Penn on choice of, i, 332 (92-3); Oberon's counsel to, xix, 184; "pearls of price," 137; proverb of, i, 76

Wizards, in FAUST, xix, 173

WOE Is ME, MY MOTHER DEAR, vi, 24

Woe, joy and, Blake on, xli, 588; luxury of, Calderon on, xxvi, 9; nothing unscathed by, viii, 275; from too much prosperity, 35-6; springs from wrong, 35. 70

Wolf, F. A., on Homeric question, xxii, 3-4

Wolf, Johann Christian von, xxxii, 302 note

WOLF AND CRANE, fable of, xvii, 12-13

WOLF AND DOG, fable of, xvii, 22-3

WOLF AND Fox, Grimm's tale of, xvii, 167-8

WOLF AND KID, fable of, xvii, 18

WOLF AND LAMB, fable of, xvii, 11

WOLF AND NURSE, fable of, xvii, 29

WOLF AND SEVEN KIDS, a tale, xvii, 54-7

WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING, fable of, xvii, 27

Wolfe, Charles, BURIAL OF SIR JOHN MOORE, xli, 822-3

Wolfe, Reginald, Cosmography of, xxxv, 216

Wolfenschiessen, the, xxvi, 382 note, 398

Wolfram of Eschenbach, Renan on, xxxii, 147

Wolly, Sir Francis, Dr. Donne and, xv, 329, 332

Wolsey, ambition to be Pope, xxxvi, 102; as Chancellor, 106-7; removed from Chancellorship, 106; Charles V and, 102; as commissioner, 103-4; suggests divorce of Queen Catherine, 102; More and, 92, 96-7, 98; Bishop Stoksely and, 105-6

Wolves, Darwin on development of, xi, 97-8; dogs and, xxxv, 355-6; why less despicable than dogs, xxiv, 57; in Egypt, xxxiii, 37; habits of, v, 374; men changed to, xlix, 268 note

Woman (en), adroitness of, xix, 363; Æschylus on insight of, viii, 25; arguing with, xl, 189; Beaumont's Philaster on, xlvii, 712-13; beauty of, as caused by delicacy, xxiv, 95; beauty of, Emerson on, v, 305-6; beauty of, Pascal on, xlviii, 414; beauty of, Ruskin on, xxviii, 146-7; "brief as love of," xlvi, 152; Browne on, iii, 323 (9); Bunyan on, xv, 266; two burdens of, viii, 310; Burns on, vi, 133-4, 169, 220, 259, 328, 474-5; Celtic ideal of, xxxii, 142; Chaucer on, xl, 44; Chaucer on counsel of, 46; counterfeit weakness in, xxiv, 90; creation of, Milton on, iv, 255-6; De Vere on, xl, 289; DIVINE COMEDY, written in praise of, xx, 4; Donne on fickleness of, xl, 307; Don Quixote on affections of, xiv, 157; Dryden on, xviii, 53, 73; ECCLESIASTES on, xliv, 343-4 (26-8); education of, Defoe on, xxvii, 148-51; education of, Franklin on, i, 15, 93; education of, Ruskin on, xxviii, 136, 146-56; Emerson on, v, 215-16; Euripides on, viii, 331; "frailty thy name is," xlvi, 103; Goethe's Dorothea on duties of, xix, 391; happiest knowledge of, iv, 170-1; individuality of, Emerson on, v, 128-9; Lessing on, xxvi, 323; liberties of, in Massachusetts, xliii, 82; in literature, xxviii, 137-43; love of, by what won, iv, 440; love of, Poe on, xxviii, 390, 392; MacNeil on marriages of, xli, 578; Mephistopheles on creation of, xix, 104; Milton on, iv, 162, 257, 266, 290, 295-6, 334-5, 434, 437; man and, compared in evil, xix, 173; man and, relations of, xlviii, 418; in Mohammedan countries, xlv, 991 note 30; Mohammedan verses on, xvi, 10; Montaigne on friendships of, xxxii, 76; More on idleness of, xxxvi, 180; Patmore on, xxviii, 144; Paul, St., on, xlv, 505 (7-12); as the subject of poetry, xxviii, 392; public duties of, 156-62; Raleigh on, xxxix, 90; Ruskin on sphere of, xxviii, 136-47; to be shielded, not tempted, xiv, 316-17; Socrates on, xxxix, 10-13; Shakespeare on, xlvi, 146; Tennyson on, xlii, 984; in Utopia, xxxvi, 179, 183, 184, 186, 215, 221, 231; Virgil on, xiii, 172; Webster on inconstancy of, xlvii, 784; Webster's Bosola on, 778; Wither on, xl, 332-3

Woman Suffrage, Mill on, xxv, 68, 151 note i, 186-7; movement started by Mill, 174; in U. S., xliii, 198 (19)

WOMAN, THE RIGHTS OF, vi, 446-7

Woman's Rights, Emerson on, v, 303; Mill on, xxv, 5

WOMEN, EDUCATION OF, by Defoe, xxvii, 148-51

Wonder, mean and noble, xxviii, 114; caused by novelty, xlviii, 40 (90); Wordsworth on, xxxix, 324

Wood, price of, x, 169-70

Wood, Antony, on universities, xxviii, 47

Woodcock, Katherine, wife of Milton, iv, 5; Milton on, 86

WOODEN GOD, fable of the, xvii, 27

WOODLARK, To THE, vi, 531-2

WOODMAN AND SERPENT, fable of, xvii, 18

Woodnot, Arthur, xv, 388, 394, 395, 415, 416-17

WOODNOTES, xlii, 1249-61

Woodpeckers, color of, xi, 197-8; habits of, 179

Woodruff's Battery, at Gettysburg, xliii, 337, 351, 373, 38i, 382

Woods, Emerson on beauty of, v, 223-4

Woods, Mr., Prologue written for, vi, 260-1

Woodville, Dr., xxxviii, 199, 204, 205-6, 209

Woodward, Hezekiah, on Lord's Prayer, v, 381

Woodward, Samuel, on cirripedes, xi, 342; on geological formations, 332

WOOED AND MARRIED AND A', xli, 567-8

WOOER, THE BRAW, vi, 536-7

Wool, price of, x, 193-9

Woolen Manufactures, improvements in, x, 206-7

Woolman, Elizabeth, sister of John Woolman, i, 183

Woolman, John, birth and education of, i, 169-70, 174, 187; business attitude of, 180, 195-6, 235-6; creed of, 172-4, 229-30; death of, 313-4; Delaware, journey to, 185; doubts of, 189-90; manner of dress, 253-4, 32-3 note; duty, incidents of his sense of, 177, 179-80, 194-5, 235, 241, 250, 254; on dyes, 309-10; early occupation, 174-5, 180; East Jersey, journeys to, 179, 183; English journey, 289-308; epistle to Friends in N. Carolina, 209-212; exhortation to follow inner light, 274; first speeches in meeting, 175-6; in the French war, 221-2; on Huss and a Kempis, 222-3; Indian visit of, 255-70; journey to back settlements, 181-2; letter on affliction, 197-9; letter to wife, 240; life and character, 168; in London, 302 and note; Long Island visit of, 194; marriage of, 187; Maryland visited by, 275-81; miraculous appearance of Divine Truth, 200; understanding with a friend, 228; New England journeys of, 183-5, 239-49; parents, his relations with, 169-71, 172; Pennsylvania visit of, 223-4; pleurisy of, 287-8; robins, incident of killing the, 170; Scotch servant and, 176; simplicity of life, 180, 195; on slavery, 202-5, 206-8; slavery, his book on, 187, 189, 250-1; slavery, his first opposition to, 177-8; slavery among Quakers opposed by, 208-9, 21I 225, 273; slaves, education of, moved by, 209; slave-owners visited by, 227-8, 234-5, 244-5, 250; slave-owners' wills, refuses to write, 188-9, !92 "3; slavesale, restitution for assisting in, 281-2, 284; slave-states, uneasiness in, 182-3, 201-3; slave-trade, petition against, 242-4; on the small-pox, 235-8; southern journey, 200-16; spiritual awakening, 164-9; as a tailor, 180-1, 195; trade with Barbadoes, 284-5; vision of death and the slaves, 306-7; West Indian visit, desires and scruples about, 284-7; youthful faults, 171-3

WOOLMAN, JOHN, JOURNAL OF, i, 169-312; editorial remarks on, 1, 31

Woolman, Samuel, i, 187-8

Words, acts and, Bunyan on, xv, 83; acts and, Confucius on, xliv, 8 (13), 48 (29), 14 (22, 24), 15-16 (9); acts and, Epictetus on, ii, 177 (175); acts and, Goethe on, xix, 16; acts and, Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 279 (16), 288 (15); aggregate, simple abstract, and compound abstract, xxiv, 129-30; Berkeley on, xxxvii, 236-7, 245-6, 267, 269, 271-2; Burke on, xxiv, 51-4, 129-37, 137-40; Confucius on, xliv, 41 (3), 52 (22), 67 (3); Dryden on antiquated, xxxix, 169; Emerson on, v, 164; Goethe on, xix, 30, 81, no; Hobbes on use of, xxxiv, 323-6; Johnson on, xxxix, 186; Kempis on, vii, 213, 310 (i); meaning of, xxxiv, 326-7, 329-30, 332-3;

Montaigne on, xxxii, 60-6; Pascal on arrangement of, xlviii, 16 (23); Pascal on meanings of, 22 (50); Penn on, i, 383 (123-6); Ruskin on importance of, xxviii, 102-5; Stevenson on, 278-9, 280; Swift on, xxvii, 115; Tzu-kung on, xliv, 66 (25); wise men's counters, money of fools, xxxiv, 327

Wordsworth, William, Arnold on, xlii, 1135, 1136-7; xxviii, 81; his modernization of Chaucer, 78; Emerson on, v, 21, 323-6, 445; Emerson's second visit to, 464-5; Mazzini on, xxxii, 386; Mill on, xxv, 93-5; poems by, xli, 595-681; on poetry, xxviii, 66; PREFACES to poems, xxxix, 267-336; the Romantic Movement and, 267 note; the study of, xxviii, 398

Work, Carlyle on, xxv, 364; Emerson on, v, 286; Goethe on, xxv, 388; Hindu doctrine of, xlv, 799-801, 805-6, 809-10, 813, 866-7, 870-1; without hope, Coleridge on, xxv, 89

Work (mechanical), amount of, defined, xxx, 175-6; amount of, not increased by machines, 181-5; capacity for, exhausted by performance, 177-9, 181, 186, 188, 189, 201, 202, 203-4, 27-8; performed by gravity, 178-81; changed to heat, 196-7; measurement of, 1789; produced by chemical forces, 2004; produced by elastic forces, 188-9; produced by electricity, 204-7; P ro ' duced by heat, 189-94, J 95"6; produced by velocity of moving masses, 185-8; thermal equivalent of, 198-200

Works, Luther on justification by, xxxvi, 346, 347-8, 349, 35O-I, 354, 356-7, 359-78; Jesus on, xliv, 370 (47-9); tested by time, xxxix, 209

World, the, Arnold on, xlii, 1138; beauty of, i, 361-2 (485); Browne on, iii, 326; Buddha on eternity of, xlv, 647-52; changes in, xxxix, 107; Drummond on, xl, 327 (196, 197); end of, Browne on, iii, 297-8, 302; end of, Buddhistic, xlv, 603; end of, Hayes on, xxxiii, 266; end of, Raleigh on, xxxix, 105-8; end of, Stoic belief of, ix, 290 note; idea of eternity of, xxxix, 101, 102-7; in a grain of sand, xli, 586; Hume on origin of, xxxvii, 395-6; indestructibility of, xix, 58-9; Socrates's conception of, ii, 104-9; Tennyson on mystery of, xlii, 1020; undivine conceptions of, xlv, 861; visible, a picture of the invisible, iii, 263 (12) (see also Earth, Universe)

WORLD, THE, IS TOO MUCH WITH US, xli, 678

WORLD WELL LOST, Dryden's, xviii, 13-106

World-citizenship, Epictetus on, ii, 121-2 (15, 16); Marcus Aurelius on, 209-10 (n), 213 (4)

Worldliness, aspirations and, xix, 33; Bacon on, iii, 105; Bunyan on, xv, 3089; Jesus on, xliv, 388 (22-34); Raleigh on, xxxix, 90, 93-5

Worldling, in FAUST, xix, 187

Worldly Goods, Kempis on, vii, 228 (2), 277-8 (i, 2); Marcus Aurelius on, ii, 225-6 (10), 226-7 (12), 227 (15)

WORLDLY PLACE, by Arnold, xlii, 1139

Worldly Things, transitoriness of, xvi, 300-4, 311-12, 316-17, 320-1

Worldly Wisdom, Penn on, i, 374-7

Worldly Wiseman, Mr., in PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, xv, 21-4, 26

WORLD'S WANDERERS, THE, xli, 856

WORM, THE CONQUEROR, xlii, 1240-1

Worm, Shakespeare on the, xlvi, 172-3

Worry, Epictetus on, ii, 123 (19) (see also Anxiety)

Worship, better than knowing, xlv, 847; Calvin on splendor in, xxxix, 35-6; Confucius on, xliv, 10 (12); Emerson on loss of, v, 37-8; natural forms of, xxxiv, 378; Penn on, i, 363-4; Rousseau on, xxxiv, 256-7, 282-3; in Utopia, xxxvi, 233-6

WORSHIP, ESSAY ON, v, 273-95

Worth, Confucius on, xliv, 13 (14), 14 (17) 49 (39), 51 (3); Emerson on, v, 188; Jonson on, xl, 291 (152); Hobbes on, xxxiv, 361, 369; moral, tests of, xxxii, 309-15, 349-50; Pope on, xl, 435; is worth wherever found, xxvi, 416

Worthilake, Capt., ballad on, i, 14

Worthington, Dr., xxxvii, 134

Wortley, Mr., quoted, v, 393

Wotton, Edward, xxvii, 5

Wotton, Sir Henry, George Herbert and, xv, 383; poems by, xl, 287-9; Walton on, xv, 353; Walton's Life of, 322

WOUND-DRESSER, THE, xlii, 1408-10

WOUNDED HARE, THE, vi, 339-40

